GAME TONIGHT IS SECOND HOME CONTEST FOR COURTMEN

DOPE AGAINST WILDCATS

Oklahoma Co-Leaders of the Conference Along With Missouri; Graham and Jackson
Back in Squad

Oklahoma, present co-leader in the Big Six basketball race, will play Kansas State in Nichols gymnasium Friday night. Oklahoma by virtue of victories over Iowa State and Kansas University is tied with Missouri for the conference lead.

The Wildcats will probably start the same team which started against the Huskers last Monday night. This five composed of Captain Auker, Skradski, Breen, Graham, and Boyd, gave a good account of themselves while in the game last Monday. Graham is rapidly recovering from a knee injury which he received in football and in recent practice sessions has been showing excellent form.

Oklahoma will be strengthened for this game by Captain Grauman and Jackson, letter guard, both members of the Sooner football team which recently returned from a trip to Hawaii. These men have been back over a week and should be in shape to play Friday night.

In games thus far Oklahoma scoring has been led by Andy Beck, diminutive forward, who has scored 24 points in the two conference games played. Main, sophomore guard, also must be closely watched by the Wildcats. His two goals in the extra period against Kansas were the margin by which Oklahoma emerged victorious.

On the basis of comparative scores Oklahoma looms as the probable winner Friday night. Kansas University, three times victors over the Wildcats this season, was unable to take the measure of the Sooners.

Last Get-Together of the Semester
Will Include Bridge, Dancing, Backgammon and What Have You

The Final Mix-up, the last social fling before finals get under way in all seriousness, has been arranged to take place in Blake Wareham's dance hall (on other nights known as the Wareham ballroom) tomorrow night.

The Mix-up will be staged for the purpose of providing entertainment, owing to the fact that no variety is being held and also to prevent the bankruptcy of the Aggie Rexall and the Uptown Palace drug stores. Entertainment features will range from the backgammon battle of the century to swan diving from the upper balcony.

Negotiations are under way for the personal appearance of Amos 'n' Anky, but at present definite conclusions have not been reached. In case it is impossible for the pair to appear, Amos Wright and Andy Skradski will be asked to substitute. Dancing will take a prominent place in the Mix-up. There will be an orchestra. Reservations will be accepted for card tables for the dowagers and their escorts.

It has been requested by the management that male social lions have neckties of red, and fire in their eyes. There will be a "crooner" number by Topeka Pete Fairbanks provided that worthy gentleman does not sprain an ankle in stamping an emphatic refusal to perform. An effort has been made to obtain the services of Henry Cronkite in the Dance of the Seven Veils. Other exponent of terpsichorean art will appear at intervals during the affair.

Lester Frey, farmer living north of Manhattan and a graduate of the college, is one of the vice-chairmen of the local organization.

In order that he may find out just how he rates with his students, Myers has made a sheet on which are listed qualities ranging from personal peculiarities of the professor to his assignments and on which the students may grade him. ## JOHN STEWART CURRY

TO EXHIBIT OILS HERE

Kansas Artist's Works To Be Shown Here February 1-15; Interprets Scenes of Native State

An exhibit of unusual interest which will be shown February 1 to 15 in the gallery of the architects' department in the engineering building is that of John Stewart Curry who interprets the scenes and life of his native state, Kansas, where he was born of farmer parents.

Peaceful pasturals, interminable wheat fields, the even tenor of small town Middle western life figure again and again in Curry's oils. He has a taste for the dramatic, contrasting the splendor of a prairie sunrise and the gentle stir of farm activities with the terrifying force of a tornado or the tense religious fervor of a Holy Roller meeting.

Edward Jewell in an article in the New York Times, December 7, 1930, says of Curry's work, "One has only to look at 'Kansas Wheat Ranch' or, better still, at the remarkable 'Sun Dogs' to realize how fully prepared the artist is to give us in a memorable way, the seemingly unending spaces of the Western prairie."

An extract from the Kansas City Journal-Post says "Curry achieves a stout, fresh, and harmonious creation like the 'Sunny Kansas Pastures' itself, the resonant 'Giant Russians' or the simple, solid 'Storm over Lake Osego.' You derive here and knowledge from John Stewart Curry's paintings."

Curry was introduced by the Whitney Studio galleries. He has attended the Kansas City and Chicago Art Institutes and studied under Schieff in Paris. Fourteen of his best paintings which are now arranged on exhibit at Emporia, will be shown here.

Wide-awake Farm

Lad Foils Early

Morning Prowler

Since not all farm boys go to bed with the chickens, a would-be intruder at the Farm House fraternity, 1409 Fairchild, was frustrated Tuesday night when he found at least one member wide awake at 1:30 o'clock in the morning.

Ebur Schultz, Miller, was preparing to retire at about 1:30 when he heard an upstairs window being cautiously opened. He went onto the sleeping porch and awakened R. O. Lewis and W. N. Page, Detroit. Leaving the other two men inside to watch the stairway down which the man must come should he enter, Schultz went outside to watch the fire escape.

The intruder had evidently heard the men inside and left before anyone saw him. A Chevrolet roadster which had been parked on Fifteenth started hurriedly and went west on Fairchild, according to Schultz who was unable to get the license number of the car.

A window at the top of the fire escape on the west side of the house had been opened about a foot and a half by the man, but nothing had been taken.

Chest Deserves Support

Dr. W. E. Grimes, head of the department of agricultural economics believes that "a number of years' contact with needy students who are borrowing from the Alumni Loan fund has convinced me of the need for such an enterprise, and the Campus Chest for this year is particularly to be commended and deserves the whole-hearted and substantial support of everyone on the campus."

Doctor Grimes is chairman of the committee on loans and treasurer of the Alumni Loan fund.

"By providing for emergency loans to worthy students, the Campus Chest of 1932 becomes especially worthy of the support of Kansas State students and faculty," was the comment of M. A. Durland, assistant dean of engineering.

The committee hopes to solicit all the students and faculty members in one day. However, if this cannot be done, only students will be solicited, and faculty members will be reached later, Johnitz said.

GRADUATE—THEN SAY IT.
One professor on the Hill has thought of an excellent idea. That of permitting his students to say what they think about him and the course he is teaching. Instructors point out the faults of a student, yet it is a rare thing indeed when a student is given the opportunity of pointing out an instructor's faults.

The Collegian believes it would be a good idea for each student, upon his graduation, to write a criticism of the instructors under whom he has taken courses during his under-graduate career. These criticisms could be sent to the deans of the divisions and through the deans the instructors could be informed of their short and long comings, could remedy the former, and retain the latter. These reports, made following the graduation of a student, would be frank and would reflect the opinion of many of those still enrolled in college have but are hesitant to express for fear of the effect it might have on their grades.

Often students enrolled in a course will fail to see the many fine qualities possessed by the instructor because of a non partial viewpoint obtained prior to entering the course. After several years in any college, students become better acquainted with their instructors, and realize their original impression was prejudiced. It is with that idea in mind that the Collegian suggests a written criticism of the faculty, requested upon the granting of a degree to any student.

How can one detect his faults if they aren't pointed out?

FINALS DETERMINE GRADES.
If students had their choice in losing one dollar or two, they would all choose to lose one dollar, yet many examples of this prevalent form of human being study diligently all semester for "shot guns" and minor quizzes and then slack up on their finals.

In most cases, the final counts half or nearly half of the semester's grade. On that basis, a final exam should be worth as much study as all the other tests during the semester put together. Yet how many students even approach that much study for finals?

The result in many cases is a flunk or a low grade with the accompanying disillusionment, or expulsion from school. Freshmen, in particular, should take heed of the danger in failure to study for finals. High school instructors grade upon recitations and averages of all tests, to a great extent. Few college teachers grade at all upon recitations, basing

FARM AND HOME WEEK BANQUET TO GO ON AIR

Program Will Be Broadcast for First Time; Committees Named for Little American Royal

For the first time in the history of Farm and Home Week the annual Achievement banquet program on the night of February 12 will be broadcast. The program will be put on the air by both station WIBW, Topeka, and KSAC, according to L. L. Longworth, director of the Kansas State station.

Each day of the week programs will center about the production and marketing of a different farm product. Tuesday, February 9, will be poultry day. Wednesday will be dairy day. Livestock day, Thursday, will close with the Little American Royal, amateur fitting and showing contest sponsored by the animal husbandry department of the animal husbandry department of the college. Friday will be crops day. The two highlights of the week will be the discussion of Kansas tax problems on Tuesday night and the achievement banquet on Friday evening.

This year the Kansas Master Farmers will be announced at Manhattan instead of at Topeka as heretofore. Raymond L. Gilkenson, one of the editors of the Kansas Farmer, a Capper publication which sponsors the selections, will be here as a special representative for that purpose.

Drawing for animals to be shown in the fitting and showing contest of the Little American Royal will be held Saturday afternoon, January 23, at the Kansas State building.

Committee heads for the 1932 Little American Royal, of which Prof. D. L. Mackintosh is faculty sponsor, are as follows: entertainment, L. D. Morgan, Manhattan; decorations, Ralph Munson, Junction City; eats, Alfred Helm, Chanute, and L. S. Perkins, Argonia; entries, George Washington, Manhattan; publicity, P. V. Bowles, Walnut; ushers, Wm. Myers, Bancroft; ring-grades almost entirely upon the three or more tests given.

A revision of the grading system might help matters considerably. Students who study and obtain a really valuable knowledge of their courses often receive lower grades than their foolish comrades who "cram" for the finals and, tests which really determine grades. Thus grades are coming to mean little or nothing as an index to knowledge gained from a course.

The fact remains that there will be no change of the above unsatisfactory state of affairs for some time, and students must be content with conditions as they exist.—M. M.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

(From the Purdue Exponent)
In this age when the college campus is organized to an extent that sometimes typifies over-organization, one frequently sees this or that student hurrying from one appointment to another, from meeting to meeting, and yet voicing the complaint that he cannot cover all the places he is supposed to. Demands on his time outside school hours, some important and others not so important, aggregate quickly, and he, like the child who turns the pages of a picture book and believes he is reading, attempts to answer all these demands, some well and others in a more or less superficial manner.

What should this type of student do? Should he go to the organization of which he is a part and say, "I'm quitting"? Should he acknowledge that he sits in meeting after meeting tired, bored, and longing to be doing something else? Should he announce he is dropping extra-curricular activities during the remainder of his under-graduate days to devote his time to a more limited number of projects?

Certainly not. Probably one of the greatest sources of benefit accruing from a college education is the vast store of experience gained in student activities. However, they can easily be indulged in to the extent that one's program of living at college becomes unbalanced. The conditions necessitate a revelation of the time one is spending on his campus in an effort to be worthy of the name "student." This evaluation is nothing else than the budgeting of time.

It is one thing to put down on paper the hundred and one things one has to do each day—merely a written reminder of the club meeting at five, the dinner engagement at six, the pledge meeting at seven, and so on for the remainder of the night. It is another thing to plan the day's activities on the basis of the number of hours in each day, with each enterprise coming in for only that amount of time which its benefits justifies.

This is a real budgeting of time. Some lines of activity may be forced to suffer, if they are not worthy of the time one devotes to them. Others will get more time and attention, depending on the dividends they return. This type of budgeting is not easy, but the manner in which one uses the hours of the day reveals his sensitiveness to purposeful living.

— The Snoopers —

Because the ladies didn't act like ladies and the gentlemen forgot to be gentlemen, no student at the University of Kansas is now allowed to visit a member of the opposite sex in the new Memorial hospital on Mt. Oread unless he or she is accompanied by a chaperon. 'Tis a sad state of affairs indeed when students from a great university neglect to act their part, and fall back into the ways of the common herd.

The plus-four boys have gone in seriously for spring training. Joe Menzie and George Boone were caught out on the golf course in their overcoats not long ago swinging diligently. It has been rumored that competition will be rigid when golf season rolls around.

The Final Mix-up tomorrow night might go down in the history of the college as a highlight casting its beam equally as far as Q. I. Brewer's sensational changing of the college phoniker did last year. It will give the folks something to do on an evening which otherwise might prove dull. Anything to introduce a thought other than finals over the week end.

The tense feeling of expectancy has crept over the vicinity of the Wareham to the extent that Blake is all aflutter and will leave town until things settle down to normal!

We must be more careful in the future. The Snooper has been the cause of our near death with malice aforethought countless times, but never so close as last time. We've never realized the enormous extent of the Hasler bulk before. Along with other followers of the fagers, we entertain the hope that he will be inserted into the lineup tonight.

ADVERTISERS BEAT DEPRESSION

The old aphorism "It pays to advertise," might be amended to read "It pays to advertise during a depression."

A survey made by the department of commerce's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of 358 business and industrial concerns which have successfully combated the depression, discloses that "increased sales efforts" and "advertising policies" are responsible in most cases for this progress and success. The government's report says:

"It is noteworthy that not one of the concerns which is included in this study as having been successful in combatting the effects of the depression has diminished its sales efforts (which of course includes advertising) in order to save money."

This ought to be the last answer to those business concerns which have taken the position that "it does not pay to advertise during a depression," and have cut their advertising to the bone and paralyzed their sales efforts. If results count, here they are.—Collegian.

At The Theatres

AT THE WAREHAM

"The Unholy Garden"

The title of this show refers to the spot in the Arabian desert where have gathered dregs of the criminal world. Here hides the embezzler baron with his daughter (Fay Wray), and hidden in his room is his horde of loot, much desired by the other members of the motley gathering. They plot for one of their members (Ronald Coleman), to court the girl and learn the secret. Of course he finds his better nature and really falls in love with the girl after a lot of suspense. It's a weird play.—J. B.

AT THE DICKINSON

"Delicious"

Five lumps of sugar in one's coffee give the same effect as the Gaynor-Farrel combination in this picture. A wee Scotch lassie immigrant (Gaynor), falls in love with a rich polo player on the same boat (Charles, himself). After a lot of difficulties with the authorities who would cruelly deport Heather, Charles marries her. The tunes for the show were evolved by Gerahwin, and the theme "Delicious" should be a hit. Gaynor-Farrel fans will pronounce this good, and even the impartial can't help but enjoy it.—J. B.

AT THE VARSITY

"Peach O' Reno"

Two of the funniest of funny comedians, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, and the cute little Dorothy Lee are back again in another side splitter that is funnier than any of the rest. Wheeler and Woolsey are two prominent lawyers who Reno who specialize in getting divorces for the unfortunate married persons. Dorothy Lee and Zelma O'Neil (sisters) go to Reno to stop their "mamma and poppa" from getting a divorce. And here the girls meet the boys.

If you've never seen a law office turn into a night club, a jury into a dance orchestra, or a judge crack nuts with his gavel, you'd better see this show. It's a dandy.—D. R.

R. O. Lewis, state soil surveyor who has been working here for the past week, went to Woodson county Thursday. He will return Monday.

ECONOMY BYWORD AT C. U.

Leap Year From There Costs Only $5.25.

That prices are coming down is shown by the fact that the average couple can attend the Leap Year From at the University of Colorado this year for only $5.25 according to The Silver and Gold. In previous years, the prom cost anywhere from $15 to $20. Although the decorations, music, refreshments, and favors will be more elaborate than ever before, the price of the evening's entertainment has been cut down to rock bottom in an attempt to get a large crowd because the funds derived from the sale of tickets will be given a committee to help the unemployed.—The Silver and Gold.

SOONERS PLAN TO SWAMP KANSAS STATE COURTMEN

Addition of Two Lettermen to Squad Brightens Oklahoma Outlook

Norman, Jan. 21.—Traveling by bus if the weather stays nice and carrying a squad of eight or nine players, the Sooner basketball team will leave Norman Thursday to skirmish Kansas State and Nebraska on their own playing floors in what will be Oklahoma's first road contests of the current "Big Six" season.

Both games will doubtless be hard-fought. Kansas State came within an ace of defeating both the strong Missouri and Kansas quintets at Columbia and Lawrence, losing to Missouri 29-32 and Kansas 26-27. Nebraska held Kansas to a 34-31 win at Lincoln.

Capt. Gordon Graalman, who will have participated in only six practice sessions when the team embarks northward, may be taken along by Coach Hugh McDermott and used part of each game at center in an effort to divert the tip-off in Oklahoma's direction. In the Kansas and Iowa State conflicts the Sooners rarely secured the tip-off and as a consequence barely won each game.

Sooner fans who know how difficult it is to win early road games with a team composed largely of sophomores, have asserted they will be well-pleased if McDermott's boys do as well as an even break this week end. They figure the game Oklahoma is more likely to lose will be the Kansas State one since Coach H. W. Corsaut's five is powerful this year and will be playing on its own court.

Andy Skradski, Kansas State forward and center, is apparently the man the Sooners will have to watch at Manhattan, for he scored six field goals playing center against Kansas last Friday night. Incidentally Kansas State tallied two more field goals than Kansas in that clash but lost out through inability to hit free shots.

Oklahoma's next competition at Norman will occur February 13 with Nebraska the Sooner opponent.

Sabeta who looks good along with others on the freshman team. Other men that look like good material and would make almost any freshman team are Bob Flick, R. E. Armstrong, J. F. Creed, and Max Leek.—J. R.

HUSKERS NEXT OR O. U.

Sooners to Play Nebraska Tomorrow Night At Lincoln.

Lincoln—(Special)—Nebraska will meet one of the outstanding teams in the Big Six Saturday, when Oklahoma comes to Lincoln for a conference game.

Oklahoma, given little chance for the championship early in the season, has come through so far with no defeats and is tied with Missouri for the lead. Nebraska fans should be given a great exhibition of basketball when these two teams clash for the first time.

Led by Andy Beck the Sooners now have their full strength for the first time with the return of their football team from Hawaii. Nebraska will be making an attempt for a comeback after three conference losses.

JAYHAWKERS ARE RESTING

Allen Gives Kansas Univ. Team Short Layoff Before Meeting Missouri

Lawrence, Kan., Jan. 22.—Coach "Phog" Allen has announced a rest for his University of Kansas basketball team. The layoff has been given in order that the players may prepare for final examinations which start today. If finals do not conflict, the team will work out in the afternoon and will also remain in Lawrence between the Semesters in order to prepare for the game to be played against Missouri January 30, at Columbia.

It is thought that the rest period will do the players good, they did not seem to be at top form when they lost to Iowa State last Monday. The length of time available before the Missouri game will give ample time for a rest.

Oklahoma and Missouri still remain at the head of the pile in the conference standings. However, both teams have played only two games and this hardly proves the ability of the teams. Kansas university is in third place with two games won and two lost. Then follow Iowa State, Kansas State and Nebraska in the order named. The Kansas university team has been somewhat of a surprise, since it was the hope of many followers of the team that they would repeat last year's championship performance.

The Jayhawkers still have a chance to deliver and if they can come through with a good string of victories for the rest of the season they will be close to the top. Kansas has not yet played the Missouri team and was defeated by Oklahoma only after a play-off of a regular tie game. The Oklahoma team has since been strengthened by the return of Graalman and Young from their football trip to Hawaii.

Iowa State team must be watched from now on. Their victory over Kansas university, which was their first win in three starts, may be the spark which will keep them in the win column the rest of the season.

Kansas State finally broke into the win column when they defeated Nebraska last Monday. The Wildcats seem to be better than they have been able to show and the Jayhawkers were barely able to nose out a victory over them by a one point margin, 27-26.

Nebraska seems to be the weakest team thus far. They won their first game of the season against Iowa State, but have been unable to win any of the last three games they have played.

Three new men will be eligible for a place on the team which meets Kansas university. One of them is E. D. Merkle, who won the state high school championship of Iowa in his weight. Merkle wrestles in either the 175-pound or heavyweight division. Another new man is C. G. Watson, a 118-pounder. The other man is M. B. Patterson, brother of B. R. "Pat" Patterson, wrestling coach. Patterson wrestles in the 135-pound division.

The team showed up well in the Iowa State match. All of the experienced matmen came out victorious and those in varsity competition for the first time gave their opponents a bad 10 minutes.

K. U. Has Weak Team.

Oklahoma university has produced a team this year which is better than usual. They have defeated both the Jayhawkers and Missouri university grapplers in one week end and will probably be the strongest conference opponent of the Wildcats.

Tryouts for the University of Kansas match will begin tomorrow. A large number is competing in each division for a place on the team.

CYCLONES PICK FROSH

Ames, Iowa, Jan. 20.—Fifteen freshmen were picked Tuesday by Coach Carl Rudi to comprise the Iowa State yearling basketball squad. Four more were retained for two weeks' more practice.

Maxine Harding, Wakefield, will attend Kansas State the second semester.

MATMEN PREPARE FOR MATCH WITH KANSAS

Meet To Be Held at Lawrence January 30—Dope Favors Wildcats as K. U. Has Dropped One Match.

Wrestling activities for the past week have been directed mainly toward getting in shape for the match at Lawrence with the University of Kansas next Saturday night, January 30.

Those who came out of the Iowa State match last week with slight injuries and bruises have recovered and are in good shape. Tempero and Roberts have been handicapped greatly the last few days with infection, but both will be ready to go against the Jayhawks next week.

New Men Eligible.

Three new men will be eligible for a place on the team which meets Kansas university. One of them is E. D. Merkle, who won the state high school championship of Iowa in his weight. Merkle wrestles in either the 175-pound or heavyweight division. Another new man is C. G. Watson, a 118-pounder. The other man is M. B. Patterson, brother of B. R. "Pat" Patterson, wrestling coach. ## CYCLONES READY FOR MISSOURI

Iowa State Hopes Raised After Winning From Kansas University.

Ames, Iowa, Jan. 21.—Fully recovered from the effects of the flu, the Iowa State basketball team will be in top shape for its Big Six contest here Friday night against the University of Missouri.

Although the Cyclones tired easily in the Oklahoma game last week and were forced to take the short end of the score, they came back Monday night to defeat Kansas with bursts of speed and scoring power to prove they were back in form.

Friday night's affair will be an important game in the conference, as Missouri at present leads the loop with two wins and no losses, while Iowa State has lost two and won one.

Coach Louie Menze indicated today that he would start his veteran lineup of Captain Roadcap at Thomson at forward, Heitman at center, and Hawk and Rieke at guard.

Opposing the Cyclones will probably be Davis and Zinn at forward, Palfreyman and Collings at guard, and Wagner at center. All these men are veterans, but Cooper, a sophomore find who has scored six baskets in games against Nebraska and Kansas State will undoubtedly be used a good part of the game.

Sport Quibs

The Kansas State basketball team has a good chance to show tonight that it is still a contender for the 1932 basketball title. Oklahoma is bringing a team that plays a classy brand of ball and will give the Corsautmen a run for their money.

The Wildcats enter the game as the underdog but it won't be classed as an upset if the Kansas team leaves the court with the long end of the score.

Before the season started, the men who call themselves sport authorities predicted that the title race in the Big Six conference this season would be a close fight between Kansas State, Iowa State, and Kansas university. It was also thought that the deciding factor would be the Kansas State-Iowa State games.

They may be right but all three of these teams are practically out of the running as far as percentages are concerned. However, the season is young and who can say that the Wildcats didn't look good in their game with Nebraska last Monday night.

Coach Corsaut has the ability and has more material than he has had in many years past to produce a winning team. It isn't too late and the small start that the Wildcats have should give them a big boost.

Speaking of material, the freshman layout gives the varsity a bad time of it when they meet for scrimmage. Several of the veterans who take the day after day practice sessions more or less as a necessity, these first year men come on the either settle down to business when floor or else take a seat on the sidelines.

Among the frosh stars is Rusty Russell, the tripple threat athlete from Pennsylvania, who is hoped to be one of the greatest athletes ever to attend Kansas State. He is a star football player and does about everything a basketball coach could ask. And he's a clever baseball player.

Another freshman who has had much experience on the court and has a bright future is J. R. Marshall of Kansas City. He plays a good game and besides being a good guard, is an accurate shot at the basket.

Ed Wreath of Manhattan is another big shot on this freshman team and his future is plenty good if he repeats his high school career and absorbs the Corsaut training that is being given him.

Don Hutchinson is also an answer to a coach's prayer. He comes from Hutchinson where he played one year on the Hutchinson Junior college team. He was the nucleus around which the championship Beta Theta Pi's intramural squad was built.

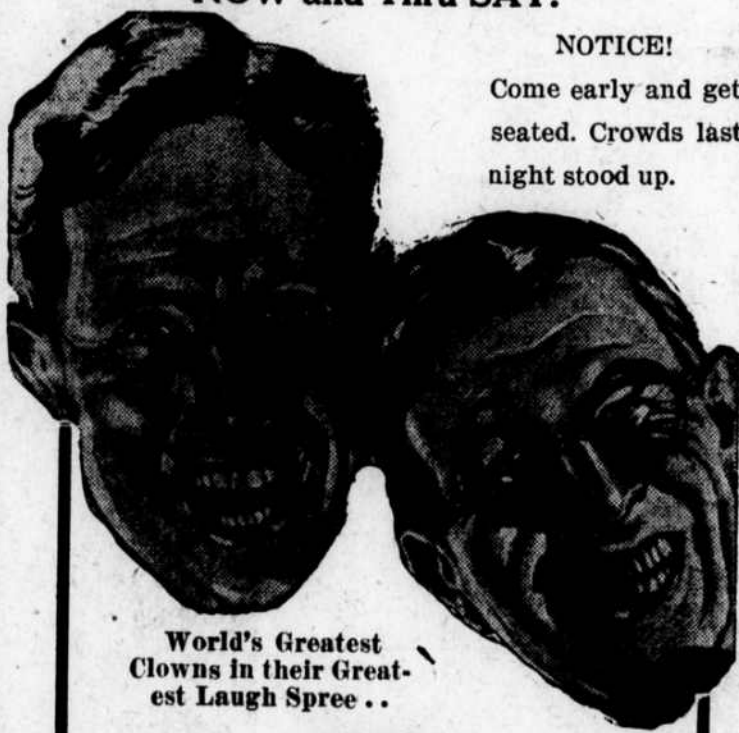

Another winner on that same intramural team is O. P. Stoner of

GREEKS PREPARE FOR FRATERNITY TAX DISCUSSION

TWELVE FRATERNITIES MAKE SELECTIONS FOR ROYAL PURPLE CONTEST

ALL WORRIED OVER OUTCOME

Candidates Will Be Voted on at Beauty Ball February 13; Dissection Causes Delay
in Naming Co-eds

The fraternity tax situation will be aired in Manhattan February 8, 9, and 10, according to A. R. Jones, head of the committee on fraternity taxation. Three witnesses chosen from each fraternity and society will probably have a meeting several days before the trial to discuss questions that might be asked in the proceeding.

Greek letter organizations of various Kansas state schools are claiming exemption from taxation under the statute providing exemption on "all property used exclusively for state, county, municipal, literary, educational, scientific, religious, benevolent, and charitable purposes." Their right to such exemption was questioned last year for the first time. Special improvement taxes have always been paid by the fraternities and societies and are not involved in the controversy.

A year ago a writ of mandamus was granted by Chief Justice Johnson requiring Riley county officials to strike fraternity and sorority property from the tax rolls. An answering motion to quash was then filed by attorneys for the state income tax commission in behalf of that body and officials of Riley, Douglas, and Shawnee counties. The writ of mandamus was then dissolved by the court. The writ of mandamus was then dissolved by the court. The writ of mandamus was then dissolved by the court.

If the Greek organizations are put on the tax rolls it will mean an increase of from $7 to $15 to each Greek's expenses a semester. The last evaluations place the real property of the Greeks at $245,000 and the personal at $45,000.

The fraternities and sororities are basing their case on the contention that they come under the head of "property used for educational purposes." C. E. Vance, Garden City, was appointed by the supreme court to hear evidence.

FROSH PANHELLENIC DANCE PLANS MADE

Homemakers Will Be Entertained
At Bridge-Omaha Orchestra Will Play For Party.

Music by Grant Moore and his Black Devils, a colored band from Omaha, Neb., will feature the freshman Panhellenic dance, February 5, in the Warehouse ballroom.

A bridge will be held on the balcony for house mothers during the party.

The dance, sponsored by the freshman Panhellenic representatives under the supervision of the senior organization, will be for all pledges of fraternities on the hill and their dates.

Fraternities have been issued tickets for each pledge and complimentary tickets for senior men's Panhellenic representatives and for the housemothers and their escorts. Outsiders will not be admitted to the dance.

TO OFFER NEW COURSE

Survey of American History Added to History Curriculum

"Survey of American History," a three hour course for freshmen and sophomores, will be offered in the history department for next summer school. The course of study is being outlined by Dr. Ralph R. Price, head of the department.

The course is given by lecture, said Doctor Price. "It will combine American history I, II, and III in a course which will be especially good for those who want an outline of history and can not give many hours to it."

The physical education curriculum for women will include this course next year.

Miss Delpha Hamblin went to Kansas City, Mo., on business last Saturday.

NOTICE, SUBSCRIBERS

Due to the fact journalism students as well as others must study for final examinations, there will be no issue of the Collegian Friday. The next issue of the college newspaper will come out Tuesday morning, and will be distributed at the door of Nichols gymnasium, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The present Collegian staff will no longer edit the newspaper. A new staff, to be elected Saturday by the Collegian board will be in charge of the second semester.

CORSAUTMEN TO MEET AMES HERE SATURDAY NIGHT

WILDCATS AND CYCLONES TO PLAY CONFERENCE TILT IN NICHOLS GYMNASIUM

BATTLE FOR THIRD PLACE

Teams Tied with K. U. for Third Berth; Dope Favors Iowa State But Upset Is Probable

Iowa State and Kansas State basketball teams, both with two victories to their credit, will play a basketball game Saturday night in Nichols gymnasium. The winner of this game will take possession of third place and will still be a threatening factor in the race for the Big Six championship.

Kansas State will enter this game with two victories and two defeats to their credit in Big Six competition. In defeating the Big Six leader, Oklahoma, Friday night, the Wildcats showed their best form of the year. Their passing was accurate and their defense kept the Sooners from scoring at close range.

The same team which started against the Sooners, Captain Auker, Skiradski, Graham, Breen, and Boyd will probably start the game against the Cyclones. Although their opponents usually get the tip, this team is feared for its ability to gain possession of the ball.

Iowa State led by Captain Roadcap, leading scorer in the Big Six last year, has finally showed the form that made experts pick them as probable champions before the season started. Iowa State, handicapped by illness of several members of the squad, lost their first two games to Oklahoma and Nebraska, but have shown a reversal of form in two victories over Kansas and Missouri. The Cyclone team is made up of veterans. Roadcap and Thompson are forwards; Heltman, center; and Hawk and Riecke are guards on the Ames team.

RIFLE TEAMS COMMENCE

Universities of Maine and Kentucky Included on Week's Schedule of Kansas State Squads

The rifle teams of Kansas State have just begun their series of matches with other colleges and universities. The men's rifle team engaged in the only match two weeks ago, which was first stage of the Seventh Corps area match. The first stage consists of firing from the prone and sitting positions.

Last week the women's team had a match with the University of Maine, and the men's team has matches with the University of Kentucky, Culver Military academy, and the University of Pittsburgh. In these matches only one set of scores is made during the week, and the same scores are used against each of the different institutions.

The ten highest scores of last week among the girls are as follows: Wynona Florence, Manhattan, 198; Mae Gordon, Desoto, 184; Vera Sager, Brewster, 184; Florence Durham, Randolph, 190; Leona Light, Liberal, 190; Myra Roth, Ness City, 189; Harriet Swan, Washington, 190; Emily McKenzie, Plainsville, 188; Cleo Olson, Phillips, 188; and Galvesta Stever, Manhattan, 187.

Those having the highest scores among the boys are as follows: A. B. Niemoller, Wakefield, 389; M. B. Sanders, Marion, 369; E. M. Joerg, Randolph, 361; D. Cristy, Scott City, 357; L. L. Vrooman, Independence, 357; H. H. Kirby, Toronto, 354; J. L. Hartman, Omaha, Neb., 350; J. M. Rutherford, Ft. Riley, 348; Hal H. McCord, Manhattan, 343; and W. E. Laird, Burr Oak, 340.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND REACHES FOUR THOUSAND

COLLEGE EMPLOYEES HAVE PAID $3,797.27 OF PLEDGES

MANY IMPROVEMENTS MADE

Three New Practice Fields, Landscaping Project, Paving All Result Of Campaign Made For The Relief of Needy.

Of the $4,000 which has been pledged by college employees for unemployment relief, $3,797.27 has been collected, according to Dean E. L. Holton who is a member of the unemployment relief committee.

Each campus employee was asked to pledge the equivalent of one day's wages during the campus drive, and these funds are being used for wages of men employed on the campus in several new projects. In addition to the funds collected, more than $1,800.00 from the charity football game with Wichita university was added to the fund, making a total of approximately $6,000.00.

Results Are Excellent.
"The response of every college employee to the unemployment fund drive has been excellent," Dean Holton reports.

At the present time, 35 men are employed at two dollars a day, to construct the three new football practice fields north of the stadium, and do the landscaping work of the engineering building. The new strip of paving back of Kedzie and Calvin halls is one of projects financed by the unemployment relief fund, under the

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

It's bad enough to have final examinations scheduled for one week but when influenza accompanies the semester's big games, it's almost too much. More sneezing is being done in the class rooms than writing.

Murt Makins and Ward Colwell, managers of the craziest dance this year, were so busy last Saturday night trying to figure out how much money they made that they didn't even have time enough to enjoy the music. . . . All the Phi Kappa and Lambda Chi pledges were cut in full force. Tod and Murt are active, you know. . . . Perhaps it would have been equally enjoyable for those pledges to have donated the dollar and stayed at home.

A deputy to the state sheriff, whatever that might be, was said to have been a habit of the men's dressing room at the party. Whether or not he was there, no one knows. But whoever the man was that represented himself as such gave the boys an awful scare. . . . Ella Fouts, who went horse back riding Sunday, says the horse used Chicago tactics and gave her one of the worst times she ever had. . . . Two budding poets, followers of Robert W. Service, have submitted poetry to the Collegian. But the present editor of the Collegian is convinced the poetry was written with malice intent, and leaves the copy in the basket for her successor next semester to use if he cares to. . . . Students are catching up on their sleep during the few hours off from examinations. Many of the houses report absences at the morning meal. . . . A Ford car, belonging to a student, was rifled during the game last Friday night, and a generator was taken. The student was forced to purchase a $5 Ford in order to replace the missing part. . . . Too much of that sort of thing is going on at Kansas State. . . . Nearly as many voices sing "We want Hasler" at the basketball games as are heard chanting "We want Cantor" over the weekly Sunday night radio broadcast.

The managing editor of the University Daily Kansan, when writing his swan song last week, kindly extended to the Kansas State Collegian, a fond raspberry. . . . The Collegian extends nothing to the Kansan but sympathy for having the staff a writer with such mediocre ability.

PARTY DATE SET

Freshman Women's Panhellenic
Will Entertain February 12

Freshman Women's Panhellenic party will be held February 12 at the Warehouse ballroom, according to Catherine Colver, Manhattan, chairman of the entertainment committee. Dean Mary P. Miss Marguerite Harper, economist in home management, will leave January 26, for Hutchinson to take part in the farm and home school which has been sponsored for the last three years by W. Y. Morgan, editor of the Hutchinson News.

The purpose of the school is to bring the best and latest ideas to the farmers living in that trade territory.

Dr. C. W. McCampbell of the animal husbandry department, will give demonstrations on meat cutting, on Thursday. Saturday will be devoted to the activities of the 4-H club members. Sedgwick county and Reno county orchestras will furnish music, and a free picture show will be given every afternoon.

AG FAIR TO FEATURE ANNUAL PUSH-BALL FRAY

Beard Decides to Abandon Parade —Will Stage 1932 Edition of Annual Follies.

Overalls, worn by ags, will be seen on the campus this week before April 30, the date set for the Ag Fair which will be held this year after a dispensation with the former annual event. Students in the division of agriculture are in charge of the fair.

Earl Regnier, manager of this year's fair, stated yesterday that the program committee was considering making several changes in the program. The parade will be discontinued and a number of the concession stands will be replaced by departmental booths.

A push-ball contest will be one of the features of the afternoon of entertainment. This contest will be between students in the division of engineering and agriculture students, and if last year's push ball struggle may be taken as an index, this year's contest will be a real drawing card.

Other events scheduled for the afternoon include a model T Ford race and tentative plans have been made for a rodeo.

The Ag Follies, always a high light on the day's entertainment, will be held in the gymnasium and will include the best available talent on the hill. Minstrels, a flock of Kansas State beauties for a chorus, and a number of specialties. A dance will follow the follies.

Students managing the affair, in addition to Regnier, are Steve Vesceky, Kansas City; Robert Blair, Manhattan; F. W. Castello, McCune. Faculty members of the committee include Prof. R. I. Throckmorton, Prof. R. M. Green, Prof. A. D. Weber, and Prof. J. B. Fitch.

GREEKS CHOOSE KANSAS STATE SWEETHEARTS

THREE STUDENTS FROM EACH HOUSE WILL MEET TO PREPARE FOR HEARING.

STUDENTS TO MAKE CHOICE

Prospective Witnesses Will Become Acquainted With Probable Questions, According to A. R. Jones.

Because members of only 12 of the 22 fraternities on the Hill could agree on a "sweetheart," candidates for the annual Royal Purple contest number only one dozen. The nominees will compete for the title of Kansas State sweetheart at the Royal Purple Beauty Ball to be held at the Warehouse February 13.

The co-eds who have been selected are: Virginia Burch, El Dorado; Miriam Clark, Iowa; Marjorie Stevenson, Oberlin; and Eugenia Ebling, of Pi Beta Phi; Vera Bowersox, Great Bend, and Clara Jean Martin, Manhattan, of Kappa Delta; Marjorie Lyles, Saffordville, and Barbara Brubaker, Manhattan, of Alpha Xi Delta; Louise Coleman, Wichita, of Delta Delta Delta; Adeline Reid, Iola, of Chi Omega; Harriet Swan, Washington, of Alpha Delta Phi; and Isabel Porter, Stafford, of Van Zelle hall.

The remaining men's Greek organizations will make their selections within the next few days. James Chapman, editor of the Royal Purple, says. Several fraternities have not been able to determine their choice and others report some dissension among several factions which support different choices.

Final selection will be made by students when they vote on their favorite candidate at the ball. The dance will be under the direction of the yearbook staff, and will feature the selection of five beauty queens and the Kansas State sweetheart whose picture will appear on a page in the Royal Purple.

The fraternities who have chosen their sweethearts are: Acacia, Farm House, Alpha Tau Omega, Alpha Kappa Lambda, Kappa Sigma, Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Rho Chi, Phi Kappa, Phi Sigma Kappa, Phi Lambda Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

HASKELL SPEAKS HERE

U. S. D. A. Pathologist Visits on the Campus

Dr. R. J. Haskell, specialist in charge of extension plant pathology work for the United States Department of Agriculture, is a visitor at the department of botany and plant pathology, conferring with members of the department. He has the supervision of the extension work in plant diseases in the various states in the United States and is going over the program of the work being done in Kansas.

He spoke at the botany seminar on the organization of this work in the Department of Agriculture.

Y. M.-Y. W. DANCE MONDAY

The Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. are sponsoring a between-semester party Monday evening, February 1, in recreation center. A small charge which has not been fixed definitely will be made for the dancing. Zora Knox, Emporia, and Myrtle Johnson, Concordia, are working on arrangements for the Y. W. C. A., and Joe Smerchek, Garnet, for the Y. M. C. A.

AUKER MAY PLAY BASEBALL WITH BROOKLYN TEAM

STAR KANSAS STATE ATHLETE WILL PROBABLY PLAY IN NATIONAL LEAGUE.

A CASEY STENGEL PROTEGE

Assistant Manager of Brooklyn
Robins to Pilot Wildcat Pitcher
Into Big League

Elden Auker, captain of the Kansas State basketball team and star triple threat athlete of many wildcat athletic teams, will probably enter big league baseball after graduation from college this spring.

Auker has pitched two years on the Kansas State baseball team and has been one of the most successful college pitchers in the country. He holds shut outs over all teams in the Big Six baseball circles and has only lost one, that a 10-inning battle, game in his two years of pitching. He has played regular on the nine and when not on the mound, plays at first base.

Auker has been watched by baseball scouts and although no contracts have been offered, he has been invited to travel with the Brooklyn Robins of the national league as a protege of Casey Stengel, former manager of the Toledo Hens and now manager of the Brooklyn Robins.

It is thought that Stengel will railroad Auker into the Brooklyn camp without the formality of spending several seasons on a Robins farm where most young players find themselves after signing with the big league teams.

Auker has signed no contracts with the Robins and he will not have his plans definitely arranged until after the meeting of the Brooklyn club owners, managers and players at Miami, February 23.

SCHEDULE CHANGES MADE

Instructors and Others Assisting in Registration Are Asked to Make Corrections Says A. E. White.

Only four changes have been announced in the class schedule of the spring semester, according to Prof. A. E. White of the department of mathematics, who is chairman of the committee on schedules.

Instructors and others assisting with registration are asked to re-verify their schedule books. A class in methods of teaching, (A) has been offered and will meet in Education hall, room 52, MW-F-5.

The class in business law I which is scheduled for MW-F-6, in Fairchild hall, room 1, has been changed to business law II, to meet in the same room at the same hour.

The class in clothing II recitation, scheduled for Monday, sixth hour in Calvin hall, room 60, has been changed to meet Friday, fifth hour in the same room.

There is an error in the schedule of a class in electron theory in the physics department. This class will meet MW-F-3 in C-54-B, instead of the second hour that day, as originally scheduled. It will meet in the same room.

Jerold Ford and Kenneth Havner, Solomon, former students of Kansas State, were in Manhattan Saturday, January 23.

NEXT ASSEMBLY FEB. 9

The next student assembly will not be held until Tuesday, February 9, according to an announcement made by Dr. J. E. Kammerer, chairman of the committee on public exercises at Kansas State. The program for that assembly will probably be a musical one, although no definite arrangements have been made.

5. Advanced Degrees for Kansas State.

AU REVOIR.

This issue of the Kansas State Collegian is the last that will be edited by the staff members, whose names appear on the masthead above.

It is with a feeling of regret that the present editor of the Collegian turns over to other students this college newspaper to guide and foster during the next semester.

Perhaps the editor set her goal too high. For none of the steps on the platform were carried out. The campus drives are still left to be named, members of the student council are not as yet proportioned according to divisions, the students continue to show a marked indifference in student council affairs, the Student Council rejected the proposition to manage the varieties with the proceeds to go towards a union building, and the college still offers only two degrees. But in spite of all that, the editor feels a few things have been accomplished.

The faculty knows what students think about the various instructors as a result of the Collegian's series of stories on the faculty. Ten minute passing periods are to be allowed next semester for the first time in the history of this institution. The Collegian takes at least part credit for bringing that about. If Sunday shows materialize here in Manhattan, the present staff will have won another victory.

These few accomplishments are only a part of the reward the present editor received from the experience of one semester on the paper. And none of these things could have been made possible had it not been for the excellent cooperation of the reporters, the staff members, and all readers of the Collegian.

HAYS HAS TATTLE TALES.

The Fort Hays Kansas State college is resorting to the use of a "Secret Six" committee in seeking out violators of school rules regarding drinking. The members of the Student Council there acted as jurors on several cases brought before the council by the student-faculty administrative committee. Two out of the three students convicted and suspended on drinking charges were freshmen, while the other was a sophomore.

The system being used by the council at Hays is comparable to a system used in ancient Venice. Here unsung accusations were placed in a slit in the wall. People found guilty by the court were sent across the Bridge of Signs to the dungeons where they were left to die.

Of course the three young men at Hays will not die because they have been convicted, but they will have a difficult time trying to gain entrance in another institution, in addition to being made to feel they are disgraced. Students in most colleges drink. But only the more unfortunate are caught at it. The "Secret Six" at Hays probably have tasted intoxicating beverages, and unless they are different than the average American student, would taste them again if they were given the opportunity. . . . and no one was looking.

The method being employed at Hays is a questionable one. Is it fair that certain students should spy on others? Would these members of the "Secret Six" wish their identity known when after all they are nothing more than "tattle tails," one of the things most mothers teach their children not to be? It is not fair to the students charged with drinking, and not fair to a state institution, that the Hays college should resort to such means in order to find out who is and who is not drinking. The Collegian believes it is better to drink, than to spy on others that are drinking.

WHY NOT OPEN STACKS?

Kansas State students are encouraged to use the library, make it a place to study, to read, and to spend a great deal of time. And then the greatest incentive to library browsing—open stacks—is denied them.

It is hard to understand just why this is. Are the books and the library here for students to use or are they to be considered as a sort of museum to be looked at, admired, but touched not?

If it is because those in charge fear the books will be torn, lost, or damaged, surely the answer is that college students should be old enough to refrain from indulging in such kindergarten sports. If the students are old enough to use the books, they are old enough to take care of them.

Open stacks in city libraries are not misused to any appreciable extent and the type of readers there are not supposed to be as intellectually inclined as are students.

How can a student do his best work, research or otherwise, when he cannot go behind and pick out his own references, discarding as he goes? So much time is lost by first looking up the call number, then waiting patiently at the desk for the book, and then finding that that isn't what he wanted at all, and going back and doing it all over again. If he could just glance through, as he went, taking what he needed and discarding that which he did not want, he could accomplish so much more and in so much less time.

After all, the chief purpose of the library—to serve students who are trying to get an education—is lost when those students are not allowed to use the library freely.—E. A. T.

WHY IS A FINAL GRADE FINAL?

Just why should a student's grade for the entire semester be determined from his or her two, or perhaps three, quiz grades? Some students are not able to express their thoughts clearly upon paper. This type of student is at a decided disadvantage in examinations. He may know the material as well as does his neighbor but is just not able to get it across. In the final analysis, he comes up with perhaps a C while his neighbor, who does not know the work one half so well but who has a gift for concise written work, gets a B or an A.

Another person who is rated wrongly in this sort of grading system is the one who cuts and drifts his way through the school year, oversleeping if he cares to and appearing nonchalantly indifferent when he does attend class. The last week of the semester, he spends night and day "cramming" and, as a consequence, passes a fair examination.

This information which he has poured into his consciousness so rapidly will leave him just as rapidly. He is merely primed for the occasion. Knowledge packed in, under stress, is not lasting. Still he realizes that nothing counts but his examination grade and consequently studies for nothing else.

It is all very well to say that this type of person will pay for such laziness in later life by unpreparedness. But does the school want him to pay? Wouldn't it be more charitable to let him leave school somewhat prepared than to allow him to leave unprepared just because the system was such that it fostered the placing of an undue amount of importance upon the final examination grade?—E. A. T.

— The Snoopers —

There's nothing like a good old examination week to take one's mind off of going to school. A miniature dance was going full swing yesterday afternoon in the Uptown Palace. Some, however, remained indifferent in mute evidence of a two-hour struggle with a knotty quiz.

The Final Mix-up Saturday night turned in to the most hilarious party of the first semester, as if in deliberate spite of those who, early in the evening, were wondering if they had swallowed the hook, line and sinker.

The program was rare, as only home talent can be. None of the previously announced stage stars showed up; it seemed that sickness and famine overtook them. Had the entire program been published, there would have been none at all.

Judging from a purely financial point of view, the dusky Roscoe Pitts headlined the show. When the management returned from the intermission period Roscoe was gleefully singing snatches of "Springtime in the Rockies" to the tune of falling nickels and dimes. He sped into a hysterical clog dance at the sound of a quarter striking the floor. He was ahead though, during the entire affair. He stubbornly refused all afternoon to sign the contract for less than fifty cents, for each performance. After serious consideration and as curtain time was drawing near the temperamental artist won out.

The master of ceremonies announced Harry Haster's exotic Oriental dance and Roscoe, hearing the applause, gallantly returned to the spotlight for an encore.

The Royal Purple Beauty ball is assured of its success. A bevy of glorified girls (Ziegfeld) parading across a stage is to college folk like a pond to a duck. The boys, bravely chose February 13 for the great event to take place.

If the Student Council here resorted to the same tactics as are used at Hays when the administration along with the council attempts to curb drinking, maybe some of the members would have to sit as jurors at their own trials. This is a sad state of affairs when a man can't even take a drink without having one of his fellow men looking through the keyhole.

THE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

SHOW MODERN MEAT CUTS

Prof. D. L. Mackintosh of Kansas State college (center) gives an example of the old and the new styles in meat cuts during the school of modern meat cutting conducted recently in Chicago by the National Live Stock and Meat board. The school was attended by faculty representatives of ten state universities and colleges.

Professor Mackintosh is just completing the modern top and bottom chuck beef rolls which are in striking contrast with the old style chuck roast also shown. His work is being closely scrutinized by Prof. P. A. Anderson of the University of Minnesota (left), and Prof. W. J. Loeffel of the University of Nebraska.

COLLEGE HISTORY TO BE DRAMATIZED IN PROGRAM

Former Open Air Program Will Be Combined with Founders' Day This Year: Heberer in Charge

A dramatization of the history of the college will be a feature of the annual air program and founders' day program. The two programs will be combined this year and be presented February 16, sponsored by the alumni association.

In addition to the dramatization which will be given by members of H. Miles Heberer's dramatics class, the program will include greetings from some of the faculty people, members of the faculty, and numbers by the men's and women's glee clubs, representatives of the music department, and student organizations.

Material for the historical dramatization is being gathered by Dr. J. T. Willard, Dr. J. E. Kammeyer of the economics department, Dr. C. W. McCampbell of the department of animal husbandry, Prof. R. J. Barnett of the horticultural department, Prof. A. P. Davidson, of the department of education, and Prof. H. W. Davis of the English department.

Kansas State college owes its location to the pioneers of Manhattan who founded the city in 1855. One group of people from New England arrived here March 24, 1855, and they were joined by a group from Cincinnati the following June. Among these people were college graduates whose dream it was to found a college on the rolling Kansas prairies. They were delighted with the Blue valley as a site.

Within three years after their arrival, an association was formed and a college established with a Methodist Episcopal minister as president. That was Bluemont Central college, chartered February 9, 1858. It was located on a 100-acre site a mile west of the present campus. Funds for the building, like the land, were donated. The building was a plain three-story structure 44 by 60 feet. The third story was a chapel with an arched ceiling. There was a library with several hundred volumes, and a limited amount of illustrative apparatus. The total value of building and equipment was valued at $25,000.

After the passage of the agricultural college act in 1862 the trustees of Bluemont college offered to abandon their venture in favor of a new institution which was to be established in some location not yet decided. The legislature gladly accepted what Bluemont had to offer and in 1868 Kansas State Agricultural college was chartered. It has continued since then, enlarging, changing, adjusting itself to the needs of the people it served. In 1930 the name was changed to Kansas State college of Agriculture and Applied Science.

Around this outline of the institution's history the dramatization will be built. H. Miles Heberer will direct the production.

MORNING TEA DANCES AT C. U.

Colorado Co-Eds Entertain Co-Eds Royally After Annual Prom.

Boulder, Colo.—Colorado university believes in entertaining their boy friends bright and early in the morning. Breakfast and dancing is the way escorts of the Junior Prom the night before are entertained. The various sisterhoods on the hill spend much time in arranging their menus and entertainment with the result that breakfasts are given which are in reality tea dances much too early in the day. These social novelties begin anywhere between the popular hours of eleven and twelve o'clock and last until mid-afternoon. Local dance orchestras furnish the music.

J. A. Elliott, Wichita, spent the week end with his nephew, Loren Elliott.

ALDOUS SEMINAR SPEAKER
At agronomy seminar this afternoon Prof. A. E. Aldous will speak on "Plant Competition and Its Significance in Pastures and Meadows."

The smoke you like... is the smoke she likes for you!

"I like to see a man smoke a pipe!"
You've heard your own girl say it, perhaps. You're sure to hear it wherever girls get together.

They puff away at our cigarettes. But they like to see us have a go at the "strong, silent man's smoke"—a companionable, time-proven pipe. There is something satisfying about a pipe. It's a slow, reflective, hard-thinking smoke—or a calm, relaxing, restful smoke. The hunter's smoke, the fisherman's smoke, the engineer's smoke—a man's smoke, through and through.

And pipe smokers who know their fine tobaccos tell you there's no blend quite like the fine selected burleys of Edgeworth—the favorite tobacco in 42 out of 50 leading colleges.

Doty Edgeworth. Perhaps you will like it as well as most men seem to. Edgeworth is at your dealer's. Or send for free sample if you wish. Address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d Street, Richmond, Va.

SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural savor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive eleven-step process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes, 15¢ pocket package to $1.50 sound humidifier tin.

CO-EDS CAN SWIM The women's swimming pool will be held open on Tuesday and Thursday of this week at 4:00 swim in the pool at that time.

But the telephone conversation must not freeze

A sudden cold snap might seriously interfere with long distance telephone service were it not for the studies made by Bell System engineers.

They found that temperature variations within 24 hours may make a ten-thousandfold difference in the amount of electrical energy transmitted over a New York-Chicago cable circuit! On such long circuits initial energy is normally maintained by repeaters or amplifiers, installed at regular intervals. So the engineers devised a regulator—operated by weather conditions—which automatically controls these repeaters, keeping current always at exactly the right strength for proper voice transmission.

This example is typical of the interesting problems that go to make up telephone work.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

ADVERTISERS BEAT DEPRESSION

The old aphorism "It pays to advertise," might be amended to read "It pays to advertise during a depression."

A survey made by the department of commerce's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of 358 business and industrial concerns which have successfully combatted the depression, discloses that "increased sales efforts" and "advertising policies" are responsible in most cases for this progress and success. The government's report says:

"It is noteworthy that not one of the concerns which is included in this study as having been successful in combatting the effects of the depression has diminished its sales efforts (which of course includes advertising) in order to save money."

This ought to be the last answer to those business concerns which have taken the position that "it does not pay to advertise during a depression," and have cut their advertising to the bone and paralyzed their sales efforts. If results count, here they are.—Collegian.

At The Theatres

AT THE DICKINSON

"Dance Team"
It was a tough break for the Ellers-Dunn combination when they were cast in "Dance Team." A pair of unusually good actors, they haven't a chance in this picture.

When James Dunn isn't cheering for himself, he's praying!

There are some good shots now and then that save the evening. In fact, enough good shots to make the picture bearable, especially if you like Sally Ellers and James Dunn, as most of us do. They're a couple of hoofers who, unfortunately, make good. But while they're making good, they're absolutely as good as the story will allow. Sally Ellers is sweet looking always.—J. B.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Her Majesty Love"
Having exhausted the possibilities of night clubs in the U. S. as plot scenes, the wise heads of Hollywood center this one around a Berlin Cabaret, and the pretty bartender (Marylin Miller). The scion of a rich family (Ben Lyon) which owns a ball bearing factory, falls in love with the bartender, but his family seem to think that bartending is an inferior position (strange people, these Deutch!).

And make him choose between the ball bearing factory and the gal, with her drink-dispensing ways. Humorous touches by W. C. Fields, Leon Errol, Ben Lyons sings—omigawd!—J. C.

AT THE VARSITY

"Pagan Lady"
Evelyn Brent, the pretty bar maid in a Havana saloon, finds out her boy friend is going to be taken for a ride. She warns him, and then they lie off to Florida. Here she meets an evangelist (Conrad Nagel). Evelyn and the evangelist go for a swim to a nearby island. A storm comes out. They are forced to stay on the island over night. And here's where the pagan spirit enters the story. It's well played, and the outcome is certainly not the one you know it will be from the time the curtain rises. Not a bad show in any sense of the word.—D. L.

UNEMPLOYMENT FUND REACHES THOUSANDS

supervision of the department of maintenance.

The funds donated by college employees will all be used for improvements on the college campus and property.

College, City Cooperative.
The college is cooperating with the city in finding employment for the 471 men and women who are listed at Manhattan chamber commerce in need of work. An estimate made last week shows that almost $10,000 has been contributed by the townspeople to alleviate the situation. This money is being used to employ men to work on city parks and city streets.

The new football practice fields which are being constructed north of the stadium to take the place of those which were located north of the tennis courts, are a part of the improvement project, according to announcement of G. R. Pauling, superintendent of maintenance, who is supervising the construction.

Building of the practice fields has been made possible through the unemployment relief fund. Each field will be 360 feet by 160 feet.

A committee composed of R. F. Gingrich, of the department of machine design; W. H. Kirby and O. H. Maskie, under the supervision of G. R. Pauling, superintendent of maintenance, is in charge of the plans for construction.

NO SMOKING AT OREGON
Another State College Has Same Tradition as K. S. C.
Corvallis, Ore.—"No smoking on the campus" is one of the oldest if not the oldest traditions at Oregon State. The exact origin of the tradition has not been traced, but it is the opinion of W. A. Jensen, executive secretary of the college, that it has been the accepted rule from the time of the founding of the college in 1880. The rule has been amended only twice—to allow smoking in certain rooms of the Memorial Union building and in the stands of the two athletic fields during games.

VOGEL ACCEPTS POSITION
Richard G. Vogel, 31, recently accepted a position with the Lumsford-Barnes and company, a public accounting firm in Wichita.

Vogel, who was a member of Phi Kappa Phi last year, was enrolled in the college course and majored in accounting.

Psychology Professor at Ohio State Says Films Are Worthwhile.
And now the movies have yet another use. At Ohio State university classes in psychology are making extensive use of motion pictures. Pictures of children at play, showing their reaction to pets and to problems can be photographed without their knowledge so as to give a natural chapter from the life history of the child. Dr. Willard Valentine of the psychology department holds that "The 30 minutes required to show these films are worth several hours of reading or listening to a lecture about the same thing."

THE KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Volume XXXVIII

The Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, Manhattan, Kansas, February 2, 1932.

Number 23

'BERKELEY SQUARE' DRESS AUTHENTIC IN EVERY DETAIL

RESEARCH NECESSARY TO OBTAIN CORRECT PATTERNS FOR 18TH CENTURY DRESS.

DRESS REHEARSALS HELD

Settings Adapted from Original Designs by Kansas State Home Economics Student—Have Veteran Stage Manager.

The eighteenth century costumes for "Berkeley Square" arrived last Saturday. The costumes were ordered from the Martin Olsen company of St. Paul, Minn., one of the largest theatrical costume companies in the country. Dress rehearsals began immediately, and will continue to be held until the first performance Friday night, February 5. A second performance will be given the following night.

The costumes for "Berkeley Square" will be more elaborate than that of any previous Manhattan Theatre production. Each costume is in itself a work of art. The materials in both the men's and the women's costumes are unusually rich and beautiful. Such careful attention has been paid to details of design, of textures, of wigs, and accessories that the costumes are truly authentic patterns.

The designs for the setting being used were adapted from the original by Jane Wilcox of Fort Riley. Miss Wilcox is a sophomore, enrolled in the home economics division.

W. D. Davis, Manhattan, is the production manager for "Berkeley Square." He has been working with the theatre three years and handles all the shows now.

A highly important person in every theatrical is the property man. "Berkeley Square" has two, Raymond Spillman and Robert Brown, both from Manhattan.

HIGH SCHOOL TANK AND MAT TEAMS TO MEET HERE

Entry Blanks Being Mailed to Coaches for Annual Tournament on Feb. 26 and 27

The state high school wrestling tournament and swimming meet will be held at the Kansas State College gymnasium on Friday and Saturday, February 26 and 27. The wrestling will take two days and the swimming meet will be held on Saturday. The wrestling tournament will be under the direction of Coach B. R. Patterson and the swimming meet will be directed by Coach C. S. Moll.

Last year wrestling teams representing Wichita, East, Wichita North Douglas, El Dorado, Colby, Clay Center, Wellington, Hutchinson, and Junction City were entered. Swimming teams from Wichita, East, Wichita North, Wyandotte, Topeka, Hutchinson and Concordia were entered.

A much larger group of entries is expected this year. All of last year's entries are to return and also a large number of other schools are expected to enter.

Entry blanks will be sent out this week by E. A. Thomas, secretary of the state high school athletic association. The entry list will close Monday, February 22.

MARY CARNEY IS INJURED IN CRASH

Kansas State Senior Cut and Bruised When Car Hits Parked Auto in Lincoln.

Mary Carney, Manhattan, has recovered from cuts and bruises she received in an automobile accident near Lincoln, Nebraska, Friday night. Miss Carney is a senior at Kansas State.

Helen Durham, Manhattan; Orville Nuffer, Leonardville; and Dave Horchem, Ransom, also Kansas State students, were the other occupants of the car. They escaped injury.

The accident occurred when the Chevrolet sedan, driven by Horchem, crashed into a second automobile parked without lights on the side of the highway.

Three Kansas State Athletes Honored In All-America Selection

Three Kansas State athletes have been honored for their achievements in the sport world by being named on the all-American track and field honor roll, which corresponds somewhat to the all-American football squad selections.

These athletes are Harry Hinkle, Barnard; Milt Ehrlich, Marion; and H. A. Elwell, Hutchinson. Hinkle was mentioned in the low hurdles with a record of 23.8 seconds. Elwell ran the 220-yard dash in 21.3 seconds to receive mention. Ehrlich set a high jump record of 6 feet 3 5/8 inches at the conference meet at Lincoln last year. This is Ehrlich's second year on the honor track rolls. All three men are seniors at Kansas State this year.

GREEKS TESTIFY IN TAX CASE THIS WEEK

Hearings Being Held in Lawrence and Topeka Today and Tomorrow.

Representatives of the local fraternities and sororities will go on the witness stand in the District Court sometime late this week. C. E. Vance, Garden City, was appointed by the Supreme Court of Kansas to hear the evidence.

Hearings of the fraternity tax question are being held at Lawrence and Topeka previous to the Manhattan hearing. All the evidence given at the trials is taken down verbatim by the court stenographer. From these records, C. E. Vance assembles the evidence into a unified report which he presents as "findings of the facts" to the supreme court. From these "findings" he draws "conclusions of the law," by which he recommends that the evidence substantiates, or does not substantiate the claims of the defendants.

Copies of the "conclusions" drawn by C. E. Vance will be sent to all the attorneys involved in the case. The attorneys will then appear before the Supreme Court to argue the case based on the "conclusions."

The Greek organizations are attempting to prove that they come under the heading of educational organizations, which are exempted from taxation by the Kansas constitution.

HAWAIIAN ENROLLS HERE

Hiroshi Miyata, a native Hawaiian, will attend Kansas State this semester. Mr. Miyata received his high school education in Hawaii and since then has attended several universities in the United States, coming here from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

Five members of a psychology class walked out of the room after glancing at examination questions during the finals. The questions were said to be over a section of the text not covered and concerning experiments the instructor was interested in. . . . Some psychology instructors here spend more time talking about white rats than they do about white persons, and after all psychology is a study of the systematic knowledge and investigation of the genesis, powers, and functions of mind. . . . The Phi Kappas are giving the Tri Deltas a bad time of it. They use the circular drive as a race track over which they speed at heaven-only-knows how fast. And loud yells accompany the roar of the motor as it winds its way to the country home. . . . Members of the same fraternity are said to have held what might have been a chapter meeting at the Palace the other night. Water wasn't served. . . . But strawberries and cream were at the official home for women Sunday. Imagine such luxury in the dead of winter and especially in this dead winter. . . . More than several students went home following the distribution of flunk slips through the college post office. The champion flunker-out is still being searched for, since the latest report turned in was that of a student flunking nine out of 16 hours. Last year one student is said to have flunked 12 hours, and conditional in the additional hour he was carrying. . . . The leading secret organization of imbibers of beverages is said to have held initiation for new members in true form Sunday night. . . . One of the local promoters of dances, often refused permission to sponsor entertainment here, is said to have arranged for a dance here through influential students on the hill. . . .

PERSONALITIES CONSIDERED AT ANNUAL RETREAT

Y. W. C. A. MEMBERS LISTEN TO FACULTY AND OTHERS EXPRESS OPINIONS.

THIRTY-FIVE ATTEND MEET

Country Club Is Scene of Action—New Interest Group to Figure Out How and Why Money Is Spent.

"Our Changing Personalities" was the subject for discussion and consideration yesterday at the annual Y. W. C. A. membership retreat, at the Manhattan Country Club.

The program, which was directed by Joyce Ansdell, Jamestown, began at 10 o'clock with group singing led by Barbara Brubaker.

Two talks, "Elements of Our Personality," by Mrs. Lucille Rust, and "How Did the Personality of Jesus Grow?" by the Reverend Perry Platt, pastor of the Congregational church, completed the morning's program. Mr. Platt brought out in his discussion the relation of the principles of biblical times and principles of modern industrial and social problems. He said the actual teachings of those times could not apply on present conditions, but only to the principles.

Honesty Outstanding Trait. Mrs. Rust enumerated the points that make up one's personality, showing that several of those are the same traits that compose character. Honesty was enumerated as one of the outstanding ones.

In the afternoon sessions, Mr. Platt led a group discussion on "Social Aspects of Personality—the World We Live In," considering the relation of one's self to a rural community or home town after a college education.

Speaking concurrently to another group, Dean Margaret M. Justin discussed "Obstacles to Personality Development—Problems and Faculties." Dean Justin defined personality as "a person's deviation from perfection."

Be Aware of Changes. "They tell us at present that the whole business of college is changing personality. One must first become aware of what he most wants to change, to be successful in character development," she concluded.

Joyce Ansdell presided at the luncheon table. At the beginning of the luncheon a short stunt was presented by Nelda Carson, Winifred Wolf, Eva Brownell, and Elizabeth Keegan, Elizabeth Lamprecht, as Madame Zamoretti, the seeress, predicted the future by gazing into the depths of her crystal ball, and foretold that the women in the future will be doing big things, while the men can scarcely be seen in the background.

At a short business meeting reports on interest groups, which will begin second semester meetings next Monday, were given by the heads of the committees. One new group has been added to the list, "Money, How I Spend It and Why," which will be led by Edna Sociosky. Esther Morgan was chosen as member of the nominating committee from the group.

Dean Justin presented a summary of the retreat and Miss Stella Harris conducted worship services at the close of the meeting. The retreat was attended by: Mildred McMullen, Dorothy Blackman, Mary Beach, Louise Davis, Barbara Lautz, Barbara Brubaker, Marcine Campbell, Evelyn Esell, Zora Knox, Vera Ellithorpe, Winifred Wolf, Esther Morgan, Joyce Ansdell, Eula Bratton, Ola Curtis, Martha Rodda, Edna Swank, Blanche Duguid, Dorothy Raeburn, Marie Antrim, Margaret Buck, Mona Stoops, Daphne Smith, Viola Barron, Louise Chalfant, Frances Rossiter, Edith Fritz, Nelda Carson, Elizabeth Lamprecht, Frances Bell, Dorothy MacLeod, Doctor Martha Pittman, and Miss Stella Harris, and Mrs. Jefferson and Mrs. Pine, sponsors.

WASHBURN 67 YEARS OLD. Washburn college, Topeka, Kan., Jan. 30—The sixty-seventh anniversary of Washburn college will be celebrated Monday, February 8.

The annual observance will start at 10 a. m. with a lecture by Judge S. Dawson of the Kansas Supreme court.

Prof. N. E. Saxe, chairman of the Washburn day committee, said that plans were not yet complete for the celebration but further festivities would be announced this week.

Cablegrams Reassure Parents Of Sons' Safety In War-Infested China

"No personal danger." "Quite safe." These words, brief as they are, brought a world of relief to five families and many more friends in Manhattan and Kansas State who have been concerned over the immediate danger for relatives in the international area within Shanghai.

Cables were received after anxious inquiry by Dr. R. R. Price, head of the history department, whose son James is in Shanghai. James Price is vice-president of the Raven Trust company in the area immediately situated within the war-infested section.

The favorable news was given to R. I. Thackrey of the journalism department, whose brother, Ted O. Thackrey is editor and publisher of the Shanghai Evening Post and Mercury there. Ted Thackrey has been in Shanghai for about a year and one-half. He was associated with the International News Service there until recently.

Mr. Thackrey and Mr. Price with their families are living within a block of one another in the international section.

Both Dr. Price and Prof. Thackrey received letters from the two within the last week, but these communications were written before direct attacks upon the city had been made.

"The rapidity of development of the situation and of warfare within Shanghai has come as a particular blow to us," said Professor Price in speaking of the residents there. "The immediate danger lies in the irresponsible persons who are not a direct part of the Japanese army."

An organization for protecting the group of English, American, French, and other foreigners in the international area is called the Volunteer Guard and is similar to the civilian group known as the National Guard in the United States, according to Professor Price. Jim Price is a member of this organization for the protection of civilian rights within this zone. Whether this group will be called into action cannot be stated.

These two are not the only persons who are a source of concern for Manhattanites and Kansas State students. Emmet W. Skinner and his wife, Ruth Adams Skinner, are living in Shanghai within the same territory. Skinner, son of Mrs. E. T. Skinner of 1920 Poyntz is captain of the Marine force regiment of the United States Marines in Shanghai. He and Mrs. Skinner were graduated from Kansas State in 1916 and he was a member of Delta Tau Delta. He is a brother of Ted and Ruth Skinner who are both attending Kansas State now. Mrs. Skinner is a sister of Addie Adams who is employed at the college post office.

Letters received from the Shanghaiites are usually from three weeks to a month old. Mrs. Skinner was reassured in a letter received Saturday that there was no immediate cause for worry.

ERNEST REED WINS IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

Receives Capper Award as Prize—Four Schools Compete For Trophy.

Ernest H. Reed, GGS, Norton, won the oratorical contest sponsored by the Native Sons and Daughters of Kansas. He gave his oration Thursday, competing with representatives from Kansas university, Washburn college, and the College of Emporia. The subject of all the orations, as assigned by the sponsors was "The Quattrill Raid at Lawrence and Its Influence on Kansas History." Reed described briefly the actual raid, and then analyzed the major results growing out of the victory. These, he states, were leadership in the cause of temperance, the building of an outstanding judicial system, and the development of Kansas into a leading agricultural state.

In recognition of his winning the contest, Reed was presented by Governor Woodring, behalf of Senator Capper, the cup which the Senator offered for the winning of the contest.

CROWD PACKS FIRST Y. M.-Y. W. DIME DANCE

Nearly 400 Students Attend Affair Last Night In Recreation Center.

Nearly 400 students thronged recreation center last night for the first dime dance sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at Kansas State. Zora Knox of Emporia and Joe Smerchek of Garnett were in charge of the affair.

The main feature of the evening was the dancing, music for which was furnished by Pete Gormley's orchestra. A stag line reaching around the room made dancing hazardous and interesting for the men who brought dates. Specialty dances gave the women their choice of partners.

The party was an all school affair and admission was not limited to Y. M. or Y. W. members. Besides the students a faculty member or two were present.

Cards were provided for those who cared for them, but the tables were deserted for the dance floor. A short program preceded the dancing.

DAD ARMSTRONG RETIRES

Ashley L. Monahan Buys Interest In College Drug Store.

An interest in the College Drug store at 621 North Manhattan, has been purchased by Ashley L. Monahan.

A. F. "Dad" Armstrong has retired from the business.

In the Big Six meet at Lincoln he turned in a time of 1:56.3 to win the Big Six championship.

NO BIG CHANGE IN ENROLMENT IS ANTICIPATED

MACHIR SAYS

EXPECTS NEW AND SECOND SEMESTER STUDENTS TO BALANCE FIGURE.

CLASSES BEGIN THURSDAY

Several Changes Made in Schedule For The Semester—New Course in History Added.

"Although there is no definite means at present in checking enrolment for the semester, there is every reason for me to believe that the next term will be an average one for the college," stated Jessie MacD. Machir, college registrar, in speaking of the prevalent rumors as to a decrease in enrolment.

"There are few students dropping from college that have been reported in this office," she said, "and these students are discontinuing their work only from sheer necessity. The number withdrawing is offset by those who are returning after an absence of a semester or a year."

Registration at Kansas State began today at 7:45 o'clock and will continue through Wednesday afternoon. Students enrolling the first hour include those whose last initials are E, M, N, U, X; from 9:45 to 11:15 are A, C, L. At noon from 12:30 to 2 o'clock, from 2:15 until 3:45 G, J, O, W, and Y will conclude the registration for Tuesday.

Wednesday at 8 o'clock registration begins with B, T, and V, and continues at 9:45 with F and S. Enrolment is concluded for regular enrolment with H, I, K, and Z, from 12:30 until 1:45 o'clock. Those students who missed regular assignments will enrol from 2 until 5 o'clock Wednesday.

New Courses Offered.

A new course, "A Survey of American History," will be offered next semester by Dr. R. R. Price. This course will be included in the physical education curriculum for next year and will combine American History I, II, and III now being offered.

Several changes have been made in the class schedule for the next semester. A class in methods of teaching to meet the demands of more students applying for this course will meet in Education hall, room 52, MWF 5.

The class in business law which is scheduled for MWF 6 in room 1 of Fairchild hall, will meet in the same room at the same hour as a course in business law II.

Errors Corrected.

The class in clothing II recitation scheduled for Monday 6 has been changed to meet Friday 5 in room 60, Calvin hall. The class in electron theory will meet third hour MWF instead of second hour in C54b.

Classes for the new semester will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday morning, February 4.

CAFETERIA PLANS TO ISSUE MEAL TICKETS

Small Change Nuisance Prompts Adoption of Ticket System Here.

The college cafeteria will issue $5 meal tickets starting February 15. The meal tickets are to be issued because students and faculty have asked for a system by which they may pay for food without carrying loose change. The tickets will be punched by the cashier and may either be left with the cashier or taken with the purchaser.

This plan of selling food has been tried and is being used in Kansas high schools and college. The Port Hays Kansas State college is using meal tickets in its college cafeteria and find the plan satisfactory. Mrs. Bessie B. West, professor of institutional economics, said that this plan was an aid to students who often spent their money before planning their food budget.

PICTURE DEADLINE SET

Deadline for the fraternity and sorority Royal Purple pictures, as well as those of all other organizations, has been set for February 12. All second semester students, new pledges, and those from the first semester who want pictures in their organization sections must arrange for them at once. The deadline for the class sections has not been set.

BOND SALESMEN OR THEOLOGIAN?

"Colleges and universities are homes of scattered schools and specialists training bond salesmen to beat the market at one end and theologians at the other to save souls that are scarcely worth the saving," says Dr. Charles A. Beard, noted sociological historian in a recent magazine article.

Are college students of today headed for either one of these careers? Are colleges, in Kansas State a home of scattered schools and specialists?

Although Doctor Beard has made a sweeping criticism, he is correct to a certain extent. And Kansas State comes under his statement. Each division is too specialized, each is complete in itself as far as technical training is concerned. But the graduates are complete in nothing. The college student at Kansas State receives a smattering of rhetoric, of chemistry, of literature, and his technical training. There is nothing to mould him into a well-rounded individual, with a philosophy adequate for the various phases of life which he will meet after graduation.

A movement which is gaining recognition in modern educational institutions is that of orientation or coordinating courses, in which a student is able to study and survey life and conditions in general. There is an opportunity to study the prevailing philosophies, their differences, and the points of likeness. Important trends in education, industry, government, and sociological conditions are studied, and each student learns something of life besides engineering, agriculture, teaching, journalism, or home economics.

Kansas State should have an orientation course in which the students could coordinate their specialized training. Kansas State graduates should be more than dishonest bond salesmen or idealistic theologians.—R. L.

The greatest diplomatic victories are gained by doing nothing.—Purdue Exponent.

Mussolini, says an observer, plays the violin, to restore mental poise. And not, as some have suggested darkly, to unnerve the opposition.—Hamilton Journal.

The Student Council last fall passed a resolution stating that the number of Varsity dances should be limited to one per week. They evidently forgot all about that resolution when they sanctioned the three being held this week. Perhaps the two extra ones are make-ups for Christmas vacation.

SPARING THE ROD

"If a student hasn't the germs of intellectual interest, if he hasn't character, if he hasn't the desire to amount to something, going to college never will give him any of these things," says Robert M. Hutchins, 33-year-old president of the University of Chicago.

Since October of last year, freshmen at the university have been attending classes when and how they choose, absorbing what they might, and being accountable to none. Whenever a freshman feels sufficiently prepared to take an examination over the courses to which he has been exposed, he signifies his desire to do so. If the outcome of the examination satisfies his instructors that he has come to college to work and not to play, not to advance his social position, but because he really desires to learn and is learning, he is allowed to go into advanced work.

Dr. Hutchins figures that if the educated people of the future are going to make any real contribution to society, they will do it through the exercise of independent intelligence.

"We will encourage the ability to co-ordinate information—not to take thirty-six unrelated courses, pass thirty-six unrelated examinations, make a grade of at least 65 and get a diploma, as the old system prescribed," says Dr. Hutchins. "The old system often led to the maximum—The wise student pays more attention to study of the professor than of the subject."

These new ideas in education, revolutionary as they may seem, are working out quite satisfactorily at the University of Chicago.

Several Kansas State students have been heard to voice their opinions as to the practicability of such a plan for Kansas State. Those opinions have been both in favor of and against such an arrangement.

The Collegian's opinion on the plan is that it is all right for a liberal arts school, but for a school offering mainly scientific courses in which classroom work and laboratory work must be closely coordinated, one part would suffer from the poor quality of the other . . . and the desire is too strong now to cut those "long, monotonous labs."—E. A. T.

Words of wisdom from a collegian: "It is better to have loved and lost, than never to have been foolish at all."

Sherwood Eddy is going to invade Kansas again. This time he is going to talk before the Y. M. C. A. conferences at Wichita and Pittsburg on "Youth and Sex." Wonder if he'll attract as much attention down there as he did at Kansas State two years ago.

Finessing isn't limited to the game of bridge, and it is a reversible process, too. Just take a look around you and notice the protected "queens" playing for the "jack."

Students at the University of Chicago are encouraged to study the course and not the professor, according to Robert M. Hutchins, president of the school. Today and tomorrow Kansas State students will be playing checkers with their schedules in an attempt to get Professor Zlich for this and Professor Schultz for that, all because he has a reputation for being easy.

— The Snoopers —

The anger of Kappa Sigma rose to unheard of heights when two days before the winter formal party the members were informed that their orchestra, Chic Scroggins' 14 Piamors, would not be available. A fluke in booking arrangements was responsible. Cowerer, the boys substituted well with Al Sky and his 12 Stars.

The customary stag line was made conspicuous by its absence at the Kappa Sig hoe-down. It was the inaugural of a new custom, the success of which will be determined by similar experiments in the future. One girl was heard to boast after the party that she had danced with four men. The infinite length of the receiving line was second to none. Everybody had a good time.

We overheard recently what we think was an original wise crack. As two collegians met, one omitted the usual "hi." And in answer to the other's "hi," Number One said "so am I." Perhaps it wasn't original and probably it isn't funny, but that's our story and we've stuck with it.

The 3,000 reasons for the existence of Kansas State college will have to struggle along as best they can this semester without the capers and diodes of Murt Makins. He will no longer be among those present between classes in Anderson, nor will he join forces with The Snoopers in any more haywire dance promotions. The blood of the globe-trotter courses hotly through his veins which all the king's horses cannot restrain. He will not enroll.

Blake Wareham is doing his bit to keep the between-semester crowd from becoming morose and self-sympathetic. Approximately ten miles of dancing has been offered for the trivial sum of 15 cents a mile last night and tonight. Assuming that the average couple traverses a distance of five miles during the course of the dance the aforementioned results were attained. At any rate there are two dances for $1.50.

The enrolment mill opens this morning to grind out the knowledge seekers of Kansas State. For two days this most tiresome ordeal of an entire college career will overshadow all other activities. Scholarships or at least chapel recognition should be bestowed upon those who are able to emerge with a steady gait and an indomitable faith in higher education.

SUNDAY MOVIES.

"We went to the show Sunday night," we heard some one remark on the campus the other day.

To the non-Kansan such a remark would have meant little. To those of us who have had to put up with the narrowmindedness of many of the Sunflower state's blue laws, this statement was astounding.

An injunction has been issued which gives Fox theatres the temporary right to run Sunday shows in Kansas, and this editorial is a hymn of hope that Kansas may, sometime in the future abandon its Main Street policies, prejudices, and superstitions, and emerge into the great wide world which is all about it.

It must be admitted that a great many poker parties will be broken up, poker parties that have become a tradition because there was nothing else to do Sunday evenings in Kansas.

Church attendance may suffer from this innovation. However, good churchgoers need not be greatly disturbed. There is no law compelling anyone to go to the movies at any time. If one has a conscientious objection to going to the show on Sunday, the ideal remedy is to keep away.—Washburn Review.

"It is seldom that we can expect a student to believe that there is anyone wiser than himself."—The Kentucky Kernel.

While instructors have all the faith in the world in the honor of the students they nevertheless make it possible to crib by such safeguards as one examination for all classes—and a seat between.

To suggest that punctuation and grammar are proper studies of the author is to be reviled as pedantic.—Ivor Brown.

Accuse not Nature; she hath done her part; Do thou but thine.—Milton.

TRACK SQUADS IN ACTION

Coach Haylett Needs Men In Jump Events; Dual Meet February 27.

With final examinations over, track practice will begin in earnest. At present there about 70 men reporting for varsity track and almost that many men for freshman track. It is expected that this number will increase with the new semester just beginning.

There are three events in which experienced and eligible men are needed. These are broad jump, high jump, and pole vault. There are no experienced broad jumpers on the squad now, and only Ehrlich in the high jump and Jordan in the pole vault.

The first dual indoor track meet will be February 27 with Missouri university at Columbia. Sometime before that the Kansas City Athletic Club relays will be held, but no definite date has as yet been set for that meet.

LEAP YEAR HITS WASHBURN

Washburn college, Topeka, Kan., Jan. 30—The question of girls bearing half the brunt of dating expenses will be given a thorough try-out February 5 when a Leap Year varsity dance will be held at Washburn.

The suppressed desires of men will undoubtedly be revealed shortly before the big event. The girls must call the boy-friend, make plans for transportation—aside from the question of finances. Dance tickets, refreshments, etc., must also be furnished by the "fair sex."

This is the first time in many years that Washburn coeds have been given the opportunity to reveal their ideas about their "choice" of boy friend. Some of the boys are campaigning already.

KNIT AND SEW FOR NEEDY

Wellesley Students Make Plans To Help Unemployed.

Wellesley, Mass. (Special)—Students enrolled in Wellesley college have taken up their knitting and sewing, have started rehearsing for a benefit show, and have completed plans for a dance, with the proceeds of all the activities to go to charity. Leaders on the campus presented the needs of the unemployed in nearby towns and cities, and told of the conditions existing on the campus. The pass for assistance to the unemployed are being made by a voluntary Unemployment Relief committee made up of Wellesley students.

KANSAS ARCHITECTS TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Weigel Plans Program of State Meeting Here February Twentieth.

The "bureaucracy" which exists in the designing of federal buildings will be one of the problems considered by the Kansas chapter of the American Institute of Architects, which will meet in Manhattan February 20.

Prof. Paul Weigel, head of the department of architecture, is in charge of the program for the meeting. Probably 30 practicing architects of the state will attend the meeting, Professor Weigel said.

Whether the designs for all federal buildings should be planned at the federal office in Washington, D. C., or whether private architects in various sections of the country should be given consideration will be discussed.

The problem of registration of architects in Kansas will be considered, Professor Weigel said. Kansas is one of the few states which does not require architects to pass certain requirements before a board of registration as a means of securing safety and economy in construction of buildings in the state.

At The Theatres

AT THE WAREHAM

"Reckless Age"

The pre-war drama of the children who come home from college with gin-soaked ideals and lustily mortify the loving parents who have scrimped to the ragged edge to provide the education. Buday Rogers, now forsaking the movies for radio (smart boy, knows when to quit) is the son, Bradley, who of course comes through to save his old man, and Frances Dee is the daughter who finally reforms and snags a rich godfather. Peggy Shannon, Richard Bennett, and that long-legged boy with the southern drawl (you've seen him in college comedies) grace the graceful show.—J. B.

AT THE DICKINSON

"Tonight or Never"

According to cinema definitions, love is that quality that makes men giants, cures fallen arches and is good for dandruff. In this play it provides the spark to light the artistry of a prima donna (Gloria Swanson) who otherwise would be just an ordinary singer. In other words she decides that a little experience will put color in her voice and goes gunning for the right man—and gets the experience to add just that finishing touch. The play is clever with meaningful innuendo that winds up to be perfectly uncensorable. The supporting cast probably will provide more entertainment for you than Swanson, who begins to show her age, among other things. We rate the show as good.—J. B.

AT THE VARSITY

"Platinum Blonde"

Sparkling repartee characterizes "Platinum Blonde" showing at the Varsity theatre today and Wednesday. Jean Harlow, who plays the blonde, relies chiefly on her attraction and lighting effects; Loretta Young, the "other woman" has more personality—and uses it. The lead is carried by Robert Williams, whose roles in "Devotion" with Ann Harding and "Common Law" with Constance Bennett, were attractions last year. This is Williams' last picture, made shortly before his death a few months ago.

The plot is somewhat trite—the old story of a newspaper reporter who marries a girl whose name is in the Blue Book when his own is not even in the phone book—and consequently complications. Whatever it lacks in originality of plot, however, it makes up in wisecracking, clever banter and entertainment.—V. B.

Depression Would Have Worked Havoc In Good Old Days

The present depression has resulted in some reduced salaries, but there was a time, according to the 1885-86 biennial report of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, when the president of Kansas State received only $2,500 dollars per year, house included.

The foreman of the blacksmith shop here at that time received the princely sum of $600 per year. The present vice president was at that time an assistant in chemistry with a salary of $800.

Ordinary student expenditures, aside from clothing and traveling expenses ranged from $60 to $160 per year.

Entrance examination questions in math, according to the '81 report, were something like these:

"Define simple, compound, prime, and composite numbers. Reduce five square yards to the decimal of an acre. Tell how to find the number of bushels of wheat in a bin of given size. Divide 97, 547, 337 by 3,890."

Prof. C. D. Davis looked over the questions Thursday and remarked that they would teach a farmer all the mathematics he needed to know except how to figure the interest on the mortgage and possibly his income tax. But Professor

Davis doubts that his present students could pass the exam, if they actually think as they figure in class.

CANADIANS ARE ORIGINAL

Stenographer Attends Lectures and Takes Notes—Typed Copies Sold

We'll have to hand it to the Canadians for originality and downright brilliance. Students at McMaster university, Ontario, have perfected a system for getting complete notes of all lecture courses. They have arranged to have a stenographer at all lectures in the guise of a student and record in shorthand the professors' discourse. Typed copies are sold to all students desiring them at a cost of approximately fifty cents a week.

K-AGGIES COME FROM BEHIND TO DOWN CYCLONES

WILDCATS NOSE OUT CONFERENCE VICTORY AFTER TRAILING GREAT PART OF GAME.

BOYD HIGH POINT MAN

Guard Scores Ten Of Team's 19 Points To Tie With Iowa State For Scoring Honors.

The Kansas State Wildcats won by the score of 19 to 15 in one of the hardest fought basketball games ever played on the local court last Saturday night when they defeated the powerful Iowa State five which invaded Nichols gymnasium to play a Big Six battle for third place in the league standings.

The game was fast throughout and neither team had a comfortable margin at any point in the tussle. Only once in the game did the outcome look evident and this was early in the second period when Heitman, lanky Cyclone center, sank two field goals and one free throw in quick succession to give his team a six-point lead. This was the largest lead ever held by either team during the game.

IOWANS TAKE LEAD.

The game started with the Iowans taking the lead soon after the opening whistle when Heitman sank a long shot immediately after Boyd had started the scoring with a free throw. Breen was fouled by Heitman and his free throw tied the score. The Iowans took the lead again soon after this charity toss and the Wildcats were led throughout the remainder of the half which ended 8 to 7 in favor of the Cyclones.

remained the same as in the first half. Heitman, towering center of the Iowa team sent his team to a long six point lead with two field goals and a free throw. At this point the Wildcats started their scoring machine and with only four minutes to play, tied the score at 13 all. Boyd, guard on the Kansas State team pulled his team out of the slump and started the attack which pointed to the final four point lead that the Wildcats held at the end of the game.

Boyd High Scorer.

"Bud" Boyd, playing at a guard position on the Kansas State team, was high point man of the game along with Heitman, Cyclone center. Each of these players made ten points, Boyd with four field goals and two free throws while Heitman had three baskets and four free throws. Boyd was the outstanding player of the evening with his stellar playing at the guard position. Emmett Breen, Wildcat forward, had a good evening when he filled the bill as a man to cover Jack Roadcap, the Iowa State scoring ace. Breen covered Roadcap to the extent that the latter could make only one of nine shots.

While Breen and Boyd were doing their bit for Kansas State, Heitman was playing an outstanding game for the Cyclones. This tall center was controlling the tip for his team and scored ten of his team's 15 points.

O.U. GRID SCHEDULE MADE

"Dad's Day" Game With Wildcats Included In List Of Nine Contests.

Norman, Jan. 29.—The Missouri game November 5 has been designated as the Homecoming game on the Sooner football schedule for 1932 and the Kansas State game October 22 as the Dad's Day game. It was announced today by Ben G. Owen, athletic director.

Besides these two games the Sooners will meet Nebraska at Norman on November 19 and the University of Tulsa at Norman on October 1, giving the university eleven what is probably its most attractive home football schedule of modern pigskin history.

Tulsa, Kansas State, Missouri and Nebraska are opponents of sufficient prowess to draw spectators to Owen field in droves next fall, Owen believes. The Golden Hurricane, with its swift open style of play, should give the Sooners a terrific battle in the opening game. Kansas State had what many sports writers considered the strongest team in the "Big Six" last year until it ran afoul of an equally fine Nebraska eleven. Missouri always draws well at Norman while Nebraska, "Big Six" champions of 1931, may draw as large a crowd as the 18,346 he pulled at Norman in 1928, a record.

Fact the Cornhuskers are invading Norman late in November next fall instead of early in October not only should mean a larger crowd but should also silence those Nebraska sports writers who contend that the October heat was pretty much responsible for the Sooner victories at Norman in 1924 and 1930 by scores of 14-7 and 20-7. In rebuttal it might be pointed out that Oklahoma won both these games in the first half, leading the Huskers 14-0 at the half in 1924 and 13-0 in 1930, the Huskers scoring all their points and doing their most effective playing in the second half of each game whereas a team wilted down by the heat usually weakens in the second half.

Regardless of whether the Sooners or the thermometer defeated Nebraska in 1924 and 1930, high temperature will not be a factor in the Nebraska-Oklahoma game of 1932. The schedule:

Oct. 1 Tulsa U. at Norman.
Oct. 8 Kansas at Lawrence.
Oct. 15 Texas at Dallas.
Oct. 22 Kansas Aggies at Norman (Dad's Day).
Oct. 29 Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater.
Nov. 5 Missouri at Norman (Homecoming).
Nov. 12 Iowa State at Ames.
Nov. 19 Nebraska at Norman.
Nov. 24 George Washington U. at Washington D. C. (Thanksgiving).
"Big Six" conference games.

SWIM TEAM NEEDS MEN

Lack of Material Handicaps Moil In Completing Varsity Swimming Squad.

Despite the fact that only a few men reported for the varsity swimming team, practice has been going on since before the Christmas holidays, according to Coach C. S. Moil.

The loss of six of last year's chief point winners has been greatly noticed. Buckmaster, Lambertson, and McCleary graduated; Livingston and Rhoades are in school but are ineligible; and Frank Prentup is eligible but will not be in school until next semester.

There are not enough men to make up a full team with entrants in every event of a dual match. The team is considering entering three matches, the Big Six meet at Nebraska university March 5, and a home arrangement with Kansas university.

The following lettermen are out: M. F. Fockele, Ottawa, who swims the breast stroke and medley relay; A. P. Baxter, Little River, distance swims; and D. E. West, Hartford, sprints and relays.

Other squad men are: W. B. Snodgrass, Manhattan; L. E. Bolcay, Topeka; and A. I. Mall, Manhattan, who was a member of the team two years ago.

L. G. Montre, Topeka, and W. D. Grammer, Junction City, are the only two new men out for the team. Due to the lack of men, freshmen and students who have been transferred here are working out with the team, although they are not eligible for competition.

K-AGGIE 'RASSLERS' TOSS K. U. MAT TEAM FOR WIN

Patterson's Squad Wins 5 of 7 Matches—Kansas State Now Tied With A. and M.

By winning four falls and one decision, Kansas State grapplers downed Kansas university matmen 23 to 10 at Lawrence last Saturday night.

The K-Aggie wrestlers won a decision in the 128-pound class and falls in the 135-, 145-, 155-, and 165-pound divisions. Kansas university matmen won the 118-pound and heavyweight classes by falls.

Kansas State lost the first match on the program when Geldermeister of Kansas threw Watson, in about 8 minutes in the 118-pound division.

Burbank retaliated for Kansas State by scoring a decision over Miller of Kansas university in the 128-pound class.

Kansas State won the next four matches by falls. Tempero downing Russell in the 135-pound division in 7 minutes. Captain Doyle threw Wendel after 8 minutes of furious wrestling to increase the Kansas State lead.

Roberts was in a hurry in his match, throwing Epp in the remarkable time of 1 minute and 55 seconds in the 155-pound division. Bozarth scored more points by pinning Shannon of Kansas in about 3 minutes. Mehringer, Kansas university heavyweight, threw Thiele in 9 minutes.

This victory over the University of Kansas puts Kansas State in a tie with Oklahoma university for first place in the conference mat race, each school having won two matches without losing any.

The Conference standings are as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Kansas State	2	0	1.000
Oklahoma	2	0	1.000
Iowa State	1	1	.500
Kansas university	0	2	.000
Missouri	0	2	.000
Nebraska	0	0	.000

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM WINS

Men's Team Loses Four Matches During Past Week—Nine-Point Margin in Women's Victory

The results of the rifle teams for the past week show that the women's team won their match while the men's team came out on the short end of the scores.

The women's rifle team won from the University of Maine by a score of 959 to 950. Last week they fired with the University of Washington and the University of Tennessee. The results of this match have not been received.

The men fired four matches. They lost to the University of Kentucky, 3,534 to 3,650. The Culver Military academy compiled 3,664 points against Kansas State's 3,534. Taking the five high scores, the University of Pittsburgh defeated Kansas State 1,367 to 1,334. The men's team also lost to the M. I. T., scoring 3,534 against 3,593.

HOME MAKERS HONORED

Ag Students Will Hold Contest and Showing Contest During Week of Farm Activities.

From Montgomery county in southeastern Kansas to Ford county in the southwestern part of the state, farm people are coming to Manhattan for the annual Farm and Home week programs, February 8 to 12. "We are expecting the largest attendance in several years," Miss Amy Kelly, home demonstration leader, said yesterday.

Miss Vernetta Fairbairn, Montgomery county home demonstration agent, has notified the extension division of the college that between 75 and 100 people will attend from her county. The Montgomery county delegations have won first place in the attendance contest for the past three years thus gaining permanent possession of the attendance cup. Attendance ratings are obtained by multiplying the number of persons attending by the distance from Manhattan to the respective county seats.

The five Master Farm Homemakers of Kansas for this year were announced Wednesday by the extension division of Kansas State. This recognition is sponsored by The Farmer's Wife, farm women's magazine, in cooperation with the extension service of the college. The women chosen are Mrs. R. Frank King, Delphos; Mrs. Robert W. Goodman, St. John; Mrs. Robert F. Lister, Ottawa; Mrs. Harry E. Reed, Smith Center; and Mrs. Charles J. Allen, Liberty.

E. E. Reed, a freshman in architecture at Kansas State, is a son of Mrs. Harry E. Reed, and C. J. Allen, a senior in civil engineering here, is a nephew of Mrs. Charles Allen.

Programs Specialized.

Each day of the week specialized programs will feature a different subject. Kansas State students will be in the foreground on Thursday, livestock day, when the Little American Royal, fitting and showing contest sponsored by Block and Bridge, honors animal husbandry organization, is held in the pavilion. Fifty students have drawn animals to show in competition for medals, cups, and other prizes. The show will include horses, cattle, hogs, and a special class of calves to be shown only by co-eds. A milking contest for women is also to be a feature.

Students in Contest.

Thirty or forty students are expected to enter animals in the fitting and showing contest for dairy breeds to be held on Wednesday, dairy day, by the Dairy club of Kansas State, according to C. G. Thompson, Randolph, president of the club.

Among noted visitors for the week will be Dean F. T. Stockton of the University of Kansas, Lawrence; Dolph Simons of the Lawrence Journal World; Sam Wilson, secretary of the Kansas State Chamber of Commerce, Topeka; Harry Sharp, secretary of the Associated Kansas Industries, Topeka; Dr. O. O. Wolf, Ottawa; George W. Catts, Kansas City, Mo., agricultural commissioner of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce; J. H. Mercer, Topeka, livestock sanitary commissioner; W. A. Cochel, editor of the Weekly Kansas City Star; Cal Ward, Salina, president of the Kansas Farmers' Union; E. G. Tharpe, Hutchinson, president of the Farmer's Commission company; Herman Praeger, Clifton; George Hedrick, Lawrence, secretary of the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce; I. J. Meade, vice president of the Lawrence National bank; and L. E. Webb, Topeka, state highway commissioner.

MILLERS MEET

The American Society of Flour Mill Engineers met in seminar yesterday afternoon in the agricultural building. Plans were made for students to attend an operative meeting of millers to be held at Hutchinson, Saturday, February 6. J. P. Woolcott, Manhattan, and R. O. Pence of the flour mill engineering department plan to attend the session.

TRACK PROSPECTS BETTER

Three Eligible Men Return for Varsity Competition.

Kansas State track prospects are bolstered this semester by the return of three eligible men for varsity track competition.

Howard Elwell, co-holder of the varsity 220-yard dash record and mentioned on the honor roll of track, will be eligible for competition. George Bell, S. G. Johnson, and Lawrence Smutz are the other men out for the team.

Bell is a weight man who competes in the shot put. Johnson will add strength to a weak department the high jump, as Milt Ehrlich is the only high jumper of much ability on the squad at the present time. Johnson took second place in the high jump in the freshman telegraphic meet last spring. Smutz is an outstanding hurdle man.

C. Roehman and A. E. Mayhew will not be eligible for varsity competition because of scholastic averages.

YOUNG DEMOS TO ORGANIZE

Students Will Meet in Community House Tuesday, February 9—
Plans for Year to be Made.

Students on the Hill and young persons of Manhattan interested in the Young People's Democratic club of Kansas will meet Tuesday night, February 9, in the community house to organize such a club here. The meeting will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Dr. C. O. LaShelle, Riley county Democratic chairman, will make a short talk and tell of the work being done by the young clubs throughout the United States.

Mrs. H. A. Doderidge of Lawrence, a member of the movie censorship board, will be present.

Officers will be elected, and a plan of work for the coming year considered.

A delegation of young persons from this city are planning on attending the annual Jeffersonian day in Topeka, February 22. This day is to the Democrats, what Kansas day is to the Republicans. Candidates for the state offices announce their intention of running on that day, and the party powwows.

All students interested in the organization of the club here are asked to be present.

Young Republicans in Riley county recently organized and named Blake Wareham president.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

Tragic things happen during registration, but one Kappa on this Hill came the nearest to a catastrophe this last Hell week. As she was paying her lab fees on the final stretch, her assigner came rushing out at her, grabbed her cards, grabbed her arm, and fairly pushed her back into the lair. For she had been assigned to a men's swimming class. And it took her two hours to unwind the red tape in getting out of it. . . . The dance Wednesday night proved to be a dance in spite of all the trouble the affair had in getting started. The official chaperon would not allow tickets to be sold until those sponsoring the dance arrived because it was thought those supposed to be in charge were only working as blinds for the true manager. And some say that person is not allowed permission to give dances in this city. The band was a good one, though, and if the music had gone to waste on an empty hall, the dancers as well as the managers, whoever they were, would not have profited. . . . There were several new women at the party getting a big rush. Interesting looking girls, they were. . . . The negro drummer attracted an equal amount of attention. . . . Class elections will be coming off again soon. The purpose of the election is yet to be found. And its getting rather late to put the picture in the year book. . . . One of the prominent English instructors knitted peacefully away during registration when she was not assigning students. . . . And it wasn't H. W. . . .

STUDENTS HERE MAY WALK OUT

Students here may walk out when they find the midyear examination questions too difficult but at Boston they give the following answers, to-wit: An optimist is an eye doctor; the death of Socrates was caused by an overdose of wedlock; and Theodore Dreiser is a probable candidate for president and the author of "Main Street."

'BERKELEY SQUARE'
CAST INCLUDES
MANY VETERANSMAJORITY OF PERSONNEL HAVE HAD PREVIOUS EXPER-IENCE IN DRAMATICS.

PLAY NEW AND DIFFERENT

Plot Brings Delightful Foolery and Romantic Tragedy Together
In Unusual Situations.

The first performance of "Berkeley Square" which is being produced by the Manhattan Theatre, will begin at 8:15 tonight in the college auditorium. The cast of the play is an exceptional one indeed. The majority of the players have had previous dramatic experience with the Manhattan Theatre plays. The cast is as follows:

Maid—Helen Louise Davis.
Tom Pettigrew—M. D. Olmstead.
Kate Pettigrew—Lucille Correll.
Mr. Throble—H. W. Davis.
Helen Pettigrew—Virginia Burch.

The Ambassador—C. M. Correll.
Mrs. Barwick—Mrs. M. S. Spencer.
Peter Standish—H. Miles Heberer.
Marjorie Prant—Mary Dexter.
Major Clinton—Donald Isaacson.
Miss Barrymore—Virginia Forrester.
Duchess of Devonshire—Mary Meyers Elliott.

Lord Stanley—E. L. Kingsley.
H.R.H. The Duke of Cumberland—Albert Wilhelm.

"Berkeley Square," by John Balderston is a play exceedingly difficult to classify—neither fantasy nor straight drama, but an artful combination of both.

Balderston undertakes to project the spirit of Peter Standish 1928 American, into 1784, when his namesake and most distinguished ancestor, also an American, first visited the ancestral home of the Standish-Pettigrew family in Berkeley, London.

Delightful foolery and romantic tragedy meet in strikingly unusual situations. The story remaining in the minds of those who have seen "Berkeley Square" is a romantic tale of lovers parted by an accident of their relation to time. For it happens that the girl Peter Standish loved died a hundred years before Peter got around to being born.

SMALL LOSS IN NUMBER
ENROLLED THIS SEMESTERRegistrar Reports 124 Less Students This Semester Than During Fall.

With the enrolment of three students Thursday, the total enrolment for the second semester was raised to 2,733, exactly the same number enrolled during the corresponding semester last year, and 124 less than the number enrolled during the fall semester of this year, according to Jessie McD. Machir, registrar.

At the conclusion of Tuesday's enrolment, the number enrolled was 50 short of last year's mark but an increase was due Wednesday to raise the total up to last year's standard.

Miss Machir remarked that a surprisingly small number of students were dropping out of school and those who do discontinue their work do it from sheer necessity. On the other hand, there has been quite a number of students enrolling this semester who have been out of school for a semester or a year, most of them needing only a few hours to complete their courses.

No figures as to the comparative enrolment of the different divisions are available yet since some time will be required to compile all the figures on comparative enrolments.

Classes started Thursday morning at 8 o'clock with no changes except in the time allowed students to pass from one class to another. The former five minute period has been extended to ten minutes, allowing the students ample time to pass between the widely scattered buildings. The old method of allowing five minutes was unsatisfactory since many students were late to classes because they were held over time or had too far to walk between classes.

Mrs. R. R. Dykstra is leaving for Miami Beach, Fla., where she will visit until the first of April.

'Fireman, Save My Pin!' is Co-ed's Cry of Anguish

By Guilford Rallsback

The Tri Deltis insist on headlines—last year it's been a robbery—and this year it's been a new house—and now a fire. Only the fire wasn't in the new house—the outside members living at 350 North Sixteenth had the fire. The extra publicity sort of compensates for not getting to live in the new house. But we're straying. . . .

Early last Wednesday morning five sleepy Tri Deltis and one sleepy Kappa, who live at the Carl Miller house at 350 North Sixteenth were rudely awakened from their slumbers by the excited cries of the milkman who was passing by on the street below. He shouted, "Hey! Your house is on fire—your house is on fire!" and one of the sleepy Tri Deltis said that she wished that guy would keep still, and was falling to sleep again when the landlady screamed up the stairway, "the house is burning up! Quick, get your valuables!"

And even then one of the very sleepy Tri Deltis replied, "Aw, we don't have any." But nevertheless action began. Ethel Stewart, Riley, was running down the stairs with a bundle of clothes before the others had climbed from their beds. Marion Riordan, Solomon, grabbed her six dollar law book and dashed for the stairs. Erma Miller, Manhattan; Harriet Briggs, Hutchinson; Roberta Strowig, Paxico, and Phyllis Maust, Garden City (the Kappa) all made a mad rush for the great out-of-doors.

And after all were saved and safe, Phyllis screamed, "My key—I left my pin! Someone get my key!" The blase Glen Harsh, noted line smasher of football days, smashed another record in getting the key. But the hero of the moment forgot to bring anything else down with him but the coveted pin.

Meanwhile the Manhattan fire department had arrived and also a goodly number of students, including several football players living in the neighborhood.

The fire department quickly extinguished the blaze which had eaten away most of the roof on one side of the house. The walls and ceilings of the upper rooms were damaged considerably but the loss was not great. And the Tri Deltis and Kappa lost nothing—except a few hours of precious sleep. It was just six o'clock—several getting-up records were set.

The girls immediately moved belongings into the house across the street and Mr. and Mrs. Miller have moved to 1408 Fairchild until their home can be repaired.

All in all it was a rather nice fire and a fair crowd attended.

ALUMNI LOAN FUND A LIFE SAVER TO STUDENTSJuniors and Seniors in Majority of Those Benefited; 100
Loans Approved.

More than $4,000 has been loaned to students who needed money in order to attend school this semester, Prof. W. E. Grimes, treasurer of the alumni loan fund committee, said yesterday. One hundred students were given loans and not more than $50.00 was loaned to each individual person, in most cases. A large per cent of the students helped were juniors and seniors, although a few underclassmen who are members of the Collegiate 4-H club and Cosmopolitan club also received loans from their own units.

All the loans made this year are to extremely needy students, according to Kenney L. Ford, secretary of the alumni loan fund committee. The tendency of the student body is not to borrow money unless it is absolutely necessary.

About $41,000 is now in the fund, and at the present time the full amount is loaned out to needy students. The alumni loan fund is made possible by alumni who pay $50.00 for a life membership in the alumni association.

SCENE TO SHIFT IN GREEK TAX CASE IN STATEHEARINGS CONCLUDED AT LAWRENCE YESTERDAY—MOVE HERE TODAY

LITIGATION DRAWN OUT

Local Witnesses May Not Be Required To Testify if Testimony Is Identical With K. U.

Witnesses from the local Greek letter organizations may not be required to testify in the pending fraternity tax case if plans work out to agree upon the facts as presented by the witnesses at a hearing which began in Lawrence February 2, according to George Clammer and R. P. Evans, lawyers for the local organized houses.

The hearing will continue at Manhattan after its completion in Lawrence sometime this morning. Two witnesses, both fraternity officials, from 42 organized houses from the University of Kansas and Baker university have been closely questioned by both the lawyers for the state and for the defense to determine whether fraternity residence purposes other than a place for study and a dormitory.

"If we can stipulate the facts as presented in the case at Lawrence, witnesses will not have to testify in Manhattan and that will save the local fraternities and sororities both time and expense," Evans stated. "However, nothing definite can be said as to whether there will be any necessity of having a hearing here or not until we have conferred with Lawrence attorneys."

Fraternity property was placed on the tax rolls of Riley, Douglas, and Shawnee counties last year. A writ of mandamus was granted by Chief Justice Johnson, requiring county officials to strike fraternity and sorority property from the tax rolls or give good reason for not doing so. An answering motion was filed by the attorneys for the state income tax association and C. E. Vance was appointed special commissioner to hear evidence and find facts on the case.

A. R. Jones of the department of economics and sociology was appointed chairman of the committee on fraternity taxation and has had the responsibility of seeing that witnesses were chosen from 11 sororities and 22 fraternities here. Questionnaires were sent out early in December to prepare witnesses to testify in the case.

If Greek organizations are placed on the tax rolls it will mean an increase in their expenses from $7 to $15 a semester.

PRES. FARRELL APPOINTED

To Governmental Land Committee
By Secretary of Agriculture,
Arthur M. Hyde.

President F. D. Farrell has been appointed to the governmental committee on "National Land Use Planning." This committee has been set up by the secretary of agriculture and other governmental officials, and the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

Its purpose is to formulate a comprehensive plan for an improved system of land utilization in the United States. Creation of the committee was recommended by the National Conference on Land Utilization held in Chicago last November.

The committee is to have 15 members of whom five are to represent the Association of Land Grant Colleges. These five are Provost A. R. Mann of Cornell university, President H. A. Morgan of the University of Tennessee, President H. L. Shantz of the University of Arizona, Dean C. B. Hutchinson of the University of California and President F. D. Farrell of Kansas State. Besides these five members there are to be five from the United States department of agriculture, three from the United States department of the interior and one each from the Federal Farm Board and the federal farm loan.

The committee has been called by Secretary Hyde to its first meeting at Washington on February 15.

President Farrell will attend the meeting in Washington and on February 16 he will attend a meeting of the Advisory Council of the National Broadcasting company in New York City.

The beauty ball will be formal for women.

HEMKER TALKS AT SEMINAR

Engineering Graduate Tells Stu-

H. F. Hemker, who is connected with the General Electric company at Kansas City, Mo., was the principal speaker at the general seminar for the local chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, which was held at 4 o'clock in the engineering building. Hemker spoke on the "Fundamentals of Vacuum Tubes and Their Application to Industry." The civil engineering department has placed special emphasis on seminar programs. The lecture room is equipped with a motion picture projector and other apparatus necessary for instructive lectures.

Prof. M. W. Furr of the civil engineering department has said that a motion picture of the Hoover dam project will be shown in the near future. This picture will be accompanied by an explanatory manuscript. Furr said that he expected to have the film here within a month.

Boxing Bouts Will Be Featured At Engineers' Alloy; Paul
C. Perry Is Named Manager.

Engineering students on the hill will throw their cares to the winds when they get together for the first time in an all-engineers mixer to be held in Nichols gymnasium, Thursday night, February 11 from 7:30 to 10:30 o'clock. The plans for the "Engineers' Alloy" were drawn up by Steel Ring and Sigma Tau, two of the largest engineering organizations on the campus.

The affair will be stag, and will include boxing bouts, and perhaps a free for all between the architects and whomever they choose to challenge.

The get-together is being sponsored to promote a spirit of cooperation and good fellowship among the men enrolled in the division and will go down in the history of the institution as a tradition providing the engineers turn out in full force. Similar affairs have been held at other large engineering colleges and universities in this section of the country and have proved to be outstanding events on the year's calendar.

Paul C. Perry, Little River, is manager of "Engineers' Alloy," and has appointed the following committees: entertainment, H. M. H. Davison, Manhattan, chairman; R. B. Smith, Manhattan, and L. L. Smelser, Manhattan; refreshments, R. S. Dela Mater, Wichita, chairman; W. F. Keller, Great Bend, and C. N. Purcell, El Dorado; publicity, J. P. Wolcott, Manhattan, chairman; O. S. Ekdahl, Manhattan, and R. K. Hoefener, Leavenworth.

House.

Thieves entered the Phi Lambda Theta fraternity house at 1623 Fairchild between 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning and stole seven watches and several billfolds with money amounting to $21.

The watches and billfolds were stolen after pledges, engaged in Hell week activities, had retired at about 3:30. The intruder or intruders then entered the house and took only the most valuable objects.

The seven watches taken belonged to Virgil Lundberg, Falun; Russell Stewart, Lowmont; Roy Armstrong, Leocompton, William Sells, Effingham; Edward Stoklasa, Clarkson, Nebr.; Walter Wakeln, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Harold Harper, Topeka.

In addition to their watches, Sells and Harper lost billfolds and money. R. E. James Wetmore, lost about $5 and his billfold.

This robbery of the Phi Lambda Theta fraternity is the third that has occurred in the last six months. The Delta Tau Delta house was entered and several articles taken during the past football season. The Beta Theta Pi fraternity suffered a similar occurrence some time later. Just recently thieves attempted to enter the Farm House fraternity but were unsuccessful.

No clues whatever have been found as to who entered the Phi Lambda Theta house early yesterday morning.

THE ART OF PROCRASTINATING.

Now that the first semester is over with, it is supposed that you were wise enough to see where you made a few mistakes, and with that supposition there comes the hope that you're also wise enough to profit by your own mistakes.

You've perhaps even accused yourself of wasting a lot of valuable time—time which could be spent doing something infinitely more valuable to yourself.

It may even be an art with you . . . it is with too many college students, and the trouble with procrastination as an art is that it soon becomes a habit. Rudyard Kipling said lots, and perhaps had a college youth in mind when he wrote:

" . . . If you can dream

And not let dreams be your master,

You'll be a better man, my boy.

And in closing this, the writer only wishes that he can muster the power to practice what he preaches.

THOSE CLASS ELECTIONS.

Class elections seem to be like the poor—we seem to have them with us always . . . and once again those class elections are drawing perilously near. The destinies of thirty-odd college students remain to be made or ruined by the vacillating fancy of a somewhat fickle student body.

After all, what do class elections really amount to? Just a gesture to bestow an honor upon a few glory-grabbing college babbits is all elections have amounted to in the past.

Last fall both the Vox Pop and Theodorice parties raised a great hullabaloo about platforms, policies, and "fair representation," and then forgot all about them within a few days.

No one heard of any class meetings wherein momentous issues were discussed.

Judging from the amount of class spirit which has been shown during the past few years, it is the opinion of the Collegian that class elections are superfluous to the nth degree. Class spirit is a minus quantity now.

If Kansas State must contend with the nuisance of elections, the high moguls should get together and reapportion the voting strength of the student body to make elections as interesting as possible. The results of the last few elections have been far from interesting. (No, the writer doesn't belong to the Theodorice party.)

One remedy not tried yet is to inject some class spirit into the student body, and then there would be a reason for having elections. But until then, may the honored wear their mantles as conspicuously as their pride permits.

COLLEGE PUBLICATIONS.

Inasmuch as recent surveys of the intercollegiate press situation have shown not only that a major part of that press is censored, but that it likewise seldom shows concerted action, associations such as the National College Press association are of particular importance at the present time. Through such associations, pressure can gradually be brought to bear upon the various administrations which are censoring college newspapers with the ultimate result that the college press in the United States will be able to drive straight into existing evils in the world of education without fear of cramping at the hands of a narrow censorship. Also, with such censorship gradually beginning to disappear, concerted drives by several college papers may be made to effect changes in existing features of the educational system, or to create new situations or systems.

The Columbia Spectator, because it has been treated with fairness and a true "hands-off" policy by the university administration has been able to criticize most violently where it has believed that such criticism has been warranted—and it will continue to do so. In the recent much-publicized football controversy which was opened by Spectator, changes in existing football conditions were brought about at Columbia whereas nothing could have been accomplished under a censored system. The value of concerted action was also illustrated during the same period when the New York University Daily News, after consulting with Spectator, launched a subsidiary campaign at that institution which brought about radical changes in football administration there.

The opinion is that the greatest value of associations to bind together college newspapers is to present a strong front against censorship and against every feature of the educational system which may seem in error to a majority of the newspapers in such an association. Every college newspaper which does not belong to an active association in this field should bend every effort toward securing such membership at the earliest opportunity.

Zachary Smith Reynolds, son of the late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco manufacturer, was sued for divorce by his wife on account of cruelty. She won her decree. Evidently he doesn't manufacture those "keep kissable" cigarettes.

The Snoopers

The present war in the Orient happened along at a most inconvenient time. No college student can undertake a new semester with sufficient eagerness to warrant his worrying over the prospect of becoming a soldier. However, one of the major but unsung features of college life may prove valuable—the development of the ability to get out of work. When the draft comes many will appear with expressions of divine innocence and a pair of flat feet. Some of the smarter ones will devise better methods to escape shouldering a gun.

Additional thought makes the problem of the United States' entrance into the squabble much more complicated. How can one distinguish between a Jap and a Chinaman, anyway? Whose side are we going to be on, or does it make any difference?

And another thing, fond parents would immediately assume their sons were on what is known as a hell of a big bender when the recruits wrote home that they were camped near Woonung, at the junction of the Whangpoo and the Sochow rivers. No doubt the boys would receive lightning replies amounting to "tsk, tsk. You come right home. And do you know what that Chinese liquor is made of?"

President Farrell has recently been appointed a member of a national committee to plan a system of land utilization. We put in our two cents to suggest that a centrally located parking plot on the campus would take up a little space.

It seems like there is always a hair in the butter somewhere. Now that we have ten minute intervals between classes what are the college folk going to say when they are late to class? It will not only be interesting to listen to some of the excuses presented, but necessary.

Big-eyed surprise nearly overcame us when we recently bit eagerly into a proffered chocolate to discover a teaspoonful of whiskey on the inside. We had no idea of the significance of the sign in the box lid regarding careful manipulation because of the candy's liquid filling. Mrs. Stover, how could you!

After earnest and persuasive advice on the part of a professor a Sigma Tau member enrolled in the suggested course. He went to the first meeting of the class yesterday to be told that the price of the text was $12, and the professor had one for sale.

Book Review

"A WHITE BIRD FLYING"
(By Bess Streeter Aldrich)

In the novel "A White Bird Flying," is found ever present the dominating factor of realism. The author has undoubtedly composed one of the most realistic literary works ever written in the form of a novel. The main character, although a rather extraordinary girl, is made very true to life through her actions, and her expression of thoughts, which in themselves are realistic enough for a person probably more of her temperament. As a sort of sequel to "A Lantern in Her Hand," it is only proper to have the same setting, only a little more modern atmosphere, and with a plot similar to the first book. So it happened that the plot was centered around another generation of the old pioneer family found in "A Lantern in Her Hand." It is the grand-daughter in this story that has inherited traits and a liking for much the same sort of interests that give the story a personal touch from the first few paragraphs.

The heroine is the one who is the greatest concerned with the events of the story, and during the succession of events which come to her, it can be plainly seen that the story was written to portray one incident in which disappointment was the obstacle always at the outcome of every home of success. In the end, however, while we find the heroine with no regrets, there is the element of dissatisfaction present.

Fate plays a prominent part in making this story what it is. The reader's interest is held largely on the hope that fate will not always turn against the heroine as it did her grandmother.

Characters that appear in the story are certainly very admirable. The lives of each have been led so that the strongest possible character has been developed. The old grandmother in the first book by Miss Aldrich is again produced in her granddaughter. This carries out the theory of heredity. Each character is molded by his action until a vivid picture is unconsciously formed by the reader.

Historical settings, and the advancement of times plays a large part in creating the desirable local color in the book. However, "A Lantern in Her Hand" should be read first so that the story can be completely understood as to plot and action. The heroine's whole future was based on a poem written by her grandmother. This poem also gives the book its title.

Miss Aldrich has put all possible into the novel in order to bring it closer to all types and classes of people. Her greatest aim was to give a peep into the working of a mind which might have been that of a genius, had it not always been hampered by some other influence such as other person's opinion and a duty which could not be shirked.

Unquestionably the author has some deeper knowledge of her subject than have some who try to write along the same line. Perhaps she has had a relative or some close friend who has given her the positive attitude in her writing. Surely it is possible for this story and in all probability there was a similar occurrence with which the author was familiar. As an author Bess Streeter Aldrich has few equals.

Hail! The Co-ed's Ideal Man Located at Last

The perfect man has been found! Some time ago co-eds at the University of California got together and set a standard for the perfect man. And now a student at Texas measures up to the standard 100 A. and M. modestly admits that he per cent. He volunteered the information himself—and the Berkeley co-eds are thrilled and thrilled and thrilled.

Here are the standards, if you're interested, (you might try rating yourselves, fellows): intelligence, 20 points; cultural background, 15 points; personal appearance, 15 points; personality, 10 points; courtesy, 10 points; sense of humor, 10 points; physical fitness, 5 points; clear understanding of the word "no," 5 points; social poise, 5 points, and dancing ability, 5 points.

The girls stated that they would be willing to pay all date expenses with such a man—if any. Quite recently a letter was received at Berkeley from the perfect man—it read "I am not conceived. I have been told I am a very good dancer because I seem to be musically inclined."

"I haven't a mustache, don't wear spats and do not smoke. I am on the varsity swimming team. My hair is dark brown and waves as if it had a permanent (what a man!). My eyes are a pretty brown as I have been told." (Oh, girls!)

The student, Edward N. Jones, is a sophomore and he lives at San Antonio. His original letter was written under a nom-de-plume and his name was not divulged until the "thrilled" Berkeley co-eds wired co-eds at the Texas school.

The problem just now seems to be that it's difficult to date a man who is 1,500 miles away. And girls—he didn't say a word about his clear understanding of the word "no."

A new Y. W. C. A. interest group will meet in Calvin rest room Thursday under the leadership of Edna Socolofsky, Tampa. The study of the group will deal with "Money and Personality."

The Y. W. C. A. dramatics group, of which Corabelle Tolin, Manhattan, is chairman, will hold its regular meeting in Calvin 27 Monday at 7:15.

Roaring, Whistling Horse Can Be Made To Shut Up—Dykstra

Odd requests come to the veterinary medicine division, but the latest is an inquiry about a horse that roars and whistles.

A man from Wichita wrote to Dean R. R. Dykstra, head of the veterinary medicine division, to inquire if a horse he owned could be cured of roaring and whistling when it ran fast. A simple operation on the vocal cords is the answer and the man was assured his horse could be fixed pronto if brought to the veterinary hospital here.

Engineering skill.. on trial at the old courthouse

While the ashes were still smoldering, Western Electric men were already in action.

That afternoon fire had raged, wiping out much of the business section, reducing the telephone building to smoking ruins. That night, Western Electric men were at work converting an old courthouse into a telephone exchange. The next day both local and long distance communication was restored in the stricken town...

Men and materials were rushed to the spot from miles around.

Western Electric accepts many such challenges as this. Challenges that put to the test the engineering skill of its Installation Department, that call into play the resources and facilities of its nationwide system of distribution. Backing up a far-flung line of communication is only one phase of Western Electric's responsibility to the Bell System. Equally important is the purchasing of supplies and materials and the manufacture of telephones and telephone equipment.

Barbara Brubaker Shows Versatility

By Coming To Aid of "Property Man"

One of the most important pieces of property for "Berkeley Square" is a portrait of the Peter Standish of eighteenth century fame. Since the marked resemblance between the portrait and the modern Peter Standish, the hero of the play is such an important item in the development of the plot, the portrait must look like the man playing the part of the modern Peter.

Therefore, when plans for producing "Berkeley Square" were being made, the problem arose of getting a portrait of H. Miles Heberer, who is playing the lead. Prof. J. E. Helm volunteered the information that one of his students showed marked ability along the line of portrait painting. Accordingly, Barbara Brubaker was asked to paint a portrait of "Heb." dressed in eighteenth century clothes. To make her task more difficult, the portrait had to be rendered in the style of Sir Joshua Reynolds. Previous to the training Miss Brubaker has received in college, she has had no special art instruction. However, while she was attending Manhattan high school she did all the art work for the school annual.

Her ability is not confined to art. The following list of the organizations in which she has an active part testifies to her versatility: Student Governing Council, Y. W. Commission, Phi Kappa Phi, Mortar Board, Prix, Phi Alpha Mu, Tau Epsilon Kappa, and women's rifle team. She is also a member of Alpha Xi Delta, social sorority.

"Some of the finest work in the collection is that of Louis Lozowick, New York." Professor Helm said. "He has put all the nervous activity of a modern American city into his lithograph 'Minneapolis.'" William J. Brown, Pasadena, Calif., secretary of the California society of Print Makers. Bertha Jacques, Chicago, Ill., secretary of the Chicago Society of Etchers. Levon West, New York, C. A. ## ROYAL PURPLE COMMENDED

All-American Honor Rating Given 1931 Royal Purple by National Group.

In a certificate of award received February 3 at the Royal Purple office, the 1931 Royal Purple was given an All-American Honor rating by the National Scholastic Press association, according to Chapman, editor of the Royal Purple for this year.

This certificate places the highest honor on college yearbooks awarded by any association. The yearbook for 1931 was edited by Les Platt, Manhattan, with Jim Bonfield, Elmo, as business manager. Chick Adison and "Red" Coleman received the same award for the Royal Purple in 1930.

Of all honors awarded to yearbooks, this award by the National Scholastic Press association is the superior rating but other ratings also include the first class rating which is excellent, second class which is good, third class, which is a high average and fourth class, which carries no honors.

MISS WEBER TO WICHITA.

Miss Currie Mae Weber, art instructor, will go to Wichita Saturday to attend a state art teacher's convention at the Broadview hotel. She will give a short talk on the "State Convention of Art."

Viola Barron, Kensington, has been appointed first chairman of replace Laura Ward, St. Joseph, Mo., who has resigned her position as chairman. The group will meet in L58 Monday, February 8 at 5 o'clock.

Star Gazing Faculty Men Build Expensive Telescope

There is something new under the sun, or perhaps it would be better to say under the moon; at least, there will be something new under the moon when E. C. Graham and W. T. Stratton, members of the college faculty, complete a telescope which they are building.

At an actual cost of $25 the two men are constructing a telescope which would cost approximately $500 if it were purchased from a scientific instrument company. The materials included are a tripod, or base, upon which the tube is mounted, the lens, and eyepiece.

The pedestal is constructed of gas pipes, fitted together into an upright with a swinging arm, on one side of which the tube will be mounted, while on the other side will be placed a counterweight. This construction allows the tube to be swung in an arc.

According to Graham, the most technical part of the telescope construction is the grinding of the lens, which must be done entirely by hand. The lens must be ground until it is concave, in order to gather the light rays and return them to a single point, the eye piece.

This is accomplished by grinding the mirror against another piece of glass on which emery or corborundum has been placed. When the mirror has been ground it must then be polished.

The lens is polished by rubbing the surface with iron oxide, which removes the abrasion left by the emery dust, and makes the entire surface clear and bright.

When Graham and Professor Stratton assemble their telescope, the tube, which is six feet long and eight inches in diameter, will be mounted on the tripod, and the lens will be placed in the end of the tube which points toward the ground. The eyepiece, which is in reality a prism, will be near the top and on one side of the tube. Eight rays from a distant star will enter through the top of the tube and strike against the lens, where they will be directed back to the eye piece.

According to Graham, amateur telescope construction is increasing, and demonstrations were given in the method of grinding lenses at the Washington State Fair last year.

K-AGGIE CAGERS TO LINCOLN FOR HUSKER BATTLE

REGISTRATION FORCES CORSAUTMEN TO WORK OUT IN GIRLS GYMNASIUM.

DOPE FAVORS KANSAS STATE

Basketballers Expected to Continue Their March For High Place In Final Big Six Standings.

After working out in the girls' gymnasium all week because of registration, Coach Charlie Corsaut put his men through their final workout on the big court last night before they leave for Lincoln to meet the Cornhuskers Saturday night.

In meeting the Cornhuskers, the Corsautmen begin the second half of the double round robin schedule which is played in the Big Six. Kansas State got off to a bad start at the opening of the season when they lost to Missouri and Kansas in both away from home games.

After losing to Kansas the Wildcats took the next three games, the last one being from Iowa State here last Saturday. All of the victorious games were played on the local court.

The Wildcat basketballers will leave at noon today for Lincoln by car. The men making the trip are Graham, Breen, Skradski, Boyd, Auker, Wiggins, Fairbank, Dalton, Silverwood and Brockway.

The hardest task of the week for Corsaut has been to keep his men in tip top physical condition. The practice in the girls' gymnasium this week has been mostly for that purpose as it is too small for good practice.

Boyd May Not Play?
Bus Boyd, who has been the hot shot guard this season and who saved the Wildcats in the Iowa State game, has been suffering from a severe cold. In case Boyd is not in shape, Fairbank will work as guard with Auker. The other members of the Wildcat squad are all in good condition with the exception of Brockway, who continues to have trouble with his feet.

Dope Favors Kansas State.
The dope for the contest points to a Kansas State victory as the Wildcats have risen to a position just behind the conference leaders. Nebraska has not yet hit a winning stride, losing to Iowa State by one point early in the week.

At present Kansas State is in third place in the conference race and stands a good chance of getting a top notch position.

The standings in the Big Six are:
Oklahoma ..... 3 1 .750
Missouri ..... 3 1 .750
Kansas State ..... 3 2 .600
Iowa State ..... 3 3 .500
Kansas U. .... 2 3 .400
Nebraska ..... 1 5 .166

Pete's Punches

By Mildred Peters
This week's conference basketball schedule calls for three games. Kansas university will battle the Iowa State Cyclones tonight at Ames; Kansas State will meet Nebraska at Lincoln, and Oklahoma will meet the Missouri Tigers at Columbia on Saturday night.

Provided they are still in top notch condition, the Kansas State Wildcats should have little trouble turning back the Huskers, who have lost five conference games while winning only one.

Of course, Nebraska will be on its toes to avenge the stinging 32 to 20 defeat handed them by the Wildcats here early in the season. That the Huskers are improving is seen in the fact that the Cyclones were only able to eke out a 1-point victory over the Huskers the other night while the Wildcats were hard pressed to beat Iowa State here Saturday.

The Oklahoma "quick break" and the Missouri "super-stall" will be much in evidence tomorrow night when the two conference leaders meet each other at Columbia. With the Tigers working their "super-stall," the Sooners might find themselves with "Time on My Hands" in the Brewer Field house.

Missouri will have a job on their hands stopping the Sooner offense and quick break. Hugh McDermott's Oklahomaans have had one of the strongest offenses in the school in the Big Six. In 1928 they set a record when they averaged 36 points per game over an 18-game schedule. During the current season they have averaged about 32 points per game in the first half of the round robin schedule.

Iowa State climbed up into sole possession of fourth place in the court race by downing Nebraska. They will have to turn back a highly revamped Jayhawk quintet tonight to stay in that position.

A star grid halfback who has been working out on the basketball floor only to keep in shape has been given a regular berth on the Jayhawk quintet. Elmer Schaake is the young man who has been holding a guard position in the place of Casini, who is not in school this semester.

Schaake was a sensation on the court at Lawrence during his high school sport career, and gives promise of repeating for the Jayhawks.

Coach B. R. Patterson's wrestlers will have one of their toughest assignments this week when they tackle the Oklahoma grapplers tonight. According to reports, this year's southern squad is one of the best turned out. And they have all been good.

Coach Paul Keen, Sooner mat mentor, had only this to say after watching the Oklahoma Aggies wrestle through a double header the other night. "And how they went!"

MATMEN TO OKLAHOMA

Patterson Takes His Troupe Out To Meet Intercollegiate Champions.

B. R. Patterson, varsity wrestling coach, left yesterday with his troupe of Kansas State grapplers on a four day barnstorming trip into Oklahoma where they will meet the strong Oklahoma A. and M. Redskins at Stillwater tonight and the Northeastern State Teachers college at Tahlequah Saturday night.

The Oklahoma Aggies will be difficult opponents for the Kansas State wrestlers to defeat. The Redskins have been undefeated in the past 12 years and have held the national collegiate wrestling championship since the national tournament was begun. They have been beaten only twice in wrestling in the history of the institution.

The K-Aggies will be out to avenge their defeat at the hands of the national champions last year. Neither the match with the Oklahoma Aggies nor the one with the Northeastern Teachers will affect the conference standings.

Two newcomers will appear on the Kansas State lineup for these two matches. One of them is M. B. Patterson, who defeated F. L. "Whitey" Tempero in the trials for the right to wrestle on the team in the 135-pound class. Coach Patterson has also added the 175-pound weight to his squad for this southern invasion. Miller will compete in this class. The other wrestlers making the trip have all represented Kansas State on the mat this season.

The matmen making this trip are C. G. Watson, 118-pounder; Wayne Burbank, 126-pounder; M. B. Patterson, in the 135-pound class; Captain Billy Doyle, 145-pound division; June Roberts, 155-pounder; F. M. Bozarth, 165-pound class; J. W. Miller, 175-pound class; J. W. Miller, 175-pound class; and A. R. Thiele, heavyweight.

DELTA SIGMA PHI HIGH IN INTRAMURALS

Leading Scorers Amass 513 Points. Phi Kappa Tau Second With 437.

Delta Sigma Phi has amassed the greatest number of points for the first four events of intramural competition. The fraternity leads with a total of 513; Phi Kappa Tau ranks second with 437; Kappa Sigma third with 375; Sigma Phi Epsilon fourth with 357; and the Aggie Knights fifth with 337 points.

Independents carried off the two horseshoe championships. J. W. Mather, Grinnell, won the singles; Mather and Leo Brown, Fall River, won the doubles championship.

The three-mile cross country run was won by L. H. Brown. Two teams tied for the soccer championship, Delta Sigma Phi and Phi Kappa Tau. As this tie was never played off, both teams were given a trophy signifying the championship.

The intramural basketball championship was carried off by the White Shirts, an independent or Beta Theta Pi quintet, Greek championship, which defeated a strong picnic, for the title.

BREESE WINS MATCH
"Bus" Breese, Leonardville, scrappy Kansas State boxer, won a decision over Hutchinson, welterweight champion at Fort Riley, in a 3-round bout at the Fort last Wednesday.

Hutchinson outwheeled Breese by about 12 pounds but lost every round to Breese.

K. U. TEAM STRENGTHENED
The Kansas university track team has been somewhat strengthened by the return of Melvin Thornhill, record holder in the discus throw in Big Six competition.

Raymond Flick, hurdler and Fullerton and Levine, distance runners, have also returned to school this semester.

Five dollars reward for return of Gruen watch left in Gillett hotel washroom. No questions asked. Call Chronicle office.

Soldiers and Students Make College History at Canteen

Supplementary with tradition in the growth of Kansas State is the establishment of the College Canteen. For fourteen years the Canteen has stood as a landmark in the institution, providing in many ways its evolutionary significance in its own growth as well as that of the college. How Kansas State has grown in its dictatorial sense is also characterized in the way in which the Canteen has extended its range of appeal.

During the war wooden buildings were erected on the northwestern section of the campus near the present engineering building. Som of the frame structures are still in existence. They were used primarily for housing enlisted soldiers and were patronized also by the Student Training corps.

In one of these buildings was established the Canteen. Here soldiers obtained supplies—cigarettes, gum, candy, confections, drinks, and food. The room in which the Canteen made its home was small and furnished almost entirely with wartime posters, guns, and army blankets. The name—Canteen—signified the small jug or receptacle which the soldiers used for carrying liquid sustenance.

After the war was over the government buildings were purchased by the college, according to J. T. Willard, vice-president of the college. In the fall of 1919 the Canteen was transferred from the wooden building which it occupied to the basement of Anderson hall.

NEW OFFICERS NAMED FOR CIVIL ENGINEERS

Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Singing Contest Will Be Held There February 26.

The men's glee club plans to participate in the annual Missouri valley intercollegiate singing contest at the University of Missouri, Columbia, February 26. Other schools contesting will be the universities of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Washington, and Oklahoma A. and M. and Iowa State colleges.

The national contest will be in Here the Canteen occupied the north side of the hall and became regularly attended by students awaiting a next class or students passing between classes or even by professors feeling the need for a refreshing cup of coffee. Attractively furnished with a long row of counter-stools, four booths, and four square tables, students acquired the habit of dropping around the Canteen to meet their friends. Large groups of thirsty and hungry imbibers were constantly seen.

Business flourished for the Canteen in the basement of Anderson hall for nearly five years. A ready stream of students were greeted in those days at the Canteen by M. S. Spangler, who graduated from the college in 1921.

Protests were bound to come, however, and were made in the form of objections from business interests in Manhattan. And these objections were raised because the Canteen paid no direct rental fee, but only a percentage fee. The Board of Regents were forced into action and Spangler was forced to give up his Canteen.

The enterprise could not be halted on this account and the building was erected on Anderson avenue where the present Canteen has been situated.

Last fall a disastrous fire destroyed the interior of the building and the Canteen has not been re-established. With the passing of the Canteen has gone a bit of Kansas State tradition.

HAMP'S, IO'S ENTERTAIN.
The Hamilton and Ionian literary societies held a leap-year party in recreation center Tuesday evening, February 2. Special entertainment consisted of a toe dance by Lois Rosenkrans, Manhattan, and a short specialty act. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing.

RATHBUN WINS FIRST
H. E. Rathbun, Manhattan, won first place in a class competition with a design of a family mausoleum. The design was a problem in Prof. L. Burr Smith's class in elements of design. The drawings were graded on originality, general appearance and perfection in detail. The drawings are now on exhibition in the gallery on the third floor of the engineering building.

TIGERS AND SOONERS TO BATTLE FOR LEADERSHIP

One of Top Notchers Due to Take A Fall When Co-Leaders Meet.

One of the top notchers in the Big Six conference basketball race is due for a tumble Saturday night when Missouri and Oklahoma meet to decide the leadership. Each team has won three games and lost one.

Two of the most divergent styles of basketball ever introduced into the middle west will be tested when the Missouri "super-stall" meets the Oklahoma quick break system which has been so successful for Coach Hugh McDermott. McDermott praises the Missouri style of play despite the fact that it is not very interesting from the viewpoint of the spectator. The "super-stall" beat Oklahoma four times in the last two years, which, according to the Oklahoma mentor, is the real test of any system. McDermott's system has placed Oklahoma on the basketball map. They won the championship in 1928 and 1929 averaging approximately 40 points a game despite one loss.

The Iowa State Cyclones and the Kansas Jayhawkers meet at Ames, in a game which will decide the sole occupant of fourth position in the race. Earlier in the season the Menzemen defeated the Kansas quintet in a game at Lawrence. Comparative scores of the two aggregations against Kansas State gives the Jayhawkers a slight advantage, since they hold a 1-point victory over the Corsautmen while the Cyclones went down before the Wildcats last week end 15 to 19.

The Blue Ribbon Cafe, recently established in Aggieville by E. J. Branham, 31, has been remodeled to speed up its service. The site was formerly occupied by the Pines cafe, and is in the same building with the Aggieville postoffice substation.

PITT TEAM HERE FRIDAY TO ARGUE ON CAPITALISM

KANSAS STATE DEBATORS TO DEFEND PRESENT ORGANIZ-ATION OF INDUSTRY.

TO BE RADIOCAST OVER KSAC

Pittsburgh University Team Now
On Extended Tour Through West—Come Here From Colorado.

The University of Pittsburgh debaters will debate the Kansas State team Friday, February 12, on the subject "Resolved: That Congress should enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry." The Pitt team will argue the negative side of the question. The Kansas State team, upholding the affirmative side, will be composed of Waldo Wilmore, Halstead, OS2, and G. R. Ewing, Topeka, EE2. Station KSAC will broadcast the debate at 1:30 p. m. Friday.

The present trip of the debating Panthers is the longest ever made by a University of Pittsburgh team, either athletic or non-athletic. The debaters, Samuel Strauss and Cyril Jacobs, with their coach, Professor W. M. Parrish, left Pittsburgh

January 22 and will return home February 14. During the trip of over 6,000 miles, the debaters will have met the teams of twenty-one different schools in fifteen states.

The Pitt team will arrive in Kansas from Colorado where they met Colorado University and the University of Denver both on the same day, February 11. Last year Strauss and Jacobs, the Panther debaters, debated twenty-eight times against college teams and on only one occasion did they fail to receive the decision when an audience vote was taken. This year, in addition to the centralized control proposition, they used the question: "Resolved: That capitalism as an economic system is unsound in principle;" and "Resolved: That wage cuts during this depression have prevented recovery. So far on the present western trip they have been eminently successful.

Strauss is a senior in the college, majoring in economics, and he has been active in debating during the past three years. He has engaged in a total of twenty-nine intercollegiate and thirteen extension debates.

Cyril Jacobs, is a senior in the School of Business Administration and is an accounting major. He has also taken an active part in college forensics, having participated in twenty-eight intercollegiate and fourteen extension debates.

After the meeting with Kansas State, one more debate will remain on the schedule before the Panthers wind up their tour. The debate will take place at St. Louis, February 13, and will be with George Washington University. The Pitt team will finish their trip Sunday, February 14, at the Union Station in Pittsburgh.

TO HOLD OPEN MEETING

Cosmopolitan Club Members Invite Others To Attend Series.

The second of a series of open meetings will be held by the Cosmopolitan club in the Browning-Athenian hall Thursday, February 18, at 7:30 o'clock. All students interested in the organization are invited to attend the meeting.

The Cosmopolitan club is a national organization for the purpose of promoting understanding among foreign and American students. In the Manhattan chapter of the club the following nations are represented: Cuba, South America, India, China, Korea, Japan, Egypt, Mexico, Spain, Panama, England, and the Philippine Islands.

At the last meeting on Thursday, February 4, pictures of different countries were shown by means of a reflectoscope and explained by persons from those countries or by Americans who have been directly associated with them.

VISITORS WILL FIND VARIETY IN FARM, HOME WEEK

PROGRAM INCLUDES ATTRACTIONS FOR ALL PHASES OF FARM LIFE.

HONOR STUDENTS NAMED

County Attendance Contest Creating Interest—Montgomery County Now Leading By Big Majority.

With Montgomery county leading the enrollment about two to one, men and women gathered in Anderson hall last night from all over Kansas for the first session of the Farm and Home week program which is being held this week. Miss Amy Kelly, state home demonstration agent, leader was the chairman of the program held last evening in Anderson hall for the Farm and Home week visitors. Exhibits from the Landscape Architectural department drew all the attention before the meeting was called to 7:30 o'clock by Miss Kelly. After the meeting a reception for the visitors was held.

The five women who were officially announced as the Master Homemakers of the state are Mrs. Charles J. Allen, Liberty; Mrs. Robert W. Goodman, St. John; Mrs. Robert F. Lister, Ottawa; Mrs. R. Frank King, Delphos; and Mrs. Harry E. Reed, Smith Center.

Of special interest to college students will be the program scheduled for Friday night during which the outstanding student from each division of the college will be presented to the assembly. Names of the students to be honored have not yet been announced.

Miss Orrine Johnson, field editor for a woman's magazine, made the awards. The magazine cooperates with the Kansas State College each year in choosing and recognizing the homemakers.

Monday noon the women were guests of honor at a luncheon in the college cafeteria.

Speakers today include F. R. Reddit, extension poultryman of the University of Nebraska; N. A. Ormsby, Farmers' cooperative creamery, Kansas City, Mo.; Dr. W. E. Grimes, M. A. Seaton, G. T. Klein, and Morris Evans of the college faculty. The women meet this morning with the men but this afternoon they have separate sessions, the speakers this afternoon for the women being Mrs. E. H. Dowd of Bayneville, Mrs. Ralph Coleman of Lawrence, and Dean H. Umberger of the extension division of the college.

Early last week the extension division was notified that between 75 and 100 people would attend the demonstration from Montgomery county. At dinner time last evening 72 people had already enrolled and more were still coming.

Trophies are awarded to the winners on the basis of points for the attendance ratings. The ratings are calculated by the number of people from the county multiplied by the number of miles the county seat is from Manhattan.

Some thirty or forty students are entering animals in the fitting and showing contest for dairy breeds which will be held Wednesday, it was announced by C. G. Thompson, Randolph, president of the club. These animals were picked at random for the students to show and they have to break the animals to lead as well as clean and scour their hides for showing.

RESERVES WILL START AGAINST ST. LOUIS TEAM

CORSAUT TO GIVE BENCH WARMERS CHANCE TO DO THEIR STUFF.

FIRST STRING GETS A REST

Billikens Have Veteran Team With McCarthy as Their Hot-Shot—Have One Victory Over K-Aggies.

Basketball fans will see an entirely different lineup in action to-night when the Kansas State quintet meets St. Louis university on the court in Nichols gymnasium.

In order to give the five who have been doing the largest share of the playing so far a rest, Coach C. W. Corsaut will start a team composed of reserves. Graham, Breen, Skradski, Auker and Boyd are the quintet who are slated for the bench. When the Wildcats battle Kansas university here Friday night, they will have to be in tip-top condition, one reason the regulars are being given this rest.

Dalton To Start.
The changed lineup will probably find Dalton at center, Silverwood and Brockway at the two forward positions, and Wiggins and Fairbank at guards. Dalton is a tall center who will work in near the basket, to make tip-ins. Silverwood and Brockway are short, fast forwards who at times are sharpshooting basketballers. Wiggins and Fairbank will place two tall veterans in the important guard positions.

In addition to giving the regulars a rest, Corsaut will also find out what his reserves are capable of doing when starting the game.

McCarthy Dangerous.
St. Louis has a veteran team led by its two forwards, McCarthy and Kennedy. McCarthy must especially watched as he made 18 points against the K-Aggies in St. Louis in a pre-season game. The Billikens are noted for their superior blocking offense.

Although the game is a non-conference affair, the Wildcats will be out to avenge the early season defeat handed them by the Billikens in St. Louis.

The Girl Reserve Training course will be offered here February 12, 13, and 14, in L58, with Miss Florence Stone, executive secretary of the Kansas Girl Reserves, as the leader. A certificate will be given to girls who take the course and attend all the meetings.

This course which is sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. in cooperation with the department of education is helpful to the senior girls who plan to teach in high schools next year. A registration fee of $1.25 is charged and the registrations may be sent to the Y. W. C. A. office.

The course is divided into four periods, the first to be held from 4 to 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. "Analysis of a Small Town" and "The Advisor's Relationship" will be discussed at this time. The second period will be from 1 to 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The following problems to be studied in this meeting are "The Psychology of the Adolescent Girl," "The Young Women's Christian Association—What Is It?" "The Kansas District Y. W. C. A. Organization of a Girl Reserve Club," and "The Philosophy of the Girl Reserve Movement."

From 7:15 to 9:15 o'clock Saturday evening the girls will study program planning which includes the work of the program service, social, membership, finance, publicity, and music committees. The last meeting will be held Sunday morning from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock at which time "Resources," "The Qualifications of an Advisor," and "Recognition Services by High School Clubs" will be considered.

About 30 girls have already enrolled in the course.

PRACTICE FIELD COMPLETE

According to G. R. Pauling, superintendent of maintenance, work on the second of the athletic practice fields being constructed east of the stadium is being finished and the third field will probably be begun this week.

Feminine Touch Enters Cattle Beauty Contest

"I am sorry but I'll have to break my date for this afternoon," a feminine voice said over the telephone early Saturday afternoon. "I've got another date. It's with Archibald."

The voice was that of Jessie Dean, Ottawa, Ill., and the date, a junior yearling Angus calf. The reason was taming the date. Miss Dean is one of the four girls who are taking part in the fitting and showing contest during Farm and Home week and she has drawn a calf who has been his own boss up to this time.

The calf must be trained to act as a show ring calf should act; he must wear his best dress, hold his pose, walk correctly, and in every manner possible impress the judge that a remarkable change has taken place since he was in the "great unwashed stage" in the calf lots at the college.

In spite of the fact that two ages were called upon to help subdue the headstrong youngster as late as

Saturday afternoon, Miss Dean reports he is rapidly becoming domesticated and he is no longer the little wild creature of a few days ago.

It is remarkable what changes can be made in the appearance through the acquiring of a little polish and training. Fitting and showing is an art in itself. It is no small task to scrub, polish, and teach an animal parlor manners in a short time. The task becomes even more difficult with a little rowdy like Archibald, who has never known the meaning of discipline before. Never the less Miss Dean expects her calf to put on his best manners, and keep his hair slicked down when he enters the ring at the fitting and showing contest to be held at the livestock pavilion, Thursday.

But there will be other nicely groomed calves. Mary Jordan, Beloit, and Wilma Cook, Larned, will enter Herefords; and Beulah Frey, Elmdale, will enter an Angus.

COLLEGE SEEKS LICENSE FOR TELEVISION STATION

Dean R. A. Seaton in Washington For Permit to Install Equipment in KSAC.

Dean R. A. Seaton, is in Washington D. C. this week representing the college before the Federal Radio commission for application of a license for television in connection with station KSAC.

The television, if secured, will be experimental work chiefly in connection with the engineering division experiment station and research work for engineering students. The station would be definitely separate from the existing one.

ENGINEERS TO OUTLINE PLANS FOR OPEN HOUSE

Committees Will Meet Tonight—Attendance of Annual Event Last Year Was Record.

The twelfth annual Engineers' Open House will be held March 18 and 19, in the engineering building, shops, and power plant. Plans for the event will be worked out by open house committee, which has been chosen from students of the engineering division. Definite plans for each department probably will be arranged at a meeting tonight. Niles F. Resch, publicity manager of the Engineers' Open House, said today.

Last year over 5,000 people, including students of the college, townspeople, and out of town visitors, attended the open house. This number was the largest ever to attend the annual event.

R. C. Rohrdanz, Manhattan, is manager of the open house, and Robert Alexander, Independence, Mo., is secretary. The publicity committee consists of Niles F. Resch, Independence, Mo., publicity manager, and R. D. Compton, Manhattan, and H. C. Johnson, Marquette.

Other members of the open house committee are as follows: Features display, R. C. Hay, Parker, and M. H. Davison, Manhattan; Routing, Zint Wyant, Topeka, and E. E. Clark, Jewell City; Chapel, Paul C. ## ALUMNI LUNCHEON FRIDAY

A hundred Kansas State alumni are expected to be on the campus Friday for the Alumni luncheon to be held at Thompson hall in conjunction with Farm and Home week.

Ralph Snyder, '90, Manhattan, president of the Kansas State Farm Bureau, and a former president of the Alumni association, will preside at the luncheon. Dean Harry Umberger of the extension division will be the principal speaker.

Tickets may be secured from Kenney Ford at the Alumni office. Ford said that a number of prominent local men will be guests at the event.

Short course students in the agricultural division attended a lecture, "Know the Truth," presented by Pres. F. D. Farrell. The lecture which was given in the west wing of the agriculture building at 11 o'clock Monday morning, is one of a series to be presented to students who are enrolled for short courses.

GREEKS TO TELL THEIR STORY TO TAX MEN TODAY

HEARINGS COMPLETED AT K. U., TESTIMONY PRESENTATION TIME UNKNOWN.

TO TEST EXISTING TAX LAW

House Budgets, Sinking Funds Social Expenditures, All Come In For Discussion At Investigation.

Fraternity and sorority officials at Kansas State start today on a parade that will help determine whether or not fraternity property shall pay taxes to the state of Kansas. Hearings were scheduled to start this morning at 9 o'clock in the Riley county district court room, before Judge C. E. Vance, special commissioner for the state supreme court.

Until 1930, fraternity property was exempted from the tax rolls. At that time they were placed on the rolls, the county contending the law under which they were exempted is unconstitutional, and that if it were constitutional, fraternities would not be eligible to be included under its influence.

George Clammer, of Evans and Clammer, who are attorneys of the fraternities, said last night that the fraternity witnesses are ready to appear before Judge Vance. He said that it was difficult to say how long the hearings will last, but will probably be as long as two or three days. Fred R. Smith, former district court judge, will assist County Attorney Neil Daugherty in the presentation of evidence which will be used for a basis for the decision of the state supreme court in the matter.

Hearings Open To Public.

The hearings are open to the public. Judge Vance comes here from Lawrence where he has heard testimony from students at the University of Kansas. Testimony there involved mostly general budgets, house building financial plans, with an emphasis on social expenditures. It was revealed that the average yearly social expenditures of K. U. fraternities exceeds $1,000. There was considerable questioning by the attorneys representing Douglas county to show that housemothers, by personal entertainment and other activities, used the fraternity houses for purposes other than for taxation.

An amusing incident in the K. U. hearing was that in which a witness, in making a report of money appropriated by her sorority, included among the items, on "to pay taxes." She immediately corrected herself.

MARKLEY'S MARCH WILL BE PLAYED AT ASSEMBLY

Composition of Music Student Will Be Heard Here For First Time This Morning.

Benjamin Markley, Bennington, senior in music education, is the composer of a march for Kansas State college, which will be played by the band in the student assembly concert Tuesday. Markley will conduct the selection himself.

Incorporated in the march are rearranged parts of Kansas State's alma mater song and the "Wildcat Call" as well as parts which were composed exclusively for the selection. Much of "The Purple and the White" is lyric enough that words could be written for it.

Markley is president of Phi Mu Alpha, men's honorary music fraternity, plays solo clarinet in the band, plays in the orchestra, and is a member of the glee club.

Other selections which will be played in Tuesday's assembly are "Kansas Wildcats," a march composed by John Philip Sousa and dedicated to Kansas State college; "In a Chinese Temple Garden," by Ketelby; three novelties, "Mexican Kisses," "Mystic Night," and "The Whistling Farmer Boy."

Selections from "The Red Mill" by Herbert; "Barnum and Baileys Favorite," by King; and "Stars and Stripes Forever," by Sousa, will also be included in the concert program.

Only two of the University of North Dakota's 21 football captains since 1894 have entered the coaching field.

HRABA BACK IN SCHOOL

Adolph Hraba is again in school this semester after being forced to leave in the middle of the last term due to illness caused by an old football injury.

Hraba, who was in the college hospital for several weeks, was taken to his home in East St. Louis, Ill., where he had a minor operation for the removal of some dead bone that remained in his chest, caused by a bruise received in the North Dakota football game.

While in the hospital here, he contracted pneumonia, which held back his recovery for several more weeks.

When Adolph was asked about his sickness he replied, "I have had great care in both the college hospital and the one in St. Louis. It was a great disappointment to be forced to leave school but I am sure glad to be back."

ENGINEERS MAKE BIG PLANS FOR POW-WOW IN GYM

ENTERTAINMENT TO BE VARIED AND UNUSUAL, SAYS MANAGER.

AGS, ENGINE MEN TO BATTLE

Singing, Roping, and Speech Making Will Have a Place On The Program Of The Engineers' Alloy.

When Kansas State engineers get together for their first all-division mixer next Thursday night, there'll be plenty going on, says Paul C. Perry, Little River, manager of the Engineers' Alloy, as the affair is to be called. Entertainment plans are complete and a program has been arranged which Perry believes will interest every person there.

Engineers' Alloy is being sponsored by Steel Ring and Sigma Tau, two of the largest engineering organizations on the Hill.

Durand To Talk.

Assistant Dean M. A. Durand will open the stag affair with an informal get-together talk in which he will discuss the purpose and future possibilities of "Engineers' Alloy." Dr. G. C. Salley, a Manhattan osteopath, has been engaged to demonstrate that the hand is quicker than the eye through the medium of a sleight-of-hand performance, according to M. H. Davison, Manhattan, chairman of the For the lovers of the great open entertainment committee.

Spaces there will be a rope throwing and whirling exhibition by two of Will Rogers' ex-studies, Emmet Breen, El Dorado, and Fred Smith, Junction City. This will be followed by selections sung by a quartet composed of K. M. Hemker and W. S. Hemker, Great Bend; Dick West, Hartford, and Dwan Daly, Manhattan.

Boxing Events Scheduled.

Boxing bouts have been scheduled, according to Davison, and will consist of preliminary bouts in which grudges among small Negro boys will probably be settled for all time. The main event, will be a three or four round go between engineering and agricultural division representatives.

Paul Perry, president of Steel Ring, and Ray Rohrdanz, Manhattan, president of Sigma Tau, have been asked to introduce their respective organizations at the party, and, according to Davison, Rohrdanz will probably tell something of the plans for engineers' open house, annual spring event in the engineering division, of which Rohrdanz is manager. Prof. L. M. Jorgenson of the electrical engineering department will speak of the aims of the engineering division.

STUDENTS TO EXPOSITION

Six Attend Better Home and Gardens Display.

Arthur Howard, Manhattan; Charles Powell, Frankfort; and E. H. Regnier, Spearville, accompanied by Prof. L. R. Quinlan of the department of horticulture, attended the Better Homes and Gardens exposition by the Kansas City Garden Club in Kansas City, Thursday.

They also visited the art institute where work of local people is on display. Among the exhibitors are Thirza Mossman, R. I. Lockard, and John F. Helm, Jr.

A. C. Elson and Charles E. Elson, who spent the between-semester vacation at their home in Kansas City, also attended the exposition.

CAMPUS CHEST TO AID NEEDY ON HILL THIS YEAR

PROCEEDS FOR SHORT TIME LOANS TO K-AGGIE STUDENTS.

LEADERS APPROVE OF DRIVE

February 16, College Anniversary Day, Selected For Solicitation—Students and Faculty To Contribute.

Students who are in need of short-time loans will be benefited by the Campus Chest drive which will be conducted Tuesday, February 16. Instead of aiding foreign students, Kansas State students and faculty members will help needy persons on their own campus.

In many cases persons are making sacrifices in food and clothing in order to stay in college. Students are doing their own cooking, stoking furnaces, or working unusually long hours in order to secure an education. Some are trying to keep their expenses below 50 cents a day for board.

Campus Chest is the only charity drive allowed on the campus. In other years the proceeds from the drive have been used to help foreign students or have been applied on the American Red Cross. This year Kansas State will help her own needy. "Charity begins at home," and it is not charity but a helping hand which will be extended to those who are in a "tough" place.

Gets State-Wide Approval.
The policy of the Campus Chest committee this year has been commended by papers throughout the state, as well as meeting with approval in the opinion of Kansas State leader.

The campaign will be conducted similarly to that of other years. Every student will be given a chance to contribute and faculty members will also be solicited.

Student members of the Campus Chest committee represent every organization on the campus. The committee is composed of Otto Koontz, Jetmore, chairman; Phil Lautz, La Junta, Colo., manager of campaign; Louise Davis, Nashville, Tenn., assistant manager; Margaret Chaney, Manhattan, assistant publicity chairman; John Johtz, Abilene, publicity chairman; Willard McEllen, Manhattan, treasurer; and H. W. Coberly, Gove, purchasing agent.

VET MEDICS MEET HERE TOMORROW

Mayor E. E. Griffith Will Welcome Delegates to Annual Convention.

Mayor Evan E. Griffith of Manhattan will welcome the members of the Kansas Veterinary Medical association in its twenty-eighth annual meeting February 10-11 at the college in an opening address Wednesday morning.

Dr. L. F. Barthelme of Parsons, Kansas, will respond to the address of welcome, after which the minutes of the 1931 meeting will be read by Dr. Chas. W. Bower of Topeka.

Dr. A. Kushner, also of Topeka, will present the presidential address.

Officers of the association are Dr. A. Kushner, president; Dr. W. R. Barnard, vice-president; Dr. Chas. W. Bower, secretary-treasurer.

HUSKERS UPSET DOPE; STALL TO BEAT K-AGGIES

CORSAUTS QUINTET INTO A TIE FOR THIRD PLACE WITH K. U.

BOTH TEAMS GET ROUGH

Graham Leads Kansas State Team
In Scoring With Seven Points —Huskies Use Several Sophomores.

Nebraska university's basketball team kicked over the conference dope bucket when they broke the Kansas State Wildcats' three-game winning streak at Lincoln last Saturday night. The Huskers won 32 to 26.

This defeat threw the K-Aggies into a tie for third place with Kansas university, but still left the Huskers in the conference cellar with only two victories in seven starts.

Kansas State scored first when Graham bagged two charity shots. This lead was increased slightly but Nebraska forged ahead to a 5 to 4 lead before many minutes had gone by. From this point on throughout the early part of the period the score sawsawed back and forth with the Huskers putting on a spurt at the end of the period which gave them a 15 to 9 lead at the half.

Two field goals by Mason and Lunney started the Nebraska team off the second half and gave them a lead they never relinquished. At one time in the second period the Wildcats put on a determined effort to pass the Cornhuskers but it was of no avail.

Nebraska Stall Wins.
With four minutes to go, the Kansas State quintet was lagging 26 to 30. At this point Nebraska began a stalling game to hold their slight lead, and after pulling the Wildcat defense out of position, Davidson found the basket for a field goal which put the game on ice for Nebraska.

Nebraska relied almost entirely on sophomores for this game, using four of them in the starting lineup. The game was a rough one with many fouls as a result. Four men, Breen and Skradski of the Wildcats and Lunney and Mason of Nebraska.

TIGERS DOWN KANSAS TO RENEW TITLE BID

Missouri Five Wins From Jayhawkers
After Close Conference Battle.

The University of Missouri again went into the game with Oklahoma university for the Big Six basketball leadership by defeating Kansas university 26 to 22 at Columbia last Saturday night.

The Tigers scored four points in the last few moments of the game to forge ahead of the Jayhawkers at the final whistle. With the score knotted at 22 all, Wagner, Missouri center, scored two charity shots and Davis bagged a field goal for the margin of the victory.

The first half was a stalling game on the part of the Tigers, who had possession of the ball most of the time. The Jayhawkers refused to leave their tight defensive position to go after the ball.

John Cooper, Missouri center, scored 18 of his teammates 26 points with six field goals and as many charity tosses.

WRESTLERS BREAK EVEN IN OKLAHOMA INVASION

Patterson's Team Loses to Oklahoma A. and M., Win From Northeastern Teachers.

Coach B. R. Patterson's grapplers broke even on their Oklahoma invasion, winning from the Northeastern Teachers college at Tahlequah 26 to 8 and losing to Oklahoma A. and M. at Stillwater 8 to 23.

Kansas State wrestlers lost their first match of the season to the Oklahoma Aggies, after winning from Iowa State and Kansas university in Big Six competition. The two matches in Oklahoma were non-conference meets.

Roberts gained the only fall for the K-Aggies by throwing Moore of Oklahoma in the 155-pound class. Miller won a decision over Collins for the only other Kansas State score. The big upset of the match was the defeat of Captain Billy Doyle, national champion in the 145-pound class, to Kelley, Oklahoma sophomore.

The summary:
118-pounds—Hesser, Oklahoma, defeated Watson, Kansas State, by a fall in 4:55.

126-pounds—Pearce, Oklahoma, threw Burbank, Kansas State, in 26 seconds.

135-pounds—Razor, Oklahoma, won a decision over Patterson, Kansas State, time advantage 3:25.

145-pounds—Kelley, Oklahoma, won a decision from Doyle, Kansas State, time advantage 2:00.

155-pounds—Roberts, Kansas State, defeated Moore, Oklahoma, by a fall in 5:15.

165-pounds—Gilbert, Oklahoma, defeated Bozarth, Kansas State, with a time advantage of 4:09 after two overtime periods.

Heavyweight—McGuirk, Oklahoma, defeated Thiele, Kansas State, with a time advantage of 9:51.

The K-Aggies won four falls and two decisions against the Northeastern Teachers.

In the 118-pound division, Watson won a decision over Rainwater with a time advantage of a little over three minutes. Burbank lost to his opponent by a fall. M. B. Patterson won his match by a fall in a little over nine minutes, in the 135-pound class.

Doyle won a decision over Scruggs with a time advantage of five minutes. Roberts won a fall in the 155-pound class. Bozarth won a fall in the 165-pound class. Miller a fall in the 175-pound division, and Thiele won a fall in the heavyweight class.

INDOOR TRACK HAS PROSPECTS AT O. U.

Scorers Expect Good Indoor Track Team—Many Stars Return.

Norman, Feb. 6.—With Don Adkinson, sprinter from Tulsa, returning the second semester, and prospects reasonably good for the best Sooner athletes attending the rejuvenated K. C. A. C. indoor meet, which will be held at Kansas City February 13 or 20, the Sooner track team has taken a new lease on life.

Adkinson, who is considered best at the 60-yard distance although he also ran 100 yards in 9.8 seconds in the Kansas State-Oklahoma dual meet last spring, has written Coach Jacobs that he will return the second semester, all of which was good news to the Sooner mentor, badly in need of an experienced dash man.

The revival of the K. C. A. C. meet, with such athletes as Charlie Paddock, Herman Brix, Harry Hinkel and Parker Shelby of the Los Angeles Athletic club stopping off at Kansas City on their way home from the indoor championships at New York City, should make that event a more popular one than ever before. Present plans call for the elimination of several of the relay events, addition of a relay hurdle race, and competition in all the special events as in the past.

Capt. Clifford Mell, Sooner broad-jumper who last February won the Shannon Douglas 600-yard cup race, was elected to learn the K. C. A. C. meet will be very likely "on." Mell will be prepared to defend the two-gallon silver loving cup he brought home last year and his first preparation came Saturday afternoon when he picked up 15 yards on the last lap to defeat Harold Morris and Frank Abbott, two teammates, in an indoor quarter that went in 53 1-2 seconds.

Glen Dawson, the Sooner distance who has served out his eligibility but is training here for the Olympics, was also glad to hear that the K. C. A. C. meet will probably be held. Dawson, who broke the Sooner indoor half-mile record Saturday with time of 2:09, will go after the big cup in the two-mile race and also double in the mile event.

WIN OVER OKLAHOMA PUTS TIGERS ON TOP

Missourians Did Not Use Their Famed "Super-Stall" To Defeat Sooners.

The Missouri Tigers went into undisputed possession of first place in the Big Six basketball race by virtue of a win over the Oklahoma quintet Saturday night at Columbia.

Missouri did not use the legalized "super-stall" with which it defeated K. U. last week. The Sooners fell before a late rally after Harold LeCron, center, and Percy Main, guard, had been taken from the game because of excessive fouls.

Johnny Cooper, Tiger forward, took first place in individual scoring in the conference, garnering nine points. Andy Beck, Oklahoma forward, who was tied with Cooper for individual honors, made seven points.

STADIUM PLEDGE DRIVE RESULTS GRATIFYING

Edwin ("Hans") Puetze Reports
Total of $6,791 Pledged During First Semester.

Two hundred and two students promised to pay $6,791 to the stadium corporation last semester. Eighty-four per cent of the 202 pledges were made by freshmen, and one freshman paid his pledge last semester.

The student stadium drive officially closed at the end of last semester, but this does not mean that pledge soliciting has stopped.

Dr. J. V. Cortelyou, chairman of the stadium corporation said that considering the actual depression and the general feeling of depression the stadium corporation is well pleased with the $6,791 student pledge. In the past the pledges have been larger, in 1930-'31 the total pledge was $8,790, in 1929-'30 the total was $17,250, and in 1928-'29 it was $14,077.

The students were asked to pledge on a basis of $40, but E. L. ("Hans") Puetze, stadium drive chairman, will ask the new faculty members this semester to pledge a certain per cent of their salary. The first stadium drive was held in 1922 and at that time the stadium corporation established the $40 student pledge and the faculty percentage basis.

SCHOLARSHIP IS OFFERED WESTERN KANSAS STUDENTS

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dubbs Establish $25,000 Fund in Memory of Their Daughter, Rebecca.

A memorial fund of $25,000 that has just been set aside will make a cash scholarship of $100 available annually to a high school senior of Ness, Lane, Gove, Scott, Greeley or Wichita counties. The fund is a memorial to Rebecca Dubbs, 29, whose untimely death last summer resulted from an infection contracted while enroute to Mexico City, where she expected to enroll in the summer course of the National University of Mexico.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dubbs of Ransom have established the fund as an inspiration for better scholarship and as an aid to worthy students in the Western Kansas Educational association district, which includes the counties mentioned above. Award of the scholarship will be conditioned upon the winning student's attending some accredited institution of higher learning during the year succeeding his competing in the examination which determines the awarding of the scholarship.

A part of the income from the fund will be used as a student loan fund. Loans will be made at a low rate of interest to students or alumni of high schools in the section designated, who by their general good conduct and scholastic records have proved themselves worthy of assistance in the pursuit of higher education.

Application for loans should be made through the principal of the high school attended. G. G. Hays, Utica rural high school, is administering the memorial fund.

As a student in high school, Miss Dubbs was an excellent scholar and was valedictorian of her class. She was active in student activities, including debate, athletics and music, representing her school at various times. After graduation she attended Kansas State college where she continued a record of fine scholarship until her graduation in 1929. She taught one year in the Scott City high school and taught in the high school at Bison, the year preceding her death.

K.U. CAGERS TO MEET VENGEFUL TEAM TONIGHT

WILDCATS SMARTING UNDER THREE DEFEATS BY FIVE POINT MARGIN.

TITLE HOPES ARE AT STAKE

Both Squads Carefully Conditioned For Battle—Coursant Drills Men In Defense To Meet Fast Jayhawkers.

By Milfred Peters

That lean old Kansas State Wildcat is going to have blood in both eyes and nothing but the thought of revenge in his mind when he meets the Kansas university Jayhawk in a court battle here tonight. Championship hopes will be blasted for the team coming off the floor with the short end of the score.

Three times this year the Jayhawk has turned back an enraged Wildcat on the basketball court with a margin of only five points for all three games. Two were non-conference tilts won 32 to 30, and 27 to 25. The other was a conference battle at Lawrence won by the Jayhawk by a 27 to 26 score. The team which wins the fourth renewal of this ancient feud this year will find itself in sole possession of second place, paced only by the conference leading Missouri Tigers.

Due to the fact that the Kansas State squad is beginning to feel the effects of a stiff season of competition, Coach C. W. Coursant prescribed only light workouts for the team this week after the victorious St. Louis game Tuesday night. With the exception of Skradaki and Fairbank, who are somewhat handicapped by slight colds, the entire aggregation is ready for a stiff battle.

K-Aggies Plan Defense

"We are making preparations for a defensive game because of the complete control of the tip by Kansas university," said Coach Coursant. The K-Aggies have developed one of the best defenses of any of the six teams, and this defense will be directed mainly at O'Leary, Johnson, and Harrington, who have become the best scoring combination of the Kansans.

Dr. F. C. ("Phog") Allen, Kansas university mentor, is bringing a squad here which is at its height in the current season. For the past week Allen has been giving his men only light workouts to keep them in the peak of condition, which they reached in downing the Iowa State Cyclones 40 to 27 last week.

The quintet the Wildcats will have to stop is one that has a scoring punch. Two regulars, O'Leary and Johnson, rank first and fourth, respectively, among the leading conference scorers, having scored 17 points each in the Cyclone game.

Game Hard to Dope

Dope on the battle royal points to a nip and tuck affair all the way, with neither team having much advantage over the other. The only points favoring the Jayhawk are by virtue of its three victories over the Wildcats.

The Kansas State five have something in their favor, however. This aggregation upset the Oklahoma university quintet 31 to 24, while the university five lost to the Sooners 28 to 31. Allen's proteges broke even in their Iowa State series while the Coursantment came out victorious over the Cyclones. Both teams lost to the University of Missouri by almost the same margins.

Coach Coursant will start his regular five against the Jayhawk tonight: Breen and Graham, forwards; Skradaki, center; and Captain Auker and Boyd, guards. This combination has produced a quick passing attack superior to any other that the K-Aggies have been able to put on the floor.

This game will not be broadcast because of the Farm and Home week banquet program on the air at the same time.

ALUMNI LUNCHEON TODAY

The alumni luncheon will be held at 12:10 this noon at the college cafeteria. Ralph Snyder, Manhattan, who was graduated from Kansas State college in 1890, is president of the Kansas State farm bureau and will be in charge of the meeting. Dean Harry Umberger of the extension department will be a speaker at the luncheon. Out of town guests are invited. The tickets will be purchased at the alumni office for 50 cents.

28 MORE ENROL
With the enrolment today of Frank B. Rabb, CE2, Turner, and Wilson Burbridge, PE2, Troy, the total enrolment for the second semester reached 2,758, according to Jessie Machir, registrar.

This is three less than the enrolment at this time last year, but if late enrolments continue to come in as they have done this week, the enrolment this semester will equal that of last year. At the end of the regular registration days the totals for the two years were the same, 2,730.

TO STATE MEETING

The annual State Home Economics association convention will be held in Salina, March 11 and 12. The local club will elect ten members at their next meeting, February 17, to represent Kansas State at the convention.

There will be reports given by those who attended the national home economics convention in Detroit last summer. Each club is to give a report on the projects or work they have done in their respective schools.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL SEEN BY CAPACITY CROWD

Morris Humes Named Grand Champion Showman of Ninth Annual Contest.

Before a crowd that crammed the pavilion, college students labored to make their assigned animals look their best in the ninth annual Little American Royal, fitting and showing contest sponsored by Block and Bridle, club of the animal husbandry department, last night.

Morris Humes, Glen Elder, showing a hog, was chosen grand champion showman and given the cup donated by the American Royal of Kansas City.

In the dairy breed division W. W. Jacobs, Harper, showing a Guernsey heifer, was named grand champion and H. M. Brown, Fall River, showing a Jersey cow, won the reserve championship.

Farrell Presents Team.
President F. D. Farrell presented the animal husbandry judging teams to the crowd: Prof. J. B. Fitch, head of the dairy department, introduced the dairy teams; and Dean L. E. Call presented trophies to the winners in the showing.

Spectators showed a great deal of interest in a co-eds milking contest sponsored by the dairy club. The event was won by Wilma Eyzers, Hepler, who drew three and five tenths pounds of milk in the two minutes allowed. Alleen Rundie, Clay Center, took second with three and three-tenths pounds. Stella Johnson, Savonburg, was third.

Cattle in Mix-Up.
Mary Jordan, Beloit, suffered an injured finger in a mix-up during the cattle showing when two of the animals became uncontrollable and finally had to be removed. Miss Jordan was showing an animal.

Placings in the various classes of live stock shown were as follows: Horses—W. N. Page, Detroit, first; W. H. Pine, Lawrence, second; Charles Murphy, Leola, third; L. R. Daniels, St. Francis, fourth; and George Garrison, Goodland, fifth.

Hogs—Morris Humes, Glen Elder, first; Raymond Wagner, Richmond, second; Herbert Niles, Olivet, third; J. W. Gordan, Claflin, fourth; and Robert Oman, Leonardville, fifth.

Sheep—first, John Miller, Prescott; second, Wayne Bratton, Luray; third, H. A. Daily, Waverly; fourth, G. R. Munson, Junction City; and fifth, A. A. Pease, Fort Scott.

Cattle—Wayne Bratton, Luray, first; Walter Lewis, Larned, second; V. E. Burnett, Manchester, Oklahoma, third; Fred Bowles, Walnut, fourth; and R. Teagarden, La Cygne, fifth.

R. O. Blair, Manhattan, president of Block and Bridle, was ringmaster for the contest. Musical entertainment was provided by the Collegiate 4-H club quartette composed of Dale Edelblute, Keats; John Hanna, Clay Center; Earl Regnier, Spearville, and Leonard Rees, Abilene.

Tax Hearings Cause Many To Break, Confess All

Extreme frankness seems to be the fashion of the hour. . . . or perhaps this is Confession Week at Kansas State. At any event quite a number of interesting statements have been made this week.

Tuesday Fred Seaton admitted that he was no social lion. He made the statement that he was not as interested in the social side of college life as he was in some of the other phases while he was on the witness stand, so it must be the house several weeks ago, but due to the fact that some details were not yet completed and because of final week, the date of the open house was postponed.

Commerce Student D. F. Pocock broke down completely on the witness stand Thursday night and confessed that the financial records of Phi Kappa Tau for the year 1929-30 were in such condition that he was unable to figure out what was what. He told the court that there were too many ays and engineers in the house then to keep adequate records.

Muddy Rhoades really gave himself away when he maintained that bullfests are educational. It comes as quite a shock, this confession that any bullfest could be the source of real education and enlightenment. The prize confession came from Ted R. McCandless. When hard pressed by the attorney he guiltily admitted that "garage rent" meant rent from the garage paid by members.

NEEDY STUDENTS WILL BE AIDED BY CAMPUS CHEST

CAMPUS LEADERS PRAISE PURPOSE OF SOLICITATION TO BE HELD TUESDAY.

TO HOLD SPECIAL ASSEMBLY

Student Aid Fund Will Act Only In Emergency Cases—Kansas State To Cafe For Its Own.

Solicitation for Campus Chest, the only charity drive permitted on Kansas State campus, will get under way in an assembly program to be presented Tuesday, February 16, by members of the Chest committee and students in the music and public speaking departments, Dr. Howard T. Hill of the public speaking department and faculty chairman of the publicity committee for the drive will be master of ceremonies for the assembly program.

A 15-minute program of music will be presented by the college trio, composed of Mabel Russell, Manhattan, violin; Clara Jean Martin, Manhattan, piano; and Marjorie Pyle, Manhattan, violin. One of the college male quartets has also arranged musical novelties, according to Prof. William Lindquist of the music department.

One of H. Miles Heberer's entertaining one-act melodramas will be presented at this time, after which Prof. F. L. Parrish, chairman of the Student Aid fund committee, will extend a statement to the students in regard to the purpose of the fund and the organization of Campus Chest.

"Student Aid fund has no enterprise," said Professor Parrish. "It is only an agency of the president to listen to appeals of students for the purpose of gaining short-time loans. Solicitations for this cause are not concerned with anything but raising money for needy students, who are temporarily embarrassed by lack of immediate funds. The group is composed of students and faculty to listen to appeals for funds and pass judgement on them, and if approved, the committee will distribute the money for such causes."

KERN NAMED DEMO HEAD

Young Democrats Organize Tuesday Night in Community House.
Russell Kern, Manhattan, was elected chairman of the Young People's Democratic club of Riley county at a meeting held Tuesday night in the community house. Kern is a sophomore in general science. Edith Dobson, Manhattan, senior in journalism, was chosen vice-chairman, and Lawrence Hurley, Manhattan, was named secretary. The organization will sponsor several social and political meetings in the near future.

ORCHESTRIS MEMBERS COMPETE

Women Dancers Will Present Original Acts at Meeting.
Each member of Orchestris will present an original dance at a meeting next Tuesday night at 7:00 o'clock in the women's gymnasium. The best dances given are to be used in a recital which Orchestris is planning to present soon and to special invitation will be required for admittance. There will be no meeting of Junior Orchestris.

BEAUTY QUEENS MUST BE BEAUTIFUL, RHOADES SAYS

Photograph Alone Will Not Be Relied Upon as Basis of Verdict Of Judges.

"Beauty queens that deserve the title" is the slogan of the 1932 beauty contest being sponsored by the Royal Purple which will be held at the Beauty ball at the Wareham ballroom Saturday night. A new method of choosing the beauty queens is being inaugurated this year, according to C. M. ("Mud") Rhoades, business manager of the yearbook. The queens were formerly chosen from photographs, which counted one hundred per cent in the selection. This year the scoring will be fifty per cent on the decision of judges at the Beauty ball Saturday night, and fifty per cent from photographs of the entrants.

Judges on 10 Points.
The judges will score the entrants on ten points, which include features, complexion and hair, eyes and teeth under the heading of facial beauty. In the division, figure, size and proportion, form and development, and posture will be considered. Poise and alertness, carriage, general bearing, and appeal will be judged in the personality division.

Six Judges Chosen.
Six judges have been chosen who are townspeople, and may or may not be associated with the college. "We believe that theirs will be representative and more fair than student opinions," the managers said.

In previous years the beauty queens have been chosen from pictures which were submitted to some well known person for judging. As a result the choice depended on the candidate's picture rather than her real appearance.

The choice for Kansas State sweetheart in an annual event in which the men of the college select their favorite. This is the second feature of the dance. Ballots will be distributed among the men at the beginning of the evening and counted during the dance. A formal introduction of the winner will be made after the intermission.

CO-EDS ARE INVITED TO ASSIST WITH TEA

Miss Lida Woodring Extends Invitation to Five Students and One Instructor—Tea February 22.

Five students on the Hill and one faculty member have been asked by Miss Lida Woodring, sister of Governor Harry Woodring, to assist in the dining room of the Colonial tea to be given at the Governor's mansion on Washington's birthday, February 22. The tea is a non-political affair, although it is being held the same day as the annual state Democratic meeting in Topeka.

The tea is in charge of the George Washington Bi-Centennial commission for Kansas and will be held from the hours of 3 to 5 o'clock.

Co-eds from Kansas university, Kansas State Teachers college of Emporia, Kansas State College at Hays, in addition to those from Kansas State will also assist. Those from this college invited are Marjorie LaShelle, Mary Carney, Edith Dobson, Frances and Mary Louise Hampshire, and Helen Hemphill, instructor in journalism.

Phi Mu Alpha, men's national professional music fraternity, announces the pledging of Edwin Shonyo, Bushton; Richard Herzog, Salina; and Edgar Cooper, Stamford.

FACTS, FIGURES FLY IN GREEK TAX HEARINGS

LENGTHY, DETAILED TESTIMONY SLOWS UP TAX MILL MANY ON STAND.

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE

Fraternities and Sororities Seek To Have Property Stricken From County Tax Rolls—State Objects.

After three days of grinding, the Greek tax mill shut down temporarily because of lack of witnesses. The mill has been grinding slowly since it commenced operations, but it has been grinding exceedingly small. Facts and figures flew all over the Riley county court room, figuratively speaking.

Treasurers of Greek organizations carrying with them heavy tomes crammed with the figures of the financial operations of their chapters, received their share of attention on the witness stand. Others placed on the stand included presidents of Greek organizations and faculty advisors.

Audience Is Tolerant.
The audience, made up of college students and a few of Manhattan's retired farmers and some of the vast army of unemployed, was a patient audience. They were patient enough to sit through hours of monotonous discussion of such topics as "Cost of Formal Parties," "Funds Expended for Hire of Cook and Cook's Helper," "Money Spent for Coal," and so on, to get a brief laugh out of some intimate disclosure about the private lives of college students living in chapter houses.

The Greek organizations are seeking to cause the Riley county commissioners to strike fraternity and sorority property from the tax rolls. The state's claim is that this property should not be exempt because the tax commission and the county commissioners are of the opinion that the commonly called social fraternities and sororities are not educational organizations. Now you know what all the rumpus is about.

The exposition of the social and financial activities started in Manhattan last Tuesday morning and continued through Wednesday and Thursday.

No-Decision Debate Here.
No decision will be made here as to whether or not the Greeks or state authorities win. All that is to be left to the Supreme court in Kansas. The purpose of the investigation here is merely to collect evidence so that the facts may be presented to the Supreme court in easily digested form.

Attorneys for Greek organizations are Evans and Clammer of Manhattan. Neil Daugherty is being assisted by Fred R. Smith and his son, Ray, in the presentation of evidence for the county. The tax commission is represented by Ernest Bilinec.

College students and former students who have been called upon to testify this far include, Fred Seaton, Helen Mangelsdorf, Don Wiggins, Max Fockele, "Brick" Garrison, Ed Sullivan, Kathryn Colver, and "Red" Schooley.

TO MATH MEETING

OH! THESE MODERN S.

Back in Centre college in Danville, Ky., a senior was ousted from his position as editor of the college paper because of an editorial he printed on the "Stupidity of Marriage."

The student wrote that marriage "ends in wrecked lives and the casting of ugly blemishes on young lives having to come in contact with it."

But alas, the damage has been done. The press report says that when it became known that the editorial had resulted in the editor's expulsion from his position, a big demand was created for the paper containing the editorial.

Think of the depression which will result in the probate judge's office in Danville. Centre college students will not marry. Kentucky's population will decline, and the good old chivalry of the Blue Grass state will fade into obscurity. All because a college student wrote an editorial on the stupidity of marriage.

But such an editorial coming after Theodore Dreiser's visit in the state is just too much for any college authorities. No wonder the college student lost his job. The naughty boy.

The Snoopers

If might means right, the booing of the cheering sections at the K-Aggie-St. Louis basketball game Tuesday night was undisputedly correct. Referee Larry Quigley took it stoically but we cringe in horror to think of the effect the catcalls would have had on his brother, E. C. "You Can't Do That" Quigley.

Although some of the decisions seemed raw, we wonder how many considered the fact that the referee officiated by himself. To us the booing reached its greatest volume when one Wildcat, having escaped being penalized three successive times, was at last fouled.

Incidentally, E. C. Quigley will beyond doubt be present during a portion of the Farm and Home Week activities. The veteran athletic official operates a large farm near St. Marys and deals extensively in pure bred Hampshire hogs.

Lest by merest chance this column may be perused by members of the military faculty the name of a student absent from a recent drill period will be withheld. He dressed fully, even to his cartridge belt and ill-appearing necktie, to make a futile search for a pair of shoes. He finally gave up and went back to bed smirking slyly at the possibility of escaping semi-annual rifle cleaning maneuvers. The firearms will be scoured next time.

Many laughs have been obtained during the fraternity tax hearings here this week. Wise cracks zip from the witness stand to bring resounding raps for order from the bench. The Greeks have been good witnesses. Whenever Defense Attorney Evans' name is mentioned we always think of Roy Octavus Cohen's Lawyer Evans Chew. Barrister Evans is hale and hearty and minus his mustache after his illness of last summer.

The Jayhawkers, riding high on a recent win over Iowa State, will demonstrate their wares against the Wildcat cagers here tonight. Johnson, who we remember from certain publicity last year as being from Oklahoma City, was the hero of the Iowa State fray. There is little doubt that the leech-like Emmet Breen will keep Johnson's temperature at a low ebb tonight. However, if O'Leary finds himself in the throes of a scoring spell, Forward Breen will be kept busy.

Tonight, also, at the expense of the ladies as it should be, will occur the Freshman Women's Pan Hellenic dance. If it reaches the enormous dimensions of the Pan hell dance last week it will be a financial rather than a social success. The boys last week had the longest reception line since the Kappa Sig party.

Judge Fred R. Smith of fraternity tax hearing prominence revealed his nationality yesterday.

At the conclusion of the program, solitons will accept contributions of students and faculty members. Tags will be distributed to signify all who have made contributions.

In speaking of the worthiness of the subject, many students have put their stamps of approval on the aid fund and endorsed the organization.

"Campus Chest," says Louise Davis, Nashville, Tenn. president of the Y. W. C. A., "is an outstanding opportunity for college students to help their fellow students."

Book Review

"THE HARBOURMASTER"

McFee. Doubleday, Doran and Company, $2.50.
Those who like tales of the sea may be delighted with this latest of McFee novels. It is the Literary Guild selection for January but also is published in the trade edition.

The story deals with a blunt, seagoing captain and his difficulties. This captain and the story teller, a chief engineer, are Englishmen who have sailed the seven seas. Their experiences, the captain's inability to understand woman's nature, and the story teller's philosophizing combine to make an enthralling tale. Not the least of the reader's entertainment comes from the chief engineer's observations on life and especially on women—their goodness and their frailties.

But the chief interest centers around Captain Fraley; a literary working girl of New York, to whom he was engaged; Mademoiselle Theroinne, his French mistress in Saloniki; and Francine, sister of Theroinne, murderer, beauty, and "hell cat"—who became his wife without the formality of marriage.

The climax of the story is told at the outset. Captain Fraley and Francine never solve the trick of living together peacefully. Their death is apparent at the beginning of the book but events leading up to the end are related so entertainingly that interest never lags.

One wonders sometimes whether Captain Fraley or the chief engineer and story teller, Mr. Spenlove, is the hero. It is the former who always gets into difficulties and the latter who is forever rescuing him, even from his glamorous French "wife," who literally "came up out of the sea" to him.

A handful of listeners aboard ship, who make up Mr. Spenlove's audience, are the doubting Thomases who sit open-mouthed at the incredible and improper happenings. Their reactions save readers the necessity of one-sided expostulation with the author on unlikely happenings in the yarn.—F. E. C.

SAMUEL PEPPY'S DIARY.

It does have a dull title—unless you know the nature of diaries. If you do, you'll find Sam Peppy's no exception—unless, perhaps you find his style unusually brilliant for a journal.

Most people shun Samuel Peppy because he is spoken of in courses in English Literature. Alas, poor Samuel never wrote his diary to be read. He might even blush if he knew that some curious person had taken upon himself in 1819—200 years after the diary was written—the task of transcribing these six cardboard volumes of shorthand notes. But Samuel's blushes count for nothing. His diary is much too charming to be permitted to remain obscure for such self-conscious reasons.

Sam Peppy's (incidentally always pronounced by the family "Peeps") lived in interesting times. He was a witness of the Dutch burning English ships in the Medway. He saw the heads of Cromwell and other "regicides" exposed on pikes at Temple Bar, and in Westminster Hall, and he often saw and talked with the lazy, sad and merry king. He lived in a time of music and theater and drinking. He, himself, was an excellent musician, playing several instruments. Peppy had a passion for beauty—especially beautiful women. He was well aware of his weaknesses and said: "However, music and women, I cannot but give way to, whatever my business is." Richard Le Gallienne says of him "Unrefined as I suppose some of his amorous encounters are to be regarded, there is no question that they were all inspired by an intense and catholic love of beauty. No one can bring the charge against Peppy that he ever kissed a homely woman."

One of Peppy's most characteristic habits were his avowals to abandon his draughts of wine, ale, and other spirituous liquors. He makes similar vows concerning too many "theaters" and buying too many books, and even renounces "beauty" now and then.

The diary is irresistibly human—there's something in it for every mood. And one very nice thing about it is that you can begin reading almost anywhere. His little homely scenes including his quarrels with his wife, his vanity concerning his apparel, and his little "affairs" with the servants lend humor. His accounts of the restoration of Charles and other events of the time are not only of interest but of historical significance.

Here's just a little quotation to show you something of the nature of the diary "And in the Privy Garden I saw the finest smocks and linen petticoats of my Lady Castlemaine's, laced with Irish lace at the bottom, that ever I saw, and did me good to look upon them."—Ruth Wilkerson.

It is well worth the support of every one on the campus.

"Each of us should do our share to help our needy fellow students," said Kale Fones, Kansas City, Mo., "this can be done by contributing to the Campus Chest."

"The Student Aid fund is designed particularly for the purpose of aiding emergency cases, where short-time loans are needed at the moment. The fund is not large enough to care for large loans and only applies to students who are not able to obtain loans under ordinary conditions," according to Prof. J. O. Hamilton, a member of the faculty committee. "It has not to be bestowed as a gift, but as a debt of honor, and will meet needs which cannot be met by other funds."

The donations made to the Student Aid fund have formerly been sent to the Far East to aid in relief by A. A. Holtz, Y. M. C. A.

the Student Aid fund, and who cannot be reached through other loan funds."

This fund will aid freshmen and sophomores as well as juniors and seniors. In 1930-'31 there were 1,366 students who were wholly self supporting and 522 who were partially self supporting, according to Ford.

May all students do their best to support a worthy and profitable cause, attending assembly Tuesday with the idea of donating to the Student Aid fund.

The drive for donations will continue Tuesday and Wednesday.

DEANS NAME SIX HONOR STUDENTS FOR RECOGNITION

Cortelyou won first in the Emporia scholarship contest. In college she won freshman and sophomore honors and membership in Phi Kappa Phi. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority and of Phi Alpha Mu, Dynamis, and Mortar Board honor societies. She has won recognition in women's athletics and is prominent in Y. W. C. A. and Girl Reserve work.

Ralph Hay has majored in agricultural engineering. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Tau, and Alpha Beta, as well as Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He has been president of the local society of agricultural engineering, is president of the engineering student body, and business manager of the Kansas State Engineer. Many other undergraduate affiliations stand to his credit.

Myers Excellent Student.

Will Myers has made the highest scholastic record of any member of the present senior class in agriculture and won a gold medal for scholarship as a freshman. He also won sophomore honors. He is a member of Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, and of Phi Kappa Phi. He was a member of the intercollegiate livestock judging team where he won recognition. In his judging work, Myers has also participated in intercollegiate crops judging. He is a member of the Student Governing Council. He is a past president of Kiod and Kernal club, and is at present president of the agricultural student body. Myers is an Alpha Gamma Rho.

John George was chosen to represent the division of veterinary medicine because of the manner in which he has surmounted difficulties in obtaining an education and because of his popularity in that division. He attended Kansas State Teachers College before matriculating at Kansas State. During the years that he has been an upperclassman he has frequently taken over the work of veterinary practitioners during their temporary absences.

Beauty of Kansas Scenery Captured by a Native Artist

By Elizabeth Gaston

Kansas becomes crudely dramatic and colorful under the brush of John Steuart Curry, whose works are now on exhibit in the gallery of the library. He expresses his feeling with strong realistic color and execution. Some of his crudeness must be deliberate, to emphasize his strong composition, for his modeling is finished, his accents masterly.

There is a design-like arrangement and a strict adherence to formal color gradation in "Russian Giant," his sunflower picture.

Although there is no mystery in his color, no subtleties of hue, Curry obtains interest by his suggested stories, such as the "Death of Ray Goddard," and in the "Man Hunt," which expresses the same relentless movement that is so powerfully manifest in the storm pictures.

In contrast to his aptness at depicting living texture is the mechanical coldness of the inanimate objects. He puts them down with a seeming foreboding, achieved by absolute detail of design, and uses them solely for purposes of contrast or to carry out a suggested story theme.

"The Road-Menders' Camp" is rich in the humor of situations. There is amusing contrast between the peaceful, uninvaded glade in the background and the milling foreground figures.

Known as the "Homer of Kansas," Curry looses his "pictured gales against the wheat fields of western Kansas," and expresses perfectly the terror of farm animals, where Winslow Homer, of the eastern coast, showed his strong, racy, native characteristics through the medium of seascapes.

BABCOCK, STRATTON TO MEET

Mathematicians Will Attend Annual Sessions in Topeka.

Dean R. W. Babcock of the general science division, and Prof. W. T. Stratton, of the mathematics department, are planning to attend the meetings of the Kansas Association of Mathematics Teachers and the Kansas Sections of the Mathematics Association of America, which are to be held in Topeka, Saturday, February 13. In the afternoon session Dean Babcock is to address the group on "Vector Geometry." Professor Stratton will discuss "Singular Points on Polar Tangent Curves."

VETS HOLD STATE MEET

Medical Association Members Use Veterinary Hospital For Meeting and Clinic.

Officers in charge of the Kansas Veterinary Medical association were elected at the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the association Thursday. The following persons will have offices for the next year: Dr. W. R. Barnard, Belleville; Dr. J. F. Thomas, Oswego; Dr. Charles W. Bower, Topeka. Dr. Bower is an alumnus of Kansas State college.

The meeting was officially opened with a business meeting Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. A total registration of 150 persons was reported by the secretary.

Members of the board of directors who have been or are connected with the college were Dr. J. I. Kirkpatrick, Sedgwick; Dr. J. H. Burt, Mullen, Hutchinson; and Mabel Louise Whitford, Hutchinson. The affirmative team was composed of, Catherine Fisher, Della Damran, and Juanita Madcalf. The question discussed was: "Resolved, that the United States should adopt the Senator LaFollette bill of five and one-half billion dollar bond issue for public works intended to relieve the present unemployment in the United States."

The Missouri debaters based their arguments on the facts that unemployment has reached such proportions that it demands relief; that the only way to relieve this condition is to increase purchasing power and that the LaFollette bill will do this; and lastly, there are certain definite advantages which would accrue from the adoption of the bill.

There were "question box" meetings both Wednesday and Thursday, at which all interested persons were asked to present questions for discussion. On Thursday morning a demonstration of laboratory diagnosis was presented at the veterinary hospital by staff members connected with the veterinary and parasitology departments. A banquet was given Wednesday evening at the Wareham hotel.

Out-of-state speakers for the meetings were Dr. A. H. Quinn, Jr., president of Iowa State Veterinary association, Des Moines; Dr. J. Leslie Jones, Blackburn, Mo.; Dr. Benjamin Schwartz, member of United States Bureau of American Industry, Washington, D. C.; Dr. R. I. Kinsley, Kansas City, Mo.; and H. B. Treman, practitioner, Brockwell City, Iowa.

Ladies attending the meeting were entertained at a tea at the home of Mrs. Lienhardt, 1118 Bertrand, Wednesday afternoon and by a luncheon at the Gillett hotel Thursday. General hostesses for the meeting were Mesdames C. W. Hobbs, E. E. Leasure, L. Hobbs, and F. B. Jones.

LEGGE HERE FOR MEETING

Former Head of Farm Board Will Confer With Ag Faculty About Farm Machinery.

An important meeting of the state board of agriculture with Alexander H. Legge, president of the International Harvester company, and representatives of other manufacturers of farm machinery will be held in the office of Dean L. E. Call, Friday, February 12.

Legge, one time president of the Federal Farm Board, and other manufacturers of farm machinery have taken issue with a recent resolution of the state board of agriculture concerning farm machinery prices. It is their intention to present the manufacturers' side of the price question. Prof. W. E. Grimes, head of the department of agricultural economics; Prof. R. I. Throckmorton, head of the department of agronomy; and Prof. F. C. Fenton, head of the department of agricultural engineering, as well as Dean L. E. Call and other interested faculty members have been invited to sit in on the conference.

There is a possibility that this conference might result in cheaper prices for farm machinery for Kansas farmers.

Mrs. W. H. Warren, Dillhart, Tex., was a guest of her daughter Ellen at the Alpha Delta Pi house several days last week.

DEBATERS DISCUSS RECONSTRUCTION PLAN

Kansas State Women's Team Argues on La Follette Bill With Missouri Team.

The Kansas State College women's debate team met a team from South East Missouri Teachers college Wednesday night. The debaters for Kansas State were: Arlene Smith, Topeka; Loraine Mullen, Hutchinson; and Mabel Louise Whitford, Hutchinson. The affirmative team was composed of, Catherine Fisher, Della Damran, and Juanita Madcalf. Mrs. W. H. Warren, Dillhart, Tex., was a guest of her daughter Ellen at the Alpha Delta Pi house several days last week.

the bill at the present time and the construction of public works begun immediately. The negative side contended that the five and one-half billion dollars could not be raised by the people of the United States without making conditions worse than they are now, that the plans laid down in the LaFollette bill for improvements were for improvements the United States did not need; and that the government, once started on a project of deepening rivers, building public buildings and the like, would not stop with an expenditure of five and one half billion dollars; and that when this program of public works was completed there would be the same condition that is existing at the present time.

Juanita Walker, Valley Falls, spent several days at the Alpha Xi Delta house. Miss Walker was graduated in the general science division in 1931.

Report Success of First Get-Together

The success of the first annual Engineers Alloy was evident last night when approximately 400 engineers assembled in Nichols gymnasium to be entertained with a program arranged by Sigma Tau and Steel Ring, honorary engineering organizations.

The entertainment started earlier than scheduled when "Kingfish and His Mystic Knights of the Sea" arrived, early and full of excess energy which was worked off in a half hour of "penny grabbing."

With M. H. Davison, Manhattan, chairman of the entertainment committee acting as master of ceremonies, Emmett Breen, El Dorado, and Fred Smith, Junction City, were first on the program with a fifteen minute roping exhibition which ended when the careless Breen attempted to hog-tie the entire left wing.

Dr. G. B. Salkey, local osteopath and magician, then gave an interesting demonstration of the fact that the more you look the less you see. This was followed by a short talk by M. A. Durand, who commented on the success of the mixer.

Paul O'Perry, mahager of Engineers Alloy and president of Steel Ring, and R. C. Roldans, president of Sigma Tau, gave short talks explaining the purpose and aims of their respective organizations.

Following this a quartet composed of K. M. Hemker and W. B. Hemker, Great Bend, Dick West, Hartford, and Dwain Day, Manhattan sang a few numbers. Prof. L. M. Jorgenson then gave a short talk on the aims of the engineering department in which he stated that "Students come to college to acquire a sense of fight and a sense of loyalty, which is one of the finest things that can be derived from a college education."

Following Professor Jorgenson's talk there was a short intermission during which the "Kingfish and His Mystic Knights of the Sea" again staged their penny grabbing contest. The entertainment was concluded with ten rounds of boxing, a free-for-all by the now completely exhausted "Knights of the Sea," and refreshments.

Instructors are given two weeks after final examinations in which to report grades to the registrar's office. These two weeks are up

BILLIKENS LOSE TO K-AGGIES IN ONE-SIDED GAME

CORSAUTMEN TAKE THE LEAD EARLY TO DOWN ST. LOUISANS 29-15.

RESERVES ENTERTAIN CROWD

Tilt Becomes Wild Scramble When Second String Men Are Inserted To Relieve Regulars.

In a game that ended in a wild, scrambling mass of confusion, the Kansas State basketball team won their fourth home game by overwhelming the St. Louis university Billikens 29 to 15 here Tuesday night to avenge an early season defeat at St. Louis.

Displaying a game of basketball equal to that which has won them three home conference games, the K-Aggie quintet had little difficulty in subduing the Missouri aggregation after the first period.

At the beginning of the game, the St. Louis five opened up with a brilliant passing attack which kept the Corsautmen busy. Using their tall pivot man to a good advantage, the Billikens kept the first ten minutes even. At one time the score was knotted at 3-all, but Boyd put the Wildcats ahead with a field goal.

Toward the close of the first period, the Kansas State five began to solve the St. Louis tip-off plays and take possession of the ball. With Graham, Auker, Skradski, and Boyd dropping in goals, the K-Aggies rolled up a 13 to 6 score at the end of the first half.

Again working the St. Louis tip-offs to get possession of the ball in the second half, the Corsautmen took the game in hand with Auker and Skradski finding the hoop repeatedly. By this time the St. Louis passing attack went to pieces and the K-Aggie quintet did almost as it pleased.

Both teams erratic. Both teams were wild in their shooting, missing many long tosses, short shots, and set-ups. The K-Aggies scored best by working the ball in close and then shooting.

Toward the last of the game rough playing was noticeable on the part of both teams, many fouls being committed which the referee could not see. No one was put out of the game for excessive fouling, however.

With about five minutes to play, and the game on ice, Coach Corsaut inserted his reserves to take the place of the tired regulars.

Graham and Breen teamed well in the forward positions, with Breen playing his usual brilliant floorwork game. Skradski worked well at center and Auker and Boyd played their guard positions with precision. A short, quick-passing game was featured by the Corsautmen.

Auker Leads in Scoring. The Kansas State defense allowed the visitors only two field goals the first half and three the second, while the offense scored 13 goals on the visitors.

Auker led the scoring, accounting for 11 points with four field goals and three charity tosses. Skradski and Graham were next with six points each. McCarthy, hot-shot of the St. Louis team, was held to five points to lead his team in scoring.

Pete's Punches

By Milfred Peters

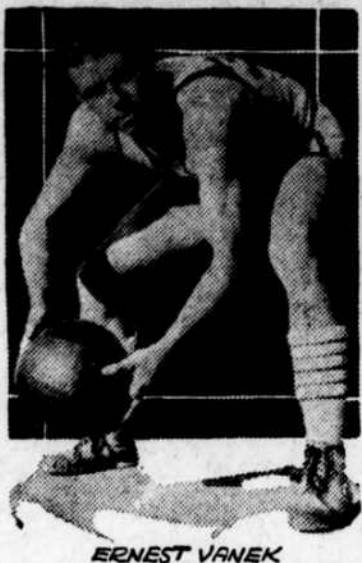

The Wildcat will have its last crack at the Kansas Jayhawk tonight. Even the law of averages would say that no team can win four straight victories over another, especially when the first three have been so closely contested.

The winner of tonight's basketball squabble will have a good chance to overhaul the conference leading Tigers. The Tigers have played five games and won four of them. All four games were played on the home court, which means that they must play almost all their remaining games away from home. That makes a difference, believe it or not.

The Kansas State quintet played a neat game last Tuesday against the St. Louis Billikens, although it did almost end in a comedy and riot. Both teams did everything but slug, claw, and bite. The referee must have been grandstanding because he got almost as much attention as the antics of the players did.

"Bus" Brees, classy Kansas State boxer, added another scalp to his belt by winning a close decision from Paul Humbert, Topeka, last Monday night. Brees had more difficulty with Humbert than he has had with most of his opponents.

Injured K. U. Guard

ERNEST VANEK

Ernest Vanek, playing his first year of varsity basketball at Kansas university, has been giving a rather good account of himself. He has been out recently with a knee injury but Coach Allen asserts Vanek will be ready for future games on the schedule. He may not play against the Wildcats here Friday, however.

Kansas State wrestlers will have to do their stuff when they meet the Oklahoma university Sooners tonight. The Sooners are rated as good as the K-Aggies, both being undefeated in Big Six competition this year. The winner of this match will undoubtedly end up as conference champions.

June Roberts is leading Kansas State grapplers in scoring. He has won all four of his matches by falls, scoring a total of 20 points. He will meet one of the best matmen in his weight tonight when he locks horns with Lewis, national collegiate champion in 1930.

K-Aggie basketballers have scored more fouls than they have field goals in the current court season. They have bagged 124 field goals and were guilty of making 145 personal fouls.

Joe Pickel, Big Six wrestling champion in the 126-pound division in 1931 who has completed his three years of varsity mat competition, is making himself a serious contender for a place on the Olympic grappling team by working out regularly. He is wrestling in the 134 pound class.

The St. Louis Billikens, whom the K-Aggies defeated Tuesday night, won a court game from the Nebraska Huskers at Lincoln Wednesday night.

Men's Intramurals

Wrestling and handball are the next events on the intramural program. Entry lists are coming in fast and the handball schedule will be started Monday, February 15. Wrestling entries will weigh in Monday, February 15, and the matches, all weights, will be run off the following day.

The number of entrants for each organization in the handball singles has been cut to five this year, in comparison with ten last year. Each organization is entitled to enter four teams in the doubles.

According to Professor Washburn, intramural director, 273 men took part in the wrestling matches last year, and an equal, if not larger number, are expected to take part this year.

At the present time Delta Sigma Phi is setting the pace in the race for the intramural championship with a total of 513 points. Phi Kappa Tau is in second place with 437 points, and Phi Sigma Kappa is resting in third place with 388 points. Kappa Sigma, last year's champions, and present holder of the intramural trophy cup, are in fourth place with 375 points.

FORMER ATHLETE DIES

Bert Barnes, former Kansas State athlete and captain of the football team in 1916, died at his home in San Antonio, Tex., Monday, February 8, according to news received here.

Barnes, who formerly lived at Smith Center, graduated in veterinary medicine in 1917 and entered the army and served as a first lieutenant during the war. After his retirement from the army he entered the insurance business and located in San Antonio. His advance in that line had been rapid and at the time of his death he was president of his branch of the firm. Mrs. Barnes, a son and daughter survive him.

FRESH PANHELL FORMAL

Gretta Woodson, blues singer with Howard Fordham's orchestra from Wichita, will be one of the attractions of the Freshmen women's Panhellenic party at the Wareham ballroom, Friday, February 12.

MATMEN TO MEET SOONERS

Winners of Big Six Match Tonight Will Probably Be Conference Champions.

Kansas State matmen will attempt to break the first place tie between the K-Aggies and the Oklahoma university Sooners at Norman tonight. In all probability, the winner of this match will become Big Six wrestling champions.

Neither Kansas State nor Oklahoma has suffered a conference defeat on the mat this season. Coach B. R. Patterson's men have defeated Iowa State and the University of Kansas. Sooner grapplers have downed Nebraska university, Missouri university, and Kansas university. Oklahoma has developed one of the best teams in recent years and it will be a match for the Kansas State champions.

Cosch Patterson had tryouts for the team the early part of this week. In the 118-pound class, Watson won his trial and will wrestle against either Garvin or Englis of Oklahoma.

In the trials in the 126-pound division, Burbank won a decision over Campbell and will meet White, Oklahoma. Patterson defeated Tempero in the tryouts and will represent Kansas State in the 135-pound division against Turner.

Captain Billy Doyle will wrestle either Gunter or Roebuck in the 145-pound class. June Roberts won the right to meet Lewis, Oklahoma, who was winner of the national collegiate meet in the 145-pound division in 1930.

Bozarth again defeated Miller in the trials and will wrestle against Eubanks, captain of the Oklahoma team and conference winner in the 165-pound class last year. Miller will wrestle in the 175-pound class against the Teachers tomorrow night. Thiele will be matched against Childers of Oklahoma in the heavyweight class.

Saturday night the K-Aggie matmen will meet the Central State Teachers college at Edmond, Okla.

4-H CLUB GIVES PLAYLET

"Oh Suzanna," a playlet, was the Collegiate 4-H club contribution to the Farm and Home week program Tuesday night in the auditorium.

The cast of the stunt, which was presented through the courtesy of the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity by whom it was composed, was Pa Perkins, Earl Regnier, Spearville; Ma Perkins, Martha Lou Perkins, Lawrence; Hired Man, Leonard Rees, Abilene; and Mandy, Mary Langvardt, Junction City.

Musicians were Billy Washburn, Ottawa, guitar; and David Crippen, Council Grove, trumpet.

4-H CLUB ENTERTAINS

The 4-H club girls entertained the Master Farm Home Makers and members of the extension department at tea Tuesday afternoon from 4:30 until 5:30 o'clock at the 4-H club house, 1317 Laramie.

Veteran Jayhawk

Lee Page, who will probably hold down a guard position on the Kansas university basketball team that meets the Wildcats here Friday night, Page is one of the standbys on the Jayhawk squad and is one of the chief reasons that K. U. opponents have been held to comparatively small scores this year.

At The Theatres

AT THE DICKINSON

Atmosphere in "No One Man" playing at the Dickinson tonight and tomorrow goes to Palm Beach—and balmy and sophisticated and all that. Carole Lombard, the not too beautiful blonde, seeks for the "real thing." She seeks for two marriages and then her second husband is conveniently put out of the way by a heart attack. She has opposition—a bad woman. For the third and last time she falls in love, this time with a doctor, a serious man. And there the touching element enters—she becomes a nurse in his hospital.—N. C.

AT THE WAREHAM

Lawrence Tibbett as Terry, a round playful cherub in the marines, finds himself stranded between two good women—thank goodness for his sake they're both good. A shore leave in Cuba. A brunette who sells peanuts, a war and of course a wound, a recuperation in the states with the blond—well, anyway he marries the blond and thinks of the brunette. Ten years later on a trip to Cuba, he finds the brunette is dead. He brings the child back to the blond in the states—and everyone is happy.—N. C.

AT THE VARSITY "Maker of Men"

"Maker of Men" is just another college movie. It saves itself by dealing with an individual case—using fraternities, pretty coeds, and the college cheer leader only as a background. It is a clean cut story—don't cough, there are clean cut college stories. In case your inclination to sneeze is too much for you, here's the story—judge for yourself. Jack Holt as a hard-boiled football coach about to lose his position because of a poor football team, looks to his son, Richard Cromwell, to save him. The son, having heard nothing but football since childhood, is a bit fed up on it all. He tries to conquer his fear and hatred of the game, but is unsuccessful. His father terms him a "quitter," and only when Bob, Richard Cromwell, makes good as a "star" at another school, are they reconciled. Of course, the team on which Bob stars is the rival team of the one Jack Holt coaches. And the losing of the game in which Bob scored should have "ousted" Uncle Dudley—Jack Holt, but we are left with the feeling that things turned out all right after all.

As I have said, the story is clean cut. Every high school boy should see it.—R. W.

ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE WILL BE UP IN THE AIR

THIS YEAR'S EVENT WILL FEATURE MANY AERIAL EXHIBITS.

GLIDER FLIGHTS TO BE MADE

Committees Formulate Plans For The Exhibition of Wares In The Engine House.

"This business of open house gets tougher every year," sigh members of committees as they meet to discuss new features of the exhibits. However, R. C. Rohrdanz, ChE4, Manhattan, manager of the 1932 event, and his troupe of co-workers are formulating plans to make the twelfth annual Engineers' Open House, which will be held at the college March 18 and 19, the brightest spot on the engineering division's calendar. Nearly 5,000 persons attended last year's event, and while no estimates have been made for this year, it is thought that attendance will exceed that of 1931.

Committees have been appointed, and every department in the engineering division will exhibit the newest developments in its field. Doors of the engineering building will be opened at 7 o'clock Friday night, March 18, and will remain open to visitors until 10 o'clock. A system of flood lights illuminating the building will make the night opening doubly attractive to visitors.

To Make Glider Flights.

On Saturday, March 19, the building will be open from 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A special feature of the afternoon program will consist of a series of exhibition flights by members of the Kansas State Aeronautical club, in which a glider constructed by members of the club, under the supervision of Prof. C. E. Pearce, will be used. Flights will be made on a schedule, and will continue throughout the afternoon, it was announced by L. A. Gore, ME3, Bushton, president of the club. The annual St. Patrick's Day prom, an open house feature, will be staged in recreation center, Anderson hall, Saturday night, at which time a "St. Pat." elected from a group of delegates chosen from each department of the division, will be chosen.

The February issue of the Kansas State Engineer, publication of the engineering division, will be devoted almost exclusively to open house activities. About 400 copies of this issue will be sent to various high schools over the state, and letters will be sent to high schools inviting the students to attend this year's event, according to N. F. Resch, AR4, Independence, publicity manager for the event.

Engineers Assembly Planned

Other features will include a special engineers' chapel to be held Saturday morning. Arrangements are not complete, but it is thought that some prominent person will be engaged to address the group. The Aeronautical club will have on display a number of airplane motors, and a Spad plane which was used in the World War. This organization also has made plans to have an autogyro or "windmill" type plane in flight exhibitions. It was thought by those in charge that this type of plane could be obtained in Kansas City. Other probable aerial exhibits will include a Curtiss-Wright Junior airplane and possibly a captive balloon which will be stationed above the engineering building. In reality, this year's open house will be "up in the air."

Last year it was therein, a new musical instrument played by air currents created from the player's hands waving above the instrument, which attracted the greatest amount of attention, but it can be only a matter of conjecture as to what the chief attraction will be at this year's event. A true conception of the wonders of this display can only be had by a visit to the "land of mystery," for to such will the engineering building be converted when the exhibit opens in March.

CONFERENCE ON ENGINEERING

Prof. R. G. Kloeffer and K. D. Grimes of the electrical engineering department left yesterday afternoon for Salina where they will confer with H. S. Kilby of the Kansas Power company in regard to research projects in the electrical engineering field.

NEW PARKING LOT SOON

To Be North of Engineering Building—West of Shops.

A new parking lot for students' motor cars is being made on the ground just north of the engineering building, according to G. R. Pauling, superintendent of maintenance of Kansas State college. Funds from which the laborers are being paid have been supplied by relief in the local unemployment situation.

The old parking lot is to be abandoned and, after grading is completed on it, will be turned into another athletic practice field.

AHEARN IS "Y" SPEAKER

Mike Ahearn will be the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A., which will be held in recreation center, February 18. The Rev. A. M. Reed, pastor of the United Presbyterian church will conduct devotions.

A number of selections will be played by an instrumental trio, conducted by Maurice Schruben.

GEORGE AND MARTHA BALL MONDAY NIGHT

But Powdered Wigs Will Be Taboo At Celebration in Rec Center.

In cooperation with a nationwide celebration, Kansas State students and faculty members will have an opportunity to attend a Washington's ball on Monday night, February 22, in recreation center. The dance will be informal and will not be a costume affair, but special numbers and decorations will give an Eighteenth Century and patriotic atmosphere.

Sponsored by Morfar Board.

Washington's birthday will be a holiday from classes, and the ball will be a climax to the celebrations in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. Morfar Board, senior women's honorary society, is in charge of the ball.

Tickets will be 50 cents a couple or 25 cents a person, and may be purchased in Anderson hall, Friday and Saturday or the open Monday night. The number will be limited to prevent the floor from becoming too crowded.

Observed Over Nation.

Washington celebration balls will be held all over the country next Monday night. In Topeka a commemorative dance has been planned by the special Washington bicentennial celebration commission. George Washington, personally, was a lover of social affairs and frequently attended the dances of his period. The Kansas State Washington ball will be entirely a modern dance, say those in charge, but will be in keeping with the spirit of the day.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

The best laid plans of mice and men—and even Kappa Sig—often go astray. Rumor has it members of the local order conceived the idea of having a beauty queen in every room. That is, the picture of one. The panels bearing the pictures of Kansas State beauties were found missing from the Varsity theatre. The business manager of the yearbook was notified. Shortly thereafter, coming from the direction of his own house, came the man-of-a-thousand-worries bearing the panels. The rooms of the stone mansion were so unadorned. . . . Barbara Lautz took one of the nearest tumbles of the year yesterday when she went ker-plunk in front of the Kappa house. . . . Gene Charles might as well enrol in physical education and get the exercise as well as the free shower bath. Yesterday he nearly drowned himself twice trying to get a drink in Kedzie. . . . The Kappa pledges see the sun rise each morning on their way to school. For they must be on the hill by 7:30, regardless of the fact they may not have classes. . . . Pledges of one of the fraternities, sent by the active Friday afternoon to secure paddles, motored to Kansas City to attend the auto show and didn't return until Sunday. . . . Heman Ibsen had to prove his prowess early yesterday morning when he, on his way to feed guinea pigs, walked through the judging pavilion. The Herefords judged last week end were by accident left in the pavilion without food over Sunday. When Ibsen walked on the scene, they made a run for him. The ending is a happy-ever-after one, with Ibsen well and the Herefords fed.

Mrs. Florence Day, Hazel Lyness and Oma Bishop visited in Abilene Sunday.

FOUNDER'S DAY RADIO PROGRAM ON AIR TONIGHT

DEANS WILL TELL OF PROGRESS MADE BY THEIR DIVISIONS.

WILL DRAMATIZE HISTORY

Entertainment, Starting at 10:35, Will Be For Alumni, Former Students—In Five Acts.

Alumni, students, prospective students, and friends of Kansas State will hear events in its history re-enacted when the Founder's day program goes on the air from station KSAC at 10:15 tonight.

During five minutes at the opening of the program, Jessie M. Machir, registrar, will read a poem, "The Old College Bell," which was written by an alumnus. The sound of the bell itself will be used as a tone background for the reading.

President F. D. Farrell will speak for ten minutes immediately following the broadcast of the bell.

The framework and theme of the broadcast is a dramatic presentation of the history of the college in five fifteen minute acts under the direction of H. Miles Heberer. The first act comes at 10:30, the second at 11:00, the third at 11:30, the fourth at 12:00, and the fifth at 12:25.

In the intervals between episodes, the deans of each of the divisions of the college will give a two-minute talk on the history and accomplishments of his division and special musical numbers will be furnished by student musical organizations.

Dr. J. T. Willard, vice president, will speak for two minutes on some of the early history of the college, and Prof. R. J. Barnett and Kenney L. Ford will tell of the history and plans of the K. S. C. Alumni association.

Henry Cronkite, Belle Plaine, Kansas State's all-American football star, speaks from 11:56 until 11:58.

Ten members of the faculty who have been associated with the college for 25 years or more are the cast for the fifth and final act of the dramatized history. They are Prof. M. F. Ahearn, Dr. H. H. King, Prof. B. L. Remick, Prof. J. E. Kammeier, Dr. J. V. Cortelyou, Prof. J. O. Hamilton, Prof. Ada Rice, Prof. W. H. Andrews, Prof. R. R. Price, and Prof. George Dean.

TRI DELTS' OPEN HOUSE VISITORS TOTAL 1,350

Students, Faculty, Townsfolk Visit New Home Over Week End.

Delta Delta Delta sorority counted 1,350 faculty members, townspeople, and students at the formal opening of the sorority's new home at 1834 Laramie.

Open house hours were divided into two groups, students were invited Saturday night from 7 until 9 and faculty members and townspeople Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6. The receiving line was composed of Lucile Correll, Manhattan, president; Miss Mary Chapin, Lincoln, Neb., former national treasurer of Tri Delta; Mrs. R. F. Roth, Russell, province deputy; Mrs. Henry Pehling, Sedalia, Mo., housemother; Mrs. Raymond Brooks, Manhattan, all-ance president; Mrs. J. H. Madison, Manhattan, patroness.

There were flowers throughout the house which were sent by alumni, friends and merchants. Gifts from sororities and fraternities were also on display.

KAPPA PHI TO ENTERTAIN

"Around the World with Cupid" is the name of the play which will be presented at Kappa Phi meeting tonight in the Browning-Athenian hall at 7:30 o'clock.

The play consists of the portrayal of brides and marriage customs of various countries. Girls who will take part and countries they will represent are as follows: Evelyn Nuzman, Japan; Anita Ann Humbert, China; Ruth Cook, India; Mildred McMullen, Arabia; Joyce Andell, Africa; Mildred Edlin, America. Burdette Falen, Ruth McNay, Marie Davis, and Pauline Smith will appear as Chinese coolies.

Shops Owe Real Debt To Dear Old Saint Val

The anniversary of one man's idea is past. The question of the brilliance or asininity of the idea is neither here nor there now; but the fact remains St. Valentine's day is over. February 14, 1932, will long be remembered by some Kansas State students. It was the date of some decisive battles, some unexpected announcements, several important decisions (not for publication, as yet), innumerable disappointments, and as many surprises. Judging from the activities of the florists, postmen, telegraph boys, and drug stores, the depression doesn't seem to have affected the hearts of Kansas men. "For love, a man will do anything," the sages tell us. Wonder if the "loss" of a new bill fold and the appearance of a huge box of chocolates from a certain co-ed's desk could possibly have any relation—the good old cause and effect.

According to statements from the owners of the Aggieville drug stores more Valentine boxes of candy were sold this year than last, with the more expensive and larger packages going first.

The florists of Manhattan did a rushing business, and the postal authorities sweated long and hard over loveless specials. One of the postmen was heard to remark, "It's a mighty good thing it's cold and damp today or Manhattan would be minus a postoffice." Due to the weather, therefore, the fire department was not called out.

FT. RILEY OFFICER AT FORUM

Captain Elliot Will Use Films Illustrating Talk on His Philippine Trip.

An illustrated lecture on a "Review of the Philippines" will be given by Capt. Lowell A. Elliott, Fort Riley, at student forum, February 17, in the college cafeteria.

The films which will be shown were made by Captain Elliott while he was stationed in the Philippine Islands. At present he is a chemical warfare officer at Fort Riley, and is recommended highly as a speaker.

The showing of the films will begin at 12:25 o'clock. Students not eating at the cafeteria are invited to attend this lecture.

BANQUET WINDS UP FARM WEEK PROGRAM

Montgomery Wins Attendance Contest—Master Farmers Are Present.

The Eighteenth Annual Farm and home week on Kansas State campus wound up with an achievement banquet Friday night in Thompson hall, attended by more than 350 visitors and Kansas State hosts. A feature of the dinner was the announcement of the winner of the attendance contest, conducted annually as a part of the week's program. For the fourth time, Montgomery county, with a delegation of seventy, was named winner of the award. Nineteen students from this southwestern county are enrolled here this year.

Mohler and Legge Present.

Speakers at the banquet were J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture; Alexander Legge, former president of the federal farm board; President F. D. Farrell; Dean R. W. Babcock; Miss Amy Kelly, state home demonstration agent leader; and L. C. Williams of the extension division. W. A. Long, Fowler, Master Farmer of last year, was toastmaster.

An important part of the final event of the week was the presentation of the Master Farm Home-Makers and Master Homemakers are Mrs. R. Frank King, Delphos; Mrs. Robert W. Goodman, St. John; Mrs. Robert F. Lister, Ottawa; Mrs. Harry E. Reed, Smith Center; and Mrs. Charles J. Allen, Liberty.

Master Farmers Are Named. Master Farmers honored this year and presented at the banquet at the banquet by Raymond Gilkeson, associate editor of Kansas Farmer, were: Grover C. Poole, '02, Manhattan; O. E. Winkler, Paxico, '14, Hoel, Ulysses; C. F. McCauley, Coldwater; Julian M. Hulphie, Dodge City; B. E. Winchester, Stafford; J. E. Stout, Cottonwood Falls; Wm. C. Hall, Coffeyville; M. A. Martin, Paola; and R. D. Wyckoff, Luray.

MUSIC FOR THE BANQUET, which was broadcast over station KSAC, was by the Collegiate 4-H club orchestra and the college trio.

Each year sees Farm and Home week drawing more and more visitors from all parts of the state. For the college and for the hundreds who visit the campus during the week it is one of the outstanding events of the year. It has been held since 1915, and other farm gatherings held yearly prior to that year, were known as the State Farmers' Institute.

FRICK RETURNS

Dr. E. J. Frick, professor in the division of veterinary medicine, returned Saturday, February 13, from New Orleans, where he had appeared on the program of the Southern States Veterinary Medical association which was in session there February 10 and 11.

TO BUILD TELEVISION SET

Kansas State Will Be Ready When Federal Body Grants Right To Operate.

That plans for a television set to be constructed by student in the electrical engineering department, are definitely under way, was revealed yesterday by Dean R. A. Seaton, of the engineering division. Dean Seaton returned Friday afternoon from Washington, D. C., where he had represented the college in a plea to the Federal Radio Commission for a license which would grant the college permission to construct such a set.

The action of the commission will not be made known at the present time, Dean Seaton said, but work on the details of the new set will continue. When asked if the engineering division would sponsor a television display at Engineers' open house, to be held here March 18 and 19, Seaton replied in the affirmative, and further stated that the new set would probably not be completed at that time.

HEAR OF HOOVER DAM

Engineers Will Hear J. C. Dalgarn At Seminar.

J. C. Dalgarn, Manhattan, CE2, will speak at the civil engineering seminar to be held next Thursday afternoon. Dalgarn's subject will be "Aerial Surveys at the Hoover Dam-site." Civil engineering students will also make definite plans for Engineers' open house activities at this meeting.

CRASH FATAL TO WIFE OF PAST INSTRUCTOR

Mrs. C. M. Leonard Killed Near Guthrie, Okla.; Husband Critically Hurt.

Mrs. C. M. Leonard, wife of a former instructor in the engineering division at the college was killed and her husband critically injured in an automobile accident which occurred near Guthrie, Okla., last Saturday afternoon, according to information received here Saturday night by Leonard's parents, Mrs. and Mrs. Marcus Leonard, 1114 Houston street. Mrs. Leonard is the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Schultze, formerly of Manhattan, but now residents of Chapman.

Leonard was formerly an instructor in the mechanical engineering department at the college. He left here two years ago to take an assistant professorship position on the faculty of the Oklahoma A. and M. college at Stillwater, Okla.

According to a report received here the accident occurred when the car Leonard was driving skidded on the wet pavement. In attempting to regain control of the car Leonard crossed to the left side of the road. A car approaching from around a curve struck the Leonard car and overturned it, killing Mrs. Leonard. It was at first believed that Mr. Leonard was not seriously injured, but according to later reports, his condition is considered critical.

MEAL TICKETS ON SALE

Meal tickets at $5.00 were put on sale at the college cafeteria for the first time yesterday. According to Mrs. Bessie West, professor of institutional economics, "since we made as much reduction as was possible in the cost of food at the beginning of the year, the purpose of the meal tickets is not to lower the price of meals, but it is for the convenience of those who do not wish to carry change around with them."

Mrs. West stated that the meal tickets were the result of many requests by both students and faculty members who eat regularly at the cafeteria, and seven were sold during breakfast on the first day of the sale.

K-AGGIE CAGERS INVADE SOONER CAMP TONIGHT

CORSAUTMEN HOLD ONE VICTORY OVER THIRD PLACE SOUTHERNERS.

REGULAR QUINTET TO START

Although in Fifth Place, The Kansas State Five Will Attempt To Upset The Oklahomans.

Still smarting from their defeat at the hands of the Jayhawks, the Kansas State cagers will take their spite out on the Oklahoma university Soners at Norman tonight.

Although eliminated from the championship race the Wildcats will try to make it tough going for the teams higher up in the conference standings.

One Victory Over Sooners.

In their first encounter this season, the K-Aggie quintet took the measure of the Oklahomans by a 31 to 24 score. This was one of the best played and fastest games of any seen in Nichols gymnasium this year, and the Sooners will be on edge to retaliate for this defeat.

Regulars Will Start.

Coach C. W. Corsaut will probably start the same five which have been bearing the brunt of the battle. This will put Skradski at center, Breen and Graham at forwards, and Boyd and Auker at guard. Corsaut also expects to use Hank Dalton, elongated center, to get the tip. He believes that if his team can get possession of the ball a reasonable per cent of the time, it will have a good chance to come out of the game on the long end of the score.

The nine men making the trip are Captain Eldon Auker, Emmet Breen, Ralph Graham, Bus Boyd, Andy Skradski, Pete Fairbank, George Wiggins, Hank Dalton, and Stanley Brockway.

LANDSCAPING PLANNED FOR OLD PARKING LOT

Ground South Of Engineering Building To Be Beautified Soon.

Prof. L. R. Quinlan and assistants in the horticulture department have worked out a plan in landscaping the engineering building by which the athletic department will still have the use of the space for a practice field up to a line as far north as Kedzie hall.

The space immediately in front of the engineering building will be left open to give it a better setting, and an interesting view southward from the building. Groups of oak, tulip, and hard maple trees will be planted irregularly along the sides of the road on either side of this space. At various places at the sides of the trees very informal groups of shrubbery will be planted, carrying out the naturalistic effect. The grass seed which was sown on this lawn last fall is making a good growth, and the lawn is in good condition.

MUSIC STUDENTS WILL GIVE RECITAL TODAY

Program Will Start At 5 O'clock And Will Feature Voice And Piano.

A student recital featuring selections of voice and piano music will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the college auditorium under the direction of the department of music.

The program to be given by the music students is as follows: on the piano, two selections, "Allegretto" and "Rondo" from "Sonata," Opus 14, No. 1, by Beethoven, will be played by Lucille Correll. Helen Row, Larned, will sing two numbers, "The Singing Girl of Shan," by Barnett, and "Wings of the Night," by Watts. Margaret Higdon, South Haven, will play Tchaikowsky's "umoresque," Opus 10, No. 2. Jo Marie Wise, Manhattan, will sing "Omnia Mai Fu" (Serse), by Handel, and "The Open Road," by Ross. Benjamin Markley, Bennington, will sing "O, Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star" (Tannhauser), by Wagner, and "The Trumpeter," by Dix. Two selections from Schumann, "Warum," and "Grillen," will be played by Alice Clema. Katherine Peterson will sing "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," by Hayden, and "Villanelle," by Dell 'Aqua. Helen Louise Davis will play the "Valse in A," by Levitski.

D. H. Edelblute, Ag3, is in the college hospital with a sore throat.

SCIENCE CLUB TO MEET

Will Hear Noted Plant Physiologist Talk About Research Work.

Dr. T. D. MacDougal of the Carnegie Institution at Washington, D. C. will talk to the Science club Thursday, February 18, at 7:30 o'clock in C26. Doctor MacDougal will use as his subject, "Significant Developments in Physiology, especially in Plant Life."

Doctor MacDougal was for many years a professor of plant physiology at the University of Minnesota. Later he became the director of the laboratories in connection with the New York Botanical gardens. From this position, he was chosen to be the head of the Desert Laboratory located near Tucson, Arizona, where he has lived and studied desert plant life for several years. Prof. D. C. Warren, professor of poultry husbandry, said, "Doctor MacDougal's talk should be interesting. He has spent many years studying deserts growths and is one of the leading physiologists in the United States."

CHEST WILL PROVIDE SHORT TIME LOANS

Parrish Explains Purpose of Student Aid Fund Now Being Raised.

What is the so-called "student aid fund" for which solicitations are now being made?

Prof. Fred L. Parrish, chairman of the Campus Chest fund, has answered this question for Kansas State students.

"Unlike most colleges and universities," Professor Parrish explained, "Kansas State college has no fund which is available to its students caught in emergencies requiring small loans for short periods. The old student loan funds are powerless, due to the conditions under which the funds are administered, to be of benefit to students in frequent emergency cases.

"The purpose of the student aid fund is to provide emergency aid, in the form of small loans over short periods to students in desperate need. This money can be used over and over again. Appeals for student aid on Kansas State campus were made direct to the Campus Chest committee this year. Feeling that the need was a real one, the committee, in view of the present economic conditions, rejected all off-campus appeals, and decided to make an appeal this year for the aid for our own students on Kansas State campus."

At Kansas State college 1,360 students are wholly self-supporting. And nearly half that many are partially self-supporting. Some of these students have felt the need of a short time loan, and now a fund is being provided whereby students may obtain this kind of a loan.

PAY BIG MONEY FOR NAMING MUSICAL REVUE

Tryouts For March Event Held By Heberer Tomorrow and Thursday.

The opportunity of the season—a chance to win some money! The Manhattan Theatre is offering a cash prize of $25 for a clever, original name for the musical revue which is to be produced March 11 and 12. Details concerning the submission of suggestions will be published Friday.

The revue, which will contain about 20 acts, will be of the same type of production as Carroll's Vanities, "Billy Rose's 'Crazy Quilt,' "Vanities," Billy Rose's "Crazy Quilt," composed of instrumental novelties, choruses, sketches—all original. Naturally the suggestion for a name that will be most favorably considered will be one that is short, catchy and as different as the acts to be given.

Sketches are being submitted by Prof. H. W. Davis, Prof. R. I. Thackrey and Prof. H. W. Breeden. Miss Jo Young has been secured to direct the dances.

"We've had some mighty good stuff turned in already, and we'll welcome anything anyone has to offer," Prof. Heberer stated today.

Robert Brown, Prof. H. W. Breeden, and Raymond Spillman have submitted original songs. General tryouts for the revue are being held Wednesday and Thursday. Appointments may be secured in G55. At the same time tryouts will be held for the last play of the Theatre season, which is to be presented April 22 and 23.

ORCHESTRIS MEETS TONIGHT

An original dance by each member will be a feature of Orchestris meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the women's gymnasium. Orchestris is a national dancing organization whose membership is limited to those who have special talent in that art.

OLD TIME DRAMA IN CAMPUS CHEST CHAPEL TODAY

ANOTHER HEBERER SKIT PROGRAMMED FOR STUDENT GROUP.

HAT WILL NOT BE PASSED

New Short Time Loan Scheme Will Be Explained, Preceding Opening of Drive to Get Donations.

Kansas State students will cheer the hero, both the villain, and weep for the poor little heroine when Prof. H. Miles Heberer and his troupe of actors present "The Wolf" as a part of the Campus Chest assembly today.

There will be no derbies passed at the assembly. But that does not concern the two casts of characters that will act and cry "wolf! wolf! wolf!" The characters include Pet-Beach, Manhattan; William Summers, the Lion, played by Alden Grimes, the Wolf, played by Ted Krider, Newton; and Ellen Summers, the Lamb, by Margaret Bacon, Manhattan.

Laziness a Prime Factor.

Those reading the lines are: the Lion, Kingsley Given; the part of the Wolf by H. Miles Heberer; and the Lamb by Mary Myers Elliott. Professor Heberer stated that laziness was the cause of the separation of action and lines, and not an attempt on the part of Kansas State to adopt Eugene O'Neill's method of play production.

Music and Speeches, Too.

A string trio composed of Mabel Russell, piano; Marjory Fitch, cello; and Marjory Pyle, violin, will play Hayden's Minuet. Helen Dobson, Carol Moore, and Jo Marie Dobbis will sing "Massa Dear," and "The Sleigh."

Prof. Fred L. Parrish, chairman of the Campus Chest committee, will talk on short time loans for students, and Ernest Reed, Norton, will present the need of a loan fund. The Campus Chest drive for donations will close Wednesday. The assembly program will be in charge of Prof. Howard T. Hill, public speaking department.

LOUISE COLEMAN SELECTED KANSAS STATE SWEETHEART

Wichita Coed Is Announced Crowd's Beauty Candidates Parade. Favorite At Royal Purple Ball.

Louise Coleman of Wichita was selected Kansas State sweetheart at the Royal Purple Ball held at the Warehouse ballroom Saturday night by popular vote of those present. Along with several other coeds Miss Coleman was nominated last week by the fraternities and the selection Saturday night decided the girl who will be known as sweetheart in the 1932 Royal Purple. The sweetheart candidates were presented by James Chapman and C. M. Rhoades of the yearbook staff.

MANY MORE OF THEM.

On February 16, 1863, 69 years ago today, members of the Kansas state legislature passed the bill which established Kansas State college. Today not much except the old college bell remains the same as in that little college of 69 years ago.

In those years growth has taken place in numbers, buildings, and equipment. The school has gained a reputation as a leader in its field. Its graduates have brought credit to themselves and to the institution by their activities in all lines, in agriculture, engineering, home economics, and scientific investigations. Its faculty are respected for their practical ideals for the betterment of Kansas and her people.

Such progress does not come without effort, without foresight, and without planning. To men and women who have given their efforts for years to the betterment of the school should go a big commendation and a pat on the back. Doctor Willard, Mike Ahearn, Dr. H. H. King, Dr. J. E. Kammeyer, Dr. J. O. Hamilton, Prof. E. L. Remick, Miss Ada Rice, Dr. J. V. Cortelyou, Dr. W. H. Andrews, Dr. R. R. Price, and Prof. George A. Dean have all been with the college 25 years or more. They as well as others have made Kansas State what it is.

Congratulations to Kansas State and here's to the men and women who have made her.

IN MEMORIAM.

With Founders' Day being celebrated by the college today, one encounters much of its history, the difficulties encountered by its founders and those who helped to make the college what it is today.

And along with all that history there came the thought that the college authorities have overlooked honoring one who had so much to do with Kansas State's development—J. D. ("Daddy") Walters. There is perhaps no one person who did as much as he in building the prestige of the engineering division and thus far he has gone unsung, comparatively speaking.

The Collegian is of the opinion that the least the authorities could do to honor Professor Walters memory is to name the engineering building for him. It is certain that those alumni who knew the Professor would welcome the move, and the building could not be more appropriately named. Almost every school has an "engineering hall" but there aren't many schools that have a "Daddy" Walters, or a "Walters Hall" as a monument to the man who had so much to do with making it what it is today.

OUR LATCH STRING IS OUT.

When Gabriel or St. Peter or whoever it is who lists the Perfect Guests, reaches the "F's" in his alphabet, there'll be a long space reserved for "Farm and Home Week visitors." For certainly hosts could never ask for more perfect guests than Kansas State college was privileged to entertain during the past week. Always courteous, always pleasant, always grateful for small favors, Kansas farm folk who visited the campus from Monday to Friday brought an atmosphere that the students thoroughly enjoyed. And why shouldn't it be one dear to Kansas State students—with a large percentage themselves from the farm, and proud of it!

An incident at the cafeteria is typical of the spirit of the week. At one of the busiest noon hours, a woman student took her place at the end of the long line, behind a half dozen women visitors. "Are you a student?" one of the women asked. The girl replied that she was. "Then you step right here ahead of us. We're in no hurry at all." And despite the student's protests, all six women made way for her.

That's just one of the reasons Farm and Home week visitors hold a warm spot in the hearts of Kansas State students. Come again, friends, you're always welcome!—O. L. B.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF.

Kansas State's campus is ranked as one of the more really beautiful campuses in the United States, and rightfully so. There is real natural beauty about it with its different trees, the drives, and its vine covered buildings about which the poets and would-be poets get ecstatic.

But—there are a few of those "ivy-clad halls" which need a bit of dressing down to add to the harmony of the campus beautiful, and Denison hall is the most glaring offender.

Those red brick chimneys just don't fit in with the limestone walls. Denison hall at its best is an architectural monstrosity of the mid-Victorian era when "dog houses" and chimneys were really in style. The builders could have at least built the chimneys of limestone . . . but, no, they wouldn't have been so conspicuous. (Both the builders and the chimneys.)

The job of tearing down all the chimneys would keep many of Manhattan's unemployed busy for at least a week.

The Snoopers

The dangerous Sigma Nu, Pete Smith, is beginning to worry about his future in the drum section of the military band. He has already broken three drums and has received a warning that he must shoulder a gun when the fourth one is demolished.

The jitters we experienced at the Beauty Ball pageant Saturday night were mere trifles compared with the effect the affair had on some others. As one siren went through her pantomime, Swede Lutz promptly fell from the chair upon which he had been standing. According to the versatile haberdasher, Zeke Sullivan was the cause of it all. It's a question.

The 20-minute (said Muddy Rhoades) pageant lasted just exactly 47 minutes, which causes further statements by the yearbook manager to be considered carefully and then taken with a grain of salt. Muddy, incidentally, turned out to be an excellent dispenser of nosegays. Editor Jim Chapman acted in the capacity of announcer and official starter of the beauties on their short but rocky routes.

Just to be different, both publishers were decked out in formal regalia, as was Tine Lantz, who is either a member of the Royal Purple staff or an erroneously instructed customer of the ball.

One of the more fervent of Greek wrestlers, who apparently was attempting to throw enough weight from his 170-pound hulk to enter the 118-pound class, was carried from a Nichols gym sweatbox yesterday. Although he failed in his weight reduction, he is no doubt a hero in the eyes of the boys "down at the house."

An appointment previously made prevents the Snoopers from participating in the intramural "rassling" event tonight. There is a Chinaman with whom we must confer in regard to a sick rat.

Worried Students Stand in Line—But It's Not a Bread One

Kansas State students flitted with fallen arches and bunions yesterday as they stood in line waiting for a chance to receive their grades from the registrar's office.

The hall was lined with anxious students speculating as to the final outcome of the struggle with chemistry or calculus. Some became disgusted, tired and left. Others answered the call of the inviting and comfortable chairs in rec center, waiting in vain for the line to grow shorter. It was the usual old case of the fittest surviving. And these few were asked by many friends to inquire about their grades.

Perhaps it was ever thus. After spending days running around the campus to receive grades in certain courses from the instructor, students invariably take a place in the line before the registrar's window, hoping against hope that the instructor will have changed his mind . . . and incidentally the grade.

Rodney is crowned, not once but twice. Rodney is the champion of the beef herd at Kansas State. That's his name, Rodney's Champion. And it's not only his name but also his present status. Bessie is the crown. That's her name, Crown's Bessie. Bessie and the Champion have twins—Rodney's Crown and Rodney's Crown II, born a week ago in the beef cattle herd at Kansas State.

Double Disaster Downs Department Director of Dams

Rodney is crowned, not once but twice.

Rodney is the champion of the beef herd at Kansas State. That's his name, Rodney's Champion. And it's not only his name but also his present status. Bessie is the crown. That's her name, Crown's Bessie. Bessie and the Champion have twins—Rodney's Crown and Rodney's Crown II, born a week ago in the beef cattle herd at Kansas State.

And to go on with the nursery tale, Tom Greer is the nursemaid of the rattles. The twins can be easily distinguished from one another since they are of a different color. One is rosin, the other pure white, although the parents are uniformly rosin.

The names were chosen by Prof. A. D. Weber of the animal husbandry department who had the usual trouble in selecting names involving both the title of the dam and of the sire.

Both mother and children are doing nicely.

TALKS ABOUT TREES

"Trees, Their Care and Cultivation" was the subject of a talk given before members of the Manhattan Garden club Monday evening by Prof. L. R. Quinlan. The 4-H club quartet sang "Trees," by Kilmer; and "Morning," by Speaks. Members of the quartet are E. H. Regnier, Leonard Rees, John Hanna and William Warner. Warner took the place of D. H. Edelblute, who is ill in the college hospital.

Gwyn Gosney, Goddard, was at home Saturday and Sunday, February 13 and 14, and returned Monday morning.

At The Theatres

AT THE DICKINSON

Wallace Beery, as Winny in "Hell Divers," is a big, bungling playboy in the naval air force—no cares, no worries, and friends to look after him. Clark Gable, the best rival a man ever had, is shipwrecked with Beery and his pilot for four days. The grand climax comes when Wallace Beery pilots his two half dead comrades back to the ship, crashes, and is fatally burned when the plane catches fire. Then comes the ship funeral—the big, happy lummox had died for his two friends—the sailors stand at attention—farewell taps.—N. C.

AT THE WARREN

"Murder will out" hisses the hero—and unto us a play was shown John Gilbert as Cheri-Bibi, the handsome young magician in "The Phantom of Paris" takes a heavy part. He falls in love with the rich man's daughter; father is murdered; Cheri-Bibi faces the death sentence. But Cheri-Bibi is a magician; he escapes. The count who has married said daughter dies, and Cheri-Bibi, unbeknown to the world, impersonates the count—gets the inside dope and clears his name. A suave play—and a good play.—N. C.

AT THE VARSITY

Barbara Stanwyck and Adolph Menjou are given a chance to prove to "their public" that they're a pair of stars—and they prove it, too, with their performances in "Forbidden," now playing at the Varsity.

The story concerns a woman's sacrifice for the man she loves—and it is a trifle dull in spots—but those spots are so far between and so little that you'll readily forgive the director for them. Don't say I didn't warn you in time if you miss seeing this picture.—K. H.

CHANGE MOTORS IN KEDZIE

Eleven motors in the college print shop in Kedzie hall have been changed from direct to alternating current by workmen from the building and repair department of the college. The change was made because the alternating current is more efficient, less power being lost in transmission.

Better stopping devices were installed on the presses, and all wiring is enclosed, eliminating the fire hazard.

AG ENGINEERS ELECT

Officers have been elected for the spring term to serve at the head of the American Society of Agricultural engineers. New officers are as follows: June Roberts, Ford, president; K. M. Fones, Kansas City, Mo., first vice-president; P. W. Jenicek, Bushton, second vice-president; H. J. Stockdale, Meriden, and D. Christy, Scott City, treasurers, and L. W. Hurlbut, Sylvan Grove, secretary.

Ruth Kirkpatrick, Valley Center, spent the week end at her home.

DEPTH SOUNDERS FOR AIRCRAFT

WITH the application of electricity to aircraft instruments, another chapter was written in the annals of air transportation. To-day's ship is not only swifter but safer and more dependable. Modern depth-sounding devices indicate instantly the height of the ship above the ground surface. A unique feature of General Electric's recently purchased monoplane is the almost completely electrified instrument panel.

The most recently developed instrument is the sonic altimeter, which provides a quick means of indicating changes in height above ground. Sound from an intermittently operated air whistle is directed downward. The echo is picked up in a receiving megaphone, and the sound is heard through a stethoscope. The elapsed time between the sound and the echo determines the height. Tests show that water, buildings, woods, etc., produce echoes that are different and characteristic.

Besides developing a complete system of aircraft instruments, college-trained General Electric engineers have pioneered in every electrical field—on land, on sea, and in the air.

A Brief History of the College

The college was located at Manhattan February 16, 1863, partly in order to receive as a gift the land, building, library and equipment of Bluemont Central College, an institution that was chartered by a group of cultured pioneers, February 9, 1858. The Bluemont College building was erected in 1859.

The school opened as the Kansas State Agricultural College September 1, 1863, in the Bluemont College building. Most of the work of the college was moved to the present site in 1873. The original arch of Bluemont is preserved in the gallery of the library.

On March 5, 1931, the name of the college was changed to the Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science.

KANSAS STATE QUINTET LOSES

BATTLE 30-22.

JOHNSON WILDCAT NEMESIS

Corsautmen Hold Jayhawkers Even
The First Half, But Visitors Win With Scoring Spree.

By Milfred Peters

Kansas State's championship hopes took a nose dive here Friday night when the Kansas university cagers turned back a Wildcat team 30 to 22. This was the fourth court defeat suffered by the K-Aggies five at the hands of the Jayhawkers and pushed them down into fifth place in the conference standings.

Throughout the first period the Kansas State basketball players played equal to that of the Jayhawkers. The score at the end of that half was 12 to 10 in favor of Kansas university. Coming back strong in the second half, the Jayhawkers ran up an impressive score which the K-Aggies could not match and the game ended with Kansas State on the small end of the score.

At the start of the game the score was tied 6-6 and forth with the K-Aggies finally obtaining a 7 to 3 lead. At this point Harrington, Page and Johnson found the hoop to give the Jayhawkers a lead of 10 to 7 before the Wildcats could account for another score.

Score Tied Often.

With only a few minutes in the first half remaining, the Corsautmen knotted the count at 10-10. But just as the period ended, O'Leary, Kansas university forward, dropped in a field goal to put the visitors ahead 12 to 10 at half time.

After the Jayhawkers had obtained a four point lead at the beginning of the second half, the Wildcats staged a rally. Boyd and Breen brought the score to 14-10 and then Boyd tossed in a charity shot to give the K-Aggies their only lead in the second period. Schaeke then began a Kansas university surge of power which netted them a seven point lead before the Wildcats could stop them.

Breen Starts A Rally.

Late in the game, with the Kansas State quintet behind 16 to 27, Breen started a rally that was short lived. After Skradski had added two more field goals to bring the Wildcat count to 22, the Allenmen effectively stopped all Aggie scoring till the final gun. The Jayhawkers scored three more points before the game ended when O'Leary netted a field goal and "Pete" Bausch a free throw.

Johnson Leads Scoring.

Johnson, rangy Jayhawk center who has been playing sparkling basketball since Coach F. G. Allen threatened to bench him because of his previous poor showing, Skradski, Wildcat center, bagged three field goals and two charity shots for a total of eight points to lead Kansas States scorers.

Pete's Punches

By Milfred Peters

The worm failed to turn. That is, the Kansas State cagers failed to come through with a victory over the tutted University of Kansas Jayhawkers. After playing bang-up ball all through the first period, the K-Aggie five could not match the brilliant goal shooting of the Kansas, and consequently lost not only the game but also any dream of the court championship they might have had at the outset of the battle.

The Corsautmen still have a chance to stick their fingers into the conference basketball pie by drubbing some of the Big Six leaders, mainly Missouri and Oklahoma. Tonight at Norman they will have a chance to show their most rabid followers that they are on the court to do damage and not just to finish a basketball schedule.

The Oklahoma Sooners also shattered title hopes of Kansas State by overwhelming Coach Buell Patterson's 1931 mat champions at Norman a short time ago. With a galaxy of stars in almost every weight, the Sooners ran rough shod through the K-Aggie grapplers, winning all but one match, and that one was lost to the Kansas State captain, Billy Doyle, in the 145-pound division.

After more than a month's layoff, intramural activities will again afford competition for enterprising young college athletes. Weighing in for wrestling was conducted yesterday and the grapplers will do their sweating and lock horns in battle tonight. These matches should provide an entertaining evening for anyone who wishes to go back to primeval times when survival of the fittest was the ruling law.

TRACK TEAM TO MEET TIGERS

First Dual Meet of Season Will Be Held At Columbia, Friday.

Coach Ward Haylett will send his Kansas State college indoor track team against the University of Missouri team in a dual meet in Brewer field house, Columbia, Saturday. The team will leave here some time Friday.

This will be the third annual indoor meet in which the two schools have competed against each other. Kansas State emerged victorious in the first meet two years ago, but Missouri carried off the honors last year to even up the score.

Missouri is reputed to have an even stronger team this year than the one which handed the Haylettmen the small end of the score last year, and proved its strength last Saturday by turning back Westmin's later college of Missouri, by a score of 65 2-3 to 28 1-3.

Tryouts for the 440 yard dash and the mile and half-mile events were held last Saturday. In the 440-yard dash, Garmel finished first, Costello, second; Shirk, third; and Block, fourth. In the half-mile run Smith placed first, Miller, second; McNeal, third; and Whipples, fourth. Nixon nosed out Landon in the mile run, the two being the only men trying out for the event.

Ehrlich cleared the bar at 6 feet 1 inch in the high jump, and Jordan cleared the bar at 12 feet in the pole vault. Tryouts for the dashes, hurdles, and remaining field events will be held today. Each school is permitted to enter two men in each event.

The Kansas State mentor further stated that he will enter his team in the Kansas City Athletic club indoor track meet which is to be held at Kansas City, Mo., February 27.

Women's Sports

Tryouts for Frog club, swimming, will be held Thursday, February 19, and Thursday, February 25, at 5 o'clock in the women's swimming pool. All women interested in swimming are eligible for membership.

Starting February 20, Bit and Bridle Riding club will meet every Saturday afternoon in the city park. If members intend to ride, they are to sign up on the bulletin board.

Men's Intramurals

First round matches of the intramural wrestling tournament, all weights, will be run off tonight. Entries in the meet weighed in yesterday. The semi-finals and finals will be run off on February 13, 23, and 25.

Twenty-one organizations have entered men in the handball events. Each organization is allowed five entrants in the singles and two teams in the doubles. About 189 entrants are listed. The schedule for the matches is being worked out now, and will be announced soon.

BAPTIST SORORITY TO HOLD DINNER TONIGHT

Theta Epsilon Will Initiate 13 Pledges Preceding Banquet.

The annual banquet of Theta Epsilon, Baptist student sorority, will be held in the Baptist church at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Initiation services for 13 pledges will be held in the church parlors preceding the banquet. Covers will be laid for 40 guests.

Edna Socolofsky, president of Theta Epsilon, will act as toast mistress. Others who appear on the program are Beatrice Craley, Oliver James, Edna Maxwell, and Mrs. Carl Nissen, according to Leonice Fisher, chairman of the program committee.

Theta Epsilon is a national Baptist girls' sorority, and the local chapter became affiliated with the national organization recently. Patronesses are: Mrs. Carl A. Nissen, Mrs. A. A. Holtz, Mrs. C. F. Lewis, Mrs. C. H. Whitnah, Mrs. George Raburn, and Miss Stella Harris.

LOW GRADES—EXPULSION?

Courts to Decide If Students Can Be Suspended.

(Special)—The ruling that state supported universities may expel students because of low grades will be tested in the Supreme court of Ohio by the father of a dismissed student. The Court of Appeals has already affirmed the power of the University to establish and maintain scholastic standards. The court dissolved the injunction granted to the former student last spring, enabling her to stay in school.

Women's basketball intramurals will start in a few weeks. Organizations and other teams are signing up now and practice will start next week, Miss Geyer says. There are ten teams completed at this time and there are several still to be finished.

SOONER MATMEN WIN CONFERENCE CROWN

Oklahoma Scores Impressive Victory In Dethroning Kansas State Mat Champions.

Kansas State athletes lost hope for another championship when the Wildcat grapplers went down to defeat before the University of Oklahoma wrestlers 24 to 5 at Norman last Friday night. Captain Billy Doyle scored the only Kansas State points by pinning Roebuck of Oklahoma in 9 minutes and 45 seconds.

This was the first Big Six defeat handed Coach B. R. Patterson's matmen and eliminated them as championship contenders.

The summary:
118 pound class—Ingils, Okla., threw Watson, Kansas State, 4:23.
126 pound class—White, Okla., won a decision over Burbank, Kansas State, time advantage, 2:26.

135 pound class—Turner, Okla., won a decision over Patterson, Kansas State, time advantage, 4:08.
145 pound class—Capt. Doyle, Kansas State, threw Roebuck, Okla., in 9:45.

155 pound class—Lewis, Okla., threw Roberts, Kansas State, in 7:15.
165 pound class—Capt. Eubanks, Okla., won a decision over Bozarth, Kansas State, time advantage, 9:05.

Heavyweight class—Bashara, Oklahoma, threw Thiele, Kansas State, time advantage, 1:15.
Besides losing to the Sooners, K-Aggie grapplers also lost a match to the Central Teachers college at Edmonds, Okla., by a 16 to 19 score Saturday night.

The Teachers won two falls and two decisions and the Kansas State matmen took the remaining three matches by decisions.

It has not been specified whether the "Hayseed" contestants may wear make-up or must appear in usual attire.

The pig used in the greased pig contest will become the property of

Here, MEN, smoke a man's smoke

A PIPEFUL of good tobacco is distinctly a man's smoke. The women (long may they wave!) have taken over most of our masculine privileges. But pipe smoking still belongs to us.

In every walk of life you'll find that the men at the top are pipe smokers. And most college men agree that the pipe offers the rarest pleasures a man could ask of his smoking.

When you smoke a pipe, be sure you choose the tobacco that will give you the greatest enjoyment. In 42 out of 54 colleges Edgeworth is the favorite. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va. Sample is free.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural flavor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive eleven-step process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes, 15¢ packet package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

Ed Sullivan, Mercier, has been named manager of the annual Ag Fair dance by the fair board. The dance will be an all-school affair in the gymnasium.

Duties allotted the four members of the fair board at a meeting held Friday are general manager, Earl Regnier, Spearville; secretary and treasurer, Robert Blair, Manhattan; publicity manager, Stephen Vesceky, Kansas City; and supervisor of the pike, F. W. Castello.

SPEAKS IN ABILENE

A. J. Howard, graduate assistant in horticulture, addressed the School of Landscaping at Abilene Monday evening on "Foundation Plantings." He stressed the theory of foundations, discussing the types of planting suited to various types of architecture.

The school is sponsored by the board of education of the Abilene schools, the Chamber of Commerce, and the nurserymen.

SCHLEHUBER GETS JOB

A. M. Schlehuber, '31, has a part time job at Washington State college, Pullman, as graduate assistant in plant breeding. He will receive his master's degree in plant genetics in two years.

While here, Schlehuber was a member of Alpha Zeta, grain judging teams, and president of the Kiod and Kernel club. He belonged to Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity.

L. S. Swanson, U. S. D. A., assistant agronomist of the experiment station at Hays, is visiting the college for a few weeks. Mr. Swanson, who is in charge of small grain experiments, is conferring with Prof. A. E. Aldous of Kansas State about that work.

Clem Ault, Moscow, Idaho, went to Wichita Saturday, February 13, and returned to Manhattan Sunday evening.

A marriage license was issued Saturday, February 13, to Edna Maria Runciman, Culver, and Joseph Frank Cooley, Tulsa, Okla.

Teter Leads Class Of 1932 With Life Alumni Membership

The distinction of being the first member of the class of 1932 to pay life membership dues goes to Elden Teter, El Dorado. Teter completed his residence work toward a degree at the close of the first semester.

A life membership is obtained by any alumnus upon payment of $50, for which he receives the Industrialist for life. The money received for life membership fees goes to aid needy students, the number of students one fee will help increase through the years. It is estimated that a member of the class of 1932 having paid the fee would now have contributed an equivalent of $3,000 to needy students.

Y. M. C. A. TO MEET THURSDAY

The Y. M. C. A. will hold their regular monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock, Thursday evening, February 18, in recreation center. Vice-president Orville Moody states that it will be of unusual interest to all "Y" members. The main feature of the program will be a talk by M. F. ("Mike") Ahearn. Special music will be furnished by an instrumental trio in charge of Maurice Schruben. The Rev. A. M. Reed, pastor of the United Presbyterian church will lead devotions.

GEMMELL HEADS EDUCATORS

Dr. George Gemmell, head of the department of home study, was elected president of the Kansas Educators' club at its meeting in Wichita last week.

For the second time in the nine years' of the club's existence a faculty member of Kansas State was chosen to fill this position. Dr. V. L. Strickland of the department of education was president a few years ago.

Prof. B. H. Fleenor, Prof. C. W.

Matthews, and Dean R. W. Babcock are also members of the club.

Helen Brewer, Peabody; Nelle Curry, Winchester; and Lucille Gramse, Perry, entertained with three tables of bridge Saturday evening, February 13. Dorothy Davis, Kansas university, who spent the week end in Manhattan, was a guest.

EXTEMPORE COUNTS, TOO

Women Eligible to Compete For Right to Enter Kansas Inter-Collegiate Speech Event.

Student orators will compete February 29 for the right to represent Kansas State in two important oratorical events, the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical contest of Kansas, for undergraduate men and women, and the Missouri Valley Oratorical contest for men undergraduates.

The tryouts will be held in recreation center at four o'clock the afternoon of the appointed day.

The annual contest of the Kansas Inter-Collegiate association will be held on Kansas State campus will spend Saturday in Topeka.

12. Separate events in oratory and extempore speaking are provided for both men and women.

In addition to his formal oration at St. Louis on the evening of March 24, the Missouri Valley representative will speak extemporaneously before the downtown Kiwanis club of St. Louis at noon on that day. His fitness for the contest will be judged, therefore, on both oratory and extempore speech.

Students interested in participating in these contests may obtain further information at the public speaking office, G56, not later than Saturday noon, February 27.

MUST WAIT A WHILE FOR TAX DECISION

Greek Organizations Can Expect No Word Soon, County Attorney Believes.

Fraternities can expect no definite returns for some time yet from the tax hearings held here last week, Neil Daugherty, county attorney, said yesterday, and it will probably be considerably longer than that before the state supreme court hands down a decision in the case.

The hearings, resulting from an attempt of Kansas State college fraternities to obtain a writ of mandamus to have fraternity property taken from the tax rolls occupied three full days of testimony before Judge C. E. Vance, special commissioner of the supreme court.

Attorneys for the fraternities and for the county are now seeking an agreement on certain matters in order to avoid the necessity and expense of hearing further testimony.

Attorneys for the fraternities introduced evidence attempting to show that fraternity life was educational, especially from a school standpoint, and the county emphasized the exclusiveness of Greek organizations, the social side and the cost of operation.

The county attorney was assisted by Fred R. Smith, Raymond Smith, Alvin R. Springer and Ernest Blincoe, attorney for the state tax commission. Evans and Clammer represented Kansas State Greek organizations.

NO COLLEGLIAN TUESDAY

There will be no issue of the Collegian next Tuesday, February 23, because of the vacation on Monday. News for the Collegian is gathered and edited on Mondays and Thursdays, and since many of the reporters plan to be out of town over the vacation, it would be practically impossible to gather or even "manufacture" enough news to fill the paper during the vacation. A special edition later in the semester is planned by the staff.

STUDENT'S MOTHER DIES

Mrs. William Florence, mother of Wyona Florence, 14, died Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock at her home ten miles southeast of Manhattan, after an illness of some duration.

Mrs. Florence leaves her husband, two sons and two daughters, Wyona and Mrs. Carl Johnson, Junction City.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Welcome church and interment will be in Manhattan cemetery.

Lester Zerbe, Salina, was a Tuesday dinner guest at the Farm House fraternity.

CAMPUS DEMOS ASSEMBLE

Meet Tonight With Russell Kern, Chairman of New Group.

Members of the newly organized Young People's Democrat club and others interested in the movements of the Democratic party will meet tonight at the home of Russell Kern, G52, 1010 Fremont, chairman of the organization here. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

By-laws for the local club will be drawn up and plans for future meetings will be made.

Several members of the club plan to attend the annual Democratic pow wow in Topeka Monday.

METHODISTS PLAN CARNIVAL

A carnival will be held at the Methodist church Monday evening, February 22. A lunch will be served. There will also be a program, confetti, balloons, and other carnival festivities.

WASHINGTON BALL PART OF NATIONAL CELEBRATION

Mortar Board Sponsoring Dance—Specialty Numbers and Decorations for 18th Century Color.

Dancing specialties will feature the program of the Washington ball Monday night, February 22, in recreation center. The principals taking part are students of the women's physical education departments of the college and Manhattan high school.

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society, is sponsoring the ball in cooperation with a nationwide celebration. The decorations will lend an eighteenth century and patriotic atmosphere.

Celebrations similar to the one to be given here will be held all over the country next Monday night. The Kansas State Washington ball will be entirely a modern dance, in which students and faculty members are invited. Specialty numbers will consist of colonial and early American dances.

The number of tickets will be limited so as not to have an overcrowded floor. Tickets will be 50 cents a couple or 25 cents a person and may be purchased in Anderson hall, Friday and Saturday or at the door Monday night.

The girls taking part in the program are: Lois Stingley, Manhattan; Mildred Forrester, Wamego; Ernestine Young, Arkansas City; Marcine Campbell, Hollis; Emily McKenzie, Plainville; Lucille Nelson, Jamestown; Gertrude Wilber, Belleville; Betty Wagstaff, Topeka; Ruth Voshell, Bucklin; Edith Miller, Salina; from the Manhattan high school, Marjorie Kelly, Mary Jean Combs, LaEuna Beal and Helen Fitch.

Jake Faulkner's 25 year old record has been broken. Since time immemorial the English professor has been boasting that he hasn't missed a class for a quarter of a century. And then his health gave way recently, and the students took a walk.

One of the sports writers on the downtown paper said one of the Oklahoma wrestlers, who was recently married, used the cradle hold. Yesterday members of the college wrestling team really showed him what the cradle hold was.

Wonder if they'll use troughs at the annual pig dinner. Last week two of the Kansas State students procured a marriage license. Yesterday it was rumored the young man attempted to get his money refunded. It was only a joke.

Some persons' ideas of jokes are a little far fetched. Doc Siever's office has been the busiest place on the campus the past few days. The service in that office is certainly worth every cent of the $3. Stage effects borrowed for the recent formal opening of the new house were being returned yesterday, it is rumored. The electric refrigerator will not be a permanent fixture it is said.

The father of our country probably never dreamed his birthday would be celebrated at Kansas State with a tea dance. That the population of the country is turning urban from rural is proven fact when students at an institution supposedly agricultural turn out to be tea hounds instead of tillers of the soil. Have a good vacation.

REV. B. A. ROGERS BETTER

The condition of Rev. B. A. Rogers, Methodist student pastor, was reported much improved Thursday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Rogers was taken to the Parkview hospital last Saturday.

An investigation at Byrn Mawr shows that sophomores study the most, then seniors, then juniors. Freshmen study the least.

TWO REGULARS OUT; WIN OVER IOWA DOUBTFUL

AUKER HAS SMASHED FINGER, SKRADSKI OUT WITH COLD—GLOOM OVER AGGIES.

CORSAUT RANKS IOWA HIGH

Battle at Ames Will Be Last Game Away From Home For Wildcats—Play M. U. Here Next Week.

By Kenneth Harter

With Auker and Skradski out of the game, chances for victory over Iowa State at Ames tonight are somewhat slim. This battle will be the last Kansas State game away from home this season, and, although both teams have been shoved down in the conference standings, it bears all the earmarks of an interesting struggle.

Elden Auker, Wildcat scoring guard and captain, will be kept from the lineup because of a smashed finger which he received when a pullman car door was closed upon it during the trip home from Oklahoma.

Andy Skradski, center and forward may be kept from the game because of a severe cold which has been having its effects upon him for the past week.

Although the Wildcats have lost their chances of winning the championship, they are far from disheartened. Last night in practice they showed some of the best form produced all season. In the place of Andy Skradski, big Henry Dalton will be the pivot man. Dalton has had some experience at center and should work in well at the pivot position. Pete Fairbank will probably start instead of Auker, leaving Bus Boyd, Breen and Graham in their usual positions.

The Ames court will not be strange to the Wildcats as they beat the Cyclones there last year. A few weeks ago the K-Aggies played one of the most sensational games with Iowa State here, winning by a score of 19 to 15 in the final minutes of play.

According to Coach C. W. Corsaut the Iowa State team is the best in the Big Six, although they have not won many of their games. "I think," he stated yesterday, "that Iowa State should be in the top ranking instead of down at the bottom. They have a good team and proved it when they played us here. As far as we are concerned, we will give them all we have, and if Skradski is able to play, we may win."

SCIENGE CLUB HEARS RESEARCH BOTANIST

Dr. D. T. MacDougal of Carnegie Research Organization Makes Some Predictions.

"Most of us required a mental glove-stretcher when we followed living matter down to its bacteriological forms," said Dr. D. T. MacDougal of the Carnegie Institution at Washington, when he addressed a meeting of the Science club last night. "But now we must realize that the smallest living things are beyond all visual detection, even that of the most powerful microscope, and will pass through the densest filter."

Doctor MacDougal is now located as head of the Desert Laboratory near Tucson, Ariz., where he is studying and experimenting with plant life in the desert. For many years he was professor of plant physiology at the University of Minnesota, later becoming director of the laboratories in connection with the New York Botanical gardens.

"Forty years ago the smallest living thing was the cell, looked upon as a blob of protein in a paper sack. As far as physiology was concerned nothing was done for agricultural interests or plants," he said.

Doctor MacDougal talked on the subject of "Significant Developments in Physiology, especially of Plants," condemning the historical approach to such a discussion.

"While it is not profitable for the scientist to adopt the role of prophet, it is easy to see that research in years to come will be along the lines of explaining living matter and its content. What's the matter with us is that we're too factual. We must put our observations in to actual ideas," said Doctor MacDougal in conclusion.

During the business meeting of the science club, Dean R. W. Babcock was elected to membership.

"Don't Believe All You Hear," Advises Cynic

by the iconoclast

"Now while these affairs were taking place in the president's office, the students were busily tramping up and down the board walks of Aggieville," read the announcer at the Kansas State radio birthday party. Promptly three students in the studio ran around on boards to produce the "busy tramping."

"Change your parts, you two!" H. Miles Heberer frantically hissed, and immediately two fellows not only changed parts, but places before the "mike."

Although the cans were effective noise makers, when one aspiring actor fell over them during a chapel prayer one heard—two prayers. At least one of them came straight from the heart! Another item quite unintentionally added to the program was the interpolated command, "Read! Read! Read!" when "President Dennison" neglected to answer a question. Perhaps someone had an attack of "mike fright."

During "dress rehearsal" in the absence of the orchestra, Professor Given hummed "The Old Oaken Bucket"—with an astonishing effect. When the roll of the dignified college administration board was called three fellows answered present twice. The war effects were the prize achievements of the broadcast. As the airplanes hummed through the air, a shirt-sleeved property man ran a vibrator over a drum. The tat-tat-tat of the machine guns was played on the top of a box, while the drum made the sound of a thunderous cannon.

It's time to stop now. We want you to retain some illusions so that we'll have something to shatter next week.

HOSPITALITY ON PARADE CANTOR TO PICK BEAUTIES

Home Economics Division Plans Its Annual Week of Entertainment For Visitors.

"From Godey Book Days to Now" will be the theme of the second annual hospitality week to be held in Calvin hall, April 21 to 23.

This week is sponsored by the Home Economics club, divisional faculty and Omicron Nu for the purpose of acquainting Kansas State faculty, students, visiting high school students, and townspeople with the nature and scope of the work of the division. There will be exhibits from each department in the division, contests for high school students, programs, and teas. A banquet in Thompson hall will be the closing event.

Madge Limes, HE4, Iola, is manager of the week's activities and the following have been chosen as her assistants: Ivalde Hedge, HE4, publicity; Lyla Roepke, HE4, budget; Mildred Biel, HE4, exhibit; Mildred Edlin, HE4, program; Irene Todd, HE4, guides; Mildred Riwerts, HE4, tea; Ruth Crawford, HE4, contests.

FIRST TEA DANCE WILL BE AT WAREHAM MONDAY

Kansas State Will Inaugurate New Custom on the Anniversary of Washington's Birthday.

Social history is being made at Kansas State. On the same day that Washington's bi-centennial anniversary is being celebrated, Kansas State will inaugurate its first tea dance.

Varieties at this educational institution have been called everything under the sun from royales to corduroy shin digs. But never before have they been called tea dances. Because never before were there tea dances. However, several times during the past two years, and especially preceding or following football games, impromptu matinee dances have been held.

But students remaining in town over the week end will not find the time dragging on their hands. On Monday afternoon the Wareham ballroom will be open for dancers from 2 to 5 o'clock, and Kansas State students like those in other universities and colleges will dance in the daytime.

ITINERARY PLANNED FOR GO-TO-COLLEGE TEAM

First Team Out Will Visit Nine High Schools in Northwestern Kansas Next Week.

Go-to-college teams will be sent out again this spring by the college Y. M. C. A. for the purpose of arousing the interest of high school seniors in attending Kansas State. Next week nine high schools in northwestern Kansas will be visited.

Helen Dobson, Solomon; Carol Moore, Ashland; Jo Marie Wise, Manhattan; and Gladys Roe, Manhattan, will compose a girls' quartet and Ernest Reed, Norton, will present short talks on various phases of education and life at the college.

The high schools to be visited next week include: Phillipsburg and Norton, Monday, February 22; Natatur, Oberlin and Atwood, Tuesday, February 23; St. Francis and Goodland, Wednesday, February 24; Colby and Hoxie, Thursday, February 25; and Hill City and Osborne, Friday, February 26, will conclude the tour.

W. Y. MORGAN, FORMER REGENT HEAD, DIES

W. Y. Morgan, publisher of the Hutchinson News and Herald, and a former chairman of the state board of regents, died in Hutchinson, Wednesday, February 17, following a short illness of bronchial pneumonia.

For many years Morgan was a prominent figure in Kansas journalism and politics. He was a former lieutenant-governor of Kansas, and served as chairman of the state board of regents from 1925 to 1929. He was state printer in 1899.

Morgan, familiarly known as "Billy," was graduated from Kansas university in 1885. He began his newspaper work in his father's office in Cottonwood Falls. At one time he was publisher of the Emporia Gazette before it was purchased by William Allen White.

He was well known for his humor and his jovial disposition. Many of his humorous travel observations are published in book form. He was active as a Y. M. C. A. secretary abroad during the war.

Applications for the 1932-33 Royal Purple staff are being received and will continue to be received until March 1 by the Royal Purple Publishing board. Two candidates for each office will be selected by the board and submitted to the student body for election.

Heretofore the elective offices have been those of editor, business manager and treasurer. Under a decision of the board yesterday, the office of treasurer will become secretary-treasurer, and that office will be an elective one. The secretary is now employed by the staff.

Students desiring to apply for any of the offices should interview the members of the board who are: Prof. H. W. Davis and Prof. E. T. Keith of the faculty; Lucille Correll, Manhattan; Robert Alexander, Independence, Mo.; Steve Vesecky, Kansas City, Kan. The president of the college names two members of the board and the others are chosen by the Student Governing association.

MATMEN MEET HUSKERS

Captain Doyle, In Last Home Performance, Meets Star Nebraska Wrestler.

Saturday night the Kansas State wrestlers will participate in one of the fastest and most exciting mat contests of the year when they meet the Nebraska university grapplers at 7:30 o'clock in Nichols gymnasium. If Kansas State wins it means that they will advance into second place in the Big Six standings.

The dope is considered even, with three matches conceded to each team and the heavyweight bout left to decide the event.

The Kansas State team is composed entirely of sophomores with the exception of Captain Billy Doyle, who will be wrestling his last home match for Kansas State. Doyle meets Green of Nebraska who is rated to be the best man on the Nebraska team. Kansas State is doped to win in the 145 pound class with Doyle wrestling, and the 155 pound class is slightly in favor of Roberts, Kansas State.

Nebraska will probably win the 118 pound class with Heady of Nebraska meeting Watson of Kansas State. The only other match conceded to the Nebraska team is the 165 pound class in which Miller is wrestling his first match for Kansas State. This week he beat out Bozarth in the trials for the 165 pound class entry.

The 126 and 135 pound classes are doped even with Burbank, Kansas State, wrestling in the 126 pound class and Afterson in the 135 pound class. Young Patterson is a brother of Coach Patterson and has more than proved himself equal to his job.

One matter is unknown, the heavy weight match, Thiele, Kansas State sophomore, will be the deciding factor of the event.

BEGIN POULTRY COURSE

This week marked the beginning of the poultry short course that is offered each year immediately following Farm and Home week. The course is for one week only, but all the instructors of the poultry division are employed to give their materials in a concentrated form. In addition to the poultry study, bacteriology and sanitation are offered.

DRAMA PLEADS CAUSE OF STUDENT AID DRIVE

"Wolf At The Door" Howls At Opening of Campus Chest Project.

Melodramatic pathos and comedy played its part in preparing the way for the Campus Chest drive for student aid funds after Tuesday's assembly. Preceding talks by Ernest Reed and Prof. Fred L. Parrish, chairman of the Campus Chest committee, stressing the need of such a fund, a short drama, "The Wolf At The Door," was presented by H. Miles Heberer and his troupe of five actors, distributed among three characters.

Mary Myers Elliott and Margaret Bacon collaborated in the part of the Lamb; Kingsley Given and Alden Kridler were the Lion; H. Miles Heberer and Ted Beach, the Wolf. The first actors ghosted the lines of the second's dramatic pantomime.

"Massa Dear" and "The Sleigh" were sung by Helen Dobson, Carol Moore, and Jo Marie Dobbs. A string trio of Marjorie Fitch, cello; Mabel Russell, piano; and Marjorie Pyle, violin, played "Minuet" by Hayden.

Arnold Chase, Abilene, conducted the devotional services. Dr. Howard T. Hill presided during the program.

HOLTON TO WASHINGTON

Dean E. L. Holton of the department of education will discuss the teaching of personality at the convention of the National Society of College Teachers of Education and the department of superintendence of the National Education association at Washington, D. C., February 20 to 25. Prof. W. H. Andrews of the department of education will take charge in his absence.

COSMO CLUB MEETS

The Cosmopolitan club held the regular weekly meeting in Hamp-Io hall last night. Miss Stephanie Kurent, from Austria, played several piano-accompaniment selections. This is Miss Kurent's first term at K. S. C.

The main talk of the evening was given by Y. S. Kim, of China. His subject was "Arrangement of the Points of Interest in Shanghai." Due to the present trouble in China, there was unusual interest in Mr. Kim's discussion.

SCHWARTZ VISITS CAMPUS

H. H. Schwartz, a graduate of Kansas State college, and a member of the entomology staff of the University of Arkansas, is spending his vacation in Manhattan this month. Mr. Schwartz is a frequent visitor at the college.

FUND FOR SHORT PERIOD LOANS IS GOING OVER TOP

CAMPUS CHEST REALIZES $354 WITH MORE COMING CONSTANTLY.

HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR

Contributions Generous For Students On Campus Needing Small Amounts For Short Time.

Campus Chest proceeds totaled $354 when a checkup was made at noon yesterday. This amount is about $100 in excess of that received last year and it is anticipated that $400 will be reached by the conclusion of solicitation, according to F. L. Parrish, chairman of the Campus Chest committee.

Drive Ends After Friday.

Solicitation will be continued throughout Friday, when the total amount will be transferred to the Waters fund which will administer the loans to students. Prof. J. O. Hamilton of the physics department, who is chairman of the Waters fund committee, will also act as chairman of the administrative committee, assisted by Mary F. Van Zile, dean of women; A. A. Holtz, Y. M. C. A. secretary; and Dorothy McLeod, Y. W. C. A. secretary. This plan has received the approval of President Farrell.

At the close of the first day of the drive, the total submitted to the Campus Chest committee was about $255.

Pleased With Results.

Previous to this year the Campus Chest fund has been sent to the Far East to provide funds for foreign students. This year, however, the committee decided to keep the funds on the college campus. Kansas State has had no loan fund which has been available to students for emergency purposes and the old student loan funds have been powerless, due to conditions under which they are administered, to benefit students in short time loans.

At Kansas State 1,360 students are wholly self-supporting and nearly half that many partly self-supporting. The Student Aid fund is the one beneficiary which will receive the complete endorsement of the college and the net receipts will be transferred into immediate use for students.

DOWN M. U. DEBATERS

Kansas State Team Wins Decision From Missouri Audience.

Congress should not enact legislation providing for concentrated control of industry, a Kansas State team debating against University of Missouri students convinced their audience at Columbia, Mo., Monday evening.

Mary Lou Clark, Burr Oak, and Helen Mangelsohn, Atchison, debated the negative side of the question for Kansas State and won by an audience decision.

Engineers to Elect Queen for Annual Divisional Dance

Another queen will grace the halls of this institution of learning following the annual St. Pat's prom when the most popular co-ed present will be dubbed the "Engineers' Queen."

The election of the co-ed was suggested by Al Reed, ARE4, Cassoday, at a meeting of the Engineers' Open House committee held in the engineering library Tuesday.

"It has been the custom of students in this division to elect a St. Pat's prom, a feature of Engineers' Open House, and this year the engineers should sponsor the election of a St. Patricia," Reed said at the meeting.

A spirited discussion followed Reed's suggestion, and the members of the committee agreed the "Engineers' Queen" would be a more fitting title for the woman student elected.

The co-ed will be chosen by those attending the ball on Saturday night, March 19, at Harrisons.

RADIO PROGRAMS AND RADIO PROGRAMS.

When station KSAC went on the air Tuesday night to broadcast the first annual Founders' Day program, there may have been a slight doubt in the minds of those listening in as to how entertaining or how worthwhile the program would be. Those doubts, if there were any, left the minds of the radio audience from the moment Dr. H. T. Hill started talking into the microphone. If any man was ever the acme of perfection, the versatile public speaking department head achieved that degree of superlativeness as master of ceremonies at the broadcast.

From the time alumni heard the college bell ringing through the loud speakers until young Theodore was taken for a tour over the present modern college grounds, the first Founders' Day program was an acknowledged success. Familiar campus characters, the various deans of the divisions, the registrar, members of the music department faculty, H. Miles Heberer and his cast of players dramatizing the history of the college, Vice President Willard, H. W. Davis speaking for President Farrell, deserve commendation for their part on the broadcast. All the deans, with the exception of Margaret M. Justin, were present to extend their greetings to alumni and other listeners.

A program such as was the Founders' Day is something for which the college can be justly proud. The administration has made a move in the right direction when it announced the broadcast is to be made annually on the date of the birth of this great educational institution of which Kansas may look upon as one of the best in America.

A Manhattan dentist has announced his candidacy for Congressman. One nice thing about that arrangement is that he can talk politics to his patients without getting any back talk.

THE NERVE OF IT.

The nerve of college fraternities and sororities asking the removal of their property from the tax roll in Kansas is enough to give one a pain in the neck. The fraternities and sororities in this state and in all states represent in the main and on the whole the well-to-do students, those who can afford to pay their way. They are inclined to be snooty with other students who don't wear such good clothes nor have such meticulous table manners. The fraternities and sororities affect to be somebody, socially. Yet they are trying to mooch their way on the Kansas taxpayer like a lot of scummy bums. There is no reason in the world why a sorority or fraternity house should not pay taxes like any other house and the far-fetched excuse that these places are students' dormitories is too thin to bear much weight.

When the farmers of this state are having to give up their land because they can't pay taxes, it doesn't look very well for the young people in their teens and early twenties who are particularly favored by birth, means and circumstances, to go around trying to dodge their taxes.

A college education first of all should breed self-respect and apparently these young people who are willing to let the pood bedevil farmers bear the burden of fraternity taxes haven't much self-respect. They lack the fundamentals of an education.—Emporia Gazette.

The Snoopers

Harry Miller chooses well the stairs down which to fall—the veterinary building, where the bonesetters are so numerous they run over each other. His unsuccessful attempt to put on his coat and at the same time carry an armload of books resulted in the clattering descent.

The rough-and-readys will have their fling tonight when they swagger up the Wareham steps to the Corduroy Varsity dance. It's a good thing the management delayed upon the given date. Had the affair been decided more than a week, we would have stayed home for the want of the necessary corduroy trousers. Might not this party be an incentive for clothing dealers to drop the prices a wee bit?

An orchestra should have been present to play "I'm Nobody's Sweetheart Now" when Louise Coleman, recently elected Kansas State Sweetheart, overturned a precious vial of liquid in a chemistry laboratory yesterday. She cast responsibility to the four breezes as her blazing eyes surveyed the loss.

Journalism Instructor Russ Thackrey lectured diligently on the importance of accuracy in newspaper work during a recent class period to make his point doubly clear by unintentionally writing the word "inaccuracy" on the blackboard.

Resounding exclamations of "What the hell is K. U. on the campus again?" rang through the halls of nearby fraternity houses Tuesday night when the college bell pealed forth its familiar sound. The excitement subsided after the Greeks learned that the ringing of the bell was a part of the Founders' day radio broadcast of KSAC.

COLLEGE AND WORK.

Assuming that you have a boy in high school, are you planning to send him to college when he gets through or let him go to work?

Many persons start out with the idea of letting the boy decide, but generally in such a way as leaves all the inducements in favor of college.

To begin with, it is taken for granted that if college is chosen dad or some one else will foot the bill.

What boy would turn down a proposition like that, especially if it is the style? One in ten, maybe, and he usually amounts to something. Some people have gone far without a college education, while others have got nowhere with one.

Other things being equal, college education represents a real advantage, but other things are seldom equal.

A college education means four years out of youth. Generally speaking, they are the best four years of life—the four in which energy, strength, courage and ambition are at the peak.

It goes without saying that if spent purposefully in college these years would be of great profit later on, but purpose is the all-important factor.

***

Not enough attention is paid to purpose in education. Not that a young man or young woman needs to decide exactly what trade, profession or calling he or she will follow throughout life, but that the pursuit of knowledge along given lines is comparatively valueless without a well-developed intent to make use of it later on.—New York World-Telegram.

Book Review

"SOUTH WIND"

(By Norman Douglas.)

For anybody who craves brilliance in his fiction, I can make no better recommendation than "South Wind." It is equaled only by Huxley's "Point Counterpoint."

The setting is on an imaginary island "Nepenthe." It is a versatile novel—in twelve days, we are shown a murder, a funeral, a slight political disturbance involving the lives of several children, and an earthquake. The people are unique and charming.

Bishop Heard who, according to the author "is merely a dummy contrived to reflect the moods of the average reader," is the character in whom the story is centered. It is through him we come to know the people—vacationists and inhabitants—the Bishop converses with all of them. While he converses, he regains his health over a wine glass and decides that his sympathies and ideals have outgrown the Church of England. The people he meets in Nepenthe are emphatically in favor of living. There is Keith, a rich old man, with his expensive lunches and esoteric cooking. There is a Count who is not averse to forging antiquity in order to regain his family fortunes—he is reminiscent of the American millionaire Van Koppen—that is to say, they are both charming liars.

There is the Jewish geologist who finds himself in love, loves, and runs to escape the consequences, and Mr. Dennis Phipps who would like to have a love affair. Then there are the less respectable people—the self-declared commissioner from South America, Mr. Freddy Parker, owner of the local drinking club, and his sister who dies from a mosquito bite and stages an unforgettable funeral. Then there are Mr. Eames, the recluse, Monsieur Perrilli, an historian, Duke Alfred who killed with a smile and kept on smiling—and there are a host of others equally as interesting and vividly presented. The book is an excellent study—with its criss cross of satire and idealism. It's well worth the time it takes to read it—and enjoy it.—Ruth Wilkerson.

"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION."

It is such a book as the "Magnificent Obsession," by Lloyd Douglas that makes people give serious thought to the more stable things in life. Our first conclusion there is that there are still people in existence who are in the mood for thinking along such lines. Writers have advanced into what they call "modern mode," until it is a task to find a story of recent publication that contains anything more serious than some loosely woven tale around a group of people composed chiefly of interests in wine, women, and song.

Douglas has taken much thought, or else he is so gifted as to give every character a definite purpose. His plot is such that it speaks of a brilliant mind inspired by personal feeling to express clearly and unashamedly, however likely he is to be scoffed at by those not capable of understanding him, an obsession such as he idealizes but must be content to transfer into an imaginary being. Doctor Hudson portrays the man with the peculiar obsession of doing much good for no personal gain, except to relieve his own nervous tension. Although he derived his idea from another person he is so successful in the use of the idea that he is certainly to be admired.

In Bobby Merrick we see the most remarkable, rapid change. Through nothing but the urge of his own conscience he reforms himself from a young, chronic drunken fool, to a student in medicine who can take responsibility. The author is evidently familiar with the more complex types of human nature as can be seen in these two characters. His other characters are equally good to suit their places in the story and while they are drawn as contrasts to the main characters and therefore must be commonplace, they do not lack the human interest as do many portrayed by less capable authors.

Douglas' descriptions are very vivid and unique. If he wishes to describe a room for instance, he does not think it necessary to say, over here is a chair and there is such and such a fireplace, and here is an alcove. He has the uncanny ability to make the reader's imagination work in making a setting. To do this he gives hints that fit in with the conversation or the action, thereby avoiding monotony.

Amid a confusion of misunderstanding and longings, we come abruptly to the climax, one of the "happily ever after" type. The ending is not altogether in keeping with the rest of the story, as the reader feels a "mental drop" after so fascinating a story.—E. W.

No Solace in Common Dogs, Wolfhound Finds

Ivan has seen better and more active days. Ivan, once a beautiful white Russian wolfhound, is a sadly bedraggled paralytic patient in the Kansas State veterinary hospital. Up until a year ago he was a prize actor on a Denver vaudeville circuit—Ivan was on the stage for 11 years. But now—Ivan is just an awfully sick hound.

When Ivan was sent here four weeks ago he was quite a friendly sort of fellow, but being locked up for so long has been hard on his disposition. Before being brought to Manhattan he was under the care of three doctors, and as his condition was gradually growing worse they sent him here for treatment.

At first he was unable to walk but now he hobbles around and is taken for a walk every day. Ivan is not a lone patient in the ward. There are two monkeys, two German police dogs, a poodle, a terrier, a Boston bull pup, and several "just dogs" to keep him company.

All the inmates are patients except the monkeys, who have simply migrated from their home in Sunset park to warmer quarters for the winter. There is one huge dog who is suspected of rabies and he makes it unpleasant for the others with his savage barking.

Ivan seems to be taking everything calmly. He lies on the floor, closes his eyes and tries to forget his plebian company. And the others, nervous from inactivity and suffering from ill, bark and whine continually, envying the wolfhound's nonchalance.

And the jealous little poodle next door whines, "I'll bet he isn't an actor at all. He doesn't look as though he's been on the stage to me. I've seen many educated dogs but none like him."

"Yeah, probab," just another one of those bogus Russian counts," growls the police dog on his right. "These Russians are always pretending to be something important. I'll bet he'd be a big help to a police force."

"I'd like to see him try to guard a house," from the Boston bull pup. "A lot of good his stage experience would do him then."

"And wouldn't he be a perfectly lovely lap dog?" laughs the poodle. "Why, he doesn't even have curly hair."

And Ivan, hearing it all, opens one eye and regards them contemptuously and says, "Aw. Nerds."

At The Theatres

At The Varsity

"CHANCE"

The very sophisticated and well-acted "Forbidden" saved an evening at the Varsity.

"Chance"—just another war picture—unusually "fatey" and naive—passes by without a quiver. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Anthony Bushell do excellent acting but the plot is so aged in wood and what not that their talents go to waste. The story is of twin brothers who are, of course, inseparable companions, and Rose Hobart is the girl with whom they are both in love. The brothers are on leave of absence and during one of those London fogs, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., bumps into a pretty girl. He does not recognize her as the "hateful little neighbor girl" with whom he had quarreled as a boy. At the party which the brothers' mother gives for them at their English country home, Fairbanks realizes that he is in love with the girl but learns that his brother also loves her, and so decides to give her up, as he cannot bear to hurt his brother. One other surprise: the brother gets killed in the war.—R. W.

"UNION DEPOT"

You will revel in the local color of "Union Depot." It is a slice of New York's god old Grand Central station itself. You'll find all the different kinds of people (the flapper, the poor-but-proud poet, the queerly dressed foreigners, the conservative spinster etc.). You'll find the redcape, information bureaus, and other railroad paraphernalia. Doug Fairbanks, Jr., is the wandering hobbo who for one fantastic day plays Santa Claus. Then after all the complications of the plot—the girl, the greenbacks, the fight with the real villain—he and his pal lock arms and stroll down the rail road tracks together. And a good show is over.—N. C.

Keeping ahead of the second hand

To keep telephone service in step with the swift pace of American life, Bell System men tackle many an absorbing problem, find many an ingenious solution.

For instance, they decided that precious seconds could be saved by a change in long-established operating routine. The operator used to repeat the number called by the subscriber—now she indicates that she understands by saying, "Thank you." To appreciate the importance of the second thus saved, just multiply it by the 40,000,000 conversations handled by operators on the average day.

In the telephone business, major improvements that save the subscriber's time and give him better service often result from just such apparently minor changes.

SOONERS DOWN WILDCATS; INTO TIE FOR SECOND

INABILITY OF K-AGGIES TO HIT BLAMED FOR LOSS—SOONERS LEAD EARLY.

COLD CRIPPLE CORSAUTMEN

Oklahomans Now Share Second Birth in Big Six Race—Beck And Main Tie In Scoring.

The University of Oklahoma Sooners handed the Kansas State cagers a 34 to 22 trouncing at Norman Tuesday night to go into a tie for second place in the conference with Kansas University.

Inability to make good their shots was again responsible for the downfall of the Wildcats. They had numerous shots throughout the game but were unable to score once.

The Sooners took the lead early in the game and held it during the first half, which ended 12 to 10 in favor of the Oklahomans.

Immediately after the second period opened, Skradski, K-Aggie center, sunk a field goal to tie the score at 12 all. Then the Sooners opened a shooting barrage and at no other time during the game were the Wildcats dangerously close.

The K-Aggies rallied to score four goals in the last three minutes of the game, but it was too late to do any good toward winning the game.

This rally came after Skradski and Boyd were sent back into the game after being on the bench most of the last half. Both men had been suffering from severe colds, and soon after the second period opened, Dalton was substituted for Skradski and Fairbanks for Boyd.

The Sooners went through the game with only one foul until the last three minutes, when they made four fouls, although none of these charity tosses were made good by Kansas State.

Beck and Main of the Sooners tied for scoring honors with eight points each. Auker, Boyd, Graham, and Skradski each accounted for two field goals to tie for Kansas State scoring honors.

Pete's Punches

By Mildred Peters

It's beginning to look as if the Kansas State basketball team has reached the end of its string (string of victories). Last Tuesday the jinx followed the quintet to Norman and the Sooners trampled them under a 34 to 22 score.

The fast pace the boys set the early part of the season combined with post-season football is telling. In the last two games the K-Aggie five has lost in the final period, after holding their opponents even the first half.

It looks as if a helping hand is to be needed against the Cyclones at Ames tonight with both Auker and Skradski on the bench. Besides, the Iowa State five will be on edge to avenge the close defeat handed them by the Wildcats here early in the season.

Coach Ward Haylett's tracksters will be given an acid test against Missouri tomorrow. They stand a good chance of repeating their last year's victory over the Tigers, although Missouri has developed a good team.

Intramural wrestling competition has passed the first three rounds with interesting results. The semifinals and finals will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Football fans will be surprised by the gentleness of the game next fall. All the rules committee could do as a result of the storm of criticism handed football was to make it as safe and free from injury as it was possible for them to do.

Instead of doing that, they have done just the opposite in many instances. Of course, they probably didn't realize it at the time, but this writer wouldn't be the least bit surprised to see other changes in football rules again next fall.

It won't be long now before spring football will begin in earnest. Already "Swede" Anderson, freshman football mentor, has a half dozen enterprising gridiron stars working out in the gymnasium every afternoon.

The Wildcat grapplers will lock horns with the Huskers tomorrow night in a match which will decide the occupant of second place in the Big Six. Kansas State should have no trouble with Nebraska, although it probably will not be a walk-away.

Soon enterprising editors will attempt to pick honorary basketball teams of the Big Six and other conferences. Not to be outdone by any other editors, ye own writer will give his own selection for your hearty approval (or disapproval). Just watch this column for further announcements.

Women's Sports

Basketball practice for girls' intramurals will start next week, according to Katharine Geyer, physical education instructor.

Organizations which have entered teams for the intramurals are: Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Zeta, Pi Beta Phi, X team, Neophytes, Winners, and Van Zile hall.

HAYLETT PICKS TRACK TEAM

Tryouts Completed For Missouri Dual Meet at Columbia Tomorrow.

Coach Ward Haylett completed selections for his track team which meets Missouri university at Columbia tomorrow.

The Wildcats will be seeking their second consecutive dual victory over the Tigers tomorrow. Missouri won the first dual between the two schools in 1930 but the K-Aggies evened scores by trouncing the Tigers last season. Missouri is rated as strong this year as they piled an overwhelming score against Westminster college last week.

Tryouts for entrants in all events except the 60-yard dash have been made. Each school is allowed two participants in each event.

The men making the trip and their events are:

440-yard dash—Darnell, Costello.
880-yard dash—Smith, Miller.
Mile—Nixon, London.
Two-mile—Pearce, McNeal.

Broad jump—Breen, Elwell.
Pole vault—Jordan, Schmutz.

RIFLE TEAM FIFTH IN MEET

Niemoller Leads K-Aggie Sharp Shooter In Telegraphic Meet With 363 Points.

Making a total of 363 points, A. B. Niemoller, Wakefield, captain of the men's rifle team, shot the highest score of the team members last week. Kansas State's team placed fifth in the six total scores so far considered in the telegraphic meet in which 16 schools are competing.

Fifteen students make up the Kansas State college team, the total scores of the highest ten "sharpshooters" being added for the squad score in the competition.

Members of the college team competed with teams representing 16 schools last week, the scores from all of which have not been received. Some of the schools have only ten men on their respective teams. In such cases the five highest scores are matched with the five highest scores of competing teams.

Schools and universities from which teams have entered the telegraphic shooting contest are located from coast to coast and in Porto Rico. They include: Stanford university, Berkeley, Calif.; University of Pennsylvania, University of Wyoming, University of South Dakota, the New York Stock Exchange, University of Porto Rico, Kemper Military academy, Georgetown university, Gettysburg college, University of Maryland, University of Maine, Fordham university, New York university, Drexel institute, Howard university.

Football Rules Changes Praised and Condemned

By Mildred Peters

Much that adds to the spectacular phase of collegiate football will be missing next fall with the abolishment of the "flying wedge," the return of the kickoff, and the flying block or tackle by the national rules committee. That is the opinion of many in commenting upon the recent changes.

The "flying wedge," the return of the kickoff, the flying block or tackle, everything that makes a football game interesting and spectacular, is forbidden as a result of the revisions made by the national rules committee.

Since last fall a continuous stream of criticism has been handed football, mainly because of the injuries and deaths caused by it. In order to allay this hullabaloo, the national rules committee passed the following drastic changes in football rules:

To restrict the formation of the team receiving the kickoff by requiring that five players of the receiving team remain on their 45-yard line until the ball is kicked; and to allow the kickoff to be made either by place-kick, punt, or drop-kick.

To forbid players on the defense to strike an opponent on the head, neck, or face with the hand, wrist, forearm, or elbow.

To liberalize the substitution rule to allow a player withdrawn from the game to re-enter once in any subsequent period.

To forbid the use of the flying block or tackle.

To declare the ball "dead" when any part of the ball carrier's body except his hands or feet touches the ground.

To amplify the rule regarding equipment so as to require padding of hard and unyielding substances with felt, foam rubber, or some other soft padding at least three-eighths of an inch thick.

Revisions Severely Criticized.
Since these revisions have been released a storm of criticism and dissent has been heard by coaches and officials. Some give their hearty approval and others give their hearty disapproval.

The rule calling a ball "dead" when a player's body touches the ground and the one forbidding the use of the hands on defense have been spoken of in no complimentary tones.

According to A. N. ("Bo") McMillin, head football coach at Kansas State, the restricting of the use of the hands will change defense tactics entirely. An innocent player may easily be put out of the game and his team penalized half the distance to the goal by a strict interpretation of this rule.

In defense playing, a man rarely looks directly at his opponent, as he is watching the ball all the time, and in using his hands to avert a block, may accidentally put his hands in the blocker's face, thereby being put out of the game.

The flying block and tackle rule comes in for its criticism due to the fact that it will be too hard for the officials to tell if a man leaves his feet. His opponent may easily back away, therefore making it seem as if the blocker has left his feet in making a flying block.

Spectacular Out of Football.
The "dead" ball regulation will probably take some of the thrill out of football because spectators will not see a player fall down, get to his feet, and then make a big gain in yardage. Under present rules this will be impossible as the ball is dead when the player touches the ground.

There is probably one change which will meet approval, that of liberalizing the substitutions. This will benefit many small colleges which have only a small squad. It will also be an aid financially because fewer men will have to be taken on trips away from home.

The new kickoff rule will rob the game of one of its most spectacular plays, the return of a kickoff. It will prove to be a safety measure in the fact that it will break up the so-called "flying wedge," and will also force the game to be played in a more open manner than before.

The rule requiring the equipment change is hardly necessary as few players have been seriously injured by the use of hard protective surfaces.

McMillin Opposes Revisions.
"Bo" McMillin emphatically opposes some of these regulations and has this to say of them. "I feel that the change in rules have put too much of a burden upon the officials, especially the changes prohibiting the use of hands on defense and the flying block and tackle."

Whether or not these new rules will work is left to the next football season. If they do, all is well and good; if they don't, the rules committee will have something else to do next winter.

Instructor in Architecture Department Here Wins Prize on Water Color at Artists' Exhibit.

Robert I. Lockard, instructor in the architects' department, received a bronze medal for a water color entitled "Corn Crib" which is now on display at the Midwestern artists' exhibit at the Kansas City art institute. His painting, which is 14 by 20 inches in size, was selected for the medal from work contributed by artists residing in this section of the United States. Prof. John Helm, Jr., of the architects' department and Miss Thirsa Mossman of the mathematics department have some prints in the exhibit. The Kansas City Times, February 1, in commenting on the exhibit, said that the prints and water colors far exceeded the oils in the collection. Lockard received his B. S. degree in architecture from Kansas State in 1930 and has been an instructor here this year. He has contributed work to the Beaux Arts institute of design in New York.

NOVEL DISPLAYS ARE PLANNED FOR ENGINEER EVENT

EXPECT OPEN HOUSE CROWD TO EXCEED VISITORS OF LAST YEAR.

KENT'S ROBOT IS FEATURED

Bank That Rings Bell When Money Is Touched Will Be Shown
By General Electric Company.

As the date for the Engineers' Open House draws near, new features and exhibitions are being added to the program by members of the department committees and details of house activities are being completed. These new attractions together with other features of the open house will make it the brightest spot on the engineering division's calendar. It is thought that the attendance to this year's open house, which will be held March 18 and 19, will exceed even that of the 1931, and a great deal of publicity is being given to the event by means of radio broadcast, various publications, and letters to high schools over Kansas.

Mechanical Man Displayed.

One of the new features to be added to the attractions of the open house will be a mechanical man, built and invented by E. L. Kent, E.E. Joplin, Mo. It will be exhibited both days of the open house, and possibly will be demonstrated on the campus and at the engineers' chapel which will be held March 19. The mechanical man, which is about the size of an ordinary man, walks and runs, and even talks, giving the onlooker an idea of a modern Frankenstein.

Bank Alarm Is Featured.

Another added attraction of the open house will be an exhibit from the General Electric company, which will be displayed by the electrical engineering department. The display is called, "The First National Bank," and consists of an arrangement of vacuum tubes and relays which automatically rings a gong when the money in the trays is touched.

S. A. Long, Wichita, will be the speaker at the engineers' chapel to be held Saturday morning. Long is president of the Long Electric company, and distributing manager for Frigidaires over Kansas and Oklahoma.

NEW BOTANY COURSE REQUIRES NO LAB

Is Offered For Students Who Need Credit in Science For Degree.

"Nature and development of plants" is a three hour course being offered for the first time, and taught by Prof. H. H. Haymaker. The course is designed especially for music, commerce, and physical education students whose courses require a minimum of eight hours of science. It provides an opportunity to study a science dealing with plants without the laboratory work. It is primarily a lecture with some recitation work.

"An effort is made to introduce students to some of the various fields of botany, so that they may have a more or less general survey of how plants are constructed, how they react to various environmental conditions, their life processes, how they are classified, how they may become diseased, and how they may cause disease," said Professor Haymaker.

"A good demand may be expected for this course by the fact that there are thirteen enrolled in it when it has not yet been entered in the college catalogue," Professor Haymaker believes.

Beta Lead With 15
New Brothers.

The dark, mysterious secrets of Greekology are being revealed to the underlings these days and lowly pledges are being elevated to the level of "brothers and sisters in the bond." The idea seems to be to see who can be the last to be initiated, as only five fraternities and two sororities have initiated so far. Pi Kappa Alpha, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Phi Kappa are the fraternities which have had initiation services, and the two sororities are Alpha Xi Delta and Chi Omega.

FLAX PRODUCTS DISPLAYED

The Kansas State college extension division is sponsoring a flax exhibit train which is making a tour of the various counties interested in flax growing during the weeks of February 15-27.

The purpose of the tour which is being conducted by I. K. Landon of the agronomy department, is to exhibit successful flax products. The train will visit the following counties: Montgomery, Greenwood, Butler, Cowley, Sumner, Labette, Cherokee, Crawford, Bourbon, Coffey, Osage, and Miami.

"The World Court" was the subject on which Prof. C. M. Correll spoke at a district meeting of the Association of University Women, held in Phillipsburg, Saturday, February 20. The district includes four counties in the western part of the state. Helen Correll Browne, '25, is president of the chapter.

LOCKHARD WINS MEDAL

Robert I. Lockhard, Norton, instructor in the department of art, was awarded a bronze medal for a water color, "Corn Crib," at the Midwestern Art Exhibit at the Kansas City Art Institute. The work of many outstanding and well known artists of midwestern states was exhibited. Lockhard was graduated from the department of architecture last June. Miss Thirza Mossman, instructor of the mathematics department, is exhibiting an oil painting, "Broadstreet, Philadelphia." J. F. Helm, jr., associate professor of architecture, is exhibiting two etchings, "Trees Against Hills," and "Hillside Barn."

The distribution of the yearbooks on such an early date is a precedent in the history of the institution, but due to the united efforts of the Royal Purple staff it is believed they will be ready on that date.

Every student on the campus will be solicited by the salesmen who are E. S. Sullivan, Ag2, Mercur; Sally Shafer, IJ2, Manhattan; G. Livingston, ME4, Hutchinson; Edith Dobson, IJ4, Manhattan; Donald Johnson, CHEL, Oberlin; Ernest Wild, PE4, Wiley; Hal McCord, AR3, Manhattan; Clifford Pangburn, GS2, Luray; and Harry Ganstrom, AR3, Hollis.

HAVE TO TALK ON RUSSIA

Orators Must Use Some Phase Of Situation In Tryouts For Annual Contests.

Some phase of the present Russian situation will be the topic for individuals participating in the oratorical tryouts for the right to represent Kansas State in the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical contest of Kansas at Kansas State March 12 and the Missouri Valley Oratorical contest at St. Louis March 24. Subjects for the extempore speech will be drawn at the public speaking office between two and three o'clock on the day of the trial, February 29. In addition to this speech an actual oratorical manuscript or an outline of a manuscript must be handed to the judges.

Students may enter both contests if they wish to do so. If students find it impossible to come to the drawing between 2 and 3 o'clock they may come either from 1:50 to 2 o'clock, 2:50 to 3, or between 4 and 5 o'clock. If they cannot come at all, they may send someone to draw for them.

TRYOUTS WILL BE HELD IN RECREATION CENTER FEBRUARY 29 AT 4 O'CLOCK.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

The western end of the state can scarcely be recognized in Tannison's new map of Kansas which hangs in the east end of the periodical room at the library. The map which was printed in 1909 gives Santa Fe as the county seat of Haskell county. Santa Fe is now extinct. Railroad lines run where there are no railroad lines, and there are no signs of the many towns which have existed at present in the wheat belt of this state. . . . One collegian on this hill certainly has the true college spirit. He wears a royal purple corduroy suit with a Wildcat painted on the back of the jacket. . . . The age must rate with the engineers at Iowa State. The new dean of engineering at that college is T. R. Agg. . . . Appearances are often deceiving. That fact was proved again when Dr. J. E. Shillinger, fur expert for the U. S. biological survey in a recent talk made in rec center said half the fur used for wraps in the United States was rabbit fur. . . . Prominent students on the campus are really going to be taken for a ride when they attend the branding iron banquet, biennial panning of Sigma Delta Chi. . . . The young men you see wearing berets on the hill next week are not sissies, they're merely going through the professional men's journalism organization's hell week. . . . This week may be an ideal one for Tri Delta but for the long distance operator the pledges' method of answering the telephone is anything but that. Yesterday the phone rang, a pledge answered and said, "I am a lowly pledge. I must be very meek. My pleasure is to serve you. With whom do you wish to speak?" Then the operator patiently said, "This is long distance calling." . . . The Collegian erred. The new Tri Delta chapter house still has its refrigerator, and it isn't and never was electric. . .

She will attend George Washington university while there."

"Miss Lambertson is active in the Kansas Young Republican work, and worked with her father during the Kansas day activities Thursday and Friday. She will return in the late spring to assist in her father's primary campaign."

RADIO AMATEURS COMING DURING ENGINEER MEET

MAKING PLANS TO ENTERTAIN
200 AT FIRST OF ITS KIND.

PRIZES A DRAWING CARD

High School Teams and Fans From Kansas and Missouri Are Expected to Attend
The Event.

Approximately 200 radio enthusiasts from Kansas and the vicinity of Kansas City, Mo., will gather at the college in conjunction with engineers' open house for the first amateur radio operators' convention, according to R. D. Compton, Manhattan, EE2, president of the Radio club.

At a meeting of the Radio club held last week, plans were formulated for promotion of the convention, which will be March 18 and 19, the dates of open house.

Have Charge of Arrangements. A convention committee was elected at the meeting, with R. D. Compton as chairman. Other men who will aid in convention plans are: J. H. Allen, Seneca, EE2; F. A. DeLaMater, McAlester, Okla., EE3; H. R. Heckendorn, Cedar Point, EE3, and J. E. Brinkman, Americus, EE3.

The time of the convention makes it doubly attractive to visitors. Compton said, as radio men will have an opportunity not only to attend round table discussions and view actual work in the radio field, but will have a chance to attend open house displays. John Amis, section communication manager of the radio relay league, will be the official representative at the meeting. The convention will terminate with a banquet Saturday night.

Several Prizes Offered.

A number of prizes are to be offered, Compton stated, and will probably include awards for the best code transmission and reception. Another feature will be a prize offered for the high school radio club bringing the greatest number of delegates to the meeting. An award will also be given to the high school delegation from the greatest distance, Compton stated.

New officers in the Radio club are as follows: R. D. Compton, president; J. H. Allen, vice-president; J. E. Brinkman, secretary and treasurer; Eugene Perry, second vice-president, and F. A. DeLaMater, chief operator.

JOURNALISM SORORITY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Mary Alice Schnacke Heads Theta Sigma Phi — Organization to Honor Star Reporter.

Officers were elected at a meeting of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary and professional organization for women in journalism, at its meeting last night. The organization will offer a prize this spring to the best girl reporter on the Collegian. Mary Alice Schnacke, LaCrosse, was chosen president; Edith Dobson, Manhattan, secretary; Ruth Stiles, Kansas City, treasurer; and Dorothea Hadsell, Manhattan, keeper of the archives.

This is the second year the organization has offered an award to the star woman reporter on the Collegian. The winner will be chosen by the editors of the Collegian and faculty members of the department of journalism.

K-AGGIE CAGERS TO MEET TIGERS IN SEASON FINAL

CLASH WITH MISSOURI TO-MORROW NIGHT CLIMAXES
1932 COURT SEASON.

CORSAUTMEN WIN AT HOME

Wildcats Have Defeated The Mis-sourians On Home Court Three Years.

The Kansas State 1932 basketball machine will be seen in action for the last time this year when the Wildcat quintet clashes with the strong Missouri Tigers here tomorrow night in the final game on the schedule. The K-Aggies will be seeking revenge for their trimming at Columbia in the first game of the season.

Missouri, known for its wonderful execution of the block play, will try to down the K-Aggies on the local court for the first time in three seasons. Not even when Missouri won the Big Six could they master the Corsautmen on the Manhattan court.

Kansas State Defense Good. Both Missouri and K-Aggies play the same style of ball. According to scoring power this season, Missouri has the best offensive strength but Kansas State excels in the defensive part of the game.

All week Coach Charles Corsaut has been working his men hard for the final and crucial game of the season. If the game is lost, Kansas State will drop from fourth to fifth place with Iowa State. Iowa State has already completed their games for this season.

According to Coach Corsaut yesterday, the regular five, Breen, Graham, forwards; Skradski, center; and Auker and Boyd, guards, will start the game. "I will not guarantee a win," Coach Corsaut said, "but I will say that it will be the clearest and fastest game played on this court all season."

Captain Elden Auker, Norcatur, Stanley Drockway, Topeka, George Wiggins, Lyons, and Pete Fairbank, Topeka, all will be playing their last game of basketball for Kansas State. "If it is at all possible," Corsaut told the Collegian reporter, "I intend to have all of these men in the game at the same time, but I cannot promise until the game has started."

AN ADMISSION OF DEFEAT?

It would seem to an outsider that the Grinnell college authorities have abandoned the hope that some day college students, or some of them at least, will ever think, or they may fear that.

The board of censors, afraid that the students might think occasionally, took it upon themselves to place only the purest of pure literature and newspapers in the college library. Their latest act was to discontinue the subscription to the "Chicago Tribune" because of that paper's anti-prohibition attitude.

That action seems a bit hasty or just plain foolish. With the wall of criticism directed at college students because of their apparent mental laziness, the Grinnell administration seems to be discouraging students from thinking, or perhaps the faculty does not have the necessary faith in the results of their teachings, if they teach prohibition.

And if their administration is subservient to the W. C. T. U. or other prohibition organizations, the board's actions have admitted the defeat of their cause at Grinnell by banning the Tribune from their library. They are perhaps afraid that the students might think.

THE VACANT CHAIR.

Radio broadcasting of football games will be prohibited in the Southern Conference during the coming year, according to a recent ruling. This all came after the athletic directors scanned their balance sheets at the close of the 1931 football season.

At the beginning of the season, it was thought that the depression would cause a slump in box-office receipts, and ticket prices were reduced—but that didn't change figures much. So, the directors decided that radio broadcasting was the cause for the empty seats in the various stadia in the conference.

Perhaps the Big Six directors considered the abandonment of radio broadcasts for the coming year . . . they wailed and gnashed their teeth about the broadcasts keeping the cash customers from the box offices . . . but that is as far as they went. Athletic department policies in the Big Six can't throw off the influence of the alumni associations, it seems.

A statement came out recently that all originators or users of puns should be punished or at least limited to not more than one a month. That probably would put three-fourths of the humor columnists out of work.—Indiana Daily Student.

GRADING INSTRUCTORS.

The project instigated last year for grading instructors failed to justify the hopes of the Student Senate. Primarily, the matter failed for two reasons: lack of cooperation on the part of some of the department heads, and the brevity of the period between the introduction of the plan and the end of the quarter.

We hope that both these difficulties will be eliminated this year. The plan has gained by the experiences of last year and this year it is expected that the newly formed councils in each college will do much to make the grading campus wide. College councils, by maintaining a closer contact with the deans and faculties of their respective colleges should not encounter the obstacles that the senate experienced last year.

We can find no valid objection which may be voiced by the department heads. The faculty grades might be revealing. While it is conceded that students of any one group or possibly of one year may become prejudiced unfairly against a particular instructor, the long time result we feel will be eminently fair. It is possible that with the precedent long established of selecting instructors on the basis of what they have done in their particular fields; the fact that they are employed for the express purpose of teaching may be lost in the obscurity. The ability to teach is probably highly and positively coordinated with the instructor's knowledge of the subject—but, may this be the case invariably?

Consequently, we find that instructors are selected because of their work on a thesis or dissertation. As far as our knowledge extends, prospective teachers are never asked to deliver a possible lecture to a group which is comparable to the classroom personnel. The results might be diverting.

It is common knowledge that some instructors, who are regarded highly by faculty members, are not so regarded by their students. There is an interesting contrast established wherein a well-known instructor was replaced on one occasion by an assistant who receives probably one-tenth of the instructor's salary and taught the class much more effectively than the veteran instructor. The terminology employed by the latter is so highly technical, even for a science course, that the freshmen who take the course get very little supplementary knowledge to their textbook reading.

Facts such as those enumerated above should demonstrate the efficacy of instructor grading. Personally, after an attempt at introspection, we would like to hear the sentiments of the students in regard to our teaching. If we were instructors. If we found that our methods of instruction were inadequate or inefficient we would strive to correct them in the light of the class criticism. But then—we are not instructors!—Ohio State Lantern.

BUNK DEBUNKS.

Historians interested in the character of our first president should certainly get their heads full of facts if they are attentive listeners to radio programs. Even if they are inattentive they can get enough material about the man to write a book. On February 22, the birthday anniversary of George Washington the Washington Bi-centennial began. And it is to continue to Thanksgiving. When the celebration is over everyone will have something to be thankful for. The celebration can't be held again for another hundred years.

Morning, noon, and night comes the strains of music played and composed for the father of this country. Morning, noon, and night speeches are made in his honor. Trees are planted. Banquets, teas and dinners are carried out in the Washington mode. So there's not a chance of anyone forgetting the great man.

The overburdened taxpayers are digging deep in their pockets to pay for such a Bi-centennial. The administration at Washington saw fit to set aside perfectly good cash in order that the citizens of this country might learn more of the man they have held as an ideal. And unemployed are starving while they listen to such Bi-centennial programs. It is doubtful if the father of our country, this idealistic man, would approve.

Along with the Bi-centennial comes articles on Washington. Many of these articles tend to disillusion those who have long cherished memories of a perfect character. One of the best stories perhaps is the one wherein the searchers for facts say Washington dared not smile because he had false teeth and those teeth would fall from his mouth should he open it to smile. These individuals claim that reason alone accounts for the fact that all pictures of Washington show the man with a stern, tight lip. They say Washington thought he could improve his countenance by having wooden pegs inserted in his gums to hold the large, heavy set of ivory teeth in place. But the idea didn't work. The president decided a woody smile would be far worse than none at all.

Perhaps it would have been wiser to let the man long dead to remain living in the average citizen's heart as a perfect human being who chopped down the cherry tree and who never told a lie. It certainly would have been more enjoyable to those radio owners who must sit night after night listening to fact after fact about the great George Washington.

However, the Bi-centennial celebration will give many politicians a chance to talk about something for a change. Whether or not anyone listens won't matter after all, since most political speeches go down unheard.

The Snooper

We think we see through the cryptic messages sent out yesterday from the registrar's office requesting automobile owners to call at that office immediately in regard to 1932 licenses. It might be possible that tags will no longer adorn the machines of parking violators, but will be replaced by personal letters sent through the college post office.

Someone has said that a guilty conscience needs no accuser, which justifies the above assumption. Nevertheless, we may be wrong.

The star of merit shone brilliantly as Conductor June Layton directed his orchestra through the Tea dance Monday afternoon. Many persons voiced enthusiastic opinions. Although afternoon dances are still in experimental stages, the reception of the first one last Monday warrants future success.

The Kansas State student body has reverted back—or perhaps taken a step forward. At any rate an astounding number of ice cream cones have been devoured this week. All of them were filled with some new kind of ice cream, generously treated with nuts and other goodies, and it has a name that would stump Noah Webster himself—to say nothing of that pair of word-jugglers, Funk and Wagnalls.

Secretaries of the deans will have their hands full if present weather conditions continue to exist. Terrific attacks of spring fever have been noticed already, and the good weather began only yesterday. The fever will cause many absences, but, although contagious, will not occur in sufficient proportions to quarantine victims.

Enterprising merchants have dusted golfing utensils and are displaying them in prominent positions. Plus-fours have burst forth from moth ball containers. But in spite of it all everybody has a dopey sort of drowsy and drop into the nearest easy chair.

On Other Hills

(By John Reinecke)

A broken neck and nothing less than a broken neck should keep a student from his classes, declared a professor at the University of Oklahoma. One of the timid souls in the class took him at his word and when down with a bad case of flu, was carried to class on a stretcher. There happened to be no class that day, the professor had a headache.

Students who make creditable grades in their studies at Iowa State college spend more of their time sleeping and less of their time studying than their less successful colleagues. A former member of the psychology department of that college reports after an extensive survey that the "flunkers" are the ones who burn the midnight oil.

The president of the University of Southern California recently declared in a lecture to the assembled students, that the average student uses the word "swell" to describe 4,972 different situations.

Coads at the University of Washington recently celebrated the institution's annual "Shine Day." This is the day when the women students polish boots and the money is then turned over to the use of providing medical attention to those in need.

Sixteen per cent of the men students at Syracuse university drink intoxicating liquors, a questionnaire recently revealed.

Men students at the University of Montreal recently aired their views on the "ideal woman." They declared that she must be "a gay pagan and a wild angel." The students failed to state what they meant by this phrase.

The student newspaper at the University of Wisconsin has adopted the plan of having the best student in each class write an anonymous criticism of the course at the end of the semester. A canvass of faculty opinion shows that professors are willing to accept suggestions.

American social life has degraded from the parlor to the Ford car, declared Cordell Hull, U. S. senator from Tennessee, when interviewed by a reporter recently. He attributed the change to the ten-day holiday which the American people have embarked upon. He says that luxury, amusement, and pleasure are their only interests.

John G. Jenkins, professor of psychology at Cornell university, stated

NO NEED to park a "Girls Keep Out" at the top of this advertisement. They'll shy off quick enough when they find out what it's about.

For it's a strictly masculine privilege—solace, satisfaction, retreat, call it what you will—the joy of smoking a pipe!

It's the smoke "for men only," any girl will agree—one of the few rights the women haven't crowded us on. And the only smoke for men, many a thoughtful smoker calls it. For the deep consolation and rare comradeship of a mellow, richly aged pipe are something every man does well to know.

And you taste the rich satisfaction of pipe smoking at its best when you fill up your bowl with Edgeworth. There's a tobacco that's made for a pipe. Cool, dry, slow-burning. Blended of fine, mellow, full-flavored burleys.

You've a rare smoke coming if you've never tried Edgeworth. You will find Edgeworth at your tobacco dealer's. Or send for special free sample packet if you wish. Address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Virginia.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural savor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive eleven process. Buy Edgeworth any where in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug-Slice. All sizes, 15¢ pocket package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

after a recent survey that the average college student gets more than the required eight hours sleep. He reports that sleeping occupies more hours in a student's week than any other single activity. Attendance at classes and eating rank next in number to the hours consumed. Work which involves the earning of a living occupies more of the average student's time than that given over to social activities.

And now the exams are over we can print an item that was called to our attention several weeks ago, without fear of being accused of attempting to raise a hullabaloo. There is a tendency evident in several eastern universities toward the elimination of the terrors of exam week. Amherst has reduced the length of exams, and last year Yale announced that mid-year exams would be entirely abolished.

Something new in the way of lawsuits—the comptroller of the University of Southern California is suing a Los Angeles woman in the name of the university because she invariably hangs wet underclothes on her clothesline whenever a social function is being held in the university gymnasium. We've heard of breaches of promise before. Guess they must have been of another variety.

He has more business than the proverbial cranberry merchant, but he never hurries.—Did you know that the concrete stack which carries gases skyward from the boilers in the new power plant is 200 feet high? ### NOT SABLE, NOT MINK—JUST PLAIN OLD RABBIT

Federal Bureau Lecturer Gives Disillusioning, But Informative Talk.

"A large part of the fur used in the world, whatever its name, is just rabbit fur," was one of the statements made at Recreation center, at 7:30 o'clock, Wednesday, when Dr. J. E. Shillinger, D. V. M., a member of the United States bureau of biological survey, showed three reels of moving pictures and answered innumerable questions concerning the fur industry in the United States.

"Louisiana," said Dr. Shillinger, "produces more furs than does Alaska at this time. Most of the fur produced in that state, however, is muskrat. This fur is not taken by independent trappers but is grown on company owned farms."

Three reels of motion pictures were shown. These pictures, made by the United States bureau of biological survey, deal with the taking of the fur animals in the wild, the handling of the furs after catch, and the manufacture of the furs into the finished product. Two reels dealt with the raising of the animals valuable for their fur, among these were shown seal, mink, fox, rabbit, racoon, seal, badger, marten, fisher, otter, and muskrat.

Tuesday evening Dr. Shillinger gave an illustrated lecture on "Diseases of Foxes and Handling of Fur Bearing Animals" before the members of the division of veterinary medicine. He spoke Wednesday afternoon to the clinic classes on "The Diseases of Fur Bearing Animals."

CORSAUTMEN RALLY TO DEFEAT CYCLONES

Kansas State Cagers Come From Behind To Score 30-27 Victory.

After two successive defeats at the hands of K. U. and Oklahoma, the Kansas State basketball team came back to take a close 30 to 27 victory from Iowa State last Friday night.

Kansas State held a three-point lead at the end of the first half, but a moment after the second period opened, Iowa State took a one-point lead and after that it looked like Iowa State's game.

However, with six minutes of the game remaining, Auker, Graham and Skradski combined to tie the score at 21 each. Then in the final three minutes, with the score at 28 to 27 in favor of Kansas State, Boyd was inserted in the game and sank another field goal to clinch the contest.

WRESTLERS DOWN HUSKERS

K-Aggie Grapplers Clinch Second in Conference by Defeating Huskers, 15-6.

Kansas State wrestlers clinched second place in the Big Six conference by downing the Nebraska university Huskers 15 to 6 here last Saturday night.

The match was unique in the fact that not one fall was scored by either team. The K-Aggies won every weight except the 118-pound class and the heavyweight division.

Captain Billy Doyle was unable to compete in his last wrestling match because he was confined in the college hospital with influenza. His place was filled by Whitey Tempero. Doyle's condition has improved only slightly and he is still in the hospital.

This victory completed the Kansas State wrestling schedule. The grapplers won three Big Six events from Kansas, Iowa State, and Nebraska, and lost one match to Oklahoma.

The summary:
118-pound class—Burnett, Nebraska, won a decision over Watson, Kansas State. Time advantage, 4:57.

126-pound class—Burbank, Kansas State, scored a decision over Walker, Nebraska. Time advantage, 7:13.

135-pound class—Patterson, Kansas State, won a decision over Green of Nebraska, in an over-time match. Time advantage, 4:28.

145-pound class—Tempero, Kansas State, won a decision over Smith of Nebraska. Time advantage, 7:28.

155-pound class—Roberts, Kansas State, scored a decision over Shirley, Nebraska. Time advantage, 3:15.

160-pound class—Miller, Kansas State defeated Ackerman, Nebraska. Time advantage 7:15.

Heavyweight division—Adams, Nebraska, defeated Thiele, Kansas State. Time advantage, 3:14.

Joe Fickel former Big Six champion in the 126-pound division, participated in an exhibition match with Johnson before the main program began.

Pete's Punches

By Mildred Peters

Big Six basketball is still in a muddle. Kansas and Oklahoma both upset the dope by setting the first place Tigers back in to third place last week. Never have the last games of a court season had so much bearing on the championship as this year.

Many things can happen. If Missouri loses to both the Huskers and Kansas State and Oklahoma beats Kansas Saturday night, the Sooners will win the championship. If Kansas down the Sooners and the K-Aggies beat Missouri, the Jayhawks will cop the championship. On the other hand, should Missouri win tomorrow night, they can tie with the winner of the Kansas-Oklahoma game for the court crown. Your guess is as good as mine.

Finals in intramural wrestling were concluded last night. The free throw contest is to be held Monday and the indoor track meet next Thursday. Entries for the free throw contest are due tomorrow and for the track meet Monday.

This spring weather is taking its effect. The men trying for the golf team have been out the last few days playing a few rounds to get into shape. Baseball practice will probably begin in a week or ten days, with spring football not far behind.

Kansas State is host to a group of enterprising high school athletes this week end. The annual wrestling and swimming meets are scheduled for today and tomorrow. This is the third year for the grapplers and the second for the swimmers.

As was promised last week, this writer has decided to divulge his honorary Big Six basketball selections. Of course, it might be a little early for such selections, but someone has to start it to give someone else ideas for his choices.

Here they are. Take 'em or leave 'em. The first team:
O'Leary, Kansas university, forward.

Cooper, Missouri, forward.
Johnson, Kansas university, center.

Auker, Kansas State, guard (captain).
Collings, Missouri, guard.

The second team:
Skradski, Kansas State forward.
Beck, Oklahoma, forward.
Heltman, Iowa State, center.
Page, Kansas university, guard (captain).
Grady, Oklahoma, guard.

It is not expected that anyone will agree with these. They are given you to tear apart and criticize. Cooper is the leading conference scorer. O'Leary plays a flashy game besides hanging on the heels of Cooper in scoring. No one can dispute Johnson's ability at the pivot position. Auker has proven himself to be one of the best defensive men in the Big Six. Collings compares favorably with Auker. Perhaps the positions of the second team were a little harder to decide than those on the first team. Anyway, all the men have proven themselves to be good. Perhaps not always excellent, but players.

The University of Kansas has made another cut in athletic expenditures. This time they have failed to renew the contracts of Hinshaw, freshman football coach, and Bauman, wrestling coach. Dr. F. C. Allen has been placed in full charge of athletics.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS HERE FOR TOURNEY.

Wrestling and Swimming Teams To Battle For State Title This Week End.

Ten wrestling teams and six swimming teams from high schools of the state will be represented in the annual state wrestling and swimming tournament at Kansas State college today and tomorrow.

About 63 wrestlers and 60 swimmers have been entered. This is the largest number that has ever entered this met. Coach Patterson said, "not only has the number of entries increased, but each year the class of competition has improved over that of the former year."

The schools that have entered the wrestling tournament are Atwood, Norton, Goodland, Oberlin, Colby, El Dorado, Wellington, Wichita East, Wichita North and Hutchinson. Douglass was entered but is unable to attend.

Swimming teams from Wichita East, Wichita North, Parsons, Coffeyville, Topeka and Wyandotte are entered.

This is the third annual wrestling tournament and the second year for the swimming events. Last year Wichita East won first place in both the wrestling and swimming meets. Douglass took second in wrestling and Wyandotte took second in swimming. Dope favors Wichita East again this year, especially in the wrestling events. It took first place in the Arkansas Valley grappling tournament, with Wichita North second and Wellington third.

The wrestling tournament begins this morning and will be finished tomorrow afternoon. It includes nine weight classes and consolation matches will be run off.

The swimming events will begin tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and will finish in the afternoon.

Coach B. R. Patterson is in charge of the wrestling tournament and Coach C. S. Moll is in charge of the swimming meet.

The same eight weights will be used as in intramural wrestling: 118-pound class; 126-pound class; 135-pound class; 145-pound class; 155-pound class; and the heavyweight pound class; 165-pound class; 175-class. Every freshman is urged to enter.

SCHOLARSHIP TO LILY LEE

Outstanding Work of Chinese Graduate Student Is

Lily Lee, Chinese graduate student in home economics, has been awarded a scholarship by the home economics club.

The fund heretofore has been used in publishing a home economics magazine but owing to present financial conditions it was decided this year to use the money for a scholarship. Lily Lee was chosen because of the outstanding work she has been doing here, and because of the depreciation of silver in China, her father is unable to finance her foreign education.

Lily Lee was prominent in the extra-curricular activities of the University of Lingnan at Canton, especially in athletics and dramatics. In her senior year she was leading lady in her class night play. During this time she was also president of the girls' union which was comprised of all the college women. She was also active in music organizations, having studied piano under a well known Lithuanian musician. Lily served as social secretary of her "Shek," which resembles our Greek organizations. In sports, she was quite active, representing Lingnan in the provincial tennis tournaments in gus singles and mixed doubles.

Another Canton Chinese girl is studying home economics at Oregon State college this year. She and Miss Lee expect to take home economics back to South China and teach it, with practical application for the Chinese woman. Home economics at present, is taught in only two universities in China—enching and Lingnan.

K-AGGIE TRACK TEAM TO K. C. A. C. CONTEST

Will Compete With Big Six Teams Los Angeles Athletic Club In Indoor Meet.

Tomorrow night five Kansas State track stars will compete in a track meet, between the Los Angeles Athletic club and representatives of the Big Six conference in Kansas City, under the direction of the Kansas City Athletic club.

Two Kansas State men will compete in dual events against the Los Angeles club. J. W. Jordan, Clifflin, will compete in the high jump while Harry Hinkley, Barnard, will enter the high and low hurdles. Hinkley is captain of the track team and was mentioned last year on the all-American selection. He holds the Big Six 220 yard low hurdles record for outdoor track with a record of 23.8 seconds.

The open events will be entered by Glen Harsh, El Dorado, in the 50 yard dash and Dean McNeal of the Boyle, in the 1,000 yard run. L. A. Darnell, sophomore track star, Osborne, was chosen last night to represent the K-Aggies in the 600 yard Shannon Douglas cup race. The individual winning the race may keep the cup one year and then return it the next year and again compete for its ownership. Shannon Douglas, former track star and captain at Missouri university, sponsors the race.

The team leaves tomorrow morning by car, accompanied by Coach Ward Haylett.

IT'S FORD VS. GANDHI

Forum Speaker Cites Fight Between Nationalism And Capitalism.

"Who will win, Ford or Gandhi?" Dr. Ernest Collins, pastor of the Central Congregational church at Topeka, asked students and faculty members at student forum Wednesday. In his subject, "The Hour Demands," Doctor Collins maintained that nationalism is now opposing capitalism.

Doctor Collins believes that the outcome of communism in Russia, Gandhi in India, and the unrest in the Orient will help to decide the issue of mass wealth against the common class of people.

"The momentum we have developed in present civilization is breaking up the present conditions and standards of life," he said. "It is foolish to ask the people to pay for the depression—they have already paid for it. Capitalism has received 70 per cent of the profits while the wage earners have received what is left."

In closing, Doctor Collins stated that there are three things that the youth must keep in mind if they are to help remedy the present conditions—imagination, ideals, and personal responsibility.

AT THE THEATRES

Theatre—Variety.
Show—X Marks the Spot.
Featured Player—Lew Cody.
Something a little different in the line of newspaper stories is presented in this show. Wit, pathos, and tragedy, all are worked in to the story in an easy manner.

LeW Cody, as the editor of a tabloid, is admirably cast in the part. Wallace Ford, as the columnist, handles the comedy. The other featured players are Sally Blaine, the secretary, and Mary Nolan, the young sister of the columnist.

The story is woven about the situation in which the young columnist is placed, when he is charged with the murder of a foolish girl. Duty to his paper and to himself demands that he reveal the identity of the murderer, whom he knows. Loyalty to the murderer, because of a debt of some year's standing, keeps him from telling. The situation is worked out in a very satisfactory manner.

The comedy cartoon, "Polar Pals" is one of the cleverest which has been seen here for some time. The "short," Bing Crosby in "The Dream House" was saved by Crosby's singing. The acting was not so good—R. W.

ROAD MEN HERE FOR A TWO DAY MEET

DESIGN FOR HOSPITAL WINS HONOR MENTION

Niles F. Resch Named By Beaux Arts Institute For Design Submitted In Contest.

Niles F. Resch, Art, Independence, Mo., was awarded honorable mention on a design problem submitted to the Beaux Arts Institute of Design, New York City, February 18. Plans for the problem were for a hospital, which was proposed to build in the industrial section of the city. The building was designed to contain five floors and have a capacity of 100 beds.

The first floor of the proposed hospital contained the administrative offices, department for outpatients, the main dining room and kitchen, and the living quarters for the house doctor and internes. The scheme for the second floor contained the wards of the hospital, and the third floor was planned for 18 private bedrooms. The fourth and fifth floors included the children's departments and the operating suites. The roof of the building was designed to give adequate space and fresh air for the patients.

More than 40 schools and colleges over the United States entered design problems in the exposition to be judged by the Beaux Arts Institute.

TELEVISION WILL BE INTRODUCED AT OPEN HOUSE

LATEST RADIO MARVEL TO BE INTRODUCED TO PUBLIC HERE FOR FIRST TIME SET BUILT BY STUDENTS

High School Students Over State Are Showing Interest in Coming Reception—Many Planning To Attend.

Among the highlights of the annual Engineers' Open House, the brightest spot of the engineering division's calendar, will be a demonstration of television by Harold Higginbottom, an instructor in the electrical engineering department. This added attraction, together with other new exhibitions of the engineering departments, are already attracting wide attention from various high schools over the state and persons who plan to attend the event, March 18 and 19.

Exhibits To Be Different. Definite plans are worked out by the department committees, and the exhibits for this year's open house will be entirely new and different from those shown in previous years. Every field of engineering will be represented by some big feature in connection with their department.

The television set, which will be demonstrated at the open house, consists of regular laboratory equipment, and gives a good idea of the marvels of television to the onlooker. The film used in the set is smaller than the size usually shown, but the pictures produced can be easily seen. Exhibitions will be given on both days of the open house event. If possible, a continuous showing by the television set will be given to the open house visitors. Higginbottom was assisted in the building of the television set by several students in the department of electrical engineering.

An Ethyl gasoline exhibit, which demonstrates the difference in types of gasoline, will also be shown by the agriculture engineering department.

From Closes Event.

The open house event will be topped off with the annual St. Patrick's day prom, March 19, and the election of the "St. Pat." Candidates for the "St. Pat." have not yet been chosen, but it is planned to have the names ready about two weeks before the date of the open house. One candidate will be chosen from each department of the engineering division. An added feature in connection with the election of a "St. Pat." will be the choosing of a "St. Patricia," from a group of candidates to be chosen soon.

Andy Kirk, and his 12 Clouds of Joy from El Torreon ball room, Kansas City, Mo., will furnish music for the prom, which will be held in Harrison hall.

Swimmers Ignore Curious Stares on Warm Week End

Balmy week end breezes brought out spring clothes, ancient vehicles that should have been junked last fall, and even bathing suits, as the thermometer soared above 70 degrees and pushed Manhattan two months ahead of time in her weather schedule.

The swimming pool in the park was the scene of an activity which amazed the more conservative. Several swimmers braved the icy water and sat shivering on the tower or performed "flying mares," "swans," and "half-gainers," to win the admiration of a curious crowd.

Kite flying and roller skating dominated the minds of the younger generation. But those too dignified for such sport, shed their coats and felt the freedom of shirt sleeves. The two golf courses enjoyed a lot of student attention. Drug stores reported a heavy traffic in "cokes" and other summer drinks.

But the pessimist may be right. The government forecast is for unsettled Monday, followed by colder weather.

Lobenstein, extension specialist, in northeast Kansas. The last session will be held this afternoon. Professor Barnett and Mr. Lobenstein planned to visit the new experiment farm of the college which is being planted this spring with young trees from the college. Russell Reitz, a Kansas State graduate, and recently county agent of Wyandotte county, is in charge of the new project. The farm comprises 12 acres which will be planted and used as a demonstration farm for the benefit of fruit growers in north east Kansas. Two other orchard projects are outlined in old bearing orchards owned by Kansas growers.

Wildcats Whip Tiger Quintet in Stiff Battle

CORSAUTMEN WIN GAME 28-22 TO KEEP MISSOURI FROM FIRST PLACE.

FOUR K-AGGIES THROUGH

Auker, Fairbank, Brockway, and Wiggins Appear on Basketball Floor For Last Time.

Kansas State basketballers blasted Missouri's chances of a tie with Kansas university for the Big Six championship by defeating them 28 to 22 Saturday night. Had Missouri won the game, they would have gone into a tie for first place with K. U. who won over Oklahoma thereby going into undisputed possession of first place. Oklahoma and Missouri are tied for second place honors, with Kansas State in third.

Close guarding by Breen held Cooper, scoring star of the conference, to two goals and four free throws. Graham, Wildcat forward, was high scorer at the game with 10 points. Skradski, Cooper, and Davis trailed with eight points each. Kansas State Takes Lead.

Cooper opened the scoring early in the game with a field goal. Neither team was able to successfully penetrate the other's defense in the first 13 minutes of play. Charley tosses had brought the count to 5-4 in favor of Missouri. Then Breen scored a field goal to put the Wildcats ahead and Missouri never got back in the lead.

A few minutes later Graham hit twice in a row to bring the Wildcats' total to 10, and Skradski's goal made it 12. Wagner scored for Missouri and Boyd countered for Kansas State to make the score 14 to 17.

Davis made good a throw off Boyd's foul and Cooper adding another field goal. Collings, fouled by Graham, made one more point by the charity route and Skradski closed the first period with a field goal, bringing the score to 16-11.

Missouri was handicapped in the last period by the loss of George Stuber, stellar guard, who was taken from the game late in the first half because of four personals.

As the second half opened, Collings was fouled by Graham but missed his free throw. Graham scored a free throw off Wagner's foul, and Auker, fouled by Collings, made good another. Breen again scored from the field, and Davis, fouled by Boyd, retaliated with a free throw making the score 22 to 12.

Missouri Stages Rally.

The Missourians began to close in on this lead with Davis and Collings scoring from the field. Skradski scored a field goal. Davis again scored, and Cooper, fouled by Breen, made good both his charity tosses to make the score 24 to 20. Breen left the game at this point on personals.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock Ed Kelley, Manhattan, and Arnold Chase, Abilene, will consider the same question with the Iowa debaters in a broadcast over WIBW.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in a broadcast over KSAC Donald Gentry, Manhattan, and Kenneth Putney, Manhattan, will discuss immediate reduction of tariff with the Iowa debaters. ## Cantor Loses Support By Naming Beauties

Eddie Cantor, in his campaign for president of the United States, lost ten votes when he named 10 out of 20 for Kansas State beauties. If he agreed to act as judge of many more beauty contests, he would have coeds singing "We want Cantor," in an entirely different tone of voice than the one used by his enthusiastic supporters cooperating with him on the big coffee broadcast each Sunday night.

The rhyming, smart cracking, vocally inclined Cantor sent his apologies to the losers in the race along with his selections for this year's beauty queens. The letter was received yesterday by James Chapman of the Royal Purple.

The letter reads: My Dear Mr. Chapman: I suppose the girls who were not selected among the first ten will start singing about Eddie Cantor. "I'll be glad when you're dead, you rascal you." However, I am returning the photos with my selections. A guy has got to be a awful brave to pick girls in a beauty contest. A sure way of making one's self unpopular. Please ask the losers to forgive me: I do not look so "hot" myself.

Seriously though, I took more than an hour, and a great deal of strain on my "eagle eyes" to make the selections. Any one of the twenty girls could make a Zeigfeld show.

With best wishes for your year-book, I am, Laughingly yours, Eddie Cantor. P. S. I have placed a ring around the numbers of the girls selected. Here's hoping that they all have rings very soon."

He's a great guy, that Cantor. And he makes the best of noises even if those noises might have the effect as the "Bronx cheer" on those unfortunates coming out at the wrong end of the score in the annual competition.

Now that Cantor has cast his "eagle eyes" over the photos, and the judges at the Beauty ball have gazed at the charming young things, the names of the winners will still remain a secret until the Royal Purple staff decides to announce them. That announcement will probably be made when the yearbooks are issued around May 1. And in the meantime watch for the eastward migration of Kansas coeds. If Cantor's statement about the girls' being Zeigfeld material is as serious as his presidential platform, old Florens will have a lot of winners on his hands.

POLISH EDGES OF ORPHEUM STUNTS BEFORE FRIDAY

BETTER THAN LAST YEAR'S FINE TALENT SHOWN SAYS HEBERER.

June Layton and Comic Wrestlers Are Added Attractions—Song Specialty Secret Not Revealed Until Curtain Rises.

TROPHIES IN TWO CLASSES

By Mayrie Griffith

The trials of a chorine are being revealed to a number of college students as practice for Ag Orpheum, which is to be presented March 4 and 5 in the college auditorium, progress. The stunts promise to be even better than those of former years and much talent is being displayed, according to H. Miles Heberer of the public speaking department, who has been reviewing the acts and making suggestions for their improvement this past week.

Take Eight and Twelve Minutes. The stunts are divided into twelve-minute and eight-minute acts. The longer ones include: "Street Scene" by Phi Beta Phi; "Three Miles Out" by Chi Omega, under the direction of Mayrie Griffith, IJ2, Topeka; "All God's Griftun" by Delta Delta Delta, with Mrs. Mary Myers Elliott as director; and "In Darkest Java, or Around the World in a Coffee Cup" by Phi Sigma Kappa, under the direction Alden Krider, Ar3, Newton.

The eight-minute stunts will be "I Wanna Mechanical Man," by Alpha Delta Phi, directed by Ellen Warren, IJ2, Manhattan; "The TKE's Had a Name for It," by Tau Kappa Epsilon, directed by Prof. K. W. Owens of the public speaking department, and "Face the Music" by Josephine Skinner, HE4, presented by Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Other Specialties Provided. In addition to the competitive acts June Layton and his band will furnish 20 minutes of the latest dance tunes and Jim Roberts, AE4, Ford, and G. L. ("Cotton") Tempers, CE3, Broughton, both members of the wrestling team and acclaimed by M. F. "Mike" Ahearn as among the world's best, will entertain with some comical wrestling holds. A song specialty which, according to Ted Skinner, C3, Manhattan, manager of the production, promises to uncover some hidden talent, will remain a dark secret to the audience until the night of the performance.

Trophy to Each Group Winner. Attractive trophies will be presented to the winners of the long and short stunts after the performance on Saturday night. The decision of the judges on Friday night will be based on cleverness, originality, and presentation. Saturday night the judges' decision will be based on the applause of the audience, and the cups will be awarded on the combined votes of the two nights. Judges will be announced later.

Since there is but little scenery, there will be no pause between stunts. The lights will not be turned on between acts and the program is guaranteed to be two hours in length.

Harlan Rhodes, C3, Manhattan, is assistant manager; Phillip Lautz, EE4, La Junta, Colo., is business manager; and William Davis, ME3, Manhattan, official stage manager of the Manhattan Theatre, has been secured for stage manager. The production is sponsored by the Young Men's Christian association. The price for admission is 35 cents.

There will also be more planting north of "Sewer creek" in the northeastern corner of the campus.

Prof. F. L. Parrish of the history department spoke to the members of the Wise club at the weekly meeting Sunday evening at the student center of the Episcopal church. Professor Parrish told about the history of religion and the changes through which religion has passed.

'MUGWUMPESS' ELLET HERE

Journalists Will Hear Well Known Columnist of Concordia Paper Thursday.

Marion Ellet, "Mugwump Musings" columnist of the Concordia Blade-Empire, will address students in the department of industrial journalism at the journalism seminar Thursday afternoon, March 3. Her subject will be "The Kansas Coffee Shop."

Miss Ellet has had an interesting career as a journalist. Her first job was with a New York paper for which she was drama and music critic, also doing some free lancing. She delivered an address before the members of the Kansas Editorial association at their meeting in Wichita last month. Though she is recognized as a critic of courage and ability, it is perhaps through "Mugwump Musings" that she is best known.

Doctor Metzger received his B. S. degree from Purdue university in 1922 and his M. S. degree from Kansas State college in 1927. Last August he completed work on his doctor's degree at the University of Ohio, where he has been since last time. He has also been associated with Pennsylvania college and the University of Arkansas.

RESEARCH BOTANIST TO ILLUSTRATE HIS SPEECH

Kansas State Graduate to Talk at Assembly Thursday; Sigma Xi and Science Club in Evening.

Dr. Charles F. Swingle, who since his graduation from Kansas State college in 1920, has been all over the world in search of plants for introduction into the United States, will be on the campus Thursday to give two illustrated lectures on his experiences in Madagascar. Dr. Swingle is with the federal Bureau of Plant Industry, Washington, D. C., in the service of which he spent some months on this island in the Indian ocean.

He will lecture in assembly Thursday morning on the subject, "Exploring for Plants in Madagascar." His talk at a joint open meeting of the Science club and Sigma Xi Thursday evening at 7:30 will be along the same line.

Articles by Dr. Swingle have appeared in the National Geographic and other well known magazines, and his lectures have been well received at the University of Toronto, Yale, and other eastern universities where he has spoken.

After graduation from Kansas State, Doctor Swingle spent several years with the California Nursery company, then entered the United States department of agriculture. Mrs. Swingle, nee Mildred Barry, is also a graduate of the college.

Doctor Swingle has also accepted an invitation to speak at the botanical seminar on Thursday, March 10, on the laboratory and field investigation work conducted in nursery stock project in the bureau of plant industry.

BLAINE INJURES SHOULDER. Dan Blaine, El Dorado, will wear his arm in a sling for a few days as a result of a fall in the men's gymnasium yesterday afternoon. While preparing for a wrestling match, Blaine dislocated his left shoulder. The injury is not serious, Dr. C. M. Siever has stated.

A University of California extension course has been opened to the public in the study of birds.

COMMISSIONS APPOINTED TO DIAGNOSE ILLS OF CURRICULA

WILL GATHER STUDENT OPINION ON NEED OF CHANGES IN DEPARTMENTAL AND DIVISIONAL COURSES

FACULTY WILL STUDY RESULTS OF INVESTIGATIONS

Three Students and Two Faculty Members From Each Division Appointed by Presidents of Honorary and Professional Organizations Form Commissions

Convinced that Kansas State college does not provide adequate vocational guidance to undergraduates in at least some of its departments, the Student Governing association has undertaken a project whereby it hopes not only to find the weak points in the present situation, but to evolve a constructive advisory program for the benefit of every student enrolled in the college.

Under present conditions, each department must work out its own system of counseling students, if it is to have one, and this method of procedure is altogether inadequate in the opinion of those who have started the movement.

No Help For Inquirer. For instance, in the division of general science, while a student has an assessor, he may not feel free to consult him in regard to matters in a department practically out of his experience. More likely the student would prefer to consult a faculty member in his department, and then only in case he was personally acquainted with him.

At the request of interested students and faculty members who believed that student as well as faculty opinion should be sought in working out the plan, the S. G. A. council appointed Louise Davis, HE4, Nashville, Tenn., student chairman to promote the project.

Miss Davis called a meeting of the presidents, or their representatives, of every honorary group within each division and explained the purpose of the project. These students then selected three representative students from each division, including at least one senior and at least one underclassman, to assist in making a survey of their own division. The three students, together with two faculty members appointed by the respective deans, comprise the Vocational Guidance commission for each division, the dean designating one of the faculty appointees to act as chairman of the group.

Ready To Begin Survey. Yesterday the last names were added to these commission lists, and everything is now in readiness for the survey to begin. Each commission will study and gather data on the needs and desires of students (Continued on Page Two)

TALKS TO LANDSCAPERS

School of Landscaping Engages Kansas State Specialists to Lecture There.

The Abilene School of Landscaping is being addressed by instructors from the Kansas State college division of agriculture on various phases of landscaping. Arthur J. Howard, graduate assistant in the department of botany, has talked about foundation plantings; and Prof. H. H. Haysmaker talked last week about plants and their control.

Last night Prof. G. A. Dean, department of entomology, addressed the school on insect control. Dr. E. C. Miller and Prof. L. R. Quinlan, both of the department of botany, are to speak March 7 and 14 respectively. Miller's subject will be plant physiology and Quinlan's will be evergreens. The school is sponsored by the Abilene Chamber of Commerce, the board of education of Abilene schools and the Abilene Turferymen.

LAST RAIL IN PLACE

Old Fashioned Structure Is Built As Memorial to Horticulture Club.

The rail fence at the horticulture farm has just been completed by members of the Horticulture club. The fence has been in the process of construction since shortly after Thanksgiving.

Last fall, when the pine grove at the farm needed thinning, the club members decided to erect the old-fashioned fence as a memorial to the organization. Work was started by laboratory classes in silviculture under the direction of Prof. E. W. Johnson. Members of the club who completed the work were Erwin Abmeyer, Grantville; J. S. Adams, Leoti; Ralph Barnhart, Manhattan; Lloyd and Wilbur Copenhaver, Manhattan; A. C. Elson, Kansas City; Raymond Hougland, Olathe; and E. H. Regnier, Spearville.

ENGLISH TEACHERS TALK

Davis on Aiken and Garvey on Tagore Are Scheduled For First Of New Series.

A series of radio lectures by members of the faculty of the department of English has been arranged by Prof. C. W. Matthews. The talks will be given each Tuesday afternoon from 5 to 5:30 o'clock until May 17.

Prof. H. W. Davis will discuss the work of Conrad Aiken this afternoon and Miss Annabelle Garvey will discuss Rabindranath Tagore next Tuesday.

Aiken was elected class poet of his senior class at Harvard. His volume of "Selected Verse" won the Pulitzer prize in 1930. Professor Davis will tell something of his life and read some of his poetry in the lecture.

Tagore was elected class poet of his senior class at Harvard. His volume of "Selected Verse" won the Pulitzer prize in 1930. Professor Davis will tell something of his life and read some of his poetry in the lecture.

MAKING CANNON-FODDER

At last he has been found. A minister who is not afraid of his congregation and who says what he thinks and says it forcefully. Last Sunday the Rev. F. L. Platt of the Congregational church denounced compulsory military training at Kansas State and similar colleges. Moreover he denounced it right in the faces of a large number of college professors and officials who make up his congregation.

Besides having the courage of his convictions, Platt has sound logic and good arguments to enforce them. He stated that the greatest evil from the military training was the militaristic attitude which it instilled in college students, the future leaders of their communities. How can peace and peaceful methods gain ground when all over the country men have been taught the fundamentals of war and militarism, he asks.

Platt is right in his sermon. In spite of the nonchalance and the callousness of college students to most of the knowledge which is poured into them in college, not all of it is lost. In time of crisis and decisions they will be unconsciously influenced by the things they learned at college.

Military training should not be abolished. It should not be compulsory. Let those who want to be cannon-fodder be trained to be the best cannon-fodder in the world. Lord knows they will need all the efficiency and knowledge they can get.

ALL THAT GLITTERS IS NOT GOLD

Nothing is ever what it seems to be. Just remember that, my collegians, and you will have learned all a college education can teach you. There's always something sharp behind every beautiful dream. Why even the long revered tradition that there shall be no smoking on the Kansas State campus has teeth in it! The whole tale goes thusly:

A legislative act for the governing of Kansas State college of agriculture and applied sciences, taking effect March 11, 1883 states that "Regents shall have power to enact ordinances, by-laws, and regulations for the government of said college." Forty-five years later a board of Regents took advantage of this power, and passed an ordinance, by-law, or regulation—whatever you wish to call it. Accordingly, on the records of the Board of Regents appears the following enactment, dated March 21, 1908.

"The use of tobacco in any form in buildings or on grounds is prohibited." The idea is the same, whether it is a tradition or a rule, but one hates to see innocence betrayed.

Idle wonder—how does Kansas university get around the regents' ruling?—M. H.

The Snooper

It has been an ancient idea that the confiscation of Economics Instructor Thompson's class cards would result in dismissal of the class. Recently a gust of wind wafted the recitation pasteboards to various parts of the room and notebooks snapped shut simultaneously. The class assumed an attitude of expectancy. However, Instructor Thompson calmly gathered them up and work was resumed. The burst of another bubble.

We have no fear regarding the success of Coach Courant's baseball team this spring. Perhaps John Rust has not yet been "discovered" as a prospective pitcher, but if his control over a baseball reaches the perfection of that he exercised over an olive with which he belted us squarely between the eyes at a recent banquet, his berth on the squad is assured. Incidentally, Veterinarian Rust was forced to tell his introductory funny story three times before his munching listeners "saw the light."

dents in its particular division, comparing it with the present provisions for vocational guidance. Miss Davis said that it is hoped that the reports can be completed by March 31.

When commissions have completed their reports and are ready to propose changes, an open meeting of all students and faculty members will be called. If the reports are ready, this meeting will be held on Thursday, March 31. If the suggestions are approved, they will be recommended to the faculty committee on vocational guidance, consisting of the deans of the divisions and Dean Mary Van Zile, and eventually, it is hoped, will result in definite action toward better advisory facilities.

A project similar to the present one was begun last year, but the reports were considered inadequate and not worthy of consideration, partly because of the lack of unity and organization in the undertaking.

Commissions Are Listed.

The students and faculty members selected to make the survey are as follows:
Agriculture—Assoc. Prof. Harold Howe, chairman; Prof. F. W. Bell, W. M. Myers, Agt. Bakeroff; Oil-

The statement that hockers were numerous at the banquet will be fervently vouched for by Zeke Sullivan, who spoke. No sooner had he uttered the customary "Friends, Romans and countrymen," than cries of "that was a great speech. Sit down!" smote his ears. The food-sters tossed coins at the feet of Zeke Sullivan as he delivered his address. He recited poetry.

The Senior Men's Pan-Hell dance Friday night turned out to be the usual crowded affair. We (wisely, we thought,) staged in order that necessary rest could be obtained, and at the same time, gaze with fascination at the didoes of the Blasting Clouds of Joy. We love to watch the "drumminst." He executed one number with a dilapidated stew pan and a wire coat hanger.

H. W. Davis brings forth his emphatic conviction in Sunflowers that weather is a woman. Never have we seen a woman angry over such a long period of time.

Wildcat basketballers gave the Missouri quintet a bad time Saturday night. Breen, constantly hovering near, made the efforts of Cooper, conference high scorer, futile. It seems that Big Six authorities erred when they ruled that only one official should conduct a basketball game. "Quig" called many fouls, but also missed many. Andy Skradski is a toughie on the court.

"NOT WITHOUT LAUGHTER"

By Langston Hughes.

Langston Hughes, who is an accomplished Negro author, has been able to give the public in his first prose work, a book which no one but he or another of his race could have produced. To begin with, he lived the life of which he writes, and thereby gained the fundamental, that is vital in making this type of book successful. Those who enjoy Negro customs and dialect will be more than satisfied with this story. Hughes gives a different view on the Negro race, and in turn alters the white race's opinion of what they generally believe the Negro to be thinking of them.

Class within class is the main feature made prominent, showing the low and high of the Negro race. It also proves that there are many who, wishing they might rise above their down-trodden fellows, are unsuccessful because they have no definite plan for breaking down the barrier between them and the position for which they are striving.

Beginning with cold, ironic facts it may be hard for those with the least iota of race prejudice to digest certain parts of the book. Nevertheless, the author is too brilliant to lay himself liable by making statements which he cannot prove beyond a reasonable doubt, if one is to be legally exacting. Kipling once said, "East is East, and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." To fit the case of the Negro and white races, it might be altered by saying, "White is white, and black is black, and never the races shall meet."

Maintenance of proper attitude, as in many instances, is necessary to read this book intelligently, and grasp its value for its true worth. The author makes no "bones" in bringing before his reader an exacting description, and if one is looking for something to give the wrong interpretation, he had better turn his attention to something of which it is the sole purpose. Typical Negro life—life in the raw, so to speak, involving old, young, good, bad, and indifferent. Immoral, yes from a white person's view, but to those of the black race it is living, living the only way most of them have had a chance to know. They simply follow the line of least resistance and let come what may.

The significance of the title of the book dawns on the reader as he sees them through their trials and tribulations, of which their lives are chiefly composed. However bad the situation, these true optimists always emerge laughing. If it is because they are of serious problems, then it might be easier on many of the lighter race when they are so afflicted.

In covering the plot with these characters five years elapse and at the conclusion we are confronted with only one success, as far as achieving his ambition is concerned, and this is attributed to his white ancestry. This is a low average in comparison to ten other characters, who were all on the same level to begin with, but who never raised above another level as they grew older. This same average of Negro successes holds true throughout the entire Negro population of the United States. Thus Hughes pleads the cause of his race, that they may be better understood, or at least be sympathized with in the eyes of the white race.—E. W.

PERSIAN ART WORK ON DISPLAY HERE

Student Exhibition Includes Rugs, Hats, Silk Prints—To Start March 3.

An unusual collection of student work inspired by Persian art will be brought to the college March 3. The exhibit, sponsored by the department of art, will last two weeks, and represents the work of leading industrial art schools of the east. It includes practical applications of the original ancient designs to modern uses in silk prints, tiles, hats, gloves, scarfs and rugs.

Prizes were offered by the Brooklyn museum last spring, during an exhibit of Persian art held there, to students who could adapt the materials in their various fields.

Mounted designs in color are from the Traphagen School of Fashion, the New York School of Applied Design, the Philadelphia School of Design for Women, the Utrecht School of Boston, and two secondary schools of New York.

Accompanying this impressive display is a series of mounted photographs of the original Persian specimens, to indicate the material which inspired the young artists. Persian art is characterized by romantic subject matter and the use of soft blending hues.

INTERFRATERNITY SING TO BE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Musical Stunt Will Be Required of Entrants in Third Annual Event

The third annual interfraternity sing will be held March 17. Phi Mu Alpha, professional men's music fraternity, sponsors the sing. The contest this year has been changed in that each competing group must present a musical stunt of not more than five minutes length, in addition to the customary song number, which may be either fraternity, classical, or semi-classical in nature.

The song number will count three-fourths in the judges' decisions, and the musical stunt will receive one-fourth consideration by the judges. The song number will be judged in three parts, including: composition, 10 percent; audience response, 15 percent; staging and presentation, 50 percent.

Only active members and pledges of Greek organizations may be entered in the contest for each organization. The group representing each house must have at least eight persons and not more than twenty in the song contest. Any number may participate in the stunt.

Winners of the sing last year were Beta Theta Pi and Alpha Xi Delta.

College Medic Says "I Told You So" to Victims of Influenza

college medic—2 col feature ff
"Prevent colds by using common sense," warns Dr. C. M. Siever, college physician, to whom many students have applied for treatment and advice within the past several days.

That Step in Time
Doctor Siever believes many of the colds might have been prevented had sufficient care been taken to avoid exposure. Students needing special care are taken to the college hospital where efficient nurses will care for them.

Students are prone to wait until they are very ill before they come for treatment, thus exposing their friends and classmates and endangering their own lives," said Doctor Siever. "All students should make sure that their bodies are kept at an even temperature. This calls for well ventilated rooms, proper clothing, removing outside coats in the classroom and keeping a safe distance from those who have colds," according to Doctor Siever.

Complications the Danger
"The danger in all colds and influenza is the complications which may follow them, especially pneumonia, which at this time is quite prevalent. If taken in time, serious illness may be prevented," Doctor Siever said.

BARBARA LAUTZ TO GO ABROAD ON Y. W. TOUR

To Be One of 12 Y. W. C. A. Members from United States on European Tour

The chance to go abroad, the ambition of almost every young woman, has been given to Barbara Lautz, La Junta, Colo. Miss Lautz has been chosen as one of the twelve students from the United States to go abroad this summer with the 1932 Pilgrimage of the Y. W. C. A.

Members of the group will comprise students both graduate and undergraduate, of American colleges, faculty members, and student secretaries from all parts of the United States.

The ideals, the culture, the home and social life, the customs, and the dozen little things that go to make up the great nations of England, France, Germany, and Switzerland, will be studied by 1932 Pilgrims in their two months of travel. Seminars with students and professors of these countries have been specially arranged for the 1932 Pilgrims, to afford a means of obtaining fuller understanding of world problems and student problems. In London, Berlin, Munich, Dresden, Paris, Geneva, internationally known men and women, as well as student groups will be waiting to greet the Pilgrims, and to interpret for them the social, political, and educational life.

The group will sail from New York July 1 and return September 6.

WENT "TWO MILES DOWN"

Scientist-Explorer Will Tell Of Fairlyland Under Sea On March 18.

Dr. William Beebe, internationally known scientist and deep sea explorer will give a lecture on March 18 at the auditorium. He is brought here under the auspices of the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Beebe's descent to "Davy Jones Locker" was a newspaper sensation for weeks. Sealed in a steel ball, six feet in diameter, Dr. Beebe was able to enter a world never before explored by man. Through port holes fitted with strong quartz glass he recorded the marvels of marine life. "Two Miles Down", the lecture which Dr. Beebe will give, deals particularly with his thrilling submarine explorations at Bermuda. It is illustrated by motion pictures and colored slides, showing the marvels of what Dr. Beebe calls, "The Fairlyland under the Sea."

As director of tropical research of the New York Zoological society, Dr. Beebe has traveled to the far corners of the earth studying the habits of birds, animals and fish.

The proceeds from the lecture will be the Manhattan A. A. U. W.'s contribution to the national million-dollar endowment fund and also for use in their own student loan fund, according to Dean Mary P. Van Zile, local president of A. A. U. W.

Grease Spots

By Kenneth Werley

K. M. Fones, Kansas City, Mo., ABE, and L. W. Hurlbut, Manhattan, ABE, have been named by the Kansas State Engineer as outstanding seniors in the Ag Engineering department. Fones is editor of the 1932 Engineer and a member of Sigma Tau, Steel Ring, and the Friars club, all honorary organizations.

Hurlbut is a member of Steel Ring and Sigma Tau and very active in committee work. That well-dressed person you see is an electrical engineering student who is on his way to keep an appointment with a representative of a prominent electrical company.

Power to him! The engineers are getting a break. With the completion of the new parking lot on the north side of the engineering building, school life for the engineering student should be simple. And this parking problem has been a good subject for discussion, too.

Members of the radio club have completed a short wave code set with which they maintain contact with amateur radio operators over the state. Frank DeLaMater, McAlester, Okla., is chief operator of the new station.—R. A. Seaton, dean of the engineering division has received a copy of "Graphic Statics," a new textbook compiled by Subert Fairman and Chester S. Cuthshall.

Fairman was graduated from the department of mechanical engineering at K. S. C. in 1919, and received his master's degree here in 1924. The reputation of engineer's open house is increasing. A. Durand, assistant dean of the engineering division has received a letter from the superintendent of schools at Independence asking for accommodations and entertainment for twenty high school students who plan to attend.

Hazel Foust, Olathe, has been a patient in the college hospital since February 17. She is ill with pneumonia.

"In Darkest Java, or Around the World in a Coffee Cup" is the Phi Sigma Kappa act at Ag Orpheum.

For journalism and commerce students, typewriting is indispensable. The Platt Secretarial School will arrange classes to suit college students beginning March 7. 1026 Poyntz; phone 4317. (40-1c)

HIKING ENTHUSIASTS TO STUDY NATURE ON TRIPS

Snakes, Flowers, Birds and Stars Are Provided in Plains Club's "Course of Study."

The Plains club, an organization of students, faculty members, and townspeople who are interested in hiking, is becoming active after a dormancy of two years. The first hike will be one of geological interest, led by Professor A. B. Sperry of the geology department. The group will meet at two o'clock, Saturday afternoon, March 5, at the east entrance of Fairchild hall.

A winter tree identification trip will be led by Miss Elsa Horn of the botany department on Saturday afternoon, March 12. The group will meet at the foot of "K" hill on highway 13 and proceed two miles farther by car before hiking up Hackberry Glen.

Further trips will be scheduled for Saturday afternoons; some on Sundays, and a few afternoon and evening events with an outdoor camp fire supper.

A hike to the nesting place of the blue herons is to have Dr. J. L. Hall of the chemistry department as leader. A spring flower hunt will be led by Dr. C. O. Johnston who has a government position in Dickens hall. Snakes will be especially regarded on a hike in charge of Prof. M. J. Harbaugh of the zoology department. The oldest red cedar trees in Kansas will be viewed by the club on an outing to Westmoreland on a Sunday afternoon and evening under George A. Filling of the horticulture department. Dr. Roger C. Smith or D. A. Wilbur of the entomology department will lead a hike to look for insects. On some cloudless night, L. W. Hartel of the physics department will help the group observe the stars. Dean R. W. Babcock will substitute, if necessary, on the star-gazing expedition. Dr. F. C. Gates of the botany department will lead a group which will feature studies of botanical interest. Dr. J. V. Cortelyou of the modern languages department may lead the club to the Indian mounds, for he knows where they are located.

Membership in the Plains club consists only in attending the hikes, and paying dues of 25c every three years. Prof. A. B. Sperry of the geology department is president of the organization, and Miss Elsa Horn of the botany department is secretary. At the time of the temporary disorganization there were 45 regular members.

Miss Horn said she would gladly accept any suggestions as to the place of the hikes or give any desired information.

TRACKMEN WIN AT K. C. A. C.

Six Men Place High To Help Midwest Stars To West Californians.

With six men winning places in the events, Kansas State helped the picked team from the Missouri valley district defeat the Los Angeles Athletic club in the annual K. C. A. C. indoor track meet at Kansas City, 50 to 27.

The Missouri Valley aggregation, outnumbering the west coast team, made a clean sweep in the half mile, and fifty yard high and low hurdle events.

Heye Lambertus, University of Nebraska, won the 50 yard dash even and then turned in the best time of the meet by running the 50 yard low hurdles in dual competition in six seconds flat.

"According to all records the boys made the best record at Kansas City last Saturday that has ever been made by Kansas State representatives," Coach Ward Haylett told the Collegian reporter yesterday. I believe we have the best bunch of boys this year that has ever represented Kansas State in the annual Kansas City Athletic club meet in the history of the school."

A few of the outdoor stars could not recover from being confined to such small quarters. Captain Hinkley, Kansas State, and holder of records in hurdle events, did not place because of the short distance events indoors.

The summary:
50-yard dash (open)—third, Harsh, K. S. Time 5.4.
440-yard (open)—second, Castello, K. S.; third, Miller, K. S. Time 52 3-5.

1,000-yard run—won by McNeal, K. S. Time 3:21 3-5.
High jump (dual)—Shelby, A. A. C. Conrad, L. A. A. C., and Ehrlich, K. S., tied for first. Height 6 ft. 3 in.

Pole vault (dual)—won by McDermott, L. A. A. C. 12 feet; second, Bausch, K. C. A. C., Jordan, K. S., and Coffman, Kansas, tied at 11 ft. 6 in.

Medley relay (dual)—won by Missouri Valley (Nagel, I. S. 440; Jackson, Mo. 440; Darnell, K. S. 440; and Dawson, unattached, 880). Time 3:37.3.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Patterson were dinner guests Sunday at the Alpha Gamma Rho house.

Alaskan Coeds Think in Fashion Terms, Too

"Farthest North Collegian" was the surprising name which greeted the editor when he unfolded a newspaper which was sent to President Farrell this week. From the Alaska Agriculture College and School of Mines comes this eight page monthly newspaper telling of college life in the snow-blanketed north.

With a banner headline splashed across its front page, the paper tells of the record enrolment of 200 students for the second semester.

This fashion note holds much interest for its readers:

"During the recent cold spell a new vogue in footwear was inaugurated. Finding ordinary shoes and overshoes did not give enough protection many students began to appear in mukluks and moccasins. Now practically everyone, teachers and all, are taking up this new fad. There seem to be two decided trends in this new fad, that towards beaded moccasins and the other towards the short mukluks with little fur tails on them. The new footwear is not only warm and unique, but also decorative, making dainty little feet even more attractive."

Athletic contests of this "Farthest North School" chronicled in their paper include basketball for both men and women, wrestling, boxing and tumbling. Competition in the sports is with the high school teams of Fairbanks, Alaska.

In the line-up of one of the basketball games, the name Snodgrass appears as forward. Bill Snodgrass is a student in veterinary medicine at Kansas State and this player is his older brother, Roland, who is attending the Alaska college. Snodgrass' father is connected with the railroad in Alaska and the family lived there for a number of years. All of them except Mr. Snodgrass and Roland are now living in Manhattan.

Names mentioned in the various stories picture an enrolment of varying nationalities at the school; for instance: Link, Scheffler, Olson, Lundell, MacDonald, Ek, Mikami, Polet.

Another story tells of two students who set out to study the Aurora on a night when the temperature was 45 degrees below zero. Twelve miles from the town the radiator of their car froze and the bearings burned out. Evidently the highways in Alaska are little traveled for the story tells of their using their portable radio set to signal someone to come after them to prevent their making the long, cold hike back to the campus.

Advertisements tell of sound pictures at Fairbanks, Cordova, and Anchorage; recommend the preservation and appreciation of the value of reindeer; praise the "College Candy Counter," set dates for fur sales each month; and even add the familiar note of Chesterfield cigarettes and Piggy Wiggly grocery stores.

At The Theatre

AT THE WAREHAM

"Frankenstein"

Frankenstein, as everyone probably has already told you, is a scientist who in his zeal to create life conceals a man with a perfect body, and, accidentally, a criminal mind. The fiend gets loose, of course, and does big damage. But after the whole show is over you realize it could have been eliminated by shooting the fiend in the first scene as any sensible person (outside of a movie) would have done. Anyway, the producers went a long way to make the show "thrilling."—N. C.

AT THE DICKINSON

It all happens because Robert Montgomery, the ex-husband, and Norma Shearer, the ex-wife, find themselves enjoying honeymoons at the same resort and sharing the same terrace. They run off—leaving their erstwhile spouses in the lurch. The old trouble bobs up—the quot tempers and hot words that caused them to get a divorce in the first place. They go from perfect bliss to hair-pulling in five minutes. But they understand one another and have a heavenly time with their fights. Well, anyway, when it all winds up you know you have seen a good light comedy—really funny, you know. Besides Norma Shearer is an actress.—N. C.

AT THE VARSITY

"Lady With a Past"

Constance Bennett gives one of the most sparkling performances of the season in "Lady With a Past." The play is a brilliant one and is finished to the slightest detail. Ben Lyon, of course, is one of the few who can play a flippant part gracefully—and since he's responsible for a good bit of what happens, it's only fair to say that he is splendid—at times even stealing the picture from the exquisite Constance.

Constance Bennett, as you must know, is the lady with the past—a past as Ben Lyon put it, "that you can't lay your finger on, though a lot of boys will try it." Constance as the wall flower is dazzling beautiful—as a woman of sophistication, she is unrivaled in her well-tempered glamor.

Until now, I have always had something "agin" Connie—I often was prone to attribute it to her diaph face, or the way she just stood without doing anything, but I take it all back now. It must have been the pictures they put her in. The way I feel now, I'd be willing to spend a whole evening looking at her clothes—which are gorgeous, putting it in feminine language—and a lot more willing to see how perfectly dashing she really is—and what a creature of contrasts she can be. I just can't say too much about "The Lady With a Past" and the people in it. And say the shorts—or whatever you call them—are good too, especially "Riders of Riley" which was made at Fort Riley.—R. W.

HENDRICKSON'S 'DIVORCE' ORATION IN FIRST PLACE

Aileen Rundle, Franklin, Judges Second Best in Contest Between Societies.

"Divorce" was the subject of the winning oration by Ralph Hendrickson, Manhattan, in the inter-society oratorical contest Saturday night in recreation center. Hendrickson represented the Webster literary society.

Other winners were Aileen Rundle, Clay Center, representing Franklin literary society, second; and James Wells, Winona, Hamilton, third. Prizes were $15, $10, and $5 for first, second and third places, respectively. In his oration Hendrickson pleaded for a uniform divorce law in the several states. He cited the evils of the existing conditions and recommended a law similar to that which Senator Arthur Capper introduced into Congress calling for strict marriage regulations and fewer grounds for divorce.

Judges for the contest were Roy Bailey, editor of the Salina Journal; E. C. Buehler, director of forensics at the University of Kansas; and H. W. Bouck, secretary of the Manhattan chamber of commerce.

Other entrants in the contest were Geraldine Courley, Nickerson; Iona Clothier, Holton; Frank McVey, Oak Hill; Merl Burgin, Coats; and Velma Capper, Manhattan.

"Y" PLANS RETREAT
Plans are being made for the annual Tri-school Y. M. C. A. Retreat which will be held at Marysville. The three schools which take part in this annual meeting are the University of Missouri, the University of Kansas, and Kansas State College.

"The TKEs Had a Name For It"—we don't know what it was, but it's coming to Ag Orpheum—see it Friday and Saturday. (40-1c)

Cage Teams Picked By Big Six Sport Scribes

Conference Sports Writers Unanimous in Choice of First Team—Kansas University and Missouri Each Land Two Men on First Five, Kansas State One

Picking an all-star basketball team is like picking the five most beautiful women on the Kansas State campus. No matter whom you pick there are always some who will disagree, whether they have a good reason to or whether they are naturally disagreeable. Oh, well, that's what horse races are for, to settle a difference of opinion.

- All Big Six Teams.
First Team
Cooper, Missouri, f
O'Leary, Kansas, f
Johnson, Kansas, c
Auker, Kansas State, g
Collings, Missouri, g (C)
Second Team
Beck, Oklahoma, f (C)
Skradski, Kansas State, f
Heitman, Iowa State, c
Grady, Oklahoma, g
Page, Kansas, g

Just in case you don't want to take your sports editor's word that his selections are the best, the teams mentioned above are those selected by all the sports editors of the conference student newspapers. And incidentally they are the same as those released by this writer last week.

Choice of Players Unanimous.

All the players mentioned on the first team were unanimously chosen. Cooper, Missouri, and O'Leary, Kansas, the two forwards, lead the conference scorers by averaging 11 points per game. The Tiger sophomore is good, there's no doubt about that, and it has been difficult for anyone to stop him from scoring. O'Leary is a good field general and has all-around basketball ability, including basket shooting.

Johnson, Kansas, was easily chosen for the pivot position. Although inconsistent at the beginning of the season, fear of being benched made the Jayhawker the best center of the conference. And by the way, he ranked third among the scorers, next to the two forwards.

Auker has proven himself capable of handling an all-conference position. He is an all-around star and was the steady influence on the Kansas State team. Collings is also a good player and is clever as a defensive man.

Second Team Good.
Beck, Oklahoma, and Skradski, Kansas State, are the two forwards

No wonder men smoke PIPES!

EVERY PIPE SMOKER has the satisfaction of knowing he has one masculine right that the women won't take away from him. They do leave our pipes alone.

And though the girls may not know it, they're leaving us one of the finest smokes a man can have.

There's something calm and soothing about a pipe and good tobacco. It leads to clear-headed thinking. Perhaps that's why the leaders—the real men of the world—are pipe smokers.

College men like a pipe—packed with cool, slow-burning Edgeworth, the favorite pipe tobacco in 42 out of 54 colleges. It's cut especially for pipes, to give a cooler, drier smoke. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 2nd St., Richmond, Va.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural flavor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive elevage process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes, 15¢ packet package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

grappling champs, snapped the 71 match winning streak of the Oklahoma A. and M. Cowboys last Saturday. This was the first defeat the Cowboys had been handed in 11 years, and it took a former Oklahoma Aggie, Paul Keen, to do it.

A nice crop of high school wrestling and swimming stars from over the state participated in the state tournament here last Friday and Saturday. Wichita North repeated their victory of last year in wrestling, but were beaten out of the swimming title by Wichita North. This tournament brought out some good grappling and swimming material.

A picked team of Big Six track stars defeated the Los Angeles Athletic club in a meet at Kansas City Saturday. Several Kansas State athletes helped produce this win over the Westerners.

These El Doradoans are a bit shy about their home town. When Mike Ahearn happened to mention at the basketball game that Dan Blaine was from El Dorado, the boy hung his head quite bashfully.

The canvass of the sport scribes of the Big Six conference shows that this writer was correct in his predictions. Auker, Collings, Johnson, Cooper, and O'Leary were unanimous choices for the first team.

Maybe next year basketball fans will be able to attend a game without seeing either team resort to stalling. Dr. James Naismith, inventor of basketball, feels that the rules should be changed so that a penalty will be given the team stalling.

WICHITA HIGHS AGAIN WIN STATE TOURNEY

East Takes Wrestling Second Time And North Captures Swimming Crown.

With Wichita East and Wichita North dominating both the swimming and wrestling meets, the state interscholastic wrestling and swimming tournament held here last Friday and Saturday developed into a battle between the two Wichita schools.

East won the wrestling title with North runner-up; North won the swimming championship with East, last year's title winners, second. Wichita East won five of the eight individual wrestling titles. Coach B. R. Patterson had charge of the wrestling events and Coach C. S. Moll directed the swimming tournament.

Representatives of the two Wichita schools wrestled in virtually all of the lighter weight events in the finals. Especially interesting was the final match between Grieder, Wichita North, and Natanson, Wichita East, for the title in the 125-pound class. Grieder threw Natanson after five minutes of battling. Natanson had defeated Grieder earlier in the year for the Arkansas Valley title.

The third place Wellington matmen, under the tutelage of Harold Hunt, former Emporia Teachers' athlete, performed well for second year men. El Dorado was the only team in the meet which did not have a coach.

WILDCATS WHIP TIGER QUINTET IN STIFF BATTLE

the basket from all angles, but had lost the range entirely. Kansas State began stalling and a moment later Graham got free for a field goal and Auker dribbled the length of the court for another. Cooper then closed the scoring with two more free throws and the game ended 28 to 22.

Wagner, Missouri pivot man, controlled the tip throughout the game.

However, the Wildcats played his tip part of the time, and the rest of the time they depended upon getting possession of the ball when the Tigers tried to bring it through the K-Aggie defense.

Four Kansas State men played their last game of college basketball against the Tigers. They are Captain Elden Auker, Pete Fairbank, Stan Brockway, and George Wiggins. All these players saw some action in the last game.

Four years of college life go fast and hold too many thrills to permit keeping a personal record of time spent in college.

But college years will soon be gone. Memories will fade one by one. And there will be only one complete record of the student life—that will be the year-book.

It's your college diary . . . your school life forever.

AMID FLOODLIGHT GLARE, BALLOON WILL FLY ALOFT

USE 1,500 SIGNS TO DIRECT AND INFORM VISITORS EXPECTED.

ENGINEERS LAVISH HOSTS

Model of Campanile Tower Included Among Many Fine Exhibits Being Arranged For Open House.

When the twelfth annual Engineers' Open House begins its exposition of modern engineering and achievements March 18, visitors at night will be welcomed to the event by enormous flood lights which will light up the campus from points of various buildings.

The committee in charge of the flood lighting system of the open house plan also to have a powerful searchlight illuminating a captive balloon which will be flown above the engineering building. The balloon will probably be secured from the Goodyear Rubber company of Akron, Ohio.

Glider Flights Planned. L. A. Gore, ME3, Buahon, president of the Kansas State Aeronautical association will be in charge of the aeronautical and glider flights to be given on the field immediately south of the engineering building. Plans for the exhibition of an autogyro or Curtiss-Wright, Jr., a small type pusher plane, are also being formulated by the aeronautical association. Every available classroom and laboratory of the engineering building will be occupied by displays and exhibitions of the eight departments of engineering during the two days of the open house.

Inform Visitors By 1,500 Signs. An extensive routing system, being worked out by the routing committee, will require 1,500 signs giving directions and information to the visitors. H. E. Rathbun, AR2, Manhattan, and H. E. Rivers, AR2, Garden City, will have charge of the lettering of the signs.

At night the front part of the engineering building will be illuminated with three large flood lights, and an electric sign displaying the word "Engineers" in large letters will be shown on the top of the engineering building. An 18-foot sign, welcoming the people of Manhattan, and other visitors to the open house will be placed over the street at 4th and Feysitz.

One of the outstanding displays at the open house this year will be a showing by the architecture department. The exhibition will include structural problems, design problems, free hand work, etchings, and famous examples of architecture from various parts of the world.

"Campanile" Model Shown. A featured showing of the architecture department will be an etching exhibit, and an explanation of the process of etching. This is the first year a course in etching has been offered by the architecture department.

A model of "The Campanile Tower," a proposed building for Kansas State college, will also be exhibited and the points of construction explained. This model was built by Niles F. Resch, AR4, Independence, Mo. Numerous other volumes illustrating architecture, various types of wood, models for farm houses, and an automatic water pump.

'ALFALFABILL,' OKLAHOMA'S GOVERNOR, MAY TALK HERE

William H. Murray Answers Invitation Sent by Young Democrats; Woodring Aids.

Governor William H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray may speak in Manhattan later this spring, according to the answer received this week to an invitation sent him by members of the Young Democratic club of Kansas State and Manhattan. Governor Murray, in addition to being the executive of the adjoining state, is making a bid for the Democratic nomination for president. For the past two months he has been engaged in speaking in various cities, having just recently returned from Indiana where he appeared at several political gatherings.

Governor Harry H. Woodring of Kansas, upon being notified that the Oklahoma governor had been asked to speak here, expressed his wishes that Governor Murray would accept the invitation, and stated while it would probably be impossible for him to be present to hear Governor Murray talk, he would come to Manhattan at another time to speak.

Governor Murray's answer to the invitation extended by the Young Democrats: "Replying to yours of February 24, if I find I can do so, I shall, a little later, gladly make your college for an address of some kind, either on travels in South America or political, if you so desire."

Should Governor Murray come to Kansas State, the Young Democratic organization will ask him to talk on politics.

ORPHAN TROPHIES WILL SOON FIND WELCOME HOME

FIVE MEN AND A WOMAN CHOSEN TO JUDGE AG ORPHEUM STUNTS.

TICKET SALE SATISFACTORY

Dr. H. T. Hill Will Present Loving Cups to Winners at End of Saturday Night's Performance in College Auditorium.

A 13-inch loving cup is going to find a nice home in some fraternity or sorority before the week end is over, and its little brother, an 11-inch specimen of the same variety, will be an orphan no longer, too. The trophies are the awards for the long and short stunts, respectively, in Ag Orpheum, the ever popular annual feature of the Y. M. C. A., which is being given tonight and tomorrow night in the college auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The board of directors of this society for homeless include five men and a woman. The judges on Friday night, who will base their ranking on effectiveness—originality and cleverness, are Lieut. Granville Morse, Ft. Riley; Capt. William Swift of the military department; and Sam L. Sosna, manager of the Varsity theater.

Audience to Help Judges. The measuring stick Saturday night will be applause of the audience. The judges are Miss Dorothy McLeod, Y. W. C. A. secretary; Dr. Howard T. Hill of the department of public speaking; and H. W. Brewer of the Manhattan Motors company. Doctor Hill will present the trophies to the winners at the close of Saturday night's performance.

Ticket Sale Is Large. Ted Skinner, manager of the production, said last night that the advance ticket sale had been most satisfactory. Other members of the production staff are Harlan Rhodes, assistant manager; Philip Lantz, advertising; William Davis, stage manager; H. Miles Heberer, director.

TO CHEMISTRY MEETING

Dr. H. H. King and Dr. C. H. Whitman of the department of chemistry are planning to attend American Chemical society convention in New Orleans March 28 to April 1.

Blues Singer Discovered in Ag Orpheum Practice

"C'mon, let's go to Aggieville!" "No, I can't. Got to go back up to the house—practice yodeling 'til dinner for that darn Ag Orpheum stunt." . . . Blues singers "bluing" all over Mortgage Hill. . . Aspiring tapsters wearing all the wax off perfectly good fraternity house floors. . . Large orders of cokes from the drug stores late at night. . . Groups of irate professors wrathfully discussing the "sleeping Grecian beauties" in their classes. . . Many unprepared lessons and dark-circled eyes. . . And they're merely indications that another Ag Orpheum is in the immediate offing. The only differences between this Ag Orpheum and those of previous years is that more preparation has been made for the stunts, with concentration on the intrinsic worth of the acts and not so much emphasis on expensive costumes and staging; the stunts are more original; and everyone is more interested. Some new talent has been discovered. The Kappas didn't realize they had a blues singer dwelling in their midst until they started rehearsals for their stunt. Much to their delight they discovered a full-fledged "blues" among the Sisters. Dick McCord and Ken Brady have always made a peppy team and in "Blond Brunette" they're fairly out-pepping themselves. Some wit or other was heard to remark recently, "I'm beginning to wonder whether it's a college or a follies rehearsal 'I'm going to.' If I can't decide for himself, it really should make little difference.

TYPHOID ON THE CAMPUS REASON FOR INOCULATION

Four Students Are Victims of Fever—College Physician Issues Warning.

The development of four cases of typhoid fever among Kansas State students should impress upon every student on the hill the necessity of inoculation. Dr. C. M. Siever, college physician, said in a warning issued last night.

Herbert H. Fechner, WM1, Stanton, Neb., has undulant fever as well as typhoid. He is in the student hospital as is Miss Hazel Foust, CI, Leona. Miss Foust has complications of pneumonia, and is in a serious condition, it was said last night.

The other typhoid patients, both of whom have gone to their homes, are Carl E. Pate, Parsons, and S. E. Woods, Delphos. Woods is reported unconscious part of the time, but according to last reports he was somewhat improved.

Inoculation is free at the student health department, which is maintained by the health fee paid at enrollment, and therefore no student should find the treatment unobtainable. Dr. Siever said. Three inoculative treatments are necessary to insure immunization from the disease. The second treatment is given a week after the first, and the third and last a week after the second.

Typoid is an infectious febrile disease caused by a bacillus introduced into the system with the food or drinking water. Health authorities are conducting an investigation to discover possible sources of the disease.

Sinners to Squirm When Branders Bare Wrongs at Banquet

Lest your sin betray you, be careful, is the warning Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism fraternity, is issuing to some of the professors and more prominent students, who will be issued invitations to the annual Branding Iron Banquet to be held April 8 at the Wareham hotel.

Some of these professors and students have been careless of late, and their wrongs have been whispered about. Rumor, to the restless Branders, goes as the truth. Not even the Deans will be exempt from the discussion—and it is said one of them has sinned.

Those having guilty consciences have the privilege of attending so they might protect themselves. But they are advised to have a good alibi prepared since the questioning of the seemingly guilty ones will be both direct and indirect.

Gossips hanging over the back fence aren't even up to par when it comes to telling who was when and where. Even the young college instructor who insists to one of the up and coming coeds he should be and is the only one will have to compete with a budding young journalist of the same idea over the same girl. At present the problem is perplexing to them both, but the Branders will iron it all out.

Warrants are being issued to the favored ones. And warrants must be obeyed. Those regarding the documents as trivial will be dealt with severely. The handwriting is or the wall.

MEETING PLACE CHANGED

4-H Club to Share Hall With Ham-Ionian Literary Societies.

The Collegiate 4-H club will hold future meetings in the Hamilton-Ionian hall in Nichols gymnasium. The organization decided to adopt this hall for all regular meetings at a special assembly Tuesday, March 1. The meetings before this time have been held in recreation center or Calvin hall. The literary societies had previously approved of the 4-H clubs' request to have joint use of their hall.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

Four students, ill in the college hospital, with typhoid fever, are said to have been eating at the same place. . . One student answering questions in a metallurgy quiz, couldn't spell the word which he thought would be the correct one, so he put down "silicon." And it was right. . . When the Phi Deltas were looking through their files last night they found a notebook of Pete Peterson, former Kansas State baseball star, on which were the following notations: "C" divided by 2 equals "P." Other hifi credit goes to Stevenson. See his paper for corrections. . . The Alpha Xi Deltas would certainly go over big in one of the honest-to-goodness rural communities.

Last night at the W. A. A. meeting they executed a square dance, and didn't even get mixed up. Marjorie Lyles called the dances. . . Kelly Slaughter can sing. Honest. He appeared before the high school assembly yesterday, and did his bit right along with Dick McCord and Ken Brady. . . The Manhattan News seems to lack the one thing it should possess. And that is the gathering and presentation of facts that are of interest to the public in general. Who cares of one man refused the paper an ad. . . Don Wyatt spends half his time hunting for his car. . . It's too bad Zeké Sullivan wasn't nominated for the Royal Purple race. He would make a whale of a good business manager. . . But those candidates running can probably fill the jobs.

They're all competent. . . Charley-horses are prevalent among the athletes. Spring football scrimmage started last night. . . The intramural track meet last night drew many talented men from the houses. Too many cigarettes may have caused the races to be a little slow. . . "Gun" Johnson made his grades. . . When and if Governor Bill Murray speaks in Manhattan, he probably won't wear his campaign garb. Recently the governor, now aspirant for the presidential chair, talked to a group of society women in Washington. He was as well, if not better dressed than the average man, and talked in a language which indicated his education is certainly more than primary.

HOME ECOS PLAN CONTESTS

Showmanship of Each Department To Be Displayed at Open House.

Contests in exhibiting are to be offered in clothing, textiles, foods, child welfare, household management, and art in the annual home economics open house to be April 21 to 23. Although the contests will be comparatively simple, they will be interesting and hotly contested, according to Dr. Martha Kramer of the food economics and nutrition department. Last year was the first time that these contests were held and the program this year includes a larger scope of competition and exhibits.

Invitations are being issued to various home economics classes of different high schools of the state. The guests will have an opportunity to inspect the practice houses, the cafeteria, Calvin hall, and all the other buildings of interest on the campus.

FRANKLINS TO MEET

The Franklin literary society will meet in Franklin-Alpha Beta hall at 8 o'clock, March 4. The chairman is Ida Chitwood, HE4, Meridian. Devotions will be led by Evelyn McClung. Marje Dais is in charge of an unusual stunt. All visitors will be welcome.

F. E. Charles of the journalism department was in Topeka yesterday on business.

STUDENT KILLS SELF BY TAKING DOSE OF POISON

GERALD TUNISON, EEL, TAKES 9 GRAINS OF STRYCHNINE WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

NO EXPLANATION FOR ACT

Was In Apparently Cheerful Mood Before Retiring to Room—Had Large Quantity of the Poison.

Gerald E. Tunison, freshman in electrical engineering at Kansas State died at a local hospital at 12:05 o'clock Thursday morning, as a result of strychnine poisoning which he had taken in the form of capsules.

Tunison, who roomed at 712 Kearney street, had been playing cards with other students. Tunison, seemingly in high spirits, later went to his room to study. A few minutes later he came out saying that he had taken poison. After he had convinced the others in the house that he was not joking, they began giving him antidotes and called the police who moved him to the hospital.

He was treated by a physician and was apparently recovering, but at 12:05 o'clock he suddenly became paralyzed and died.

At the hospital, Tunison talked freely and said he was sorry that he had taken the poison. He did not know why he did only that he wasn't satisfied and did not like school. He was said to have been studying exceptionally hard and had lost weight since entering college February 5.

Wednesday, Tunison took his first five weeks' quiz. He returned to his rooming place, saying that he had passed the test. Evidently, examinations were not the cause of his action.

Tunison was employed on the Boulder dam last summer, and while at work there, became so homesick that he returned home for a month. In his work at Boulder, he became acquainted with several men his age who were interested in starting to college. He enrolled at the State College of Colorado, but after attending school there for a week, decided to come to Kansas State. It was while he was working on the Boulder dam that he obtained the poison which caused his death. He told officers. Twelve more capsules and a vial of the poison were found in his room.

Tunison was the youngest of a family of ten children. W. H. Tunison, his father, who operates a garage at Wheaton, said that his son was of robust health but probably too conscientious about his school work. No motive besides overwork and worry could be ascribed to the suicide.

ETHEL WELLS' HEADS IONANS

LOSS OF UNITY ROOT OF EUROPEAN ILLS

Native Austrian Pictures Situation As He Sees It, Before Forum Group.

The problems of Central Europe today are those the tearing down of the unity of the great Austrian empire of 11 countries has brought upon these nations, according to Dr. Paul Dengler of the University of Vienna, speaker at the weekly student forum last Wednesday.

The nations of central Europe are now confronted by a destroyed economic unity that had been built up through centuries, and now these same nations want to get together again for trade, to reestablish economic unity instead of the small units of trade and no markets, Dr. Dengler said. Two remedies have been suggested, but neither have been adopted as yet. One plan calls for a Danube federation of all the countries on the Danube river for trade purposes. The second is called Pan-Europe or an United States of Europe, and is proposed especially to form a protection against Bolshevism from Russia, according to Dr. Dengler.

In speaking of Vienna, Dr. Dengler spoke of its history of being on outpost, capital against the North-erners for Rome, performing the same duty for western Europe against the East in the middle ages, and now is the frontier against Bolshevism for Europe. Vienna is in the center, in other words, a go-between, for various European nations, the speaker explained. Vienna is in a country of leisure, concentration of thought, and appreciation of the beauty of art and music, and not always in a hurry to do something as America is, Dr. Dengler said.

COLLEGE MUSICIANS IN JOINT RECITAL

Students of Manhattan High School Also Appear on Program in Auditorium.

The regular bi-monthly student music recital was presented Tuesday, March 1, at 5 o'clock, in the college auditorium. Several high school students who are pupils of Miss Hilda Grossman assisted in the program.

Donald Engle, a high school student, accompanied by Mr. Richard Jenson, played a duo-piano number entitled "Sonata in G Major" by Mozart. Maxine Harding sang "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings," a Messian composition by Handel. "May Night" and "The Hunter and the Squirrel" both by the modern composer, Palmgren, were played by Virginia Baxter, of Manhattan high school. Margaret Spencer sang "Ora Pro Nobis" and "Welcome Sweet Spring," accompanied by Alice Bozarth. Alice Irwin played two numbers, "Romance," by La Forge and "Scherzando," by Beecher. A sonata was played by William Fitch on the cello accompanied by Richard Jenson on the piano. The final number was a trio, Mabel Russell, piano; Marjorie Pyle, violin; and, Marjorie Fitch, cello. They played the composition "Romance" by Mozart.

Student recitals are presented by the department of music every other Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the college auditorium. At this time the students are given the opportunity to portray their musical ability before an audience of college students and townspeople.

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE—TAKE IT.

The man elected president of the United States does not elect himself. Money does not elect him. Politicians do not elect him. The people do. No man can occupy the White House unless he is chosen by a majority of the citizens of the United States. And college students are citizens, whether or not they be of voting age.

It is not only the executive of the country that is selected by the people. It is all government executives, from national down to township. The men in office are the ones who make the laws but it is the man at home that must obey them. For that reason, it is pertinent that young people should become better acquainted with politics, and when they have a chance to express their preference for one candidate or another, to do so.

Many students take a neutral standpoint. They say they are not interested in politics. And when they say that, they mean they do not care how the country is run, nor who runs it. Every man or woman over twenty-one years of age is eligible to vote. He should go to the polls and cast a ballot if he wants the government of the United States to continue to be a "government for and by the people." There is no way to determine who and what the masses want unless they indicate their preferences.

There are courses in political science on the campus. The newspapers and magazines are filled with matter pertaining to the government, speeches are made daily over the radio and elsewhere concerning politics. The knowledge is all there for the asking. And students should be seeking knowledge and after acquiring it, use a little of it.

Gubernatorial and presidents elections will be held the second Tuesday in November. Until that time, students should read and listen—and then vote.

(Aside to the University Daily Kansan.) When editorializing about the activities of Kansas State or its athletic teams, write something which will merit reprinting in the Collegian. That one entitled "Pals Again" was pure drivel.

"C'EST LA GUERRE"

It won't be many more weeks now until Kansas State co-eds will thrill to the sight of their heroes marching on the parade grounds amid the blare of trumpets and the boom of drums. . . . And at a command barked by the high mogul, sabres will flash in the sun and synchronized battalions will present arms. . . . a fitting salute to men dedicated to the glory of militarism. . . . what a thrilling sight! Even more glamour packed in it than a stadium packed with football fans.

Of what use is all this talk about a permanent peace, of disarming, doing away with all the horrors of war, when militarism is being literally shoved down the throats of young men of today who will have forgotten all about the effects of the past war when they become actively engaged in governmental affairs?

The Collegian does not ask that the R. O. T. C. unit at Kansas State be abolished. Let those who want to play soldier, play soldier—but don't cram it down the throats of those who don't want it.

Governor W. H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray of Oklahoma, in a letter to the Democratic Young People's Organization, said he could speak about South America or about politics. . . . There are lots of travelers and explorers who can tell us about South America.

ONE WAY OUT.

An eastern college head recently suggested organizing colleges for "students planning a non-professional career." He meant to emphasize home life, earning, religion, philosophy, and citizenship.

"Training for successful life in these five fields," he says, involves training in health, training in the use of what may be called the general mental tools, English, logic, and so on; instructions and some type of experience in each of the five fields of social living, and the encouragement of social-mindedness. A college course designed for this purpose could be completed in three years."

The "aristocratic old South with all its culture" has a means for the prevention of gumming up its professional colleges and universities. They have "finishing schools" where girls, for lack of something better to do, are sent to be . . . well, polished up a bit. There they learn to speak a few phrases of one of the romance languages, learn how to appear correctly in society, and how to make small talk. . . . and a Back Bay Boston complex is included with the polishing process. And there are military schools for the boys.

But, Kansas hasn't all of those refinements. The state schools must take what comes and make the best of it. . . . There are those who attend college for a purpose and there are those who attend college "because it is a pleasant place to spend the winter," to quote Vice-president J. T. Willard.

The kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby has the Associated Press and other press services running around like a blind dog in a meat shop.

In approximately four columns of space in the Kansas City Star devoted to the affair, about three and one-half columns was just plain hokum. . . . Melville E. Stone, one of the founders of the A. P. must be rolling over in his grave.

A GOOD JOKE WITHOUT THE LABEL

In its obvious attempts to be humorous, the latest issue of College Humor has been particularly successful through the inclusion of an article by Philip Wylie entitled "Abolish Fraternities."

The humor which distinguishes it from the "joke" section of the magazine is enhanced by the unmistakably serious intentions of Mr. Wylie in laying all the ills in the make-up of present-day American society on the doorstep of the "frat."

Mr. Wylie begins his article by taking the roof off a typical fraternity house, Delta Rho Gamma, and looking inside "from the cellar where the boys run a still to the rooms upstairs where young lust steals on dark and drunken Saturday evenings."

He then takes Jack, the typical freshman—inherently pure, guileless, ambitious. He follows Jack through his four years of fraternity life, watching him emerge an utterly disreputable rakehell. One paragraph of the story will illustrate the movie-type of collegian whom Mr. Wylie seems to know thoroughly.

"His drinking is a joke. To anyone who understands serious drinking and who practices it (evidently Mr. Wylie himself) the fraternity standards would be grotesque. Yet the college lad fancies himself something of an Epicure and man-about-town when he sends to the drug store for toasted cheese sandwiches and mixes up a swill of gin and non-alcoholic creme de menthe and lemons and hands it to a neurotic and handsome young lady who is come fresh from reading a debauched book on the art of love."

This sort of thing can be no more than just a laugh to the average student. Nevertheless, it is a pity that magazines exist which run such tripe without labeling it "humor" for the benefit of the outsider who has never had the opportunity to view college life first hand.—Stanford Daily.

Ernest Bye, who attends the University of Kansas at Lawrence, is in Emporia for the between semester vacation. Mr. Bye is not the man whose name appears on the schedule of many athletic tournaments.—Emporia Gazette.

Shoes are now $50 the pair in Russia. At that rate the Five Year Plan soon will have the Russians back on their feet again, all right.—Vic Boellner.

Eddie Cantor, after learning of the size of the salaries received by those three "public enemies," Crosby, Colombo, and Vallee, said plenty when he remarked that prosperity is just around the crooners.

The Snooper

The person who won first prize for suggesting the name, "Boom, Boom," for the forthcoming Manhattan Theatre revue apparently caught the judges in a moment of weakness. We're not arguing that all titles of current productions are indicative of their plots, but by any means. Far too many of them require much serious thought to detect any connecting link.

"Boom, Boom" may tie in with the subject matter of the production perfectly, but hasn't something been said about a title being, in part, for the purpose of drawing a crowd to see the show? To us, "Boom Boom" suggests absolutely nothing. Possibly the thing is a gripping drama of the African jungles; maybe it's a racy tale of Chicago's gunmen and their molls—perhaps, Heaven forbid, it will concern an innocent child sitting on the front stoop shooting firecrackers.

It might be that producers are entertaining the idea that the title is so crazy that people will come to the show simply to appease their curiosity.

The Japanese have decided to cease bickering with their Chinese neighbors. Could it be that the whole squabble has been the result of an effort to reduce printing costs as a part of the Jap economic policy? Perhaps government officials decided to use up surplus arms by giving each emigrant a gun instead of printing additional passports.

If Associated Press dispatches can be relied upon, a lot of the boys over here will heave a sigh of relief and go back into their arch-pre-server shoes and think about something else other than the problem of the manipulation of chop sticks.

While delegates to the World Disarmament conference at Geneva wrangle over what is protection and what is aggressiveness, lecturers and orators march over the United States denouncing the policy of land grant colleges of maintaining courses in military science and tactics. Who can think of a more effective method of causing a dislike for war? Certainly those who have been required to include R. O. T. C. in their schedules will vote "yes" should they be asked to decide upon the question of disarmament.

A member of the program committee has become so enthused over the Branding Iron banquet sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi that he has resorted to poetry to describe those being branded. His masterpiece is unexcelled: The goats were large, the goats were small, The goats were skinny, the goats were fat, The goats were short and the goats were tall, As at the Branding Iron they sat.

The goats were slow and the goats were spry, The goats were backward and shy, The goats were fat and the goats were lean—But none to lean to fry.

The fire grew warm and the fire waxed hot, And the branding iron hotter still, But the faces of the goats were a cold scared mask, And the feet of the goats were colder still.

WON'T NEGLECT DIET OF RADIO AMATEURS

Fastest Cracker Eater Will Share Honors With Marconis of Kansas.

Epicurean artists are to be a feature of the first convention of amateur radio operators which will be held here March 18 and 19 in conjunction with engineers' open house. R. D. Compton, Manhattan, EE2, president of the Radio club, has announced that a prize will be offered to the embryo radio operator who is the first to devour a dozen crackers and successfully whistle CQ, which in radio parlance is the general call.

William J. McDonnell, assistant federal radio inspector from the Kansas City office, will be the official representative of the federal radio commission. McDonnell will give examinations to all applicants who wish to procure licenses, Compton said. The examinations will be given in the civil service room at the post office and licenses will be granted for amateur, commercial, and limited and unlimited broadcast, according to Compton.

Technical talks on subjects pertinent to radio will be presented to the visiting radio enthusiasts. H. S. Bueche, Harold Higginbottom, and W. R. Mitchell of the electrical engineering department will speak to the group. Round table discussions of radio questions and problems will be an added feature of the convention, according to Compton.

The meeting will terminate with a banquet which is to be held Saturday night, March 19.

AT THE DICKINSON

"Strangers in Love"
Buddy, the healthy, upright prodigal returns to his home penniless—after all nothing but a prodigal, a black sheep. His twin brother Arthur, who of course is a weak, yellow crook under the veneer, claims to have inherited all of their father's money. Unbeknownst to most people Arthur dies of a heart attack and Buddy steps into his shoes and henceforth is Arthur. Fredric March, as Buddy, is quite handsome. Kay Francis is the woman in the case. Buddy finds out "things" about his brother—but in the end everything is cleared. (Except that it is proved beyond doubt that Arthur is a pipsqueak.) I hope you properly appreciate Stuart Erwin as Buddy's faithful pal. It is a pretty good show any way you think of it.—N. C.

Orient's Subtle Charm Modernized by Fashion

Persian gardens have long been inspiration for operettas and poetry, but now a Persian plate of bygone centuries has been adapted to a very modern evening ensemble, and an ivory figurine has provided material for designing hostess pyjamas.

The romantic subject matter of the exhibit in the rooms of the art department in Anderson hall has been captured and adapted by art students in New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, who entered the prize competition conducted last spring by the Brooklyn museum.

Adaptation in Lovely Garments.
The characteristic luxuriance and harmonious color, "the secret and glory of the Orient," has been adapted both subtly and obviously in a variety of styles and media. An apricot chiffon evening gown sprinkled with gold stars and accompanied by a blue velvet wrap, is one of many clever fashion drawings from the Philadelphia School of Design for Women.

A $100 prize was awarded Dorothy Schill of that school for a fabric design for chintz, "Persian Garden."

is poor—but progressive. She tried to get her older daughter (who is sweet and dreamy) to marry the admiring millionaire. Well, the daughter has very inefficiently fallen in love with an ordinary boy. But little sister, oh! She knows where she's going and why. Let a millionaire go by? Never! And you like her for it, too. It's a pretty cute show. Oh, yes, and there's a swell pie-throwing comedy you must not miss.—N. C.

AT THE VARSITY

"Dude Ranch"
If you are in the mood for a comedy, then see "Dude Ranch." Otherwise, the show is only ordinary. The plot is weak, but there are some clever lines, and the acting is good. Stuart Erwin owns a dude ranch which is about to go on the rocks because the "wildest thing there is a flower, and it is a pansy."

which combines originality and technical skill with an appreciative handling of the beautiful and colorful subject matter.

Display Includes Choice Work.

A fine quality of finished workmanship was available, for the examples being shown here at the college were chosen from the 500 entries in the Brooklyn museum contest.

Rug designs and fabric prints, as well as clothes and accessories that will delight the college girl, have retained all the matchless elegance and brilliance of Persia's former glory in this student work, which includes excellent material from the New York high schools, as well as the Traphagen School of Fashion, the New York School of Applied Design, and the Philadelphia School of Design for Women.

With the exhibit are mounted photographs showing the pieces of the original Brooklyn museum exhibit, which covered Persian art from 3500 B. C. to the present day. The drawings will be on display for two weeks.

In desperation, he hires a troupe of traveling actors to impersonate characters of the old "Wild West," and Oakie takes the part of Vance Killroy, the toughest cowboy in the parts. However, his bluff is called, and the results are funny. The shorts were good. "Curiosities" being especially so.—R. W.

BANS FRATERNAL TAX

Nebraska Court Hands Down Decision of Interest on Campus.
A decision which probably will exempt from taxation all fraternal property in the state of Nebraska has just been handed down by the Nebraska supreme court.

The case is of interest to Kansas State fraternities and sororities which are seeking a writ of mandamus prohibiting Riley county from including names of the fraternities on its tax rolls.

The Nebraska court ruled unanimously that the Scottish Rite temple in Lincoln, assessed at $10,000 should not be subject to taxation as it was a charitable, educational and religious institution and not for financial gain or profit.

Among The Ags

among the ags
Scientific experimentation in "ag" seems to have gone to great lengths. For instance, one man at Kansas State spends most of his time popping corn (and he doesn't sell it.) The object is to determine the relative "popability" of various hybrid strains of popcorn, the result so far has been a regular series of popcorn feeds for employees in the east ag building.

The matter of eats isn't limited to the agronomists—students in meats under "Davy" Mackintosh sometimes bring bread to the laboratory and the nonconformist part of the preceding day's work.

Instructor Harold Myers gave his students a quiz on himself, and he came through without even having his vanity hurt.

"The saddest of sad words," in the opinion of one student, are those clipped syllables with which Prof. D. L. Mackintosh greets a tardy person, "the second question is this."

Dr. A. M. Brunson dislikes reporters. "A story from here got out and the A. P. got hold of it, and it took us two months to catch up on our correspondence."

SCIENTIST TELLS OF LIFE IN MADAGASCAR

Charles F. Swingle, Botanist-Explorer, Gives Illustrated Talk At Assembly.

Madagascar may be a botanist's paradise, but it is no place to spend a vacation, Kansas State students are convinced after hearing an assembly address by Charles F. Swingle, graduate of 1920.

Sent in 1928 by the department of agriculture to this island off the eastern coast of Africa, Swingle spent some months exploring virgin forests in search of rubber producing plants of possible economic value to the United States. He is rewarded by the knowledge that there are now growing in several states, including California, Washington, Arizona and Florida, some of the same species of plants which he brought back from Madagascar.

In return, the United States has sent back to the island several varieties of plants to take the place of the prickly pear which is being eradicated from the island by an insect, and which has always been a valuable food reserve to the natives of southern Madagascar.

Swingle showed colored slides of the scenes of his trip which indicated his experiences to be varied and interesting. Madagascar, with a population of three and a half million, is larger than France and could easily support 20 times its population, Swingle stated.

The French have built a fine system of roads by requiring natives to work a specified number of days during the year. The natives are a good-natured lot. Swingle said, easy-going, and living on little. The one agricultural product is rice, and it is also their main item of food. They are a fair, fine-featured people, more like Indians than African, though so near the dark continent.

President P. D. Farrell introduced the speaker, and devotions were in charge of Dr. C. O. Swanson. Miss Marion Peltou of the music faculty played two organ numbers, "Wind in the Chimney," and "Kettle Boy."

Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity, will present the assembly program on Wednesday of next week.

COMING AG FAIR HAS ALL THRILLS OF OLD CARNIVAL

BALLYHOO MEN AND BARKERS PROMISED PLACE IN REVIVED EVENT.

FAIR QUEEN TO BE NAMED

Pushball Contest, Old Ford Race and Ball Featured in Gala Day Under Direction Of E. R. Regnier.

Barkers, ballyhoo men and a carnival spirit will lend to Ag Fair, to be presented Saturday, April 30, the atmosphere of a gala day that has always predominated the occasion in previous years, according to E. R. Regnier, Spearville, manager of the celebration for this year. After an absence of two years, the once-annual celebration of the agricultural division of the college, will again hold sway for a full day of festivities.

Pushball Contest Revived.
A tentative schedule for the afternoon and evening programs features the legendary pushball contest between the ag students and the engineers for the determination of brute strength between the two divisions. Antisocialities will again be renewed and the battle will wage hot and heavy for awhile. An old Ford race will be another feature of the afternoon program.

Activities for the evening include the regular minstrel show and the unrivaled Ag Follies. All of these programs, along with the carnivals, concessions, and entertainers will take place in the stadium, which will be appropriately decorated.

Ag Fair Queen New Feature.

The climax of the day is the dance and the selection and crowning of Ag Fair Queen, a new feature of the 1932 Fair, which will occupy a greater part of the evening. The ball will be broadcast over radio station KSAC.

The Agricultural association, working with the Ag Fair board is sponsoring the affair for this year. Members of the Ag Fair board and those in charge of arrangements include besides Regnier: Steve Vesceky, Ag3, assistant manager, Kansas City, Kan.; R. O. Blair, Ag4, Manhattan, treasurer, and F. W. Castello, Ag3, McCune.

Each department of the division has an exhibit in the Fair and an opportunity for honorary ag fraternities to get acquainted with underclassmen is offered.

Committees are being appointed to work with various phases of the program manager and board which will work in conjunction with all the committees.

Ag Fairs were first instigated at the University of Missouri by Prof.

R. W. Green, now a professor in agricultural economics at Kansas State. Professor Green is working with various committees and the Ag Fair board at the college for the program this year. Missouri and Oklahoma hold annual Ag Fairs with Ag Fair Queens crowned as a climax to the social function.

Harry Dole of Hays is spending the week in Manhattan.

—and that's what the statistician does for industry

Definite knowledge of "where we are" and "what lies ahead" is as vital in business as in flying. For this expert navigating, the Bell System has long relied upon statisticians.

These men study present and prospective industrial, economic and social conditions in all parts of the country. They gather facts—analyze them, correlate them, discover their significance to the telephone business, draw guidance from them. They study and forecast the changing requirements of the public for telephone service. They estimate the probable future demand for new services, such as radio telephony to foreign lands and ships at sea. They keep the executives advised as to current progress towards the objectives thus carefully determined.

Only by plotting a course scientifically can the Bell System continue to develop along sound lines.

LARGE NUMBER TURN OUT FOR COLLEGE NINE

TWENTY-NINE MEN REPORT TO CAPTAIN PRENTUP FOR PRACTICE.

THREE LETTERMEN BACK

Prentup, Auker, and Carter Return For Competition—Entire New Outfield Needed This Year.

In response to Coach Corsaut's call for varsity baseball candidates, 29 men reported to Captain Frank Prentup for the first practice Wednesday. Coach Corsaut is holding spring basketball practice for his freshman squad and Prentup will be in charge of baseball practice until Corsaut dismisses his basketball squad.

Three Regulars Back.
Coach Corsaut has the following three lettermen with which to start the season: Captain Frank Prentup, Junction City, second baseman; Elden Auker, Norcatur, pitcher; and M. L. Carter, Smith Center, shortstop. Returning squad men from last year are: E. L. Simms, Republic, pitcher; V. D. Rockwood, Parker, pitcher; Bob Lang, Denver, pitcher; P. E. Fairbank, Topeka, outfield; E. H. Reed, Norton, pitcher; C. D. Chalmers, Scranton, infield; and B. H. Bulkstra, Cawker City, pitcher. Coach Corsaut faces a difficult problem. He must find some pitcher to team with Auker and must develop an entire new outfield to take the place of Nigro, Fiser, and Price, who graduated last spring.

Corsaut has seen some of the new men in action and knows their ability. New men of known ability are: Dan Blaine, El Dorado, catcher; Harry Miller, Manhattan, catcher; Andy Skradski, Manhattan, infield; F. W. Boyd, Phillipsburg, first baseman; G. W. Watson, Vinland, infield; and Jack Lowell, Glen Elder, pitcher.

Prospects Not So Bright.
In speaking of prospects for this year's team, Coach Corsaut said, "At present our prospects for a winning team are rather poor, but if I can develop a good outfield, we will make it tough on the other teams in the conference."

New men reporting for baseball for the first time and whose ability is unknown are: Shelby Neely, Byers; Lloyd Michaels, Lawrence; W. W. Zeckser, Alma; George Wiggins, Lyons; A. P. Baxter, Little River; E. Honeycutt, Blue Rapids; A. C. Green, Natoma; A. W. Etzel, Topeka; D. H. Daly, Manhattan; M. C. Oberhelman, Randolph; N. S. Reppert, Harris; L. E. Whipp, Belleville; and W. M. Wilcox, Dodge City.

Sport Briefs

By Milfred Peters
Competition of Kansas State athletic teams this week is limited to the indoor dual track meet with the University of Nebraska tomorrow. The Huskers have developed a strong squad this year and chances of a Wildcat victory are somewhat dim. Four regulars have been afflicted with colds, which have further dampened the hopes of the team.

Tribute to another Kansas State basketball player. Bus Boyd, sophomore star at guard, has been named on a first team selected by Gregg McBride, sports editor of the Omaha World-Herald, on the basis of his play at Lincoln this year.

With basketball over, attention will be directed toward baseball. The squad began regular practice this week under the supervision of Captain Frank Prentup, second baseman. Only three lettermen are back this year to form the nucleus of a team. These are Prentup, Auker, and Carter.

Auker, three sport star, shines in the pitcher's box. Last year Auker was one of the best twirlers in the conference, playing a bang-up game at first base besides pitching. Carter is a fast little man who plays a whale of a game at short. This will be his second year of competition.

Coach Charlie Corsaut is keeping himself busy with his freshman basketball squad. This bunch of boys is a dandy crop of basketball material and should fill any holes in the team next year.

The Kansas State swimming team went up in the air this year with a shortage of material. Only one or two men have been working out in the pool in preparation for the conference meet. This meet will be held tomorrow in the new Husker pool at Lincoln. Art Baxter will be the only man wearing the Kansas State colors and he is entered in the 220 and 440.

Iowa State developed quite a wrestler in Lillie, 118-pounder. Lillie was high point man on the team by scoring 35 points in seven matches. This little sensation pinned every opponent he met on the mat this season.

Sooner athletes are trying something new. Never in the history of the school has a swimming team met an opponent in a dual meet. This old record finally was broken when the Sooners engaged in a swimming dual with the Oklahoma Aggies.

Wilbur F. Coen, captain of the Kansas university tennis team and an outstanding collegiate court man, will be seen in a new role this year. Besides playing on the team, Coen will take over active coaching of the squad. And it looks as if the Kansans bid fair to repeat their championship won last year.

We'll have to hand it to Dr. F. C. "Phog" Allen, basketball mentor at Kansas university. The Jayhawk coach has made an enviable record by winning ten championships in 15 years of coaching. His teams have won 215 victories and met defeat 71 times.

Spring practice for Kansas State gridsters began this week with the issuance of uniforms and equipment. If the weather permits, tennis practice is scheduled to begin next Monday.

"Y" SENDS GOSPEL TEAM
Gospel teams representing the college Y. M. C. A. went to Blue Valley and Ashland Sunday. The teams were headed by Wilbur McDaniel, Michigan Valley, and William Steps, Halstead.

The team which went to Ashland was composed of Wilbur Wahl, Westmoreland; Althea Siddens, Westmoreland; Viola Barron, Kensington; and Wilbur McDaniel, R. Armstrong, Pittsburg; Vorras Elliott, McPherson; David Crippen, Council Grove; and William Steps, were on the Blue Valley team.

Men's Intramurals

mens intramurals
A. W. Purzer, Netawaka, broke the former intramural record by shooting 43 free throws out of a possible 50 to win the intramural free throw contest Tuesday night. The record was formerly held by Frank Prentup, Fort Riley, with a score of 40. W. G. Larson, Manhattan, also exceeded Prentup's former record with a 42, and H. C. Kirk, Scott City, shot 40. The contest was run off in a series of three elimination rounds. In the first round the contestants were required to make six out of 10 shots in order to qualify for the second round, where the minimum was nine out of 15. Those surviving this round were given 25 more shots, bringing their total number of attempts to 50.

Other high scorers were Max Leek, 39; M. Carter, 38; H. Johnson, 36; E. Wreath, 34; and R. Flick, 35.

Women's Sports

Thursday's basketball practice for intramural games which will start Monday afternoon, was postponed until tonight at five o'clock.

Bit and Bridle, a riding club for women, will ride every Saturday afternoon at 1:30 beginning tomorrow and until school is out. The riders will practice to improve their skill as horsewomen so they will be able to pass certain tests required for advanced degrees of membership in Bit and Bridle.

Try outs for the club are conducted each semester and the next is to be in about two weeks.

WILL ADDRESS ROADMEN

Trio of Professors Asked to Speak On Annual Program.

Three members of the college faculty will speak before the maintenance supervisors of the Kansas highway commission when they convene here for their annual meeting March 25 and 26.

Approximately 60 roadmen will be in attendance, according to Prof. L. E. Conrad, head of the civil engineering department. Thursday's session will include an inspection and demonstration of the materials laboratory which is the official laboratory of the Kansas highway commission.

Kansas State faculty members who will speak are: E. L. Barger, instructor in the department of agricultural engineering, A. J. Mack, professor of mechanical engineering, and A. B. Sperry, professor of geology.

LOTH HEADS Y. M. GROUP

Clay Center High Students Entertained by Extension Group.

The Hi-Y extension team of the college Y. M. C. A. presented a program before the student body of the Clay Center high school Thursday. Jack Loth, Buffalo, N. Y., was chairman of the group.

E. T. Sheldon, former Hi-Y president of Topeka, told of his experiences in Hi-Y work, and Roland Elliott played a piano solo.

WILDCAT TRACKMEN TO MEET NEBRASKA

Twenty-two Make Trip to Lincoln —Huskers Won Last Year.

Twenty-two men will represent Kansas State in a dual indoor track meet with the University of Nebraska at Lincoln tomorrow.

Nebraska won the meet last year by a 66 to 38 score, return with a strong team this year. The Huskers are hoped to score high in the dashes, hurdles, shot put, and 880-yard run.

The Wildcats made a good showing at the K. C. A. C. meet in Kansas City last week, but Hinckley, Landon, Nixon, and Costello may be slowed down somewhat by slight colds. The K-Aggies best chances are in the high jump, pole vault, mile, and two-mile run.

The Kansas State entrants:

60-yard dash—Elwell, Harsh, and Goings.

60-yard low hurdles—Hinckley, Schmutz, and Breen. 60-yard high hurdles—Hinckley, Schmutz, and Breen.

440-yard dash—Darnell, Castello, and Shirck.

880-yard dash—Smith, McNeal, and Miller.

1 mile run—Nixon, McNeal, and Toadvine.

Two mile run—Landon, Pearce, Daniels.

Shot put—Cronkite, Wertzberger, and Schooley.

High jump—Ehrlich and Breen.

Broad jump—Breen and Kennedy.

Pole vault—Jordan and Schooley.

Shirck, Castello, Darnell, Harsh, and Miller will run in the relay.

GOLF PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Three Veterans Are Back To Form
Nucleus Of A Strong Team.

With three regulars back from last year's team, golf prospects are looking rather bright. These men are Joe Menzie, captain, George Boone, Manhattan; and Alvin Hostetter, Hutchinson.

Besides these veterans, there are five other new men who are showing up well. They are Dale Maxwell, Columbus; Joe Walker, Junction City; Bob Lang, Denver, Colo.; L. A. Pearman, Holton; and John Frazier, Manhattan. Frazier played on the Manhattan high school team.

These golfers have been working out regularly on the Country club golf course and have turned in good scores for early season play. On a par 7 course Menzie shot a 71, Maxwell and Walker a 72, and Boone a 75 earlier in the season.

Beginning March 7, M. F. Ahearn, golf coach, will conduct a tournament of match and medal play to determine the four men on the team. These tournaments will continue throughout the season so that the personnel of the team may change.

Although no definite schedule has been completed, matches will probably be played with Wichita university, Washburn college, Baker, and the College of Emporia, all schools within easy auto distance.

There is a possibility that matches will be played with other Big Six schools but nothing definite has been decided to date.

About This Depression-- Does It Pay To Advertise Now?

A survey made by the department of commerce's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of 358 business and industrial concerns which have successfully combatted the depression, discloses that "increased sales efforts" and "advertising policies" are responsible in most cases for this progress and success. The government's report says:

"It is noteworthy that not one of the concerns which is included in this study as having been successful in combatting the effects of the depression has diminished its sales efforts (which of course includes advertising) in order to save money."

For those business concerns which have taken the position that "it does not pay to advertise during a depression," which have cut their advertising to the bone and paralyzed their sales efforts, this report of the department of commerce should be a final answer. Other statistics have shown time and again that of all forms of advertising, that done in newspapers is the most effective by far.

Does it pay to advertise now?
IT DOES!

ORPHEUM HONORS TAKEN BY PI PHI AND KAPPA ACTS

GIRLS TAKE BOTH LOVING CUPS OFFERED BY "Y" FOR STUNTS.

WINNER A PERSIAN SCENE

Oriental Atmosphere of First Place Number Contrasts With Popular Vein of Musical Numbers in Second Position.

Pi Beta Phi, with an elaborate Persian street scene, won the loving cup offered by the Y. M. C. A. for the best long act of the annual Aggie Orpheum given Friday and Saturday nights in the college auditorium.

"Face the Music," a chorus and two piano skit, put on by Kappa Kappa Gamma won the short act award.

"Street Scene," the Pi Phi stunt, directed by Blanche Forrester, had for its setting a Persian market place with tall white minarets in the background. Persian sheiks and veiled women in colorful costumes wove in and out of the crowd. Market vendors cried their wares above the strains of "In a Persian Market." American sailors walked nonchalantly about while trinket-seeking tourists bargained for tapestries. The scene closed as the lights were dimmed and in the distance could be heard the call to evening prayer.

Kappas Present Popular Songs

The Kappa chorus in "Face the Music" under the direction of Josephine Skinner, Topeka, was dressed in white formal and grouped around the two pianos. The chorus sang "Was That the Human Thing to Do," and "Just You"; the stunt closed with the girls looking at the sky and singing "Starlight."

Other competing acts were "I Want a Mechanical Man," short act, Alpha Delta Pi; "All God's Children," long act, Delta Delta Delta; "The Teles Had a Name for It," short act, Tau Kappa Epsilon; "Three Miles Out," long act, Chi Omega; "In Darkest Java," long act, Phi Sigma Kappa.

Judged By Audience, Too.

Originally, cleverness, and presentation were considered by the judges Friday night, Captain William Swift of the military department; Lieutenant Granville Morse, Fort Riley; Sam L. Sosna, manager of the Varsity theatre; Miss Hilda Grossman of the music department, and Miss Kathleen Nittle, Manhattan.

Saturday night, Dr. Howard T. Hill, head of the public speaking department; Miss Dorothy MacLeod, Y. W. C. A. secretary, and Harry Brewer, Manhattan, based their decision on the applause of the audience. The final decision was a combination of the choices for each night.

As Orpheum, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., was produced under the management of Ted Skinner, Manhattan, manager; Harlan Rhodes, Manhattan, assistant manager; Philip Lautz, La Junta, Colo., advertising manager; William Davis, Manhattan, stage manager; H. Miles Heberer, Manhattan, director.

TYPHOID VICTIMS BETTER, COLLEGE AUTHORITIES SAY

NEARLY 300 INOCULATED AS WISE SAFETY FIRST MEASURE.

EXPECT TWO MORE ON LIST

William Laird, Burr Oak, and Ross Wilcox, Dodge City, Await Blood Test Returns While Confined in College Hospital.

The four students in the college hospital suffering from typhoid fever are steadily improving, according to reports from the hospital late yesterday afternoon.

These students are Hazel Foust, C1, Leona; Virgil Siebert, ME4, Pretty Prairie; William Doyle, GS4, Douglass; and Herbert H. Fechner, VM1, Stanton, Nebraska.

Miss Foust, Siebert and Doyle came to the hospital February 19, with influenza, pneumonia, and high fevers. After the pneumonia symptoms had subsided and the fevers had not gone down, Doctor Siever became suspicious of typhoid fever and began taking blood tests. At first these tests showed negative, but later they were found positive, giving evidence of typhoid fever.

Fechner came to the hospital later with direct symptoms of typhoid. He is also suffering from undulant fever.

Two more blood tests have been taken of William Laird, Burr Oak, and Rose Wilcox, Dodge City, who are now in the hospital, but the results have not yet been determined.

When the first symptoms of typhoid fever were discovered late last week Doctor Siever issued a warning to the students as to the necessity for inoculation. At the present time between 250 and 300 students have been inoculated.

Carl Pate, Parsons, and Sheldon Woods, Delphos, are reported to be suffering from typhoid at their homes, but reports as to their condition have not been received.

Representative moods and times, and essentially human and personal traits as revealed in biographies and autobiographies will be discussed by Doctor Farrell. Among the biographies to be considered are: "Recollections of a Happy Life," by Maurice Francis Egan; "Sam Houston," by Marquis James; and the revealing "Letters of James Whitcomb Riley."

Students, faculty members, and the general public are invited to attend the lectures.

BRYSON TO TALK MONDAY

Assistant Professor Will Speak on Soil Insecticides

Prof. Harry R. Bryson will discuss recent soil insecticide studies at a meeting of the Popinoo club in Fairchild hall, room 52, Monday afternoon March 14 at 4 o'clock.

Bryson, who is an assistant professor in entomology, has been working on this phase of his work for a number of years, investigating methods of control of such insects as wire worms, and white grubs, which include some of the most injurious of the insects in the prairie states. Bryson is making a search to find some material that can be used in the soil that will not injure the soil for plant growth, but will destroy the insects.

RUSSIA ON FORUM PLATE

Visitor Recently Returned Will Tell Experiences During 18-Month Stay in the Soviet

Mr. A. O. Stenger will discuss "Russia as I Found It" at Student Forum in Thompson hall on Wednesday at 12:25 o'clock. Mr. Stenger returned last December from Russia where he had lived for one and a half years. While there, he was an agricultural specialist on a 700,000 acre commune in the Aradack region near the Volga river. He is now touring Kansas, lecturing in colleges and telling of his experiences in Russia.

MUSICAL STUNTS TO FEATURE GREEK SING

Phi Mu Alpha Sponsor of Inter-Fraternity Song Contest March 17

Entries are beginning to come in for the third annual Inter-Fraternity sing to be held March 17, according to Milbern Davison, president of Phi Mu Alpha, men's musical fraternity, sponsor of the event.

Greater interest has been shown in the sing this year than before. The contest is open to both fraternities and sororities, and has as its purpose the promotion of a better class of singing in the Greek letter organizations. Silver loving cups are awarded the winners of each group, to be the permanent possession of the organizations winning the contest.

Each group will present its number in two parts—a song selection which may be either fraternity, classical, or semi-classical in nature, and a musical stunt not more than five minutes in length. In judging the contest, the song number will count 75 per cent toward the final decision of the judges and the stunt 25 per cent. Not less than eight nor more than 20 persons are to represent each house in the musical selection. Any number may participate in the stunt.

Cups were awarded to Beta Theta Pi fraternity and Alpha Xi Delta sorority last year.

Plot Thickens As Warnings Go Out To Some Victims

Not merely invitations, mind you, but warnings and summons were delivered this week end to the prominent students, faculty members, and townspeople of Manhattan ordering them to appear at the Branding Iron Banquet which Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism organization, has set for April 6.

No one has been overlooked. Every hidden sin and misdemeanor committed by the receivers of the flaming summons will be brought to light. The victims are being prepared for their "panning," and from the amount of gossip and scandal which the scandal monger members of Sigma Delta Chi have gathered, those in attendance at the banquet will receive an enlightenment and an education worth five years in college or ten years in business.

The form in which the scandal will be presented to the tense listeners, persons who listen will be tense, never fear, is being prepared at many secret gatherings of those in charge of the affair. In between mysterious meetings of Sigma Delta Chi are speaking how much hidden material can be left unturned and the sleuths are "fairly lousy with dirt."

On the other hand, some of the braver students and professors are doing a little investigation for them selves. Counter attacks against the members of the Sigma Delta Chi's snooping staff may be expected.

The affair is strictly stag, so the men say, but enterprising women may furnish a little unexpected surprise for the hosts and their guests. Until April 6, watch your step.

ENGLISH PROFS AIR FEATURE

Members of Department Will Furnish Programs Over KSAC

The department of English has been asked by L. L. Longsdorf, program director for radio station KSAC, to supply programs for the College of the Air next year. Previous to this year, members of the department talked from time to time, but there was no regular English program. This year members of the department are presenting regular programs on Tuesday afternoons.

The theme for this semester is prize winning novels of the past ten years. Next year's program will be made up of book reviews. The central theme has not yet been chosen.

BETHANY DEBATERS HERE

No Decision Given on Subject of Centralized Control of Industry, Question for Discussion

Miss Carabelle Tobin, GS3, and J. B. Hardy, Ag1, represented Kansas State in a non-decision debate with Bethany college of Lindborg held in Manhattan, March 7. The Kansas State team took the negative side of the question, "Resolved: that Congress should enact legislation providing for a centralized control of industry."

The affirmative team of Carl Olson and Carl Lindquist with Martin J. Holcomb as faculty sponsor are completing a two weeks' debating tour. They came to Manhattan from Milwaukee after having debated with college debate teams in Missouri, Nebraska, Illinois and Wisconsin.

CANDIDATES FOR YEARBOOK JOBS IN HOT CAMPAIGN

CONTEST FOR STAFF POSITIONS PROMISES TO BE CLOSE IN ALL OFFICES

ELECTION SET FOR FRIDAY

Students Chosen to Seek Office Urged to Appeal to Voters on Strength of Qualifications

Members of the Royal Purple staff for the ensuing year will be selected by the students of Kansas State in an election to be held next Friday, it was announced last night by Adolph Hraha, president of the Student Council.

The election is being sponsored by the Student Governing association and the voting will take place in by Adolph Hraha, president of the Student Council.

Chosen on Merits

Two candidates for each position were chosen from a number of applicants, and were selected by the Royal Purple board after a careful study of the merits of each applicant had been made. The six candidates were named at a meeting of the Royal Purple board held March 3 in the office of H. W. Davis, head of the English department and chairman of the board. The candidates were selected with regard to their grades and classification, their rank in school and their acquaintance with the student body, Davis said.

Backers Pushing Favorites

Backers of the candidates are organizing their votes, and corridor conferences are much in evidence. Steve Vesceky, Kansas City, Kan., a candidate for business manager, in a statement to a reporter for the Collegian, said: "I am very grateful to the board for my selection. If elected I will do everything in my power to serve as business manager of the Royal Purple."

Franklin Thackrey, Manhattan, seeking the office of editor of the yearbook, issued the following statement: "If elected to the editorship of the Royal Purple, I will do my very best to carry on the traditions and uphold the high standard of the Kansas State annual."

Hal McCord, Manhattan, when asked for a statement, said "I feel that I have had the experience necessary to successfully discharge the duties as business manager of the Royal Purple. I would appreciate any support that might be given me."

Dorothea Hadsell, Manhattan, a candidate for secretary-treasurer, when interviewed by a Collegian reporter, said: "I feel that I am well qualified to act as secretary-treasurer to the Royal Purple, as I have had four years of actual stenographic experience. I will be very grateful to Kansas State voters who support me."

Ethel Eberhart, Topeka, in her statement to the Collegian, said: "Both my high school experience and my collegiate activities lead me to believe that I am fitted for the position of Secretary-treasurer. I am very grateful to the Royal Purple board for my selection."

Ward Colwell, L13, Onaga, a candidate for editor of the yearbook, when asked for a statement last night, said: "I feel that my experience and association with journalistic work amply qualifies me for the office of editor of the 1933 Royal Purple."

Advertisements contributed by the backers of the candidates appear in this issue of the Collegian.

C. M. "Muddy" Rhoades, Newton, business manager; James Chapman, Manhattan, editor; and Ray Spense, Salina, secretary-treasurer, comprise the present Royal Purple staff.

Members of the Royal Purple board who selected the candidates are as follows: H. W. Davis, head of the department of English; E. T. Keith, acting head of the department of journalism; Lucile Correll, ME4, Manhattan; Robert Alexander, AE3, Independence, Mo.; and R. L. Parker, Ar2, Manhattan.

INTER-SOCIETY PLAY CONTEST ON APRIL 8

Five Groups Will Enter Competition in Annual Event On College Dramatics Calendar.

The Inter-society council will sponsor their annual play contest to be given Friday, April 8, at the auditorium.

The competing societies are the Franklins, Alpha Betas, Hamiltonians, Webster—Eurodelphians, and Browning-Athenians. The plays and judges have not been decided upon yet, according to Aileen Randle, chairman of the contest.

YOUNG DEMOS MEET FRIDAY

Dr. C. O. LaShelle Will Talk About County Meeting

A meeting of the Young Democrats of Kansas State and Manhattan will be held Friday night, March 11, at 7:30 o'clock, in Wyllie's hall over the Studio Royal. Dr. C. O. LaShelle, Riley county Democratic chairman, will speak to the group, and urge them to attend a meeting of the Democrats of Riley county which will be held Saturday at 2:30 o'clock in the community house.

The club will discuss the probability of Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma talking here and will make plans for his speaking should he decide definitely to accept the invitation extended him by the club.

PRINTS REMAIN ON EXHIBIT

An exhibit of contemporary prints from the Downtown Galleries of New York City is being held in the architecture department, and will be on display until the end of the month.

CANNON'S ROAR TO BEGIN OPEN HOUSE EVENTS

SALUTE FROM 12-INCH GUN WILL BE SIGNAL FOR VISITORS TO ENTER

ELECTROBOT IN HIS DEBUT

Radio-Controlled Mechanical Man Will Perform for First Time in Public at Assembly on Saturday Morning, Mar. 19

A salute of 12 shots to be fired from a 12-inch anti-aircraft gun is planned by the committee in charge of military exhibitions, to announce the formal opening of the twelfth annual Engineers' Open House, Friday night, March 18. After this ceremony of welcome the doors of the engineering building will be opened to visitors and the exposition of modern engineering and achievements will begin.

The main attraction of the engineers' assembly, which will be held Saturday morning, will be a showing and demonstration of an electrobot, a radio controlled iron man, built and invented by E. L. Kent, EE3, Joplin, Mo.

The electrobot will present a rather interesting spectacle with its rows of blinking signal lights, dials, and switches. When ordered to do so, the mechanical man walks slowly with a waddling motion, and will bow and move its arms upon command. It will speak any predetermined word or sentence from a loud speaker in the rear of its head, and a neon lamp on the transmitter glows with each word spoken.

The mechanical man has neon glow lamps for eyes, and white and green signal lights in the nose that glow as the different circuits function. The face, hands, and feet are brush brass with gold shading, and the hair is dark red in color.

The exhibition at assembly will be the first public showing of the electrobot. It is planned to use the mechanical man on the stage, or in some national advertising campaign after it has been shown at the open house.

S. A. Long, Wichita, president of the Long Electric company, and distributing manager for Frigidaires over Kansas and Oklahoma, will be the speaker at the engineering assembly.

An added attraction, announced yesterday by the committee in charge of the military exhibits for the open house, will be a display of artillery and infantry equipment. A machine gun firing blank shells will be shown in front of the engineering building, and various functions of the gun will be explained. Maps and military equipment including shrapnels, rifles, automatic rifles, pistols, and other types of guns will also be shown.

PICK "MURDER OF MARAT"

The Webster and Eurodelphian literary societies have decided on "Murder of Marat" for their play for the Inter-society comedy contest. The play is a French comedy drama which takes place about the time of the French revolution. The cast will include: Elizabeth Keegan, Great Bend; Geraldine Gourley, Knickerson; Dallas Alston, Pittsburg; G. D. Kent, Wakefield; Clark Milligan, Boyle; Bert Siler, Garden City; R. D. Crist, Brewster; and Orville Denton, Denton; Ralph Hendrickson will coach the group.

The Websters plan to entertain at a stag party Saturday, March 12, at the Webster hall, at 7:30.

SELECT LEADERS IN FIVE PHASES OF CAMPUS LIFE

Election Being Held today in Recreation Center to Determine Outstanding Men and Women in Various Activities

An election is being held today in recreation center to choose five Kansas State students and one faculty member to appear in the 1932 Royal Purple as representative members of different phases of college life. The 1932 Royal Purple will have in the opening section of each division of the book, the picture of the individual whom the student body as a whole considers the most representative person for each of these above sections. Names of the winners will be made known when the Royal Purple is published in May.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Various organizations which competed in the annual Ag Orpheum held last week end are to be commended for the quality of the acts which were presented. Taken as a whole, the show was far better than similar events which have been presented in past years, and showed the result of careful planning, originality, and lots of hard work.

Competition was keen between both the long act and short act divisions. You missed a big thirty-five cents worth if you failed to see the presentation.

Because a codd at the University of Minnesota liked the pretty uniforms, she refused to sign a petition to abolish military training. If she could see one of those uniforms after Japanese had used it for a target she'd probably change her mind.

Ohio State reports a loss of $800 on the annual Junior Prom. Orchestra charges were $1000, paid admissions amounted to $1125. No charges were made for the hall. It must be another case of too many boards and commissions.

A University of Kansas orator won the annual contest at Lawrence when he talked on "Common Man." Considering all the subject matter with which he had to work, the announcement of his victory is not so astonishing.

Students at the University of Oklahoma are enthusiastic followers of America's great indoor sport. A bridge tournament is being staged there.

DO YOUR BIT FOR YOUR BOOK.

An election is being conducted today by the 1933 Royal Purple staff to pick the "lead-off" students for the various sections of the yearbook now being assembled.

It is sincerely hoped that this election will draw a large, intelligent vote. It should, for many reasons.

First, because the Royal Purple is going to be your only tangible diary of this year spent at Kansas State. You are helping to make the events which are being chronicled in the book. You'll take away lots of memories, of course, but your memory will dim with the years to come. The yearbook will serve as an excellent reminder of this year spent here.

Second, because the Royal Purple is your book—it is purely a student enterprise, and should mirror student activities. It can't very well do that unless you take an active part in shaping it.

And, finally, because it must, to represent the student body, be accorded a large vote. Stop in recreation center on your way through Anderson hall and cast your vote for your selection of the various candidates nominated for the honor which will be theirs. Voting will not take much of your time or effort, and you will not regret it.

Pretzels, a forgotten food since the passing of the 18th amendment, are coming back into their own at Ohio State. The Kappa Sigs there recently entertained with a Milk Social at which 500 half pints of milk and barrels of the cork-screw crackers were served.

Either the college men at the University of Arizona are working in cohorts with the clothing dealers with tuxes to rent, or they are the proud possessors of evening clothes. The Arizona collegians recently voted to dress formal on all possible occasions, including midnight shows.

Because the Skull and Crescent, honorary Sophomore fraternity at Indiana university has nothing more than an unsuccessful attempt to make members of their class wear blue trousers, a dance, and a hell week to its credit, the Indiana Daily Student is all for abolishing the organization. Wonder what they'd do if they had Wampus Cats or Friars on the Hoosier campus?

THE REASON FOR THOSE SHAPELY LEGS.

Shapely feminine legs come from wearing proper footwear rather than from any special favor of nature, according to Dr. W. A. Evans of Chicago, who blames the high heels of clogs for the underdevelopment of the muscles of the thigh and the overdevelopment of calf muscles, which destroy the shape and beauty of the leg. High heels were also held responsible for ewe-neck, because of the unnatural forward position into which they forced the body.

"The American college girl's foot is about as poor as that of her plied Chinese sister," Doctor Evans says, and points out that in a study of the feet of 167 university seniors, only three had perfect feet; 75 had corns; 55 had rotating heels, whatever they are; and a large proportion were suffering from poor arches and flat feet.—The Oklahoma Daily.

The urge to do a bit of campaigning must be irresistible in the McCord family. While Hal, the younger, is seeking the business manager-ship of the 1933 Royal Purple, his dad is doing a bit of hand-shaking on his own, out after the nomination for utilities commissioner of Manhattan.

PHYSICAL AND LITERARY DEFECTS.

Romer and Milton were blind, Virgil and Arnold Bennett stammered, Dante exiled, Byron lame, Kipling unable to enter the army, Lawrence compulsive, Joyce half-exiled and half-blind, Huxley short-sighted and anaemic, Conrad a Pole.—From London Life and Letters.

One might add to that catalogue almost indefinitely: Samuel Johnson, twichy and scrupulous; Mark Twain, lazy and a Democrat; Chesterton, erudite and fat; Shaw, whiskered and a vegetarian; Lewis, red-readed and garrulous; Lincoln, homely and dry; Mencken, hard-boiled and wet. But, of course, it is difficult to find one whose infirmity can parallel that of Conrad, who was a pole.—Clad H. Thompson in the Kansas City Star.

And there's Owen Meredith, who wore whiskers, and Walt Mason, who is deaf and despises whiskers; and Gertrude Stein, who cherishes a delusion that she writes poetry; but, after all they were not so bad off as Conrad, who was a Pole.—E. E. Kelley in the Topeka Daily Capital.

To say nothing of James Branch Cabell, who suffers from claustrophobia; and Lawrence Stallings, who has only one leg, and Edgar Allan Poe, who lost his Annabel Lee; and William Allen White, who wears a white hat; and Heywood Brown, whose collars are frequently soiled. But what are these disabilities compared to that of Conrad, who was a pole?—Arkansas City Traveler.

Movie stars may be classified under three headings. Those who have been divorced, those who are getting a divorce, and those going to get a divorce.—Winfield Courier.

The Snooper

Comes a time at least once in the life of every snooper when he's too darn busy snooping around about his own affairs to attend to anyone else. Which is the case this week. So a strange snooper is taking care of his keyhole peeping and tale telling for a brief interlude—perhaps a strange interlude.

The depression reared its ugly head at a social function last Saturday night. Kansas Beta of Sigma Alpha Epsilon had no confetti at its supreme entertainment of the year. "If you had only told us, we could have brought our own," said alumni sadly, who could scarcely believe they were at their own party.

The number of absent-minded professor stories has become appalling, but pardon us, here's another. True, this one is, and local. It seems a professor and his wife and offspring betook themselves to the Acadia house for Sunday dinner. Right decent dinner, too. In the parlor session which followed, the master of ceremonies was conspicuously lacking. "Where's Mr. So-and-so?" asked the professor, referring to the student who had invited him. "Who?" chorused the Acacias. "Er-a-Mr. So-and-so," repeated the puzzled pedagogue. "Oh, him—yes," said the Acacias, embarrassed. "He's a Phi Delt."

The Phi Kappas went bob-sledding Sunday, looking swanky and collegiate in their well-looking swanky and collegiate. At the corner of the Chi Omega house they upset and broke the sled. There were no immediate injuries except for personal ones sustained by Jim Corrigan in a post-wreck slide into the curbing.

Joe Menzie wore his mother's tablecloth in the Pi Phi Ag Orpheum stunt. You could distinguish Joe's place about the family board by the gravy spots.

A moment, please, while we O. O. McIntyre about Ag Orpheum in general: The ending to "Street Scene" was effective with much sa-laming to Allah followed by the strains of Kyrie Eleison, a Catholic hymn which translated means "Lord Have Mercy On Us." Tut, tut! The invasion of the tap dancer in the aquatic entertainment of Chi Omega approximated a social blunder—and perhaps subtracted scads from the score of judges for that worthy organization. There were those in the audience who thought the Tri Delta stunt sacrilegious, and one good soul was highly scandalized at the appearance of the dancer. Even O. O. McIntyre wouldn't know what to say about the Medicine show, slap-stick comedy of the Tekes. Or the Alpha Delt prayer for a mechanical man. There were startled faces when the Kappa blues singer soloed a line or two. The gal must have two pair of lungs. Was it nice of the Phi Sigs to make light of poor dead Eddie Cantor's only campaign speech?

The snow put a stop to many an urge—the roller skating urge, the iced tea urge—the blanket party urge. Could the housemothers have held a retreat and prayed for this? Only brief respite if they did, for there's no stopping springtime and urges, once they get started!

THE TEN MINUTE FARCE.

Since February 4, this campus has been operating on a plan whereby students are to have ten minutes between classes. On the surface this plan is very good and the Collegian deserves much credit for sponsoring it.

But the students have been "walked upon" very much by some of the instructors. There isn't a student who hasn't heard, sometime or other, a request to wait a minute or two while a lesson is assigned, or while some point is repeated.

Most unreasonable too, are some teachers who have the audacity to start their classes a minute or two before the bell. "There is no reason why you can't get here early," they say. "You have ten minutes now."

Perhaps the Collegian could have another Black List and thus give at least moral support to those brave students who dare to leave classes when the bells ring.—J. W. L.

FRIVOL TO FEATURE EASTER ATMOSPHERE

Cast to Be Costumed to Carry Out Easter Motif—To Have Two Chorus.

Practice begins tonight for Frivol which is to be held at the Wareham March 23 under the auspices of V. A. A. All dances to be used were planned by Charlotte Remick and will be directed by her.

Since the date for the dance is set for the night before the beginning of Easter vacation, the chorus made up of small girls, will be costumed to carry out the Easter motif. A solo dancer dressed in a costume to represent the Easter rabbit will accompany this chorus.

Short boleros and long black skirts over ruffled trunks are to be the costumes or a second chorus. Ernestine Merritt will sing while this chorus dances. It is planned to make this the only specialty act of the evening so that the program will not take up too much time.

Tall girls will be featured in the third chorus and they will be dressed in long organdie frocks and picture hats.

Dancers were selected for the various choruses by Miss Lorraine Maytum of the physical education department and Eleanor Wright, manager of Frivol.

Practices are scheduled as follows: In the women's gymnasium from 7 to 9 o'clock, March 8, 10, 11, and 15, and in the Wareham from 7 to 9:30 o'clock March 17; from 1:30 to 5 o'clock on March 19; from 7 to 9:30 o'clock on March 21 and 22. The last practice will be dress rehearsal.

WELSH SINGERS WIN GENEROUS RESPONSE

Appreciative Audience Hears Concert Under Auspices of College Music Department

General appreciation was accorded deserving performance of the Welsh Imperial Singers in concert last night in the college auditorium under the auspices of the music department. The bright costumes of the men, red coats with buff trousers, added to the truly British atmosphere of the group which has won the title of "Britain's finest male ensemble." The program was a wide selection of classical and semi-classical numbers and a few of a lighter vein.

Each soloist responded with an encore, and the audience demanded an ensemble response again and again. Twelve singers, a piano accompanist, and their organizer and director, R. Festyn Davies, comprise the troupe, which is making its second American tour. The company has had successes in Wales, Scotland, England and Canada. The music department scheduled the ensemble from the Redpath Bureau at Chicago. They will appear in concert in the city auditorium in Abilene tonight.

TO PARADE IN BATHING SUITS, NOT FOR BEAUTY

Posture the Determining Factor in Girls' Contest Thursday in Nichols Gymnasium.

Intramural posture contest for this year will be held Thursday, March 10, at 7:15 in the women's gymnasium. Organizations wishing to enter the contest must sign on the bulletin board in the gym, and must hand the names of their representatives to the physical education department.

Rules of the Contest.
1. Each organization will select six girls. (Not more than three physical education majors.)
2. Girls will be chosen for their posture. (Standing and walking.)
3. Contestants will wear bathing suits and tennis shoes.
4. Three judges will be taken from the physical education department.
5. Grading—A posture in standing and walking counts six points. B posture counts four points; and C and D no points. Total points for all members of the group will be taken to decide the winning organization.

6. Intramural cup—If 10 persons enter, first place will receive 50 points toward the intramural cup. Tenth place will receive five points.

GO ON INSPECTION TRIP

Farm Organization Class To Make Annual Tour

The annual inspection trip for the students in advance Farm Organization class will be held the third week in April, Professor Morris Evans says.

The class will leave Manhattan Monday morning, and make its first stop near Abilene. The trip is planned so that at no time will the students be over a few hours drive from Manhattan. This is to enable students that do not care to make the whole trip to join the party at any time.

The trip will last from Monday morning until Friday evening and will cover about five hundred miles. The trip will give the students a chance to visit approximately ten of the outstanding farms in this section of the country.

MILLER, QUINLAN TO ABILENE

Interesting points in the physiology of plants were discussed by Prof. C. E. Miller of the botany department before the Abilene Landscape School last night.

Prof. L. R. Quinlan of the horticulture department will speak on evergreens and their use next week.

At The Theatre

AT THE WAREHAM

"Possessed"

Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, two very reliable screen stars, get together in "Possessed" and make the show. It is an old story—the dissatisfied factory worker goes to New York, makes a hit with a charming man of the world, and he finances her and what not. Clark Gable, the man of the world, creates a grand climax in the play when he is razed in the middle of a political speech (he is running for governor) for the scandal. (Joan Crawford happens to be the rest of the scandal.) She rises in the meeting and breaks forth with a fairly respectable confession. "Is a sin to love a man? And the most noble of men—a man for the people." So on runs her story. The play is appealing. (They're reliable actors.)—N. C.

AT THE DICKINSON

"Wayward"

It is Nancy Carroll who is wayward in case you wonder. The mother-in-law finds her peculiarly so. You see, Nancy Carroll, the New York chorine, falls in love with Richard Arlen, a young banker from out of town. And he takes the poor unsuspecting girl to his ancestral home with the cousins, and aunts, and straightlaced. The mother-in-law manages things—because she loves her son and is jealous of his wife. Nancy Carroll is the only one of her kind on the screen—and they ought never let anyone else play the cute, innocent, lovable chorine lost in ancestral home. She does it nicely.—N. C.

"Prestige"

Speaking of shows, real honest to goodness shows that give you a queer funny feeling and leave you tense and trembling when the curtain falls, makes one, anyone immediately mention "Prestige."

This story of the jungle, where a French soldier is stationed in command of a penal colony, lets his surroundings and drink get the better of him, only to be saved from his fate by the woman he loves. Is a mighty drama. The beautiful platinum blond, Ann Harding, is at her best. And the new find of the cinema, Melvyn Douglas, as the soldier who nearly lost all he held dear, was cast admirably. Debonair Adolphe Menjou is his usual charming self as the man who tries to win the affections of one who cares for another.

Children won't like this, grown-ups might find it a little too dramatic, but students shouldn't miss it.—E. D.

Prof. and Mrs. B. B. Brainard entertained with an attractive dinner bridge at their home on Friday evening. There were three tables of bridge. High scores were won by Mrs. A. J. Mack and Prof. R. M. Kerchner.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE WILL BE REPRESENTED

Dr. J. T. Willard to Chicago as Delegate to Annual Conference of Intercollegiate Association

Vice-president J. T. Willard will represent the Kansas State college at the annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to be held in Chicago March 15 to 18.

Kansas State college has been a member of the association since 1916. To be a member of the association a school must have an annual income of not less than $50,000, one-half of which must come from sources other than payments by students. Also the institution must have a library of at least 3,000 volumes and buildings in such a condition as to insure hygienic conditions for both students and teachers. Other requirements of the association pertain to entrance requirements, and training of the faculty and preparation of students for higher degrees.

All five of the state institutions of Kansas, including the teachers' colleges at Hays, Pittsburg, and Emporia, the University of Kansas and the Kansas State college, are members of the association.

Nathan Fligstein's Address at Cosmopolitan Group Has Personal Interest

Nathan Fligstein, IJ1, Manhattan, talked to the Cosmopolitan club Thursday evening on the subject of "New Views of the Jews in their Religion." The meeting, which was a combination informal meeting and tea, was at the home of Miss Jessie Machir, college registrar.

Nathan Fligstein is of Jewish birth and has received most of his education in a Jewish synagogue where he was given extensive training in the history and beliefs of his race. "The Jews are the most truly international people in the world," Fligstein said. "There is at

TWO TRACKMEN INJURED

Melvin Wurtzberger, Alma, and Forrest Schooley, Hutchinson, members of the Kansas State track team were injured slightly Saturday while enroute to Lincoln to participate in a track meet against Nebraska university. Wurtzberger sustained an injured knee and Schooley a sprained wrist. The injuries occurred when a bus in which they were riding turned over 13 miles south of Lincoln. Coach G. M. Moll, Kansas State swimming coach and Russell Smith, Manhattan, other occupants of the bus, escaped injury. Both athletes have recovered.

Miss Nellie Abern in the English department has been confined to her home on Fairchild avenue for the last week because of a severe cold. She hopes to be back on the campus next week.

Sig Alpha Party Leads in Week-end Social Affairs

Annual Founders' Day Banquet Held at Wareham Draws Many Alumni and Out-of-Town Guests—Other Events Include Additional Initiations, Toss and Faculty Parties.

(By Betty Heffelfinger)

Sigma Alpha Epsilon led the week end social activities with their annual Founders' Day banquet at the Wareham Hotel followed by a semi-formal dance. Initiation is a close second with six Greek organizations adding 76 names to their roll. Sororities entertained with teas, bridge parties and breakfasts, while Sister and Sweetheart dinners were given by the fraternities. The faculty also had their share in the weeks' round of festivities with bridge parties and a buffet supper.

Familiar Names on Art Displayed During March

From the Down-Town Galleries of New York comes the exhibit of the American Print-Makers which will continue throughout March in the architecture department gallery. A variety of moods and styles are demonstrated in this collection of lithographs, etchings and wood-cuts.

There is the humor of Peggy Bacon, who brings us, with "Queer Breeds" to the sidewalk cafes of Paris, and the serious modernism of Jose Clemente Orozco with his Mexican subjects. Reginald Marsh might have illustrated a Dickens novel, while work like "Sixth Avenue" and "Barber Shop Chord" has not yet been accepted with good grace into artistic circles.

Are No Strangers Here.

Familiar names sign these prints. John Steuart Curry, the Kansas artist whose paintings were hung in the library galleries last month, has more Kansas scenes, and demonstrates that he is skilled with a lithograph crayon as well as with brush and palette. Wanda Gag, whose colorful name alone should admit her to charmed society, was represented here last year in another contemporary print exhibit. Most typical of her humorous precision was "Grandma's Kitchen," with its horse-hair sofa covered with an afghan and occupied by a sleeping cat.

For delicate beauty, Ann Goldthwaite's horons and fawns take honors, with their feathery, Japanese deftness. A most interesting study was "Self-Portrait" of Raphael Soyer. Stefan Hirsch, who can make much white space a valuable relief, has been a contributor to collections shown here before.

Collection Actually Representative.

The collection is chosen by a representative committee of the artists themselves, and includes more than one piece from each artist, often illustrating skill in more than one medium and mood.

Included for variety are several dry-point etchings and color lithographs.

Port Briefs

By Mildred Peters

The blanket of snow covering the practice field has put a cramp in spring football drill. Practice began last week with sixty men reporting, but further grid work must be suspended until the field is again in condition.

Although the courts are covered with snow, tennis practice began yesterday in the gymnasium. At a meeting called for the racketeers, 12 prospects reported. All old men except Worthy are back this year. Sheldon Woods, captain, is ill with typhoid fever, and it is uncertain whether he will be able to play.

The captains of two athletic teams seem to be coming 'til' for their share of bad luck. Besides Woods, veteran tennis man, Billy Doyle, captain of the wrestling team, is in the college hospital with an attack of typhoid fever. Doyle will be unable to defend his national title in the 145-pound class this year.

Iowa State grapplers are claiming a little glory in the sport world. And it seems as if they have a right to do so. In the 17 years since the sport was inaugurated at Ames, the Cyclones have won 103 matches and lost only 13. Against the Big Six schools, they have won 40 matches and lost only five, piling up a total of 1,030 points against 302.

Proof that the coaching racket is a tough game is given by Paul V. Keen, Sooner mat coach. Prior to the last Oklahoma wrestling match, in which his grapplers succeeded in defeating the national champion Oklahoma Aggies, the Sooner mentor lost 16 pounds. Of course he's gaining it back now.

Harold Morris, University of Oklahoma senior, is giving conference broad jumpers something to think about. Last week he leaped 23 feet 9 1/2 inches in preparation for the Big Six meet at Columbia Saturday. That's going some.

There has always been the question why conference basketball stars are not allowed to compete in the national tournament at Kansas City. In the first place there is a Big Six ruling against teams or individuals, who expect further competition in the conference; to compete in this tourney. Also, since the tournament lasts a full week, the attitude of the conference is that the time of the college student is entirely too valuable from a scholastic standpoint.

Dr. F. C. Allen, Kansas university basketball coach, believes that publicity given a high scoring individual tends to put a strain on the player in the game. Although it is the natural tendency for one player to try to outdo the other, the public always watches keenly the outstanding man rather than the average player.

Kansas State indoor track hopes took a slight drop last week when the Nebraska Huskers won their second consecutive dual meet from the Wildcats. The fact that both teams were strong in some of the same events proved to be a factor in the defeat. At that, three records were broken, which goes to show that the Wildcats were on their toes.

Football scouting will still remain a practice among Big Six schools. After much controversy it was agreed that it would be better to avoid scouting than to have too many suspicious aroused between the teams, and untrue reports sent in about an opposing team by alumni and friends.

SPRING GRID DRILL HALTED BY SNOW

Only One Practice Held Last Week For Sixty Football Aspirants

The return of wintry blasts and a blanket of snow put an abrupt halt to spring football practice. A squad of from 55 to 60 reported for practice last week.

The only progress made last week was the issuing of equipment and one short practice period in which a few fundamentals were stressed. Equipment can still be checked out by anyone who wants to go out for spring grid work.

The spring practice affords the new men on the squad an excellent opportunity to show their ability. Many freshmen and those ineligible last year are expected to make the returning varsity members work if they are to retain their former berths.

As soon as the weather breaks the squad will again take the field to resume training.

Men's Intramurals

The winner was closely followed by Phi Sigma Kappa and Phi Kappa Tau, who placed second and third with 12 and seven points respectively. The outstanding individual performance of the evening was by E. Henry, Independent, who set a new record of 11 feet and one-half inches in the pole vault. ## Wary Abe, Long a Wanderer, At Last May Rest In Peace

"Abe Lincoln has found it at last! No longer does he have to run from pillar to post to find a resting place, for he now has a beautiful walnut chair all his own. No, it's not the real 'Abe' but the bronze bust of Lincoln by Leonard Volk that was presented to the college by the class of 1922. A walnut pedestal has been made for the bust and is installed on the third floor of the library, where the great emancipator watches the long parade of seekers of knowledge, with features immobile as the whole bust will now be.

Dean and Mrs. E. L. Holton have returned from Washington, D. C., where Dean Holton went as a delegate to the Superintendents meeting of the National Educational association.

By winning first place in eight of the twelve events and placing heavily in the remainder, the Nebraska Cornhuskers defeated Kansas State 66 to 38 in an indoor dual meet at Lincoln Saturday. ## CYCLONES BEGIN BASEBALL

Diamond Drill Starts At Ames With Twenty Candidates Reporting To Menze

Ames, Iowa, March 7.—More than 20 candidates for the Iowa State baseball team are reporting daily to Coach Louie Menze in the first week of indoor practice which began last week.

Until weather conditions permit his taking the squad outdoors, bunting and sliding practices will constitute the main part of the program, along with warming up drills.

With three lettermen in Captain Heltman, Loufek and Coons and two squad men from last year, Thrift and Harder, Menze appears to be well fortified with pitchers.

Three catchers, Delaney, a squad man last year, and Ossian and Schade, numeral winners, are the leading candidates for the catching assignment.

Menze's 1931 infield remains intact with the exception of Hunt-bach, captain and second baseman last year. Jack Shea is back with a strong claim to the first base assignment. Roger Bowen has the inside track at short stop, and Ray Johnson is making a bid for his old station at third base.

Other infielders reporting include Blohm, minor letterman two years ago, a reserve last year, and Werring and Laue, numeral winners. Dick Hawk, a letter man two years ago, has not reported, although he is expected out next quarter.

Max Rieke, veteran outfielder and member of the basketball squad, has not put in his appearance, and Kenneth Wells, a two year letterman in the outfield is out for track at present.

IOWA STATE AGAIN WINS SWIM MEET

Three New Marks Set At Lincoln By Conference Splashers Saturday

Iowa State college easily splashed its way to first place for the second consecutive year in the Big Six swimming meet held at Lincoln Saturday. Three new records were established during the meet, two by Nebraska and one by Iowa State.

Team point totals for the meet were Iowa State 48, Nebraska 39, Oklahoma 23, and Kansas university 7. Kansas State's lone entrant, Art Baxter, failed to place and Missouri was not represented.

The new conference records were set in the 440 yard free style relay, the 100 yard free style, and the 440 yard free style. Nebraska won the relay in 4:02.3, bettering the record set by Iowa State by 10.2 seconds.

Fraser of Iowa State bettered his own record by swimming the 440 yard free style in 5:58.2. By swimming the 100 yard free style in 1:03, Amato of Nebraska shaved 2 seconds from the previous record set by McDonald of Oklahoma in 1931.

Work of Former Instructor Praised By French Journal

Stanley P. Hunt, professor of design for engineers at the University of Wyoming, who was graduated from Kansas State college in 1919 from the division of mechanical engineering, has received considerable praise in "Les Artistes d'Aujourd'hui," a French publication which promotes the interests of art, literature, music and the theater. The following story appeared recently in that periodical:

"The Black Pass" and "Wyoming Country" are the titles of two very fine pictures by Stanley P. Hunt of the Salon of Independents of New York.

"Stanley Hunt was born and passed his early years on a farm in Northern Kansas. As far back as he can remember he had a desire to draw and wished to enter an art school. From a financial standpoint his father opposed it; Hunt did his best to forget drawing, preparing himself for an engineering career and following the course of mechanical engineering at Kansas State college. During the war he was a member of the engineer reserve corps. Appointed, after his graduation, professor of design for engineers, he began to study that which always interested him and studied all the courses of art and drawing available, a study which he continued when he was appointed a professor in the School of Engineering at the University of Wyoming. In 1926, he worked under the direction of Walter Dehner, John F. Helm, Jr., Miss Amy Gardner, and Belle Bates. The pictures exhibited at the Salon of Independents of New York, are excellent compositions. Stanley P. Hunt proves himself to be an artist original and sensible, seeking by the color and the form to create an atmosphere and to give to his subjects a most powerful appeal. Light to him does not play the most essential part. He uses it only to bring about harmony and expression of form, considering the wildness and solidity of the mass of greater importance. Stanley P. Hunt is an artist of the first class."

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Hunt of Manhattan, are the parents of Stanley Hunt.

Charlie Scott, "Ox" Cowan was defeated last night by Kid Fletcher, Fort Riley.

Breese is the lightweight champion of Kansas, Colorado, and Oklahoma, and has won about 30 bouts without a defeat, most of them by the knockout route.

Gomes is also a lightweight, the brother of the national amateur lightweight champion. Scott is the light-heavyweight champion of Kansas and was captain of the Sterling college boxing team for two years. Thompson is a bantamweight and has had considerable experience in the ring.

This tournament is sponsored by the National A. A. U. and the winners of this elimination tournament will go to Kansas City March 18, 19, and 20 to compete in the regional tryouts.

Mrs. J. V. Cortelyou will leave Thursday for a three weeks motor trip to Florida with her brother, R. W. Rushton, Omaha, Nebr. Mrs. Cortelyou will visit her son, R. G.

Cortelyou, CE '28, who has been employed by a business firm in Tampa since he finished studying at the Harvard Graduate school of business administration.

Light up . . . Convince Yourself that Chesterfields Satisfy

FLIP OPEN a pack of Chesterfields! Help yourself to a cigarette...Light up . . . and let's get the facts.

Mister...you're dead right. They're milder!

It's no secret in tobacco circles that Chesterfield buys the finest tobaccos that grow...Turkish and Domestic...sun-ripened, mellow, pure!

Chesterfields are blended first... then cross-blended . . . to make them milder . . . and milder still! There's no mistaking that rare balance of flavor built up by Cross-Blending. You enjoy it in every fragrant puff!

Even the cigarette paper is different. Cleaner, whiter, tasteless . . . the purest that money can buy.

Listen, smokers . . . this is straight. You can't put taste in a cigarette . . . unless quality goes in, too.

● Pass your verdict on Chesterfield's Radio Program, too! Nat Shilkret's 35-piece Orchestra with Alex Gray, soloist, are on the Columbia Network every night except Sunday, at 10:30 Eastern Standard Time.

THEY'RE Milder . . . THEY'RE PURE . . . THEY TASTE BETTER . . . They Satisfy

EBLING, FAIRBANK ELECTED POPULAR CO-ED AND BOY

STUDENTS SHOW PREFERENCE FOR REPRESENTATIVE PER-

H. H. KING A "GREAT GUY"

Elden Auker, Leader in K-Ag-man—Madge Limes Repeats.

Most Popular Girl
Eugenia Ebling, IJ3, Lindsborg

Most Popular Boy
Pete Fairbank, PE3, Topeka.

Activity Man
Milton Ehrlich, CS, Marion.

Best All-Round Student
Madge Limes, HE4, LaHarpe.

Best Sportsman
Elden Auker, PE4, Norcatour.

Ideal Faculty Member
Dr. H. H. King.

Popularity, activities, sportsmanship, just good all-around students, and even faculty members who are "great guys" were considered Tuesday in recreation center when 524 Kansas State students cast their ballots in the election to choose the most representative persons of six phases of college life.

Ebling is a "Natural"
Eugenia Ebling, Lindsborg, the most popular girl, is a member of Phi Beta Phi social sorority, and is a junior in industrial journalism.

She also is a member of the Purple Pajepers and is credited with getting around to parties with a good showing. Her grades aren't so bad, either, and A's and B's decorate her card in the registrar's office.

"Kl-Y-P" boy makes Good Fairbank, the "kl-yi" boy on the basketball court, won the men's popularity contest by a wide majority. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and K fraternity, having lettered in football and basketball. He still wears his K sweater, but his Beta pin rides close to a Phi Pi arrow on a Kansas State coat.

Ehrlich, the activity man, is a member of Phi Delta Theta. His activities center principally on the track floor where he holds the high jump record.

Elden Auker, Norcatour, was elected the best college sportsman on the basis of his three years service on the football, basketball, and baseball squads. He was captain of the 1932 basketball team, and was named captain of the honorary Big Six team.

Madge Limes is Versatile Madge Limes, diminutive, huskyvoiced senior in home economics, from La Harpe, was chosen the best all-around student. Her grades average better than 2.5 points, and her activities include Y. W. C. A., home economics and Omicron Nu clubs, and her sorority, Chi Omega.
She's not so slow on a basketball court, and her peculiar under-hand shot has added many a point to the Chi Omega intramural score.

Madge's victory was preceded by her selection from her division as the outstanding student at the achievement banquet of Farm and Home week.

"Doc" Overcomes Chem Handicap
Dr. H. H. King, head of the chemistry department, who makes even chemistry lose its "test-tube" and "hydrogen sulfide" atmosphere when interspersed with jovial remarks, took the count for the ideal faculty member. Odd, isn't it?
Chemistry, the most hated subject,
"Doc" King, chemistry shark, is ideal faculty member. Chubby, red-checked, white-haired (more or less) "Doc" is a member of the 25-year club from point of service to Kansas State, is a loyal athletic booster, and a general favorite with the alumni.

Each of those chosen in the election will head one of the sections in the yearbook with a full-page portrait, according to Jim Chapman, editor, and C. M. Rhoades, business manager, of the book.

POLLUM ADDRESSES AGS
L. B. Pollum, state supervisor of vocational education, pointed out what was to be expected of the college graduate in the way of leadership in the rural community, at a meeting of the Agriculture Economics club last Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Agriculture 331.

After the address, a motion picture, "Future Farmers of America," was shown.

PADEREWSKI TO PLAY CONCERT HERE IN MAY

Noted Polish Pianist-Statesman Secured by Prof. William Lindquist

Kansas State college will in all probability be honored by an appearance of Ignace Jan Paderewski, world renowned pianist and Polish statesman, on May 4. Such are the plans being made by Prof.
Wm. Lindquist, head of the music department, for a recital engagement to be filled on that date.

Paderewski has played in all of the leading cities of Europe, North and South America, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa. During the World War he devoted his time mainly to concertizing for the benefit of Polish war sufferers and to public speaking on behalf of Poland. He was active in the reorganization of the Polish republic and was the first delegate of Poland to the Council of Ambassadors and the League of Nations.

The noted musician devotes approximately half of each year to recital tours throughout the United States. He appeared in Lawrence in the spring of last year at which time several of the Kansas State students heard him. He makes his home in California during his free months.

The signed contract is being sent to the New York City booking offices for further arrangements to be completed.

BOOM! BOOM! ALL SET FOR FIRST BLAST TONIGHT

ANTICIPATIONS HIGH FOR "CRAZIEST SHOW YOU'LL EVER SEE."

GIVEN IN STELLAR ROLE

Features of Revue Include 17-Piece Band, Violin Sextette, Black-Out
Sketch, Songs, Dances And Chorus.

For the past month the pressure has steadily been rising in "Boom!
Boom!" The gag is in the red, according to H. Miles Heberer, director of the production, and the show's all set for a big explosion at 8:15 o'clock in the college auditorium.

The cast of thirty-five has been hard at work on the twenty acts, the craziest novelties ever presented on any stage. That claim is backed by a gilt edged guarantee, and by the cast—all thirty-five of them. If you've lost your faith in guarantees, just listen to the thirty-five. They'll be glad to tell you how good they are, and the funny part of that story is, that they're right in their opinion. Thirty-five "hams" couldn't be wrong!

Given in Stellar Role

The leading light of the show is Kingsley Given. Now here's a tip-and a valuable one it is. It may save you a lot of grief and pain.
Whenever you see "Personality Plus" Given start on the stage, take an extra deep breath. You'll need the additional breath for those laughs before he gets out of sight—whether he says anything or not.

The novelties, sketches, and pan-tomimes have all been written expecially for "Boom! Boom!" Prof.
H. W. Davis wrote the black-out sketch, "Silent Night."

17-Piece Band Featured

One of the best features of the entire show is the pit band of 17 pieces. Such a band has never before existed at Kansas State, and it's initial appearance will be something to talk about, and remember.

Tickets, either for tonight or tomorrow night, are $1.00 each. They may be secured at the box office in the auditorium.

DEBATERS TO ARGUE ON CAPITALISM TODAY

Kansas State and Nebraska Teams
To Appear Before High School Audience

Charles Moore and Ed Kelly of Manhattan will discuss the advisiand Gordon Ewing, Topeka, will discuss the question "Is capitalism a failure?" with Detroit City col-fourth consecutive year that Kansas State debaters have participated in the Sunday night forum at the Unitarian church.

STAG PARTY PLANNED

will be given by members of that society, Saturday evening, March have charge of the entomological phase of agriculture at the northeast Kansas experiment station.

This will include the study of the apple curculio in orchards in the vicinity of Troy and Wathena. Prof.
George A. Dean and Prof. R. L.
Parker have direct supervision of this station.

WISE CLUB TO HEAR DAAS

slides to illustrate his lecture.

THE CANDIDATES

For Editor
Ward Colwell
Franklin Thackrey

For Business Manager
Hal McCord, Jr.
Steve Vesceky

For Secretary-Treasurer
Dorothy Hadsell
Ethel Eberhart

The positions on the Royal Purple are such that they can demand a campaign as has been launched by those seeking to serve as editor, business manager, and secretary-treasurer of the yearbook. In addition to the honor the office holds, a remunerative salary is paid each member of the staff. Those candidates being voted on today are students who are either partially if not solely self-supporting. The result of the election therefore means more to them than the results of many other elections held on this campus.

The Student Governing association is sponsoring the election, and will give out the results late tonight, Adolph Hrab, East St. Louis, Ill., president of the Student Council, said last night.

Those seeking office are:
Franklin Thackrey, a junior in the journalism department, and a candidate for editor, has had editorial experience on the Manhattan Mentor, Manhattan high school paper.
He is treasurer of Sigma Delta Chi, and vice president of the inter-society council. Thackrey has held a position in the college library since he entered college.

Ward Colwell, a candidate for editor is a junior in the department of journalism. He has had experience on both the Manhattan
Chronicle and the Onaga Herald.
Colwell served as assistant editor of the Collegian last semester, and is a member of the 1932 Royal Purple staff. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, and Scabab.

Hal McCord, architect nominee for business manager has had experience on the staff of the "Blue M." Manhattan high school yearbook; has served for two years as treasurer of the Gargoyles club, and is secretary of the Y. M. C. A. board. McCord is a junior.

Steve Vesceky, Kansas City, Kas., also a candidate for business manager, has had four years' experience on a desk in the Kansas City Board of Trade, is assistant business manager of the 1932 Ag fair, and is associate editor of the 1932
Royal Purple.

Dorothy Hadsell, a junior in the department of journalism, a candidate for the secretary-treasurer position, has had four years' experience of stenographic experience, and served as feature editor on the Collegian last semester. She also held an editorial position on her high school paper at Long Beach, Calif. She is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism fraternity, and Tri Delta, social sorority.

Ethel Eberhart, Topeka, also a choice for secretary-treasurer, had had two years' experience on the Royal Purple, and three years of previous office work. Miss Eberhart is a senior in the department of architecture.

James M. Mills Jr., is planning on spending the weekend at his home in Kansas City.

TO TAG CARS SOON

Autos Parked on Campus Will Be Tagged After Lot Is Completed.

Owners that insist on parking their cars in forbidden spots on Kansas State campus may find their flippers have three tags instead of two. The suspense of the parking rules while bad weather and the building of the new parking space continued will be ordered out, and be replaced with the customary rules, which prevailed before suspension, in a few days. Custodians will tag all cars not parked in the provided grounds northwest of the engineering building as has been the custom.

ENTERTAIN FACULTY

Members of the Ellen Richards lodge entertained at dinner Wednesday evening the following faculty members, Miss Margaret Ahlburn, Miss Beth Quinlan, Miss Marie Morris, Miss Mary T. Harman, Miss Helen Sharp, Miss Eva McMillan, and Mrs. Leone Kell.

BIOGRAPHIES OPEN DOORS OF HEARTS OF MEN, FARRELL

The President Reviews Various Sketches in His Talk Before Students and Faculty.

Intimacy is one of the characteristics of good biographical literature," said President F. D. Farrell in his lecture to students and faculty members Tuesday night in recreation center.

In covering his topic "Biography as a Hobby," President Farrell discussed biographies ranging in time from the "Autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini" (1500-1571) to the recent "Garrullities of an Octogenarian Editor" by Henry Holt. The nine characteristics of his biography reading hobby were illustrated by reading sketches from these different biographies.

"The joy of living is exemplified in 'Recollections of a Happy Life' by Maurice Egan, our minister to Denmark during the World War," President Farrell pointed out. "The biography of Candace Wheeler that was written when she was 91, shows a contentment with life."

"Those people who do not have adventure themselves need only to read 'Sam Houston' by Marquis
James and have adventure by proxy.
There are other biographies pointing out iconoclasm, sustained interest in life, leisure, and whimsi-cality, but the biography I favor is one of letters. And the letters of Henry Adams are of the best," the president said. He read one of the letters written to John Hay that

"ACCORDING TO THE RULES . . ."

Sorority members for the past year have been enjoying the privilege of entertaining men in the houses until midnight on open nights, and dancing between 7 and 8 o'clock each week night. Residents of Van Zile hall have not been so fortunate as to enjoy those privileges in the past.

Only last Wednesday night were they informed that hereafter they would have the same social privileges accorded the residents of Greek houses. The announcement was made as though it was a new ruling passed by the housemothers' council last Wednesday afternoon. Not so, however. That ruling was made last year.

Those living in Van Zile hall who were acquainted with the college social rules knew they should have been enjoying the same privileges as did sorority members, but they neglected to file any protest. Perhaps they chose to "make the best of the situation" rather than to bring the wrath of the Gods down upon their heads.

Just think of all the hours the Van Zilites missed with their collegians! Just think of all the dancing they didn't do! For boy-friends were ushered out of the dorm precisely at the stroke of eleven . . . and dancing was just one of those forbidden pleasures, if the women were to dance in the arms of a male.

Rules are made on this Hill to be followed. They are not to be made and then be substituted by another set by any supervisor as he or she deems best. A closer observance of such rules by those in charge would tend to do away with dissatisfaction and discontentment which is bound to be present where one group of students is denied the freedom which others enjoy.

SAFETY LAST.

The foundry should be ordered to cast medals to decorate the breasts of G. R. Pauling's army of brave custodians who braved winter's icy blasts to clear the sidewalks of snow and ice.

There is nothing quite as thrilling as walking on the campus, wondering with each step taken whether you'll land on your face or your back. And if you're out for a real thrill, you might try the walk from Anderson hall to the Blue-mont avenue entrance. It has the St. Moritz skill course as its only rival.

RUMOR AND FACT.

In the "Nibblings" column of the Collegian for March 4, there appeared this item concerning the typhoid fever victims: ". . . it is rumored that the students all boarded at the same place . . ."—or words to that effect.

The Collegian had no intention of directing the rumor to any single eating house. But that is what rumor did. It singled out the Tavern, operated by Mrs. Chapman, and as a consequence business at the tavern suffered a slump.

It is not for the Collegian to pass upon where the typhoid victims contracted the disease. That is the duty of the city and college health authorities. But there remains this to be said. Mrs. Chapman's Tavern is maintained in as sanitary a condition as any of the Aggieville eating-houses, and the health of the student help at the Tavern is guarded as closely as the help of any other eating house.

Why single out any particular restaurant and point an accusing finger at it? If possible, the health officers will determine the origin of the infection. And, besides, it is too late to worry about it now. If you are going to have typhoid fever soon, you contracted it two or three weeks ago.

First Newton was: "What's the idea of having extra work done in the cemetery by the otherwise unemployed?" Second Newton was: "Why they are trying to bury the depression."—Newton Kansan.

At The Theatre

AT THE WAREHAM

"Reckless Living"

A good looking young man with all the childish tantrums of a 12-year-old, a misunderstood villain with a profitable but evil occupation, a blondish heroine with a horror of anything not legitimate, and we have more old rough spots in the road of true love even if it lead only to a West Orange filling station. Ricardo Cortez is the only one worthy of honorable mention although he seems out of place away from the sheik's sands of a Sahara love story. This picture could be interesting but appeared to be another of those which help keep down the studio overhead.—M. C.

AT THE DICKINSON

Mariene Dietrich, the superbly beautiful, and Olive Brook make the show a calm sophisticated thing in spite of revolutions and banditry and grand old Chinese local color. "They loved with a love that was more than love"—in quite a worldly fashion. Mariene with her beautiful poses has become "Shanghai Lily," the white butterfly of China, in the years since she has met Olive. (He believed her faithless, she said.) But they loved each other. And in the end nothing else mat-

AT THE VARSITY

"The Big Shot"

"The Blue Bird Tourist Camp" brought happiness to Eddie Quillen after a time, but it almost cost him his life and that of his girl. He was a small town boy who was willing to try anything that would be likely to make a little profit for him. His puncture-proof tires having proved to be a failure, he bought the tourist camp with money borrowed from his girl's mother. A crooked real estate agent nearly swindled him out of his camp after it proved to be of value, but through a series of circumstances, he keeps it. Arthur Stone as "Old Timer" runs Eddie a close second for honors in the show. The part of the girl is played by Maureen O'Sullivan, and she is much better here than she has been in other shows. The cartoon comedy "Bars and Stripes" was fair.—R. W.

The Snooper

And still the Official Snooper operates under the head of Personal Business. Many a better man than he has conducted a honeymoon in less time than this.

The weekend comes on apace, offering Heb's—the man calls it a revue—the title of which is, modestly, Boom! Boom! And the last scene of this—revue—of Mr. Heberer's is advertised as "A Final Word." The good old conservative Collegian lays its money on Mrs. Heb.

The years are bringing heroism to Forrest Schooley, Titian-haired athlete of the K-Aggies, which puts him in the class with John Brown's body, Al Capone of Kansas, and Anne Lindbergh. Schooley sprained his left wrist in an automobile accident enroute to a track meet at Lincoln last weekend. Still retaining full command of the husky right arm, Schooley entered the track meet to put the shot, and nothing was said. That is, until the home town paper got hold of it. And then . . . Great headlines in the Hutchinson Herald read "Carries On" and there followed many touching phrases regarding the bravery and courage of Our Forrest, who "carried on" for Alma Mammy!

Many a student has "carried on" for Alma Mammy, but most of them are praying the home town paper doesn't find it out.

With all due apologies to Mrs. Menzie's tablecloth for dragging it into this murky column twice in one week, we beg to add a final chapter to the incident related earlier in the Collegian in which that bit of linen figured prominently. While Mrs. Menzie's son Joe and her tablecloth shied about in the Pi Phi stunt, someone walked off with two packages of cigarettes that were in the pocket of Joe's leather jacket, taking with him the jacket as a matter of convenience. And Joe had to run all the way home, swaddled, as it were, in his Mother's tablecloth.

They're going to make Honest Wimmin out of Kansas State co-eds. Back in the good old days of 1931 and beyond a girl must, perforce, sign herself out as attending a dance in order to remain out till the key rattled in the keyhole on Friday and Saturday nights. But those days are, thanks to a bit of a miracle, gone the way of the Saturday night bath and the horse-car. Girls may now go to an early show and neck from then on till one o'clock two times a week, and no questions asked. And couldn't John Held Jr., make a sweet picture of that?

The Tri Delta house, having been called everything from a union station to a lowly cow barn, has lately functioned as a windbreak for the Kappas. Could the Greeks be getting neighborly?

Fancy a member of the Intelligentsia like Reporter Maureece ("Adolphe") DuMars losing control of a fountain pen! Them there spots on the front of Scribe DuMars' trousers bear mute evidence that no amount of three-syllable words can dam the flow of a fountain pen if you've pulled the wrong lever.

Kansas State is going awfully sissy. There's to be an Easter Egg dance in Frivol, and what have they gone and done but put ruffles on the Easter eggs!

Now that Royal Purple election approaches, every bulletin board on the campus looks like a piece of the wall of the Kansas City police department.

Why doesn't the Royal Purple sponsor a contest, for a change? How about a jingle contest, the winner to be awarded a full page picture in the Purple. You know, the kind where you fill in the last line. Something like this might be good:

Said Mud "I know what we'll do Chap,
We'll put this old book on the map.
A contest we'll throw
That will make this a go."

P. S. Don't send your answers to the Collegian. It's the Royal Purple that sponsors contests. Thank you.

DRAWS MANY 'HENRY CLAYS'

Kansas State To Be Represented
By Men's and Women's Teams —Talks To Be Given in Recreation Center

Advertising and politics will receive the lion's share of attention on the campus today when entrants in the 1932 inter-collegiate oratorical and extempore contest get warmed up on these subjects.

Fourteen Kansas colleges and universities are entered in the contest. Kansas State is represented by Mary Lou Clark, Burr Oak; Marian Childs, Holsington; Ed Kelly, Edwin Puetze, Ralph Hendrickson, Manhattan.

The schedule for the day is as follows: 9:30 o'clock, women's oratory, G56; 10:30 o'clock, men's oratory, recreation center; 1 o'clock, women's extempore, G56; 2 o'clock, men's extempore, recreation center; 3:30 o'clock, women's oratory, G56; 4:30 o'clock, men's oratory, recreation center; 7 o'clock, women's extempore, recreation center; 8 o'clock, men's extempore, recreation center.

Colleges who are expected to compete in the contest are Kansas State college, Bethany college, Lindsborg; Southwestern college, Winfield; Kansas State Teachers college at Emporia; Sterling college, Wichita university, College of Emporia, Bethel College, Newton; Baker university, Baldwin; Friends university, Wichita; Kansas Wesleyan, Salina; Kansas State Teachers college at Pittsburg; McPherson Junior college and Ottawa university.

Thompson of Southwestern, secretary of the State Oratorical association, is manager of the contest and Mrs. Mary Myers Elliott of the department of public speaking is in charge of the local arrangements.

Browser Discovers All Sizes and Shapes of Books in the Library

Big books, little books, middle sized books, old books, new books, thick books, thin books, dry books, dull books, dear books, dainty books, books, books, and books—a whole library full of books. But in each of these classes there is one that is interesting enough and outstanding enough to finger through and jot down in our minds, just for fun.

There is a book as small as a co-ed's vanity case. It is written by J. Alter, with the title, "Practical Suggestions on Presswork," covering the entire front of it. It has 100 pages.

Poor Richards Almanac, 1733, by Benjamin Franklin, runs this little book for journalistic students a close second. It is two inches long and has 225 pages between its covers.

According to Miss Grace Derby, the book covering the most table space in the library is an atlas. It is 32 inches long, 24 inches wide, and only one inch thick. It contains 41 sheets of maps showing plots and drawings of lands in the District of Columbia to which the United States has title.

Evidently bees and hymenopterologists held forth with vermin and Caesar. At least a book entitled "Bee Culture," by Charles Butler appeared in 1873. It is written in Latin. Other old books such as Jan Swammerdam's "The Book of Nature," 1758. Joseph Warder's "The True Amazons," 1722 are the pride and joy of the Kansas State library staff. Such items make life worth living.

The Standard Dictionary would look like a pamphlet were the U. S. Trade Catalog placed beside it. Its pages outnumber the dictionary by several hundred. The 1928 Trade Catalogue has 3,164 pages on which are listed all books printed in U. S. publishing offices and foreign branches. These are listed by title, author, and publisher.

The U. S. Trade Catalogue is outnumbered as to pages by "The Home Book of Verse," edited by Burton Stevenson. This is a collection of American and English verse from 1580 to 1920 and covers 4,009 pages.

Bound periodicals owned by Kansas State date back to the first of the nineteenth century—almost to the era of knights and ladies. October 1802 is the first copy we have of Edinburgh Review. The copies of Living Age begin with May, 1844, while Atlantic Monthly goes back to 1857 and the Harper's Monthly Magazine to 1850.

FIVE STUDENTS WITHDRAW

Five students from the department of general science have withdrawn from school since the first of March.

Helen L. Vicksburg, Talmadge, withdrew this week after confinement in the college hospital where she recovered from an attack of flu.

Reva Sisney, Eskridge, was called home upon the death of his younger brother.

Other withdrawals are Leonard Carmichael, Manhattan; Erving Klassen, Whitewater; and Josephine Mason, Manhattan.

College Men Put Over Tab-Collar Shirt

Fad Turns Into Popular Demand as Males in all Walks Take It Up

CHALK up another goal for the college man. He has scored again as a style-maker of men's apparel. This time it is the "tab" shirt. A year ago one or two manufacturers put out a shirt with a "tab" collar. There was no blare of trumpets or sounding of cymbals. They thought it might be a fad for a few months and expected it to die a rapid death. Today the men of the country have the shirt makers busy turning out "tabs," and all because the collegians put their stamp of approval on the novelty. They liked it, bought it, wore it and it is now spreading to all walks of life.

The tab is a combination of British strength and American style. The collar is square-cut, firm and substantial looking. It doesn't wrinkle. Its points don't curl up. It keeps its shape. It looks as if it were made of heavy, dependable material. That's the British of it. This firm substantiality, however, has been tempered by a style typically American. You can't put your finger on it but it's there. It is a collar with class—a smart collar, a snappy collar. That's the reason, it is said, the college men took to it instantly. That's the reason it is taking on so generally among men outside of college.

Another thing that gives the tab smartness and class is the color and pattern combination which the stylists have evolved. The prevailing patterns are fine cluster stripes in blue, tan, gray, green, brown and lavender. They are so fine and so close together that they give the fabric the appearance of smooth, solid-colored texture.

Oxford with tab collar in solid blue, tan, silver and green. Tabs are also found on shirts of solid white broadcloth and of broadcloth with "white on white" stripes or white figures.

The popularity of the tab indicates that many men feel that it solves the problem of the fellow who desires the neatness of a starched collar and the comfort and convenience of a collar attached shirt. This is believed to be one of the chief factors in the trend towards tabs in college, where men are apparently paying more and more attention to their neckwear. The tab is in the center of the collar, as add down, and buttons over a collar button. It is wider than those at first offered, as the narrow tabs drew the collar and made it wrinkle. A unique and efficient feature is a narrow strip of celluloid, which slips into the front point on either side underneath and keeps the front of the collar erect.

Comfort and smartness for the tabs are provided by expert "shaping" of the collar to the neck. Some of the first, English tab collars were too full and high at the sides, causing a wrinkle or fold around the bottom of the collar on each side. Now they are cut out like a regular, starched, separate collar and present a smooth surface all around. They are 2 1/2 inches high in front, 2 1/2 inches at the sides and 1 1/2 inches in the back.

The same color and pattern combinations are seen in madras, which is also offered in solid blue, tan and silver. Another popular shirt is an with a fine grain. These patterns come in broadcloth and add to the already sheer luster of the material. Another broadcloth has "candy" stripes, which are slightly more pronounced.

Another thing that gives the tab

DEEP SEA EXPLORER TO TALK HERE SOON

Dr. Wm. Beebe Will Tell of South Sea Marine Life

Dr. William Beebe, who thrilled the world with his descent to a depth of 1,526 feet in the ocean off Bermuda, will give his unusual lecture, "Two Miles Down," on Friday, March 18, in the college auditorium under the auspices of the Manhattan chapter of the American Association of University Women.

DR. WILLIAM BEEBE

Sealed in a huge steel ball, attached by a cable to a barge, Doctor Beebe dropped into the blue-black midnight of the ocean, permitting him to make a study of marine life to a depth of two miles. At that depth it was impossible to take motion pictures, so a series of animated cartoons that are in themselves a marvel, have been prepared. They give an interesting and unusual picture of deep-sea life and tell a story of a world of fantastic beauty, where a sunbeam has never penetrated.

Doctor Beebe as a speaker, is colorful and imaginative in presenting the facts of his famous "fish stories" and uses simple and understandable language in describing his scientific discoveries.

Among The Ags

Prof. R. J. Barnett of the department of horticulture gives attractive lectures. Thursday a big white hound came dashing in right in the middle of a class, but dashed out again under the influence of none too gentle commands given by the professor without even breaking his speech rhythm.

One class in farm carpentry builds garages, about 15 having been constructed since the instructor first conceived the idea. Some of the boys are wondering just what good this garage-building knowledge will do them as farmers when wheat and livestock are too cheap to provide even food, much less a car for the farmer.

And speaking of livestock, some of the Kansas State animals should be given medals for patience, especially those animals used as subjects by inquisitive "vets" and those prodded, punched, pinched, praised and panned by various judging classes during monotonous labs.

Not to even mention the dead and more or less preserved specimens carved and depicted in drawings by those really scientifically-minded. Who would have thought that "Porky" Wilhelm spends his leisure moments drawing turkey embryos for the poultry department?

Says Prof. H. W. Cave in his elements of dairying class, "This information on how to dilute cows' milk for baby feeding may not interest you now, but it may be of great value in a few years."

Students eating ice cream in below zero weather is just what may be found any day now at the dairy sales counter in the west "ag" building. This all in spite of a "Pay Cash When Served" sign very much in evidence.

We can hardly keep from thinking, on these very cold nights, of the boys who drain the dairy bosses for a living. Those temperamental cows must be milked at three in the morning regardless of any and all other circumstances. Some of the boys don't meet dad going out to milk when they come home, but they do pick up a pail as they come home from the dance and go right out to milking.

A standing joke of the division this semester is of the engineer who decided to change to ag (he honestly did) and on the first day of classes in his new attempt stopped a hurrying student and asked where the agriculture buildings were.

HIGH-POWERED SALES TALK LOST IN RUSSIA

Stenger Compares Country to General Motors Corporation At Forum.

"Russia may be compared to a huge corporation, a large General Motors, all government owned," A. O. Stenger, an American who has been living on a Russian communal farm for a year and a half, asserted in his talk on "Russia As I Saw It" at Student Forum in the cafeteria Wednesday noon. "There is no competition there. One must stand in line hours to get a pair of stockings. Russia has no traveling salesmen nor real estate men," he declared.

At the present time living conditions in Russia are deplorable, and an American living there must endure great hardships, he said. Clothes are in great demand and food is scarce. Eggs sell for 15 cents apiece in warm weather and in cold weather it is almost impossible to buy them at any price, unless it be for a suit of clothing. The usual diet consists of black bread, cabbage soup, and tea.

To get married in Russia one need only to sign at the registrar's office, Stenger explained. If one wants a divorce it may be obtained by merely striking one's name off the marriage agreement.

Fear and force are used to such an extent in the government that progress is greatly hindered. Men fear responsibility for they never know when they may be shipped off to Siberia through the authority of some ignorant official. However, he said that although the older people are worn out with hardships the youth are enthusiastic and destined to aid Russia's progress.

At next Wednesday's Student Forum Dr. W. C. Meninger, of the Menninger clinic at Topeka, will talk on "Are You Mentally Healthy?"

D. E. Bundy, '29, visited friends at the college Monday. Bundy is the pastor at the Methodist Episcopal church at Oketo, Kan., and was on his way to attend the Methodist conference at Topeka.

INTEREST IN RANCH BEQUEATHED TO COLLEGE

George Lockhart, Wealthy Rancher, Leaves $30,000 Interest in Estate—Donor Unknown Here.

A $30,000 interest in a Wabaunsee county ranch has been bequeathed to the Kansas State College by the late George N. Lockhart, wealthy Arizona rancher, college authorities have been informed.

President Farrell stated that a portion of the 8,900 acre ranch, which is located in Wabaunsee county near Eskridge, had been willed to the college to be used as a student loan fund. Although no formal acceptance has been made, the matter will be settled at the meeting of the board of regents at the latter part of the month. "The legal and physical status of the property is now being investigated for the purpose of determining whether or not the bequest should be accepted for the college by the board of regents," President Farrell said. College officials are at a loss to explain any connection that Lockhart has ever had with the college. So far as is known, he knew no one here, had never attended the institution, nor received any particular service from the college. A committee of officials from the college who went recently to inspect the ranch reported that the land is exceptionally well fenced and that the grass is of good quality. The ranch is said to have begun with a 40-acre homestead and countless acres of open grazing land owned by the government. The donor of the land to the college divided his third equally between his wife and the college.

AGS TO PLAY BALL
At the meeting of the Agricultural Economics club last Tuesday evening, it was decided that they would enter the spring baseball tournament. Lee Toadvine, Dighton, AA3, was elected as manager of the team. All games are to be played with other organized clubs in its division of agriculture.

INTO THE SHOP With BETTY CO-ED

Today I noticed a Macy's (New York City) advertisement which said patent is "far and away the most fashionable leather there is" and I thought of the specialists that Nygren's are offering in patent leather shoes, including a good looking strap slipper, today and Saturday in the Manhattan Day sales. And they're being sold at half price! The college girl, who finds herself coming up missing for fillers and for shoes to be worn later on for general utility, will make a real buy here. All other shoes, too, including early spring models and winter shoes in black and brown kid pumps, suede oxfords, and satins regularly priced from $5.50 to $9.50, will sell from $2.75 to $4.75—a big help to the depleted shoe supply.

Widely flared and hand-stitched are the new suede fabric gloves at Cole's, in dashing combinations of white and black, and egg-shell with brown. And they cost only $1.00.

BOYS! The vogue for matching trousers and jackets in corduroy is to carry over into spring. At the Varsity clothing store there is a new shipment of light weight outfits in various shades. What a hit you'll be on those Sunday night picnics in one of these outfits. Spring can't be far off now. Too, they have some white turtle-necked sweaters that would go well with the corduroy trousers in case you don't like the jackets. One of the nicest things the Varsity is showing in sporty clothes for school wear is the new chamolite suede jacket in light weights for spring. It really has appeal.

You'll swear that they're hand-knit... these soft, lacy pastel sweaters with short sleeves, but they are priced at $1.95 to $3.50. High-waisted and belted skirts to match or contrast at $1.95 and $2.95. And all the newest blues are represented in the collection at Cole's.

Sandals for formal wear in black crepe faille, sandals for street wear in navy kid with boulevard heels, both at $5.00, and in narrow widths. Another Cole's find.

The Olson Shoe Repair Shop in Aggieville is equipped to serve the students. The work is good—and the prices reasonable. Remember Olson's in your "soles needs." The telephone number is 4281.

This cold weather gives us all huge appetites! But we don't need an appetite to enjoy the meals at the Blue Ribbon Cafe at 1203 Moro. It is so handy when you're on the Hill; and such a congenial place to meet your friends. You couldn't ask for more.

The smartest of walking shoes—those Prince of Wales ties—that are being featured at the Martin shoe store. They suit perfectly the needs of the college girl for an early spring oxford—so comfortable for the girl who does lots of walking on the hill—and again for the one who will be picnicking later on. It's that new English shoe that laces around the ankle—is unlined, adding to comfort—and is crepe soled. The best colors are found in light elk shades and the two toned elks that are so chic. This one is smartly priced at $3.95 with other new oxfords ranging from $2.75 to $4.25. We just know you'll like 'em.

Everyone—no matter if it's a college man, a coed, a frat or a sorority—is figuring all possible ways to save wear and tear on laundry. The Manhattan Laundry solves that problem without the least difficulty because all washing and rinsing is done in soft water with particular care given to individual pieces.

Snow may cover things, but that won't stop you from buying your new spring shoes when you see the ones that the College shoe store is showing. There's a perfectly fascinating pair of sandals, kid and patent leather combination, selling for $5.00. They come in either high or low heels. Black being what it is in spring footwear fashions, this store is showing two other black shoes. One of these is a low-heeled pump, decorated fancifully with cut-out dots lined with white leather. The other is a low-cut tie, rather plain, and one of the best buys for school wear that we've seen.

Have you bought your new brimmed hat, Co-eds? They dip so smartly over one eye. Some of the trickiest ones are to be found at the Plaza Millinery Co., 115 South Fourth—and are so reasonably priced from $1.88 to $3.98.

The Aggieville Coffee Shop is defying "old man Depression" and is giving five meals for the price of four. Eat four "thirty cent" dinners here, turn in the receipts and Lo! you get something for nothing—a Free Meal!

Co-eds may never be sailors, but the new "Gob" hats at the Bon Nette Shoppe will assure them of nautical victories. The "Gob" is a smartly knit little affair that will appeal to Co-eds for campus wear, priced from $5c to $1.75. Other knit models are the "Olympia" and two Gage hats—the "Mashie" and "Man-lus" at $3.50.

K-AGGIE TRACK STARS TO MEET PICK OF BIG SIX

KANSAS STATE SENDS WELL-BALANCED AGGREGATION TO COLUMBIA.

HUSKERS EXPECTED TO WIN

Athletic Directors To Make Schedules For Spring Competition Following The Conference Meet Tomorrow.

By John Underwood

A galaxy of indoor track stars will battle for the Big Six indoor track crown in the annual conference meet at Columbia tomorrow. "Nebraska will repeat its victory of last year, with Kansas university pushing the opposition and Missouri, Kansas State, and Oklahoma all having an even break for third place," Coach Ward Haylett said yesterday.

Stiff Competition Expected.
The Kansas State squad leaves for Columbia this morning. Although the Wildcats have a well-balanced aggregation they are not quite equal to the unusually stiff competition that Nebraska is putting out this year with their squad of record breakers. The Kansas State men who are expected to come through with points in the meet are: Ehrlich, who holds the conference record in the high jump; Jordan, who has been getting up within an inch of the record in his workouts in the pole vault; Hinckley in both the hurdles; Landon and McNeal in the mile; Pearce in the two-mile; Smith in the 800-yard run; and Breen in the broad jump. Aside from Nebraska, which is relatively strong in all events, Iowa State seems best in the distance runs. Oklahoma has some outstanding field men, Missouri is the strongest in the middle distances, and Kansas has some dangerous sprinters in the dashes and pole vault. There will be stiff competition in all events for every entry.

18 Men Represent Wildcats.
The team that will represent Kansas State in the meet are: 60-yard dash, Elwell, Harsh, and Goings; 60-yard low hurdles, Hinckley, Smith, and Breen; 60-yard high hurdles, Hinckley, Smith and Breen; 400-yard run, Darnell, Castello, and Shirk; 800-yard run, Smith, Miller, and McNeal; mile run, McNeal, Nixon, Landon; two-mile run, Landon, Pearce, and Nixon; high jump, Ehrlich and Breen; broad jump, Breen, Kennedy, Elwell; pole vault, Jordan; shot put, Cronkite; marble relay, Castello, Shirk, Harsh, Darnell. The K-Aggies also will be a threat in this mile relay. The four men named are all good quarter-milers and will push any opponents near a record to beat them out.

After the meet the athletic directors of the Big Six will meet to arrange the schedules for the spring competitions in the various sports. The basketball schedule and the officials for the coming year will also be decided upon.

TWO K-AGGIE BOXERS WIN CHAMPIONSHIPS
Thomas and Stremel Score Victories In Finals of Pre-Olympic Tourney.

In the pre-Olympic tryouts held in Manhattan Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week, two Kansas State boxers, Thomas midweight, and Stremel, welterweight, won the championship in their respective weights. They will represent this district at the trials to be held at Kansas City, March 17, 18, and 19.

Thomas won over Percy Dawson, Abilene in the finals, knocking his opponent out in the third round. In this fight Dawson, conqueror of Bill, Manhattan fighter, held the advantage in the first round, but was badly punished by Thomas in the second and third round. Stremel defeated Don Erickson, Leonardville, in the finals. Erickson is noted for his ability to amuse the crowd. This fight was very even until late in the third round when Stremel caught Erickson flush on the button. This blow slowed Erickson down considerably and was the deciding factor in this bout.

ATHLETIC FIELDS ARE NEARING COMPLETION
Project Planned For Several Years Has Improved Campus Looks Considerably.

The new athletic field located between the Home Economics building and the stadium is rapidly nearing completion. This project has been planned for several years, but financial and other difficulties have hindered its progress until this winter, when the athletic department in conjunction with the engineering division started actual construction of this heretofore unsightly territory.

football practice gridirons on this field. However, the men's athletics are not going to derive the sole benefit from this additional outdoor space, for there will be places for the women's field hockey and any of their other outdoor sports.

Besides supplying a want of outdoor space that was fast becoming a necessity, this reconstruction has transformed an ugly spot on the campus to what will be one of actual beauty, when the plan is completed. All this land will be covered with grass within a year, which will provide a better surface for the athletic uses and add much to the attractiveness of the field.

The athletic department has been assisted in the improvement by the unemployment committee of Manhattan.

Sport Briefs

By Mildred Peters

A combination of cold weather and snow has kept all athletic activities pretty much inside. Should one happen to look into the gymnasium any time from four to six in the afternoon he would find it full of athletes engaged in various strenuous activities.

Baseball seems to take up the most space. For the most part practice has been confined to a little infield practice and sliding. This sliding practice relieves the janitor of any polishing work to be done on the floors anyway. And if it doesn't, it ought to make some of the fellows stiff, or know they've been somewhere, even if it was only on the floor.

Besides baseball, tennis is also keeping the gymnasium busy. Since there isn't room for any more activities in the daytime, the racket wielders must take their workout at night. And it looks as if there is going to be a world of material from which to pick a team, if the showing some of the boys are making now is any indication of their ability.

Some old Kansas State football stars whose names and faces are familiar have been making their appearance around the gym lately. They are Bert Pearson, "Tiny" Feathers, and "Tack" Tackwell, now pro football players. Perhaps they find the warming up in the gym a trifle mild in comparison to what they must experience.

The conference indoor track meet at Columbia tomorrow will bring together the best of the Big Six track stars. The Huskers are given a slight edge over the rest of the teams to repeat their victory of last year. Kansas will probably give the Nebraska squad its greatest competition, and any of the rest of the conference teams is likely to end up in third place.

The Big Six directors meeting the same day as the indoor track meet will probably be an important one. Besides fixing baseball and other spring sport schedules, the directors will wrangle over the problem of limiting conference competition to institutions of the same rating as the Big Six, such as those in the Big Ten, et cetera.

Kansas State will not be represented in the national wrestling tournament because of lack of funds. It is probable, though, that Coach B. R. Patterson will take June Roberts or some other capable grappler to the tourney himself. Billy Doyle will be unable to defend the title he won at Providence last year because he is confined in the college hospital with typhoid fever.

Delta Sigma Phi is leading the intramural competition with a total of 679 points, compiled at the end of the free throw contest. The rest of the fraternities rank as follows: Phi Kappa Tau, 591; Alpha Gamma Rho, 531; Kappa Sigma, 510; Phi Sigma Kappa, 508; Aggie Knights, 505.

Swimming is the next event on the intramural program, scheduled to be held next Monday and Tuesday, March 14 and 15. Entries are due today. Intramural tennis is slated to begin March 23.

BAD WEATHER KEEPS TENNIS SQUAD INSIDE

Squad Works Out Nights In Gym—No Letterman Back For Competition

Varsity tennis practice started Monday evening in Nichols gymnasium under the direction of Coach C. S. Moll. The tennis candidates will continue to practice inside until the weather permits outdoor practice.

Coach Moll faces a difficult problem in tennis. He has no returning letterman and must pick his team from former squadmen and sophomores. C. M. Worthy, Wetmore, is the only letterman in school and he has finished his competition. Another serious blow to the team's prospects is the probable loss of their captain, Sheldon Woods, Delphos, who is sick with typhoid fever. This leaves Moll with two squad men from last year, Ben Dean and George Telford, Manhattan, as a nucleus for his team. Promising new men who are reporting are: Jack Silverwood, Ellsworth; Ralph Graham, El Dorado; G. W. Larsen, Manhattan; R. G. Fowler, Holton, and R. L. Herzog, Salina.

Kansas State's varsity team will consist of four men. In the Big Six conference matches, the team plays four singles matches and two doubles matches.

Women's Sports

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

The initial round of intramural basketball has been completed with nine games. The contest will continue through the remainder of this week and next week.

WOMEN ENTER COMPETITION

Eleven teams of six members each competed in the posture contest sponsored by the Women's Athletic association Thursday. Judges were instructors in the women's physical education department. The winners were awarded points toward the intramural cup.

The teams entered in the contest were: Beta Phi Alpha, Phi Omega Pi, Van Zile hall, Delta Delta Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Delta Pi, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Z team, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

"Mike" Ahearn Breaks Down To Reveal His Past

At last M. F. "Mike" Ahearn has been given a chance to speak for himself. And how he does it. In the following epistle he has written his life history, and it would be a crime to keep it from publication. It reads like this:

Full name—M. F. Ahearn.
Birthplace—P. I.
Ran away from home when nine years old and stowed away aboard ship bound for U. S. Sold newspapers in New York and went to night school. Played on the night school football and wrestling teams. Wrestling was a major sport for me and I won the championship in the 190-pound class.

After leaving Hoboken Seminary coached at an Ag school in Oklahoma. Never lost a match in 51 years but was finally beaten by Kingfisher Bears. Now 5 feet 6 1/2 inches tall and weigh 175 pounds. Am willing to take on any man who is able to wrestle in the bantam weight class. Only lost one fall, and that was to a wrestler named Piper. After losing to Kingfisher Bears, I lost my job and finally persuaded the regents to hire me at Kansas State. Have been here for 40 years now and would like to stay until "Pat" Patterson coaches a team that can beat the Oklahoma Aggies.

DIAMOND DRILL INSIDE

Because of the bad weather baseball practice is being held in Nichols gymnasium every afternoon under the tutelage of Coach C. W. Corsaut. As soon as the weather permits the candidates will begin extensive practice outdoors.

On account of the limited space; practice in the gymnasium must be confined to pepper games, sliding practice, and footwork exercises. Coach Corsaut said, "This bad weather will handicap us somewhat, but the men can get in good physical condition inside and be ready for hard work when baseball weather returns." In these practices Corsaut says that he has uncovered some men that look good but will withhold their names until they prove their ability.

Mouths Water In Calvin As Cake Baker Works On

The "why" of all those terribly good, nose tickling odors pervading the halls of Calvin has been discovered. They prove to be the result of heroic experiments in cake making.

Lucille Gramse, graduate in the home economics department, is baking scores of devil's food cakes in preparation to the writing of her thesis. So far she has a record of 75, and she expects to near the hundred mark in a week or two. The cake maker's chief concern is in getting the red color stabilized in her devil's food cakes. She measures and records the color of each cake by means of a color testing machine in which the revolving discs of color can be matched exactly to the peculiar shade of each individual cake. Variations in the recipe are made at every trial and a close check kept upon them. The weak point of the cake is also tested on a small machine which wrecks many a good though weak cake.

Friends and other obliging people have been only too glad to aid in the sampling of the dainties as they snifflingly pass by L42, the experiment kitchen.

SIXTEEN LETTERS GIVEN CAGERS AND GRAPPLERS

Athletic Council Rewards 7 Wrestlers and 9 Basketmen—11 Fresh Get Honors.

The athletic council awarded nine varsity letters and 11 freshmen numerals in basketball and seven letters in wrestling Wednesday.

Varsity men receiving basketball letters are: Emmett Breen and Ralph Graham, El Dorado, and Stanley Brockway, Topeka, forwards; Andy Skradski, Kansas City, and Lloyd Dalton, Garnett, centers; Captain Elden Auker, Norcat; F. W. Boyd, Phillipsburg; Paul Fairbank, Topeka, and George Wiggins, Lyons, guards.

Numerals were awarded to the following freshmen: Kenneth Phelps, Manhattan; Joe Creed, Bartlesville; Orin Stoner, Sabetha; Homer Drier, Kansas City; Dick Armstrong, Riley; J. Hanson, Concordia; D. Russell, McDonald, Pa.; Don Hutchinson, Hutchinson; Frank Hamilton, Norton; and Ralph Marshall, Kansas City. Prieand, star freshman center, did not receive a numeral because of scholastic difficulties, but will be available next year.

Seven wrestlers were awarded letters. The requirements for a varsity letter in wrestling are that a man must win two matches during the season. Men awarded varsity letters were: Captain W. L. Doyle, Douglas, national champion last year; W. Burbank, Douglas; F. L. Tempero, Broughton; M. Patterson, Manhattan; J. A. Roberts, Manhattan; F. M. Bozarth, Lenora; and J. W. Miller, Sycamore.

TEACHERS' PLACEMENT BUREAU IN OPERATION

Dean E. L. Holton Says Applicants Must Expect Lower Salaries For Next Year.

"Kansas State graduates who accept teaching positions this spring must accept at least 10 per cent cut in salaries," Dr. E. L. Holton of the education department and head of the teacher's bureau said yesterday. Approximately as many positions will be open to graduates this spring in the teaching field as were last year, Doctor Holton believes.

Due to present economic conditions, and to the inability of many citizens to meet their taxes, a cut has been made in the school budgets of many Kansas cities. Money heretofore used for educational purposes must necessarily go towards relief for the unemployed. Not only must applicants for city school positions expect cuts, but also those wishing to teach in rural schools.

More than 150 students have applied for three year teaching certificates in this state, and since between 160 and 180 positions were filled last spring with the aid of the education department, it is believed most of the graduates this spring should find schools. Requests for teachers come into the department the latter part of March and during April.

Students desiring to secure teaching positions should fill out applications in the education office. Information blanks concern social relations, amount of education, experience in teaching, preparatory occupations, positions desired, and references. From these applications, school boards and other officials may have a thorough knowledge of the applicant's ability.

Students securing out-of-state teaching positions usually make personal contacts with school officials rather than secure positions through the department here.

The engineers seem to have taken the Alpha Deltas seriously in their request for a mechanical man. Negotiations have been made for a robot to be displayed here during Open House.—The convention of amateur radio operators to be held here in conjunction with Engineers' Open House has been dubbed a "Ham Convention" by the sponsors of the meet. If the visiting amateurs speak technical radio parlance as well as these Radio club boys, it will be a "Greek Convention" to outsiders.—M. A. Durland, assistant dean of the engineering division, takes as much interest in Open House plans as the students.

An accurate count of the persons who pass through the doors during Open House will be recorded by an "electric eye" installed near the doors. A photo-electric cell which is sensitive to a beam of light constitutes the automatic recorder. When the beam of light is broken by a passing person, the cell automatically records the break.—According to Earl North, Marlow, Okla., who writes "Engine House Cleanings" for the Kansas State Engineer, K. D. Grimes, EE 71 is the "man of mystery" in the electrical engineering department. It will be remembered that Grimes was also editor of the Engineer last year, and that publication was one of the four magazines of its kind to receive a class "A" rating.

St. Pat's prom, annual Open House dance, is a successor to "Slide Rule Slide," as the affair was termed in early Open House history.—The boys who wear the badges are not members of the G. A. R. All loyal engineers will wear these little white ribbons until 1932 Open House is a thing of the past.—I rather care for the new game invented by the architects. It is called "gomolo,"—the spelling is a hazard, but I'll bet I'm right,—and the roof men seem to be that way about it.

According to Al ("Flash") Reed, the finals in the "gomoco tournament" are to be played in the near future, and Oscar Ekdahl and Elmo Young will compete for first place.

Add comedy: Instructor J. T. Ware saw a group of architects gathered around a table and remarked that he liked to see the boys take an interest in their work, but wished they would be less noisy. Could it have been gomoco?—Another boy from the country makes good in the city: L. O. Stafford, Republic, is the inventor of the game.—Boy, page Mr. Culbertson.

that titles are almost unnecessary. Unlike cartoonists, who specialize in poking fun at a certain type or class, Woodall is versatile in his kindly sculptured humor. His portrayals range from the pathetic "Alone" to "Wedded Bliss" and the yodeller, who would wear green socks and yellow shoes. The artist tells a great deal of his little human stories with shoes, but he pays attention to such telling little details without detracting from any simplicity of line or form.

There has been a definite growth of understanding and technique in Woodall's work since he did "Plow-Boy," which is a permanent exhibition in the museum of the art department on the third floor of Anderson hall.

The African quartet, "Har-mo-nee," will be universally appealing—it portrays the finest group work in the exhibit.

An appreciation of reality in varied moods makes the Kansas wood sculptor a versatile worker. Boy life he understands well, particularly in the gangling, smug "Seventeen." The pride and pathos of old age is portrayed in "Shopping."

Nice texture in materials is achieved in the carving, and the grain of the medium is well used in developing the essentials of the figures.

Typically Kansan is the pretentious group, "1871 Water Supply," and typically human and universal is the subject matter of the whole exhibit.

MUSIC RECITAL WILL BE HELD SUNDAY

Marion Felton and Edwin Sayre Will Present Weekly Entertainment in Auditorium

A music recital will be presented Sunday, March 13, at 4 o'clock in the college auditorium. The program will consist of numbers by Marion Felton, organist, and Edwin Sayre, tenor.

The selections will include "Variations de Concert" by Bonnet; "Grandmother Knitting," "The Wind in the Chimney," and "The Kettle Bolls" by Clokey; "Will of the Wisp" by Nevin; "Choral" by Bossi; and "Finale from Symphony No. 1" by Viene, all by Marion Felton.

Edwin Sayre will offer "Je Suis Suel" by Massenet; "At the Cry of the First Bird" by Gulon; "The Song of the Palanquin Bearer" by Shaw; "Ships that Pass in the Night" by Tyler; and "If Love Hath Entered My Heart" by Marx. He will be accompanied by Charles Stratton on the piano.

Lynn A. Horwege, IJS, is planning on spending the week end with his parents in Bellevue.

RUSH WEEK TO BE HELD BEFORE REGISTRATION

COUNCIL RULES THAT WOMEN'S AFFAIRS WILL START WEDNESDAY BEFORE ENROLLMENT

CO-EDS TO COME EARLY

Change Will Lessen Conflicts and Strain for Rushes and Activities; Will Parents Object?

Violating a custom followed many years, the sororities at Kansas State will officially open rush week with a Panhellenic tea on Wednesday preceding enrollment rather than on Sunday, members of the Women's Panhellenic decided at a meeting held recently. Rushes will no longer have to break dates to luncheon in order to get out of taking chemistry, and activities can be assured of invited guests appearing at the social functions with the new rules in order.

Bids Sent Saturday
The new rules say luncheon, tea, and dinner will be served on Thursday and Friday with a formal dinner on Friday night closing the week of social functions. Saturday morning rushes will meet at 10 o'clock in recreation center to state their preferences and bids will be sent out through the college post office Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Formal pledging will not take place until after enrollment is completed as this is a college rule, but rushes may move into the house from which they have received a bid any time after 5 o'clock on Saturday.

This change in rules will be in the form of an experiment next year, and if it proves successful other fields will be followed. It is thought parents might object to their daughters coming to college early in order to participate in rushing functions. However, since most activities in organizations come to college early in order to clean up the house for rush week, parents expecting or hoping their daughters will have an opportunity to join a Greek sorority probably will not say "no" when the off-springs ask to come early.

I. Q. Tests Won't Conflict
The revision of rules was brought about to make rush week easier for both rushes and sorority girls, and so would no longer interfere with enrollment and freshman examinations. Much discussion was held among sorority members before this change was decided upon. Greek coeds, experienced with the difficulties of rush week, felt that these changes would greatly aid in making rush week less of a strain for all concerned. Heretofore the inconveniences due to tardy guests held for enrollment or guests who failed to appear because of freshman examinations caused the hostesses no little worry. Panhellenic council members agreed that this situation was unfair, and often resulted in advantages for some organizations and disadvantages for others.

JENNIE S. OWEN WILL TALK TONIGHT

Junction City Writer Will Discuss "Crums from Breadloaf" in Recreation Center

Miss Jennie S. Owen of Junction City will discuss "Crums from Breadloaf" in the second of two special lectures under the auspices of the department of English Tuesday evening in recreation center. Miss Owen is an author and a newspaper writer. "Fodder" is perhaps her best known work.

Bread Loaf is an old inn in the Green mountains of Vermont. Middlebury (Vt.) college there founded the Bread Loaf summer school and conference for English teachers who are interested in becoming authors. It is to writers what the Woodstock colony is to artists, the Peterborough colony to musicians, and the Provincetown colony to dancers and artists.

Students, faculty members and the general public are invited to attend the lecture.

COSMO CLUB TO MEET

The Cosmopolitan Club, an organization of foreign and American students whose purpose is to promote friendship, will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Hamilton Ionia Hall.

Interfraternity sing Thursday.

Resourceful Betas Rescue Mansion With Waste Paper Baskets

Betas, like professors, grow absent minded.

Yesterday afternoon Bob Algie laid all his nice clean clothes out on the bed in preparation to getting dressed before going to town. He lighted a cigaret, and laid it on the table. The cigaret fell in the waste basket, the fire from the basket leaped up to the curtains. And then the bed caught fire.

Only four fellows were in the house and one of them slept on. The three alert lads, however, rushed for water and dashed back and forth carrying this water in waste paper baskets. Finally the flame was drowned by the onslaught of the dampening spirits. The Beta house was saved! (In the hall, all the time, were fire extinguishers.)

LABOR HEAD TO GIVE ADDRESS AT GRADUATION

WILLIAM GREEN, PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN FEDERATION, COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

MANY EVENTS SCHEDULED

Bishop Spencer of Missouri to be Baccalaureate Speaker May 29—Alumni Plan Re-unions.

A labor official and an Episcopalian bishop have been selected by the council of deans to give the commencement and baccalaureate addresses this spring to the seniors of 1932. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Robert Nelson Spencer, bishop of the diocese of West Missouri of the Episcopal church will be the speakers.

Green has long been prominent in labor work and political activities. In 1913 he was elected international secretary treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, and held the position until his election as president of the American Federation of Labor in 1924. He has been a member of the Ohio legislature for two terms, and has been an alternate at large to the Democratic national convention. He advocates cooperation between labor and capital as the best remedy for the ills of both groups.

Bishop Spencer, who will give the baccalaureate address is a resident of Kansas City, Mo. He is active in community affairs by sides being a contributor of articles and verse to various magazines. In 1920 he attended the Lambeth conference in London to which all churches closely affiliated with the Church of England sent representatives. Bishop Spencer is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Senior week activities will begin Sunday, May 29, with the baccalaureate address. Mortar Board, senior women's honorary organization, annually entertains with a breakfast for all senior women, and the class is usually invited to a reception at the President's residence. Last year a concert was arranged for the members of the class. Commencement will be June 2.

A number of class reunions are being planned by the committee of the alumni association. Alumni luncheons draw a large number of graduates to the campus during the week, and parents and relatives swell the crowd which each year fills the auditorium at the commencement exercises.

PRESS TEAM TO SALINA

ENGINEERS ALL SET TO RECEIVE RECORD CROWDS

HOPE TO ENTERTAIN 5,000 AT TWELFTH ANNUAL OPEN HOUSE.

SOUVENIRS FOR VISITORS

Engineering Students Wear Ribbons Advertising Event—From Saturday Night Where St. Patricka Will Be Elected.

In an exposition of modern engineering education and accomplishments, including novelties, displays, and exhibitions, members of the open house committees plan to make the twelfth annual Engineer's Open House the biggest event of the school year for the engineering division.

This open house exposition, to be held March 18 and 19, this week end, together with the amateur radio convention being held in connection with open house, is expected to attract more than 5,000 visitors, which will be a record number to attend the event.

Route Visitors Through.
The main demonstrations of open house will be given in the engineering building, power plant, chemistry building, and Denison hall. A routing system has been worked out by the routing committee of the open house, and visitors will enter the engineering building through the main door at the south. Eleven departments of the engineering division will display all the features of the respective laboratories, and other phases of engineering will also be shown.

The departments to be represented in the open house are: civil, electrical, mechanical, chemical, agricultural, flour mill, architectural, military, shops, applied mechanics, machine design, physics, and aviation. The forge shop, machine shop, and foundry will also be open. Special Attraction For Air-Minded.

A demonstration and showing of an auto-gyro is being planned by the open house committee, but as yet no definite plans have been arranged. The committee plans to obtain the auto-gyro from the Fairfax airport, Kansas City, Kans. If the auto-gyro is not sold by the company now owning the machine, it will be shown at the open house event.

Airmindedness of Kansas State students will also be demonstrated in glider flights to be given Saturday in the varsity ball park. These flights will be sponsored by the Glider club, and numerous exhibitions will be given during the day.

Over 300 ribbons advertising the open house, have been issued to engineers. Students in the engineering division securing an open house ribbon will be eligible to make one nomination for "St. Patricka," the queen of the engineers. The five candidates receiving the largest number of nominations will be voted upon at the St. Patrick's day prom, to be held Saturday night at Harrison hall.

Mementos to Visitors.
Souvenirs will be given to people attending the open house Friday and Saturday. A small cast iron "K", from the shops, and a small etching of the engineering building, etched by R. I. Lockhard, department of architecture, will be given as mementos to the visitors.

As a means of advertising to townspeople, a large sign has been placed at Fourth and Poyntz streets, welcoming the people of Manhattan to the exhibition.

FIRE DESTROYS FILM

Varsity Theatre Will Have Performance Today, However.

A projection room fire at the Varsity theatre last night made necessary the dismissal of the audience for the evening. Theater employees extinguished the fire before the fire department arrived. Two reels of film were destroyed, but the management announced to the crowd last night that the show would be presented this afternoon, by which time it is expected that replacement film will have arrived from Kansas City.

The fire will hasten the installation of new R. C. A. sound equipment and two Simplex projectors which the management had intended to install soon.

RETURN TO CLASSES

Gilbert Campbell, McCracken, and Wilmer Robrock, Kansas City, Mo., are back in school after several days confinement in the college hospital with severe colds.

TEAMS TO ANGUS PROGRAM

Vocational Judging Groups Will Have Party in Annual Event

Vocational agricultural judging teams will have an opportunity to take part in the annual judging contest sponsored by Angus breeders of Geary and Dickinson counties, on Thursday morning, April 14.

The event will be at the Oak Leaf farm owned by A. E. Latzke and son, about ten miles southwest of Junction City on U. S. 77. The judging contest is held annually as a part of the program of the Aberdeen breeders of the two counties.

Orchestra, honorary dancing organization, is sponsoring a tryout for all women interested in dancing tonight, at 7 o'clock in the women's gymnasium. The tryouts will consist of two tests, the first being technique tests, the other the presentation of two original dances, comic and drama. Thirteen girls were taken in last semester.

RECORD VOTE IS CAST AT YEARBOOK ELECTION

Thackrey, Vesceky, and Eberhart Are Chosen by Students To Edit and Manage 1933 Royal Purple

Franklin Thackrey, Manhattan, was elected editor of the 1933 Royal Purple in the election held in Anderson hall Friday. Thackrey defeated his opponent, Ward Colwell, Onaga by a vote of 687 against 649. The newly elected editor is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity, and is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

A total of 1216 votes were cast in the election, a record number for a Royal Purple election. It is rumored that several college divisions were desirous of securing representation on the Royal Purple staff, and turned out in full force at the polls.

Steve Vesceky, Kansas City, won over Hal McCord Manhattan, in the race for business management of the yearbook. The vote was 660 for Vesceky to 553 for McCord. Vesceky is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa. He is a junior in agricultural administration.

In the election for the office of secretary-treasurer, Ethel Eberhart, Topeka was victor over Dorothea Hadsell, Manhattan, by a vote of 705 to 500. Miss Eberhart is a member of Beta Phi Alpha and is a junior in architecture.

STUDENT LOAN FUND EXCEEDS HIGH HOPES

Campus Chest Realizes $530 From Drive to Assist Students at Kansas State

The donations to the Campus Chest campaign this year were unusually responsive, according to Prof. F. L. Parrish, chairman of the committee. The gross receipts to date are $530 of which $500 has been used to create a new student loan fund.

The Campus Chest was instituted about ten years ago. It is made up of donations and solicitations from faculty and students. Until this year the money has been sent to foreign students to use but due to the financial stress and need for the money here on the campus, the plan was changed this year. The loans are for emergencies and are to be used for educational purposes.

Reports coming from the administrator of the newly created fund indicate that it has already justified its existence by the aid it has rendered needy students thus far.

Professor Parrish said that the Campus Community Chest committee desires to thank every student and faculty member and all other persons who assisted in the creation of the student aid fund on the campus; and to express appreciation to the public speaking department, music department, Collegian, and all students and faculty who assisted in the student assembly program and in making solicitations.

POSTPONE STUDENT RECITAL

The student recital which was to be held in the college auditorium, Tuesday, March 15, has been postponed. The next student recital will be presented April 5.

PROFESSOR LINDQUIST ILL

Prof. William Lindquist, head of the music department, has been confined to his home for the past two weeks by influenza, a severe case of bronchitis and an ulcerated tooth. He expects to return to his work sometime this week.

Evan Haughawout, Bill Justus and Ward Colwell spent the weekend in Onaga.

FORMER STUDENT WRITES

George W. Smith Has Article in "Pencil Points"

In the March issue of "Pencil Points" appears an article written by George Smith, '27, graduate in architecture, and at present a designer in the office of the Commissioner of Architecture for the state of New York at Albany.

The article, seventh of a series known as "Master Draftsmen and Designers," discusses Ortho McCracken, a Kansan, a master lithographer and outstanding designer of the west, who is a member of the firm of Mann and company in Hutchinson, and whose commissions extend chiefly through Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

WRITES ARTICLE ON CALORIES

Miss Martha Pittman, head of the department of food economics and nutrition, is the author of an article, "Those Extra Calories" in the March issue of "Good Housekeeping" magazine.

'ALFALFA BILL' WILL TALK IN IN MANHATTAN THURSDAY

Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma Will Appear in High School Auditorium; Public Is Invited

Gov. W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray will speak in Manhattan Thursday night, March 17, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Young People's Democratic club of Kansas, State and Manhattan. Governor Murray will talk on some phase of politics. The governor of the adjoining state will come to Manhattan from Emporia where he will talk in the afternoon. From here he will go to Salina to make a morning appearance.

Governor Murray has been scheduling dates in many of the surrounding states the past few weeks in the interest of his running for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The eccentric statesman who is once said to have stood on his head in front of the governor's mansion in Nebraska is credited with being exceptionally well versed in international law.

The public is invited to hear him speak.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

The Phi Sig party turned into a free varsity Saturday night when approximately a dozen uninvited Kappa Sigas and more than several Phi Kappas crashed the gates. One Lambda Chi, of course, came in spite of the fact the bid was not forthcoming. Members of the fraternity agree next year guests will be asked to present the invitations at the door before admittance is allowed. Not a bad idea. . . .

George Washington was said to be the life of the party with his little water gun. . . . Zeke Sullivan was heard loudly muttering German as he walked on the Hill Monday morning. . . .

Maybe he was practicing new words he didn't want the fair sex to hear. . . . Tiny Pearson and Billy Brown evidently like informal wear. Tiny came to the varsity Friday night in a white sweater while Billy was attractive in a suede jacket. . . .

One of the fellows getting up the inter-fraternity sing does not want the public to think it's to be a musical revue. . . . Rumor has it that there's to be a hobo dance on April Fool's day. Hurray, a chance to be fashion right in spite of old clothes. But what, oh what, will poor Helen Louise Swan do? She's the girl, you know, who didn't have anything to wear in the Boom! Boom! act. . . .

The engineers are planning big things this week and when they turn their house over to the world at large. Every student ought to see those exhibits; they'll be worth the time and effort. . . . The Collegian staff extends its sympathies to Sally Shafer whose dog was killed last night. . . .

The editor of the Collegian who is at present absent has been asked by one of his admiring public, to send a picture and information about himself. No the asker is not starting a rogue's gallery. . . . One of the smart Pikas was looking frantically through the dictionary for the word "abundant." He searched and searched and finally asked a fond brother how to spell "abundant." When the brother spelled it, the smart student said, "No, I mean when you 'abundant' a ship." . . .

Liberty Dearer Than Life, Chinese Student Declares in Letter Here

The attitude of Chinese college students toward Japan, the war, and present world affairs are expressed in a letter, dated January 6, which was received by a Kansas State student.

The Chinese student writes: "We are so misfortunate as to be the citizens of an ill-governed and a much disturbed country. Most of us are in distress, leading miserable lives and obtaining our daily bread through difficulties. We need no more aggravation, for we are already aggravated by many misfortunes which have been falling upon us incessantly.

"You know that our China has been stricken with a disastrous flood. Sixteen out of her 22 provinces were flooded. Millions of acres were flooded. All of the houses, cattle, and property of the inhabitants was washed away—50,000,000 people were drowned by the merciless flood—50,000,000 were homeless. They are now in want of food and clothing.

"When we came to school, we were busy discussing the fundamental solution to relieve them

'Do Not Disturb' Is New Sign Profs Must Hang On The Doors

No longer will professors be prey to the peddler menace, for President F. D. Farrell has issued a request to faculty members and employees that they refrain during college business hours from transacting personal business with solicitors, agents, peddlers or others.

This action, recommended by the council of deans, resulted from complaints by faculty members, whose work has been interrupted by agents seeking to interest them in life insurance, stocks, bonds and other things.

The president suggested that the faculty member who is visited by an agent during college hours, explain the new policy to him. If the agent persists, a report of the incident is made to the president's office, and the subject will be taken up with the company represented.

FORUM SPEAKER FAMED HERO OF CHINESE FLOOD

ALEXANDER PAUL BELOVED FOR WORK IN ORIENT 20 YEARS AGO

CANADIAN IS ON PROGRAM

Annual World Forum April 12 Will Co-Operate With Manhattan Schools and Churches

Alexander Paul, outstanding missionary statesman, will be a speaker at the annual World Forum which will be held here April 1 to 3. Mr. Paul is distinguished as a missionary worker in the Orient where he began service in 1895. For his work in China twenty years ago in a time of famine and flood he received medals from the Chinese government and large tablets have been erected in his honor by the Chinese people. He is now acting as secretary of the United Christian Missionary society of the Disciples of Christ and has just completed a series of talks to college and university assemblies in Texas and Oklahoma.

Other speakers who will attend the forum are Dr. Campbell, Sterling college, Sterling; John W. Elliot, Philadelphia, head of the social science commission of the Northern Baptist convention; and Ben Spence, an outstanding Canadian journalist.

The probable theme of Dr. Campbell's talk will be religious education. Mr. Elliot will discuss social and racial problems, and Mr. Spence will discuss the Canadian temperance situation.

The churches in Manhattan, both the junior and senior high schools, and the college, will cooperate in the entertainment of the guests and speakers at the Forum. Besides taking part in the meetings here, the speakers will address the congregations of various churches and both the junior and senior high schools.

There will be a meeting in recreation center today at 4 o'clock to appoint executive, publicity, program, arrangements, finance, and personal interviews committees.

from disaster. We raised money and clothes and provided them with their most immediate needs. We went out to ask others for help when we had no lessons.

"Since the news of September 16, the brutal Japanese troops violated our sovereign rights, and invaded our territory, relying without doubt upon her military power. But is her military power so strong as to enable her to trample under foot as so much dirt the Nine Power pact, the Covenant of the League, and the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact? We think not. Only she must have detected that the powers really felt no love at all for righteousness and justice and that they lack sincerity in respect to the observance of international agreements and pacts. Hence her daring plunges into ruthless exploits at the expense of our country. To say that the beliefs and attitudes of the powers will undergo a change upon the successful conclusion of the disarmament conference is only childish rot.

SHOULD GUESTS BE INVITED?

Athletes at Kansas State should find a new way to earn their pin money if Collegians continue to crash gates at parties as they did the Warehouse door Saturday night when the Phi Sig entertained with a party. Official bouncers will be the order of the day, and all those coming to parties without bids will be tossed out on their ears or on any place else they might light. For it's growing to be a problem, and a big one, as to what should and will be done with those habitual crashers of gates.

Fraternities and sororities send bids to guests they wish to be present at parties. If that bid is not issued, the individual is not asked—in other words he is not to come to the social function, despite the fact there is nothing else to do and all his acquaintances are going to the party. Students here of late apparently have the idea that any party demands their presence. Several fraternities have any number of members with that idea, as was evidenced at the Phi Sig party.

It is only because no one does anything when these uninvited guests arrive at a party, that these individuals take heart and make the next party in the same manner as the previous. Usually those men who crash the gates at parties go stag and then of course, spend the evening dancing with the hosts' dates.

The biggest reason most students crash gates is the same reason they drink—so they may tell everybody that will listen what a smart trick they pulled and how clever they are to get away with such actions.

A shove out the door by a big athlete would send these gate crashers along their way, and no doubt serve as an effective method of ridding fraternities and sororities of these collegiate pests.

WOMEN ARE RUDE.

The double standard has ceased to exist. Women enjoy equal privileges with men, and have the same advantages in education, business, and sports. But do they take the knocks and the hardships with equal sportsmanship as their brothers, and do they become forgetful of others?

Here at Kansas State, it is noticeable to a striking degree that the women often forget to treat the men with the same courtesy they expect to be given them as ladies. Men at Kansas State are gallant. They hold doors with a right good will, and it's seldom that a swinging door rushes in a co-ed's face. With the men, it's another story, for the women often allow the doors to swing wide behind them with never a thought for the man, or perhaps another woman, who is following them.

Naturally any man can take care of himself. He won't be injured by a door swinging in his face. But is it the fair thing to do? Courtesy works both ways. Men give it to women as a matter of course. Shouldn't the fair sex be courteous, too? Are they taking advantage of their positions? Do they take everything and give nothing in return?

MAN WHO THRILLED MILLIONS MOURED.

"The highbrows tell me that my writing is not literature, and I retort that literature is too often unintelligible. What is a highbrow? He is a man who has found something more interesting than women. When I get that way, I'll stop writing and take to art."

With this, the late Edgar Wallace, "the most prolific writer of detective stories," answered the charge of his critics. To prove his success, he had only to mention one of his 150 novels, 20 odd plays, including "The Calendar" and "On the Spot," or some of the innumerable feature articles he had written.

Fatherless, motherless, in fact, a wail, Edgar Wallace started his life's journey in London in 1875. He was adopted by a fisherman. In his early years, he found it profitable to sell newspapers outside the London Press club which proved to be his university.

Edgar Wallace "cramped into his life a little of everything." That everything meant a newsboy, soldier, medical officer, war correspondent, editor, reporter, theatrical producer, head of a movie company, dramatic critic, and what have you?

This romantic and democratic person came to Hollywood recently to write for the picture industry. He was to receive the small salary of $2000 a year. He came because he "wanted to travel." Death finished his journey suddenly. Hundreds of messages of regret came pouring in from London in tribute to one who "wrote for Cabinet Ministers and newsboys alike."—Daily Trojan.

The Oklahoma Daily says that a man is winning his way through Yale university washing dogs. The Ohio State Lantern boasts of a man gaining his college career by manufacturing shoes which are used to dress up dead people. During the first three weeks of the International Disarmament Conference at Geneva, speeches given totaled 236,000 words. It takes a lot of wind to blow away cannon smoke.

An election at Purdue was declared void because 130 freshmen cast 182 votes. Could this have been the result of the anti-hoarding campaign?

The Snooper

There's talk drifting about the soda fountains in Aggieville that there's chiselling going on in these parts. Pansy Lutz is chiselling in on Oren Grover for the favors of a certain fair co-ed, and Oren is chiselling right back. And that co-ed hasn't walked a step since school began. Now girls, don't be catty, it isn't either athlete's foot, it's sex appeal.

The star performer of H. Miles Heberer's revue was that shy, retiring, dun-colored curtain that graces the stage in the auditorium. It went temperamental last week end. There was just no telling what that curtain would do next! It came down in coy leaps and bounds, now and then mischievously revealing actors when they weren't, obviously, meant to be revealed. Once it sneaked down behind a Kappa, leaving her standing on the stage quite all alone with nothing to do. It clung to the stage furniture. It billowed coquettishly. Methinks Flo Ziegfeld would be interested in that curtain.

Kansas State is versatile. There's just no getting around it. College men turned, with apparent ease, into Stage Door Johnnies last week end, sans orchids, sans top hats, but the true Stage Door Johnny has other merits. A roving eye—a roving hand—but there, there.

How Kingsley Given coiled his lengthy appendages about a four-year-old size tricycle for the stellar performance of Boom! Boom! is a subject to ponder upon. But perhaps it is a talent left over from childhood. Perhaps when Kingsley was a long little boy of ten he shoved other little boys off their tricycles and cycled merrily about town calling on the little third-grade girls. For surely that wicked flourish of the coat tails, that debonaire pose when on a tricycle was not acquired in a mere four days of practice.

There were balloons and confetti at the Phi Sig party last week end. And a trifle of unsteadiness now and then among the dancers. Confetti is traitorous like that.

Doubtless, wives of Manhattan business and professional men will receive candy and flowers no end, to say nothing of silk hose and approval of the new spring hat bill along about Branding Iron banquet time.

Zeke Sullivan, in two consecutive breaths, admitted he weighed only a paltry 95 pounds when he got out of high school, and referred to the girl students of vet medicine as "cows-medics." Which only proves just how much a higher education can really accomplish.

Student managers of Frivol are keeping an eagle eye on the dollars. A fair representation of each sorority makes up the choruses, because the boy-friend will have to come to get the girlfriend there, and the sisters will have to come to see the sisters perform. And the stag line is to be lured in by rumors of sketchy costumes—of a bit of satin here and a button or two there. If they'd serve refreshments, maybe the faculty members would come, too.

MORE WHAT FOR YOUR MONEY?

By Mary Alice Schnecke.

The Manhattan theater followed out the depression slogan, "More For Your Money" in presenting Boom! Boom! last Friday and Saturday nights. There were 21 acts.

The only note of continuity running through the revue was the Ballyhoo influence. We saw Elmer Zilch and the rest of the family any number of times.

There was a good song and a clever dance here and there, and witty lines in places. H. W. Davis' playlet "Silent Night" was too silent for an unimaginative audience to grasp or perhaps it just did not feel like applauding it.

"The Panic of '93" in which Kingsley Given and Maxine Harding came in riding tricycles and did a Ballyhoo dance was the hit of the revue. Given did some other good things and saved the show single handed.

Boom! Boom! (one boom would have been sufficient) was a review as well as a revue. There were glimpses of Aggie Pop, Ag Orpheum and lots of the talent you have seen Heberer use before.

Religion is an attempt, a noble attempt, to suggest in human terms more-than-human realities.—Christopher Morley.

Think of the thousands of future teachers, studying one summer in Columbia, perhaps, and learning word for word—not with their minds—just what to tell students year after year in antiquated jargon. In Russia, at least, they teach by questions.—Theodore Drieser.

It is a sad commentary on the state of affairs in this country when denizens of the underworld are requested to cooperate with the minions of the law to apprehend kidnappers.—Ohio State Lantern.

We can no longer sneer that Washington is the kept woman of Wall street. Since the Coolidge administration they have been man and wife.—Lincoln Steffens.

It's an iron universe. When the spears go into you, rejoice. The iron gets into your blood that way.—Don Marquis.

It would be a colorless world if every man did not secretly believe himself superior to most everyone else.—Don Marquis.

On Other Hills

Culbertson and Lenz have nothing on Oklahoma Aggie students when it comes to a bridge tourney. The fourth annual bridge session at Oklahoma A. and M. resulted in a win for the Chi Omega's.

The Daily Nebraskan conducted a research amongst some of Nebraska's 2,000 odd women students on the time-worn question as to whether women prefer marriage or a career. And the majority said that a career is preferable to marriage. Method in that madness. At least most of the coeds favored a career as a means of independence and at the same time admitted that woman's greatest happiness is marriage.

Sigma Delta Chi at the University of Florida will edit a special edition of the Suwannee Democrat, a weekly paper published at Live Oak, Fla. The 32-page paper will be divided into three sections devoted to ag features, personality features, and a local news section.

Ohio State coeds are pronouncing a hard verdict for men students at the university. Eight prominent campus women say that men have terrible manners and their dress is only average. Neatness and manners seem to be the biggest kick and the coeds are voting unanimously for improvement.

The Home Ec club at Ohio State is sponsoring an All-Ag banquet and dance and 750 tickets have been issued for the affair.

Suspension, loss of credit, and discontinuance of activities are some of the rigid punishments for cheating placed on University of Colorado students. A big clean-up for wrong-doing at the university should prevent a crime wave.

And right along with that comes the announcement of the resignation of F. W. Cooper as president of the student governing body at Colorado university. He has pronounced the organization as a waste of time and energy. A new proposal for governing the students is also declared futile by Cooper.

Fifteen fraternity badges were found in a pawnshop at Columbus, Ohio, but were recovered by the Fraternity Presidents' Council. Looks like Ohio State men have felt the depression too.

Freshman students "aren't so dumb" at the University of Indiana. Anyhow, fourteen freshmen received straight A grades for last semester courses, while only seven sophomores, seven juniors, and six seniors made the riffle. Five of these freshmen were carrying 16 hours of work. In this case the freshmen merit recognition, at least.

No, a thousand times, no. I hate to see these words. There is fighting between China and Japan. Everywhere in China, Japanese try their best to disturb our public welfare. Many students willingly want to fight. We would rather sacrifice our lives than let our dear country be conquered by others."

BEEBE TO TELL OF DEEP SEA

"Two Miles Down" Provides Material For Lecture Under A. A. U. Auspices.

Diving two miles down into the sea under the protection of a steel ball was an experience which afforded Dr. William Beebe fascinating material for an address which he will give March 18 in the college auditorium under the auspices of the American Association of University Women.

Doctor Beebe's lecture "Two Miles Down" describes his sensations and experiences when he penetrated the ocean to a depth of 1,426 feet. He will tell of his remarkable experiences in the "batysphere" which enabled him to study the ocean to a depth of two miles, and of the marine life he found in the sea.

The lecture will be illustrated by animated cartoons of marine life. No motion picture camera can be operated at that depth.

Fish as thin as paper and as transparent as glass are the leading actors in one of his "fish stories." Fish that carry their own electric lighting plants to illuminate the midnight depths in which they live, and fish with stereoscopic eyes also figure prominently.

Doctor Beebe is extraordinary as a lecturer of scientific subjects. He has a colorful and imaginative way of presenting the facts in simple and understandable language. There is no attempt to be technical, but he expresses his scientific statements in terms which make them unusually interesting to his listeners.

Interesting articles by Dr. Beebe appear in the National Geographic of June, 1931, and January, 1932.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"Arsene Lupin"
This play might well be called the play of the season. Besides having the distinction of being a Barrymore production with two Barrymores starring, the play itself is famous. The show is based on the conflict between Lionel who plays the part of Guerdard, the detective, and John, who plays Arsene Lupin, the crook. From start to finish the story hangs together with its mystery, its humor, and its perfectly legitimate sentiment. See this show and know that you have seen two great actors in a great play which is worthy of the legitimate stage or of being studied by a class in contemporary drama. —N. C.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Unexpected Father"
A comedy that is plenty funny with the screen's drollest persons, Slim Summerville and Zazu Pitts. Slim Summerville finds himself an oil millionaire—and he sets out to enjoy himself in his own homely way. He indulges in five or ten cars, a few dozen valets, and lots of nice luxurious sleeping far into the morning. He even goes in for matrimony, almost. (The nice thing about the play is that it isn't one of those embarrassing pictures of the social blunders of the newly rich. Slim Summerville keeps his sense of humor with him.)

A pretty little East Side wail "unexpectedly" attaches herself to Slim—calls him "Daddy" at the most critical moments. And she stays attached through thick and thin. Zazu Pitts is the baby's nurse and she is her old soulful self.—N. C.

AT THE VARSITY

"Three Wise Girls"
The platinum blond Jean Harlow, plays the part of a poor but virtuous working girl in the story of "Three Wise Girls" at the Varsity. The story is poor. The plot has been overworked in a dozen preceding pictures. The small town will not hold Jean, who is attracted to the big city in search of some of the gold that the other home town girls have found. She immediately falls into a good job, meets the millionaire (he is married as usual, Mae Clarke is the wife), and the story draws slowly to a climax with everything looking rosy for Jean.

The story is brightened up somewhat with a romance between the millionaire's chauffeur and Jean's girl friend, Marie Prevost. The short subjects are excellent. —A. S.

TYPHOID SERUM TO MANY

Inoculation Treatments Given 927 Since Discovery of Cases on The Campus.

Nine hundred twenty-seven students have received or are receiving typhoid inoculation from the college health department according to Dr. C. M. Siever, college physician. The department has given 989 inoculative treatments and new persons are coming every day, 187 having taken the first treatment Saturday.

Seven cases of the fever have been reported in Manhattan. Dr. Siever has treated five of these. Since it is a very unusual time of the year for typhoid and the first two cases reported also had pneumonia, the disease was not expected or even recognized when it first appeared. Doctor Siever stated.

There is one case of mumps and one case of German measles in the hospital now. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity is under inspection for mumps but no new cases have developed there and the members are allowed to attend school.

Ross Wilcox, Dodge City, and W. E. Laird, Burr Oak, were released from the college hospital Saturday having shown negative reactions to four blood tests for typhoid. Wilcox had come to the hospital suffering from inflamed eyes but had developed a high fever and a case of influenza which made the physicians suspect typhoid.

DON'T FRET FOR THE PEACHES

There'll Still Be Plenty For Your Cream, Says Filing.

Although cold weather has killed about 75 per cent of the peach buds in this section, there are still enough live buds to produce a good yield, is the encouraging word of Dr. G. A. Filinger of the department of horticulture. It requires only two per cent of live buds to produce a reasonable yield, Doctor Filinger said.

Temperatures hovering several degrees below zero in the past week were damaging to the buds, which were swelled by the warm weather of late February. Doctor Filinger said that orchards are affected differently because of their locations and their fruit varieties.

Mrs. W. G. Burtis, assistant in the office of Dean Babcock, returned to work Monday morning after a week of illness.

At Western Electric this uncanny piece of apparatus

It forms a vital part of a machine for automatically separating

Phi Sigma Kappa Party Highlight of Week End

Tea Given by Mrs. F. D. Farrell and Events in Honor of Miss Frances Swain Lead Social Functions for Faculty—Many Houses Entertain Dinner Guests, and Phi Phi and Farm House Initiate.

By Dorothy Hadsell.

Gay horns, bright paper hats, floating streamers of serpentine, and quantities of confetti against a background of green and white decorations made the Phi Sigma Kappa party at the Hotel Wareham Saturday night a bright one among the informal parties of the season.

Although the Phi Sig party was outstanding among the student social affairs of the weekend, the tea given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. F. D. Farrell was one of the most important events for faculty members. The wood carving exhibit on the third floor of the engineering building was visited by Mrs. Farrell and her guests.

Did you notice those spring suits at the Varsity the other night? Didn't they look smart? The Varsity clothing store has a complete supply of light gray or brown suits priced from $19 to $25. Half-belts across the backs of many of these suits make them particularly appealing to the college man who likes the newest thing.

If the young man's fancy isn't turning toward knickerbockers and sweaters for spring wear, it soon will be when he sees the knobby flannel plus sizes and the smart sleeveless sweaters that Bell and Lutz are showing. Not the least attractive thing about them is the price—$6.00 for the knickers and $1.50 for the sweaters.

"Choosey" People like the way they TASTE..

IT'S just what you'd expect. People who enjoy the good things of life... are constantly looking for something better to eat and drink... and smoke.

In cigarettes this better taste can come only from finer ingredients. Chesterfields are more satisfying to the cultivated palate. For one thing, there's never any attempt to skimp on Turkish leaf.

These richly flavored Turkish tobaccos are added with a generous hand.

In fact Chesterfield's new way of mingling tobacco flavors and aromas is really the equivalent of an entirely new kind of tobacco... one that combines the best qualities of Turkish and fine Domestic leaf.

Perhaps you've noticed too, that the paper in Chesterfields is whiter... purer. It burns without taste or odor.

Smoke Chesterfields whenever you like... They're mild and pure. They'll never tire you as an over-sweetened cigarette might easily do. Light up and see for yourself. They satisfy!

Listen in... Hear the Chesterfield Radio Program. Nat Shilkret's brilliant orchestra and Alex Gray, popular baritone. Every night, except Sunday... Columbia Broadcasting System... 10:30 E. S. T.

HINCKLEY GOES OVER HURDLES TO BREAK RECORDS

KANSAS STATE MAN BEATS WORLD'S TIME AT M. U.

RHEA HEAVES SHOT FAR

Darnell and Breen Better Varsity Records in 440 and Broad Jump; Hinckley's Time Is Now Unofficial

(By John Underwood)
Living up to all predictions, Nebraska retained its perch on one pinnacle of track supremacy by virtue of its winning the Big Six indoor track meet at Columbia this week end for the second consecutive year.

One world record and three conference marks fell before the onslaught of the track stars. The world record bettered was for the 60-yard high hurdles, when Harry Hinckley, Kansas State, sped over the timbers in the time of seven and six-tenths seconds. This is one tenth of a second faster than the former record held by Hager, Iowa State. The record will be unofficial until passed upon by the Amateur Athletic association. Five watches clocked the time of Hinckley, two held the time at seven and five-tenths seconds while the other three timers caught him at seven and six tenths seconds.

Rhea Also Breaks Record
The other outstanding individual triumph was the setting of a new record for the shot put. Hugh Rhea, the giant from Nebraska, tossed the iron pellet an even 50 feet, 15 inches farther than the record set by James Bausch, Kansas, in 1930. Glen Cunningham of Kansas beat out Lyle Chapman in the mile run and was forced to break the conference record to do so. His time of four minutes, twenty-one and one-tenth seconds, shaved off nine-tenths of a second from the time of Ray Putnam, Iowa State, the former record holder. The Nebraska mile relay team also set a new record of three minutes and 29 seconds.

Kansas university followed Nebraska in the final standing of the teams, with 28 points to Nebraska's 43 and one quarter. After the two leaders came Kansas State, with 23 points. This is the most points Kansas State has ever massed together in a Big Six indoor meet. Oklahoma, Missouri followed and Iowa State trailed with 9 1-4 points.

Wildcat Break Varsity Records
Two K-Aggers established new varsity records while competing at Columbia. Darnell, a sophomore, ran the 440 yard run faster than any other Wildcat entry has ever done, in the preliminaries he was officially clocked at 52 seconds. Breen's leap in the broad jump, 22 feet and three-quarter inches, also set a new varsity mark for indoor competition.

The standing of Kansas State this year is the highest that has ever been attained since 1923, when they placed third in the old Missouri Valley.

The summaries:
60-yard dash (semi-final, first heat)—Won by Kianer, Kansas; Going, Kansas State, second; Pitz, Nebraska third; Lee, Nebraska, fourth. Time, 6 3-10 seconds.

Rifle Team Shoots Against Schools All Over Nation During A Year.

No activity on the campus draws competition from as many schools as does the rifle team. The team this year has challenged and received challenges to meet with more than a hundred schools in all parts of the United States. Most of the teams are under the auspices of the R. O. T. C., although some are sponsored by college athletic departments.

The terms of the contract signed before two teams compete contains several interesting qualifications. The members of the competing team must be in good scholastic standing. Targets used must be approved by the National Rifle association. Firing must be at a distance of fifty feet from the muzzle of rifle to target, and must be witnessed by a commissioned officer of the army on duty at the institution or a member of the faculty.

Positions are as prescribed by the N. R. A.—prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing, with ten shots each, and two sighting shots for each position. There must be absolutely no support for the body other than the natural level floor or ground. The rifle used may be any twenty two calibre, not over ten pounds; any sight not containing glass may be used; the trigger pull must not be less than three pounds, to be determined by the use of the official N. ## MOONMEN TO START OUTDOOR PRACTICES

Only Three Lettermen Back To Form Nucleus of Corsaut's Baseball Team This Year

Outdoor baseball practice will start this week under the tutelage of Coach C. W. Corsaut. Prior to this time on account of bad weather, baseball practice has been held in Nichols gymnasium.

Facing the season with only three lettermen available, Corsaut wishes to size up his new material as soon as possible. With 29 men out and only three veterans returning, a merry battle for positions is expected.

Coach Corsaut said, "I must uncover a pitcher and an entire outfield if Kansas State is to have a team of championship calibre this year." Men who have good chances of making the ball team are: Captain Prentup, Auker, and Carter, lettermen; E. S. Simmes, Leroy; B. H. Bulkstra, Cawker City; Rockwood, Parker; Reed, Chalmers, Scranton; and Fairbanks, Topeka, former squad men; and Skradski, Blaine, El Dorado; Boyd, Phillipsburg; Miller, Watson and Michaels, Lawrence, promising new men.

Kansas State's baseball schedule this year includes ten Big Six games. In addition to the Big Six games, Coach Corsaut intends to schedule games with some Kansas conference schools. Kansas State's Big Six schedule for this year is as follows:

April 15-16—Kansas at Manhattan. April 20-21—Oklahoma at Manhattan.

April 29-30—Missouri at Manhattan. May 6-7—Kansas State at Iowa State.

May 17-18—Kansas State at Lawrence.

MIKE TALKS ABOUT IRISH

History Repeats Itself In Captains;
Nine Basketball Men Attend Honor Dinner Held At Wareham Hotel.

Andy Skradski, two-letter forward from Kansas City, was elected captain of next year's court aggregation at a banquet given by the Kiwanis club at the Wareham hotel Tuesday night in honor of the Kansas State basketball team.

This banquet is an annual event given every year to the Wildcat basketball team of the ensuing season. This year the club combined the basketball program with its St. Patrick's day program. The feature talks of the evening were given by Coach C. W. Corsaut, and Mike Ahearn, head of the athletic department. Corsaut reviewed the results of the past season and introduced each member of his squad. Mike, as he is known to townspeople and students alike, spoke on the history of St. Patrick's day and the significance of St. Patrick's day to the Irish people.

There is a bit of history surrounding Andy's and Ed Skradski's. Andy's brother, basketball player, Ed Skradski was a member of the Wildcat basketball team in 1927, '28, '29 and was captain of the team his last year. He played a forward and during his junior year was one of the leading scorers in the conference. Andy Skradski, next year's captain, has been a regular forward on the Wildcat team for the past two seasons. This year he was the leading scorer on the Kansas State team and sixth leading scorer in the Big Six conference, with a total record for the season of 101 points in 15 games. At the end of the season Skradski was picked on the second honorary Big Six team.

Members of the basketball squad who were present at the banquet were: Captain Elden Auker, F. W. Boyd, Paul Fairbanks, George Wiggins, Lloyd Dalton, Andy Skradski, Stanley Brockway, Emmett Breen, and Ralph Graham. Members of the athletic department present were: Mike Ahearn, Coach C. W. Corsaut, and Frank Root.

Co-eds' Prayer of "Just Another Hour"
Is Heard, Answered

One o'clock is the approved time for Kansas State girls to be in on Friday and Saturday nights, regardless of where they spent the evening, it was decided by Dean Mary P. Van Zile, the house mothers, and the chapter presidents at a meeting to discuss house rules last week. Formerly, the girls had to be in at 12 o'clock unless they went to a 12 o'clock party when they were allowed an hour after the party. It was added that this did not mean one had to stay out until 12.

Dancing on Sunday with men is not approved but can be brought before the Student Governing association for approval. No longer can the excuse of going out of town be used for getting in late on Sunday, for one must arrange to be in by 10:30 o'clock. However, if a girl goes home by herself she may arrive in Manhattan on a late train.

Senior privilege, a date until 11 o'clock accorded to every senior, or an out of town date may be taken on Sunday as well as any other night of the week.

Y. W. C. A. TO MEET
The Y. W. C. A. association meeting will be Monday night at 7:15 o'clock in room 58 in Calvin hall. Miss Ada Rice will speak on "Easter in Paris."

Other numbers on the program will be music by the freshman commission and a play by the dramatics group. Louise Davis, Nashville, Tenn., president of the Y. W. C. A., will be chairman of the program.

HOME ECS SEE PLAY
"Overtones," a play directed by Daphne Smith was the main feature of the home economics club meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in Calvin hall. Members of the play cast were Betty Oment, Mary Alice McCreight, Ruth Johnson, and Elizabeth Lamprecht.

SHORT PERIODS SATURDAY

Because of the Special Engineers' assembly, to be held from 11 to 12 o'clock tomorrow, class periods will be shortened 15 minutes. The periods are as follows:

First hour—8 to 8:45 o'clock.

Second hour—8:45 to 9:30 o'clock.

Third hour—9:30 to 10:15 o'clock.

Fourth hour—10:15 to 11 o'clock.

Assembly—11 to 12 o'clock.

TWO NEW PARKING LOTS WILL BE OPENED SOON

Co-operation of Faculty and Students Asked In Attempt To Solve Parking Problem.

Two new auto parks are now open for the general use of the students, according to a statement issued by President Farrell today. Rigid enforcement of the parking regulations will begin with the opening of the new parking spaces.

One of the parks is northwest of the engineering building and the other north of Waters hall. No permits are required for the use of the parks but cars must be parked in a way which will not interfere with the free movement of other cars.

To accommodate crippled students or others having special need for parking spaces, a few small auto parks have been provided and permits for the exclusive use of these parks have been issued. These have been marked off into stalls and the stalls are assigned to a certain car and can be used only by that car.

Parking on the public driveways will not be permitted except during public exercises and for a short time before and after them, according to President Farrell.

The motor car regulations have been made in the interest of safety, the good appearance of the campus and the welfare of the college community. President Farrell asks for the cooperation of the students and faculty in the enforcement of these regulations.

EASTER BREAKFAST SUNDAY

The annual Easter communion and breakfast will be held at the Congregational church Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. W. A. Jonnard, Episcopal rector, will speak to the group. Amelia Manker is the chairman of the program committee. Mary Shreve has charge of the breakfast, and Shirley Jacobs will supervise the decoration.

COLORADO U. TEAM ON TOUR

Alsop and Chase to Be Communists for Evening—Will Take Negative Side of Standard Pi Kappa Delta Issue

Two of Kansas State debaters are going to turn communistic next Tuesday night when they uphold the negative side of the question that the federal government should enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry. The benefits of such legislation will be discussed by a team of debaters from the University of Colorado. Kansas State college is one stop on a 3,000 mile tour which the Colorado debaters are making.

The Kansas State speakers will be Dallas Alsop of Pittsburg, and Arnold Chase of Abilene. Tuesday's debate will be the only home debate of the season for Kansas State teams.

Members of the Colorado team are Paul F. Gemmill and Charles S. Maddock. Gemmill is a senior in the college of arts and sciences and is majoring in economics preparatory to entering law school. He is participating in his third year of varsity debate and is junior manager of the activity. He is a member of Adelphi, campus debate group, and has been active in university dramatics.

Maddock is also a senior in the college of arts and sciences with a major in economics in preparation for law school. This is his third year of varsity debate and his second year as debate manager. He is president of the senior class, a member of Adelphi, and Delta Sigma Rho, national debate society. He also is a member of the staffs of the campus yearbook and literary magazine. His social fraternity is Beta Theta Pi.

On their tour the Colorado team will meet representatives from Kansas State, Missouri university, Washington university of St. Louis, Tulane university, Louisiana state university, and Texas university. Accompanied by D. Mack Easton, director of debate, they will leave Boulder March 20 and will return April 2.

Chase and Alsop also have had experience in debate and oratory, although this is their first year in varsity competition. Chase won the intersociety oratorical contest in 1930.

WERTZ TRANSFERRED

Captain W. W. Wertz, formerly a member of the Kansas State college military department, has been transferred from the Philippine Islands to Norfolk, Va.

Captain Wertz and his family left Manhattan three years ago. They will sail from Manila on a French liner on April 9. They will visit Asiatic ports, Egypt, Constantinople, and will return to the United States by the way of Europe.

SKETCH WINS AWARD

K. H. Hinchliff, Ar3, Manhattan, was awarded second place in a sketch contest conducted by "Pencil Points," an architectural publication that is national in scope. The sketch, "The Concealed Architect," was printed in the March issue of the magazine.

REED ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

College Representative in Missouri Valley Contest "Practicing Up." Ernest Reed, GS3, Norton, who will represent K. S. C. in the Missouri Valley oratorical contest to be held late this month in St. Louis, gave his oration before the Junction City Rotary club Tuesday noon. His talk urged uniformity of state laws governing marriage, divorce, and other questions. Dr. Howard T. Hill of the public speaking department accompanied Reed to Junction City.

QUILL BOOK OUT SOON

The staff of the Quill club magazine, "The Mirror," is reading proof on the selected material and expects to have the magazine ready for distribution immediately after Easter vacation. "The Mirror" will be a 52 page publication composed of original poems, short stories, and sketches contributed by members of the Kansas State chapter of Quill club.

MOVE COLLEGE DISPENSARY

Will Exchange Offices With Student Pastors If Present Plans Carry Through

The offices of the college health department will be moved into the illustrations building and the student pastors' offices transferred to the present location of the health offices, if plans now contemplated are carried out. The shift will not be made before next summer, Dr. Charles M. Stever, college physician said.

A ground floor location and more isolation has been desired for a long time. It has been inconvenient and a bad arrangement in the past for students with contagious disease to come in contact with other students in Anderson.

Having no outside door has been a handicap because persons have had to be carried up to the offices on stretchers for X-ray and injury treatment. There is a driveway up to the door of the illustrations building and two ground doors at the present time. The building will be redecorated on the inside and partitioned to accommodate the doctor's needs. It is particularly desirable because of its proximity to the college hospital.

In the illustrations building the health department will use eight rooms, and there will be more space available in the basement if the need develops. The six rooms now at their command will not all be needed by the religious offices, and many applications have already been made for the extra space. The illustrations department will continue to occupy the basement floor of their building.

BODIES SOUND, YET MINDS ARE AILING

College Students Handicapped Beneath the Surface, Dr. Will Menninger Declares

"The carefree air of college students is a superficial aspect," Dr. Will Menninger of the Menninger Psychiatry and Neurology clinic in Topeka, stated in his discussion of the subject "Are You Mentally Healthy?" at student forum in the cafeteria Wednesday noon.

In a survey of a hundred average junior and senior college students, it was found, according to Doctor Menninger, that beneath the surface 85 were handicapped because of self-consciousness; 74 had inferiority complexes; while 72 were in friction with their parents. Some sort of problem in love and sex confronted 55 students, religion 14, and vocational indecision, 15.

"All of us are continually faced with some major problem," Doctor Menninger said. "This is not mental health. It is the adjustment of human beings to the world and to each other, with the maximum of effectiveness and happiness."

Every four minutes a patient enters a mental hospital, Doctor Menninger said. There are 50,000 more mental ills than all phases of physical ill health. Last year in Kansas the death rate from the five major contagious diseases did not equal that of suicides.

"At least a partial solution for mental ill health, Doctor Menninger said, "is to try to help people to understand themselves. Life is a struggle between a person and his environment, and ill health comes some place as a result of that struggle."

He suggested an organized plan of recreation. To do a little more than the law requires is what he considers a good policy, as, for example, continuing study after one has finished school.

"The unhappy are always wrong" is a good rule to follow, he concluded. Gladys Hamilton, Wichita, went home Thursday to apply for a position as school teacher.

PARTIES FOR FOODS GIRLS

Students Entertain Classmates At Social Functions.

The Foods I class of Miss Nina Browning, instructor in food economics and nutrition, gave a dinner party in Calvin hall in room 26. Members on the refreshment committee were Helen Brunner, Marie Jesse, and Geneva Johnson. Amelia Croft, Bernita Vice and Helen Neimeier were on the entertainment committee while Ruth Johnson and Lena Crawford were on the decorating committee.

Miss Isabelle Gillum's Foods I class entertained 17 guests at a St. Patrick's party Wednesday night in L. 26. The chief hostess was Grace Wilson. Others assisting were Mayrie Griffith, Virginia Haggart, Frances Moss, Marie Wilson, Geneva White, Hazel Bibermyer, and Helen Alch. The program consisted of musical selections, tap dance numbers and group games.

UP FOR STE. PATRICIA

Five Girls Nominated As Partner For Engineers' St. Pat. at Prom Saturday Night

Candidates for the title of "St. Patricia," Queen of the Engineers, nominated by Kansas State engineers, were announced yesterday. These candidates will be voted upon at the St. Patrick's Day prom, to be held Saturday night at Harrison hall. Selection of Saint Patricia is an innovation in open house activities.

Students in all divisions of the college may attend the prom. Andy Kirk and his Twelve Clouds of Joy will furnish the music.

The candidates are: Adeline Reed, HE3, Iola; Jacquelyn Haskell, Ar2, Garden City; Grace Ahlstrom, HE1, Kansas City, Mo.; Louise Coleman, HE1, Wichita; and Vera Bowersox, Ar4, Great Bend.

Seven candidates for the title of "St. Pat," patron saint of Kansas State engineers, will also be voted upon at the prom. Students in the engineering division annually elect an outstanding engineer to preside at the party, the closing event of the Engineers' Open House, March 19.

Each department of the engineering division will be represented by one candidate. They are: civil engineering, E. M. Newman, CE4, Lawrence; architectural engineering, C. M. Rhoades, ArE4, Newton, chemical engineering, W. N. Tomlinson, CE4, Garfield; electrical engineering, S. R. Mudge, EE4, Salina; mechanical engineering, C. W. Kewley, ME4, Stockton; flour mill engineering, A. R. Hruha, FME4, E. St. Louis, Ill.; agricultural engineering, Ralph C. Hay, AgE4, Parker.

FRIVOL TURNS SOPHISTIC

Easter Theme in Ballroom Setting Evolves From Popcorn, Cider Revel

From a revel in Nichols gymnasium featuring popcorn and cider in 1923, Frivol this year has reached the sophisticated atmosphere of the Wareham ballroom, a blues singer, and three choruses of assorted sizes.

Knicker girls and a flapper chorus chorused entertained at the 1924 Frivol at the gymnasium. Red Devils and a dangerous blues chorus from unknown regions, along with lollipops and balloons were features in 1927. In 1929, Frivol developed into a cabaret fiesta with a beauteous chorus of tall girls.

This year Frivol will carry out the Easter motif since the date is set for the night before the beginning of Easter vacation, March 23. A chorus, made up of small girls, will be costumed to represent Easter eggs. Charlotte Remick dressed as an Easter rabbit will accompany this chorus.

The second chorus will have short boleros and long black skirts over ruffled trunks. Ernestine Merritt will sing while this chorus dances. The third chorus, being made up of tall girls, will wear long organdie frocks and picturesque hats.

Frivol is an annual affair sponsored by the Women's Athletic association. Charlotte Remick, Manhattan, is directing the chorus. Eleanor Wright, Concordia, director of Frivol, has designed the costumes.

BAPTIST GROUP MEETS

Theta Epsilon of the Roger Williams movement met at the home of Mildred Rathbun. The main feature of the evening program was a talk on "The Living Vine" by "Doc" Holtz. The next meeting will be a pot luck supper to be held at Long's park.

Alvernon Bull, Marysville, returned to school Monday after spending several days at her home where she was called due to the serious illness of her mother.

BETAS, KAPPAS CAPTURE CUPS IN GREEK MUSICALS

NINE ORGANIZATIONS ENTER IN THIRD ANNUAL SONG EVENT

SONGS—NOVELTIES AMUSE

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Fraternity Stunt Goes Over Big; Kappa Voices Blended Well in Chapter Song

Beta Theta Pi fraternity and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority won the two first place cups in the third annual Inter-Fraternity sing last night in the college auditorium. The event was sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha, men's national honorary musical organization.

The Betas are the first contestants to win the fraternity cup twice, as they won the Greek song fest last year. This is the first time the Kappas have taken the sorority trophy, the Alpha Xi Delta winning last year.

Contest Song Counts Most
Judges were K. W. Given of the public speaking department, Miss Helen Elcock of the English department, and Lyle Downey, music department. Each entrant was graded twenty-five per cent on the musical stunt and seventy-five per cent on the contest song. The performance was broadcast over the college station. A twenty-five piece orchestra played before the sing and between acts.

The six fraternities which entered were Beta Theta Pi, Phi Sigma Kappa, Lambda Chi Alpha, Theta Xi, Farm House, and Phi Lambda Theta. The three sororities competing were Alpha Xi Delta, Kappa Delta, and Kappa Kappa Gamma. Alpha Xi Delta presented "Rushing" as its musical stunt and gave "Evening Song" as the contest song. Johnnie Moore was director.

Kappa Delta featured pledges doing house duties in a song and dance act with "Pals" at the climax. "The Words A. O. T." was the contest song. Louise Scheu directed the act.

Kappa Kappa Gamma used "sitting in the Movies" as its musical novelty. "Not Thy Key, O Kappa," was the contest song. The group was drilled by Margaret Chaney.

Beta Theta Phi had as its stunt a parody on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and used "The Beta Marseilles" for its contest number under the direction of J. R. Gossett.

Improvisation and a men's quartet were the feature of the Phi Sigma Kappa stunt, conducted by Eldon Kridler. They sang "Phi Sigma Sweetheart" for the contest number.

Lambda Chi Alpha presented "Lies," played by a brass trio. The contest song was "Gathering of the Clan." Charles Powell was director. Theta Xi gave an imitation radio broadcast entitled "Ballyhoo." "The Sweetheart of Theta Xi" was the contest song. Willard Hemker was student manager.

"Burglar's Dilemma," directed by Glenn Fox was the stunt presented by the Farm House. The contest song was "Farm House Sweetheart." Phi Lambda Theta's stunt "Memories featured "Fraternity Days." The "World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" was the contest number. Meril Burgin directed the stunt.

OVEN CHINA, CLEAR GLASS IS DISPLAYED

Decorated Ware in Lower Calvin Shows Innovations in Table And Kitchen Ware

An exhibit of oven china is on display on the lower floor of Calvin hall. The examples are ware that can stand heat and the unusualness of decorated china for use as measuring cups, custard dishes and baking dishes is marked.

Lovely, clear pieces of amber glass ware is on exhibition. The complete set consists of goblets, ice tea glass, water glass, nut cup, parfait, fruit juice, sherbert, and oyster glasses, and a center bowl with candlesticks.

A late model in chilling cocktail and fruit juices is shown which consists of a small glass bowl into which the cocktail, fruit juice or oyster glass may fit, yet allowing room for the cracked ice to be placed.

4-H CLUB ON RADIO
Members of the 4-H club house will have charge of the 4-H radio program which will be broadcast from KSAC Tuesday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock. Ellen Blair, Williamsburg, has charge of the program.

ENGINEERS' ASSEMBLY

A special engineers' assembly will be held Saturday morning, at 11 o'clock, in connection with the twelfth annual Engineers' Open House. A demonstration of an electrobot, a mechanical iron man, will feature the program. S. A. Long, president of the Long Electric company, Wichita, will be the speaker. Special organ music will be given by Prof. Ralph Nielson, chemistry department.

MURRAY ATTACKS TAXES, BUREAUCRACY IN TALK

Democratic Aspirant for Presidency Discusses Ills of Government Before Packed House

Governor W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray last night told an audience composed of college students and instructors, professors, farmers, and bankers in the high school auditorium that bureaucratic government and high taxes are the two evils confronting the United States today. Governor Murray, who says he is conducting a crusade and not a campaign for the Democratic nomination for president, spoke under the auspices of the Young People's Democratic club of Kansas State and Manhattan. An estimated crowd of 2,000 heard him speak.

The governor believes the national government is taking too great an interest in the speculators and not enough in the little man. He condemns corporation farming, and sees no reason why any man seeking the presidential nomination of the United States should take a stand on the prohibition question, since it is beyond their power to repeal it. That power rests in the hands of Congress and the people, he says.

Governor Murray walked on the stage smoking a black cigar, and wearing a fringed muffler to protect his throat. The governor has been in ill health since he started his speaking tour of Kansas late last week. He is a man of slight build, small and sensitive hands, and his drooping mustache and hair are grey. From a distance he gives the impression of being older than he does when confronted.

The governor says we will have to unite to solve our economic problems. He declared he was in the presidential race because he feels the people ought to be told some of the things that haven't been told them before. He is attempting to tell them, and does it in a forceful manner which captivates the audience. By appealing to the farmer with his "back to the soil argument," the governor apparently is attempting to win followers for his presidential race, which he says is to be "some race."

COLONEL TO REVIEW
R. O. T. C. IN APRIL

Date Set For Annual Inspection And Parade of College Militarists of Training Unit

Cadets of the college R. O. T. C. unit will parade in military array Monday afternoon, April 25, before Col. T. S. Moorman of the Reserve Officers' Training corps at Omaha, Neb., inspection officer.

The annual review always attracts many spectators who enjoy watching the military precision of the drills and maneuvers.

For many years the Kansas State unit has received a high rating in these inspections, and an unusually good performance may be expected this year as there are being offered for the first time awards of excellence in various departments, based upon records obtained during the entire year.

To the captain of the best drilled organization a saber will be awarded. A saber also will be presented to the lieutenant who has the best drilled platoon. Two gold medals will be awarded to the two best drilled basic students, one in the artillery and one in the infantry. Silver medals are offered for the best drilled freshman in each organization.

During inspection, Colonel Moorman will be assisted by Major H. L. King, Topeka, and Major John W. Miner, Fort Riley.

WELCOME PUBLIC TO ENGINEERING
FETE BY SALUTE

FLOODLIGHT GLARE AND CANON ROAR WILL ADD GLAMOUR TO CAMPUS.

OPEN TONIGHT—SATURDAY

Twelfth Annual Event Has Most Complete Display In Its History For 5,000 Expected Visitors.

Doors of Open House will swing open tonight at seven o'clock as the last of a twelve-shot salute marks the beginning of the twelfth annual celebration of the engineering division. The campus will be illuminated by a system of floodlights centered on the various buildings as a special feature for the enjoyment and convenience of the 5,000 visitors expected.

Every department in the engineering division will be represented by some display or exhibition. Visitors at the open house will see the latest in modern engineering education, and the progress of time will be revealed by each individual attraction.

Tonight and Saturday Afternoon.
Tonight, from 7 o'clock to 10 o'clock, the doors of the engineering building will be open and exhibits of the various departments will be shown. Visitors will start at the main entrance of the engineering building, and follow the arrows, which will show directions and routing of the open house.

Open House will be held Saturday from 1 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Exhibits will be shown in the engineering building, shops, power plant, flour-mill, chemistry annex No. 2, and Denison hall.

Exhibits Are Typical of Studies.
The exhibits of the electrical engineering department will demonstrate the latest in television, radio, and telephone. Other displays by this department will give the visitors a general idea of the electrical field, besides furnishing many novelties and smaller attractions.

The civil engineering department will demonstrate the types and construction of highway surfaces, railroads and bridges. The main feature of the civil engineering display will be the electrobot, a radio controlled man which will be shown at the engineers' assembly Saturday morning.

An ethyl gas display, and an exhibition of the oldest combine in Kansas will be the main features of the agricultural engineering display. A $30,000 machinery exhibit will also be shown by that department.

The exhibitions by the department of architecture include small scale models of farms, exhibits of freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior design problems, an automatic water pump, etchings, wood specimens, and free hand work. The proposed campaign tower for Kansas State college will also be shown by the architectural department.

Military Department Assisting.
The military department will sponsor the firing of the 3-inch anti-aircraft gun at the opening of open house tonight, and also direct the searchlights which will light the campus. Guns, automatic rifles, and pistols, and grenades, rifle grenades, telescopes, range finders, powder samples, and guidons will be shown.

ALPHA KAPPA LAMBDA
HIGH IN SCHOLARSHIP

Wins Achievement Award in Competition With Other Chapters.

The Kansas State chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda has received the first formal award of the fraternity's achievement trophy for the chapter's activities during the year of 1930-31. Temporary possession of the trophy goes to the chapter which each year has the highest composite score based on its record in organized Christian work, scholarship, campus activities, fraternity activities, and self support. The award was given to the fraternity by the Los Angeles Alumni chapter of Alpha Kappa Lambda.

Alpha Kappa Lambda received word through President Farrell's office last week that national Alpha Kappa Lambda had the highest scholarship record of any national social fraternity last year.

WHAT ABOUT ELECTIONS?

The Student Council is unusually silent about spring class elections. Heretofore, spring class officers have been elected and forgotten at this time of the spring semester.

Can it be that their inactivity on class elections is because of the sentiment about the campus that class elections serve no useful purpose? Well, that may be the answer. There is no group of officers on the campus which are more empty in purpose and accomplish less than class officers.

The Collegian feels safe in venturing that out of the four sets of class officers for the fall semester, not one of those groups held a formal meeting.

There is no reason to hold class meetings. There is no class spirit, no class activities, and no need for class organizations with conditions existing as they now are.

Surely no student or group of students could want to hold class elections in the face of such circumstances. It would automatically brand them as being selfish, glory-grabbers... just a few more Babbitts in search of laurels and offices to list under their photo in the year-book.

RIDE A HOBBY.

At student forum this week, Dr. W. C. Menninger of Topeka gave one of his rules for mental health the adoption of an avocation or side interest to which a person could turn in case his profession proved inadequate. Doctor Menninger stated that many a person had been saved from maladjustment and mental anguish by a hobby or minor interest.

How, asks the college student, is a person to develop a side interest in college? With his 18 hours a semester the engineer has no time or energy left for reading or hobbies. The home economics women have their time filled with labs and library references. Where can they have time or opportunity for the development of a taste for music, literature, or outdoor sports? The general science and agricultural students are no better off, for their courses are more or less prescribed for them and electives and options are in inelastic groups.

In college, if ever, a person must develop his interests. Is it education as a system which is wrong? Is Kansas State college too technical and too specialized? Or is it the fault of the student?

To a certain extent all three of the questions are significant. But Doctor Menninger is right and it should be the aim of a college to give its students time and opportunity to find other interests which he can enjoy. There's more to life than engineering, home economics, agricultural, or teaching. The best engineer needs beauty and relaxation, and the most efficient home economist and agriculturalist will not be satisfied with work all the time. A major interest plus side interests will make a well rounded person.

TRIMMING THE BUDGET.

Governor Harry H. Woodring recently proposed to trim about two million dollars from the state appropriations budget as proposed by the legislature. That is, he is going to save the tax-payers two million dollars if the legislature says he may.

The five state schools are slated to have $600,000 trimmed from their expenditures. Kansas State would perhaps get about $100,000 of that out. Just what departments or items will suffer is hard to determine.

Perhaps it will put a nick in faculty salaries. A fifteen percent reduction in salaries would shave off about $20,000... and that is one-fifth of the cut.

Or perhaps all this talk of "economy measures" is just politics. Woodring is up for reelection this fall, y'know.

THIS MENTAL UNEMPLOYMENT.

Much has been said in the past few months in regard to unemployment and much has been said about the unemployment of the future. It has been laid to every possible cause and every possible cure has been tried but the situation still persists. Just at the present time there is another existing state of affairs no less deplorable and even less excusable. The present unemployment of most of the mental processes of the average people is to be deplored.

The "golden age of reason" seems to be definitely a peak in the history of civilization and there are no indications that there will soon be another of a like nature. In that olden day when intellect ruled supreme and when the prime purpose of living was to better the mind, the store of knowledge of the world was added to as it has never been since. In that old day there were no quibblings over prohibition, over depression, over politics, or over the thousand and one petty affairs that fill so much of modern life. But material minds soon entered the lists and reason was dethroned for the almighty dollar.

From that day to this the almighty dollar has reigned as king. The greatest man is the man with the most money. The intellectual minds of the world, those few brave souls who dare to scoff at gold, are regarded as just a little "off." Professors are popularly supposed to be continually absent minded. Authors are always regarded as peculiar. Artists in any field are supposed to have the quality—temperament. But the world worships only winners, not thinkers.

Universities were first imbued with the ideals of a search for knowledge. They have since degenerated into a place where knowledge is traded about. No longer do the ideas of research cling about the university. No longer do people attend university solely for improving the mind. There are large numbers that come because it is the "correct" thing to do. The search for knowledge is not carried out as it should be. Cultural and intellectual achievements are not looked for. Materialistic pleasures are the rage. Mental unemployment holds students in its grip.

A college graduate is supposed to be possessed of a certain amount of knowledge and culture. He is at least supposed to be outfitted with a correct thinking apparatus which will work. Many of the people who leave college are denied even that, but most of them have at least learned to use their brains. They are, however, allowed to rust and stagnate. The search for knowledge is lost and hidden by the search for dollars. Mental unemployment is an even worse state of affairs than physical unemployment. Fortunate indeed are those whose thinking powers are at work. Their satisfaction must be more nearly complete than that of any Croesus.—The Daily Nebraskan.

HIS MEMORIAL A TRIBUTE.

The bequest of the late George N. Lockhart to Kansas State college ought to create a thrill of pride — humble pride — in every student and alumnus of the college because he has been a small part of an institution that has won the esteem of a man like George A. Lockhart, a man of quiet ways, not a college man, but one whose interest has been altogether impersonal.

The bequest of 1,500 acres of land valued at approximately $30,000 came as a surprise to the people of Eskridge, the home of the Lockhart family, according to the Eskridge Independent. None of Mr. Lockhart's intimate friends knew he held any particular interest in the college, he did not attend school here, and never mentioned the college to anyone so far as is known; according to the Independent.

Kansas State may well be proud of the George N. Lockhart gift, for it is a recognition accorded it as an educational institution that is fulfilling its purpose to serve the citizens of this state and nation.

OKLAHOMA TURNS SISSY.

Oklahoma University has banished slang. Use of it in classes is to be reported by faculty members, and those students who are so inerrudite as to employ it may not receive their diplomas.

What a blow that will be! No longer can the girl friend be greeted with a "Hello Baby," nor can compacts be sealed with an "O. K." Instead, it will have to be "Good Morning, Miss Jones," and "I'd Be Delighted, Percy." Conversations will have to be carried on in whispers, lest by some slip of the tongue the speaker be betrayed to the school OGPU.

The decree will have a most deplorable effect upon the Sooner morale. Freedom of speech will be completely curtailed. Speech of any kind will be almost impossible. Whole collegiate vocabularies will have to be remodeled. Ruggedness and energy will give way to a spirit of effeminate decadence.

Banning of slang may be another "noble experiment," but Oklahoma has evidently forgotten something which it's hazardous to forget in that state these days. Imagine what Bill Murray will say when he hears of this. And, worse luck, the university won't be able to take away his diploma for saying it. Fawcett that, Oklahoma.—The University Daily Kansan.

The Snooper

At last that all-important question of whether Pansy Lutz was chiseling on Orrin Grover or vice versa has been answered. The balloting held in the Palace Drug store Wednesday revealed a startling majority for the Grover lad. In fact Iron Man's victory was so colossal that we think there must have been something screwy about the election.

The results were: Iron Man Grover 5,231; Pansy Lutz 2. Efforts were made early Thursday morning to locate sponsors of the election, but without avail. Indications are that the whole thing was determined by the flip of a coin. Iron Man has a scheme whereby the sponsors will come in for a little publicity. It's something concerning nominations for oblivion.

Joe Menzie watched diligently for the last flake of snow to disappear, and immediately upon its departure he raced to the golf course. To Golfer Menzie's consternation the ground was still muddy. Anyway the snow was gone.

We wonder if we're the only ones who have noticed the quietness of after-dance haunts since Murt Makins left town.

In an effort to shrink the bulging chests of two boosters, Chet Freeman and Jim Richards, we reveal the outcome of their entrance in the popularity contest. Chet had 13 votes and Jim could muster only 12. Each ballot preferring one of these two candidates was heralded by cheers of encouragement by those counting.

Electric refrigerator dealers have gone a-gunning for Kelley Slaughter in a big way. Since that ambitious youth has started to build up an ice route to keep him busy during the summer months, no less than five Manhattan housewives have switched back to the old-fashioned ice box. That boy's salesmanship and personality can't be denied.

Kansas State saw the Irish have their day yesterday. Many persons whose ancestry harks back to old Erin commemorated St. Patrick's snake-chasing activities by flashing green attire. Sweetheart Louise Coleman and Roberta Downie were complete in their loyalty to the Irish patron saint. From berets to pumps their garments were of green. Hal McCord pinned a shamrock to his coat lapel and began looking for a fight. Zeke Sullivan borrowed a green shirt and he, too, remained true to his nationality.

WORLD FORUM GROUPS ARE READY FOR ACTION

Seven Students Who Ate at Some Boarding House Contracted Fever From Her

A cook in a boarding house has unconsciously been the germ carrier who has caused seven Kansas State students to contract typhoid fever, Dr. J. R. Mathews, county health officer, has announced. The name of the woman and the eating house at which she has been employed were withheld. Doctor Mathews said that she would undergo treatment and would not return to her work until she is no longer a carrier of the disease.

The source of the fever germ was definitely located by laboratory tests after it was learned that all of the seven afflicted with the disease had eaten at the same place, and that all of the cases dated since February 1.

The five patients in the college hospital are reported to be getting along nicely and will probably be released next week. Two of the students were taken to their homes when it was learned they were suffering from the fever.

ANIMATED CARTOONS OF SEA LIFE IN TALK

Dr. William Beebe's Lecture Friday (Night is Entertaining, Not Technical.

In his illustrated lecture, "Two Miles Down," in the college auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock, Dr. William Beebe, explorer, scientist, and lecturer, will reveal all that is glamorous and mystic about life near the ocean floor.

Doctor Beebe will arrive in Manhattan at noon from Denver where he has completed a lecture engagement. Denver newspapers have praised his work highly.

After having made world wide travels studying bird, insect and animal life, Doctor Beebe, a director of the Tropical Research of New York Zoological society, searched the waters of the Sargasso sea, Atlantic and Pacific oceans to find some of the most unusual specimens of the sea. In a bathysphere, a large steel and quartz ball, Doctor Beebe sank more than 10,000 feet to observe ocean life by using a powerful spot to penetrate the depth which the sun never reaches.

Some of the photographs he made will illustrate his lecture. Doctor Beebe's lecture is of popular nature with scientific importance. The "carcharodon carcharias" and the "chilomycterus geometricus" of books are the sharks and swell fish of Doctor Beebe's talk. Fish with lamps, some with whisker-like growths, others of grotesque forms, some with spines or streaming tails, Doctor Beebe has seen and will describe.

The lecture is sponsored by the American Association of University Women. Tickets may be obtained from any member of the organization. Prices are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Marlen Pew Tells It In Editor and Publisher

"Once upon a time a nickel nurse sent his kid to borrow the neighbor's paper and the kid upset a hive of bees and soon was covered with lumps. His father ran to help him and caught his chin on a clothes line and sprained his back, fell and broke a $25 watch. The clothes pole fell over the car and smashed the windshield, and mother, rushing out to see what occasioned all the excitement, upset a five gallon churn of cream into a basket of kittens, drowning all of them. The electric flatiron burned through the ironing board, setting fire to the house, and firemen broke all the windows and chopped a hole in the roof. The baby ate a jar of pickles and got cholera morbus and the doctor's bill was $15. The daughter ran away with the hired man during the excitement, the dog bit a neighbor's kid and the calves ate the tails off four night shirts on the clothes line. . ."

NEW NOTES in the college girls' spring song are the daintiest, scantiest sandals and meshed pumps I've ever seen and they're to be found at Nygren's! Sea sand is the new spring tone in a sandal with a laticed toe—very light and perfect for dancing. A new walking oxford—for campus wear—is the kid and meshed linen shoe in the sea sand tone. A SUIT IN the window that was everything that a suit should be this season—slim fitted skirt lines, short little jacket that stopped at the waist line and hugged that line closely—was what took me to the Aggieville Hat and Frock Shop first. A rumor that had strayed about a new shipment of frocks just in from market was what brought the crowd that I found inside. So ready a sale did the new dresses find that another trip to market was made just two days later and those dresses are waiting for the sure approval co-eds will give them.

FAIR WEATHER SENDS DIAMOND DRILL OUTSIDE

BASEBALL TEAM IS WORKING OUT DAILY IN CITY PARK

FUNDAMENTALS STRESSED

Nearly All Positions On The Nine
Are Open For Competition—
Hitters Are Being Developed

Baseball workouts have left the confinement of the gym and are now being held in the city park. The advent of better weather has acted as a dynamo upon the morale of the 50 men now out for the team. Everyone has the old hustle and there are several new men who, if they live up to their pre-season promise, are going to make the veterans work to keep them decorating the bench.

The practice sessions held this week have been employed primarily for the purpose of stressing fundamentals. The art of "laying them down," or bunting, has had much attention, and some of the boys are now dumping the ball down the baseline like major leaguers. Sliding has also had its time. Everyone out has hit the dirt many times, and while their style is not the best, they all have lost the fear of throwing themselves on the ground.

Outfielders Getting Workouts
There have been outfield practices each day, with the aspirants for these berths dragging them down by the hour. Some of the men show early promise of developing into real ball hawks. An outfielder never yet has made a baseball team on his ability to field, and his hitting must be heavy for a man to stand much of a chance.

Because of the wet grounds the infielders have not been in the spotlight. In the warm-ups and pepper games held daily several of the boys looked like they were seasoned hands.

Most of the time the past few days has been devoted to batting practice, with Boyd, Oberhelm, Michaels, Blaine, Reed and Lacy all hitting the ball hard. With the exception of Blaine and Boyd these men are prospective outfielders, and they must hit to fill the gap in the punch of the club left by the graduation of Nigro, Price, and Fiser, the garden tenders of last year.

Auker and Prentup Outstanding
There is little telling just how the club will first take the field. "There are only two men that are sure of making the team," said Coach Charley Corsaut, "and they are Auker and Captain Prentup." Auker, a pitcher, will be remembered as holding shutout victories over every college in the Big Six. Frankie Prentup is one of the hardest hitting infielders to represent Kansas State. The realization that virtually every position is open has all the squad trying their hardest for a place.

Among the most promising of the material that have been looked over are: pitchers, B. H. Bulkstra, who beat St. Marys last year and they had one of the best teams in the state; Earl Sims, who will make a good man if he gets confidence in his ability; and Mack Lowell, a steady left-hander, who has a nice delivery, and strangely, for a southpaw, had good control; catchers, Red Blaine, who has been mentioned as hitting the ball hard, and that is about all judgment can be passed upon; Harry Miller, who was to be a catcher, lost a finger in an accident the other day and he may be turned into an outfielder; infielders, M. L. Carter, one of the three letter men back this year who will probably again hold down second base; Andy Skradski, who will be out for third base, and many think he is slated to take over that side of the infield.

The season is still several weeks away and any number of developments may arise before the club is actually in the saddle. The boys mentioned above are just the ones that have been observed up to date, there may be and most likely are others worthy of note that because of the short time have not come to attention.

SETS RIFLE MARK FOR YEAR

Captain Neimoller Fires 381 Out of 400 Points for Season's High.
A. B. Neimoller, captain of the Kansas State rifle team has set a high record in the indoor rifle team firing for this year. His score of 381 points out of a possible 400 approaches the highest previous score of the school.

The Kansas State rifle team took sixth place in the match ending on March 12. There were 15 schools in the match. The schools and scores of the competing schools: University of Michigan, 3637; New Mexico military institution, 3441; University of Missouri, 3610; State College of Washington, 3810; De Pauw university, 3537; University of Nevada, 3422; University of California at Los Angeles, 3737; University of Tennessee, 3689; University of Akron, 1760; New Mexico college of A. and M., no score; University of Kansas, 3452; Kansas State, 3608.

ATHLETES TO EMPORIA

Seven Members of Women's Athletic Department to Participate in "Play Day" Games

Kansas State will be represented by seven students and four instructors from the women's physical education department in the fourth annual "Play Day" at Emporia tomorrow.

The students going are: Galvesta Siever, Manhattan; Emily McKenzie, Plainville; Lois Rosencrans, Manhattan; Lucille Nelson, Jamestown; Cora Oliphant, Offerle; Betty Wagstaff, Topeka; and Esther Hobson, Atchison. The four instructors are: Bernice Patterson, Lorraine Mayumt, Katherine Geyer, and Helen Saum.

Students from Emporia Teachers college, College of Emporia, Washburn, and Kansas State will participate in the various games and races. The athletic department of the Emporia Teachers college is sponsor of the program.

Sport Briefs

Hugh Rhea, the husky giant from Nebraska, knocked Jim Bausch's record for the shot put in the head by tossing the iron ball some 50 feet. Pete Bausch will have to go some if he brings the Bausch family back into prominence before his college career comes to an end.

Every enthusiast at K. U. seems to have something to entertain him in his own individual sport. The school down the Kaw boasts of the game with Notre Dame next fall for its football fans; the Kansas Relays for the track followers and tennis stars could not be left in the rear so Junior Coen secured an exhibition by Bill Tilden and his foreign stars to appear in Lawrence. It is wondered what the followers of bridge will do now.

Last Monday Bo McMillin had his football men out for the second time this spring. As close as the Collegian reporter could get, the squad members looked like a bunch of cub bears just out of winter encampment. McMillin promises to have the yearlings awakened by the end of the next 19 practices.

About four teams appeared in suit last night for football. The kind of suits have not been mentioned, but some wore big wide shoes that did not fit and others had on trousers that were made to fit the big fat man in the circus.

Coach Corsaut is working his ball players out of doors now. If good weather had not come when it did all of the prospects would have been dead from sliding on the hard floor in the gymnasium.

Bo McMillin explained to his players the other day that there would be only 13 nights of practice before the first game next fall. If the first game could just be on Friday instead of Saturday, Wichita U. would be more sure to go down to defeat.

Ward Haylett seemed well pleased with the showing of his track team at Missouri. Some day Kansas State is going to win a meet of that sort if Coach Haylett has to make track men out of football linemen.

Mike Ahearn wishes to stay at Kansas State until Coach Patterson wins a wrestling tourney from Oklahoma. Mike might feel funny next year if the K-Aggie grapplers would take the Sooners for a cleaning.

If every year or so one tenth of a second could be shaved from the time of the sixty-yard high hurdles, after a while the timer would not have to shoot his gun. It would be too late, the Hinkley of that day would already have broken the tape.

When Harry Hinkley returned from Missouri with a word's record for a hat, he seemed more like a child than a hero. Upon entering the house he remarked, "Hello, kid."

M. E. Moggie, BS '29, MS '31, has accepted a position of principal at the Randolph rural high school at Randolph, Kan., for next year. He is a graduate assistant in the education department at the present time.

GRIDSTERS SWING INTO SPRING WORK WITH VIM

McMillin Putting in Heavy Licks To Make Up For Short Fall Practice.

Spring practice on the gridiron got into full swing Wednesday night with a short scrimmage. Bo McMillin put his yearlings through the first scrimmage in great style and it looked as though many of the boys would develop into first string material by the end of this spring session.

Coach McMillin is allowed only four weeks of practice this spring and consequently has to use every available moment in order to have his men in shape to start the fall season in September. There will be only 13 practice sessions next fall before the first game with Wichita university on Saturday, September 24.

Four teams of recruits are reporting for practice and Coach McMillin has great hopes of strengthening his team in the spots vacated by this year's seniors.

Several lettermen are reporting for practice in order to help with the coaching and also to learn a few more of the fundamentals and technicalities of the game. Captain Walter Zeckser, Alma, and Ralph Graham, El Dorado, are each showing their old form and seem to be learning their respective jobs more thoroughly.

Coach McMillin explained to his men that spring practice was for the men's own benefit and not a mere occurrence. He said, "I know this practice is not the easiest thing in the world but if we expect to have a winning team next fall, everyone has to do his best in the limited time given this spring."

Lettermen who are not reporting for practice are all out for some other sport.

ORCHESTRIS LOOKS TO ITS SPRING RECITAL

Six Girls Pass First Tests For Membership In Honorary Danc-ing Organization.

Practice for the dance recital, to be given May 6 in the women's gymnasium by Orchesis, honorary dancing organization, will be substituted for regular meetings of the group after March 22. An invitation recital is planned in place of the dance and drama presented last year.

The program will be entirely by members of the organization and will include solo and group interpretative dances and a dance-playset. Carlos Moore, president, has said.

In the second semester tryouts for membership held March 15, eight girls passed the primary tests. At the next meeting they will each give a dramatic and a comic dance as the secondary tests. Those trying for membership are Verna Anderson, Topeka; Ella Fouts, McPherson; Bertha White, Jewell; Mildred Sands, Wichita; Margaret Seaton, Fredonia; Ardis Stewart, Eskridge; Leora Light, Liberal; Dorothy Tyler, Fairview.

FICTION, NOT FACT IS MAGAZINE NEED

Journalists Hear About Magazine Writing From Nelson Crawford, Who Knows.

"Fact alone does not make good fiction," stated Nelson Antrim Crawford, editor-in-chief of the Household Magazine, in "A View of Magazine Writing," Thursday afternoon to journalism students.

It is only a writer's flair for putting it down that makes a good story from the true facts; fiction is but the illusions of life.

The Saturday Evening Post receives, 70,000 manuscripts a year and uses but 900 of them, he estimated. The Household Magazine uses 160 of the 17,000 received—less than one per cent.

Writers criticize magazines for not accepting new authors. This is unjust, he said, for the Saturday Evening Post introduced 70 new authors for the first time last year to its readers. By dint of experience, it happens that the old writers are often the better writers.

Periodicals are accused of not reading manuscripts. Not all of a manuscript needs to be read, Crawford explained, for if it is poor material, its worthlessness will show up in the first paragraph. He quoted the late Edward Bok as saying, "You don't have to eat all of an egg to know that it's bad."

About 80 per cent of manuscripts sent to a magazine have nothing to say, Mr. Crawford thinks. Good literature is often unintelligible to the average periodical reader, which created a problem in choosing material for publication. New approaches to the age-old and time-worn dramatic situations are sought by the editors, in stories that will interest and be understood by the average reader. "If there is one article or story in a whole magazine that pleases every reader, it is successful," stated the Topeka editor.

TESTING SILVER TONGUES

Five Freshmen Participate in First Collegiate Debates Over Coming Week End.

Kansas State debaters will participate in two practice debates this week on the question of centralized control of industry.

Leslie King, Wichita, Donald Anderson, Chanute and Marian Childs, Hoisington, will uphold the negative side of the question with representatives from Central College in Missouri discussing the affirmative this afternoon at 3 o'clock in G56.

Sunday afternoon Kansas State will again uphold the negative against Teachers College at Marysville, Mo., with Edwin Puetze, Manhattan; and Corabelle Totin, Manhattan, who is a junior. These students are all freshmen and it is their first participation in a college debate.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"Fireman Save My Child"
Joe E. Brown, the cocky old wise guy, plays at being a Big League pitcher they dragged in from the home town. Joe is at heart a fireman. He is quite an artist at fires. About the best time he ever had was once back in Rosedale when the pickle and sauerkraut factory burned down. He temporarily forsakes the Big League baseball game in a pinch because the boob has a chance to talk a fire extinguisher company into using his new patented bomb. And talk he does—as you've never heard anyone talk before. Joe is his own sweet, cocky self, cocky and getting cockier. S' help him.—N. C.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Michael and Mary"
The scene of "Michael and Mary" was laid in London in 1899, so they tell us. If it were filmed then it probably would have gone over big. But a full-fledged, old-fashioned "mellerdrummer" in 1931!

The blond and helpless Edna Best as Mary is deserted by her villainous husband and turned out into the cold world by the hard-hearted landlord. Rescued by Michael (Herbert Marshall) she falls in love with him and they are married. When the first husband appears twenty years later, things bid fair to become exciting, but don't worry—they don't.

The one redeeming feature is the skit by Hal Roach's Kids. They are worth seeing the rest of the show for.—G. G.

VARSITY THEATER

"The Runaround"
A chorus girl with matrimonial complex is Mary Brian, starred in the talkie in color at the Varsity theater today. Joseph Cawthorn is the wealthy play-boy trying to win her heart and a key to her apartment. "He's full of ulterior motives," says Marie Prevost, whose wisecracking with Johnnie Hines could brighten any situation.

The drama of two changed hearts stays light, but suspense is maintained in the affair to the final kiss. And Mary Brian is most beautiful in color.

Something new in shorts is "Ether Talks," and they throw shoes instead of pies in the comedy.

Open House, Though Only Twelve Years Old, Is Grown Up

Way back in the days when an Engineers' Open House was founded at Kansas State college, its paramount purpose was to show Kansas people the growth and importance of the engineering school.

The first Engineers' Open House was held in December, 1920, and evidence of an early organization was established in an all engineering mixer, which from the standpoint of the 800 present was a great success. It is said that a vote at that time to include agriculture and public speaking in the engineering division would have received unanimous approval.

In 1923, Open House became a feature of Farm and Home week. The first program included a radio address by H. J. Waters, then president of Kansas State college in which he asked that "the state engineering activities be centered at our school, the Kansas State Agricultural College, and not elsewhere." Open House, which came to be known as Engineers' Day, was associated with Farm and Home week until 1929, when the student committee set aside a special date for the annual event.

Dean R. W. Babcock, division of general science, and Mrs. Babcock, Emma Hyde, department of mathematics, Gratia Burns, of the department of modern language, and Douglas Cain, Atchison, drove to Kansas City Wednesday evening to see "Green Pastures." The play is being presented every night this week, and because there have been so many orders for seats that could not be filled, it will be presented again all of next week.

ALL-STUDENT CAST IN FINAL THEATER PLAY

"Salt Water" On April 22 and 23 Is Last Heberer Production Of Season

The cast for the next Manhattan Theatre play will be composed entirely of students. Tryouts which are to be held Tuesday, March 29, afford an opportunity for everyone. All those who have any desire at all to be in the play are urged to appear at 6:56 sometime between 3:00 and 6:00, or 7:00 and 10:30. Tryouts for everyone will be the same, irrespective of previous tryouts.

The play, "Salt Water" which is to be presented April 22 and 23, is a light comedy which is "really funny" and "just plenty clever," according to H. Miles Heberer. It is particularly well adapted to a cast composed of students.

INSURANCE FOR WEDDED BLISS FREE FOR TAKING

Naive Co-eds and Boy Friends May Suffer Disillusionment on All-Important Question

Answering the request of those who patronized the discussions last year, a series of discussions has been arranged by the philosophy of life group of the Y. W. C. A.

The meetings which are open to all students, townpeople, and faculty members, will be held in Calvin hall rest room, at 7:30 each Thursday evening for a period of six weeks.

Beginning the series is this evening's talk, a story of home life through historic ages given by Miss Inez Alsop of the department of history and government.

Perhaps Dr. Randall Hill of the economics and sociology department in his discussion March 31 on the economics of marriage will settle the problem of whether two can live as cheaply as one. This is especially recommended to seniors whose ears are attuned to the distant or not so distant ringing of marriage bells.

Dr. Helen Ford of the department of child welfare and eugenics will advise interested parties on April 7 on how to choose a life partner.

The physical aspects of the problem, from both the feminine and masculine viewpoints will be discussed in two talks scheduled by Dr. Barrett A. Nelson, a leading Manhattan physician. Doctor Nelson will discuss the woman's side on April 12 and the men's side on April 14.

How to extend romance into the realism of marriage will be the subject April 21 of the Rev. Carl A. Nissen of the Baptist church.

And on April 28, Dean Mary P. Van Zile will consider attitudes toward the wedding state.

Last year's series of meetings on the marriage discussion drew audiences of 75 to 100 persons at each meeting, and it was because of that success, and the requests of persons who attended that the philosophy group under the leadership of Louise Chalfant, Wichita, and Frances Rosser, Pratt, has organized another series of meetings for this spring.

CHORUS GIRLS IN ORGANDY AND EGG SHELLS UNAFRAID

FRIVOL EASTER FEATURES WILL NOT BE DAUNTED BY BLIZZARD

OPEN VACATION WITH BANG

June Layton Another Attraction for Annual Celebration and Dance Given By W. A. A.

Easter eggs that dance, an Easter bunny, medium-sized girls in boleros and trunks, tall girls in alluring feminine organdy dresses and picture hats are all included in the choruses and feature dances which will be presented at Frivol, the annual dance sponsored by the Women's athletic association, tomorrow night at the Wareham ballroom.

If Easter vacation doesn't get off to a rousing start with these whirling, kicking, and thrilling dances the Women's athletic association believes that Kansas State students aren't capable of enjoying themselves. Besides the special dances June Layton's orchestra will be on hand with the kind of melodies that no collegian can resist.

On the program of Frivol have been scheduled a solo dance by Charlotte Remick, Manhattan, garbed as a rabbit with a chorus of Easter eggs to accompany her, a vocal solo by Ernestine Merritt, Haven, with a chorus of dancers dressed in short boleros and long black skirts over ruffled trunks. Miss Merritt will sing "Cuddle on Your Shoulder."

As for those tall girls they are reported to be absolutely irresistible in long organdy dresses and picture hats. No contrary weather man will upset their plans for a summery dance.

The dances have been planned and directed by Charlotte Remick. Miss Layton, manager of Frivol and designer of the costumes selected the dancers.

Co-eds having places in the choruses are Maxine Harding, Wakefield; Gladys Skinner, Topeka; Ernestine Putnam, Salina; Denelda Shafer, Manhattan; Patricia Irwin, Manhattan; Mildred Sands, Wichita; Mary Brooks, Osborne; Marie Abbott, Manhattan; Virginia Edelblute, Manhattan; Marie Henney, Hutchinson; Helen Louise Swan, Topeka; Wilda McNally, Olathe; Carmen Hall, Junction City; Katherine Reid, Manhattan; Lou Brown, Hutchinson; Carol Kennedy, Dodge City; Erma Schmedemann, Manhattan; Katherine Roper, Manhattan; Jacqueline Haskell, Garden City; Catharine Colver, Manhattan; Maxine Blankenship, Downs; Bertha White, Jewell; Jeannette Moser, Blue Rapids; Marjorie Lyles, Saffordville; Marian Crocker, Manhattan; Carol Moore, Ashland; Vera Trussler, Junction City; and Elizabeth Shearer, Abilene.

COSMETICS DISCUSSED

Costume design students of Miss Carrie M. Weber were given a practical talk on cosmetics Friday by Mrs. J. N. Kohler from a local drug store. How to harmonize rouges, lipsticks, and eye make-up with summer and winter dress was demonstrated. Difference in complexion tones was taken into consideration, and suggestions made to enhance particular types.

ADVICE ON LOVE LIFE—WHY, HOW ON FORUM SLATE

VETERAN STUDENT OF VITAL ISSUES WILL GIVE HIS CONCLUSIONS

"I, ME AND MINE" ONE TALK

Social and Religious Problems Will Hold Sway at Five Meetings Under John W. Elliott, Baptist Leader

"Why Marry and How" is one problem John W. Elliott is deemed capable of discussing after devoting a lifetime to studying home and social problems. It is his subject for one of five meetings for World Forum, April 1 to 3.

One of the outstanding speakers for this year's program, Mr. Elliott aims in his discussions of the basic issues of life to help young people in important decisions affecting their relationship to organized religion and organized communities their desires as normal people, and to whom they owe loyalty.

In addition to his discussion on "I, Me and Mine," Elliott will discuss "The Church and Society," "Our Chief Concern," and "Who Owns You?"

A native of Virginia, John Elliott received his A. B. degree from the University of Richmond in 1913, later was granted degrees by Colgate university, and the University of Chicago through the Jones Fellowship. In 1923 the Pennsylvania Educational Board appointed Elliott as educational secretary for Pennsylvania. He is now director of social education for the American Baptist Publication Society, and in that capacity has delivered addresses, held conferences and led study groups throughout the United States.

During World Forum, a committee of students will have charge of 15-minute personal interviews with the speakers of the meetings. These speakers make a study of the problems of young people.

The committee for scheduling these conferences for the students are: Velma Capper, Manhattan; Harriet Reed, Holton; Elbert Eshbaugh, Manhattan; Dallas Alsop, Pittsburg; Margaret Buck, Derby; Louise Chalfant, Manhattan; Lawrence Morgan, Manhattan; Mary Yoder, Manhattan; Marcus Bergsten, Cleburne; and Marcia Conrad, Manhattan.

VERA BOWERSOX, RALPH HAY ARE PATTY AND PAT

ENGINEERS CHOICE STUDENTS ARE DECIDED BY BALLOT AT THEIR OPEN HOUSE FROM

BOTH ACTIVE IN DIVISION

St. Patricia Active in Architectural, Hay in Agricultural Department Of Engineering Division Activities

As a climax to the twelfth annual and largest engineers' open house, Ralph Hay, Parker, and Vera Bowersox, Great Bend, both seniors, were elected St. Pat and St. Patricia at the St. Pat's prom Saturday night, March 19, at Harrison hall.

Both St. Pat and St. Patricia are active in the engineering division. Vera Bowersox, an architectural engineer, is president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, women's honorary architectural organization. Hay, an agricultural engineer, and business manager of the Kansas State engineer, is a member of Sigma Tau, Steel Ring and president of the engineers' association.

The selection of Sainte Patricia was an innovation this year. A vote for nominees for St. Patricia went with each ribbon purchased by an engineer; and the five girls receiving the highest number of votes were placed on the ballot. Those nominated were Vera Bowersox, Great Bend; Grace Ahlstrom, Kansas City, Mo.; Louise Coleman, Wichita; Jacqueline Haskell, Garden City; and Adelaide Reed, Manhattan.

Each engineering department nominated one candidate for St. Pat. Those chosen were Ralph Hay, Parker; C. M. Rhodes, Newton; W. N. Tomlinson, Garfield; C. W. Kewley, Stockton; S. R. Mudge, Salina; A. R. Hrab, East St. Louis, Ill. and Ed Newman, Kansas City. A. L. Reed, Olathe, was chairman of the prom committee.

TWO 4-H TRIP WINNERS ARE K. S. C. STUDENTS

Vera McBratney, Wichita, and Morris Hume, Glen Elder, to Go To Washington, D. C.

Morris C. Humes, Agt. Glen Elder, and Vera McBratney, HE1, Wichita, have been announced by M. H. Coe, state 4-H club leader, as two of the four Kansas young people who are to be awarded trips to the national 4-H encampment at Washington, D. C., June 15 to 22, in recognition of their leadership in the organization. Times is from Mitchell county and Cera McBratney's home is in Sedgewick county. The others who will accompany them are Maurine Knouse, Lyon county, and Merle Crispin, Jewell county.

A 4-H club member since 1925, Morris Humes has completed eight projects. He was state swine champion in 1929 and was awarded a trip to Chicago to the national club congress and international livestock exposition. In 1930 he was president of the state Who's Who 4-H Club. In 1927 he was awarded a Union Pacific scholarship to Kansas State college.

Vera McBratney also dates her 4-H membership since 1925. She has completed fifteen projects and has been actively engaged in club leadership for four years. She has been a leader of six different projects with 100 per cent completions in each, and has been a community 4-H leader. In 1927 she won the Rock Island trip to Chicago for outstanding club work in her county.

SIXTY MANUSCRIPTS ITS YEARLY QUOTA OF WORK

Experiment Station Editorial Staff Has Handled 600 Manuscripts In Last Decade

More than 600 manuscripts involving 15,000 pages of material, or an average of 60 a year, have been handled by the editorial committee of the experiment station during the past ten years, it was revealed Saturday at a luncheon given by the committee for the station staff.

The station editorial committee supervises all scientific publications issued by the agricultural experiment station and is composed of Prof. R. J. Barnett, chairman; Dr. R. R. Dykstra, Dr. P. L. Gaine, Dr. Martha Kramer, Dr. J. L. Hall, and Dr. F. L. Duley.

Dean L. E. Call, head of the division of agriculture, gave a brief outline of the purpose and functions of the committee.

Doctor Gaine of the bacteriology department discussed the philosophy of scientific writing, presenting a typical example of a paper which had been presented to the committee with reference to the most outstanding types of errors that must be corrected. Professor Barnett of the horticulture department gave a short history of the committee and the procedure of handling papers received.

NO SPRING CLASS ELECTIONS IS DECREE OF STUDENT COUNCIL

OFFICIAL ACTION COMES AFTER DISCONTINUANCE OF OFFICES IS URGED BY COLLEGLAN—SURVEY SHOWS NO CLASSES HELD MEETINGS DURING PAST SEMESTER

"NO CLASS SPIRIT OR NEED OF OFFICERS" IS REASON

Council Member Says "Elections Dispensed With Because There Was No Apparent Need of Officers and Lack of Class Spirit."

There will be no spring semester class elections at Kansas State this year.

This decision was made by the Student Council in their meeting yesterday, after that body carefully considered the need of holding class elections with class spirit at its present low mark.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

One of the Tri Deltas nearly tore the house down the other day looking for her pin and then as she had about given up all hope, discovered it in her date's coupe. Eh! Tsk! . . . And talk about losing things, Ralph Van Camp holds a record for getting rid of more articles than anyone on the campus. The generator on his Ford disappeared for the second time last week. And the poor lad had to trade the starter on his antiquated vehicle for another generator. . . . The Phi Phi pledge who attended K. U. last semester is proving quite fascinating to some of the leading social lights on the campus. . . . Prexy's idea of beautifying the campus seems to be the replacing of parked cars by campus watchmen dressed in the oldest ancient clothes. . . . It's a crime to have those men freezing their hands and faces just to keep the cars off the Hill, while students driving cars freeze the same portions all because the "No Parking" rule must be enforced. . . . Emporia will long remember Kansas State coeds attending "Play day" there. While driving to the home of K. S. T. C., the local women stopped along the road to gather up stones in order that they might build a stone path leading to the gym at Emporia. Heretofore, nothing led to that gym but grassy mounds. . . . What will the Royal Purple do with all the space reserved for class officers since class elections are to be no more? . . . A celebrity visited Kansas State last week end, Robert Rayburn, winner of the national oratorical contest last year, was here. Young Rayburn intends to enroll in college here next year. . . . Sponsors of Frivol are always insured a good attendance since the choruses include practically all the good dancers on the Hill, and the men have to go to escort the lithe young things home. . . . Happy Easter Egg.

There is no need of electing class officers this spring," Lawrence Pratt, C3, Manhattan, a member of the council, said. "With practically no class spirit on the campus, spring elections are unnecessary. In the event that a need for class officers be felt, those elected to office for the fall semester will serve," he concluded.

Pratt also stated that the present student council passed a resolution in the form of a recommendation to next year's student council that they authorize only one class election per year.

In order to have undisputed proof of the inactivity and lack of any need for class officers, a reporter for the Collegian called the presidents of all four classes.

Here are the results of the inquiries:

Senior class—No meeting during the fall semester.

Junior class—No meeting during the fall semester. The only official act of any of the officers was the acceptance of the shepherd's crook at the junior-senior prom, and that is what might be termed a social act.

In addition, none of the classes holding meetings during the fall semester, only the senior class of fine arts had contemplated calling a meeting during this semester. This meeting will be devoted to routine duties, such as appointing committees for senior week, invitations committee, and other committees.

The Collegian has advocated the discontinuance of class elections since last fall, pointing out that there is no need of having class officers with no more class activities than has existed this year.

Student Council Election

Other business transacted by the Student Council in their meeting yesterday included setting a date for Student Council election. Students seeking a seat in the Council must present a petition bearing the signatures of 45 students to Barbara Brubaker, secretary, by noon, April 28. The election will be held on April 28.

Go-To-College teams were given $200 from the activity fund to defray current expenses.

Lawrence Pratt, a member of the council, presented a report of his attendance at the National Student Federation convention held in Toledo December. The report was accepted.

NON-VACATIONERS FROLIC

Students remaining in Manhattan after Easter vacation will be guests of the Y. W. C. A. at a party to be held in Recreation center Monday March 28, at 8 o'clock.

The first hour of the program will be occupied by a program. Dr. Guss C. Salley, Manhattan osteopath, at one time a professional magician, will perform a few of his tricks for the audience. Short recitations and acts will finish the program.

The last two hours of the party will be given over to a dance for which Pete Gormley's orchestra will furnish the music. A charge of 15 cents for single admissions and 25 cents for couples will be charged to cover the cost of the entertainment.

DYKSTRA SPEAKS IN OHIO

Dr. R. R. Dykstra of the division of veterinary medicine will appear Thursday and Friday of this week on the program of the Ohio state veterinary conference which will be in session March 23 to 25 at the Ohio State university of Columbus.

A PRAYER IS ANSWERED.

The decision of the Student Council to discontinue with class elections this spring is gratifying to the Collegian. Whether or not this decision was reached by the Student Council wholly because of the Collegian's stand against class elections is not known, but there is some satisfaction in thinking that it may have been influenced in prompting the decision.

Reasons given by the Student Council for the discontinuance of class elections were similar to those advanced by the Collegian, namely, the lack of class spirit, and the inactivity of classes as organized groups. There was no need of class officers for the fall semester. Proof of that statement lies in the fact that no classes held formal meetings last semester. And yet, campus politicians worked themselves into a frenzy in their pre-election speeches and rallies. Perhaps it was fun, but that brand of politics will not be of any value to the student later in life.

Campus politics, if one may term it that, lately degenerated into two organized factions contending for the largest number of class officers, with no view of doing anything with the offices after their candidacies were elected. Elections were purely popularity contests.

There are enough popularity contests on the campus, without making a farce of class offices. When there is a need for officers in the various classes, that need will show itself naturally. Until then, let well enough alone.

THE UNIFORM VS. GYM TRUNKS.

Under the title "Warriors on the Campus" Scribner's magazine prints in its March issue an article which agrees with the Collegian's stand on compulsory military training.

The article answers the argument advanced by the war department that the R. O. T. C. is excellent physical training by stating that any physical training gained on the parade ground could be received many times more effectively in any college physical education class. The magazine writer further states that the mechanical orders and drills are destructive to ideas or originality students should develop.

The author of the article is right, but students taking military training for the physical benefits would be deprived of many primitive joys. There would not be the incentive to take physical training if there were no immaculate, groomed, and masculine uniforms. Broad shoulders are not so noticeable in trunks and sleeveless shirt as in a belted well-fitted military uniform. Sharp joints are terribly conspicuous in a scanty gym suit. Sparkling buttons, gleaming sabres, and shining boots add a prestige to physical training that dumbbells, trapeze bars, and tennis shoes can never acquire.

The old instinct to show off, to parade, is pounced upon by the war department. The joy of marching to exhilarating band music, with banners waving, before the admiring eyes of co-eds makes physical education on the parade ground far superior in the naive eyes of college men to that gained before a class of fellows in a closed gymnasium with no admiring eyes watching the rippling muscles.

The war department is crafty. May those taking R. O. T. C. for the physical benefits be disillusioned. It's the uniform and the militarism it connotes against the gym suit. May Kansas State lads all develop wonderful physiques. But may they do it voluntarily and without having militarism kneaded into their muscles and imbedded in their hearts.

THE MATRIMONIAL BUREAU.

If one is to judge from the titles of numerous extra-curricular activities, Kansas State is becoming a matrimonial bureau of the first order.

The Y. W. C. A. is sponsoring a number of discussion meetings, all centering about one topic—marriage. Among the phases of marriage discussed by the Y. W. sisters are "Factors to Consider in the Choice of a Life Mate," "The Physical Aspects of Marriage," (for women only) . . . What all young men should know will be divulged at a separate meeting.

And the committee in charge of World Forum has obtained a speaker who will enlighten the boys and girls further on this topic of marriage. Dr. John W. Elliott of the Baptist Publication society will give all of us the low-down on marriage.

Intimate topics will be discussed by the learned doctor. Here are a few samples: "Why Marry and How," "I, Me, and Mine," "Our Chief Concern."

Such discussions may be all right, but it seems that they're a bit late when put to college students. Those of us who have decided to enter into marriage have some definite ideas and ideals concerning marriage, and lots of "life mates have already been chosen." No amount of lecturing by college professors is going to affect those ideas and ideals much. And the amusing part of the lecture series is that some of the professors will have to base their lectures on theory alone.

It is hoped that those who attend the marriage lectures will be so prompted because of a desire to learn and not because they're morbidly curious.

THE FUTURE AND YOU AND CRIME.

Obviously the policy of a student publication is to deal with current student problems, to initiate student reforms, and to abolish existing student evils. There are times, however, when it is well to deviate from such a policy to the extent of examining a national problem with the perspective of determining in what manner it may effect college students. Today there are numerous problems about which one could write at length. There is one which is perhaps more outstanding than any other, at the present time, because of the recent Lindbergh kidnapping case. It is the problem of crime.

It is not necessary to examine the Lindbergh case from the personal standpoint, but rather it is well to consider the case from the broad, impersonal standpoint of what we, as college students, are going to do about crime. The Lindbergh case, in this instance, is used only as an example of the audacity of crime in this country. In fact, it has gone to such lengths that recognized gangsters are being used as authorized intermediaries, and another has offered his services on the condition that he be released from jail.

In considering crime from the social aspect, one is appalled with the seriousness of the situation. Besides the aforementioned case one can recite the examples of the Seabury investigation in New York, the disgraceful condition of Chicago and the Lincoln bank robbery. All are excellent examples of the power of gangsters. Is he to become an integral part of American civilization, or are drastic measures to be inaugurated which remove his audacious presence, not only from the front pages of the daily newspapers, but transport him into an oblivion from which he will never emerge?

One thing is certain. The condition as it exists today cannot go on much longer. Either the gangster, the fence, the crooked politician, the shyster lawyer, and the other less prominent members of the underworld will reach a pinnacle where nothing short of a revolution will overthrow them, or drastic measures will have to be introduced that will "ride" the gangster and his henchmen forever off the face of our portion of the map.

The situation is before you, as college students, as future business leaders, political leaders, educators, journalists, doctors and hol pols. Editorials, news stories, lectures and magazine articles are of little avail. They only interest a minority. The majority reads of crime, enjoys it, without stopping to think of the underlying significance of the particular event about which they are reading. Again, one may say, the situation exists. It is up to you as individuals, and as members of society to eradicate crime, or suffer the inevitable consequences.—The Daily Nebraskan.

The second American revolution will occur when we take this country away from the gangsters.—The University Daily Kansan.

The Snooper

Do those enthusiasts who screamed "spring has come!" at first sight of pre-season plus fours realize their mistake by this time? True, spring is here, but entirely without the accompaniment of swishing golf clubs. Just as wise and practical H. W. Davis predicted, weather is a woman. Spring burst in as a perfect reincarnation of Carrie Nation. Raving and screaming, she arrived with skirts switching in a mad frenzy of snow storms and blizzards.

And through it all, bless 'em, marched those brave souls who tag cars to keep Kansas State pedestrians safe and upright. Caustically and wrathfully some of them shouted, when within shouting distance, to "get your car outa here—we don't want it around here!" The taggers stationed at the south side of Anderson were not so vicious, say passersby. They were protected somewhat from the gentle but firm breeze of the first day of spring.

The terrible taggers occupied the windy sections and thought longingly with each penetrating gust about those broom-handle snoozes in the semi-darkness of warm corners.

Oh, well, we voice the same opinion as did Mary Pickford when she said to an audience of New York convicts, to the effect that, "I really envy you. You are only strengthening yourselves to meet the hardships of life."

Even if Kansas State glider advocates are unable to make their glider glide, they pick most attractive places to land the thing. According to those who witnessed the "flight" during engineers' open house Saturday, one wing came down on a barbed wire fence and the other on a sizeable pile of rocks. The pilot settled comfortably on a patch of soft earth.

Social events trampled upon each others' heels Saturday night. There were the engineers' St. Pat's prom and the Phi Delta Theta and Alpha Xi Delta parties. The engineers made money, the Alpha Xi's had confetti and the Phi Deltas and their guests had a quiet and sane good time.

There are others beside Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh who will be glad when the kidnapping mystery is solved. Another week of trying to spell "schwarzkopf" will have all newspaper people running in circles. Why a man with a name like Schwarzkopf should hold a public position is far beyond our comprehension.

Some useful information about Spring: Spring is the season between red flannels and pink shorts. Technically, the season between winter and summer is Spring, except in Kansas, where it is just More Winter. Spring is referred to as "She" because it will wear a warm manner and bright smile, freeze you to death, and pour a deluge of tears down your neck all in the same half hour. Statistics show that more colds and husbands are caught in the spring than any other time of the year, and this fact is held responsible for the soothsayer's prophecy, "Beware the Ides of March." Winter has several famous men's birthdays, Lincoln, Washington, Longfellow, McKinley and others; Spring however, has the birthday of the great American public, April Fools' day. March 21 is the Spring solstice—solstice is a thing used in some localities to tell when spring arrives, instead of a groundhog.—Lillian Cook in Concordia Blade-Enterprise.

To MEN only!

NO NEED to park a "Girls Keep Out" at the top of this advertisement. They'll shy off quick enough when they find out what it's about.

For it's a strictly masculine privilege—solace, satisfaction, retreat, call it what you will—the joy of smoking a pipe!

It's the smoke "for men only," any girl will agree—one of the few rights the women haven't crowded us on. And the only smoke for men, many a thoughtful smoker calls it. For the deep consolation and rare comradeship of a mellow, richly aged pipe are something every man does well to know.

And you taste the rich satisfaction of pipe smoking at its best when you fill up your bowl with Edgeworth. There's a tobacco that's made for a pipe. Cool, dry, slow-burning. Blended of fine, mellow, full-flavored burleys.

You've a rare smoke coming if you've never tried Edgeworth. You will find Edgeworth at your tobacco dealer's. Or send for special free sample packet if you wish. Address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Virginia.

NO NEED to send that laundry case home every week for mother to do when such reasonable and inexpensive work is done at the A-V Laundry in Aggieville. You will find it just as cheap to send your clothes here and, of course, you'll get your laundry back so much sooner. Try sending your clothes here next time and see how pleased you'll be with the type of work they do. Just call 2323.

"CRUMBS from Breadloaf" would be most incorrect if the loaf was one of those Raisin Bread loaves that the B and B Bakery, 225 Poyntz makes a specialty of—there wouldn't be one single crumb left in such a case. Whether it is for toast, sandwiches, or just as bread this Raisin Bread is really a find.

NO MATTER what kind of weather we're having, no matter if it's spring or else! Co-eds, that winter coat must be cleaned before it's retired in favor of Easter clothes, and those knitted and woolen dresses must have the same care. And you can't find a better place to have the job done than at the Elite Cleaners in Aggieville! Theirs is the meticulous treatment that you would give the clothes yourself and that's one reason why they call themselves "the Better Cleaners." Have them call for your cleaning and we know you'll be satisfied.

OF COURSE the younger generation is awfully particular about foot fashion, but every smart shoe from the Martin Shoe Store finds the stamp of approval from the Kansas State co-eds for the famous Easter parade. They all have that certain something so desirable in spring shoes. New white sandals in kid, linen or in the tan elk shades are emphasizing the adaptability of sandals for all occasions and styles. The ever-popular, classic pump lends its slender lines to all fabrics and leathers and is very smart for wear with the new Easter suit. The T-strap and the cut-out oxford are also finding increasing popularity among co-eds.

THE FRENCH say soigne, we say well-groomed. In both it is referred that one is particular to the last detail. That last fine point is one's calling card. To deserve such an appellation as well-groomed one should have distinctive cards. Art Craft Printers will make them for you just as you desire them. They also will set up clever dance programs, place cards, and invitations for special functions.

CONNOISSEURS OF sandwiches unanimously for the delicious ones served in the Wareham Coffee shop. Don't fail to try one of their specials when you're looking for that "after the show sandwich."

FOR YOUR spring debut in shoes you will do well to stop in at Nygren's where you will find a variety of new Easter models. This year sandals are offered here in every style, color and for every occasion. The new T-strap lends itself readily to sandal adaption and the tones range from white with green and red pipings, to elk shades and black. All the new spring lines are now received at Nygren's and the natural-colored linens are especially outstanding in the group. One smart pump has linen meshwork at the instep and another is a white fabric sandal that may easily be dyed to match the costume. Quite tricky—these new shoes.

DAD JUST can't object to paying the price asked by the Varsity Clothing store for their new spring suits. They are so reasonable and so good looking that they'll please you as well as your family. Take one home Easter to show the folks.

OF COURSE you'll want a new dress to take home for Easter. Have you seen the new crepes and prints at the Aggieville Hat and Frock Shop? There's a demure little printed chiffon with a bertha collar that crosses in the front and with a soft blending of colors that will be becoming to anyone. With slanted pin tucks on each side and a clever tucked belt, a pink dress of crepe is just what you need for that Sunday evening date while you're home.

THERE MUST be a reason why so many college people send their cleaning and pressing to the Manhattan Laundry and it's no secret! The quality of workmanship is outstanding! Spring cleaning will be demanding your attention before long and that means your last season's clothes. Your cleaning should be attended to before Easter vacation and the place to have that done is the Manhattan Laundry. Call them at 2943.

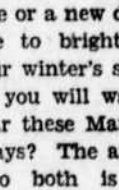

FOR YOU stay-in-towns during the Easter holidays, here is an idea worth looking into! Plan a party or picnic, or both—get away completely from the grind of school hours. And you have only to go to one place for a fine menu for either function—that is Ferleman's at 216 Poyntz, Dial 2177.

ARE YOU looking for a clever complement for your new spring costume or a new departure to brighten up your winter's suit which you will want to wear these March lion days? The answer to both is a sweater—one of those saucy, short-sleeved lacy numbers that the Nu Style Shoppe, 617 North Manhattan, just received shipment of last night. The prices are so reasonable too, only $1.95 and $2.95.

SATISFYING BOTH the co-ed's sense of style and her dad's check-book is the thrilling new assortment of coats at Cole's... Coats of soft, spongy wool, diagonal or boucle weaves, have lots of sleeve appeal, and feature wide shoulders.

WHETHER YOU are going to spend the day in a lab or classroom, working or playing, start it out right by breakfasting at the Blue Ribbon cafe, 1203 Moro—crisp, buttery toast, hot invigorating coffee and all the other things you like for breakfast, cooked in a spotless kitchen.

SIX CONFERENCE NET MATCHES ANNOUNCED

Schedule To Begin April 15—New Plan of Tournament Play Proposed

Six conference matches and several non-conference affairs have been arranged for the 1932 Kansas State tennis schedule.

A new plan of tournament play has been proposed this year, awaiting the decision of the various Big Six coaches. It is to have each man play every other man on the opposing team one set, and then take number of sets won to pick the winning team. The usual method of play is to have four men in the singles play rated as to ability play the opposing club that is arranged the same way, and a first and second doubles team. The new method is viewed with favor by Coach C. S. Moll, Kansas State, and the coaches of Nebraska, and Iowa State. A ballot has been sent to all the coaches that will tell whether or not the plan will be accepted.

The conference schedule is as follows:

April 15—Missouri, here.
May 3—Kansas university, at Lawrence.
May 6—Oklahoma, here.
May 9—Kansas university, here. (Non-conference match.)
May 14—Iowa State, here.
May 20—Nebraska, at Lincoln.
Ottawa university and Washburn college have requested matches and these will be played if the schedule will allow it.

Wildcat Coaches Lose Religion As Blizzard Halts Outdoor Practices

Some of the most religious Kansas State coaches are pulling their hair, covering their heads with ashes, and muttering all sorts of soliloquies around Nichols gymnasium as the antics of Old Man Winter put a jinx on their scheduled spring sport practice sessions which have been delayed for so long now that the athletes themselves are beginning to get creaky in the joints waiting for regulation spring weather.

Baseball

The fair weather which prevailed most of last week gave the diamond men their first chance to really go through workouts which would give Coach Charlie Corsaut a chance to see what some of the candidates could do in practice games. These little contests were held last Friday and Saturday afternoons with the boys coming through to show some of their skill with the bat, and many were laying the wood on the ball with lots of power. The pitchers in these practice games were putting the ball in with enough zip to try out the batters' eyes, but were not bearing down their hardest.

The biggest problem before Coach Corsaut is to find an outfielder and a catcher. The infield seems pretty well set with Boyd at first, Prentiss at second, Carter at short, and either Gentz or Skradski at third. One of the two candidates for third will be shifted to fill one of the outfield holes, because both are good hitters. Several fly catchers that have looked well in the work to date are: Wilcox, Edsel, Lacy, and Shultz. The opening game will probably see some of these boys in the outer garden. The last three named have been especially formidable with their war clubs in the practice games, and every outfielder must hit hard.

Lefty Lowell, if he can hold the pace he has set, will take a regular berth on the mound staff. His control is good, his delivery smooth and deceptive, and his efficiency at holding base runners on the bags will increase if he can come out of his wind-up more quickly. Bulkstra is another promising pitcher. He has had plenty of experience, and his past record is quite impressive. He also has good control, and has a style of hurling that only comes with much work. Bob Lang is looking like he might come back, in spite of his hard luck two years ago, when he contracted infantile paralysis. This misfortune was thought to have ended the baseball career of one of the best prospects Kansas State ever had for a pitcher. Bob has been throwing the ball to the catchers with some of his old time speed, and the hitters have been none too fond of his offerings.

Tennis

Varsity tennis practices must of necessity also be held in the gymnasium. The racket swingers are working out nightly as the floor is kept busy in the afternoons. These indoor workouts are helping a lot in conditioning the players, but little actual tennis practice is possible inside. The clay courts are much faster than the wooden floors of the gym and the men will have to get used to playing the faster courts when they begin active outdoor work.

There are fifteen men out for the team, but no letter men are back. Ben Dean and George Telford have had two years varsity experience, and may develop into regulars this year. W. D. Larson, P. G. Fowler, Jack Silverwood, Ralph Graham, and W. P. Simpson were all members of the freshman squad last year. Graham would have a good chance of making the regular line-up if he would concentrate on tennis, but he is out for spring football also. E. C. Laird was out for the varsity last year, and has improved much since then. G. A. Hoglund was the runner-up in intramurals last year, and may come through with a fast brand of tennis before the season is over. Others out of more or less uncertain qualities are: Carl Sartorius, H. B. Wright, O. M. Koontz, C. R. Crain, and R. L. Herzog.

Outdoor Track

With the indoor track schedule past history, Coach Ward Haylett is only waiting for the return of spring weather to send his thin-clads out on the cinder track, for the workouts are sadly needed. A dual with Emporia on April 9, the cinder artists have little time to get into condition for active competition.

Many of the indoor track stars will become candidates for outdoor berths. The fact that Kansas State has strong track material this year was displayed at the K. C. A. C. relays in which the Wildcats finished third, the highest place they have held down in the indoor event in recent years. Although the outdoor track is somewhat faster than the inside oval, many of those who placed at Kansas City should show up well on the cinder path.

Spring Football

The other sport to suffer from the return of Old Man Winter is spring football. The gridsters have had little chance in the few times they have been able to don their togs to show what they can do.

Last week was the only time the 1933 edition of the purple horde had been given an opportunity to do any scrimmaging. Most of this time was necessarily spent in conditioning the men to the somewhat punishing sport and to teach them the fundamentals of McMullin coaching. In the abbreviated practices most of the gridiron aspirants have had time to get some bumps and bruises to nurse, and to get somewhat toughened up for the stiff workouts to follow.

There's only one thing lacking to make this story complete. That's the promise of regulation spring weather. But this is Kansas and anyone's a fool to try to predict what kind of weather will be in store for the spring sport athletes.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"Folly of the Circus"
Marion Davies plays the part of Folly of the Circus. She falls in love with the good Episcopal Reverend Mr. Hartley who is none other than our own Clark Gable. He comes from a long line of men who have the love of church in their blood. But for that matter, Folly of the Circus has an ancestry of circus lovers back of her. Anyway, they marry. They have their struggles—what with Hartley being asked, gently, to resign from his church, and the coffee boiling over and the bill collectors and the uncle, an Episcopal bishop. But eventually things turn out so they are able to live happily ever after.—N. C.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Tomorrow and Tomorrow"
The title probably suggests the foreboding of things. Anyway, Ruth Chatterton falls in love with Paul Lukas who is a visiting psychologist of world fame, and bids him goodbye and good luck at the end of the three weeks visit. She remains with her own good husband who goes blissfully and trustfully about his sports—and who, by the way, is a fine chap. The play develops into one of the most involved and complex triangle affairs of the season.

"The Old Oaken Bucket" in the "light entertainment" before the feature adds a nice sentimental touch.—N. C.

AT THE VARSITY

"Kiss Me Again"

In spite of the fact this show was made last year or so, the beautiful tunes of Victor Herbert's, still new and inspiring as ever, make this show one you'll remember for a long time. The story is rather old, that of the shop girl who has a voice, falling in love with the son of a rich man. The father interferes with the love of the young people, and it is only after the girl wins fame that they are again united. The songs and dances make the show, while bits of humor lighten it up considerably. Not bad

'Twas Night Before Exams and All Thru The Tri-Delt House

Eleven o'clock, and all was still. Every good little Tri-Delt was either studying assiduously, or going after her beauty sleep in a big way. In either event, the big house was comparatively silent. (Had it been just a little later we could have used "wrapped in slumber"—always a good phrase—but as it was, that'll have to wait.)

Suddenly the comparative silence was shattered, brutally shattered, by the peal of the front doorbell. Everyone held her breath—waiting for the ringing to stop. It didn't. Several girls got blue in the face and were saved from smothering to death only by the prompt action of two others who screamed so that they could catch their wind at this new sound. Between the ringing of the bell, the screams of the smart sisters, and the gasping of the girls no one could do much.

Finally someone from the outside opened the front door and asked permission in a subdued and gentle voice to enter. Permission was granted, and in walked three stalwart collegians, Zeckser, Ox Cowan, and John Underwood—all set to do the rescuing act. They hurriedly and efficiently traced the wire connecting the doorbell and the battery, and disconnected it. Silence flooded back over the Tri-Delt mansion. The boys collected the mail for which they had come, and departed. All the good little Tri-Delts sank on their beds, exhausted by the excitement, and soon the entire house (here it comes) was wrapped in slumber!

COLLEGE BUDGET WILL BE PARED BY PREXY, DEANS

REDUCTION OF EXPENSES IN CONFORMATION WITH RE-TRENCHMENT PROGRAM

NO FEE CUT PLANNED

All State Institutions Will Share
Proportionately in Expense
Cut If Governor's Plan Goes Through

The president and deans are preparing material in connection with the requirement that this college, in common with other state institutions, reduce its expenditures of state appropriations 25 per cent to be submitted to the board of regents' meeting in Topeka April 15 or 16.

The meeting of this requirement to reduce expenditures 25 per cent will be one of the college contributions toward lightening the tax burden in Kansas, according to President F. D. Farrell. It will require drastic retrenchment in college activities both on the campus and throughout the state. An attempt will be made to distribute the retrenchment over as many activities as possible to make the reduction as light as possible at any given point.

As to what definite activities will be cut it is impossible to say until after the meeting in Topeka. President Farrell, however, believes that student fees will not be lowered. Fees in practically all schools outside of Kansas are higher than those charged in Kansas schools.

It is hardly probable that the number of small classes will be reduced in this college as such classes give the students the possibility of specializing, which is one of the distinctions of this college. For instance, a small number of veterinary medicine seniors might wish to take meat inspection while a journalist or student of agriculture would require some entirely different course. Doing away with these specialized courses would take away a valuable asset to this college.

President Farrell added that retrenchment will be exactly the same proportion throughout the five educational institutions.

INFIRMARY LIST

Ester Dorgan, Alta Vista; Spong Laurence, and Clifton Pangburn, Luray, are in the college hospital.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

Too bad some of these profs can't get into the spirit of things, and say they were only fooling when they announced quizzes for April 1. . . Charley Matthews does have the student spirit though. He makes about a dozen trips daily down to the wall for a cigaret. . . This tradition is hard on shoe leather. . . Students returning to Kansas State after a quiet vacation at home, were reminded that some of their fellow classmates remained in town. A large army blanket was seen under the trees east of Fairchild hall blowing around in the breezes Tuesday morning. . . One student, writing an application letter to the school management class, said "I am a Caucasian by race, and a bachelor by marriage." . . . If these "Don't Park Here," and "No Stopping between poets," signs become any more numerous, Kansas students might just as well leave their cars at home. They won't be able to stop them on the campus long enough to get out of the things. . . The brightly colored tin cans in the back yard of the old Phi Kappa Tau house gives an enticing patch work quilt effect. This is a warning—they're real cans. . . Although Kansas is a supposed dry state, as was evidenced when the World Forum secured only a pro-prohibition speaker, it now stands only fifty and seven one-hundredths per cent dry in the Literary Digest poll. . . The University of Kansas students even voted dry. . . Apparently only the Y. M. C. A.'ers cast their ballots, or else hypocrites prevail on Mount Oread. . . One of the Far East history students believes a "mandarin" is a robe worn by Chinese militarists. . . If all the dirt that is being dug up for the Sigma Delta Chi branding iron banquet were spread on the campus, the Hill would become a mountain.

"All is Well"—After Police Rescue Hubby

The last piece of furniture was in place. The apartment at 1026 Kearney was in readiness for the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Patton, students at Kansas State college, who were married Wednesday night and were moving yesterday afternoon to the apartment for their first night of wedded bliss.

Dinner last night was eaten at Alpha Gamma Rho. Mr. Patton's fraternity. After the meal, Patton took his bride to the apartment and returned to his fraternity house for a few more of his personal belongings. That was shortly after 7 o'clock.

Eight o'clock, no groom. Nine o'clock, no groom. The bride grew nervous. Ten o'clock, no groom. Visions of kidnappings on wedding nights slipped through her mind. Eleven o'clock, no groom. The bride grew frantic. Eleven-thirty, no groom. Mrs. Patton called the fraternity house. There she learned, after much tearful questioning, that her husband was there, but was in no condition to return home that night.

Visions of injuries received in playful tussles among fraternity men

SUNDAY SHOWS NOW A REALITY FOR MANHATTAN

DICKINSON THEATRES WILL START NEXT SUNDAY—INDE-PENDENTS UNAFFECTED

INJUNCTION GRANTED CHAIN

Present Operation Will Be Under a Federal Injunction, Pending Action on a Suit Now in Progress For State Decree

Manhattan is to have Sunday shows at last.

It was revealed last night by Harry K. Wareham, manager of the local Dickinson and Wareham theaters, that Sunday operation of the two theaters would begin Sunday, April 3, and continue indefinitely.

Glenn W. Dickinson, owner of a string of Kansas moving picture houses in Lawrence, Topeka, Salina, and several other towns, applied recently for an injunction against the interference of state and local officers with the operations of their business. Although the injunction has not yet been granted, the Dickinson theaters will begin operation under the federal injunction granted to the Fox corporation. No independent operators are able to operate under the injunction that has been gained.

The action of the Dickinson theaters is in accord with the policy pursued by the Collegian during the past semester.

In the vote taken following an editorial campaign in the Collegian, 954 Kansas State students and faculty members voted on the question, "Do you favor Sunday Shows?" 765 students voted for the Sunday entertainment and only 189 voted against the question. The presidents of all of the major organizations on the hill were called and asked for their opinions concerning the measure. Out of the 34 organizations canvassed, only three, the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., and Alpha Kappa Lambda gave negative votes. Eight members of the senior men's Panhellenic council gave affirmative answers to the question.

As a direct outgrowth of this vote of student opinion, the local theaters instituted action for Sunday shows. With the injunction granted, the entertainment will go into effect Sunday.

The Wareham and Dickinson theaters will be opened Sunday, April 3, with two of the newest and best pictures obtainable. John Boles and Joan Bennett will appear in their newest picture to be released April 3, "The Careless Lady." "The Broken Wing," an air picture with Lupe Velez and Leo Carrillo will be shown at the Wareham.

TYPHOID FEVER FATAL TO SHELDON WOODS

Junior in Industrial Chemistry Passed Away Thursday at Home in Delphos

Sheldon E. Woods, 21, one of the first of Kansas State students to contract typhoid fever in the recent epidemic, died Thursday, March 24, at his home in Delphos. He was taken ill with the disease about February 1 and removed to the college hospital. A week later he was taken to the home of his parents where he was unconscious until a few hours before his death.

He was a junior in industrial chemistry at the college and captain-elect of the tennis team. He was program chairman and in line for the presidency of Wesley Foundation at the First Methodist church here.

Woods was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Woods of "Delphos," where his father is cashier in the First National bank.

Funeral services were held in Delphos Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon with the Rev. C. E. Holman, pastor of the First Methodist church here in charge.

Pallbearers included three boys from Woods' class in high school and Ralph Conrad, Manhattan; Raymond Hughes, Manhattan; and Wilbur McDaniel, Michigan Valley. About thirty students from the college attended the funeral.

"SALT WATER" SEASON'S CLOSING THEATER PLAY

All-Student Cast For Drama of Sea
Love Is Named By Heberer

"Salt Water," a "fresh" play by John Golden and Dan Jarrett is to be staged April 22 and 23 as the last production for this year of the Manhattan Theatre.

The action of the play occurs at the home of John and Pansy Horner at Snag Harbor. John, who comes from a long line of sea captains, has cravings for the "Skipper's cap" himself. Pansy, because she loves him so unreasonably, cannot bear the thought of his being out of her sight at all. She wants John to be happy, and suggests that both of them can have their way if they will only compromise and buy the ferry. John will have nothing to do with such an idea. The entire play centers about the situation, and the complications arising from it.

"Salt Water" is full of amazing incidents. The scene where almost the entire cast comes on the stage dripping and bedraggled from an unexpected plunge in the river is particularly good.

The cast producing "Salt Water," as chosen by H. Miles Heberer, is: John Horner—Charles Funk; Pansy Horner, John's wife—Pauline Compton; Hattie Horner, John's sister and the bane of his existence—Helen Pickrell; Sam Bowen, John's friend—Donald Isaacson; Percival Todd, the life saver—Charles More; Marion Potter, quite in love with Percival—Maxine Harding; Jim Quirk—Harlan Rhodes; Nick Dominick—M. D. Olmstead; Harison Davis—Merle Bergin; Doctor Price—Donald Williams.

Pot Boils Over As Branders Cook Up Scandal For Party

Double, double, toil and trouble; Fire burn and cauldrons bubble. It's not the witches of MacBeth fame who are stirring the brew in the pot this time, but the members of Sigma Delta Chi. That smudge pot is boiling over! Scandal, opprobrium, infamy, and even a little slander are brewing in the pot awaiting their serving at the Branding Iron banquet which Sigma Delta Chi is sponsoring at the grill room of the Hotel Wareham on the evening of April 6.

Prominent students, professors and business men are frantically seeking defenses for any straying from the good ol' straight and narrow that they may have done in the last year. In questions have been sent to the erring ones so that they may be prepared for the ordeal awaiting them. The Spaniards will have nothing on Sigma Delta Chi after this.

The banquet was originated by the two chapters of Sigma Delta Chi at Manhattan and Lawrence and each year the chapters alternate in presenting the banquet. Last year the Brinkley case was the chief topic but this year the pot boils a different poirge. Not a thing that was used last year will even be hinted at during this court session.

The branding iron session will precede the country club party which will be held the same evening.

CLEAVANGER IN LINN COUNTY

E. A. Cleavenger, specialist in crop production in extension service, is assisting Walter Daly, county agent of Linn county, with farm bureau membership this week. ## INFORMAL TO NTH DEGREE

Free Admissions To Lucky Ones—
Candy For Ladies, Pete Smith
As Master of Ceremonies Are Included

"The craziest all-school party of the year" is the promise of Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism fraternity, concerning the April Fool party tonight at the Wareham ball room.

According to Ward Colwell, manager of the party, they have made a special attempt to make the party different. It will not be in the least formal but favors will be given to the ladies and all special entertainment that goes hand in hand with formal affairs will be had.

Pete Smith, the well known entertainer, has been obtained as Master of Ceremonies with June Layton and his April Fools featuring the Three Rhythm Rustlers.

The original April Fool "Lovell" will be at the check room. A box of candy will be given to every lady, each box containing a prize, and free admission will be given to the tenth, 40th, 80th, 140th, and 200th couple or stags in the order of tickets sold at the office. Ticket number 100 will receive a pass to the Dickinson theatre for the week of April 4 to 9.

Those who attend will wear anything they wish from tuxedos to cowboy outfits, and Maurice DuMars, president of Sigma Delta Chi, says that anyone that does not have a good time has no one to blame but themselves.

CANADIAN JOURNALIST FORUM SPEAKER TODAY

Will Discuss Canada's Liquor Control Methods and Effect

Dr. Ben H. Spence, Canadian journalist, eminent authority and speaker on prohibition and liquor control, will speak at the special student forum in connection with the World Forum program this noon in the cafeteria.

His subject, "The Canadian Experiment" deals with the Canadian systems of liquor control. Through this practical topic, which is getting much public attention just now in the United States, Spence will discuss the broader phases of the liquor problem in modern society and especially those aspects that are being questioned most frequently and that are of most interest to college students.

Today's student forum will be the last this spring.

FOR YOUR APPROVAL

In an effort to supply Kansas State students with something new and different in the line of entertainment, Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism organization, is giving an all-school April Fool Party at the Wareham Ballroom tonight.

"Let's go crazy—it's such fun!" is to be the password at the party, according to Ward ("Tod") Colwell, manager of the affair.

Permission was sought to hold a tacky party, but tacky parties held here in years past have created an unfavorable impression in the minds of those signing the permission grants.

Just to reminisce a bit, there was the Kappa Sigma "12-mile Party" some few years ago. That party didn't get over so well with the faculty. Oh, yes, the party was a grand success, viewed from the guests' standpoint, but it was just another of those parties which helped to make it impossible for a tacky party this year.

And then, there was the Sigma Nu "Crumb Dance." That, too, was a "roaring good party," but, well, "boys will be boys," and faculties are faculties, so again things looked dark for another similar party.

Two years ago the Kappa Sigma's again scored a success with their "Bowery Brawl."

Last year it was the Wampus Cat tacky party which helped to make the situation impossible for a tacky party this year.

Sigma Delta Chi is of the opinion that they have planned a party which will be sufficiently sane to merit the faculty's approval, and at the same time give the students an evening of good wholesome fun with lots of April Fool surprises for both the boys and the girls of Kansas State.

ETHICS OF RUSHING

The Interfraternity Council has approved a rushing honor code and referred it to member organizations for approval. The proposed system is composed of six divisions, which will depend upon the honor spirit for observance. The only penalty for the violation of any rule will be a letter of censure sent to the offending house and circulated among the other fraternities.

The code, if followed, would eliminate dissatisfaction caused by the loose rushing system that is employed now. It would end high pressure pledging, mud throwing and date stealing. It would change the rushing season from a free for all battle to a gentlemen's duel.

Fraternities will undoubtedly sanction three of the provisions: "No fraternity shall exert any undue pressure upon a man to force him to accept a pledge. No fraternity shall pledge a man under the influence of liquor, nor shall get a man into an intoxicated condition for the purpose of pledging him. No fraternity shall falsely and maliciously misrepresent any other fraternity to any rushee." For no fraternity would care to admit, by failure to approve any of the three provisions, that it sanctioned the obviously unethical practices they would eliminate.

The remaining three rules are calculated to stop cut throat rushing. Their approval is necessarily uncertain, for many organizations are used to the present system, and dislike the thought of being restrained. Like attempts at international disarmament, no one is willing to make the first move for fear the others will not follow.

The proposed rules backed only by a mild penalty, are really a code of ethics that has already been observed in part by conscientious fraternities. Like any code of ethics, even if accepted in good faith, its face will be often turned to the wall. But like any code of ethics it will constantly prompt weak consciences.—Daily Californian.

The Snooper

Today will be a full one. The wise crackers of the campus will unwind with a vengeance and cast long pent up fast ones upon the unsuspecting. And to top the day off in proper style Sigma Delta Chi will fling the all-school April Fool Party at the Wareham. June Layton and his April Foolers will officiate. The Foclers will have as their conductor, at intermittent intervals, the effervescent Pete Smith, master of ceremonies.

The management has gone to great trouble, to say nothing of the expense, to procure boxes of delicious candy to present to ladies fair during the "favor" dance. Each and every box contains a valuable prize, one which will be cherished for a life time. Step a little closer, folks.

Dress for the affair will consist of ultra-comfortable garments. However, the Sigma Delta Chi April Fool party is not a tacky party. It seems that there is a law ag'in tacky parties, and a collision with the law at the present time would be extremely inexpedient.

Students who went home for Easter came back the first of the week to be swatted squarely in the face by the mid-semester quiz orgy. Those who stayed at collich during the vacation opened bleary and bloodshot eyes Tuesday morning to receive the same greeting. Many of the latter secured a new hold on their pitching beds and went back to troubled dreams about green elephants with pink tails.

Rachel Lamprecht fully intends to crash the Branding Iron banquet April 6. Upon wondering aloud about the color of dress to buy for the occasion, George Yenneberg of the Mercury suggested that she buy a red one to match the color of her face, after the scandalmongers begin to reveal shady deeds.

Incidentally, those who have received summons from the Lord High Sheriff are becoming fidgety as the hour of execution draws near. There are some who will enter the chamber of horrors with clear consciences, to emerge smarting from the searing burns of the Branding Iron.

It isn't too early to begin thinking about what to give for gifts on Mother's Day. Photographs are excellent panaceas for loneliness. See that your family has that good portrait made by "Brownie" to take your place while you are here studying so hard. Browne-Sparr Studio—Aggieville.

Did you ever want to put on a particular blouse or shirt—and after searching madly for about three-quarters of an hour—remember that you had sent your clothes home to be laundered? And realize, too, that they couldn't possibly be returned for at least three days? Such a situation may be avoided by sending your clothes to the Model Laundry. You won't have to wait for three days for them to be returned from the laundry.

The prices are so reasonable that it is no longer particularly economical to send your clothes home—the Model Laundry rates are the most satisfactory in town.

Give the laundry a try; you will be very much pleased with their work.

They also have some excellent suggestions for the entertainer's menu.

Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

If you have ever wondered about the "why" of the gaps in the masonry on the east side of the west ag building and on the west side of the east ag building, we might explain that there was a plan, at the time these buildings were erected, to connect them by means of a narrow corridor which has never been completed. For years students and instructors have been crossing from one building to the other with no protection from the variable Kansas weather while the two attachments of the connecting link are patiently waiting for that link.

Ag students fortunate enough to possess automobiles have the privilege of parking them almost at the back doors of their class rooms since parking spaces are provided just north of the two ag buildings. The thorn on the rose in this case seems to be the custodian employee in charge of this section. He enforces the rules to the letter of the law, and to the inch of the yardstick as students who have parked outside the assigned spaces have discovered. Even the assistant dean has been tripped up on more than one occasion.

Various and sundry tools came into student life last week when new Alpha Zeta men went through their hell week. Some of the men carried hoes and shovels but C. D. McNeal took the most attention as he hurried up and down the walks swinging a genuine ax. These men also wore jackets bearing legends of former ag fairs. There seems to be a secret process involved in painting these signs on the backs of jackets for they last indefinitely.

There are rumors of a political battle in the forthcoming ag election between the two fraternities of sons of the soil on the hill. Just a local installment of the Sino-Japanese trouble brought out for air airing.

And speaking of airing, the lower floors of the west ag building needed plenty of it a week or more ago when something unfortunate happened to a skunk in that vicinity.

Which calls attention to the fact that the division can not point with pride to any course dealing with furs or fur bearing animals, something that every qualified farmer must know.

Another winter is practically past and none of the division instructors has yielded to the temptation to wear spats, however, some of the dairy teachers donned four buckle overshoes to lead shivering classes through the mysteries of their realms.

There seems to be a tendency in the division to take up sports just after their proper season has closed. Last December the departmental clubs exchanged compliments at football and last night there was a basketball game between the economists and the dairymen. We are now looking forward to an ice skating tournament just before the close of school.

Tradition Is Defied By Untamable March, Spring Long Way Off

March, 1932, was one of the coldest of the traditionally windy months in history, weather data released by Prof. J. O. Hamilton, head of the weather bureau work at Kansas State, shows. The mean temperature for the month was 35.5 degrees which was 5.5 degrees below normal. There was a period of nine days during the month from the fifth to the 14th when the temperature did not rise above freezing but varied from three below zero to 27 above.

The month started out with relatively high temperatures which brought pears, peaches and plums into bloom to be killed by the cold weather which followed. Maximum temperature for the month was 76 with a minimum of three degrees below zero. Only 40 of an inch precipitation fell during the month, or 1.10 inches below normal. The run of wind during the month was normal with the exception of the 22nd when the wind blew with a velocity of 35 miles per hour. During the month the direction of the wind was from the northwest while March wind is usually a west wind.

The month ended with temperature lower than normal and the season not as far advanced as usual. In normal years at this time the trees are in leaf.

RINGOS IN TWO-PIANO RECITAL HERE TUESDAY

Former Manhattan Girl and Her Husband Entertain Kansas State Audience

Boyd R. Ringo and Helen Colburn Ringo appeared in a two-piano recital in the college auditorium Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ringo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Colburn, Manhattan, whom they and their small son were visiting.

They were assisted by the college orchestra under the direction of Lyle Downey, in three numbers entitled "Allegro," "Andante" and "Rondo Allegro" by Mozart. The Ringos were engaged for the concert by the Manhattan Concert management.

MRS. WEST TO TALK

Patience, As Well As Patients, For Siever

You can't have your cake and eat it. And Dr. C. M. Siever of the college health department has never quite figured out how students who have gone to all kinds of extremes to get out of the so-called drudgery of military training and physical education should come storming to him, expecting an okay on their health. But that's just another one of those things that makes the college medic admit that his job is to treat patients, not to explain their psychology.

The Ags are popular with Doctor Siever—because so few of the 100 to 200 students, who call at his office daily, are Ags. They require the least treatment, probably because they are the toughest—another example of what meat, eggs and fresh air will do for the child. What injuries they do incur are sometimes inflicted by livestock—an argument against bright-colored corduroys.

Engineers suffer from burns—hot tar used in testing road material causing the most trouble. Emery and steel filings often cause painful eye injuries.

The chemists suffer most. Cuts from broken test tubes are frequent, promised between a fence and a pile of rocks. Neither DeGeer or the glider were seriously hurt.

Miss Helen Saum is attending the national physical education convention in Ohio.

Commanded to appear at the Sigma Delta Chi inquisition on April 6 at the Wareham hotel and undergo the branding iron, Harry H. Woodring sent the following note, addressed to "His Honor, the Lord High Sheriff."

"Unfortunately I cannot be 'shot in two places'—and since I was first summoned by the sheriff of Montgomery county to dedicate the new courthouse at Independence on April 6th at 7:30 p. m., I feel under the law I should surrender to Montgomery County."

That's one question of precedence settled—and the governor won't have any gray hairs over wondering whether the journalistic brothers were planning to sing a sweet-heart song for him.

And the governor apparently had a legitimate excuse and didn't have to go out in search of one as did the young professor in the ag economics department who did that same little thing upon receiving his summons.

Professor Kloeffer met with competition when introducing S. A. Long, speaker at the engineers' chapel last Saturday morning. All the mechanically minded people left the auditorium after the electrobot display. . . . The mechanical man performed credibly, but those who remained found that Long's contribution to the program was equally worth while. . . . Probably the most patronized exhibit was the "Train-air" plane which was stationed in front of the engineering building; the little plane proved to be popular with young and old, and was operated constantly. Ethel Eberhart found that the "Train-air" was capable of as many turns and thrills as a regular plane. . . . The "electric eye" posted at the doors of the main building clicked out a total of 6,666 visitors. This number exceeds last year's total by 1,500. . . .

Grimes claims that it makes him very tired to watch other people work, and from what I hear around the department there are a number of electricals who wish that Grimes would give his eyes a rest. . . . ## PENDING SQUAD CUT PUTS ZEST INTO PRACTICES

DIAMOND DRILL GETS BETTER AS MEN VIE FOR OPEN POSITIONS

INFIELD HAS BATTING PUNCH

Practice Games Held The Past Week Bring Out Errors—Six Hurlers Show Up Well

With Coach Charley Corsaut threatening to draw out his trusty punning knife the baseball men have been putting forth their best efforts to escape the cut. In spite of the renewed vigor expended the outfield positions are still unsettled, only one being filled at present. Center-field will be patrolled by Gantz, who has all the necessary qualifications of hitting hard, throwing well and strong on the defense.

The other outfield berths are the goals of Myers, Edsell, and Wilcox; all having about the same chance of landing one of them. It is quite probable that Auker will be shifted to fill up one of these places when he is not pitching, because of his prowess with a bat.

Hard Hitting Infield
The infield seems to be well fortified with the present combination of Boyd, first base; Prentup, second base; Carter, shortstop; and Skradski, third base. Skradski, Boyd, and Prentup have all been hitting the ball hard since the first day out and it is unlikely that any new man can break up the infield.

Carter, while not a heavy hitter, is fast and can look them over to perfection. He will probably be used as a lead-off man where his eye will help him to get on base. This infield has for reserve men, Michels, an understudy of Boyd, and Gantz, who can come in from the outfield to take over any of the other infield jobs in time of need.

Six Hurlers Working Out
There are six pitchers working out for three positions, and one of the places is sure to be filled by Auker, whose record as a pitcher in the Big Six for the past two years is well known. The others are: Lowell, Bulkstra, Sims, Cronkite, and Rockwood. Only three pitchers will be taken on the road trips, and it is about an even start for any of the above to make one of the two open positions.

The catchers are Watson and Blaine, with Watson holding an edge over the red head at least for the present. Blaine will be given a chance in the outfield if he proves he can hit. Watson has a nice arm and has been welding the bat with considerable success in the past few workouts. The loss of Harry Miller was a blow to the catching department. While he might not have made a regular position, his previous work with Auker would have made him the choice receiver for this ace of the hurling squad.

Errors Corrected in Practices
The work of the past week has been devoted to smart baseball. Many of the men have learned not to throw to the wrong base, hold the ball, or pull any of the other numberless boners so common with inexperience. The errors made are corrected at the time that they occur and the entire squad is warned of their repetition. The margin between winning and losing is too narrow to allow for dumb baseball.

Women's Sports
Phi Omega Pi basketball team defeated the Delta Delta Delta team with a 13-8 score, Thursday, March 17, to win the intramural basketball tournament sponsored by the women's physical education department.

In the semi-final matches, March 16, Phi Omega Pi won from Alpha Delta Pi. By virtue of the Neophyte team's defeat, the Tri Delta team advanced to the finals. Winners of the tournament will be awarded points toward the intramural cup.

Members of the championship team were: Zema Bollinger, Kansas City; Mae Gordon, De Soto; Cora Ouphant, Oterle; Lucille Nelson, Jamestown; Velma French, Jamestown; and Helen Reed, Circleville.

WILDCATS THIRD IN ALL-SPORT AVERAGE

Iowa State Ranks First and Nebraska Second in The Compilations

Kansas State ranks third in the all-sport average compiled on the basis of the placings of the teams of the conference in the sports completed so far.

The Wildcats have made 19 1-2 points. In making this total, each first in the conference standings counts one point, each second two points and so forth, the team having the lowest score winning the conference average.

Iowa State placed first, scoring an average of 2.75, Nebraska second with 3.0, Kansas State third with 3.25, Kansas university fourth with 3.33, Oklahoma fifth with 3.5, and Missouri sixth with 5.0.

TRACKSTERS TO BE SELECTED TOMORROW

Emporia Teachers Are First For Of Wildcat Cinder Artists

Tryouts for positions on the Wildcat track squad which meets the Emporia Teachers in a dual meet April 9, will be held at the stadium tomorrow afternoon, according to Ward Haylett, Kansas State track mentor.

The Teachers were beaten last year 92-39 by the Wildcat tracksters. However, a closer meet is expected this year since the K-Aggie sprinters aren't in the condition they should be and the Pedagogues hold an advantage in the weight events. The Emporia cinder artists are also strong in the dash events to and including the 440 yard dash. Haylett's men will take the track with an advantage in the distance runs, the jumps, and hurdles. The Emporians have been doped to capture first in the mile relay, although the Wildcat quartet gets places in a hurry.

Workouts have been hindered a great deal by inclement weather but this week the weather man seems to be smiling with favor on the tracksters and unless an unforeseen storm bobs up, outdoor workouts will continue to be held.

In the only home track meet of the season, the Kansas State track team meets the Oklahoma Sooners at Memorial stadium April 16. The Wildcats have never defeated O. U. in an outdoor dual meet and will be out to taste its first victory over the Sooners.

"The outcome of the Oklahoma meet," said Coach Haylett, "will depend a great deal on what we can do in the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the 440 yard dash, and the pole vault. The Sooners will have a decided advantage in the weight events, broad jump, and 880 yard dash, while we have an advantage in the hurdles, high jump, mile run, and the two mile run."

Oklahoma has lost but two dual meets in the last seven years, both defeats being at the hands of the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

GOLFERS GETTING IN SHAPE

Six Men Out Are Shooting Par Rounds in Practice—Five Matches Scheduled

According to Coach Mike Ahearn, prospects are very bright for a strong golf team at Kansas State this year. Three lettermen, Captain Joe Menze, Manhattan; George Boone, Manhattan; and Al Hastetter, Hutchinson, form the nucleus for this year's team. In addition to these veterans, Coach Ahearn has three promising new men, Dale Maxwell, Columbus; Joe Walker, Junction City; and Bob Lang, Denver. In the early spring matches the scores of the men have been very close. The players are shooting in the low 70's with an occasional sub-par round. In practice rounds the scores of the players have never been separated by more than two or three strokes.

Five matches have been scheduled. They are:

April 15—College of Emporia at Manhattan.

April 23—Washburn at Manhattan.

April 26—Wichita at Manhattan.

May 6—Washburn at Topeka.

May 9—College of Emporia at Emporia.

BREESE AGAIN ADDS VICTORY TO HIS LIST

Wildcat Boxer Wins From Wilson—Douglas Gets Knocked Out In Third

Bus Breese, fighting the windup bout on the card of the Manhattan Athletic club last night, easily won a decision over his heavier opponent, John Wilson of Abilene. Douglas, the other Kansas State boxer on the card did not fare so well, being knocked out in the third round after putting up a game but losing fight after the first round.

These fights were held under the direction of Coach E. R. Patterson of Kansas State and C. K. Miller of the Manhattan Athletic club. The proceeds of the bouts are to be used to help defray the expenses of Breese and Don Gomez, another Kansas State boxer, to the intercollegiate bouts to be held in Philadelphia this April. Both Gomez and Breese hold championships of Kansas, Nebraska, and Colorado, which they won at Salina last year. Breese has a record of about forty fights with only one loss against him, and a majority of these fights were by the knockout route. While the record of Gomez is not as impressive as that of Breese, he is fully as good boxer. He has had the benefit of working out with many professionals, and his twin brother won the lightweight crown at the national intercollegiate last year. Both have good chances of winning their weights at Philadelphia.

SPLASHERS SET THREE RECORDS IN SWIM MEET

LAMBDA CHI'S WIN INTRAMURAL EVENT WITH 44 POINTS

CREED WINS FOUR FIRSTS

Crack Tankman Breaks 40- and 100-Yard Marks as Betas Set New 100-Yard Relay Record

Three intramural and two varsity swimming marks were shattered last night as Lambda Chi Alpha splashed its way to victory in the annual contest by scoring 44 points. Alpha Gamma Rho was second with 37 1-2 points, Kappa Sigma third with 35, Beta Theta Pi fourth with 30, and Phi Sigma Kappa fifth with 29 1-2.

Creed Sets New Marks
Joe Creed, Lambda Chi Alpha, played a big part in the victory of his organization by winning four firsts and setting new intramural and varsity records in the 40- and 100-yard free style events. Beta Theta Pi set the other record in the 100-yard relay by swimming the race in 1:40.2. Kappa Sigma also beat the old record of 1:42.8, set by Delta Tau Delta.

The new tank mark made by Creed in the 40-yard free style is 2:11 seconds. The old intramural mark was 2:33, held by Bugbee, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. The varsity record in this event was about 22 seconds. The 100-yard free style record was bettered by more than nine seconds, when it was run off in 1:02.1. The former intramural mark was 1:11.9, set by D. Grammer, Theta Xi, in 1931. The old varsity record was 1:03.

Two New Events Established

The 60-yard breast stroke and the 20-yard free style are new races established this year to replace the longer distance events. The entire meet was run off in two nights, half Tuesday and the other half last night.

The Summary:
160-yard relay—first, Beta Theta Pi (Samuels, Umberger, Van Aken, and Spencer); second, Kappa Sigma; third, Phi Sigma Kappa; fourth, Alpha Gamma Rho. Time 1:40.2.

60-yard breast stroke—first, Creed, Lambda Chi Alpha; second, Held, Independent; third, Combs, Lambda Chi Alpha; fourth, Owen, Alpha Tau Omega. Time 45.4.

20-yard free style—Creed, Lambda Chi Alpha; second, Kappa Sigma; third, Umberger, Beta Theta Pi; fourth, Anderson, Independent. Time, 21.1. New record.

80-yard back stroke—first, Snodgrass, Alpha Gamma Rho; second, Carblener, Phi Kappa Alpha; third, Burch, Independent; fourth, McCord, Kappa Sigma. Time, 1:07.8.

Medley relay—first Independents (Perez, Held, and Anderson); second, Alpha Gamma Rho; third, Kappa Sigma; fourth Phi Kappa Alpha. Time, 38.6.

100-yard free style—first, Creed, Lambda Chi Alpha; second, Keefe, Alpha Gamma Rho; third, Murphy, Phi Sigma Kappa; fourth, Monte, Kappa Sigma. Time 1:02.1. New record.

Dr. Randall C. Hill Will Address Bi-State Conference

Dr. Randall C. Hill of the sociology department will be a speaker on the program of the Kansas-Missouri conference for Social Welfare which will be held in Kansas City, Mo., April 7, 8, 9.

Hill will appear on the program Friday morning and will talk on "Private Relief Agencies." The material which he will discuss has been worked out at Kansas State and at the University of Kansas. Hill has been working in cooperation with Dr. Carroll D. Clark of the sociology department at the University of Kansas and the public welfare commission of Kansas on the recent trends of Kansas poor relief.

SILVERWOOD ENDS TRIP

Kermitt Silverwood, former basketball player at Kansas State, has returned from a tour of the United States playing professional basketball with Olson's "Terrorists."

The team of which Silverwood was a member played games with amateur and professional teams in all parts of the country. Their record for the season was 97 games won and 7 lost.

Silverwood was graduated in journalism in 1930. He is a member of Phi Kappa Alpha.

Orlena Cook, Effingham, was in Effingham March 11 and 12 to attend the funeral services of her grandmother.

COACH WARD A. HAYLETT

TWO of Kansas State college's best prospects for membership in the United States Olympic track and field team are shown above with Ward Haylett, their coach.

Milton Ehrlich, Marion, is Big Six indoor and outdoor high jump champion and holds the conference record of 6 feet 3 3/4 inches. He is the most consistent college high jumper in America. In 1930 Ehrlich tied for second in the national intercollegiate meet and in 1931 won undisputed second place. He won the jump at the Texas relays in 1931 and has never failed to place in a major meet, being on the national honor roll both in 1930 and 1931.

Captain Harry Hinckley, Barnard, recently set a new world's record of 7.6 seconds for the 60 yard high hurdles at the Big Six indoor meet.

Official recognition for the mark will be asked. Hinckley has a mark of 23.8 seconds in the 230 yard low hurdles and 15.1 seconds in the 120 yard high hurdles. In Olympic competition he will run the 110 meter high hurdles. Coach Ward Haylett, developer of the two men, came to Kansas State from Doane college, Crete, Neb., where he won several state championships.

Hand Out Inside Dope on This Thing Called Love

All roads will lead towards matrimony and the marriage question during the next six weeks when members of the philosophy of life group of the Y. W. C. A. start discussing the various aspects of wedded bliss.

The discussions will start tonight, but hereafter will be held in the Calvin hall rest room each Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock for a period of six weeks.

Tracing home life through historic ages will be the job Miss Inez Alsop of the history and government department will undertake tonight. No doubt mention will be made of the time when the conquering male saw the mate he wanted, grabbed her by the hair and dragged her to his cave. Domestic happiness might be the outcome of such a procedure in that day and age, but for the present, it probably wouldn't go over so big.

But Can It Be Done?
In spite of the fact that potatoes are cheaper and song writers insist now's the time to fall in love, Dr. Randall C. Hill will take it upon himself to prove or disprove that two can live as cheaply as one when he addresses the group on March 31. Seniors, harking the call of the wedding bells are strongly advised to attend this lecture. The knowledge derived may either change their course towards that of marriage—or a career.

Then one of the unmarried women in the home economics division, Dr. Helen Ford, will tell students and others interested in "How to Choose a Life Partner." Whether or not the advice given will be that derived from first hand experience or text books, is not known. Nevertheless, the problem may be solved by a woman who probably knows what she is talking about.

Getting Down to Brass Tacks, Too
The delicate physical aspects of the marriage problem, from both the feminine and masculine view points will be discussed by Dr. Barrett A. Nelson, a leading Manhattan physician, on April 12 and 13 respectively. If hubby has a headache and the distracted young bride knows not what to do, she no doubt can be told by Doctor Nelson, who may also add the answers to the perplexing problems of child rearing.

After the sixth child has been born, and wedded life has grown to be more or less wearing on the nerves, the problem of extending romance into the realm of marriage will arise. But Rev. Carl A. Nissen of the Baptist church will tell how to weave that romance into the lives of those who no longer believe in romance when he talks on April 21.

But What Does It Matter
Attitudes toward the wedded state will be discussed by Dean Mary P. Van Zile on April 28. Mrs. Van Zile in addition to being an advisor of women going out into the world as wives, is a widow and mother herself. Any attitude she might take towards marriage will be one which others might accept and be entirely on the right track.

George Arliss has been known to save picture plots, trite plots that he, in his cleverness, has made as heavy or as light as he chose. But here is one plot that in itself is worthy of all the talent George Arliss lavishes upon it.

"The Man Who Played God" is what one might expect from the title, to a degree. But the crises come about logically and there is adequate reason for everything this man who is a genius, does. So if you have expected anything fantastic, or erotic, change your mind.

Mr. Arliss is at his best, which perhaps partly accounts for the fact that his supporting cast is also at its best. This picture reserves superlatives, but we shall spare you. See it and think of them yourself.—H. S.

Traveling Husbands
Constance Cummings plays the lonely (and lovely) daughter of a gay father, and she decides to go in for a few bright lights herself. But lights turn low in a hotel room, and then there's a shooting, involving a party of traveling men and their gay blondes, and lovable Frank Albertson. Constance steals the picture from Evelyn Brent, who portrays one of her 'hard girl' roles. Since the traveling husbands are lingerie salesmen, comedy moments fly thick and fast, completely overshadowing the dragging moments. Everybody reforms for the climax, but it isn't as painful as it sounds.—E. G.

Pledges Rejoice As Fire Destroys Sig Ep
Lawn Mowers, Rakes

Out of the darkness of an April noonday came the cry of "FIRE." The lethargy usually associated with fraternity men on an April noonday vanished like lipstick during a hot necking party.

The fire was on the Sig Ep property—back of the house in fact—right in the tool house, to be exact. One chap took a dishpan full of water from an astonished kitchen boy—for it was the noon hour—and washed with it to the scene.

The garden hose, connected with the spigot at all times for just such emergencies, was dragged forth and a feeble stream from the struggling nozzle was directed on the conflagration—for the tool house was a blazing inferno and a pile of leaves was also combusting. But such is the height of the mountainous dwelling of the Sig Ep cliff dwellers that the pressure of the water would not have extinguished the spark of a burned out love.

Enter the Good Samaritan. The neighbors are sympathetic in that neighborhood. One of them came from down the alley bearing, partially supporting on his tummy, a great tub of water. He climbed painfully up the terraces with his precious burden, but by that time, the fire department had arrived. The neighbor meant well and so did the fire department, although the latter was forced to wait some little time for the chemicals to be pumped through the hose.

One of the nicest crowds—the largest—that ever chased a fire wagon there that fair noon day, but they were not so well entertained, due to the fact that not enough of the Sig Eps were interested to the extent that they went out to see the fire.

Pledges Shed No Tears. All in all, it was a pretty successful fire from the pledges' point of view. Did it not burn up two lawn mowers and some rakes and the old decrepit snow shovel?

The banes of the pledges' existence have been removed and they are happy. If they could only gaze into the Crystal of the Great Unseen Furtive and see themselves coming back next fall to hack their way through a wilderness of weeds, catapals, tall grass, and bullrushes, they would not be so happy.

Let them have their happiness now—but let them not forget the future and its consequences—all for lack of a lawn mower or two, burned in this April noonday's conflagration at the Kansas Beta chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, the house of 57 steps and 30-odd steppers.

Revocation of Permit to Operate Shows in Manhattan Possible
If Found Guilty at Hearing Saturday

Notice has been served on Harry K. Wareham, manager of the two local Dickinson theaters, by Charles Hughes, city attorney, to appear at the city hall for a hearing Saturday morning at 9 o'clock for operating on Sunday after application had been unanimously denied by the city welfare board, under whose auspices the city attorney is acting.

The welfare board came to this decision after a meeting in the presence of Mayor Evan Griffith yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. C. O. Swanson, secretary of the board, in a statement to the Collegian, asserts that when the city is willing to finance a vote or referendum to decide the question of Sunday shows the welfare board will sanction it. She stated further that the board was working with the interests of Manhattan citizens in mind rather than those of transients such as college students.

If Wareham is found guilty by the court he may be fined $25 and his permit to operate theaters in Manhattan may be revoked for three months.

The shows in question are those operated by the Glen W. Dickinson Theaters, Inc., with headquarters in Kansas City. Dickinson, president of the company, operated a matinee and evening performance at 8:30 o'clock, in order not to interfere with the church services, at the Dickinson and Wareham theaters Sunday, under protection which he believed was given by an injunction issued last week by Judge Pollock of the United States district court in behalf of the Fox film company. Dickinson is suing under the Fox injunction and promised to show only Fox films.

The welfare board is a committee of five persons appointed by the mayor through the authority of a city ordinance passed in 1918 in compliance with a state law. This ordinance gives the welfare board power to revoke a permit to operate any picture house, dance hall, pool hall, or amusement place operated for money if the board agrees that it is not run correctly or that its operation will affect the morality of the citizens of Manhattan.

The board contends that because of this city ordinance it still has the same powers delegated to it despite the injunction awarded the Fox corporation, as they assert that Pollock's decision is under the state Sunday labor law closing clause, a general injunction which they believe does not affect this specific city ordinance.

Two lawyers representing the Dickinson theaters served an injunction Sunday against the welfare board for trying to stop operation of the shows. The board feels that this injunction is illegal because it was served on Sunday, because it was not served specifically against the welfare board, and because it was not served by the sheriff.

A CORRECTION

In last Friday's Collegian, it was stated that the late Sheldon Woods was admitted to the college hospital suffering from typhoid fever, and later taken to his home in Delphos.

That statement was in error. Dr. C. M. Siever, college physician, stated that Woods was never a patient at the college hospital.

SET ELECTION

COUNCIL POSTSVOTING WILL BE HELD APRIL 28; CANDIDATES PETITIONS
DUE ON APRIL 26

OFFICE IS ONE OF HONOR

Five Men and Two Women Will Be Named For Executive Group of S. G. A.—Politics
In Minor Role

Although no hats have been thrown in the ring, students considering a seat on the Student Council are weighing their chances of being elected to the highest position offered to undergraduates on the Hill, and are lining up their forces for the annual vote which will be cast April 28 in recreation center. Seven students will be elected to the council at that time, five being men, and the other two women.

25 Names on Petition

Nominations for office are made by petitions which must be signed by 25 students. The petitions should be presented to Barbara Brubaker, secretary of the council, before noon, April 26. Should any student endorse two candidates, both petitions will be ineligible.

Political parties do not act as units in the annual Council elections, but houses having candidates entered in the race usually exchange votes. Since such a practice will probably be followed this year, students expecting to run for office are at present occupied in getting the necessary number of Greeks behind them. Students unaffiliated with fraternities customarily drag the Inorganized cote, and usually receive at least one place on the Council.

All Students Should Vote

All students at Kansas State are members of the Student Governing association. The executive body of the association is the Student Council. The Council sits as a court for determining the facts in all cases involving violations of Student Governing association regulations by members of the student body, before final action is taken by the President of the college.

The Council has the power to determine the penalty and time and condition of inflection and make such recommendation to the President. All actions of the Council are considered valid and binding upon all students unless they are disapproved by the Faculty Council on Student Affairs. The Council also regulates social functions of the college.

The officers of the Student Council are elected by members of the Council at a meeting presided over by the president of the previous Council. The election of officers is held late in the spring. Officers elected are president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer.

Adolph Hrbas, FME4, East St. Louis, Ill., has served as president of the Council for the past year, and Lawrence Pratt, CS, Manhattan, as vice president, Barbara Brubaker, GS4, of Manhattan, is secretary, and William Myers, AG4, Bancroft, treasurer. Other members of the Council are Edward Sullivan, AG2, Mericler; Vivian Albright, HE4, Netawaka; Paul Fairbank, FE3, Topeka.

NEW RECREATION CENTER

Temporary $1500 Parsonage Addition Will Be Used Until Erection
Of the New House

Wesley Foundation students are to have a new student room in the Methodist student parsonage, the home of Rev. and Mrs. B. A. Rogers, 1630 Osage street. Work will begin almost immediately on the new 20x40 foot room which will be built at a cost of $1500 on the north side of the house. It will have two entrances, one from Fairchild street and the other from Osage street.

The main purpose of the addition is to furnish a recreation center which will be open most of the time. Sunday afternoons open house, Kappa Phi meetings, class meetings, play rehearsals, and Wesley Foundation choir and orchestra practices will be held here.

This is to be a temporary structure which will be used until the erection of the Wesley Foundation house on the lot across from the south entrance on Anderson street.

Branders Brandish
Branding Irons As Round Up Day Nears

With irons white hot, the Sigma Delta Chi branders await the biennial branding of sinners at the Wareham hotel Wednesday night. The irons have been heating for a good while now and the branders are confident that the mark they leave will make the sinners think twice before sinning again.

The sinners, too, are awaiting the ordeal; not with joyous anticipation, however. Silently and fervently they have been praying that the branders and the Lord High Sheriff will have mercy on them, hoping against hope that not all of their sins and wrongdoings have been discovered by the High Sheriff's detectives. Their hopes are in vain because the detectives have been on the job for some time, taking pains that even Walter Winchell would not think of to obtain their "dope." Not even the insignificant errors committed have escaped the searching eye of the High Sheriff's detectives.

Prominent professors, business men, and students will be called before the session is sure for their sins on this night. Excuses are their only chance to escape the iron.

The iron wielders, on the other hand, will not accept excuses, on the grounds that the sins have been committed and must be answered for.

With both factions, sinners and branders, looking forward to Wednesday evening with different outlooks, it looks like a grand affair.

The Branding Iron banquet, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalistic organization on the hill, is held in Manhattan every other year, the last banquet being held in 1930.

BLUE LAW BOOSTERS.

The renewal of the Sunday show controversy between the Manhattan Welfare board and the downtown theatres has brought one thing to light and that is that the welfare board isn't the least bit interested in protecting the morals of the college students, if one is to accept the statement of Mrs. C. O. Swanson, secretary of the board.

Mrs. Swanson, when interviewed by a reporter for the Collegian, stated "that the board was working with the interests of Manhattan citizens in mind rather than those of transients such as college students."

The Welfare board, in assuming that attitude, is only "biting the hand that feeds them." It isn't difficult to imagine what kind of a town Manhattan would be without the college and its students, perhaps it would be every bit as large as Keats or Riley.

And yet the morals police totally ignore the wishes of the student body when concerning an issue like that which is causing so much discussion at present.

The board's attitude would be much more understandable and tolerable if it would assume that air of indifference in all things concerning college students.

But they don't do that.

PUPPETS OR POWER.

Freedom of the press, one of the liberties allowed individuals in the constitution of the United States, has been taken from students at Columbia university in New York. Because the editor of the Spectator, student publication, dared make an attack upon commercialized football, and editorially sponsored the student delegation which recently attempted to visit the Kentucky mine area, he was expelled from the university.

Tomorrow morning students at Columbia will strike in protest of the editor, Reed Harris' expulsion. Protest mass meetings have been held the earlier part of the week where students have enrolled for picket duty on the campus Wednesday.

The action of the student body at Columbia is commendable. Nowhere is the need for the freedom of the press more vital than in colleges and universities where young persons must have an opportunity to test their ideas and ability. President F. D. Farrell feels that need at Kansas State and has many times expressed his desire to keep the Collegian uncensored.

The editor of the Columbia Spectator did a great service to students when he endorsed the investigation of the Kentucky mines. He did just as great a thing when he criticized the commercialization of sports. He saw the need in both instances of reforms, and did what he could to bring about such reforms as he felt necessary. He was earnest in his beliefs, and did not hesitate to voice his opinions although he no doubt knew he would be dealt with severely by administration authorities. His great courage in trying to solve problems which needed solving and readjusting is noteworthy. If all editors of college newspapers had his unflinching spirit, campus publications would be what they should be—the voice of students condemning existing conditions for which no remedial measures are being attempted.—E. D.

OFFICES THAT MEAN SOMETHING

Student Council elections are scheduled to be held Thursday, April 28. At that time five men and two women will be named to form the executive board of the Student Governing association for the coming year.

There is much dignity and honor connected with a position on the Student Council—enough to make the office worth while and serve as a source of good experience to one elected to it. The duties of the Council are manifold. It has to do with establishing rules, sanctioning social events, trying students charged with violations of S. G. A. rules, and has many other activities affecting the welfare and conduct of the students.

One commendable feature of Student Council elections in the past has been the comparative absence of petty partisanship and politics. And it seems safe to say that this practice will be followed in the coming Council election.

NEW STATUS OF WOMAN HAS CHANGED FAMILY

Elliott Cites Changes in Seven Years—Retains Faith in Home

In his discussion of "Social Imperatives" for World Forum in recreation center, Saturday morning, John W. Elliott, director of social education of the Baptist church, stated that the change in the position of women had been the most influential thing in the development of the modern family from the family of seven years ago. More vocational opportunity and independence has given her an economic opportunity almost equal to men's opportunity and has removed the traditional "Aunt Sarah" of so many households, Elliott said.

In spite of the rising divorce rate and the decreasing number of marriages, Doctor Elliott believes that the home is a permanent fixture, the future success of which depends on careful planning and stabilized interest.

all positions are asked by Barbara Brubaker, secretary of the Council, to file their petitions before 12 o'clock noon, April 26. The petitions must bear the signatures of 25 students. So between now and April 26, you will probably be asked to sign one . . . but don't sign more than one. One person's signature on two petitions automatically disqualifies both petitions.

HOW MANY GET THE TYPE?

If anyone doubts that mate-choosing is one of the major problems of the average university student, let him peruse the pages of college newspapers from every section of the United States.

One out of every three he picks up, whether from north, south, east, or west, will carry the results of a questionnaire among the students revealing the type of woman or man the men or women would choose as wives or husbands.

The women of Vassar want men who are athletic, intelligent, smooth dancers, witty in conversation, handsome of face, and at least semi-wealthy. Men at Columbia university prefer smart, intelligent women, regardless of beauty in face or figure (the hypocrites). Barnard college co-eds favor moneyed men who have culture, good looks, and a sense of humor. Their second choice calls for a man who is an accomplished conversationalist, not particularly handsome, but at home with his thoughts and books! These are typical; we could go on indefinitely with college after college.

The farm would be seventh heaven for Columbia men. It would be hell for the women whose views we have exposed. That is, of course, if any of this sort of hokum meant anything.—The Stanford Daily.

The Snooper

Our anger toward Master of Ceremonies Pete Smith, who failed to perform his duties or even show up at the Sigma Delta Chi April Fool party last Friday night has greatly subsided.

As the result of a purely mercenary point of view the effervescent (an adjective to which he objects) Pete was hired by verbal "contract" to officiate during the favor dance at the party. It was intended that he portray the role of the Pied Piper of Hamelin, using his magnetic qualities to cause Kansas State dancers to troop merrily into the Wareham ballroom at his heels, and thereby insure the financial success of the affair.

Smith maintained stoutly that he was abducted by force against his will. However, he was noticed hee-hawing loudest of all at a current movie during the course of the dance. The "abduction" resulted in the fact that reliable and resourceful June Layton, the Snooper himself, and some unknown gentleman who was none too sure of his equilibrium to pass the delicious and expensive candy to fair damsels during the "favor" dance.

Oh well, it's all over now. Although the thing was a flop as a financial venture, everyone there had a good time. Our only regret is that Master of Ceremonies Smith apparently enjoyed himself at the picture show.

The Freshman Men's Pan-Hellenic organization were sponsors last night at one of Kansas State's fraternity houses of the most impromptu of impromptu dances. The annual dance over, the yearling group has no further business to transact. Consequently one of the more brilliant members suggested that he and his cohorts take dates to the meetings and "jes" have a little dance."

The social affair, had it extended past eight o'clock, would have been an almost perfect method of bringing about the suspension of social privileges of the fraternity housing the revelers.

But, with characteristic prudence, the Senior Men's Pan-Hellenic representatives, wise and practical patriarchs that they are, in a short session unknotted the knotty problem. A hasty adjournment was effected and all members trotted eagerly toward the Frosh dance. A compromise was reached. The affair was allowed to proceed only under the chaperonage of the senior group.

It was to no avail. The senior representative of the house involved (scenting a party in the offing) decided that the sacrifice of social privileges was not expedient and stopped the dance just before the gong gonged the eighth song.

WILLIAMS ON TOUR

J. C. Williams, of the extension division faculty, is leaving today to visit the larger towns in eastern Kansas. He will confer with the local committees in charge in each town in regard to gardening work for unemployed or partially unemployed. The towns he will visit are Chanute, Parsons, Pittsburg, Girard, Independence, Coffeyville, and Columbus.

This is one of the projects being developed by the governor's committee on unemployed in cooperation with the president's national committee.

Major and Mrs. Harry E. Van Tuij were the guests of relatives in Leavenworth for the week end.

Prof. and Mrs. J. O. Hamilton entertained faculty members of the physics department at dinner Thursday evening.

WASHINGTON SAVED

And Now WE SPEND!

In the days when Washington was leading a ragged, ill-equipped band of colonists against the most impressive army in the world he could not afford to waste a crust or a cartridge. He had to make every shot, every cent COUNT. He did it, and his success is mirrored in the nation which he helped to found. The economy of yesteryear brings the riches of tomorrow.

The present economic crisis has affected everyone—rich and poor alike. Regardless of the causes or ultimate effects of the depression, the fact remains that the value of a dollar has again been impressed upon the minds of the American people.

Thrifty people everywhere are realizing the importance of reading advertisements to help make every cent COUNT. Are you among those people? College students in particular have seen the necessity of PLAN-NING for the future.

AG FAIR TO SIMULATE OPEN HOUSE SHOW PLAN

Educational Exhibits Will Replace Concessions of Former Years, But Contests Hold Over

This year's Ag Fair will be of a different type from that of former years, according to officials. The concessions will be largely disposed of, and in their place will be educational exhibits and displays representing the various divisions. These will be presented in a manner similar to that used by the Engineers in their Open House.

If the weather permits there will be a Push Ball contest between the Ag's and the Engine men. If leadership has anything to do with the outcome of the contest the Engineers will have a hard time holding the Ag's to a tie game as they did two years ago. W. W. Zeckser, AAS, and captain-stout of the 1932 football team will manage the Ag's. Anyway it will give the two divisions a chance to settle that long disputed question, "Who's who" on the campus.

The old Ford race will again be a feature of the afternoon entertainment. O. W. Shoup, manager of this event, stated that no regulations had been formulated as yet, but it was probable that anything that looked like a model T ford would be permitted to enter the race.

The minstrel show, under the direction of E. J. Krasny, has in former years always produced a laugh. This year, according to Mr. Krasny, it will be just one laugh—from beginning to end.

L. A. Wilhelm, who directs this year's Ag Follies promises a musical revue that is unique. The costumes to be worn by the leading ladies are being made by the ladies enrolled in the division.

If the weather man will just smile on the Ag's April 20, they will have an Ag Fair of new standards and proportions.

RADIO FANS SCHEDULE MEET

Stripes and More Stripes in Ties

Gay Neckwear Popular in Contrast to Quiet Tones in Suits and Shirts

STRIPES and stripes and still more stripes are evidenced by a mid-winter review of men's neckwear. Furthermore, they are stripes of gay colors, in contrast to the conservative tones in winter suitings. And they are not only gay but are of contrasting colors in themselves—contrasting but harmonious. One of the most popular colors is a tie that is brown with stripes of red or wine color. Some shades of brown even have stripes of blue or green. Gold and red stripes are also seen on a dark brown background.

Almost invariably, in the best shops or on the best dressed men, the stripes seen are in neat cluster groups spaced rather far apart. Not more than three contrasting colors are found in a cluster and as a rule it is two. Such gaiety in striped neckwear, it is noted, calls for conservatism in the shirt and collar. This may be in the form of a demibowtie shirt with collar at pattern, with collar to match or white collar, or it may be in the form of white broadcloth, with separate collar or with collar at pattern. If the latter combination is used, a clasp for pin or a tab collar adds to the smartness of the highly colored tie.

Sharp color contrasts in shirts have also produced this winter some demand for quiet, conservative colors and patterns in ties to go with them. Among these are observed such figures as the bird's eye, hound's tooth, neat geometricals and shepherd's crooks. There is also a definite trend among some particular dressers for plain, solid effects in neckwear. These are found in solid colors with "self" patterns. They come in rich shades and are distinguishable by their weave—miniature he ribbons, chevrons, stripes, dice patterns, small diamonds, etc.

A new necktie feature this winter, which might be termed sportingly conservative, is a tie of solid color bearing miniature sports figures. You have to look closely to determine whether the little figure is a dog's head, a horse's head, a golf club, a shot gun, and reel or some other emblem of sport.

Such ties are worn, not only for sports events and gatherings, but upon any occasion with a street clothes.

Reports to neckwear manufacturers continue to sustain the old rule of good taste laid down for shirts, collars and ties: Gay ties with quiet shirts and vice versa.

The following is an excerpt taken from "A Study of Architectural Schools" by F. H. Bosworth, Jr., and Roy Childs Jones.

"In not a few of the American universities the architectural student is conceded by outside opinion to be slightly crazy. He goes back to his drafting room at night, he makes an infernal racket when he works, he rather enjoys having a victrola or radio blaring forth rag-time or "Amos and Andy" when he attempts to concentrate. Why he enjoys the process of "getting an education" is for some people difficult to explain. There is something of the Puritan in most of us which holds as suspect anything which is pleasing. To one type of academic mind there is something reprehensible in the attitude of the student who complains that the lights are turned out too early in the drafting room—midnight being the hour; or that the school library is closed at ten every evening!

"Architectural students are a friendly lot. They like to talk with the faculty, their own or another school's; in meeting them it was interesting to note the things they were curious about.

ENOUGH LEFT FOR ONE DAY

Apple Crop Damaged, But Not Hopeless, Williams Believes

L. C. Williams, professor of extension division, has just returned from a trip to Doniphan, Jackson, and Atchison counties where he visited a number of commercial apple orchards and talked with men who grew largest acreage of commercial apple orchards along the Missouri river.

Indications are that about one-half of the fruit buds were killed by the March freeze, Williams said. The Red Delicious variety of apples was injured most severely and the Winter Banana variety was also badly effected, according to L. C. Williams. There seems to be a good chance for a light crop of Jonathan Winesap, Ben Davis, and Gano varieties. This is quite encouraging because a light crop of apples often brings more money to the growers than a crop as heavy as there was in 1931.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS MEET

Group Will Hear Internationally Famous Speakers at Park College

Several students from Kansas State are planning to attend the annual conference of the Kansas-Western Missouri Student Volunteer Union at Park College, Parkville, Mo., April 15, 16, and 17. Internationally known speakers such as Dev. W. D. Mercer, India; T. M. Elliott, regional Y. M. C. A. secretary, formerly of China and Korea; and Dean Collins of Tarkio College, who taught in Assuit College in Egypt, will be on the program. Dr. Victoria McArthur of India, who has done medical work there for 40 years and who has been given resignation by the British government, will also speak. A number of student guests from abroad will lead the discussion groups.

Dr. Helen Sharp, division of child welfare and eugenics, is one of Kansas State's student volunteer missionaries, and will have charge to the trip to Park College next week end. Those interested in attending the conference are asked to meet with the volunteer group in L64 Friday at 5 o'clock or see Doctor Sharp or Ola Curtis, president of Student Volunteer group, about plans for the trip.

Willard Brings News of Former President of Kansas State

Vice President J. T. Willard returned recently from Chicago, Ill., where he represented Kansas State at the meeting of the North Central association of colleges and secondary schools from March 15 to 18. He saw many alumni and visited E. I. Nichols, former president of K. S. C. Mr. Nichols is interested in K. S. # EMPORIA CLASH FIRST TEST FOR HAYLETT SQUAD

WILDCAT TRACKMEN TO MEET
TEACHERS AT EMPORIA
SATURDAY

MARKS IN TRYOUTS GOOD

K-Aggies Are Strong in High Jump,
Pole Vault, and Distance Events—Hold Victory
Over Teachers

An especially strong showing was made by the Kansas State tracksters at the trials held Saturday in preparation for the track meet which will be held with Kansas State Teachers college at Emporia Saturday.

One Victory Over Teachers

At the track meet held last year the Teachers were beaten by the Wildcat tracksters by a score of 92-39. A closer meet is expected this year, however, and Haylett's men are getting plenty of outdoor workouts in preparation for the event. Just how powerful this Emporia Teachers track team has become was indicated at the track meet with the College of Emporia, ending with a lop-sided score of 92-2-3 in favor of Emporia Teachers. Emporia showed up best in sprints and shot-put. At the try-outs held Saturday, the Aggies were best in the 440-dash, mile, high jump, and pole vault.

Good Marks Made

The probable Kansas State entries in all events except the sprints will be picked as a result of trials held Saturday. Following is a summary of the trials:

- 100 yard dash—Elwell, first; Goings, second; and Harsh, third. Time 15.9 sec.
- 220 yard dash—Elwell, first; Darnell, second; and Harsh, third. Time 31.9 sec.
- 440 yard dash—Darnell, first; Shrock, second; and Harsh, third. Time 49.8 sec.
- Half mile—Hostettler, first; Black, second; and Morgan, third. Time 2:08.4.
- Mile—McNeal, first; Landon, second; and Smith, third. Time 4:28.4.
- 120 yard high hurdles—Hinckley, first; Breen, second; and Schmutz, third. Time 15.3 sec.
- 220 yard low hurdles—Breen,

MCMILLIAN WHIPS GRID MEN INTO FINE SHAPE

Great Improvement Is Shown During Spring Practice—Signal Drill Stressed

With the spring practice session more than half over and scrimmage sessions in full force, the 1932 Kansas State football team is being whipped into shape in fine style.
"Every man on the squad has improved during this spring practice," Coach A. N. McMillin in complimenting his men at the end of one of the practices last week.

Most of the practices this spring have been devoted to signal practices and the working out of new plays to be used in the fall.

Several freshmen backs and linemen have already shown their worth and it looks as though the lettermen would have a hard time holding their berths on the Wildcat machine, if the yearlings keep improving.

Several outstanding backs have already been discovered by Coach
McMillin and his assistants. D.
Russell, McDonald, Pa., is probably the outstanding man to enter the varsity ranks. Besides being the fastest freshman on the squad, he is also a triple threat man, kicking and passing equally as well as he runs.

W. D. "Ox" Cowan, Sierra Blanca,
Texas, is the prospective line-plunger to alternate with the varsity regulars next fall. Cowan weighs 190 pounds and is over six feet tall.

Henry Kirk, Scott City, is another freshman that has made good during spring practice. Kirk weighs only 160 pounds but he has proved his worth when he seats through the holes in the defensive line.
Henry has been troubled some during practice with an injured knee but it is hoped that the injury will have mended by the time of the fall season. Kirk is an accomplished broken field runner.

Linemen that have been doing the best work are: Jack Wiseman, Delphos, center; George Downing,
Mankato, guard; and George Maddox, Manhattan, tackle. Maddox is a brother of "Ox" Maddox, head line coach.

Only four lettermen are reporting for spring practice due to the com- petition in other sports. The let- termen out for spring practice are: Captain Walter Zeckser, Alma; Henry Dalton, Garnett; R. J. Doll, Ellinwood; and Tom Bushby, Belle- ville. Doll and Bushby are not in school but have returned in order that they might attend the spring practice. Both men are eligible for competition next fall.

OPENER FOUR DAYS AWAY

Outfield Still Unsettled For Tilt
With Emporia Teachers
On April 9

With the opening game of the season only four days away Coach Charles Corsaut has been putting his men through a strenuous week of practice. The problem of an outfield lineup is still a worry to the baseball mentor, and seems to be no nearer to a solution than several weeks ago.

The first game is to be played at Emporia against the Emporia
Teachers. There is little known about the strength of the teachers' club this year.

The traveling squad will include the regular infield, made up of Boyd, first base; Prentup, second base; Carter, shortstop; and Skradski, third base; four pitchers to be chosen on their performances of this week probably including Auker and Lowell. The only regular outfielder is Gents in center field, and the other aspirants for the berths will be tried out in the game. Those most likely to have a trial are Ed-sell, Wilcox, Meyers, and Wiggins.
Both of the catchers will be used in the game, and the question of first string catcher may be decided.
There is also a game scheduled for Saturday with the Haskell Indians, and the same experimental method of play will be used against them.

SEED LOAN DEMAND GOOD

I. M. Chapman, specialist in farm management of the extension division, who is temporarily assigned to the St. Louis office to assist with crop production loans for Kansas farmers, reports that approximately 450 applications for loans from Kansas for planting of 1932 crops have been received up to date. Most of these loans have been acted upon and a number of men have already received the first installment on their loans.

COACHES ADOPT RULE TO ELIMINATE STALL

Team in Possession of Ball Must Cross Center of Floor in 10 Seconds

The stall style of basketball will reign no more. An end has come to the stall due to a drastic change in the rules made by the basketball coaches at the national rules meeting in Chicago last week.

After a three day discussion on ways of speeding up the game, the National Association of Basketball Coaches adopted a rule whereby any team in possession of the ball in back court must cross the center of the playing floor toward its target within 10 seconds. The penalty for violating the rule is loss of the ball at the nearest sideline. The referee would call the violation assisted by the timekeeper.

While the rule must be adopted by the association's rules committee, there was no doubt but what it would be adopted. It was the unanimous opinion of the scores of coaches that something radical was necessary to halt and speed up the game.

This rule will eliminate the super-stall and introduce a fast breaking style of basketball, according to the opinions of the leading coaches in the country. It is significant that Coach F. C. "Phog" Allen of Kansas university helped introduce the rule. In the last few years Missouri university has been using the super-stall style of offense and has made the going tough for "Phog's" teams. This rule is liable to cause Coach Edwards of Missouri to change his style of basketball.

From the standpoint of the Kansas State basketball team, this rule is a valuable one. In past years the Wildcats have been unable to obtain the tip off and thus have been at a great disadvantage. Under the new rule the tip off will not be so important because the team in possession of the ball must attempt to advance the ball within 10 seconds.

TWO WILDCAT CHAMPIONS

Doyle and Roberts Selected as Outstanding Wrestlers in Their Weights

Two Kansas State grapplers were selected as Big Six champions in their respective weights by a poll of the conference coaches last week.
They are Capt. Billy Doyle, in the 145-pound class, and June Roberts, in the 155-pound division. Wayne Burbank was named runner up in the 125-pound class.

The choice by the conference coaches was made because it was impossible to hold the annual tournament this year. Final placings are as follows:

- 115-pound class, champion, Lillie,
Iowa State; runner up, Ingles, Oklahoma university.
- 125-pound class, champion, White,
Oklahoma university; runner up,
Burbank, Kansas State.
- 135-pound class, champion, Thomas, Iowa State; runner up, Turner, Oklahoma university.
- 145-pound class, champion, Doyle, Kansas State; runner up, Solling-ton, Missouri university.
- 155-pound class, champion, Roberts, Kansas State; runner up, Frevert, Iowa State.
- 165-pound class, champion, Eubanks, Oklahoma university; runner up, Martin, Iowa State.
- Heavyweight class, champion,
Mehring, Kansas university; runner up, Hess, Iowa State.

BASEBALL, TENNIS ON RISE

Spring Sports Draw Enthusiasm
Out of Winter Inactivity; Tournaments Under Way

Intramural baseball swung into action with the first games played last Wednesday and Friday. The coming competition bears all the earmarks of being the best in recent years. Several teams showed real batting power by clouting out enough hits to bring in from 10 to 14 runs.

The results of the play last week are as follows: Wednesday—Alpha Tau Omega 13, Phi Kappa Tau 10;
Sigma Phi Epsilon 10, Alpha Rho
Chi 8; Alpha Gamma Rho 8, Tau Kappa Epsilon 11; Phi Sigma Kappa
11; Beta Theta Pi 2, Friday—Delta Tau Delta 9, Lambda Chi Alpha 8;
Alpha Kappa Lambda 8, Phi Kappa
Alpha 4; Aggie Knights 14, Cubs 6;
M. E. A. C. 13, Lone Stars 1.

Besides baseball, tennis also is getting into the limelight. Pairings for the first round in singles have been made and these are to be played off by tomorrow night. Many drew byes in the first round and will meet competition for the first time in the second round. Double pairings have not been announced yet.

during the latter part of June.

The final American Olympic grappling tryouts will be held at Ohio State University, Columbus,

Kansas State entry taken to the national tourney by Coach B. R.
Patterson. Last year the Wildcats won one national title, one second, and two thirds.

Housewives in Old Days Were More Than Cooks

Stewed calf's head, lark pye, syllabus, braised beef a la Windsor, green peas soup, and purple cabbage—all of these unfamiliar dishes once graced the tables of the best families. Recipes for such strange dishes were copied from old cook books in a collection at Calvin hall, the home economics building at Kansas State College.

However the queer recipes are only a reminder of the glorious days of eating, now gone by. They are not listed as the latest in scientific research for use in the college domestic science classes. What would a co-ed do with the following directions for making orange jelly?

"Take one half Pound Hartshorn
Shaving and two Quarts of Spring Water. Let it boil till it be reduced to a Quart. Pour it clear off, let it stand till it is cold. Then take one half Pint Spring Water and Rinds of 3 Oranges, pared very thin and the Juice of six, let them stand all Night. Strain through fine Hair
Seive, meldt Jelly, pour the Orange Liquor to it. Sweeten to your Taste with double refined Sugar, put to it a Blade of Mace, 4 or 5 Cloves, one half a small Nutmeg, and Rind of Lemon. Beat Whites of 5 Eggs to a Froth, Mix well with Jelly, set it over a clear Fire, boil 3 or 4 Minutes, run through your Jelly bag several Times till it is clear and when you pour it in your Bag take great Care you don't shake it."

The books are aged with yellow pages showing signs of use. Some have fancy hand tooled binding, while others are of leather or cloth.
The above recipe was taken from the oldest book in the collection bound in brown leather and dated 1769 with the title "The Experienced English Housekeeper, wrote purely from practice and dedicated to Her Lady Elizabeth Warburton
by Elizabeth Raffald."

The Lady's Assistant by Mrs.
Charlotte Manor, dated 1775, contains 150 select bills of fare properly disposed for family dinners from 5 dishes up to two course dinners with 11 to 15 dishes. A typical menu for five dishes was Haunch Bone of Beef, greens and carrots, Cumberland pudding, colli-flower, and two roasted rabbits.

A unique index gives a touch of the quaint recipes to follow in the "Art of Cookery made plain and easy" by Glasse and published in London in 1744. It contains direc-

On Other Hills

There are two students at Cotner college who will never be homesick.
According to the Indiana Daily Student, they hauled their home, a little wooden shack, to Lincoln on a trailer.

"Before we die we would like to see just one person who can maintain an intelligent expression while sitting in a barber's chair," says the Indiana Daily Student. What about a barber chair that would cause a person to feel intelligent?

An Iowa State graduate who received her doctor's degree in 1930 is making dolls for the New Jersey state museum, according to the Daily Nebraskan. We often wonder if we'll spend any time in a state institution cutting paper dolls.

Claiming that greeting the same person three or four times daily is annoying, girls at Wellesley college have adopted a resolution to refrain from speaking to one another on the campus, states the Daily Nebraskan. It won't last, girls, it won't last.

Coeds at the University of Arizona find that it saves time and energy to roller skate to classes.
Wonder if they disregard the time spent in retrieving note books and papers after an involuntary and unexpected loop-the-loop.

Grades and credits will be withheld from nine student violators of university traffic regulations until they have paid their fines, states the Ohio State Lantern. The violators probably think the grades aren't worth the price of a fine.
Who would give five or ten dollars for a "D" grade in a one hour course.

It has long been the custom of sophomores at Texas Christian university to prevent the president of the freshman class from attending his class banquet. Patrick Henry, Jr., tricked the second year men recently by going to the banquet in an ambulance. He probably needed the same ambulance when the sophs found they had been tricked.

A three minute limit has been placed on conversations between men and women students at the University of Missouri.

A recent ruling at the University of Idaho, says the California Aggie, forbids women students to have cars. There should be an appreciable decrease in auto accidents at the university this year.

Jack Fischer, who edits "Footnotes" in the Oklahoma (Univ.) Daily, says that "if the university is going to light up every nook and corner where students carry on their social affairs, it ought to do the job up right. There is about ten miles of river bank along the South Canadian that ought to be equipped with floodlights."

Oklahoma university co-eds, until advised otherwise by various professors and student powers, were thinking of placing a boycott on silk hose to stop the war between Japan and China.

meeting. Imagine his embarrassment.

The Kansas State Teachers col-

all school affairs.

"The record low standard of language," says Dr. Rufus von Klein-Smid, president of the University of Southern California, "has been on the college campus." In a recent address, van KleinSmid said that of 500 to 600 words with which common laborers are presumed to be endowed about half make up the college freshman's vocabulary. "The word 'swell' alone," he said, "is used to describe 4,972 situations."

A new fraternity, "I Gotta Mop," has been established at Emory uni-stricted to janitors on the campus.

Gene McEver, University of Ten-the same number of co-eds said that they would marry for money.

NOVEL AIR PROGRAMS

English Faculty Will Present Study of Literature Groups

The program of the English division of the college of the air for next year will be a study of groups of American literature, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. C. M. Matthews, who has charge of the programs.

Writers will be divided according to the sections of the country which they represent, including the New England, metropolitan, Middle Western, South Western, and North Western divisions. In addition to 24 lectures concerning authors of these sections, eight lectures will be devoted to discussions of the English language.

CANNOT EVADE QUESTION IN FAR EAST, SAYS PAUL

Although China Has No Ill Feeling
For United States, Reckoning
Is Prophesied

"Western nations will have to reckon with the Chinese one of these days," Dr. Alexander Paul said as he addressed the World Forum Saturday at 10 o'clock in recreation center on the subject
"Twenty-seven Years in the Orient." The speaker was relating an incident that happened one day when, dressed in oriental clothes, he was mistaken for a Chinese and treated in a rough manner by a customs official until he made clear his identity by showing his pasport.

Doctor Paul, who is the Oriental secretary for the Disciples of Christ Church, is well qualified to speak on the subject, having lived in China nearly 38 years. He gave insights of the situations in the various countries, pointing out the revolt of 325 million people in India against Great Britain, and mentioning the Russian invasion of the Orient with that great power engaged in spreading communism and rebuilding her ancient cities into modern centers of civilization. He stressed the importance of the Trans-Siberian railroad from the coast to Moscow.

He condemned extra-territorial-ity by saying "Every country has taken possession of various pieces of China such as the sphere of influence Great Britain holds in Hong Kong. This has to be changed so the Chinese may control their own country. All China wants is a fair chance and a square deal from the rest of the world."

He cited as an example a situation in our own country which would be identical with that in China if Seattle were under French control while San Francisco were under the control of Germany and other important cities as New Orleans, New York or even the national capital at Washington dominated by foreign influence.

"The Chinese have no ill feeling toward the United States," he declared. "They are very grateful to us for what we have done, especially the attitude of Stimson over the peace pacts. They only express regret that Stimson didn't go farther in his demands that Japan keep the peace pacts she violated."
To show the deep regard the Chinese students have for Americans he said that students formerly kept in their rooms with pictures of Jesus, and ones of Abraham Lincoln. Today they have added a third—Woodrow Wilson.

CONFERENCE AT ESTES ATTRACTS
K. S. STUDENTSJUNE 7 TO 17 ARE DATES SET
FOR ANNUAL Y. M. C. A. MEETING

LIFE'S POSSIBILITIES THEME

Miss Dorothy MacLeod, Mary Alice Schenck, Winifred Wolfe, Muriel Fulton, and Edwin Puetze
New Plan To Go

Plans are being made for the Estes park conference held annually under the auspices of the student Y. M. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., which will be in session from June 7 to 17 at Estes Park, Colo.

The conference will include representatives from 45 colleges and universities in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Wyoming, and South Dakota. Those who have already planned to represent Kansas State are Miss Dorothy MacLeod, Mary Alice Schenck, La. Cress, Winifred Wolfe, Ottawa; Muriel Fulton, Wichita; Betty Ozment, Manhattan; and Edwin Puetze, Manhattan.

"Exploring Life's Possibilities" is the theme of the conference. Such questions as "Why do I believe in one thing and not another?", "What is it that I want out of life?", "How does your college education help you to live more adequately?", "What are the essentials to a successful marriage and home?", "What demands has your family a right to make on you?", "What are the underlying factors of the present world chaos?", "What methods and resources can one depend upon for realizing his own possibilities?" will be discussed at Estes.

A few of the conference leaders are W. H. Bernhardt of the Illinois Theological Seminary, Danvers; A. J. Elliott of the National Student Y. M. C. A. staff; Kirby Page, editor of "World Tomorrow," New York City; Josephine Little of the National Student Y. M. C. A. staff; Frances Perry, Kingsley Hall Settlement House, London; Dr. J. W. Terry of the League of Nations association, Chicago; and Wilfrid Jackson of Rutgers college.

Last year 350 students attended the conference, 31 attending from Kansas State. Nebraska university, with 22 students, had the largest delegation.

Students interested in attending the conference may see the following persons for information: Miss Dorothy MacLeod, Y. M. C. A. secretary; Blanche Duguid, chairman of the conference committee for girls; or Edwin Puetze, chairman of the conference committee for men.

DEFINITION OF PLEDGE STOPS GREEK DISPUTE

Fraternities May Join To Ask For Reduction In Ballroom Prices

An agreement as to what constitutes formal pledging of a prospective member to a fraternity was arrived at by the men's Panhellenic association at its meeting Monday evening at the Alpha Gamma Rho house.

The agreement will do away with cases of dissension between fraternities which have been experienced in the past.

The association also discussed the possibility of obtaining lower cleaning and pressing prices for students in view of the fact that out-of-town agencies have offered reduced rates.

Also, by the organization of the various houses it is expected that a lower price can be obtained for the use of local ballrooms in order to reduce the expense of parties.

In order to get rid of the extra supply of campus maps, printed two years ago and advertised ever since as Christmas, birthday, Easter, Valentine, New Year's, Fourth of July, Armistice day, Washington's birthday, and all other mentionable holiday gifts, the home economics division in a let-us-hope closing out sale, has posted the following advertisement, "Daffodils are coming. It is said that Miss Ada Rice of the English department is the first woman ever to smoke a cigarette on the campus. When she was in college and took the part of Sherlock Holmes, she had her choice of smoking either a cigarette or a pipe. She chose neither, but inhaled the deadly fumes of a cube. . . . One of the sportswriters on the Collegian persists in using the word "birth" in his stories instead of "berth." . . . When the Board of Regents meets April 16, a decision will be made as to who will receive wage cuts in the state institutions, and what per cent cut will be made. It is thought the proposed cut will not affect those on the hourly payroll.

Branders Bare Sins of Profs., Big Shots in Business at Banquet

College professors, business men, students, all without prejudice and without malice, were panned and branded Wednesday night at the Branding Iron banquet at the Wareham hotel. The long heralded banquet was under the auspices of Sigma Delta Chi, men's honorary professional journal organization.

Secrets, jokes, scandal, and gossip were told at the banquet. Half-forgotten or hidden events of the past two years were brought to light for the discomfiture and enjoyment of the guests.

More than 120 persons attended the banquet, and reports that the program and crowd equalled that of other years. Members of the fraternity, most of whom are students in journalism, wrote the stunts and acts into which the scandal was woven.

To start the event off, the guests were marched down Poynts avenue before the banquet. It is reported that Dean E. L. Holton of the department of education, and C. M. Harger of the board of regents grew tired before the two block run was completed so they dropped out of line and walked into the hotel and sedately, befitting their positions as educators. Others of the professors made the sprint in good form.

Eleven students were chosen to comprise the editorial and business staff of the Kansas State Engineer, student publication of the engineering division, at a meeting held last Tuesday in the engineering library.

Following is a list of the new officers: M. H. Davison, Manhattan, editor; R. J. Alexander, Independence, Mo., assistant editor; K. U. According to R. C. Hay, present manager, all assistants, departmental editors, and faculty advisers will be chosen by the new staff in the near future. This is contrary to custom, Hay said, as these officers have always been chosen at the time of staff elections.

Members of the managing board who approved the elections are as follows: Zint Wyant, Topeka; K. D. Phelps, Pratt; L. O. Stafford, Republic; K. M. Fones, Kansas City, Mo.; and Ralph Hay, Parker.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT INSPECTION DATE SETColonel Meerman in Charge of Annual Inspection Here April 25 and 26

Cadets of the Kansas State unit of the R. O. T. C. will pass in review during annual inspection April 25 and 26. Col. T. S. Mootman of inspection this year. He will the Seventh Corps Area with headquarters at Omaha, Neb., will be in charge of inspection this year. He will be assisted by Major H. L. King, Topeka, and Major John W. Miner, Fort Riley.

At the close of the inspection there will be honors bestowed upon outstanding individuals and groups. Prizes to be awarded include a saber to the captain of the best drilled group, a saber to the lieutenant of the best drilled platoon, a gold medal to the best drilled basic student in each infantry and artillery organizations, and a silver medal to the best drilled freshman in the artillery and infantry organizations.

Kansas State has for many years received a high rating in inspection. The school's military unit received a distinguished college rating several years prior to 1927. In that year the former rating system was discontinued and although figures show that the college has received higher standings since that date, no special mention has been made.

In the past, the review has attracted many persons who enjoy watching the various maneuvers and military tactics. An unusual feature is the sham battle which concludes the day's events. Most of the review will be held on the parade grounds in the south east part of the campus.

The second semester of the present term will close on June 4 and summer school will take up on Monday, June 6, continuing until August 6. Short courses of four weeks duration in agriculture and education only, will begin July 11, and close August 6. Registration for the summer session will begin Monday morning, June 6 at eight o'clock. A course of 40 public addresses by faculty members and others outstanding in their fields has been scheduled for each day from Monday to Friday, inclusive. Prof. E. L. Holton is dean of the summer school which is usually attended by more than 800 students, many of whom are teachers, taking work in education.

SCHOOL DANCE IN GYM
ON AG FAIR PROGRAMPractice for Annual Follies and Minstrel Show Will Begin Monday

Among the many new features of this year's Ag Fair, April 20, will be an all-school dance held in Nichols gymnasium at which an "Ag Fair Queen" will be elected by the dancers, according to Steve Vesceky, AA3, Kansas City, member of the Ag Fair board.

The queen will have a full-page picture in the 1932 Royal Purple.

Albert Wilhelm, Ag4, Arkansas City, has announced that practice for the annual follies show will start Monday. The 45 minute show will be varied, according to Wilhelm, and will include music, singing, dramatic sketches, and vaudeville. One of the big attractions will be a six-girl dancing chorus in true chorus costumes.

Dale Edelblute, Ag3, Keats, is in charge of the male quartet which will appear in several harmony numbers, and Harold Kugler, AA3, Abilene, is selecting an orchestra which will be featured. The follies and the minstrel show will be held this year in the east wing of the stadium instead of in the ag buildings as has been the custom.

The minstrels are under the direction of Ed Krasny, AA2, Topeka, and are, he promises, to be funnier than ever.

An old Ford race, starting and ending at the stadium, with some four miles of rough driving in between, also is arousing interest.

GRAD CLUB TO ENTERTAIN

Dancing and cards will be offered as entertainment at the graduate party to be held in Calvin hall, Saturday, April 9, at 8:00 o'clock. Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Ackert will sponsor the party to which all graduate students and the graduate council are invited.

Phi Taus Wallop
Friend Kappa Deltas
In Neighborly Fued

Neighbors in the vicinity of the Kappa Delta and Phi Kappa Tau houses came within an inch of calling the doctor the other night when the dorms of both houses were seized with violent coughing spells, interspersed with a good many loud sneezes.

It seems the Kappa Deltas began the contest about the time the Phi Taus were settling for a good night's sleep. The boys took up the challenge and strove valiantly to outdo the Kappa Deltas who were going strong. The climax was reached when both dorms burst into loud laughter.

The joke was on the Phi Taus because it was learned next day that one of the Kappa Deltas really had quite a serious coughing spell and had been unable to stop coughing.

CLASS WORKS OUT

The class in soil and crop management, under the direction of Dr. F. L. Duley, professor in agronomy, is having some practical experience in the laying out and the construction of terraces at the agronomy farm.

The purpose of the work is not only to retard soil erosion, but to enable each student to learn the methods of prevention.

EVILS OF PRESENT AD-VISORY SYSTEM

TO CURE EXISTING ILLS?

Faculty Committee Will Study Reports of Commissions If Accepted at Meeting
Tuesday

By Mayrie Griffith

April 19 has been set as the tentative date for an open forum meeting where the vocational guidance commission, which has been investigating the ills of the present college curricula, will suggest remedies for the evils. The meeting is to be in recreation center at 7:30 o'clock.

Louise Davis, HE4, Nashville, Tenn., appointed by the student council to promote the project, declares that the reports which have been turned in thus far will prove to be an excellent basis for discussion. The outlook for evolving a constructive advisory program for the benefit of every student enrolled in the college is promising.

The vocational guidance commission is composed of three representative students from each division, including at least one senior and at least two underclassmen. Representatives are appointed by the president of every honorary group within each division, together with two faculty members appointed by the respective deans.

If the suggestions which are being put before the students and faculty members in the open meeting are approved, they will be recommended to the faculty committee on vocational guidance, consisting of the deans of the various divisions and Dean Mary F. Van Zile. Eventually it is hoped, this project will result in a definite action toward better advisory facilities.

ALONG THE MIDDLE FRONT

Loud and long grows the opposition to compulsory military training in colleges and universities over these United States of ours. The cause, in the majority of cases, is simply that the students are tiring of having military training forced upon them.

This board of trustees at Penn State recently acknowledged dissatisfaction with the prevailing arrangement of compulsory military training. They appointed a faculty committee to draft plans whereby the college may meet its obligations under the Land Grant Act, through some arrangement of modernized training in national defense. It is planned to have students choose whether they will take such training as chemists, engineers, agriculturalists—or as ordinary infantry drill robots. War Department representatives will be consulted by the faculty committee on how this training in the war and military implications of the varied arts and sciences may be most effectively administered. Thus the militarists have been extended the opportunity to refine their teachings.

At Akron university a Student League Against Compulsory Military Training petitioned the Trustees to abolish the compulsory feature of drill. The petition was referred by the Trustees to the faculty council. A poll revealed a decided majority of the student body opposed to compulsory drill.

A committee composed of faculty members is now attempting to determine the value of military training by circulating all Akron graduates since 1925 with the questionnaire prepared by the Research Organization on Military Training.

Because of vigorous objections to compulsory military training at Davidson college, only students whose parents do not object will take military training. Other exemptions include pre-medical students.

The faculty at Rose Polytechnic Institute recently recommended to the administration that military training be made optional.

An attempt was made by the War Department to popularize military training at Michigan Tech last winter. They made Movietone reproductions of mass maneuvers and drill by snowed-out R. O. T. C. cadets. The militarists disapproved their motive with the assertion that it was "good publicity for the institution for the film to be shown in the theatres over the country."

Students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were more emphatic in their denunciation of compulsory military training. More than 400 of them signed a petition protesting against the R. O. T. C. as being a waste of federal funds, inefficient from the military standpoint and educationally objectionable.

The petition was read before the Massachusetts legislative committee conducting hearings on a bill intended to make compulsory military training illegal in Massachusetts schools and colleges.

Why all this compulsory military training at Kansas State? Why go on training youth to kill their fellow men, when these youths are compelled to take this training against their will?

Militarists will rise up and shout that it is for defense. The only defense, the only road to security in our interdependent world is a stable and peaceful world community of nations co-operating for mutual prosperity.

A course explaining students with the problems and methods of building such a world community of nations should be installed for those patriotic students who really wish to serve and defend their country and humanity against the biases that will result from a continued practice of building up our armaments, training armies and relying upon war methods in business and politics.

FLYING AND THE NEXT GENERATION

Children who were given a day at the national aircraft show at Detroit swarmed over the machines, examined each part carefully and displayed what was described as an amazing knowledge of the mechanics of flying. They were moving, it was said, the same interest in the airplanes that their fathers and mothers exhibited with regard to the motor car twenty-five years ago. And there must be the hope that these children of today, when they grow up, will have attained a better mastery of the airplane than many of their fathers and mothers and brothers and sisters have been able to gain over the motor vehicle.—Kansas City Star.

The Snooper

Members of Sigma Delta Chi failed to become aware of all the existent scandal, cheerily announced a Kansas State professor while waiting to school yesterday morning. He must confess we met that there was so much choice material for the boys to uncover at the Brandt's last banquet that petty misdeeds were overlooked. However, he might broaden his scope and go something really big—there will be another banquet in two years.

There is a comparatively new art in the embryo stage at Kansas State, known in student vernacular as "chiseling." Art is said to consist in the pill or law, and by acceptance of such a definition "chiseling" becomes truly an art. However, there is one unwritten law in the art of "chiseling." The aspiring "chisler" absolutely must replace the "steady" boy-friend at least temporarily.

The number of chiselers has increased on the campus in recent weeks. Spring, of course, is the reason. However, there are a great many masters, those who work with perfect finesse, and are fully confident of a modernistic and delicate technique. In fact, things have come to such a pass that foundation of a club is being considered by mature members of the sect.

By mutual consent of all George Boone will no doubt be at the helm of the organization—his success has been phenomenal. No name has been brought up for the position of vice president, however, Jim Richards is to be reckoned with. The business-like Joe Menzie arose unabashed and announced his candidacy for treasurer. It is felt though that his interest in the club will be purely mercenary rather than for the promotion of the art. There will be many members until initiation fees will be charged in order that the club have a party of some sort.

Opinions from without the circle are conflicting. Personally, the Snooper is inclined to think the whole affair a bit childish, from which no benefit can be derived. As Muddy Rhoades maintains, the Chiselers' club will be just another organization on a campus already overloaded. Besides, what future is there in being a professional heartbreaker?

The Snooper is gaining a reputation. When Max Focke asked Professor Thompson's opinion on the beer question the other day in class, the professor declined to express his sentiments, saying, "It's dangerous for us to talk in this class, you know we've been written up several times in the Snooper."

Campus body guards periodically have to wash the bronze face of the bust of Harris, whoever that was, which stands on the lawn opposite the south entrance of Anderson. Thoughtful Jimmy Johnson, suspecting that the campus sparrows and meadow larks are responsible for the unclean condition of Harris' face, suggests that some organization start a fund to buy a hat for the poor, unprotected piece of statuary. . . .

Book Review

THE BARRETT'S OF WIMPOLE STREET

By Henri Besler

Perhaps no other play of the year has received wider acclaim than "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" unless, perhaps, "Mourning Becomes Electra" by Eugene O'Neill. The play has had a most successful run in New York and has since been enthusiastically received in the larger cities of both England and America.

The plot is primarily that of the courtship and marriage of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning; but with only a slightly different stress the drama might easily become a revelation of the relation of Elizabeth Barrett with her father and other members of the Barrett family. A novel may be successful for its philosophy, its characters, or its setting. A play is made important by its characters—there is no exception to this—even in historical or sociological situations. For all expressions come through the characters.

In the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" we are concerned with Elizabeth Barrett—a very intelligent young woman—rather frail in body but possessed of a great desire for living; Robert Browning—conscious of his intellect, ardent in his love for Elizabeth, and positive in his opinions; and Edwin Barrett—naturally of a passionate nature which he attempts to stifle beneath a coat of brutal puritanism.

Edwin Barrett has forbidden his children to marry. He believes that "love is the lowest urge of the body." Elizabeth is the only one of his eleven children whom he loves. The play is based upon the tyrannical, prison-like lives the Barrett family are compelled to live. Elizabeth alone defies her father by eloping with Robert Browning.

The play is a bit strained in its technique at first, as it is necessary to present the background. But with the second act, comes an atmosphere of vividness and verisimilitude that builds up to taut climaxes and ends with just a note of triumph.

The play is written for the theater, but from the literary standpoint it is well worth the time it takes to read it. A copy may be obtained from the public library.

—Ruth Wilkerson.

SCHOLARSHIP AND ATHLETICS

It is small wonder that athletics prove more interesting to the college student than scholarship. Why shouldn't they? A Phi Beta Kappa gives $5 for initiation, $1 for the banquet, $6 for his key and four long years of study as opposed to a K. U. club member who has no fees and who is presented with a sweater and a lifetime ticket to K. U. games.

And when it is all over the K. man is always followed by his fame: the Phi Beta Kappa is lucky if his name gets in print more than once.

Universities supposedly stress the scholastic. Athletic organizations, offer more inducement to membership than honorary scholastic groups. Both should be given a place in our college life; but one so far outshines the other in popularity today that the balance has been upset. If the qualifications for membership cannot be of equal stringency, the rewards can be of similar value.—University Kansan.

The big automobile manufacturing plant which the soviet government installed at a cost of $119,000,000 is standing idle while an attempt is made to solve the problem of efficient management in manufacture. The soviet government is finding that big plants do not run themselves and that they can not even be run by committees of workers.—Lawrence Journal-World.

Congress has proposed that the army and navy be consolidated. They must wait to beat Notre Dame every year.—Kansas City Kansan.

On Other Hills

By Frederick A. Peery

Heigh-ho. Here we are again, ready to take a few short cuts through the college news of the past week. It's funny what a college student and a few of the faculty, won't think of doing and also what they will think of doing. So University Short Cuts is going to tell you the "shorts" of college news over the country.

The Oregon State Barometer comes to the fore with this reflection. "The introduction of a camp cockery course at Oregon State college is just another step toward the complete independence of man. We think that through education, his emancipation will be gradually effected." Why not institute a course in sewing on buttons, or combing the babies' heads, we ask, or for that matter—well, let it go.

A complaint is made by the student council of Michigan State college that only fifteen honorary fraternities and sororities have turned in an outline of their purpose, their accomplishments, et cetera. Just think, only fifteen. Besides, we never knew they had a purpose or an accomplishment.

According to the Indiana Daily Student, "A special telephone service has been installed between the men's and women's dormitories at Antioch college in order to promote friendliness." Here we have enough telephones, it's more girls we need.

Russian college students are paid by the government, and if a student has dependents, the government supports them also. One side, Dean, we just left.

Note from the Daily Nebraskan: "Picnic season opens. People scratch necks."

In Germany, students are allowed six weeks to analyze their professors before paying the fee that entitles them to the course.

Fifty-two per cent of the student body at Notre Dame works its way through college—and we suppose the other 48 per cent earns money by betting on the football team.

A zither is a kind of a snake, a French gun, or a sword; the L. C. Smith company makes motor trucks and steam engines; habes corpus is a medical term; "All Quiet On The Western Front" was written by Zane Grey; and Jacques is a kind of a row boat. This information has been recently given to us by the freshmen of the University of Kentucky. Anyway, who does know what a "zither" is?

We are inaugurating a new department in this column, "Queer Ways of Working Ones." "Queer Through School." Any and all contributions will be accepted.

A senior co-ed at Iowa State Teacher's college is earning her way through college as a bus-driver, while a male member of the sophomore class at Montana State college accomplishes the same purpose by selling cakes which he bakes himself. A student at the state normal at Pittsburg, gains pin money by stuffing dead animals and birds, while another college student earns his rations by making shoes for corpses.

PROGRAM FIXED FOR ANNUAL K. U. RELAY

Ten Relays and Nine Special Events Announced for Event
April 23

Lawrence, Kan., April 7.—Twelve relay races and nine special individual events were announced today as the program of events for the tenth annual Kansas relays of April 23 by Dr. F. C. Allen, director of athletics of the University of Kansas and manager of the Kansas relays.

The Kansas relays proper again will be a one-day event, with preliminaries in the 100-yard dash and 120-yard high hurdles set for the morning of Saturday, April 23, and the program of final events scheduled to start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In addition to the regular relays program the Missouri Valley A. A. U. will again conduct an open decoration event, five events of which will be run off in the Kansas stadium the afternoon of Friday, April 22, and the final five events the morning of Saturday, April 23.

The seven university class relay events include the quarter mile, half-mile, one mile, two miles, four miles, distance medley (440, 880, 1320, one mile), and 480 yard shuttle hurdle relay.

College class relay races are at one-half mile, one mile, two miles, and a distance medley (440, 880, 1320, one mile). There also is listed a one-mile relay for junior college athletes.

The special individual events to be contested include the hundred yard dash, 120 yard high hurdles, 1,500 meters run, a new event replacing the former 3,000 meters run, shot put, javelin throw, discus throw, high jump, board jump, and pole vault.

With the indoor track season now practically over throughout the United States, the athletes are turning attention to the outdoor events which are to point them for their try at the United States Olympic team. The Kansas relays is the first major outdoor carnival in this section of the United States and it is expected that the coming Olympic games will produce a crop of athletes this season which will make the Kansas relays and other pre-Olympic events even more outstanding as to performance than usual. Evidences of the record breaking performances to come this spring already have been piled up in the indoor meets this winter.

COSMO CLUB TO HAVE RECORDS OF ALUMNI

Majority of Alumni Now Holding Responsible Positions According to Reports
Members of the Cosmopolitan club will not be forgotten when they are gone, for reminders of them will be preserved in the Cosmopolitan alumni book which is being composed by Myrtle Zenir, a member of the Kansas State chapter of the club. One page of the book is to be devoted to each person who has been a member of the Kansas State club, according to Miss Zenir.

"I have tried to get in touch with each member and hope that I may have his picture, his date of entrance into the club, address in homeland, birthplace, ancestry, division, classification, national flag, map of his state or country, and something about what he is doing now," Miss Zenir says. She now has filled 52 pages in the book.

Most of the Cosmopolitan club alumni are really doing things since their graduation. Ramon Alvarez Acivedo, '27, Philippine Islands, is junior bacteriologist in the serum laboratory, bureau of science, Alabang Rinal, P. I. Guibabing Amarsing Ajanal, '28, India, is teaching bacteriology and pathology, and doing research work in rinderpest vaccines, Madras Veterinary college, Madras, India. Francisco Taburner '31, and Francisco Albano Asis '29, have been connected with a troupe of Filipino singers known as the "Varsity Four" since September. In the last month, however, the troupe has disbanded and Taburner is taking work in the veterinary department at Kansas State. Hoon Koon Lee '27, Korea, is in charge of agricultural education in Korea. Mildred Bobb, '27, American, is teaching in Muttra, a government school in India. "Muttra is one of the largest Hindu centers in India," her letter states, "and recently several leading non-Christian men have organized a Cosmopolitan club to be founded on love, and to exist for the furthering good will and brotherhood among all people. Membership is open to all regardless of religion, creed, caste, or sex. It is a sign of the changes through which India is passing at the present time."

Andre Augant, the Haitian student who graduated last spring and received his master of science degree from Kansas State at the end of summer school last year, has an office with the service technique department in Haiti. Many students may remember him as "Bibi" Bakri and Nadin Barudi from Syria who were in college last year. Both boys are back in Syria now and glad to be there, they write. Bardul joyfully adds, "It's good to be home but I'll never forget good old Kansas."

Simon Ortiz, '29, Mexico, is working in the research laboratory of a chemical company, Buffalo, N. Y. Ignacio Ortiz, '29, Mexico, is employed in the Lakawana iron works, Lakawana, N. Y. Antonio de la Garza, '29, is doing agricultural work for the Mexican government.

K.S.C. NINE WILL PLAY A SEASON OPENER TODAY

KANSAS STATE TEAM MEETS COLLEGE OF EMPORIA IN OPENER

MEET HASKELL SATURDAY

Pitchers Making Trip Include
Auker, Lowell, Simms, Bul-kstra—Infield Appears To Be Settled

The Kansas State baseball team opens its season with a two-game series this week end, playing the College of Emporia Friday, and Haskell Institute Saturday. Coach C. W. Corsaut announced that he would take 18 men on this trip and that everyone would be given a chance to show his ability.

The line-up for the two games is expected to be as follows: Watson, catcher; Boyd, first base, Captain; Prentiss, second base; Carter, shortstop; Skradski, third base; Gents, centerfield. These men are sure to start, while the other two outfield positions will be filled by either Blaine, Etzel, Chalmers, Hasler, Wyant, or Myers. Auker will pitch the Emporia game and play one of the outfield positions at Haskell. At Haskell, Corsaut will use Lowell, a southpaw, to start the game and will hold Bulkstra and Simms in reserve.

Coach Corsaut said, "I do not intend to use much inside baseball on this trip but intend to have all the players try to hit, so I can get a line on my batters. The only time we won't try to hit the ball is in the event we need one run to win and have a runner on third."

Coach Corsaut is quite well satisfied with his infield, but his outfield is an unknown quantity. He intends to select his regular outfielders on the basis of their play this week end.

Men who are making the trip are: Auker, Bulkstra, Lowell, and Simms, pitchers; Watson and Wilcox, catchers; Prentiss, Boyd, Carter, and Skradski, infielders; and Gents, Etzel, Chalmers, Blaine, Hasler, Wiggins, Myers, and Wyant, outfielders.

Sport Briefs

By John Underwood
The belated arrival of spring, though welcome, has been accompanied with a blustering wind which has put a decided crimp in the early season training in spring sports. Baseball practice, except for two sessions, has been held in the city park where there is little shelter from the blasts. Tennis has been the hardest hit of the sports. Outdoor track has held up in the face of the adverse conditions, holding their workouts daily.

The college baseball club is fast rounding into form, with the infield set, and one outfield berth filled. Three likely-looking pitchers have been found in Auker, Lowell, and Bulkstra; only one more is needed to complete the hurling staff. There are two outfield positions still unsettled, and the four or five aspirants for the places are all deficient in some phase or other. The games over this week-end will show how these men work under fire. All are to be used, and perhaps the troublesome problem will be settled.

The tennis team is pointing for its first match of the season this coming Tuesday, with Ottawa university at Ottawa. The elimination matches scheduled for the first of the week to determine the traveling squad was postponed because of the weather. The trials are now under progress, and Coach C. S. Moll will announce his team Monday.

Two features of the practice ball game of the college squad on successive days are worthy of comment. Pee Wee Carter, diminutive short stop, stepped into a fast ball the other night for a four base walk. Every ounce of his 130 pounds went into his swing, and the ball sailed far out in left field. He has since been dubbed "Bambino." Auker, ace of the pitchers, and a formidable batter at all times, waved his wand at four pitches of Stockwood's. He got an extra strike because of a dropped third strike. The crowd knowing his record were unmerciful in their razzing.

Oklahoma university is still without a football coach for the coming season, and according to the latest rumor they are now trying to get "Lone Star" Dietz, of Haskell. If the attempt is successful, the rival Big Six schools will find a stiff brand of competition coming from the Sooners, because that team knows football in and out.

The 1933 grunt and groan men from Iowa State captured by Bob Hens will have a champion in every weight except the heavyweight division. These championships include Big Six, state, and A. A. U. With such a line-up they will be hard to best next year.

The proposed rule to eliminate the stall in basketball reads that the team in possession of the ball has to bring it to the center of the court within ten seconds after taking it off the backboard. The penalty will be the loss of the ball, which will be taken outside at the point nearest the player with the ball when time was called. The referee working with the time-keeper will be the judge of the time limit. This rule is conceded acceptance. What is to prevent a club with a tall center to work the ball up to the center of the court where he will be ranging around to take a pass and return it immediately to the back court? Such a process could go on indefinitely, and still be in accordance with the rule above. Stalling, therefore, would not be eliminated, merely made a little more difficult.

Alex Nigro, former Kansas State three sport star, is still with the Toledo baseball club. A weak throwing arm has hampered his showing in the spring practices, and it was feared for a while he might be released. When in college his arm was one of the best ever seen in collegiate ball, until a football shoulder injury weakened its power. The shoulder was hurt in a game with Nebraska, and, ironically enough, the last game of his third year of competition.

DOPE FAVORS KANSAS STATE WIN AT EMPORIA

Haylet's Track Squad Expected To Take Hurdles, Jump Events
Tomorrow

Coach Ward Haylett and 28 of his track men invade Emporia tomorrow for the first outdoor dual meet of the season. Last year the Kansas State men came away on the long end of a 92 to 38 score, but the impressive showing made by the Teachers in a previous meet with the College of Emporia does not predict another such decisive victory.

Injuries to two of the Kansas State men occurred this week. Captain Harry Hinkle hurt his toe in a high hurdle during the week trials last Monday, and skinned up a knee quite badly. His leg is still stiff, but he will enter the hurdles. Glen Harsh pulled a muscle in his leg during the same tryouts, and it was necessary to cancel his entry in the dashes. He will run in the relay, however.

Kansas State is favored to take the hurdles, high and broad jumps, and the pole vault. In the other events nothing can be predicted, but the Manhattan boys are hoped to win the meet.

The events and the athletes who will compete in each are as follows:

100-yard dash—Elwell, Going and Parsons.
220-yard dash—Elwell, Darnell and Parsons.
120-yard high hurdles—Breen, Smutz, and Hammel.
220-yard low hurdles—Breen, Hinkle, and Smutz.
440-yard dash—Darnell, Shirk, and Castello.
880-yard run—Smith, Miller, and Hostetter.
One-mile run—McNeal and Landon.
Two-mile run—Pearce, Daniels, and Nixon.
Shot—Bell and Schooley.
Discus—Claassen, McVey, and Schooley.
Javelin—Veatch and Laird.
High jump—Ehrlich, Breen, and Smutz.
Broad jump—Breen, Kennedy, and Ehrlich.
Pole vault—Jordan, Kenedy, and Smutz.
Relay—Castello, Shirk, Harsh, and Darnell.

IOWA MAT SQUAD FOR 1933 WILL BE GOOD

Many Changes Included On Cyclone
Grappler's Squad

Ames, Iowa, April 7.—All except one of the prospective 1933 Iowa State college wrestlers will be champions.

With the single exception of Leland Meacham of Clarion, heavy-weight, every man, it now appears, who will be on the 1933 line-up will have one or more championships to his credit. Roland Lillie of Guthrie Center, sophomore 118-pounder, is Big Six and Iowa champion. Gilbert Golden, Ellsworth, is Midwest A. A. U. and state 126-pound champion. In the 135-pound class, Walter Thomas, Tulsa, Okla., is Big Six champion. Merrill Prevett of Rudd holds the state 155-pound championship. And George Martin of Eagle Grove is Big Six and state champion in the 165-pound class.

This list will make up a complete 1933 team except for the 145-pound class. And Coach Hugo Otopalik, who is to coach the American Olympic team this summer, has this deficiency covered.

"Thomas will probably move up to the 145-pound class," he says. Golden to the 135-pound and Lillie to the 126-pound. This will leave the lightweight division open—and we have Lawrence Gibson of Harris. Big Six 118-pound champion of last year, ready to step in there."

VEEYKER EXPERIMENTS WITH I. S. GRID TEAM

Second Place Cyclones Will Have Only 7 Regulars Back
Next Year

Ames, Iowa, April 5.—With but seven regulars returning from the team which placed second in the Big Six conference last year, George Veenker, Cyclone football coach, is faced with the task of building another winning team largely from freshmen and other inexperienced griders.

Of the seven veterans, three—Dick Prefe, Des Moines, Ed Schaefer, Ankeny, and Ivan Impostor, Glidden—will form the nucleus of a backfield which will be supplemented by a bevy of heavy, fast freshman backs from what many fans termed the best Cyclone prep team in history, Richard Dana, Burlington, Ky., Ames of Peoria, Ill., and Donald Theophilus of Smithland. are three plunging full-backs who scale around 190 pounds each. Theophilus was all-state full-back when in high school in Nebraska.

Herbert Ohrt of Dexter, another freshman back, impressed the fans with his speed and elusiveness last fall. Ohrt will fill in at either half-back or quarterback. Other promising backs from the first-year squad are Wilbur Winter of Alden and William Stolp of Point Claire, Quebec, Canada. Stolp is now working at guard.

In the line, veterans are Harold Templeton, Ocheyedan, end; William Dixon, of Colfax, tackle; Gerald Smith of Milwaukee, Wisc., guard; Jack Beyer of Des Moines, center; and Hiram Roe of Ames, tackle. Of these five, only Templeton, given honorable mention by the United Press on its All-American team, played regularly last fall, although Smith and Dixon both received major letters. Roe and Beyer won minor letters.

Paul Berger of Manchester, Mo., looms as one of the most promising freshmen to fill in at tackle, the position which suffered most from loss of men last fall. Another outstanding freshman is Don Greife of Des Moines, 195-pound end.

Kenneth Albee of Muscatine, an outstanding high school trackman and football player, who won his letter two years ago, but was ineligible last season, is trying out at the end post. Other outstanding candidates for line positions are Andrew Farrell, of Omaha; Charles Hughes of Logan, squad members last season who tasted varsity competition in some of the games; Magnus Lichter of Algona, freshman numeral winner in 1929; Bob Hess of Cresco, Iowa State's national champion 174-pound wrestler; and Glen Liston of Tama, who was a member of Notre Dame's freshman team in 1930, Rockne's last year.

Women's Sports

Inter-class competition in track will be held on April 28 at 4 o'clock, May 6 and 13, 5 o'clock. Girls who wish to compete will have to practice with the field and track class which meets every day at 10 o'clock.

Seniors of the department of women's physical education left yesterday to observe physical education work in the Wichita high schools. The inspection continues today.

Those who made the trip are Marjorie Lyles, Saffordville; Esther Hobson, Kingman; Thelma Large, Protection; Doris Paulson, El Dorado; Verna Eveleigh, Boyd; Ruth Silkenen, Dell Rapids, S. D.; Virginia Edelblute, Galvesta, Slevier, Evelyn and Ernestine Young, Charlotte Remick, and Maxine Wickham, Manhattan; Edith Miller, Salina; and Gertrude Wilber, Belleville. Prof. Helen Baum and Assistant Professor Bernice Patterson accompanied the girls.

One hundred and fifty-four coeds will begin swinging the ball and bat in intramural baseball, Monday, April 11.

Majors of the women's physical education department will have charge of the teams. They are Mary Lou Clark, Burr Oak; Eva Brownwell, Wichita; Helen Morgan, Newton; Verna Anderson, Topeka; Erma Jean Miller, Manhattan; Myrtle Andres, Alta Vista; Mildred Forrester, Wamego; Leora Light, Liberal, Cora Oliphant, O'ferle; Dorothy Maltby, Canton; Kathryn McKinney, Bartlesville, Okla.; Alice Buckmaster, Manhattan; H. Hempler, Alice Wilsey, Washington; Esther Hobson, Kingman.

Competing teams are Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Omega Pi, Beta Phi Alpha, Zeta Tau Alpha, Neophytes, Van Zile hall, Winers and "X" team.

FURTHERS HIS STUDIES
Clarke Rife, Anthony, who completed requirements for the degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering last semester, will take additional courses in teachers training at the College of Emporia next summer.

L. E. Spong, Enterprise, is in the college hospital suffering with pneumonia.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"One Hour With You"
And it is a charming hour with the intangible Maurice Chevalier and the delicious Jeanette MacDonald. A spicy and tuneful hour, for Chevalier and Jeanette are two who can burst into song in the midst of the dialogue and make it seem natural and spontaneous. The song hits are tuneful and numerous.

This is the merry comedy of married life from a new angle—the bright tales of a happily wedded pair whose happiness is threatened by the wiles of the wife's best friend, Genevieve Tobin (who never looked more winsome), and the husband's best friend, Charles Ruggles, who is at his silliest.

A welcome addition to the already superb cast is Roland Young, who complicates things as much as possible for the irrepressible pair.

You'll find yourself chuckling and grinning an hour afterward for the Chevalier park and boudoir scenes are as surprising and sly as only Chevalier park and boudoir scenes can be.

"One Hour With You" is an exhilarating cure for blues, spring fever, or whatever ails you.—E. G.

VARSITY

"Behind The Mask" is a really thrilling mystery play. Of course Jack Holt is somewhat exaggerated in his he-man qualities, but he carries it off gracefully. The production is well worked out—and everything that happens seems perfectly logical—whether it is or not.

The plot is briefly this: A secret service man—Jack Holt—does time in prison in order to get a clue to the identity of the leader of a drug gang. He becomes acquainted with a member of the gang, secures admittance as a member when he makes a break from prison, and in the end, of course, succeeds in uncovering the entire regime. Naturally the things he escapes are incredible, but then—it's a mystery and a thriller—and it is really effective. Perhaps my tendency to be snooty comes from an attempt to cover up how really exciting the picture was.

The shorts are good. Anyone who cares for horses will regret missing the Grantland Rice skit on the Kentucky Derby. And there is a good comedy—not one of those affairs in which everything is smashed up in the fade-out, but one with real humor. And if the comedy fails to amuse you, there is the latest attempt to make news of the Lindbergh kidnapping. You'd really be surprised at one of the Lindbergh great-aunt's opinions about kidnapping. When the title, "Does Lindbergh Have a Sister?" was flashed upon the screen, one of the smarter cash-customers sitting near us was heard to remark: "Hell, why don't they ask his mother?" which proves there's more in a movie than a movie.—R. ## Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

From the standpoint of land involved the division of agriculture still leads the college. Three departments of the division actually operate farms. The agronomy farm comprises 320 acres, the horticulture farm (commonly called the orchard) covers 80 acres, the poultry farm 24 acres, and the department of animal husbandry uses 624 acres, most of which is pasture land.

However, all of the farming isn't done on these plots. C. O. Grandfield, agronomy agent, raises alfalfa in a greenhouse, and Prof. C. D. Davis is establishing a weed garden on a 100 foot square piece of ground. The latter project is to contain thriving examples of notoriously common weeds, complete knowledge of which is notoriously uncommon.

Sticking to the spirit of the occasion in all of its program, the department of animal husbandry served a roast lamb dinner to those visitors who came in for the annual sheep day Saturday.

Doubtless many new reasons for placing dairy cows up or down in their respective classes will come to light Saturday when the dairy club holds its annual dairy cattle judging contest. The event is open to all students regardless of how much college training in such work they have had.

Even the veterans don't know exactly what to expect in the Ag Fair this year. There has even been a suggestion floating around that the home ecs should be taken in and the whole affair turned into a regular old time fair. "A boy will work so much harder when he knows a girl is watching him or working with him," at least that's what some of the Ags say.

One thing has been settled—there will be music. A six-piece band as been arranged, or is it five? The follies will be fully as foolish as formerly and there will be no lack of new and instructive side-shows.

Perhaps even a mechanical hired man will be displayed which will draw synthetic milk from a mechanical cow. But that is only a conjecture.

On a bulletin board in a corridor of the west ag building farm produce prices are posted from day to day, primarily for the benefit of agricultural economics students. But on almost any day numbers of young men may be seen scanning the lists to see just how much longer—at the present price of wheat—the budget will survive without a trimming.

There may be a moral in the story but just what it is the reader must discover. It seems that three students came to a laboratory without their manuals and without their locker keys (like the nursery rhyme kittens). To remedy the situation they asked the instructor if he pos-

AGS NAME HEADS OF COMMITTEES FOR ANNUAL FAIR

BOARD PLANS MANY NEW ATTRACTIONS—INCLUDES HAYSEED CONTEST

STAGE BATTLE IN STADIUM

Engineers Will Pick 30 of Their Biggest and Best to Meet Team of Branny Farmers

Preparations for the 1932 Ag fair to be held April 30, are progressing satisfactorily, according to Earl Regnier, Ag 4, Spearville, manager of the event. A meeting of the fair board will be held this afternoon to decide on an orchestra for the dance to be held in the gym and to consider other arrangements for the fair.

The annual push-ball contest between the Ags and the Engineers is arousing interest. Walt Zeckler, AAS, Alma, captain-elect of the Kansas State 1932 football team is to lead the Ag pushers in the contest which will be held on the football field in the stadium at three o'clock in the afternoon. All participants will be required to wear soft shoes and kid gloves to prevent lacerations, according to Tom Dicken, Ag 4, Winfield, manager of that event.

A prize valued at $5 is to go to the winner of an entirely new feature of the fair, the hayseed contest, which is under the supervision of Charles Nauehm, Ag 4, Hoyt. The prize will go to the person wearing a costume depicting the most typical backwoods farmer of the Middle West of today or a decade ago. Contestants must wear their outfits on the Ag fair grounds during the day.

Joe Smerchek, Ag 4, Garnett, has the unique title of committee man in charge of the "moon room" which is to be the room in the east end of the gym where the mooners can moon during the dance.

Other committee chairmen and their respective jobs are Oliver Shoupe, AAS, Udall, old Ford race; Loy McMullen, AAS, Oberlin, greased pig race; terrapin race, Gaylord Munson, Ag 2, Junction City; Albert Wilhelm, Ag 4, Arkansas City; Ag follies; Edwin Krasny, Ag 2, Topeka, ag minstrels; John Miller, Ag 4, Larned, educational exhibits; D. ## COLLEGE BAND BROADCASTS

Sauss's "Kansas Wildcat" Features Program Friday

Members of the college band, directed by Prof. Lyle W. Downey of the department of music, broadcast a program from radio station KSAC last Friday evening. Benjamin Markley, Bennington, senior in the department of music, was announcer.

Feature numbers on the program included "Kansas Wildcat," a march written for Kansas State college students by the late John Philip Sousa; a selection, "Pirata-tion," played by a cornet trio composed of John Held, Ottawa; Vorse Elliott, McPherson; and Roland Elliott, Stafford, and "Querida," a Mexican serenade.

Professor Downey spoke briefly concerning the band and its program for the year.

Dr. J. E. Ackert discussed the new graduate division at the college, stressing the advantage of graduates who are temporarily unemployed attending school for further educational work during the economic depression.

COLLEGE BAND GIVES CONCERT

Feature of Sunday's Musical Entertainment Is "Kansas Wildcat" Composed By John Philip Sousa

A music recital in the form of a band concert by the college band was presented Sunday, April 10, at 4:15 o'clock in the college auditorium. This differed somewhat from the usual recitals which have consisted of individual talents among the faculty and students.

One of the features of the program included the march "Kansas Wildcat" which is a composition by the late John Philip Sousa. Another interesting number was a cornet trio playing the selection "Firtation" by Clarke; the trio was made up of Vorse Elliott, ME2, McPherson; Roland Elliott, LJ1, Stafford; and John Held, EE2, Ottawa; other numbers played were: "The Pilgrim" a grand march by Lake; an overture entitled "The Altar of Genius" by King; "Querida" a Mexican serenade by Vandercook; "Two Guitars" by Horlick; a selection from "Maritana" by Wallace; and "Boston Comandery March" by Carter.

JOURNALISTS EDIT PAPER

Team of Five Supplants Coffeyville Journal Staff For Two Days

Five journalism students are in Coffeyville on a press trip, where they are editing the Monday and Tuesday issues of the Coffeyville Journal.

Students making the trip are Oma Bishop, Abilene; Rachel Lamprocht, Manhattan; Guilford Rallsback, Langdon; Kenneth Harter, El Dorado; and Ward Colwell, Onaga. F. E. Charles, associate professor of journalism, accompanied the team. They will return to Manhattan Wednesday.

Monday evening the group broadcast from KGGF, the Journal station. Every year the journalism department sends out from the college press teams taking rural press and related subjects, to supplement theoretical knowledge with practical experience.

A team of ten students edited the Salina Journal several days last month. The Kansas Day edition of the Topeka Capital is edited each year by Kansas State journalism students. During the Christmas holidays, a team edited the Clay Center Dispatch for three days.

Last year, press teams worked on the Minneapolis Messenger, Beloit Gazette, Concordia Blade-Empire, Belleville Telescope, Topeka Capital, Washington County Register, and Frankfort Daily Index.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

K club members weren't so smart when they chose this week in which to initiate new members. The box score of the two baseball games with Kansas, and the result of the track meet with Oklahoma may not be what they should be, all on account of the ill-timed hell week. . . . Spring must be the mating season. Several fraternity pins have appeared on the bosoms of fair coeds within the past week or so. Bill Myers of the Student Council, Ed Lohman, former man-about-the-hill, Dean McNeal, stellar track man, and Ray Spence, diminutive yell leader, are a few of those affected by the balmy weather. . . . One of the smartest journalism students who was asked when Sousa composed the Wildcat march, answered "Before he died." . . . One of the commerce students caught a bee yesterday and stole into the journalism building with the insect, intending to deposit it in the office of Professor Keith. The office was locked. The student was stung, not Keith. . . . The popular tunes heard in Anderson yesterday were coming from the loud speaker attached to a victrola in recreation center which college officials are considering purchasing for the use of those entertaining with small parties in the college social center. . . . Names of those instructors who insist upon calling roll before the final bell rings, and in dismissing classes after the bell has ceased to ring may compose another Black List which the Collegian will run if present tactics are not changed. . . .

WAREHAM AND WELFARE BOARD HANG OUT FLAG

PEACE HOVERS OVER HOUSES OF SUNDAY SHOWS WHILE HEARING IS PENDING

NO SABBATH PERFORMANCE

Theaters Will Be Closed on First Day of Week Until Follock Makes A Decision

The management of the two Dickinson circuit theaters here and the city welfare board temporarily buried the hatchet on the Sunday show question at the hearing at the city court Saturday morning. Harry Wareham, manager of the local Dickinson theaters, agrees to give no more Sunday performances and in return the welfare board will take no action until after the hearing in the circuit court of appeals. The welfare board plans to hold another hearing after the circuit court of appeals rules on the injunction. The board feels that the Pollock injunction, which restrains certain state and county officials from interfering with the showing of Fox films in Kansas on Sunday, has no relation to the city ordinance which provides for a welfare board with the power to stop operation of shows, pool halls, and dance halls on Sunday and the state Sunday labor act closing law.

Harry Frazee of Lawrence, attorney for the Dickinson theaters, advised that he intends to file contempt of court proceedings against county attorneys in other counties who interfered with Sunday shows. He declared also that he had word from Judge Pollock that his injunction restrained the Manhattan welfare board.

Mrs. C. O. Swanson, secretary of the board, accused the theater management of showing other than Fox films last Sunday, for although the feature was a Fox film, the special attractions were not.

Mrs. Swanson further stated that the welfare board has no personal feelings in the matter whatsoever, but the question is whether any interest shall have the right to issue an injunction against a state law and a city ordinance. Mrs. Swanson is personally not opposed to shows of educational value being shown on Sunday, but if the board allowed theater performance on Sunday it could not prevent the opening of pool halls and dance halls. Besides this, a state law and a city ordinance have been violated, she believes, and the board therefore feels justified in its actions.

Carrying Captions, Cats, Canines

Gandhi has nothing on "K" club initiates. In fact, none of them has much on their physical selves, while their mentalities are weighted down with worries and then more worries. The athletes are going through hell week an identical week to the one from which the name was derived. The big men who fight so the name of Kansas State may live, especially on sport pages, represent various nationalities, sexes, and what-have-you, on the campus. They furnish color to the classrooms, and laughs for the classmates. They ride burros, lead dogs, carry cats, sell books, and do any number of miscellaneous things. They in fact, do anything and everything, and are wearing anything and everything today as they did yesterday while the veteran athletes look scornfully on and cill off roders. This devil work has been going

An older member of the faculty remarked recently that she "marveled at the ungentlemanliness"—all of that—of college students who do not tip their hats when they meet a "lady." What . . . wearing hats again!

AND WHAT THEY DISCOVER!
And another faculty member just yesterday discovered a little book entitled "The Age of Reason" written a number of years ago by a fellow by the name of Paine. This same f. m. discovered also, with a little reading in the book, that Brother Paine had a philosophy worth some consideration.

Funny though, the things these faculty members will discover, once let alone. Most of us cannot remember having read a sixth grade history without having read something about "The Age of Reason" or "Commonsense," written by the same Paine. Or perhaps later we came across a reference to the Dickens Paine stirred up among some of the old Quaker fathers when we were reading early American literary history.

These faculty members do discover things.

Some one told a reporter the other day that it is, among a professor's most difficult tasks—this thing of telling a student that he is a misfit in the course, in question. Perhaps it isn't so easy. But how about trying to convince the prof he would be a misfit anywhere except on the college campus?

SEAL COMPETITION
And now come the pros with another advantage of this thing they call depression. They say it's making us all see what competition can mean; that it will be a lasting lesson and a benefit.

Furthermore, they say when we, who are about to be graduated, are seeking jobs some ten and twelve years from now, we'll realize the value of a college degree. They come right out like that—some ten and twelve years from now.

Heck, do they mean we'll all be depressed so long? By that time the Philippines will have gone native.

But, all attempted jokery aside, there is something in what these pros say. There's something to this competition more than there has been heretofore. When this depression lifts, and no one will dare admit he fears it will not, there's going to be a mad scramble, and it's going to be the fittest who survive the struggle. That's the reason we as students are told to keep going, to surmount the botherations, and to make the most of what too frequently seems too much for us. And that's the reason we're encouraged to hang on and to get that blessed degree.

The pros are right. It's a lesson long in the learning, and hard in the teaching, but in the long run—and after the dozen years—when we come out on top we'll have weathered competition among the best.

HAMPS AND IOS WIN IN PLAY COMPETITION

Alpha Beta Places Second in Fifth Annual Inter-Society Contest

Members of the Hamilton and Ionia literary societies won first prize in the fifth annual inter-society play contest in the college auditorium last Friday evening, April 8, with their presentation of "Good Medicine." Ruth McCammon, Manhattan, was director. They were awarded $15.

Second place in the contest was awarded to members of Alpha Beta society who presented "His First Dress Suit" under the direction of Merle Burgin, Coals.

This is the fifth consecutive year the Hamilton and Ionia societies have placed first in the inter-society contest, which is sponsored by the inter-society council. Five literary societies at the college took part in the contest Friday evening under leadership of their respective directors.

Characters in the winning play were: Bob Eychner, Jewell; Winifred Wolf, Ottawa; and Margaret Bennett, Garfield.

Societies entering the contest, and their respective plays are: Brown-Athenian, "The Moving Finger"; Franklin, "Cheese"; Alpha Beta, "His First Dress Suit"; Webster-Eurodelphian, "The Murder of Marat"; and Hamilton-Ionian, "Good Medicine."

Judges of the contest were Major Harry E. Van Dusen, military department; Prof. L. V. White, department of civil engineering; and Mrs. F. B. Forrester, Manhattan. A. B. Green, Dallas, Texas, was stage manager, and Ione Clothier, Holton, was publicity manager. C. J. Martinez, Manhattan, had charge of the lighting system of the stage.

The Snooper

The Snooper Royal of the Collegian staff has gone wandering again—this time in body as well as in mind. Ye! Olde Substitute Snooper slips into the journalistic harness with no noticeable amount of ease, deafening silence from his intermittent public, and instructions in thumbing rides to nowhere in particular left him by the Collegian's own snooper.

Are you listenin'?

K Fraternity possesses a strange power. It takes quite harmless, collegiate appearing lads and turns them into spectacles even a mother couldn't love. Take Russ Smith. Some discerning K man with an eye for effect realized that red is not exactly Russ's color. Russ, nevertheless, is fetching in red this week. Emmett Breen, accustomed to riding nothing but the shoulders of his adoring class-mates (see the next college movie) gallops gallantly to class astride a mule. Some say it's a pony. The Snooper, however, refuses to go into the biology of the situation right here in this column.

There are strange costumes, stranger actions. Nothing under heaven—not love, not starvation—could make George Boone look like George Boone looked yesterday—but K fraternity can. The price of broad manly shoulders comes high.

The initiation brings reminiscing. Doris Paulsen recalls she lent Glenn Harsh two silk petticoats during last year's K Fr. frivolities, and has seen neither, hem nor strap of them since. What Glenn has done with them is a mystery, to be sure, but a girl owning two silk petticoats is a museum piece.

The old Canteen, all dressed up and sanitary, makes one believe in evolution. There's no keeping a good Canteen down.

Suggestion to the Greeks for exemplification of true fraternity affection: There are two extra large booths in the back of the Canteen. With a little persistence, a fraternity or two can occupy those booths consistently enough that they may be called by the Greek names of the winning clubs. Kappa Kage would be cute. And there's nothing slow about Phi Kappa Phi Phoo-Eaters. But we suggest that Sigma Nu come out with something sweet and simple like Sigma Nu Tau Epsilon of Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science Koke Konsumers.

Shoot if you like. We've lived right.

Since the Canteen didn't pay for all this advertising, the Snooper is thinking of liquidating the debt and taking care of it himself.

Mud Rhoades, in a spirit of brotherly love, lent his tux to F. D. Gomez. When Mud next wore the tux he found a tooth brush encased in a celluloid holder in an inside pocket, left there by Gomez. And that's what's called planning ahead.

There's a story going round about Tine Lantz. Clad as a beggar, Tine roamed the streets of Wahneg last Saturday, and according to reports, made a haul. That just proves what anyone can do with a fresh start in a new town.

Three a. m. Collegian office screwy time. SNOOPER signing off. All is well. (The hell it is!)

Lincoln Had Big Ideas

The poor boy who was born in a Kentucky log cabin and later split rails for a living might have lived and died in obscurity but for one thing: Big Ideas. It was Big Ideas that sent Lincoln to the White House. Big Ideas that captured the West in a network of railroads. Big Ideas that achieved every success.

The man with Big Ideas uses every ethical weapon. One of the greatest of these is the power of advertising. The Collegian, Mr. Merchant, offers you an opportunity to put your ideas before a group of people ready and willing to receive them.

HAYLETTMEN TO MEET SOONERS ON TRACK HERE

WILDCATS ARE SEEKING REVENGE FOR LOSSES SUFFERED SINCE 1915

SQUADS EVENLY MATCHED

However, Kansas State Has Edge on Southern School in Hurdles, High Jump, Pole Vault, And Quarter Mile

The Kansas State track squad will entertain the tracksters from Oklahoma university in the college stadium next Saturday afternoon. The Sooners retained most of their last year letter men, and will be strong in every department. Last year they took the meet by a decisive score, and the Wildcats will be trying to down them for the first time since the organization of the Big Six conference. The only victory Kansas State holds over the Sooners was the meet of 1915 when the Oklahomans were nosed out in a closely contested meet.

The Haylettmen have a good chance of breaking into the win column again Saturday. They finished in third place above the fourth place taken by Oklahoma in the Big Six indoor meet held in Kansas City this winter. However, the discus and javelin throw is not included in the indoor meets, and these two events are among the strongest of the Oklahoma team.

Both teams have had a warm-up meet this spring, and both won easily, however, without any outstanding times on the track or unusual performances in the field events. Kansas State is especially strong in the hurdles, high jump, pole vault, and the quarter mile run, while the Sooners have their forte in the broad jump, discus, javelin, and the dashes.

The entries of both schools in all the events will be:
100 and 220 yard dashes: Kansas State: Elwell, Going, Parsons, and Harsh. Oklahoma: Mell, Panze, Newblock, Simms, Adkinson, and Walker.

440 and mile relay: Kansas State: Darnell, Shirek, Harsh, and Castello. Oklahoma: Abbott, Mooney, Mell, Perry, Hewitt, Janz, Moore, Leonard.

880 yard run: Kansas State: Smith, Miller, Hostettler, Black and McNeal. Oklahoma: Strohshire, Leonard, Dale, and Moore.

Mile run: Kansas State: McNeal, Landon, Toadvine, Morgan, and Miller. Oklahoma: Daleand Moore.

2 mile run: Kansas State: Pearce, Daniels, Nixon, and Landon. Oklahoma: Dale, Moore, Leonard, Strohshire, and Elkins.

120 yard high hurdles: Kansas State: Hinkley, Breen, Schmutz, Fofnelli, and Hamel. Oklahoma: Hildt, Thrower, and Simms.

220 low hurdles: Kansas State: Same as high hurdle. Oklahoma: Men in the high hurdles and Newblock and Clark.

Shot put: Kansas State: Bell, Wertzberger, Cronkite, and Schooley. Oklahoma: Howell, Gillis, Thrower, and Marks.

Javelin: Kansas State: Veatch, Laird, Bell. Oklahoma: Klenz, Marks and Howell.

Discus throw: Kansas State: Claassen, Bell, McVey, Schooley, Oklahoma: Howell Gillos, Thrower and Marks.

High jump: Kansas State: Ehrlich, Breen, Schmutz, and Schooley. Oklahoma: Simms, Newblock, and Barham.

Broad jump: Kansas State: Breen, Kennedy, Elwell, Going, Ehrlich. Oklahoma: Morris, Mell and Walker.

Pole vault: Kansas State: Jordan, Schmutz, Kennedy, and Schooley. Oklahoma: Null, Thrower Clark.

WILDCATS DEFEAT EMPORIA TEACHERS IN TRACK MEET

Emmett Breen Is High Point Man in Competition Saturday; Claassen Also Stellar Performer

The Kansas State track team defeated the Emporia Teachers in their first outdoor meet of the season by the overwhelming score of 94 to 37. The Wildcats took all places in the mile run, high hurdles, discus and low hurdles.

Emmett Breen was the high point man of the meet, amassing a total of 16 points by winning the high hurdles, and the broad jump, and taking second place in the high jump and low hurdles. Another outstanding Wildcat performance was the discus throw of 138 feet 7 and 1-2 inches by Claassen. This mark ties an old varsity record made by Paul Gardner in 1927. Jordan sailed over the bar at 12 feet 8 inches to win the pole vault, and Rhoades of the Teachers set a new school record in the half mile run.

The mile relay was the feature track event of the day. The Haylettmen won in the good time of 3 minutes, 23.8 seconds. The times and field performances, while not exceptional were good throughout the meet, and had the competition been stiffer the marks would have undoubtedly been better.

The summary:
Mile run: Won by McNeal and Landon, K. S.; Miller, K. S., third. Time 4:31.2.

RACQUETEERS MEET OTTAWA

BASEBALL NINE DOWNS C. OF E. IN FIRST GAME

HASKELL INDIANS WIN SECOND ENCOUNTER BY SCORE OF 4 TO 3

BOYD THE BATTING STAR

Prentup, Carter, Myers, and Simms Also Show Well—Corsaut Predicts a Good Season

Coach C. W. Corsaut's baseball team gained an even break in its two game series last week end, defeating College of Emporia Friday, 7-1, and losing to Haskell Saturday, 4-3.

In the Emporia game, Simms' effective pitching was the deciding factor. The score until the seventh inning was tied 1-1, but at this point the Emporia defense cracked, and the Wildcats were able to score four runs on two errors and hits by Myers, Carter, and Boyd. In Hardin, Emporia Indian pitcher, the Wildcats found a chucker whose delivery was hard to solve, and until his support became ragged he had the Kansas State boys eating out of his hand.

Corsaut Is Satisfied
Coach Corsaut was very well satisfied with his team in the evening game. According to the coach, the team showed potential offensive strength to couple with its known defensive power.

At Lawrence Saturday, Haskell and Kansas State tied up in a good old-fashioned pitchers' battle which ended with Haskell the winner, 4-3. Lowell, Wildcat pitcher, and Shell, Haskell, held the batters well in hand, and neither team had many chances to score. In the second inning Hasler hit a home run with one man on base, but was called out for failing to touch third base. This was the only Wildcat score until the seventh when Boyd hit a home run to tie the score 2-2.

Indians Drive In Seventh
Then the Indians came back in their half of the seventh and scored two runs on three hits and an error. These scores seemed to cinch the game for Haskell but the Kansas State boys still had some punch left. They scored one run in the eighth, and had the tying run on third in the ninth with one man down, but missed a chance to score when a squeeze play failed.

After seeing his men in action in the opening series Corsaut predicts a good season. Boyd led the hitters on the trip with five hits out of eight times at bat. Prentup and Carter were next in order with three for nine apiece. Myers, who led the hitters with three hits for three at Emporia Friday was out of Saturday's game with a sprained ankle.

KANSAS NINES WILL MEET

Corsautmen Will Battle First Conference Game With Phog Allen's Team From Lawrence

The Kansas State baseball club opens the season at home this week end with a two-game series, when they meet Phog Allen's ball tossers from Kansas university. The first game to be played on Friday will count in the conference standing, the second game will be more of a workout for both teams.

Elden Auker is slated to take the mound in this opener, and K. U. will also use its ace, Cramer, a southpaw, in this encounter. The infield composed of Boyd on first base, Prentup on second, Carter at short, and Skradski on third, will take the field against the invaders.

The outfield is still unsettled, with the exception of Gentz who will be covering the center field. Hasler, Blaine, Myers, and Etzell are probable starters in the other outposts. Manhattan fans will have the opportunity to see Carmie Smith, the highly touted outfielder, in action during these frays. Smith is a big boy who tears the cover off the ball at bat, and fields his position with equal dexterity. He, like the pitcher who will oppose him, is scheduled for a big league trial upon completion of his collegiate ball this year.

In the game for Saturday Lefty Powell will be the slab for the K-Aggies, and Cooley, a good, right-hander will pitch for Kansas university. Lefty is a good hand, and with support will deal any club a lot of trouble. He was beaten by Haskell last Saturday, but the defeat was not due to the pitching. Lowell allowed only eight scattered hits in the game, and deserved a win.

Two other games will be played later in the season with K. U. The same system of counting only the first game of the series toward the conference race will also be used in these frays.

Sport Briefs

By John Underwood
This week end offers the first opportunity this spring for students to hunt up the activity books. The chance will be worth the time spent in waiting, for on deck is the only home track meet with the always formidable Oklahoma university, and two ball games with the Wildcats' bitterest friendly-rival, Kansas university. The track meet promises to be more closely contested than last year, and the two ball clubs are about even in the preseason doping, both suffering defeats at the hands of the Haskell Indians.

Howell, Oklahoma weight star, will be seen in action this Saturday. He has thrown the discus 151 feet this spring, which is a long heave

Industry takes a hint from the kitchen

The domestic art of baking is closely paralleled in telephone manufacture at Western Electric, where plastic molding is an exact science.

Telephone bell boxes, for instance, are no longer formed of metal. They are molded from a phenol plastic compound—containing carbolic acid, formaldehyde and other ingredients—because Western Electric manufacturing engineers saw the way to make a better product at lower cost. These men developed a new and exceptionally efficient type of plastic molding press—and determined precisely how long to bake the mixture and the exact temperature to use.

In quickly taking advantage of the new art of plastic molding, Bell System engineers once more showed that they have the kind of imagination that keeps American industry forging ahead.

FRILLS, SPILLS AND THRILLS IN AG FAIR PLANS

FOLLIES, SPORTS EVENTS AND DANCE COMBINE FOR BIG EVENT

REAL TERRAPINS TO RACE

Refreshment Booths Only Concessions in Gymnasium; "Moon Room" To Be Featured; Pig and Ford Races, Too

The desired music has arrived, the chorus is picked, and practice for the Follies of the 1932 Ag fair, April 30, will soon be in full swing, according to Albert Wilhelm, Ag fair manager.

Glenn Fox, Ag 3, Rozel, will be the leading "lady" in this year's show and will be supported by a chorus composed of Elbert and Delbert Esbaugh, Manhattan; J. H. Duncan, Kansas City, Mo.; Andrew Erhart, Tempekin; Martin Kock, Kansas City, Mo.; and C. T. Hall, New Albany. The Esbaughs will also be featured in a sister act, according to present plans.

Terrapin Race a Novelty

For those who are good judges of speed in the slowest of races, a "turtin" race will hold a great deal of interest. From ten to twenty terrapins will be used, according to Clifford Munson, Ag 3, Junction City, manager of the race. These terrapins will be numbered and, corresponding numbers sold to spectators before each race. The amphibians will be confined inside a barrier in the center of a large circle. At a signal the barrier will be lifted and the terrapins released. The first to cross the outer circle wins the race and the person holding the number corresponding to that of the winning animal will receive a prize.

Better Than Barnburner

The orchestra for the dance to be held in the gymnasium the night of the fair has not been selected but Barney Schofield and his band from K. U. are being considered, according to E. S. Sullivan, Ag 2, Mercer, who with L. R. Daniels, Ag 3, St. Francis, is in charge of that portion of the program. The dance will be on the order of the ag barnburner but will have better music and a more slick floor, Sullivan says. Refreshment booths will be set up inside the gymnasium but no other concessions will be allowed at the dance. A "moon room" to be arranged under the supervision of Joe Smerchek, Ag 4, Garnett, will interest those who do not care to dance all of the evening.

The hayseed contest under the guidance of Charles Nauheim, Ag 4, Hoyt, the greased pig race, supervised by Loy McMullen, Ag 4, Oberlin, the pushball contest between the ags and the engineers being arranged by Tom Dicken, Ag 4, Winfield, and the old Ford race officiated by O. W. Shoup, AA 4, Udall, will provide thrills and spills for sport-loving spectators.

FARM LEADERS HERE IN CO-OP CONFERENCE

More Than 150 In Attendance—Concluding Session Will Be Held This Noon

Kansas State is entertaining more than 150 members of Kansas farm organizations and agricultural co-operatives, here for the co-operative conference conducted by the college. The conference began yesterday afternoon and will conclude with a discussion today at 12:30.

St. S. Buzick, Jr., a member of the Kansas committee of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is a speaker on this morning's program. He will give an explanation of the reconstruction finance program.

Ernest F. Downie, assistant general manager of the Kansas Co-operative Wheat Marketing association, will lead a discussion on the non-member problem, and V. M. Rucker, marketing specialist of the college, will make a "business analysis of local co-operatives. The concluding discussion will be in charge of Frank Blechta, district county agent leader at the college.

A social feature of the conference was the banquet last evening at 6:30 in Thompson hall. C. A. Ward, president of the Kansas Farmers' union was toastmaster.

President F. D. Farrell spoke on "The Relation of the College to the Co-operative Movement." Dr. W. E. Grimes on "An Appraisal of Co-operative Progress in Kansas," and J. C. Mohler, secretary of the Kansas state board of agriculture on "Cooperation and Human Values."

OPEN ROAD NEXT WEEK

Project Financed by Faculty Unemployment Fund and General Upkeep Fund

A second project financed by the faculty unemployment fund will be completed when the road east of Memorial stadium from Anderson avenue to the engineering building will be opened next week.

Concrete curbs have been laid and the road bed has been graded to make it an all-weather road since work began a month ago. G. R. Pauling, superintendent of maintenance, has supervised the construction.

The first campus improvement project growing out of the unemployment fund was the pavement of the road back of Calvin hall this winter. The remainder of the faculty fund, supplemented by the general campus upkeep fund, was used in the second road construction.

Construction of a sidewalk between the veterinary hall and the veterinary clinic building and improvement in the road west of the engineering hall are included in spring campus work.

ANNUAL EXENT EXPECTED TO DRAW MANY FAMOUS WOMEN HERE

PROMINENT CO-EDS ON LIST

Reservations to Annual Matrix Table Will Be Accepted Until April 19; Will Award Penell To Best Reporter

Response to invitations sent by Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism society, indicate that guests at the Matrix Table banquet will include students, and women enrolled in the journalism course. The dinner will be held April 22 in the crystal room of the Wareham hotel.

With an invitation list with names of Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Charles Curtis; Miss Lida Woodring, sister of the Kansas governor; Mrs. Alf Langdon, wife of a Kansas Republican gubernatorial candidate; Mrs. Jonathan Davis, Kansas club woman; and Mrs. Ida Migliaro, editor of Household magazine, the banquet has assumed a new height among women in college social circles.

The speaker of the dinner is always a woman outstanding in literary or journalistic work. This year's speaker is Mrs. May Williams Ward, listed in "Who's Who Among North American Authors" as an editor and writer. Mrs. Ward will command attention by virtue of her position in Kansas literary circles. She has served as president of Kansas Authors club, editor of "The Harp," poetry magazine, and has had poems published in many magazines.

To the student selected as outstanding woman reporter, Theta Sigma Phi will award a penell. The name of the winner will not be announced until the night of the dinner.

Invitations sent to college students, members of the faculty, and wives of faculty women will be accepted until April 19, members of Theta Sigma Phi announced last night after a meeting. The dinner will be over before other Friday night functions will begin.

"More Room for Ken and Me if You'd Been Killed"

"You can just be thankful, Railsback that you're not back there in Coffeyville in the hospital instead of here with us" consoled Professor Charles on the way home from the press team's trip. "Well, there'd be a whole lot more room for Ken and me here in the back seat if he were back there," replied Colwell with a tinge of regret in his voice.

But here's the big story that broke for the journalists who went to Coffeyville the first of the week to edit the Journal, as it was told by one of them:

The really big story was the wreck—in which a train struck a street car and killed two of its three occupants, and critically injured the other, a Journal reporter. And the mere chance that one of the Manhattanites didn't accompany the reporter on that certain beat—just a lucky break for Harter or Railsback; and Harter's doing noble work helping the doctor hold down one of the delirious wreck victims (who died an hour later) and Harter's not being able to sleep later because of it—fairly doing a Lady Macbeth about it.

An efficient newspaper plant, momentary "mike fright," and the magic wreck that struck too close home to be comfortable—those are the things that will live in the memory of the journalism press team that edited the Coffeyville Journal early this week.

The group, consisting of Prof. F. E. Charles, Omaha Bishop, Abilene; Rachel Lamprecht, Manhattan; Ward Colwell, Onaga; Kenneth Harter, El Dorado; and Guilford Railsback, Langdon, left Manhattan Sunday morning, and returned to the home stamping ground of the Tuesday edition of the Journal had been published.

Other items not soon to be forgotten are: the meal at Burlington, consisting of chicken and extras, the decided obesity and slovenliness of the waiter, cook, and bus boy (all one person), who provided the above repeat, scenery that was interestingly different, with mines, oil tanks and brick plants scattered over the hillside, myriads of redbud in full bloom—and at last the impressive town of Coffeyville.

The Journal plant is one of the most modern and, in all respects, one of the finest in Kansas. Its staff members are interesting and pleasant; and the city editor looks like Wallace Beery, and is just as likeable. One reporter might easily double for a minister, another is a perfect Arrow Collar model, and another once was an instructor in a dancing academy of Russian ballet and Italian adagio.

Palace-like living quarters, food, with an orchestra and finger bowls, and pleasant work made the days pass quickly. The radio program was a feature, with Professor Charles introducing the talent, and saying that a press team is called that because it presses into a car, presses forward to its destination (the Journal) and then expresses itself.

And then a speech on living Kansas poets by Bishop and some right decent piano playing by the same person, a sport talk by Harter (written at the last minute and sounding like it), Rachel's talk on coming events here at the college—which really wasn't so bad, after then Railsback's exposition on "Vacation Spots in Kansas," being even worse than the subject.

And during all this, Colwell was out enjoying life with a fraternity brother he had unearthed. A reunion with former Kansas State students—Jo Johnston and Ruth Claeren—and a party after the radio program that wasn't quite a party.

CURRENT RACKETS EXPOSED

Advertising Counselor of Kansas City Business Bureau Tells of "Gyping" Schemes

Currents rackets were exposed by George F. McKenney, advertising counselor for the Kansas City, Mo., Better Business Bureau in a talk, "White Collar Bandits," to journalism students yesterday.

Business depressions always bring an increase in the "gyping" schemes, he advised, and described some of the fraudulent methods recently exposed in Kansas City. These included for the most part collecting down payments on houses, magazines and silverware, without delivering any merchandise, or selling supposedly smuggled furs, linens and laces.

"Investigate before you invest, and pay no cash in advance to strangers," suggested McKenney, member of the oldest business bureau in the country, started by a group of advertising men eighteen years ago.

Up to fifteen years ago, business was not conducted on a legitimate basis, but on the theory of "letting the buyer beware." Advertising has revolutionized business methods as well as our habits, and 80 per cent of all advertising is now honest. Loss of confidence of the public is costly to a newspaper, and in the average newspaper of good repute, one can feel safe in answering any advertisement in it, believes McKenney.

Two and a half billion dollars of the annual income of the United States is lost through fraud. The Better Business Bureaus of the country are designed to cut down this fraud loss, which means that twenty-five dollars is lost for everyone over 16.

PLAYS ITS PART ON CAMPUS

Maintenance Department Helps 58 Remain in School

Although nearly sixty students are partially supported by employment in the maintenance department of the college, few students realize the part the department plays in campus life.

There are three distinct divisions of the department: building and repair, heat and power, and custodian. The custodian division employs 35 students, the largest group of the three. Seventeen students help meet their expenses by working on building and repair, and the heat and power unit uses six students.

The work is in charge of G. R. Pauling, superintendent of the department, and R. F. Gingrich, assistant superintendent.

Prentup, 2b
Skradski, c
Gentz, 3b

Hasler, lf
Auker, p

Kansas State baseball fans will be given their first opportunity to see Coach C. W. Corsaut's club in action when Kansas State and Kansas university meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Today's game is the first of a two-game series. There will be another game tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, but the results of tomorrow's game will have no effect upon the Big Six conference standings.

Coach Corsaut indicated yesterday that he would start Elden Auker, ace of the Kansas State pitching staff, in today's game, with "Lefty" Howell in reserve.

According to local followers of Big Six baseball, the outcome of today's game is difficult to predict. Both clubs have been defeated this season by the Haskell Indians. Kansas university has lost three games to the Indians by scores of 10-5, 8-5, and 6-4.

Kansas State lost their second pre-season battle to the Indians last Saturday by a score of 4-3, after winning their first from Emporia Teachers last Friday.

In the practice session Wednesday, Coach Corsaut made a few changes in his line-up to add to the defensive strength of his club. Andy Skradski has been moved from third base to replace Watson at the home plate. Gentz will be shifted from center-field to take care of third base, and Hasler will replace Gentz.

The remainder of the line-up will be unchanged with Captain Prentup at second, "Bus" Boyd at first, Carter at short, and Myers and Blaine in the outfield.

The K. U. team as it stands now is an unknown quantity. A new coach and an almost entirely new team make it impossible to estimate the showing that will be made by the team. Carmie Smith, hard hitting outfielder of last year's Kansas team will take that position again this year however, and should prove to be a threat Smith will probably go to the big league after his graduation.

BABCOCK, AHEARN ON RADIO PROGRAM

A musical program will also be given by Charles Stratton, Max Martin, and Edwin Sayre of the department of music.

EARL REGNIER NAMED BY RECREATION GROUP

Kansas State Student One of Forty Chosen From Colleges of The County

Earl H. Regnier, Ag and LG 4, Spearville, has been selected by the National Recreation association as one of the forty seniors in American colleges and universities to attend the National Recreation school in New York next fall.

From the candidates who qualify in scholastic and potential leadership ability, the association admits this number each year to receive training in community recreation.

While in college here, Regnier has been a member of the college band, men's glee club, chorus, Alpha Zeta, Agricultural Economics club, Y. M. C. A. Collegiate 4-H club, wrestling and cheerleading squads, 35-to-college teams, and 4-H club quartet. He has been secretary of the Agriculture association manager of the Ag fair, program chairman of the Horticulture club, and is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho social fraternity. The course in the National Recreational school is for one year. Students put their theory into practice by superintending recreation in schools, churches, clubs, and community centers. Correspondence, reports, and problems received from all parts of the world are available for research work.

GUIDANCE GROUP TO MAKE REPORT AT OPEN FORUM

FACULTY-STUDENT COMMITTEES TO GIVE RESULTS OF THEIR INVESTIGATIONS

SURVEY EACH DIVISION

Students Urged to Attend Meeting To Be Held in Rec Center Next Tuesday Evening

By Mayrie Griffith

To give an opportunity to students and faculty to express their criticism and suggestions concerning existing conditions on the campus, the student governing association is sponsoring an open forum at recreation center, Tuesday, April 19, at 7:30 o'clock.

The central theme of the meeting will be vocational guidance and counseling activities and resources of our campus. The program will consist of the presentation of reports by the vocational guidance commission, composed of three representative students from each division, including at least one senior, appointed by the student council, followed by an open discussion from the floor by any student or faculty member.

Each organization and department has been requested to have at least one official representative in attendance, and Louise Davis, HE 4, Nashville, Tenn., appointed by the student council to promote the project, urges as many members as possible from each organization and department to be present in order to have an equal representation of both faculty and students.

A findings committee, who must be present at the forum and formulate a report of what happened at the meeting, have been appointed by Miss Davis. Those on the committees are: Prof. Harold Howe, of the department of agricultural economics, chairman; Kenneth D. Grimes, graduate of engineering, Topeka; Joel Kerker, EE 3, Overbrook; Ma' Alice Schnacke, IJ 3, LaSrosse; and Barbara Lautz, HE and A 2, LeJunta, Colo.

"It is hoped," Miss Davis said, "that through this forum the students and faculty can meet on common grounds with their complaints and suggestions, and that it is realized that only by an open discussion can students and faculty understand their mutual interests and responsibilities."

Two similar forums were held last year, but because of the lack of intensive investigation, were not entirely successful. The reports this year are much more complete than those of last and should be an excellent basis for discussion, Miss Davis believes.

RELIGIOUS GROUPS PLAN HIKES, PARTIES

Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists Will Hold Hikes This Evening

Religious organizations are providing a full week end of recreation for college students with hikes and parties.

The Wesley Foundation of the Methodist church will have a hike today at 5:30 o'clock, meeting at Rev. B. A. Rogers' home at 1630 Osage street. A hike for Presbyterian students is also scheduled for today at 5 o'clock. The students are to meet at 315 North Fourteenth street. The other hike for today is for Baptist students. The place of departure is from the Dr. A. A. Holtz residence at 419 Denison avenue. The Good Fellowship society of the Congregational church is sponsoring a hike to Wildcat Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Students going are to meet south of the gymnasium. ### TOO MANY IRONS.

The coming Student Council election is already stirring up much interest among the student body. Candidates are busy securing signatures to their petitions required to place their names on the ballots. Much is happening.

A recent development which causes one to wonder about the inside workings of nominating machines is the withdrawal of John Reincke as a prospective candidate in favor of Steve Vesceky, a fraternity brother of Reincke's. A petition is now being circulated in favor of Vesceky's nomination to the Council. This sudden change of mind on the part of Vesceky and Phi Sigma Kappa was known Thursday, and chapter meetings take place on Wednesday nights.

Vesceky's bid for a place on the Council seems to be a bit selfish, to put it mildly. His office as business manager of the 1932 Royal Purple will give him publicity enough, if it is publicity he is seeking.

There is a certain dignity connected with a place on the Council. Prospective members should be willing to sacrifice other activities in order to fulfill the membership in the Student Council to its highest merit.

There will be a sufficiently large number of candidates for the offices who will be well qualified, and who will be able to devote to the office the effort and time due it.

WHY WAMPUS CATS.

The Kansas State Chapter of Phi Epsilon Pi, (dimly remembered as "Wampus Cats") held their annual election of officers last night. Why should Wampus Cats have officers, and why should Kansas State have Wampus Cats?

The organization is supposed to exist primarily for the purpose of putting a bit of pep into all athletic events. Their activity at football games was hardly noticeable, and at basketball games their sole activity was giving the referee the Bronx cheer. Nice organization, that.

Yes, they have succeeded in doing one thing. They function exceedingly well as a social organization. Remember their tacky party last year? That was a wow.

IOWA CONDEMNS MILITARISM.

The movement for the abolishment of compulsory military training in colleges and universities received another boost early this week when representatives of 14 Iowa Universities and colleges passed a resolution favoring the discontinuance of R. O. T. C. units.

In their meeting at Grinnell, Iowa, the collegiate delegates favored the exchange of scholarships and professorships between American and European universities in order to further the spirit of a more broad co-operation between nations.

That policy would do much toward breaking down the existing attitude on the part of many nations toward their neighbors who are now armed to the teeth. At present, nations are in one mad scramble to keep up with each other in the number of battleships afloat, the man-power of their armies, and strength in other branches of war machinery.

That arming process only causes them to neglect looking over their own back fences, to neglect to make an honest attempt at trying to find out and appreciate the viewpoint of others.

QUEEN FOR A DAY.

The mania for electing queens seems to be practically uncontrollable on the campus. First there were the Royal Purple beauty queens, five of them, whose names have not yet been announced. Then there followed the Ag Barn Warner queen's election. Next in line was St. Patrick, queen of the engineers.

The Women's Athletic association certainly will not neglect to elect a Queen of May, and now the Ags propose to elect another queen to be the favored co-ed for their annual Ag Fair. They're going to out-do the engineers and the physical education girls and run the Royal Purple a close second.

There may be a vital need for having a queen for a day. Perhaps their Barn Warner queen has abdicated, relinquished her title, throne, and all that goes with being a queen. Or perhaps some enterprising Ag has a girl friend who needs a bit of publicity.

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

An opportunity is being extended to all students and faculty members to voice their criticisms and offer suggestions about existing conditions connected with their curricula. A special student forum is to be held next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in recreation center to discuss the findings of student-faculty research committees appointed some time ago.

Much good can come out of the forum if all students and teachers interested will attend. If you think that your faculty adviser gives you "the wrong advice," here is your chance to tell the committee about it. Or if you are of the opinion that your adviser does not know enough about your course to qualify him to advise you, attend the forum and state your views.

During the meeting, the committees appointed by Louise Davis will tell of their studies and make suggestions to remedy defects and otherwise improve present practices.

This special forum is practically the only means of making any improvements over existing practices. It is sincerely hoped that all students interested will attend.

The Snooper

The K fraternity three-ring circus in an Aggieville intersection during chapel under the direction and supervision of Jack Going brought forth mutterings from Effervescent Pete Smith, for Going's muscling in on his "master-of-ceremonies" racket. No doubt the mutterings have grown to thunderous proportions by this time—both men hall from the sheltering roof of Sigma Nu. However, the fact that Going made his appearance as per publicity convinces the Snooper as to his superiority over Effervescence.

The only dampening effect of the circus came about when Going's eye for business led to a hat-passing by Lion Tamer Clair Worthy and Roko Wertzberger, the wild man. Emmett Breen restored the confidence of the crowd by manfully doing a headstand on the hard pavement and at the same time flip his larriat neatly about the heels of the plunging "horses." Laugh, clown, laugh—the show must go on.

The highlight of "the greatest show on earth" came with the premy announcement that Sammie Coles had been elected the Goddess of Agriculture, thereby giving away one of the dominant features of the forthcoming Ag Fair.

The Snooper hastens forth to warn George Boone that his candidacy for president of the Chiselers' club is hanging on a precariously slim thread. Muddy Roads (it's always sweet revenge to misspell a man's name) sauntered into the pre-chapel Anderson crowd and with supreme nonchalance staged one of the most breath-taking demonstrations of chiseling ever beheld by man.

The "chiseled" was standing not three feet from the newly acquired date when Roads (ash, revenge!) swung into action. With his hair slicked down and his face aglow, he completely swept blonde Mildred Beard from her feet by his fluent and sophisticated conversation. Entirely unsuspecting, the "chiseled" walked off with the pair and not until the full length of the hall had been traversed, did he become aware of the turn of events.

Intense anger gave way to sheer admiration for the king of chiselers, Muddy Roads. Chet Freeman, himself a chiseler of some consequence, burst forth in a voluble stream of envious remarks. However, we have pledged our full support to George Boone and will not waver. We crave still more revenge: there Roads, take that, you such-and-such!

Social lions somewhat dubious as to the success of the night's party may obtain accurate and free reports on who will be there from Terry Pitts in Kupe's barber shop. The alert Terry keeps a mental check on the gigolos while going through the routine of his shoe-shining activities.

Judge For Yourself

LET'S STANDARDIZE.

It has been established that no two instructors grade the same. Even a cut and dried paper in mathematics has received grades ranging from failure to passing from different instructors. This is the existing situation, and yet instructors and assigners frown upon the practice of students picking their teachers for the grades they give. Theoretically people go to college to receive an education and grades are not supposed to matter, but the student receives because of the grades he gets, and his prospective employers inquire about them. Therefore, education or no, the main thing is good grades. If two fellows can take the same course under two different instructors and hand in the same papers but receive radically different grades, future students will enroll under the instructor who gives the higher grades.

This has been done. The first student received A's and B's while a semester later the second boy got nothing better than a D for exact copies of the same papers, under a different instructor. This shows either favoritism or a radically different basis of grading. The first should never be found in college. As for the second, can it be expected that these students will not inform future victims of the type of grading to be expected under the different instructors?—G. L.

"LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION."

At least one department of this institution is not practicing what it preaches. It has been found necessary to re-examine students in certain classes because it has been learned that students have been availing themselves of last semester's examination papers which have been used again this semester—probably with the idea of saving work for the instructors.

But here's the irony of it. "It is your duty," admonished the instructor, "to remove temptation from the path of the pupils who are going out to teach." This perfectly good advice followed on the heels of the announcement of the re-examination.

Of course, students will study their examination papers if they can get hold of them beforehand. Of course, students will accept perfect grades unblinkingly in tests over material which they were never supposed to have studied. And it's rather hard for them to swallow the advice "to remove temptation" from instructors who have made it the hardest thing in the world for them not to yield to temptation.—B. K.

By Kenneth Worley

June Roberts, who has been suffering the tortures of K fraternity hell week, has been named captain of the push-ball team which will defend the engineering division against the Ags in the annual contest which is a feature of the Ag fair. — The engineering division was well represented in the list of K fraternity pledges. Those who have been wearing everything and anything to class and generally making life worth while for other engineers are: June Roberts, Ford; Russell Smith, Manhattan; Jack Going, Topeka; and F. M. Bzarth, Lenora.

K. D. Grimes admits that there is a depression in the amount of news around the engine house. Since the warm weather there is a decided tendency for engineers to gather at the west side of the engineering building for those between-class smokes, and the things one hears at one of these sessions are remarkable. Speaking of pan-ping parties, they must have originated at meetings like these. — And then there is the one about Burr Smith and his desire for originality among members of his design classes.

At a meeting of the staff of the Kansas State Engineer, held last Tuesday, the following men were appointed as assistants to the staff: Ivan McDougal, Atwood; and Leonard Izard, Carthage, Mo.; assistant circulation managers; and John Donnelly, Manhattan; John Woodford, Salina; and Cecil Arens, Topeka, assistant advertising managers. A. K. Bader, Junction City, will have charge of news from the department of architecture.

A meeting of the newly elected staff of the "Engineer," student publication of the engineering division, will be held tonight for the purpose of appointing all assistants, departmental editors, and faculty advisors. — This is a precedent, and will no doubt do away with "railroading" and politics to a large measure. — Electrical engineering as a special course first was offered in 1900, and was followed five years later by the first special course in architecture to be offered in this school. — Sigma Tau members are looking forward to their annual spring banquet which will be held in the near future. — R. D. Compton, operator of the radio station, has organized a class in continental code practice. This school is conducted every spring by Compton, and is a feature of the "fan" program, a half-hour which is broadcast every Saturday. Compton states that a regular feature of the school is the fact that it is impossible to call roll. — Prof. E. R. Dawley of the department of applied mechanics will go to Topeka Saturday, April 16, to attend a meeting of the Kansas Engineering society. Professor Dawley is secretary of the organization. — Quoting from an alumni record: "Mechanical arts as exemplified by carpentry and blacksmithing was first taught in 1872 by Captain Ambrose Todd, master mechanic." There is a long step from this course to the modern shops, and the electrical forges now in use.

The smoke you like...is the smoke she likes for you!

"I like to see a man smoke a pipe!" You've heard your own girl say it, perhaps. You're sure to hear it wherever girls get together.

They puff away at our cigarettes. But they like to see us have a go at the "strong, silent man's smoke"—a companionable, time-proven pipe.

There is something satisfying about a pipe. It's a slow, reflective, hard-thinking smoke—or a calm, relaxing, restful smoke. The hunter's smoke, the fisherman's smoke, the engineer's smoke—a man's smoke, through and through.

And pipe smokers who know their fine tobacco tell you there's no blend quite like the fine selected burleys of Edgeworth—the favorite tobacco in 42 out of 50 leading colleges.

Do try Edgeworth. Perhaps you will like it as well as most men seem to. Edgeworth is at your dealer's. Or send for free sample if you wish. Address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d Street, Richmond, Va.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural savor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive delectable process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slices. All sizes, 15¢ pocket package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

A regional council, Louise Davis, Nashville, Tenn., will lead the international discussions.

Louise Chalfont, Wichita, will lead the discussions of the interest group chairmen, and Lucille Nelson, Jamestown, will head the groups of social workers. Dorothy MacLeod, Y. W. C. A. secretary, will discuss financial questions. Mary Alice Schnacke, Y. W. C. A. president at Kansas State, LaCrosse, will give a toast at the formal banquet which will be held Saturday night.

Heading the list of leaders at the conference are Miss Jennie Walker, Pittsburg, and Miss Margaret Field, Kansas City, Mo.

Among The Ags

With preparations for another ag fair going strong, so far of the old-timers, faculty members and students, are digging out memories of the good old days—a old-timers do. This ag fair, in spite of its recent dormancy, is more than an event, it's an institution. The best brains in the division have worked to the limit in preparing fairs of the past, and the best legs in the division have been displayed to the limit in their.

There are stories about the rare skits pulled in the special minstrel show given for the benefit of participants in the fair—given behind closed doors after all but the fair-struck ags were in bed. 'Tis said that even the deans were there, but one can take rumors for what they are worth.

There are, however, visible tokens surviving in the form of denim jackets with "Ag Fair" and any of numerous dates permanently imprinted into their backs with white paint.

The passing of the concessions this year has left a sad place in the hearts of many of the veterans. How dear to their hearts were "The Great Aggie Holdup," the "For Men Only" show, and "Bo-Bo; the Dog-Faced" man. This year only sandwiches and sweets to satisfy the stomach will be dispensed for the hard-earned shekels of patrons. There is one exception to this rule (keep it quiet) in the form of a terrapin or "turpin" race where all the good guessers and naughty gamblers can take a chance on a turtle, and be in the soup if they lose.

And as for the hard-working boys of "ye good old days," we might add that "Duke" Regnier wears a more-than-usually-busy expression, and even "Zeke" Sullivan seems to be concentrating. The fair is really coming!

Politics has come to the front in the recent departmental club meetings, but since new officers have been installed in all the organizations, only a few murmurs of "sour grapes" are heard. "A vote for a vote, or two votes here for one there," was the dominating theme song for a time.

Some of the students in a vegetable gardening class have been developing "gardeners' necks," a few callouses, and symptoms of weather-prognostication. Who said this just an agricultural college?

From Ohio State comes the news that the R. O. T. C. is off its feet. A military parade was being given in town and the college military unit was taking part. It seems that transportation could not be found for 178 of the boys so they had to stay behind. Sherman was wrong. War ain't hell no longer.

TRACK TEAM IS CONFIDENT OF DEFEATING O. U.

K. STATE SQUAD EXPECTED TO WIN MOST POINTS IN RUNNING EVENTS

EVENTS TO START EARLY

Sports Followers Will Be Able To See Both Track Meet and Ball Game on Saturday Afternoon

For the first time since 1915, the Kansas State track team hopes to emerge on the long end of the tally Saturday, April 16, when they take the field against the Oklahoma university tracksters at 2 o'clock.

Kansas State defeated Emporia Teachers college last week by the overwhelming score of 94 to 37 but Oklahoma also has turned in a pre-season score against Central college of 105 points to 28 1-2 for Central. Central college is not considered as strong as the Kansas State opposition but nevertheless it is some measurement.

Oklahoma's sure threat is Captain Clifford Mell, who last week turned in a broad-jump record of 24 feet 1 1-8 inches against Central college.

Coach Ward Haylett does not consider his men strong in the field events but he does expect them to do their scoring on the track. Yesterday when Coach Haylett was being interviewed he said, "They may lick us in the field, but we will lick them on the track. As the track events outnumber the field events, the meet should be ours."

The officials of the meet will be: Frank Myers, starter and referee; Prof. L. P. Washburn, head timer; Frank Root, head judge of the finish; Prof. B. R. Patterson, field judge. The members of the track coaching class will also assist the judges.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood

On Saturday Kansas State will entertain the rival clubs of two Big Six schools, Kansas in baseball, and Oklahoma in track. The track meet will start at 2 o'clock, and without hitch should have the relay, the last race, on the cinder path by 3:40, thereby making it possible for anyone to attend both the meet and the ball game which will not start until 4 o'clock.

Coach John G. Jacobs who leads the track men of his alma mater, Oklahoma, here this Saturday holds the conference broad jump record of 23 feet, 10 1-2 inches. This is the oldest in the conference, being set in 1915. The life of the mark is nearing its end, however, as Clifford Mell, present captain of the Sooner squad has been jumping eight and 10 inches farther this spring. It may drop this Saturday when Mell is in competition.

With the Kansas nine invading the Wildcat haunts this Saturday will be the highly touted Carnie Smith in one of the out posts. Smith will be remembered for his work on the gridiron last fall. His prowess on the diamond is even more outstanding. He is big and fast with a deadly throwing arm, and one of the most formidable welders of the bat any Big Six pitcher will have to face this year. He, like Auker, the pitcher who may face him, is scheduled for a big league trial upon the completion of his collegiate career.

The wife of a former minister of finance of Poland, Halina Konipacka, holds the Olympic record for the discus, with a heave of 129 feet 11 7-8 inches. This toss is only eight feet short of the newly set Kansas State varsity track record. Which may or may not give you an insight to Polish women.

The dogs of the Kansas State baseball nine had their long-awaited day in the practice today. With the infield change made when Gents moved in from centerfield to take over the duties of Skradski who fills the catchers box now, Coach wanted to have the infield to accept chances under game conditions, so the scrubs got to hit several times each; and not have to work for the privilege. The situation is usually reversed. Coach Corsaut took the mound for the equivalent of about six innings and many of the boys did not like his slow curves.

The spring grid practice ended Wednesday after 20 days of actual workouts in which the fundamentals of the game and the system of play employed by the Coaching staff here. Many new men were noticed, chiefly backs who will be used to fill the holes left by the graduation of Auker and McMillin. Strongest of these new contenders is Cowan, a Texas cowboy, who is a two hundred pounder and fast. There is also Russell, and many who will make anyone hesitate to get them on the bench. Coach Jacobs is satisfied with the training this spring, and has a favorable outlook for the coming season.

The middle distance races in the Olympic trials are going to be hectic affairs with men like Gene Venzke, the Pottstown, Pa., high school lad (though 23 years old) who has run the mile in 4:10; Harwood Halowell, Harvard university, has turned in the time of 4:12.4; and Henry Brocksmith of Indiana university who also has been timed in a fraction over 4:12, all fighting for the few berths available. Then too, there is the latest sensation from the far west, Big Ben Eaton, of Stanford university, who clipped a full second off the quarter mile record of 46.3 which has stood off the assaults of 460 yard runners for many years. Not satisfied with this one near sport miracle the Big Ben came back to break the world's record for the half mile, his new time cutting the record to 1:51.4.

NET MEN TO MEET TIGERS

Round Robin System of Play to Begin Promptly at 1 o'clock on the Varsity Courts

Kansas State racquetballers are host to the netmen of Missouri university this afternoon, the matches to start at 1 o'clock. The new system of round robin play, where each man opposes every man on the other team will be used in the matches. Four courts will be turned over to the varsity matches, and the play should be run off rapidly.

The men to represent Kansas State will probably be the same as played against Ottawa university last week, namely: Graham, Larson, Dean, and Hoglund. These men all showed up well against their only competition this year in the defeat of Ottawa university. Graham, Larson, and Hoglund won in the singles matches easily, but were weak in the team play necessary to a successful doubles combination. The time this week has been spent mainly to correct this weakness, and the doubles matches should be closely contested.

Missouri played Kansas yesterday but the results, or strength of either club is unknown.

AWARDS TO THE ATHLETES

Ninth Annual Recognition Day Will Be Next Thursday; Ahearn Is Speaker

Athletic awards will be presented to students outstanding in sports next Thursday, April 21, in the ninth annual Recognition Day program, according to announcement by Dr. J. E. Kammeyer, chairman of the committee on public exercises.

Sweaters, medals and trophies will be presented to those who have earned the awards. M. F. Ahearn, director of athletics, will address the assembly, and afterward brief talks will be given by various members of the athletic department. There will be musical numbers by the college band.

Women's Sports

An archery contest by mail will be held May 10 between the women's physical education departments of the state. Each school may enter one or more teams of four girls each. According to the rules of the contest, 60 arrows will be shot at a distance of 30 yards.

Practices for intramural baseball are limbering the co-eds up for intramural baseball games which will begin Monday, April 18. The last practice will be Thursday, April 21. Intramural baseball is under the direction of Kathryn Geyer, instructor in the department of physical education.

Tennis elimination contests between members of the Greek and other organized groups must be finished Monday evening, according to Bernice Patterson of the physical education department. In these preliminary games two out of three games won will decide the winner.

Girls competing in the preliminary tournament are: Lois Rosenkrans, Manhattan; Mary Lou Clark, Burr Oak; Alice White, Jewell; Jane Swenson, Phoenix, Ariz.; Marjorie Lyles, Saffordville; Marcine Campbell, Hollis; Mildred and Millicent Aspell, Dwight; Dorothy Wise, Ft. Riley; Sally Shafer, Katherine Reid, Lois Stingley, Dorothy Blackman and Gwyneth Buckmaster of Manhattan; June Gage, Minneapolis; Mildred Forrester, Wamego; Mae Gordon, DeSoto; Lucille Nelson, Jamestown; Cora Olgahan, O'ferle; Helen Reed, Circleville; Madge Gibbs, Quinter; Edith Miller, Salina; Esther Holston, Kingman; Eva Brownell, Wichita; Alice Wilsey, Washington; Myrtle Andres, Alta Vista; and Evelyn Young, Arkansas City.

The winners of each group in the elimination contest will then play off the tournament. The entire team winning two out of three sets will be declared champion racquetballers.

Futons won in intramural tennis will count toward the intramural cup, according to Eleanor Wright, O'ferle, manager of intramural sports.

NET MEN BEAT OTTAWA

Coach C. S. Mott Pleased With Showing of Kansas State Squad Last Week End

The Kansas State net men returned victorious from their first match of the season with Ottawa university by a score of 12 to 7. Under the new system of play, each man plays every other man on the opposing club one set, and each set counts one point in the scoring. This is quite a departure from the old method of tournament tennis and its final adoption depends on the success achieved this year.

Ralph Graham was the most consistent of the Kansas State performers at Ottawa taking all four of his singles sets. Hoglund took three out of the four sets, as did Larson. Dean, the fourth member of the traveling squad took one of the four matches he engaged in.

In the doubles matches the Ottawa team partially closed up the gap in the points by taking three of the four sets played. Larson and Graham were the only team to crash through with a win. They downed Pemberton and Ingie 6-1.

The matches showed Coach C. S. Mott that the prospects for a winning team were not bad. Ottawa had a team of all letter men and the winning over them is a sign of strength. These matches served to condition the men for the first conference competition against Missouri today.

GOLFERS TO MEET C. OF E.

Menzie, Maxwell, Walker and Hostetler Will Play Link Matches On Country Club Course Today

Golfers of Kansas State and College of Emporia will open the official season this morning at 9 o'clock when the double matches are scheduled to begin on the country club course.

Captain Joe Menzie, Manhattan; Dale Maxwell Columbus; Joe Walker, Junction City; and Alvin Hostetler will represent the college on the links. Menzie and Maxwell will team up in doubles while Walker and Hostetler will work together.

The singles will probably get underway this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

In the doubles the low ball of the foursome wins the hole, only one point a hole counting.

George Boone, Manhattan, a letter man of last year failed to qualify for the match today when he turned in a score this week of 74. Par on the course is 70, and within easy reach of at least three on the team: Menzie with 68, Maxwell with 69, and Walker with a 70. Hostetler made the course in 71.

It is believed Boone will be back in the running a little later in the season when he straightens out the trouble he is having at present with his iron shots.

Maxwell and Walker, both sophomores, play a neat game, and have made considerable showing on their home town courses. Athletic Director M. F. Ahearn, coach of the golf team, believes they have potential possibilities of making championship material.

Menzie and Hostetler have been going exceptionally well on the links of late, with Menzie playing one of the best games during his intercollegiate competition. Hostetler is a little rusty on some of his shots, but no doubt will overcome his few handicaps as the season advances.

Additional tryouts will probably be held before the Washburn match here April 23.

"It's Tough to Be Famous"

Being a national hero throws a young submarine commander straight into the arms of ambitious publicity agents, and thereby hangs the tale of the man who had the world at his feet, but couldn't borrow a clean handkerchief during the celebration of his return.

Harassed at every turn by photographers, reporters, and Walter Catlett, his enterprising manager, the young and personable Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., finds his home life with his bride, Mary Brian, almost unendurable. Finally he renounces his life as a publicized figure, only to find, in a surprise ending, that he can be a hero anonymously.

Doug, Jr., will have your whole-souled sympathy in his stormy battles for a right to live his life privately, for he has caught the spirit of his role down to the last embarrassed grimace and deprecating gesture.—E. G.

JUNIOR COLLEGES GAIN

Attendance Increase of 46 Per Cent Over Last Year Is Shown by Two-Year Schools

Beginning the second semester with an enrollment of 2,733, exactly the same as the corresponding semester of last year, Kansas State college was fortunate, considering that figures just announced show that junior college attendance this year increased 40 per cent. This increase in junior college enrollment would naturally tend toward a reduction in enrollment at the larger colleges.

Prof. E. F. Engel, chairman of the junior college committee of the University of Kansas, is the authority of some interesting figures.

Last year, the ten public junior colleges—Arkansas City, Coffeyville, El Dorado, Fort Scott, Hutchinson, Independence, Iola, Kansas City, and Parsons—had an enrollment of 2,117; the current year the enrollment is 2,918.

The greatest increase was in men students, where the figures were 1,074 and 1,572, an increase of nearly 50 per cent; while the women's figures were 1,012 and 1,346, an increase of 30 per cent.

Professor Engel lists also five private junior colleges including Central college at McPherson; Highland college, Highland; Paola college, Paola; Hesston college, Hesston; and St. Johns, Winfield. The last named is new to the list this year, but St. Mary's college, Leavenworth; and Mt. St. Scholastica, Atchison, are now four-year colleges, and not counted in the junior college report.

Born of Austrian parents, Stephanie Kurent has never been to the "old country" but speaks the language fluently. Stephen Daas came to America in September, 1931, and entered college here several months later. He is enrolled in the division of agriculture and plans to complete his four years of work in Kansas State. After his graduation he will return to India where he will be employed in agricultural work.

MODEL T'S AGAIN IN LIMELIGHT AS AG FAIR NEARS

RULES FOR OLD FORD RACE ANNOUNCED—WILL RUN OVER 4-MILE COURSE

MANY ENTRANTS EXPECTED

Arrangements Committees For Fair Almost Complete—Ag Will Don Conventional Barnyard Garb

By Jean Scheel
A five-mile race of the rattling wheels of the roadway following immediately after the pushball contest between the ags and the engineers at the ag fair, Saturday, April 30, will provide excitement enough to satisfy anyone, according to O. W. Shoup, AA4, Udall, manager of the event.

Rules Few and Simple
The rules of the contest, announced by Shoup yesterday, are few and simple. A fifty-cent fee will be demanded of all entrants. Any type of model T Ford car will be considered as eligible. Only one man will be allowed in each car. The race will start on the road west of the stadium. The cars will go north to the southeast corner of the agronomy farm, west one mile, south one mile, east one mile, and then south to the stadium again. A committee of faculty members will decide the winners.

Prizes include one of $5 in trade given by Walter E. Moore, Manhattan Ford dealer, to the winner of first place, and cash prizes amounting to $15 or more to be distributed among the winners of the first three or four places.

Dance Plans Incomplete

Final selection of an orchestra for the ag fair dance to be held in the gymnasium the night of April 30 has not been made, according to L. R. Daniels, but the choice rests between Fordham's band and Andy Simmons. Steve Vesceky, Ag3, Kansas City, has announced that candidates for queen of the ball will be made by sororities on the hill. Each house which sells 10 tickets to the dance will be entitled to nominate one person. The queen will be elected by secret ballot at the ball and will be crowned there.

At a special "fair booster" seminar held Thursday the students voted to wear overalls the week preceding the fair. A ducking tank is to be provided between the ag buildings and able police under the supervision of Joyce Miller, Sycamore, and Oscar Hardtner, Lawrence, will submerge all ag students caught violating the edict.

Dr. John Lee, professor in the department of economics at Kansas university, will speak this noon at a special forum in the college cafeteria. His subject "The Way Out," will deal with the economists' view on the way out of the present business depression.

Doctor Lee is a member of the American Economic Society, and an author of a number of books in the field of economics. He will address classes in agricultural economics in the morning and afternoon in addition to speaking at the forum.

CHAPTER INSPECTED

National officers of Phi Kappa Tau were in Manhattan last week end inspecting the local chapter of the fraternity.

Juanita Hoke will teach home home economics and mathematics at Garrison next year. Miss Hoke was graduated in 1912. She received her master's degree in 1927.

COLLEGE GETS OK ON REQUEST FOR TELEVISION

RADIO COMMISSION GRANTS RIGHT TO ERECT AND OPERATE VISUAL RADIO

FOR EXPERIMENTAL WORK

Harold Higginbottom Will Probably Have Charge of Construction of New Station

Kansas State college has been granted permission to construct a visual broadcasting station, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here last Saturday.

No confirmation of this report has been received here, Dean R. A. Seaton of the engineering division said yesterday, but he is confident that the permit has been granted, and that official confirmation of the report will be received from the federal radio commission soon.

Plans for the new station, which will be operated on a frequency of 2,100-2,200 kilocycles, have been under way for some time, but actual work on transmission and reception has been delayed until permission for the construction of the station has been granted, according to Harold Higginbottom, graduate research assistant in the department of electrical engineering. Higginbottom, who has been active in television work here, will probably be in charge of the construction of the new station.

The station, which is to be used for experimental work only, will broadcast 20 pictures a second of 60 lines each, and will operate on a fundamental frequency of 2,050 kilocycles. The exact range of the station is not known at the present time, according to Higginbottom. Licenses have been granted for construction of stations in Ames, Ia., and Madison, Wis. Higginbottom also stated that he was informed that a license had been issued for the construction of a station in Kansas City, Mo. The nearest station is now located in Chicago, but it is probable that no attempts will be made for hook-ups with these stations.

If the permit is granted immediately, it will be some time before broadcast attempts will be made, it was revealed yesterday, as plans must be completed to incorporate a transmission set into the present apparatus. It is thought that the necessary arrangements for programs and regular broadcasts would be complete by the time the new equipment is ready for use.

FARM HOUSE FRESHMEN WIN SCHOLARSHIP TROPHY

Average of 1.85 Points Per Hour is Highest in Pan-Hellenic Organizations

Farm House pledges won the Freshman Panhellenic scholarship award for this year with an average of 1.85 points for 240 hours of work.

It was announced at the meeting of senior panhellenic council at the Alpha Rho Chi house last night, by E. C. Chilcott, secretary-treasurer.

The name of the fraternity whose pledges make the highest grades in the first semester's work is placed on the freshman panhellenic scholarship cup and this fraternity receives the cup the following fall to keep until someone else wins it, or until that organization has won it three times, when it becomes a permanent possession. This makes the second time that Farm House has won this cup.

Alpha Kappa Lambda, with a 1.76 average for 212 hours, was second and Beta Theta Pi with a 1.32 average for 260 hours was third.

V. A. Elliott, ME2, McPherson, a member of Alpha Kappa Lambda, had the highest individual average among the freshmen with 57 points for 19 hours. A. A. Thornbrough, AI, Laking, Sigma Alpha Spilon, was second with 48 points for 16 hours and W. H. Jusi, AI, Florence, was third with 47 1-2 points for 17 1-2 hours.

Phi Delta Theta won the cup last year and will keep it in their possession until next fall when they will turn it over to the Farm House.

RECITAL APRIL 27
Reefa G. Tordoff, pianist, and Max R. Martin, violinist, of the department of music will play in a faculty recital at the auditorium, Wednesday, April 27.

Collegiate Bootleggers Tell Judge Sad Story

Three Kansas State students, three collegiate bootleggers, learned yesterday that $100 fine or 30 days in jail can put a big obstacle in ambitions for a college education. The three students were convicted yesterday in the Manhattan police court of the possession of liquor and were sentenced by Judge C. A. Kimball.

A coincidence brought the three students together in police court. One of them was arrested last week on suspicion. In conference with the city authorities he confessed that he had been earning his college expenses for two years by bringing liquor into Manhattan and selling it. The city officials were willing to defer his sentence until after college was out in order that he might receive this semester's credits. The next day the other two students were arrested on the same charge, although they neither knew the first student. Confronted with three students who had confessed to bootlegging, the city officials sought the advice of President Farrell, who would stand for no leniency towards the students.

The two students arrested together were roommates who had started their liquor trade in the past few months in order to earn enough money to stay in college. They do their own cooking and they brought in a supply of liquor only when their funds became depleted. One of the best social fraternities on the campus was a regular customer.

All three of the students are engineers. One of them is 17 years old. They declared that they had realized the seriousness of their offense, but had not thought of it in the light of being arrested and convicted. Each of them stated that he would not return to his home if his offense became known to his parents.

Judge Kimball allowed them a reasonable length of time in which to raise the $100 fine to the county jail. One of them believed he could raise the money in Manhattan but the others seemed to have no financial backing.

The student council and the faculty council on student affairs are expected to take action on the cases of the men today. Predictions are that they will be suspended from Kansas State but will receive credit for the semester's work as far as they have completed it.

JOHN BIRD PLACES FIRST IN SHORT STORY CONTEST

Kansas Authors' Club Makes Announcement of Winners Sunday; Dawn Daniels Wins a First

John Bird, Hays, took first place in the twelfth annual short story contest sponsored by the Kansas Authors' club, with his story, "The Harvest." The announcement of Bird's award, which is a $100 check, was made Sunday.

The 4,500 word story was given the unanimous vote of the judges, an honor never attained in a previous contest. It depicts the coming of the German-Russian settlers to northwest Kansas in 1876, and their starting the raising of wheat. History, pathos, and romance are all woven into the story.

Bird, who is 22 years old, is taking a post-graduate course for his master's degree. Previously he was in charge of publicity for the Hays Wheat Farming company. He studied journalism at Kansas State and is a member of Sigma Delta Chi and Beta Theta Pi.

Dawn Daniels, Manhattan, won first prize in the miscellaneous group with her treatise on "Kansas Populism," which explains the rising of that great movement in the middle west.

"The Culture of the Kansan" by Solon T. Kimball, Manhattan, was among the articles that received favorable comment by at least one judge. Kimball, who has been studying at Harvard, where he won a scholarship, is a graduate of Kansas State in industrial journalism.

Helen Sloan, a graduate of the journalism department in the spring of 1931, was awarded first place in the Kansas Authors' Poetry contest last year with her poem, "Gray-Blue Walls." She also received first honorable mention this year in the juvenile poetry section of the contest.

DOZEN WINDOW PANES BLOWN OUT BY BLAST

Gas Explosion Causes Damage in Engine Room of Engineering Building

Twelve window panes in the engineering building were shattered in an explosion yesterday morning resulting from combustion of gases which had collected in an exhaust outlet just outside of the engine room. Suction from the blast caused the windows to be drawn out. There was no other damage.

An exhaust trench which failed to function properly, allowing a quantity of gas to collect in the outlet, was given by Prof. Boyd Brainard of the mechanical engineering department as the cause of the blast. A 25-horsepower natural gas engine was in operation at the time. According to Brainard, the exhaust trench was capable of holding approximately 150 cubic feet of gas, and it is believed that a spark from the running engine ignited the waste gases.

Sufficient force was generated by the explosion to blow away an iron cover which closed an outside port into the trench.

REGENTS PARE LARGE SUM FROM COLLEGE BUDGET

FACULTY DRAWS 10 PER CENT SALARY CUT IN BOARD'S ECONOMY ACTION

HARGER EXPLAINS ACTION

Kansas State Reduction About $331,000 Less Than Previous Estimates; Other Schools Cuts Are Smaller

A reduction of $330,823 in the budget of Kansas State college for the fiscal year 1932-33 was decided upon by the state board of regents at an all-day meeting Saturday in Topeka. The amount represents one-fourth of the legislature's appropriation to the college for the period beginning July 1, 1932, and ending June 30, 1933.

The cut in Kansas State's budget is larger than any other of the five state schools. This is because the $1,323,291 appropriation for the college was larger than for any other college. C. M. Harger, Abilene, chairman of the board, told a Collegian reporter yesterday. This is partly accounted for by its extensive activities in extension work, including the work of county farm agents and home demonstration agents.

Kansas State Cut Most
The reductions made in the budget of each school are:

Kansas State college, $330,823; University of Kansas, $294,375; Fort Hays State college, $49,125; State Teachers college, Pittsburg, $88,075; Teachers college, Emporia, $83,335; State Medical school, $45,500, and branch experiment stations, $14,825.

President F. D. Farrell went to Topeka to present to the board a report of possibilities for economizing at Kansas State college. All heads of institutions had pared down their salary lists and other expenditures to the limit.

All Salaries Reduced
Salaries of all faculty members will be reduced 10 per cent. Extension work will be lessened, it was said, and some departments abandoned or much restricted. The reduction is, however, only an emergency measure in line with Governor Woodring's program for a 25 per cent reduction in state expenses.

"The schools' personnel has been built up through the years with much care and thought," Chairman Harger said. "Salary schedules are below those of states with which Kansas must compete in educational standards. While we can temporarily postpone repairs to meet a reduced budget, eventually physical equipment must be fully restored."

The regents decided, that though they could legally have expended all the entire sum in excess of $325,000 appropriated by the legislature, they felt that justice demanded the cuts in expense to relieve the taxpayers and give them every possible advantage of the lowered valuations.

Cut Carefully Considered
"Kansas cannot afford to lessen its educational standards and the board of regents, in reducing expenditures, has sought to maintain the efficiency that the commonwealth expects and should have in higher education," Harger said.

"With a personnel keyed to the high tide of enrollment, with a large student body starting to college before conditions became acute, it is a task that calls for careful readjustment. If next year shows a decided decrease in enrollment, the correspondingly lessened demand will make the problem simpler. We are trying to chart a course that will enable the state to relieve taxpayers and yet to sustain as nearly as possible the services for students who are seeking an education, and so far as possible, to give the state the service the public asks for from the institutions."

The present economic conditions have thus far had little effect on enrollment in the educational institutions. Enrollment in the five schools in March, counting only full time students on the campuses, for the past three years shows: 1930, 9,960; 1931, 10,001; 1932, 9,853.

Credit Due College Heads
"Much credit is due the heads of institutions and faculty members for the fine spirit of co-operation with which they have met the present emergency," Harger said. "We expect no resignations, which in ordinary times would result from salary cuts. The schools will carry on and we believe the reduction has been so apportioned as to affect in the least possible manner the activities of the institution."

BANQUET IS FINAL EVENT

High School Girls Will Compete in Foods, Clothing Contests Mornings; Tea Features Every Afternoon

"Manhattan Day" on Thursday, April 21, will mark the opening of the home economics division's annual "Hospitality Week," in reality a three-day period of entertainment and display of the work of every department of the division. All Manhattan high school students and townspeople will be special guests on Thursday, and Friday and Saturday have been set aside for out-of-town high school students, alumnae and other visitors.

High school girls will compete each morning in contests in judging and in written examinations over foods and clothing material. Winners will receive copies of the "Godey Book," first women's magazine for her school. Invitations have been extended to 43 schools in this territory to enter contestants. In the afternoon, a visit will be made to the Ula Dow and Ellen H. Richards practice houses, where tea will be served to the contestants.

VOX POPULI TO BE SOUNDED AT FORUM TONIGHT

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE CLINTO WILL AIR COMPLAINTS BEFORE ALL

STUDENTS, FACULTY ASKED

Reports From Each Division Will Be Read By Representative Students In Project of Student Governing Body

Final arrangements are being completed for the staging of the student-faculty open forum, sponsored by the student governing association, tonight at 7:30 o'clock in recreation center. At this forum both students and faculty will be given an opportunity to meet on common grounds to discuss vocational guidance, counseling activities, and resources of our campus.

Reports, completed after intensive research and submitted by the vocational guidance commission, composed of three representative students from each division, will be read by a student selected from each division. Open discussion from the floor will follow the reading of the reports.

Those who will read the reports are: Barbara Lautz, HE and AE, La Junta, Colo., the home economics report; Robert Alexander, AE3, Independence, Mo., the report of the engineering division; William Myers, Ag4, Bancroft, the division of agriculture's report; W. S. Hornsby, VM4, Manhattan, the report of the division of veterinary medicine; and Franklin Thackery, IJ3, Manhattan, the general science division report.

Louise Davis, HE4, Nashville, Tenn., student in charge of the forum, urges as many students and faculty members as possible to be present at the meeting in order to insure the success of the project. Names of three representatives from each organization and department should be sent immediately to Miss Davis.

A findings committee, appointed last week, will be present at the forum to formulate a report of what happened at the meeting. This report will be submitted to the faculty committee on vocational guidance, consisting of the deans of the various divisions and Dean Mary P. Van Zile, who will be responsible for any definite action toward better advisory facilities.

Art Department Exhibit Of Books Will Please Student and Craftsman

A large collection of books, finest examples of both American and European printers' art, is on exhibition in the art department in Anderson hall.

Interests appealed to are numerous and varied, in fields of both pure and applied arts. The books which will be exhibited for at least a week will be purchased through the department.

"Dog Studies" and "Horse Studies," printed in Great Britain, will appeal to every one. In the realm of domestic arts are folios in color of European peasant art, including almost all of the modern countries; tapestries and textiles both historic and modern; and furniture and interiors through the ages.

Typography and binding of the books, which number almost a hundred, will be fascinating to those interested in printing. A of celebrated from Germany, and studies of modern European advertising posters are valuable works.

For art students are the more technical collections of studies in line drawing, silhouettes, oil painting and pen and ink drawings. Some of these are charmingly combined with travel sketches. Reprints of the work of modernists are educational and inclusive. "The Child Artist in America" will please the educator, and other persons will find the plates of modern iron work absorbing.

NO PAVING TO ENGINEER HATUL

Sanding Will Have To Suffice Since Budget Is Reduced

Paving for the Engineering building to 17th and Anderson will be delayed on account of the budget cut, but the road will be sanded according to present plans. G. R. Pauling, superintendent of building and repair, is estimating the most necessary repairs to be made this summer.

SPRING HOUSE-CLEANING

Now that spring is here officially, and by the approval of the weather man, house-clearing is quite timely and proper.

Kansas State would profit much by conducting a spring house-clearing—ridding the campus of a number of inactive and totally superfluous organizations.

There are, in all, 71 student professional or honorary organizations at Kansas State. That number does not include the social fraternities and sororities. These organizations are divided as follows: two national professional fraternities, membership and activities in which continues after graduation from college. Let's spare them. Then there are 13 honorary national fraternities and sororities. Thirteen is an awfully unlucky number. Kansas State could do well with about half that number. In looking over the list, one wonders about organizations named Phi Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Delta, Sigma Tau, Alpha Kappa Psi, Mortar and Ball, and Mortar Board. Yes, they're all something to join, but, after all, does their service to Kansas State and members of the organization justify their existence?

Next on the list are three honorary local fraternities. Dynamics, Friars, and Phi Alpha Mu. Of the latter, hardly anything is heard, and someone has dubbed Friars as the "Mutual Admiration Society." There are enough scholarship organizations existing to justify the abolition of Dynamics without doing any harm to Kansas State or its students.

What about the literary societies? Spare them? Yes. It could not be truthfully said that the literary societies do not benefit their members in some way.

Kansas State continues to suffer with that unlucky "13." There is that number of "unclassified professional national organizations." Included in the list are such groups as Pi Epsilon Pi (THE WAMPUS CATS), Steel Ring, Block and Bridge, Klot and Kernel. (The Ags go in for illiteration). Spare the K fraternity for its value as an amusement organization.

And, under the heading "Other Organizations" are listed 32 societies, clubs, sororities, fraternities and associations. How many Kansas State students know the answer to "Why Alpha Phi Omega?" What is it? Or Omega Pi Epsilon, or Phi Epsilon Kappa. The best guess seems to be that they're departmental organizations with the Greek letters attached to impress prospective pledges.

With its present enrollment and the number of courses offered, Kansas State should be able to struggle along with about half the number of non-social organizations which it now has. The militarists should be able to win theoretical battles while having only one honorary organization. The engineers are burdened with too many organizations, societies, and clubs. And the same holds true for practically all the other divisions.

Where there is more than one fraternity or sorority, whose aims, ideals and membership qualifications are identical, it only creates jealousy between them. They compete for membership, and activities, and the result is that instead of one strong fraternity, there are two weak groups. Scholarship would benefit by weeding out some of the societies and clubs. Their membership could be made more exclusive, and consequently more sought for.

The only test one could apply to an organization before passing sentence upon it would be to examine its activities, its purpose for existence, and its scholarship rating.

What are you doing for your "honorary," and what is it doing for you?

".....OR FOREVER HOLD THY PEACE"

Perhaps you have been mulling about your assessor; his inability to advise you properly about matters concerning your course. Perhaps you have a pet theory about how this school would be so much better if only this or that change was made. You may have aired that pet theory in the last bull-fest you attended.

Better than to waste your energy and words telling a sympathetic but powerless bull-fest audience of your pet ideas, plan to attend the special student-faculty forum in recreation center tonight. Your ideas may suggest changes to the faculty vocational guidance committee, and that group is the one which determines the manner in which things are done.

If interested, students will attend the meeting this evening and air their views and ideas about existing practices; much could come from the meeting. The faculty has no way of knowing the student's side of any question unless the students volunteer the information.

Maybe you do have a grievance. Maybe you see where some change could be made for the better. Well, tonight, is your night. Speak, or forever hold your peace.

The official baseball season is on, and thus a large part of the unemployment problem of the country automatically solves itself. The distribution of money that is gathered at the turnstiles will go a long way toward making this country forget the depression. The receipts will begin to go out in salaries to players, umpires, ground keepers, sports writers, railroad fare, workmen engaged in keeping up the ball park, hotel bills, tips, and other incidental necessities. The amount of money paid out for uniforms, balls, bats, gloves, and playing paraphernalia will aggregate an enormous sum—Newton Kansas-Republican.

OUR CAMPUS BEAUTIFUL

Oh, the flowers that bloom in the spring, fra-la. . . But when those flowers are dandelions, spare the final "fra-la."

The campus is infested with an abundance of dandelions this spring, and hardly any effect is being made to get rid of the weeds. They are born to bloom in great numbers, and scatter their seeds. . . oh, well, you finish that one.

A good answer to the dandelion problem is in the present unemployment situation. No doubt there are many students who would gather the blossoms for, well, so much a bushel.

The Snooper

When golfers of the caliber of Joe Menzle and Dale Maxwell shoot several strokes under par while playing off an intercollegiate match, what can be the reason for such action? While both are good golfers (they admit it,) we refuse to discount altogether the facts that the Manhattan Country Club, is their home, course and that there was a strong wind to their backs a good share of the time.

Joe failed to do so well on the same course Sunday afternoon. He did not say so, in so many words, but the news leaked out when he made no mention of shooting an under-par game.

The depression and the Mercury-Chronicle have brought the yo-yo back into the limelight. There is no doubt that one is able to thrust thoughts of depleted pocketbooks into unused crannies of the skull while trying to operate a yo-yo. When one becomes proficient there is instilled a buoyant spirit of dominance and superiority, to say nothing of the contentment which the achievement of success brings about. All was peace and serenity upon the faces of Roberta Downie and Jick Haskell yesterday afternoon as they walked through Aggieville, twirling the trinkets.

- Judge For Yourself -

An established institution is hard to put down. An institution that is established but doing no good at all is equally hard to put down, even though it is using money that could be expended for better purposes, taking up the energy and time of students who could be using it to better advantage, and causing any amount of trouble and muttering.

Compulsory military training for colleges and universities is a thing of the past. When the Union had won the Civil war and had found that it needed some agency for the training of men, the land grant colleges were established by the government to provide this agency against any later crisis. Since that time, army camps, much better prepared to take over the training of men for military service than the present day college and university military department, have been organized throughout the country, capable of taking care of hundreds of thousands of men in a time of national crisis. And yet the military education hangs on in some of our more stubborn colleges. Students compelled to take the two years training, come out of the course with little added knowledge and certainly with a contempt of army officials as a whole.

Watching the squad and platoon drill on our Campus, I was struck with the lack of progress that the freshmen and sophomore groups show. It would seem that if the training was doing its part that marching time could at least be kept by most of the "Robots," and that the rifle could be brought to the "order" and to the "shoulder" at least in a semblance of union. But such was not the case. The whole thing was being taken as a joke by almost every member of the drill, and confusion resulted.

The work can be taught more efficiently at army camps. Then why not let the army camps teach it instead of trying to compel students to enroll in military training when they have no desire to be soldiers.—F. A. P.

STANFORD CONFERS M. A. DEGREE ON C. E. ROGERS

Head of Kansas State Journalism Department to Remain on Coast Until Fall

Prof. Charles E. Rogers, head of the department of industrial journalism, has just received the degree of Master of Arts from Leland Stanford University. Professor Rogers has been studying at Leland Stanford since last June, meanwhile doing part time teaching in the division of journalism. He intended originally to return to the college in July, but his leave of absence has been extended until September 8. The two remaining quarters of his residence at Stanford will be devoted to work toward a Ph. D. degree in political science.

Professor Rogers' thesis study dealt with "The California Business Press." It included study of the trade and industrial papers of the state, of which there are about 80, all published in San Francisco and Los Angeles. The degree was conferred upon him April 1. In 1926 Professor Rogers became head of the journalism department, the same year in which he received the degree of Master of Science from K. S. C. He became associated with the college as professor of journalism in 1919, two years after graduation from the University of Oklahoma.

Students in Evening Star Study Acquaint Selves With Heavens

"Stars of the Summer Night" hold a peculiar fascination for students of astronomy, who under the instruction of Prof. L. W. Hartel, hold evening sessions of star study—or campusology, as one student termed it.

As the class, swelled by a surprising number of welcome outsiders, strolls over the campus with heads aloft and starry eyes on the heavenly bodies, the students become familiar with a great many of the best known stars.

Sirius, the Great Dog star, is the brightest star in the heavens. It is the best known of any individual star next to Polaris, the pole star. Sirius is the chief star in the constellation the Great Dog.

Arcturus shines in its greatest glory in April. Light which left Arcturus at the last World's Fair, in 1893 will open the gates at the next World's Fair in Chicago in 1933.

The planets Venus and Jupiter, prove interesting to the amateur star gazer. Jupiter was viewed through the telescopes at one of the sessions. Disappointed students saw only a round light like that of a street light, as the proverbial points of a star were not forthcoming.

Old Sol himself was seen one morning through a telescope. At night the Moon and Venus vie with one another in brightness.

The giant Orion striding across the sky is probably the most widely known of all the constellations next to the Great Dipper. He stands with his right arm uplifted, and with his great club ready to strike. A lion's skin over his left arm is a sort of shield before him. The Heavenly twins, Castor and Pollux, are the brightest stars in the constellation Gemini—which has been corrupted into "By Jinniny." Although they appear close together, they are separated by some two hundred odd billions of miles.

Responses to invitations sent to students, faculty, women and wives of faculty men will be accepted the first few days of this week.

Invitations to the tea will be sent out within the next day or so, according to Mary Alice Schnacke, president of Theta Sigma Phi.

Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

"Porky" Wilhelm, director of the follies in the '22 Ags, stated at the special fair seminar held Thursday that he guessed he was selected for the position because he "had more guts than any other man in the ag division." Which may have been more truth than fiction. Wilhelm himself has had considerable stage experience, all of which he no doubt, will pass on to his proteges, the chorus. But there are a few people who hope that he doesn't expect one of the aspirants to attempt his trick of keeping up his large-waisted trousers without the aid of either a belt or suspenders. There must be a limit somewhere. And as an afterthought, we wonder how Martin Koch's closely cropped hair will be disguised, to give him the characteristics of the opposite sex.

And just what the real idea back of the much-advertised greased pig race is to be has puzzled us. Loy McMullen, pig greaser, says that the animal will be thoroughly coated with axle grease and then released to fall into and out of the clutches of ambitious pig-catchers in the vicinity. But he adds that the person who catches the pig doesn't get to keep the animal. Maybe it's just an advertising stunt for some popular brand of grease and the endeavor will advertise the "Best Greased Pigs in Captivity."

And we also wonder how it happened that the two ag fraternities held their spring parties on the same night (but in the same place). The ags, it seems, must be together at all costs.

At the Thursday Ag fair ballyhoo seminar it was proclaimed that all ag students must wear overalls on the hill during the week preceding the day of the fair, and as a further inducement it was mentioned that an old-fashioned stock tank filled with really wet water will be placed between the ag buildings and jobs it will be thrown at those men who dare attend classes in the conventional garb. Police, one of whom is the well developed Neil Weybrew, will perform the baptismal service.

However the fair will have its strictly serious and educational side. Jay Bentley and Herbert Clutter compose the committee in charge of educational exhibits which will no doubt provide demonstration of all the latest methods of losing money at farming and will in addition sponsor the displays of rival departmental clubs.

But overshadowing all is the impending spectacle of the push-ball contest between the ags and the piggers. We had always in the game to be rather tame with nothing worse than grains, beans, or a few broken fingers resulting, but yesterday we heard an ag say that once (in some distant aged) he saw a pig get his neck broken when he bounced off from the hill. Perhaps it will prove to be the ideal sport for neutralizing the negative love between the brothers of the barns and the shops.

Grease Spots

By Kenneth Werley

Electrical engineering students will meet in seminar today, at which time a film depicting the development of the new Plymouth motor cars will be shown. . . . H. P. Yoder, who was graduated from the department of mechanical engineering in 1928, is a visitor on the campus this week. . . . Sophomore engineers had a taste of fighting under fire yesterday morning, and performed very creditably. When the explosion occurred at the engineering building, an entire platoon of artillerymen who were receiving instruction on the anti-aircraft gun which is stationed north of the engine house forgot that they were soldiers and ran to the scene of the blast. . . .

Incidentally, that explosion, which was in reality an explosion of gases in the exhaust trench outside the building, was reported as a severe blast in the Diesel engine in the steam and gas lab. From some of the reports, the event was comparable to the Nicaraguan earthquake.

The seminar program for civil engineers next Thursday will consist of a film dealing with construction work on the Hoover dam site. The program has been arranged for all freshman engineers, and for sophomore, junior and senior civil engineering students. . . . It seems that gonorrhea must have been a "passing fancy" with the architects. I made the mistake of asking someone about the latest developments of the game, and I can now appreciate the experience of Rip Van Winkle upon his return to his home town.

While around the engine house, Prof. L. E. Conrad reminded us of old days in the department. Prof. R. G. Kieffer, who is always in a hurry, those two fellows who stand in the doorway and tell each other their hard luck stories, Kale Pikes and Elmer Wyant wise-cracking before a delighted audience in the Engineer office.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"The Greeks Had a Word For Them" Three blondes had one mission in life—to have fun. Ina Claire dates on diamonds, Joan Blondell specializes on stocks and bonds, but Edna Evans wants only her "bad time" to bring her luck and happiness.

Continued At Chapel, the three carefree damsels parade through a series of situations that are unexpected, tense, and thoroughly amusing. The plot is busy, but you won't miss it during the barrage of Ina Claire's witticisms.

David Manners and Lowell Sherman do their part in providing wit and merriment for the girls.

Paramount Pictures featured Vincent Lopez, Orlin Jewell, and Lowell Thomas.—E. G.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Young America" The "young boy in town" will touch you as only a red-headed, apple-faced boy can when he is in wrong.

Doris Kenyon, wife of the town druggist, Spencer Tracy, visits the juvenile court and finds herself wildly interested in the career of Tommy Condon, aged thirteen, and a square guy who is seriously misunderstood until the fade-out. It isn't a case of a boy and his dog, but there are a pair of boy pals, and an appealing grandmother.

Tommy Condon is a sincere actor and steals the picture from his elders.—E. G.

AT THE VARIETY

"A Woman Commands" Pola Negri upholds the drama with her old-time acting, of emotion and sacrifice, in spite of a title vehicle. Pola manages to marry a clownish king, Roland Young, who plays opposite Emil Rathbone, her real love. Real romance and consistent situations follow, in which the king's realm is overshadowed by an opposite political party. Pola Negri surprises you with her pleasing, throaty voice and sings the old favorite, "Paradise."

The tingy atmosphere is enhanced by grand staircases, cathedrals and throne rooms plus gorgeous gowns.

If you like romance, really romantic, you will want to see this picture, see it for yourself.—S. S.

TICKETS FOR "SALT WATER" TO GO ON SALE THURSDAY

Manhattan Theatre's Last Production of Year Is Drama of Seaman's Love's Labor Lost

Tickets for "Salt Water," the play to be produced this year by the Manhattan Theatre, go on sale Thursday morning at the box office of the college auditorium. Seats may be reserved by those holding season tickets at the same time.

The cast for "Salt Water," which is to be presented Friday and Saturday nights in the auditorium is as follows: John Harner, Charles Funk; Pansy Horner, his young wife, Pauline Compton; Hattie Horner, John's sarcastic sister, Helen Pickrell; Marion Potter, Maxine Harding; Sam Bowen, Don Isaacson; Percival Todd, Charles Moore; Jim Quirk, Harlan Rhoden; Harrison Davis, Merle Burgen; P. Price, Don Williams; Nick Dominick, M. D. Olmstead.

"Salt Water," is a "fresh" play by John Golden and Dan Jaffee, had a successful run in New York city.

The action of the entire play, takes place at the home of John and Pansy Horner at Snag Harbor. John Horner, the male lead of the play, is a descendant of a long line of hard-headed fishermen and a typical young seacoast American with aspirations to own and sail a ship of his own across the "seven seas." He is quietly hen-pecked by his young wife, Pansy.

The cast producing "Salt Water" consists for the most part of students new to Manhattan Theatre plays. For two of the three members of the cast who have had the most experience, M. D. Olmstead and Merle Burgen, "Salt Water" will be the last Manhattan Theatre production in which they will appear as neither of them plans to return to Kansas State next fall.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood
The Track meet held last Saturday with Oklahoma, tho' marred with frequent showers, was well worth the time of the crowd who braced the weather. Frank Root, in an altruistic mood, opened the press box, and the spectators were able to watch the events out of the cruel elements. There were nine meet records shattered, and the times and distances throughout were on a par with any collegiate competition. Especially noteworthy was the brilliant 220 dash of Mell of Oklahoma, who nosed out Elwell in a thrilling finish in the time of 21.1, which is only half a second from the world's record set by George Simpson, the Ohio State flash. One of the most exciting of the track events was the 220 hurdles in which Hinckley and Breen matched strides until the last five yards where Hinckley pulled out and won by inches. The time in this race is plenty fast.

Two surprising upsets were enacted in the stadium Saturday when Ehrlich and McNeal were beaten. In the high jump Ehrlich has been one of the most consistent performers in this country for the past three years, and his downfall in the Oklahoma meet was not wholly his fault. This event was interrupted by the rain, when three men were jumping at the winning height of six feet two inches. These men had to hunt cover for nearly half an hour, and then return cold and take a try at this height. None of them made it, and it is doubtful if any man in the world, not excepting the high flown George Spitz, could run out on a cold day and jump six two the first trial without warming up. The competition had been started and no trial jumps could be had. The winner had already made the height before the rain intervened. Landon ran away from his favored teammate, McNeal, in the mile run, and the only reason that can be given for the defeat of this star is that Don stepped out and ran them all off their feet. Also the "K" club initiation story is a bunch of hooey, while, admittedly, the "K" club chose a poor time to hold their hell period, no one was hurt.

In the second K. U. ball game played in the city park Saturday the fans saw a sterling exhibition of pitching by Bob Lang. In the five innings Bob had the mound the Jayhawks earned only one run, which came out of a walk, stolen base and a hit. The remaining runs gathered off his delivery, were the results of misuses afield. This was the first ball game Bob has worked in over two years when infantile paralysis threatened to put an end to his athletic career. He was as finished a twirler when he came here three years ago as Auker is today—according to an authority. His return to form will bolster up the pitching staff for the conference race, and more important will give one of the world's hardest left athletes a break. In the same ball game a line drive was crashed straight back through the mound, which Bob was only able to slow up. The ball went into the air back of the pitcher and Frankie Prentup came charging across the diamond taking the agate in front of second base and turning it loose on a dead run, to first base to kill the runner by an eyelash decision. This play was by far the best defensive play in either of the two ball games. It was the kind that bring the crowds to their feet in the big league parks.

TO STUDY FOOD SERVICE
A conference to which members of college units and high schools are invited for the study of institutional work in Kansas, will be held at the college April 22-23. The program which is for persons particularly interested in the problems of housing and food service for college students, will be under the direction of the department of institutional economics.

WILDCATS BOW TO JAYHAWKERS IN TWO BALL GAMES

K. U. CLUB, SUPERIOR IN ALL PHASES, HUMBLE KANSAS STATE SQUAD

CARLIE SMITH LEADS ATTACK

Play of Consistent Marked By Erratic Fielding And Inability to Hit In Pinches

The Kansas university baseball team took both games of the two game series played here last Friday and Saturday. The first game was held on the college diamond, and was marred by frequent showers.

Kansas opened the hostilities in the first frame, Carlisle Smith, the slugging outfielder, connected with one of Lefty Lowell's shots for the circuit. Blaine in right field made a nice try for the drive but it went over the fence by inches. The Wildcats came up in their half of the same inning and also scored two runs. Myers got to first on an attempted sacrifice, Boyd singled, and both crossed the plate on Pidentup's triple. This was the extent of the Kansas State scoring until the ninth inning when Prentup crashed out a four base blow with no one on the paths. This his was the longest of the day, lining far out over the centerfielder who had no chance at all of dragging it down.

The Jayhawks continued their run manufacturing in every inning but the seventh and eighth when Red Simms, who relieved Lowell, held them in check. The murderous bats of Smith, Brazil, and Ross accounted for most of the Kansas tallies. Smith had a regular field day at the expense of the opposing pitchers, jumping on their offerings for two homers and a double in 6 times at bat.

Cramer, the Jayhawk moundsman, allowed only five well scattered hits in the nine innings. His southpaw twirling, while not impressive from the sidelines, had all the Wildcats popping up, seventeen putouts coming from caught flies.

In the second game played in the city park because of the wet grounds at the college, the same ragged fielding displayed in the first contest prevailed. Bulkstra, the starting Wildcat pitcher was quickly touched for four runs in the first inning, and one more must be charged to him in the second when a streak if wildness resulted in walking two men one of whom scored after Lang took over the assignment. Cooley, the Kansas pitcher also failed to last the game, being relieved by Cramer, who pulled the iron man stunt by pitching two days in a row.

Lang hurled a nice game for the Wildcats and only one of the four runs that were scored during his stay on the slab can be charged him. The others resulting from sloppy fielding by his teammates, most of which was in the outfield where it could do the most harm.

The Kansas crew was held to seven hits and the Kansas State outfit also slammed out seven. The inability to deliver in the pinches with the erratic fielding spelled the defeat.

The runs made by the Jayhawks were on the hits of the heavy artillery of their lineup delivering after the sacks had been filled by the irregular fielding. While none of the invaders got more than one hit, several of these went for extra bases.

The Wildcat runs came from the bats of Gentz who snipped out of his slump, and hit two for three, and Blaine and Carter also drove in tallies.

The box score:

Women's Sports

In the preliminary games within organized groups for intramural tennis, the winner must now win eight out of 10 games instead of two of three games as was formerly announced. The change was made by Bernice Patterson, assistant professor in the physical education department, and Eleanor Wright, Concordia, who are managing intramural tennis this year.

Practices of the teams to play in intramural baseball will continue until Thursday, April 21. Intramural baseball games will start Monday, April 25.

M. U. BOWSON COURTS HERE

Home Men Take 12 of 20 Points in Close Fast Play Here Last Friday

Kansas State netmen downed the University of Missouri team 12 to 8 in their first conference match here last Friday. The matches were fast and the play throughout was close, the final outcome being in doubt until the doubles sets were run off. The same four men who defeated Ottawa university earlier in the week represented the Wildcats. Hoglund and Larson each won three of their four singles sets, Graham broke even on his, and Dean took one out of four. In the doubles play Dean and Hoglund teamed together took both of their sets, while Graham and Larson had to be content with a split.

The round robin system of tournament play which is being tried out in the Big Six this season was used, and it is rapidly gaining the favor of the coaches that have run off matches employing that type of competition. Coach C. S. Moll of Kansas State is one of the most enthusiastic supporters.

The summary:
Hoglund, K. S., defeated A. Rovin, M. U., 6-3; C. Rovin, M. U., 6-4; Hannon, M. U., 6-1; and lost to Hoover, M. U., 2-6.
Larson, K. S., defeated C. Rovin, M. U., 6-2; Hoover, M. U., 6-0; Hannon, M. U., 6-2; and lost to A. Rovin, M. U., 0-6.
Graham, K. S., defeated A. Rovin, M. U., 12-10; Hoover, M. U., 6-3; and lost to C. Rovin, M. U., 1-6; Hannon, M. U., 4-6.
Dean, K. S., defeated Hoover, M. U., 6-3; and lost to A. Rovin, M. U., 2-6; C. Rovin, M. U., 2-6; Hannon, M. U., 3-6.
In the doubles Dean and Hoglund, K. S., defeated A. Rovin and Hoover, M. U., 6-2; and C. Rovin and Hannon, M. U., 6-4. Larson and Graham, K. S., defeated A. Rovin and Hoover, M. U., 6-4; and lost to C. Rovin and Hannon, M. U., 3-6.

RACQUETEERS TO SALINA

Home Men Hope For Third Successive Victory Today Against Kansas Wesleyan

Coach C. S. Moll takes his Kansas State racqueteers to Salina today for a match with the Kansas Wesleyan university. There will be several new men with the traveling squad, and the four regulars, Graham, Larson, Hoglund, and Dean will make the trip.

The Kansas State men will be trying to make it three in a row, having previously defeated Ottawa university and the University of Missouri. The Wesleyan team is usually strong and the Wildcats will not have a setup in these matches. Last year the Wesleyans bowed before the Kansas State aggregation after a close battle.

The center of the Wesleyan attack will be Sissom who is a seasoned tennis player. Each of the visitors will have to face his slashing drives, and they may have trouble in returning them.

Fair Hitch Hikers Meet Dame Fortune Along The Highway

A pretty face goes a long way but three of them can get farther—cheaper. A trio of winsome freshman lassies left Manhattan Saturday at 12:35 and via lifts reached Abilene, their destination, at 2:30.

Their time was just fifteen minutes longer than by bus or rail, and cheaper by about a dollar and a half each. A young Junction Citian picked them up at the edge of Manhattan and set them down in Junction City. They walked through the town and just at the city limits were granted companionship by two elderly farmers who took them the rest of the way. The success of their first effort did not tempt them, however, to return by the same method.

Platt Secretarial School will be in session during the summer. Enroll for special training in shorthand and typewriting. 52-4c

O. U. IN SURPRISE WIN OVER WILDCAT TRACK MEN

Ehrlich's Defeat in High Jump A Surprise—Jordan Establishes New Pole Vault Mark

The Kansas State track team lost their first Big Six engagement of the outdoor season to the University of Oklahoma, here, last Saturday. The final score of the meet was 71 2-3 to 59 1-3.

J. W. Jordan and Norris Miller were the outstanding men of the Kansas State team. Jordan established a new college pole vault record when he cleared the bar at 13 feet. This is one eighth of an inch above the old record established by Carter in 1927. Miller won the half mile by running it in 1 minute 58 2-10 seconds. This was Miller's first conference race.

In spite of the strong team that Oklahoma was doped to have they scored no sweeps. They scored eight firsts, while Kansas State took seven including the relay.

Much to everyone's surprise was the performance of Newblock of Oklahoma when he defeated Ehrlich, Big Six indoor and outdoor champion, in the high jump. Shortly after the meet started it began to rain and continued until the meet was almost over. This especially made the field events difficult, and also slowed down the track events.

The summary:
Mile—Won by Landon, K. S.; Moore, O. U. second; McNeal, K. S., third. Time 4:25.4.

440-yard dash—Won by Hewitt, O. U.; Harsh, K. S., second; Harsh, K. S., third. Time 49.6.
100-yard dash—Won by Elwell, K. S.; Panze, O. U. second; Simms, O. U., third. Time 10 seconds.
Shot put—Won by Howell, O. U.; Gillis, O. U. second; Schooley, K. S., third. Distance 47 feet 4 1-4 inches.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Hinckley, K. S.; Breen, K. S., second; Thrower, O. U. third. Time 1:5.2.

380-yard dash—Won by Miller, K. S.; Moore, O. U., second; Strohline, O. U., third. Time 1:58.2.

Discus—Won by Howell, O. U.; Gillis, O. U. second; Claassen, K. S., third. Distance 143 feet, 1 inch.
High jump—Won by Newblock, O. U.; Simms, O. U.; Harsh, O. U., and Ehrlich, K. S., tied for second. Height 6 feet 2 inches.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Hinckley, K. S.; Breen, K. S., second; Simms and Hildt of O. U. tied for third. Time 24.3.
Two mile—Won by Dale, O. U.; Pearce, K. S., second; Nixon, K. S., third. Time 9:54.6.

220-yard dash—Won by Mell, O. U.; Elwell, K. S., second; Newblock, O. U., third. Time 21.1.

Relay—Won by Kansas State (Castello, Shirek, Harsh, Darnell). Time 3:24.5.

Pole vault—Jordan, K. S., and Null, O. U., tied for first; Schmutz, K. S., third. Height 13 feet.

All-Wichita Artists Exhibit Includes a Variety in Media

By Elizabeth Gaston
Wide variety in technical proficiency is displayed in the exhibit of Wichita artists whose work will be shown in the department of architecture until May 1.

Charles Seward, who arranged the exhibit, contributes two fine pieces of work. His treatment of the lithograph, "The New Gate," is Sandzen-like, but he shows a sympathy and sensitive vision of his own in "Negro Village," an etching. Dominating in the water color medium is Glenn Golton, who through thoughtful color arrangement and an exquisite feeling for texture, gets vitality and sun light into his work. Space and mass are handled vigorously in "Last Snow on Buck Hills," and the reds and violets of "Autumn Snow" are delicate and effective.

More snow scenes in water color by Stippich are well patterned and cool colors used nicely.
William Dickerson exhibits in three mediums. He paints cleanly in his water colors, limiting himself to simple color harmonies, and using restraint and economy of line to artistic advantage.

In block prints, Dickerson's work resembles that of Hershel Logan of Salina in his subject matter and well-rhythmed pattern, particularly noticeable in "Barn," "Picket Fence," a lithograph shows his humor, nicely adapted to the medium.

Carefully composed with quiet technique are the dry-points of Charles Capps. His meticulous treatment is suited to "Mild Winter," and "Cottonwood-Davis Legacy" has a lofty quality obtained through dominant vertical lines, the most effective was "Winter," by Leo Courtney. "White Solo," by the same artist, achieves the clarity he was seeking in "Shadows."

Because of unique penciling in the Ed Davison lithograph, "Portrait," the atmosphere created is such that the old woman seems to be looking at us through a hazy veil of memories.

Linoleum blocks of Lloyd Foltz, "Snowbound Lake," and Mountain Village," have vigorous line and strength.

Three bronzes by Bruce Moore accompany the Wichita exhibit. "Figure," has a pleasing classic simplicity.

AGS INSPECT FARMS
The advanced farm organization class, under the direction of Prof. Morris Evans, left Monday morning on their annual farm inspection trip. The entire trip will last five days, and will cover about six hundred miles.

STUDENT ANNOUNCERS TAKE OVER PROGRAMS

Class in Radio A. B. C.'s Advanced Enough Now To Use the Microphone

Students in the newly organized class in radio broadcasting have taken charge of the radio programs at station KSAC.

The radio course was started this semester primarily as an experiment, and according to L. L. Longsdorf, radio publicity department, it has proved a success. The purpose of the course is to acquaint the students with the principles of program directing and announcing, and in a few years, possibly Graham McNamee and Mrs. Winchell's little Walter will have some keen competition.

All types of programs are announced by the students over station KSAC. When the station is not on the air, the students get practice in speech making and other phases of broadcasting.

As only two other colleges in the United States offer courses of this type, a great deal of interest has been shown by students at Kansas State college.

VARIED PLANS TO BETTER GUIDANCE MADE AT FORUM

ABOUT 125 INTERESTED STUDENTS AND FACULTY MEMBERS PRESENT

FINAL ACTION TO FACULTY

Lack of Funds Seems to Be Biggest Barrier to Immediate Action on Many Suggestions for Betterment

Approximately 125 students and faculty members presented varied ideas for new plans of vocational guidance at the open forum in recreation center Tuesday night.

Freshman orientation week, which has succeeded at many colleges, was urged by a few present. By this plan, new students have from the first six to nine weeks to choose advisors in whom they have confidence and to whom they feel free to go for advice at any time during their college years. All freshmen attend a seminar one hour a week which is made interesting and educational by demonstrations and student discussion.

Do Students Want Advice?
C. M. Correll, assistant dean of general science, was in doubt as to the desire of students for vocational guidance. He believes that, judging from the number of students who come to him office, that students do not want such advice. He suggested, however, that if guidance was desired that the advisors should have in their possession personality cards, giving the special abilities, interests, grades, et cetera, of their students, in order that they be better fitted to give advice.

The engineers feel that their cultural training is being sadly neglected, for in no course does an engineering student receive more than eight hours of cultural subjects, college rhetoric I and II and speech. They feel that not only the students are lacking in culture, but the teachers as well. Instructors that use "supposin" and "it don't" in their regular speech, received unvelled criticism.

Instructors Unapproachable
Unapproachable instructors was given by one student as the reason so few students come for guidance; another felt that students have little confidence in the ability of instructors outside of their own division giving them efficient advice.

Special vocational lectures, a plan to make the choice of electives less hasty, vocational guidance in high school to prepare students for college, hiring expert advisors with vocational guidance as their only responsibility, and vocational advice before enrolment were a few other suggestions discussed.

Vets Satisfied
The division of veterinary medicine was the only division which felt that they had no further need for vocational guidance. According to their report, students who elect to take veterinary medicine have almost always fully decided upon their course. Proof of this is the few transfers from the division.

Discussion was based on reports read by representative students of the vocational guidance commission from each of the five divisions. Barbara Laus, HE and A2, La Junta, Colo., read the home economics report; Robert Alexander, A23, Independence, Mo., the engineering division report; William Myers, A4, Bancroft, the division of agriculture report; W. S. Hornsby, VM4, Manhattan, the report of the division of veterinary medicine; and Franklin Thackeray, LJ3, the general science division report.

The findings committee, who took note of all that happened, will work this week on their report which will be turned over to the faculty vocational guidance committee for definite action.

Louise Davis, HE4, Nashville, Tenn., was in charge of the forum, sponsored by the S. G. A.

GOLF MATCH TODAY

The Kansas State golfers are hosts to the pitch and putt men of Washburn college team on the fairways of the Manhattan country club today. The singles will be run off starting at 9 o'clock and the doubles play is scheduled for 1:30 o'clock.

The real battle against par will be staged when Captain Joe Menzie, and the ace of the Washburn team, Gerald Smith, start their rounds. Menzie has been breaking 70 regularly in his workouts the past week, and Smith, a Manhattan boy, is an excellent golfer and will be nearly as much at home on this course as the Wildcats.

The other members of the Kansas State team are Joe Walker, Junction City; Dale Maxwell, Columbus; and Al Hostetler, Hutchinson.

KRIDER WINS MENTION

Submits Block Prints and Water Colors in Contest

Alden Krider, Art4, Newton, was awarded honorable mention in a scholarship competition at the Art Students League in New York City, recently.

Block prints and water colors were included in the work Krider submitted to the competition, which was open to any student in the United States outside of New York City.

Krider is next in line for a scholarship if any of the winners of the first awards is unable to take advantage of the opportunity.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS HIKE

Members of the Lutheran student association hiked to Pillsbury Crossing last night. Dorothy Krig, Manhattan, and Lewis Hanson, Jamestown, provided entertainment for the evening. Stella Johnson, Savonbury, and Pauline Paddelford, Manhattan, were on the food committee.

PRE-ELECTION DOPE PREDICTS A RECORD VOTE

PETITIONS FOR 17 CANDIDATES CIRCULATED BY FRIENDS—FILING DATE TUES.

MEMBERS ELECTED ON MERIT

Politics Barred From Student Council Elections in Order that Voice of People May Rule

By Politics
States may elect their governors, and politicians may extol the virtues of presidential candidates, but something of vastly greater and more immediate interest politically will confront Kansas State students next week. That may sound like a stump speech beginning, but the student council election is on the calendar for Thursday between 8:30 and 5 o'clock. Pre-election interest brings about the prediction from campus politicians that a record or near record vote will be cast.

Petitions Due Tuesday
All petitions of students wishing their names to appear on the ballot must be filed with Barbara Brubaker, student council secretary, by noon Tuesday. Last night five petitions had been filed, and at least 12 others are known to be in the contest.

All of which is neither here nor there except that there will be about as much competition as there is over the bones when a group of dusky-hued gentlemen get fervent, eloquent or whatever over baby's need of new shoes.

Those "whose friends are known to be proposing their names" include Maurice "Duke" DuMars, Agra, LJ3; Ed Sullivan, Mercer, A2; Leonard "Brick" Garrison, G23, Manchester; Robert Alexander, A23, Independence, Mo.; Eleanor Wright, LJ3, Concordia; Ruth Stiles, LJ3, Kansas City; Don Wyatt, LJ3, Stockton.

Esther Row, C3, Larned; Harry Coberly, A2, Gove; Frances Jack, ME43, Russell; Glen Fox, A23, Rome; Lee Morgan, A2, Hugoton; Hal McCord, Jr., A23, Manhattan; Steve Vesceky, A23, Kansas City; Mary Holton, HE3, Manhattan; D. F. "Pete" Pocock, C and A23, LeRoy; Dorothy Cortelyou, G51, Manhattan.

The following are the social organizations represented by the candidates: DuMars, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Sullivan, Phi Kappa; Garrison, (Continued on page two)

COLLEGE GETS BI-PLANE

Ship Will Make No Flights. But Will Be Used For Laboratory Study By Engineers

The gift of a 200-horsepower bi-plane to the college has been announced by Prof. W. W. Carlson of the department of engineering. The donor is the National Air Transport company.

The ship will be a Falken or Douglas model with wing spread of approximately 40 feet. Professor Carlson said. It will be brought to the college in two weeks.

No flights will be made in the ship, but it will be used solely for class study and laboratory demonstrations. Negotiations are being made to obtain the loan of a United States army plane but definite arrangements have not been completed.

Wayne Billings, Jetmore, was a Thursday dinner guest at the house.

DINNER FEATURE CLOSES ANNUAL HOSTESS WEEK

Margaret M. Justin, dean of the home economics division, will extend a toast on "The Differences of Opportunities of Olden Days and Today," and Martha Rodda, Arms, will tell of the difficulties of "Godey Book Ladies." Pauline Vail, Plains, will play a violin solo and Lois Lewellen, Newton, will sing. Group singing will be led by Irene Todd, Manhattan.

Students from Alta Vista, Alma, Barnes, Eldorado, Riley, Waterville, and Paxico have accepted invitations extended to them by the division and will visit the campus today or tomorrow.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

A fool is born every minute, and the heck of it is most of them grow up to college, and become yo-yo fiends. Even Johnnie Correll, the voice of Kappa Sigma, becomes inarticulate when he expresses himself by expertly handling the difficult toy. . . . Bus Boyd says he has seen students he thought had a little bit of sense playing with the crazy things. . . . Peace reigns again in the ranks of the women of "K". New initiates and members signed an armistice the other night while they skated merrily away on the local skating rink. . . . Initiates going through hell week are numerous on the campus as dandelions. For the past few weeks the place has literally been cluttered up with fresh looking individuals doing silly tricks 'cause the actives told them to. This week, dear ones, it's Block and Briddle, (age), and Scabbard and Blade (soldiers) who are indulging in the childish sport of dressing up. . . . The Collegian staff wonders what Van Zile hall inmate the Miscellaneous Editor of the Mercury has been keeping out after 10 o'clock, to be greeted at the door by the "mother" in her red kimono. . . . From the reports given at the vocational guidance meeting Tuesday night, it would indicate the home economics and veterinary medicine divisions handle their problems perfectly. . . . Criticism was not included in the reports of students from these divisions. The engineers are losing the "cultural side of life" by not being allowed enough electives, Bob Alexander's report revealed. And the professors in this division are assisting the students in losing sight of the better things by using "ain't" in class room discussions. The general science division has a problem, a big one, and admits it. . . . The age got along, but sometimes not so well. . . .

Leora Hubbell, Fredonia, received a rather severe acid burn on her right hand Wednesday as she was experimenting with acid solutions in chemistry class.

George Monroe, Lyons, went home today to attend the funeral of his grandmother.

Prodigal Percy Pays Papa's Pretty Pennies Painlessly

By the Observer

Students at Kansas State college do not spend all of their time discussing hogchokers, boll-weevils, and soy-beans! Instead, they fill the coffers of local student hangouts from their dwindling bankrolls.

And thus is squandered the proceeds from that last lot of Poland-Chinas that Uncle Abner shipped to Kansas City. The specie is doled out in payment of countless cokes and toothsome meeses with irresistible titles such as "Lover's Delight," "Chocolate-Covered Fruit Dribblings," and "Eddie's Mother's Synthetic Nut-Waffles."

This startling revelation reached horrified ears in the journalism department. The owners of these ears immediately began an investigation, and facts have been bared which shock the clean-minded, upright, forward thinking student of journalism.

The department sleuth, donning his gambler's vest, his brown corduroy duck-hunting cap, and peering through his special six-inch magnifying glass, through which his nasal passages and oral fossa took on grotesque shapes, made his way through the high-backed booths, examined the bottle-scarred tables, and out of an entangled skein of evidence, produced the facts herein recorded.

Not only does the coke and sundries traffic fatten the wallets of local confection merchants, but numberless dozens of nickels are poured daily into a mechanical bandit known locally as a "Whiffle" table. The system of this money trap is to lure the unsuspecting bystander to part with his coin after which he is belittled in the eyes of his fellows by trying fruitlessly to put little marbles into numbered holes. At this the machine will have won another victory and will have served the purpose for which it was conceived.

Back among these booths where the shiftless student whiles away precious hours, the holy sanctimony has never been broken by the appearance of promoters of student welfare. Conversation among the frequenters of these places runs from the possibility of light wines and beer to blondes and "the six feet of soup bones that just ambled in the door." For entertainment, there is a radio which, among other accessory noises, puts forth the efforts of four-year-old Nellie Shuffelbottom who renders, much to your displeasure, her youthful conception of the "Rutchy Touchy Blues."

But youth must be served, as someone has already said, and the gay young things who compose sororities must have their hourly smokes, and so they hide away in the deep recesses of the booths and stained fingers are the only evidence of their sin.

Upon entering one of these dens even the most casual observer can notice the fountain garnished with wayward freshmen and hardened seniors, all sipping at cigarettes and snapping bright-colored yo-yos.

Something must be done about this debauching of innocent Kansas State students. Down with the machine, (or whatever that slogan is!) But before we do anything—let's slip down to Aggieville, and I'll match you for the drinks!

MATRIX TABLE SPEAKER WILL DISCUSS POETRY

MRS. MAY WILLIAMS WARD, HARP EDITOR, FEATURES DINNER PROGRAM

RECOGNIZE STAR REPORTER

Prominent Kansas Newspaper Women and Others Will Attend Annual Theta Sigma Phi Event at Warehouse

Kansas newspaper women and others will hear Mrs. May Williams Ward discuss "The Editorial Railing" at the annual Matrix Table sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism fraternity, at the Warehouse hotel this evening. Mary Alice Schacke, LaCrosse, president of the organization, will be toastmistress.

Mrs. Ward, who has written and contributed a number of poems to current publications, is a former editor of the Harp, a magazine of poetry. She is outstanding among Kansas journalists and spent some time in the McDowell artists' colony in the east. Her address this evening will center on her experiences as a contributor and as an editor.

One of the features of the program will be the awarding of a prize and recognition for the star woman reporter in the department of industrial journalism. This award is sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi annually, the decision having been reached by editors of The Kansas State Collegian and members of the faculty. Edith Dobson and Paul Dittmore, Collegian editors, and Miss Helen Hemphill and R. I. Thackeray, instructors of Collegian reporters' classes, chose the star reporter who will be recognized this evening.

Betty Ransom, Manhattan, will sing several selections, the words of which were composed by Mrs. Ward. Ivernia Danielson, Manhattan, will play the xylophone.

YEARBOOK NEARS FINISH

Jim Chapman Says About All of Copy Turned In To Printer

The 1932 Royal Purple will soon be a finished product, according to Jim Chapman, editor. The cover has been tinted this week by the S. K. Smith company of Chicago, and is now being allowed to dry.

Next week all advertising copy and a few pages that have not been completed yet will be sent to the engraver. Printing of the yearbook will begin as soon as all copy has been sent. Present plans are to distribute the books three weeks after printing, which will give the binding a chance to settle and prevent it from cracking so easily.

George Monroe, Lyons, went home today to attend the funeral of his grandmother.

DANCING 'GIRLS' TO ASTONISH AG FAIR VISITORS

MASCULINE PERFORMERS GETTING INTO FORM THROUGH DAILY REHEARSALS

OLD-TIME REVIVAL PLANNED

'Parson Brown' To Conduct One of Features in Follics Program; Educational Exhibits Are Scheduled

Swinging shapely shins to tickling tunes by an eight piece band the "girls" of the 32 ag fair follies are getting into form for the festivities. Miss Vera Smith, 1931 Kansas State Sweetheart, is directing the dancing boys and is getting results, according to "Porky" Wilhelm, director of the show.

The show opens with a pajamaed chorus performing to the tune of "Dancing on the Ceiling." The chorus is followed by J. L. Duncan and Elbert and Delbert Esbaugh singing "Snuggle on Your Shoulder." As a prelude to the feature of the show, the love skit "The World Over" featuring Glenn Fox, Rosell, as the feminine interest and Dale Edelblute, Keats, as the big deceiver, Harold Kugler and Leonard Rees, Abilene, sing "You Told Me." The finale, which will probably be "Paradise," features the chorus in evening gowns.

The minstrel show this year has the theme of an old time revival, according to Edwin Krasny, Topeka, who directs the show and takes the part of Parson Brown. The show includes music by a jazz band and singing by a choir. "River, Stay Away From My Door," "St. Louis Blues," and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" are among the musical numbers used. The "congregation" has a variety of believers, some being deacons of good faith, others stand-patters, other back-sliders, and still others downright sinners. Men in the congregation are Warren Mather, Grinnell; A. H. Otto, Great Bend; H. E. Grogger, Solomon; Orville Denton, Denton; C. C. Graham, Stockton; H. D. Ohlsen, Miltonville; F. V. Pinnick, Ulysses; E. W. Pitman, Scott City; Charles Murphy, Leoti; Penn Thompson, Manhattan; H. T. Niles, Olivet; E. C. Betz, Enterprise; Vernon Burnett, Manchester, Okla.; Philip Hackney, Wellington; C. E. Keith, Ottawa; and T. L. Buchman, Paola, Orville Denton is manager of the minstrels and C. D. McNeal, Boyle, is publicity agent.

Herbert Clutter, Larned, and Jay Bentley, Ford, in charge of educational exhibits for the fair, are expecting 12 entrants in the exhibit competition in which a cup is awarded. The competition is limited to clubs and departments on the hill, but downtown merchants and various manufacturers will display advertising exhibits.

Next week the ag students must wear overalls to all classes or suffer the penalty which is a thorough ducking at the hands of husky police under the supervision of Joyce Miller, Sycamore.

KIDNAPERS TAKE GIRL, ESCAPE IN ESCORT'S AUTO

MARY TILTON, FORMER STUDENT, FORCED TO ACCOMPANY BANDITS

C. C. CONGER WAS ESCORT

Senior Ag Student Jumps on Car As Bandits Leave, Is Thrown Off Near Rossville

Two bandits kidnapped Miss Mary Tilton, former Kansas State student, after holding up and robbing her escort, C. C. Conger, last night about 9:30 o'clock a short distance west of Wamego. The kidnapers made their escape in Conger's motor car, going east toward Topeka.

Miss Tilton attended school here last year, being enrolled in the division of home economics. She was a sophomore, and lived at Van Zile hall. She has been teaching school at St. George, eight miles east of Manhattan, this year.

After being held up and robbed, Conger managed to jump on the rear of his car, a 1931 Chevrolet coupe, as the kidnapers were leaving with Miss Tilton. The men in the car fired one shot at Conger, failing to hit him.

He was able to cling to the rear of the car until it reached Rossville, about 20 miles west of Topeka, where he lost his hold and was thrown off. Conger then notified the police at Topeka and his fraternity, Alpha Gamma Rho, here. Fraternity brothers notified local officers, who in turn advised the sheriff of Pottawatomie county of the crime.

About ten members of the fraternity then left here in four cars to assist in the search and bring Conger back to Manhattan.

Nothing more could be learned about the kidnaping at a late hour last night.

ALL-STUDENT CAST TO PRESENT SALT WATER

Final Theater Play of Season Tonight and Tomorrow in Auditorium

A play cast composed entirely of students will present the farce-comedy, "Salt Water," under the direction of H. Miles Heberer of the department of public speaking tonight and tomorrow night in the college auditorium. Tickets are on sale at the box office in the auditorium.

The play is centered around the ambitions of a young seacoast fisherman to own and sail his craft. He comes from a long line of seafaring ancestors. A hen-pecking wife complicates the plot, and the story goes merrily and funnily on to the climax.

According to Director Heberer, the play is entirely different from others which have been presented by the Manhattan theater players this season, and the players all are excellently cast.

The antics of the love-lorn maid whose life was saved by Percival, the life-saver, are alone enough to make the play more than amusing, according to those who have seen rehearsals.

MEASLES CASE HERE

Jane Kahl, Topeka, has the German measles, and is confined in the college hospital. Dr. C. M. Slevor, college physician, stated that this is the only case of the "youthful" measles on the campus. Oliver Brandon, Ash Valley, is in the hospital because of infection in his leg.

WELL DONE, BOYS.

In the April issue of the Kansas State Engineer, the editorial and business staff for the past year sang its swan song. The recently elected editor and business manager, with their staffs, will be in charge of the remaining issues of the engineering division's publication this academic year.

The Kansas State Engineer during this year has been one of the best, if not the best, magazine ever edited and published by the engineers. It has been a magazine well worth reading, and has contained some exceptional articles. The typographical makeup, and the general nature of the contents has been above criticism. To the engineers, well versed in their particular field, this magazine must have proved educational and beneficial. To those students outside the engineering division, who know little if anything about the engineering profession, it has proved interesting.

Nevertheless, the staff which now bid au revoir to their journalistic venture, the Collegian congratulates for having edited and managed such a magazine. The new staff will find it difficult to improve the publication, because it's been high on to perfect.—E. D.

WHAT!! NO JEWELRY?

"Good News!" screams a letter received yesterday. "The University of Colorado has been placed on the approved list by the Survey Committee of Blue Key."

And what we ask may this mean? To the national president of Blue Key it "means that the student body and the institution have been recognized by the largest and strongest, all-around, national honor fraternity for men." To us it means "Shades of Phi Beta Kappa! Another honorary fraternity!"

Ah, but it is only temporary. Look: "Blue Key applies the Rotary or Kiwanis idea to student life. And there are no national installation teams, fees or dues, and men do not have to buy jewelry." What? No jewelry to wear? We won't consider it!

Attached sheets gives us the pedigree of the new honorary national. It seems that some of the boys at Florida University thought wise to make Homecoming Day Dad's Day. This they did, and, as a sort of after-thought, they instituted the Blue Key.

Since that time, they have extended their activities throughout the nation where "another honorary society" was needed.

Blue Key did well to send an application blank to the University of Colorado. There is a crying need for another fraternity. But we fear nothing will ever come of the move, because Blue Key offers no jewelry to its members. Pooh, pooh!—Colorado Silver and Gold.

WHO'S CRAZY?

"We are not going crazy," Dr. L. M. Birkhead reassured a Kansas University audience last week. "No one is able to point out a period in history that has been more sane than the present one."

It is comforting to know that other generations have been as irrational as is this one. Most certainly there is ample cause for suspecting the sanity of the present people, for are we not the ones who sponsor six-day bicycle races and transcontinental foot marathons? We are the ones who pay good money to see young men and women stay on their feet in an attempt to dance for days, weeks, even months, without collapsing. We are the ones who buy yo-yos and make the silly things jump up and down a string with greatest care. We are the ones who laud to the skies young men who foolishly fly airplanes across oceans for no earthly reason. And yet there were other peoples just as nutty as this. What a nice thought!

Men who are able to perch on top of flag poles for many days are considered in a glamorous light nowadays, but this is no new feat. Those who have read "Thais" recall the anchorite who sat on top of a pillar for long days and nights and won great fame for his persistent sitting efforts. There is one recorded instance of a man standing atop a 60-foot column for 30 years, and there were thousands of men who attempted to break his record. Even our own Flag Pole Kelly would seem sane in those times.

Even dancing marathons, the bane of present civilization, is not a new monstrosity. During the eleventh and twelfth centuries dancing endurance contests were the rage in Europe. In the city of Metz, 1,000 people danced in the street until they were all exhausted. The dancing mania even got into the convents and monasteries. At least we are too sane to let the present marathons be staged in our churches.

When democracy was being cradled on the American continent the people were none too sane. Women were burned by the hundreds as witches. One man was executed for adultery when he confessed looking at a woman and admiring her beauty. Citizens were displayed to the public in stocks and exposed to rotten vegetables, eggs and insults. Even our present reign of gangdom is saner than this strict enforcement of laws.

"I can prove that any other period of history was more crazy than our own," declared

Mr. Birkhead. And while admitting our lunacy we are forced to agree that the doctor may be right.—Daily O' Collegian.

The Snooper

There is hardly a day passes by that someone doesn't learn something. Yesterday proved profitable to Elizabeth Mountain in that she learned that there are nine innings in a regulation baseball game. However, she failed to be comforted when told in answer to one of her queries that umpires never had batted during baseball games and probably never would.

There's dirty work at the cross roads. Wednesday morning we received via Uncle Sam's mail service a most sinister appearing package. Upon examination of the contents, we found a small vial of tablets with a prescription by Dr. Schmidt, written thusly: "Take two tablets at bedtime for sleep. You may never wake up to feel the effects of the tablets, and that would be a blessing."

We've had dealings with this Dr. Schmidt person before, and until recently had thought that his correct given name was Clarence. But, like murder, true names will out. We have been told in full authority by a person who double dated with Dr. Schmidt and his lady friend that the name is "Honey," no more, no less.

Dr. Schmidt has been playing nasty pranks on others, by the way. The evening of this same Wednesday an urgent telephone call from Western Union brought Joe Murphy hastily from the throes of the Phi Kappa weekly meeting. Listening with abated breath, Joe took the following message: "Jesus wants you for a sun-beam. Signed, P. O. P." The message was quickly traced to the Schmidt headquarters.

Judge For Yourself

Kansas State is supposed to have one of the best college libraries in Kansas or surrounding states, but—

There are some rules, annoying details, and inconvenient requirements connected with our library that make students wonder why they are required to take efficiency courses in college.

A freshman blunders around and learns the system that is used here and then when he becomes a sophomore he finds that he is required to take library methods. He naturally wonders why he wasn't required to take it when he was a freshman, if the course must be required.

Students who find time to study between 5 and 6 o'clock must move from one table to another while the janitor sweeps. Any psychologist will make plain the theory that it is detrimental to serious study to break a train of thought. But the thought trains that the library janitor has broken would go around the world with Ripley's continuous Chinamen.

Kansas State was host, recently, to a Nebraska university faculty member. The professor was asked what he would like to see and he replied, "I would like to see your library as I understand that it is one of the best looking buildings on any campus in the middlewest." A Kansas State instructor of rhetoric was heard to say when the library was a topic of discussion, "Don't get me started."

From literature is taken the quotation, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever." So, go look at the library building and find joy, but go inside and lose your temper.—C. P.

LET'S PLAY HORSE.

It seems that the honorary societies, social organizations, departmental clubs and unions for mutual admiration on the hill have been so thoroughly impregnated with ideas for hell weeks that the occasions will soon become year-round functions.

Last fall Friend Johnny wore overalls and jacket and carried with him wherever he went a hand tool for farming, all for the privilege of joining Alpha Zeta.

Next he led a cow around the campus for two days, went to school when he wasn't employed at some devilish task conceived in the for-once-working brain of an active member, topped off the week with a plunge in a tank of buttermilk and has since been known as a member of the dairy club.

By this time we had begun to wonder if we would know John when next we met him, for how could we tell whether he would be dressed as Paul Revere, Gandhi, or John the Baptist? But the worst was not yet expected.

John, in a moment of weakness, had joined a social fraternity. Having satisfied the brothers (and incidentally having made his grades) he was invited to do a few preliminary exercises to prove his sterling worth. This was simple, he merely stayed up for three days and nights in succession, went up and down stairs backward, furnished gum, cigarettes, mints, and amusement to any and all who asked it, ate onions at all meals, drank castor oil, caught three male and three female mice (two of which were, as required, bob-tailed) and was swatted 46 times on that portion of the anatomy which nature has provided for that and other purposes. As a result he became a member of an honest-to-gosh fraternity.

John, not being an engineer, missed the Sigma Tau week of frivolities, likewise that of Phi Mu Alpha, but K fraternity made up for the lapse. Now he is bawling the fact that he can only wear a horseshoe round his neck, wear a derby, carry a lariat, furnish chewing tobacco, gum and cigarettes to actives in order to get into Block and Bridge while he is missing out on a glorious Scabbard and Blade initiation preliminary.

John is a hell-week field. He loves them. But sometimes, when the nights are hot and we don't go right to sleep, we think about him and wonder (of course we may be all wrong) if his time has been altogether nobly spent.

PRE-ELECTION DOPE PREDICTS A RECORD VOTE

son, Sigma Nu; Alexander Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Miss Wright, Chi Omega; Miss Stiles, Alpha Xi Delta; Wyatt, Phi Delta Theta; Miss Row, Alpha Delta Pi; Coberly, Alpha Gamma Rho; Miss Jack, Delta Delta Delta; Fox, Farm House; Morgan, Alpha Tau Omega; McCord, Kappa Sigma; Vesecky, Phi Sigma Kappa; Miss Holton, Phi Beta Phi; Pocock, Phi Kappa Tau; and Miss Cortelyou, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The political parties, so valuable and interesting in class elections, have no place in the student council election. Merit of the candidates and the degree to which they know the college is expected to be the basis of choice rather than which has the strongest party and the most ballyhoo.

Doubtless there are votes exchanged at times—that is to be expected among friendly organizations and candidates. But those elected are supposed to and generally do represent the greater portion of those paying the activity fee entitling them to vote. All students of Kansas State are members of the Student Governing association, the executive body of which is the student council.

A Worth-While Office
Membership in the student council might be said to lead other campus activities in importance. Typical cases upon which it acts include the following: "picking of pockets or stealing of all forms, smoking on the campus, improper or indecent conduct in public places, such as dance halls, theatres, hotels and rooming houses; forgery, nonpayment of just bills; destruction of college or Manhattan property; the breaking of school traditions and customs; violations of rules governing social functions."

The smoke you like... is the smoke she likes for you!

"I like to see a man smoke a pipe!"
You've heard your own girl say it, perhaps. You're sure to hear it wherever girls get together.

They puff away at our cigarettes. But they like to see us have a go at the "strong, silent man's smoke"—a companionable, time-proven pipe.

There is something satisfying about a pipe. It's a slow, reflective, hard-thinking smoke—or a calm, relaxing, restful smoke. The hunter's smoke, the fisherman's smoke, the engineer's smoke—a man's smoke, through and through.

And pipe smokers who know their fine tobaccos tell you there's no blend quite like the fine selected burleys of Edgeworth—the favorite tobacco in 42 out of 50 leading colleges.

Do try Edgeworth. Perhaps you will like it as well as most men seem to. Edgeworth is at your dealer's. Or send for free sample if you wish. Address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d Street, Richmond, Va.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural aroma enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive flavoring process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All pipes, 25¢ packet package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"The Crowd Goes"

All the glamour and horror of the race-track, any race-track, are cast into this picture. The very smell of hot dust and gasoline, the roaring from the stands, the vibrant hum of powerful motors under shining hoods, and splintering crashes.

James Cagney still handles his women with an iron hand, but when he tries to pave the way to race-track glory for his kid brother, Eric Linden, he wants Eric to omit the wine and women. Joan Blondell has different ideas, however, and the brothers become bitter rivals behind the wheel. Tragic events leading to their reconciliation furnish the remainder of the story, which is strong enough for Cagney's high-powered performance.—E. G.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Amateur Daddy"

A hard-boiled construction engineer offers to take care of his dying friend's motherless family, and thereupon takes up the business of singing lullabies and bathing babies. And the business of fatherhood plunges into the job of protecting his wards, both fistily and legally, from the crooked neighboring ranchers.

Marion Mixon, as the eldest sister, tries to prove that she's grown-up, and so the story finished with a Daddy-Long-Legs touch. Much of the picture's appeal is due to the superbly natural acting of two very small and grimy girls.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

When Wheeler and Woolsey come to town, the town turns out to meet them. And when they play with Mitz Green, Eddie Quillian, Arnie Judge, and Dorothy Lee the thing's bound to make laughs, and then more laughs. That is, if one is in the mood for foolishness, sheer foolishness.

The plot—well, a Wheeler and Woolsey plot doesn't amount to much. But this time, in "Girl Crazy," the boys play in an Arizona setting that develops into a story of dude ranch scenes and "high life" and the inevitable wild west "killers," a race for a share of Custer's gold, and girls, lots of them. The principals, as Whoopie Indians, don't amount to so much to a midwesterner, although the New Yorkers apparently liked the play and the players. Anyway, the weekly New Yorker in a recent issue says the play's the thing and then some.—H.

Block and Bridle, or "Hoof and Mouth Club" as one initiate calls it, has been conducting Hell week services for some 20 men this week. The men have been required to wear overalls and jackets, derby hats, a horseshoe hung from their necks by strings, and to carry a cane with ribbons attached. In addition, they have had to carry chewing gum, chewing tobacco, cigarettes and mints, to pacify the active members whose signatures they must obtain. In addition, various nefarious nocturnal duties have been assigned to make the character of the week more impressive.

AUKER PITCHES SHUT-OUT GAME TO DEFEAT O. U.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN PLAY OF COXSOUTMEN YESTERDAY

SKRADSKI LEADS ATTACK

Sooners Bunch Hits Twice To Threaten Scoring—Manage to Garner 5 Hits Off Pitching Ace of Squad

Playing a steady brand of ball behind the sterling pitching of Eiden Auker, the Kansas State baseball team shut out the Oklahoma university aggregation 5 to 0 in the city park yesterday.

The Wildcats took an early lead in the second, when they scored two runs on four successive hits by Prentup, Skradski, Auker and Gantz. From this time on, the Kansas State team had the game well in hand although Oklahoma threatened to score in the second and ninth. The Sooners were completely baffled by Auker's chucking and were able to garner only five clean hits off his delivery.

For Kansas State, Skradski was the bright spot on the offensive. He smashed out two hits, a double and a home run, driving in four of the five runs scored. In Koe, Sooner pitcher, the Wildcats found a tarter. He allowed only nine hits, and held the Sooners scoreless in all but the second and eighth innings. Skradski's home run with Boyd and Prentup on base producing three runs in the eighth to assure the victory.

Coch Auker lived up to his reputation of producing good baseball for the Kansas State supporters. After losing two games to Kansas university last week by large scores, the Wildcats showed a complete reversal of form and played heads-up baseball. Pete Fairbanks took his place in center field for the first time today, and gave a fine exhibition of fielding. His addition to the team strengthens the department that looked woefully weak against Kansas.

The Wildcats are idle until April 26 and 30 when they play a two-game series with Missouri at Manhattan.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood
Two of the most diligent workers in athletics this semester have been John Held, fancy diver, and Joe Creed, speed swimmer, both ineligible. Held has done a lot of competitive diving and will gain points for the swimming team next year, and Creed has been getting his time in the dashes down close to the Big Six records.

Skradski's new persimmon war club slashed out screaming hits when most needed in the game against the Sooners. One went for four bases and the other was a double. But Boyd has not slumped in his hitting yet despite the predictions of some of the "wise guys." His two for three kept his average far up above the .500 mark.

Brand, the Sooner second sacker, landed in Manhattan with the envious batting average of .339, but his one for four against Auker topped off a few points.

Alonso Stagg, all-America football player many years ago, and now coach at Chicago university will be official at the Kansas relays.

The 25 foot rope climb record has been smashed three times in the last three years and each time by a cripple. The last time by Norman Parrish of Los Angeles who set a mark 5 9-10 seconds.

Bob Thompson, Iowa State track mentor, predicts a victory ... two-mile quartet, Laberew, who holds the Big Six record of 1:55 for the half will run the anchor he is mentioned in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" for his gritty broken leg race.

Texas university's baseball team is not considered good this year. The San Antonio team (class A, Texas league) beat them 3-2 for the first time in four years. Uncle Billy Disch, the coach, is a former big-leaguer, and his teams have won so consistently in the Southwest conference it is nearly conceded each year. Bib Falk, manager of Toledo is one product.

The football arm of Alex Nigro proved too much of a handicap and he was unconditionally released by the Toledo, American Association ball club.

Bus Breeze, whose proficiency in the many are of scrambling ears has gained national recognition. will enter the squared circle again this week end against an unnamed opponent. Bus usually has to go out of his division to get a fight, and will probably face a heavier man this time.

Don Gomez, another Wildcat fighter will enter the Olympic trials in California this summer. Gomez worked out the other day in the gym and what a left hand that boy has, fast as a streak and carries a kick like a light heavy.

Joe Pickle, wrestler in the 135 lb. class the three years preceding this, has perhaps the best chance of any Kansas State man of gaining the Olympic heights. His native ability combined with a reckless spirit of daring will make him a dangerous man for any amateur grappler.

TRACK TEAMS TO RELAY

Hopes Buoyed By Last Saturday's Showing—To Compete With 51 Schools

Coch Ward Haylett and his track team travel to Lawrence Friday to compete against the nation's best track men in the Kansas Relays.

The tracksters have been working out steadily the past week, though hampered by the rain and cold. The fine showing made against the strong Oklahoma team in the dual meet held here last Saturday buoyed up the hopes of the followers of this sport for a gathering of points in the relays.

There will be 52 colleges and universities represented in this meet and the competition will be spirited, as each winner is a potential Olympic candidate.

The Kansas State entries in the relays are: mile relay: Castello, Shreck, Harsh, and Darnell; four-mile relay, Smith, Miller, Nixon, and McNeal; 480 yard shuttle hurdle: Schmutz, Hammel, Breen, and Hinkley; high jump: Ehrlich; pole vault: Schmutz; hammer: Breen, and Hinkley; high hurdles: Hinkley and Breen.

DEADLOCK FOR NET MEN

Kansas Wesleyan Team Meets Local Players in Salina

Kansas State and the Kansas Wesleyan netmen ended in a deadlock after playing four singles and two doubles matches yesterday at Salina. The matches throughout the play were fast and closely contested, many going to set several times before the winner gained his two game margin. Hoglund and Dean took their singles matches, while Graham and Larson dropped theirs; but the situation was reversed when Hoglund and Dean were set down in the doubles play after three hard sets, and Graham and Larson won the doubles in straight sets.

The summary:
Singles: Hoglund, K. S., beat Springer, K. W., 6-4, 6-2; Dean, K. S., beat Lindeman, K. W., 3-6, 7-5, 6-3; Miller, K. W., beat Larson, K. S., 2-6, 8-6, 6-4; Lindsay, K. W., beat Graham, K. S., 6-2, 6-8, 8-6.

Doubles: Larson and Graham K. S., beat Lindeman and Lindsay, K. W., 6-0, 6-4; Miller and Springer, K. W., beat Hoglund and Dean, K. S., 8-10, 10-8.

Between Stitches

By Merle Mark
A perfect setting for "Polly to put the kettle on and we'll all have tea" is down stairs in Calvin in the Colonial kitchen. But on the first floor in Calvin. You are invited to have genuine tea from 2 to 3 o'clock, and from 4 to 5 o'clock. All of you are invited.

In the days of Godey's ladies, it must have been the fashion to be at least a "perfect 36." Did you see the menu of a typical meal in the olden days? "Baked ham, haunch of beef, joint of beef, white fish, pair chickens, roast duck, broiled pheasants, Boston baked beans, boiled peas, cheshire cheese, relish, black currant jelly, biscuits, plum pudding, fruit cake, pound cake, lace pie (without the French knots), mixed tart, snow-balls, cherry pie, nuts, raisins, sage tea" made up one meal.—What was left they had for supper!

And do visit the modern dinner table. Baked ham, spinach, carrots, (how did you guess that was coming?), combination salad, relish, jelly, butter rolls, fruit cup, cake and coffee—that's what the "perfect 36" eats.

And, oh! the fashions, fresh from our stitches! Drop in and see the college girls of the nineteenth century and those of the twentieth century on parade. Wonder whom Eddie Cantor would choose as the "Queen of the Ages"? What, another queen? No; my friends, just a bunch of princesses in disguise.

The institutional department with its spinach, carrots, pickles, and olives, will show you what 50 ordinary people will, might, or should eat. And a cake covered with roses. You say it isn't real? Well, you can't have your cake and eat it, too!

Something new in chintzes. Something old, too: period furniture, spinning-wheels, hooked rugs, dishes from the early nineteenth century, and quaint old foot-warmer are on display in the art department. You see, we do more than cook and sew.

DOPE POT BOILS AS STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTION APPROACHES

NINETEEN WILL RUN FOR HIGH CAMPUS OFFICES—SIX WOMEN TO TRY POLITICAL INFLUENCE

INDEPENDENTS SLEEP AS GREEKS TAKE THE STAGE

Balloting to Take Place Thursday in Recreation Center to Choose New Governing Body Composed of Five Men and Two Co-Eds

With ten petitions filed, and nine more due before noon today, Thursday's Student Council election promises to be something more than just another election.

Nineteen candidates in the field, six of them women, changes the complexion of the race considerably, when one attempts to dope the probable number of votes necessary to elect. And political leaders on the hill are suffering from their headaches brought on in an attempt to dope the probable strength of any one candidate or the power of the 'old machine.'

Independents Indifferent
The outcome of the election will be determined by the strength of the two combines organized by different groups of organizations. The effect of the independent vote in the election will be negligible, if elections of former years can be taken as an index. The "barbs," about 1,800 of them (two-thirds of the student body) don't get excited over elections at Kansas State.

The independents do not have any particular reason to become worked up about elections. Persons prominent in campus activities are the ones elected to student offices, generally speaking, and those prominent persons will not be found in the ranks of the independents. That sounds logical, doesn't it?

Following are the candidates and statements of their qualifications:
Don Wyatt, IJ3, Stockton, states: "If elected to the Student Council, I will try to serve the student body to the best of my ability. I realize that Council members are but the voice of those who elect them, and therefore I will put forth every effort to fulfill the desires of the students in all matters brought before the council."

Maurice DuMars, IJ3, Agra, declares: "A thorough knowledge of the college is a paramount qualification for a member of the Student Council. The reporter's experience gives him this knowledge together with intimate contact with personal problems of the students. My college life has been largely devoted to reporting. I can assure the voters of a clear perspective of college life, and the determination, whether elected or not, to do all I can to improve existing conditions."

Eleanor Wright, IJ3, Concordia, says, "If I am elected to a position on the Student Council, I will to the best of my ability, act as a true student representative on the Council. I feel the experience gained through the dealing with students through the various offices I have held qualifies me as a suitable candidate for office."

E. S. Sullivan, Ag3, Mercer, says, "I feel that since I have had a year's experience on the Council, and have taken an active interest in the work of the Council, I would with my knowledge of student affairs, be able to benefit the student body as a whole by having a seat on the Council."

Bob Alexander, AES, Independence, Mo., made the following statement: "I will appreciate any support that the student body will give me, and that if elected I will do my best to support the Student Governing association. I want to thank my friends for all they have done for me."

Ruth Stiles, IJ3, Kansas City, says: "It will be my purpose to serve the student body conscientiously and capably, if I am elected to the Student Council, and I believe that I will be able to accomplish that purpose. As an officer in various organizations, I have had many dealings with students, and feel that I know what they demand of a Student Council member. I shall try to satisfy that demand if elected."

L. E. Garrison, GS3, Manchester, says: "I have the best interests of Kansas State students at heart, and if elected to the Student Council, I shall try to serve those interests. Any support the student body gives me will be greatly appreciated."

D. F. Pocock, C and Acct.3, LeRoy, states: "I promise the students of Kansas State that if elected to the Student Council, I will do all in my power to represent them intelligently and efficiently."

Dorothy Cortelyou, GS1, Manhattan, declares: "I feel that in order to make Student Council a really representative body, it should contain underclassmen as well as upperclassmen. If elected I will do my best to feel the office capably and fairly."

H. W. Coberly, Ag2, Gove, says: "If elected to the Student Council I will serve the student body to the best of my ability."

Mary Holton, HES, Manhattan, says: "My recent election to several honor societies on the Hill leads me to believe that I would be unusually fair in my decisions toward students in their contacts with the Student Council. I am well versed with conditions on the campus and in Manhattan, through my observations of the student body during the past several years."

Paul Fairbank, the Beta candidate who is running under protest, made a statement to the effect: "I have served as a member of the Student Council for the past year, and feel that I am qualified for a position on the Council."

Clarence Gatch, C and Acct.3, Woodbine, declares: "I will, if elected, try to the best of my ability to maintain, as well as improve, the rules of the Student Governing association."

G. S. Fox, Ag3, Rozel, says: "If elected to membership on the Student Council I will give all the time, judgment, and interest to the best of my ability. I will appreciate the support of the student body."

KIDNAP VICTIM IS RETURNED UNHARMED

Miss Mary Tilton, C. C. Conger's Companion Released Near Oskaloosa

Mary Alice Tilton, St. George, while driving with Carl Conger, senior at Kansas State, was robbed and abducted Thursday night by two men near Wamego, was returned unharmed Friday to St. George, where she teaches in the high school.

Miss Tilton and Conger had stopped at a farmhouse about 8:30 o'clock when the two hi-jackers approached them, took $5.75, and their watches. They locked Conger in the back of his car and got in with the girl.

Conger succeeded in freeing himself and climbing on top of the car so that he was able to call for help as they drove through St. Mary's. He tried to strike at the driver with a packing hammer. The driver fired at him, but missed. Conger was cut in the face by the glass, and fell from the car.

The abductors and girl went north through towns Miss Tilton did not recognize. They stopped once for gas and again when the men talked to some people in a car. A few miles out of Oskaloosa the girl was released, given directions to Topeka, and told to keep driving.

In Topeka she met Conger, who had been picked up by Sheriff Marshall Docking and members of Alpha Gamma Rho, Conger's fraternity. Miss Tilton was a sophomore at Kansas State last year.

NOTHING WRONG WITH SLANG, INDIAN SAYS

Cosmopolitans, a Varied Group, Hear Varied Program at Annual Spring Banquet

"O. K., bebe!" the small Hollander may respectfully address his teacher after seeing an American movie.

American slang is all right for the American. He made it and he knows how to use it. But it is hard for the foreigner who adopts it to know when to say "O. K., bebe," and "Yes, madam," H. S. Dinsa, India, said in his address on "American Slang" at the annual Cosmopolitan club banquet Saturday night at the Wareham hotel. He explained how cumbersome American slang may be when removed from its native element. He sincerely approves of its use here, however. "It's certainly expressive for those who know how to use it," he said. "It can say the most in the fewest words of any language in existence."

Dinsa said that he was greatly troubled with the expressions "You bet!" "Kid!" and "O. K." when he first came to America. He was also perturbed for a time by the frequent references to people who "got mad," but Dinsa has graduated and is as good a master of American slang as any of its originators.

Persons from almost every part of the world and of many races were present at the banquet, including: Egyptian, West Indian, South American, Canadian, Korean, Filipino, Chinese, Indian, Mexican, Panamanian, South African, Jewish, Aztec Indian, and American.

Flags of the different nations decorated the walls. Place cards were small water-color pictures of members of different races in their native dress. The programs carried out the international motif with a page bearing the colors of each nation represented. The good old red, white, and blue is evidently a popular color scheme as seven of the 13 nations represented have adopted it.

"The Color Line," a one-act play presented by Wilbur McDaniel, Michigan Valley; Y. S. Kim, Shanghai, China; Louise Davis, Nashville, Tenn.; Marion Stiles, Jewell; Isabel Sierra de Sota, Manhattan; and Blanche Duguid, Olathe, portrayed the trials of a Christian who comes to America from another country.

Francisco Taberner, Francisco Asis, and Pedro Edralin, all of the Philippine Islands, played several selections with their instruments. Raymond Hoefner, Leavenworth, sang two numbers. He was accompanied by Lily Lee, Hongkong, China. Carl Martinez, Manhattan, was master of ceremonies.

Concerning the S. G. A. Election.

Next Thursday Kansas State students will elect five men and two women from a field of 19 candidates to offices on the Student Council, the executive body of the Student Governing association.

All students who have paid the five-dollar student activity fee are members of the Student Governing association and are entitled to vote.

A position on the Student Council is an honorable office, one which may be regarded with some degree of pride. Election to the Council should signify that the student body has placed confidence in the ability and judgment of those elected to assume the duties of the office.

The election will be conducted in recreation center next Thursday, from 8 o'clock until 5 o'clock, under the management of the Student Council.

Ballots will contain the names of all qualified candidates, and an elector must vote for seven candidates, five of which will be men, and two, women. A ballot marked for more than seven or less than seven candidates will be thrown out. After marking your ballot, be sure to check the number for which you have voted.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Collegian will be found advertisements and statements of the qualifications of a majority of the candidates. Students elected to the Council should be able to devote their time and energy to the Council. They should be seeking the office, not because of the eagerness of selfishness of their organizations to have a representative on the council, but because of their wish to be of service to Kansas State.

It is earnestly desired that you will vote intelligently.

Let's not make a popularity contest out of this election.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

Summer time ideas are creeping into these students' heads even if the weather is still a little spring-like. Several couples, searching for a dry spot Sunday night, found as a haven the stadium under which Mother Earth always remains in an arid condition. . . . And speaking of those kind of things, the Chi Omegas are mad at the Phi Phi cause some of the members staged a party in the Chi O back yard Friday night. Those blankets seen there, insist the Chi Omegas, did not belong to them. . . . Colonel Sullivan and some of the other higher ups in the military life at Kansas State had one heck of a time apologizing to the honorary R. O. T. C. officers yesterday when they were not recognized by the regiments. It seems the poor gals just stood out in the wet and cold and got not even one little bit of attention. . . . Sally Shafer says Duke DuMars hit her "In the Royal Purple office." She is getting along as well as could be expected. . . . Students running for Student Council positions aren't especially original when making statements as to why they should be seeking offices. Evidence lies in other Collegian columns. . . . If George Wiggins got along as well on the drill field as well as he does on the athletic field, maybe he wouldn't have had so much trouble trying to order his cadets into the gym yesterday. As is, was, they all got the giggles, like silly rushees, and practically violated every rule laid down by the R. O. T. C. . . . Evidently Ed Koptapish can't afford a yo-yo. He was seen in law class the other day playing with a new spring fishworm.

VETS HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

AGS, ENGINEERS TO FIGHT IT OUT IN PUSHBALL PLAY

TRADITIONAL RIVALRY BETWEEN TWO DIVISIONS TO LIVE UP CONTEST

BOTH SQUADS ARE BRAWNY

Slide Rule Pushers and Farmers Will Battle Full Length of Football Field for Divisional Honor

Physical conflict and the old divisional rivalry feature the pushball contest between the Ags and the Engineers to be held on the stadium football field Saturday afternoon as a part of the Ag fair program. Tom Dicken, Ag4, Winfield, has charge of arrangements for the fray.

Fifty Ags, captained by Walt Zecker, Alma, will meet fifty Engineers headed by June Roberts, Manhattan, in the tussle with the nine-foot air-filled ball. There are no definite rules, Dicken says, except that "No dirty work will be allowed." Such dirty work will include tackling, holding, kicking, biting, stepping upon, or otherwise mistreating an opponent. Contestants must wear soft-soled shoes.

The full length of the football field will be used for the game. The contest will be divided into halves, the playing time of the whole game to be 30 minutes.

The "hayseed" contest, under the direction of Charley Hauheim, Hoyt, will be held in the between halves intermission. "Pat" Patterson will referee.

This is the second pushball contest held here. The first was at the last Ag fair, two years ago. That contest ended in a draw.

Andy Kirk's Band Here

Andy Kirk and his Negro band Saturday night in the gymnasium, from Kansas City have been engaged to play for the Ag fair dance according to "Zeke" Sullivan, Mercer, manager of the affair. Besides the much-heralded "moon-room" the dance will have as added entertainment a combined showing of the minstrels and the Ag fair fiddles. Refreshment concessions will also operate at the dance.

Candidates for queen of the fair will be announced Friday, according to Steve Vesceky, Kansas City, publicity manager for the fair. The nominations are made by sororities selling 10 or more tickets to the dance.

A special rate of 25 cents has been made to admit high school students to the afternoon performances of the fair, Vesceky said yesterday. The afternoon performances include the old Ford race, the greased pig race, and the pushball contest.

Exhibits Not Neglected

The educational side of the fair is not being forgotten. Eleven exhibits will be entered by departments and clubs on the hill in competition for a cup granted to the winner. Herbert Clutter, Larned, and Jay Bentley, Ford, have charge of this feature of the day's events.

An exhibit of unusual interest will be displayed by the entomology department. The exhibit will include a demonstration of the handling of live bees, showing what can be done with bees without danger of being stung.

A warm day will be necessary for this demonstration to be a success, as the bees will not handle well on a cold day.

VOLUNTEERS CHOOSE SHARP

Home Economics Specialist Will Serve as Adviser for Kan. Mo.

Dr. Helen Sharp of the department of child welfare and eugenics was elected adviser for the Kansas-Western Missouri student volunteer conference which has just closed its sessions at Park college, Parkville, Mo.

Doctor Sharp is active in student volunteer work at Kansas State and is one of the life volunteers for missionary work. Esther Brittain, Atchison, and Emma Anne Storer, Kansas City, attended the first session of the conference at Parkville, April 16 and 17.

STARTS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The drive for life membership in the Kansas State alumni association, second largest organization of this kind in the Big Six, has been started, and the functions of the association will be explained to individual members of the senior class by Kansas State alumni, according to Kenney L. ### THE PLAYS THE THING

The showing of "Salt Water" in the auditorium last Saturday night marked the close of the 1931-32 season for the Manhattan Theatre. Reviews of the play stated that the production "was shown to a small but appreciative audience."

"Small but appreciative audiences" have characterized all Manhattan Theatre productions this season, and the fault cannot be with the character and quality of the plays shown.

The five productions included comedy, melodrama, a musical revue. What else can one ask? From the point of dramatic quality, "Berkeley Square" heads the list. "Broadway," the tale of gangster life, was lighter, and included a lot of real talent. "Boom Boom" was not lacking in talent. Its partial flop may be attributed to the manner in which it was staged. Of the two comedies, "Dulcy" and "Salt Water," the latter was accorded the most approval. That doesn't mean that "Dulcy" was not a good show. It was, but "Salt Water" was a better show.

Why the Manhattan Theatre fails to receive better support from the student body, faculty and townspeople of Manhattan is the mystery the board of directors is trying to solve.

It may be the price, but that is to be doubted. A charge of $2.50 was made this past season for a season ticket admitting one to five shows. That is an average of fifty cents per show. The single admission price charged at the door was $1. That figure is perhaps a bit high.

Many students have complained that the play casts do not include enough students. Some even suggest making the plays entirely student casts. To do that would be to limit the Theatre's field of productions considerably, for talent to produce some of the plays could not be found in the student body. It would be difficult to find a student who could take the lead in "Broadway" as well as Winfield Walker, Manhattan, played it.

In response to a questionnaire circulated among the audience at the two showings of "Salt Water," the audiences voiced their desire first, for comedy productions, and secondly for tragedies. Thirteen patrons want farces.

Another suggestion meriting consideration by the board is that of making Manhattan Theatre a student society, and awarding some sort of recognition to those students who take part in its productions. This does not necessarily mean that it would be the Purple Masque under a new name. Purple Masque was made up entirely of students.

Whatever the future of the Theatre will be, one thing is certain, and that is that it must not be confined to college students in the selection of its casts. That would be denying us too many good plays.

If you failed to attend the last production, and missed an opportunity to offer suggestions for the improvement of the Theatre, you will do the management a favor by giving them any constructive criticism which you may have. It is you they are trying to please, and they can't very well do that, not knowing what you want.

RUNNING UNDER PROTEST

In the list of candidates for Student Council positions is included the name of Paul ("Pete") Fairbank, a member of this year's Council, and up again for the office at the behest of his brothers in Beta Theta Pi.

Fairbank has frankly admitted to many on the Hill that he is not interested in being re-elected to the Council. And his attendance record at Council meetings this year has shown that he has too many other activities to spare time to attend those meetings. But his brothers would have him die for dear old Beta Theta Pi. If Student Council elections are to be popularity contests, Fairbank has it in a walk-away. One would have a difficult task in finding a number of students who do not admire Fairbank. Yes, he is a "regular guy," or he would not have been elected the most popular man on the campus.

But why capitalize on his popularity? The situation seems that his fraternity is prostituting his popularity to be able to boast of a member on the Student Council.

COLLEGE JOURNALISTS

A perusal of college newspapers of many different schools over a period of time would show that the student editor frequently falls prey to a feeling of futility. He learns that a reformer is never liked whether his reform is successful or a failure. He finds that he has a rapid turnover of friendships.

He becomes aware of those mighty barriers—the smaller mossy-back administrative and faculty interests. He frequently is outwitted by the thick-skulled and the brothers of his fraternity. He knows that few care or will long remember his work. He expects his intentions to be misinterpreted, no matter how obvious the motivation for his acts may be.

He feels like tossing in the towel fifty times in as many days. He says: "What's the use?" The minute he gives in to his own inclinations for peace, he places himself beneath the sod. If he stops and looks over the problems and troubles in a quiescent fashion, he feels the old and mostly stir within him and realizes what a life it would be if someone wouldn't disagree and there were nothing to fight about.

There need be no envy of those college editors who are flag pole sitters for two semesters and permit the rest of the world and even the campus to go by without molestation. The boys who really have the fun are those who never know how long they will have their scalp, and laugh and defy the bigots and moth-eaten vested interests, who openly flout and the epiphs which have been written for them in advance, and who take matters seriously without becoming overly serious. There is an art in raising the horns and doing it so well that they have no comeback.

One consolation, however, makes up for the last peace and sleek contentment. The adversaries of one who can openly differ are far more desirable than the dull rote of living which attends the college editor upon whom all blessings flow because every Tom, Dick and Harry, large and small, has a mortgage on his soul. Then, too, he always reaches the point where he realizes that his most important issues and bad setbacks will make excellent material for smiles within another decade.—The Daily Illini.

Evidently a Hill City youth's mustache is a pioneer of the installment plan—a little down and then a little more each week.—Hill City Times.

The Snooper

We wonder if the Kansas State R. O. T. C. unit was given high rating by the visiting inspection officers yesterday. Things moved rapidly and the good points overshadowed the bad ones. Our contention that military band music is inspiring still holds true, however, the waits ground out by the band during the rifle inspection no doubt inspired many to get out of hearing distance with least possible delay. It brought back haunting and painful memories of a period in which we contributed manfully with an asthmatic saxophone to the musical attempts of the band.

George Washington has committed the unpardonable sin. He appeared at school yesterday sans overalls and jacket. His alibi was based on the fact that he had not attended Ag seminar last Thursday and consequently did not know the boys were to wear the denims this week. There were many loopholes in his story and the protege by name of the father of our country was rapidly losing ground when the Snooper was called away. He was without doubt found guilty of the misdemeanor but the sentence given him has not been learned.

It's a question whether or not the trellis at the south side of the Zeta Tau Alpha house will serve a double purpose this year. From all indications it will not only act as a carrier of vines toward the skies, but will assume the position of assisting members of the sorority toward a second story window without unnecessary noise. Two girls with hair of raven hue manipulated the ascent with ease recently.

Pete Smith's magnetic personality, which receded to the extent that he failed to appear as master of ceremonies at a recent party, has returned to him with renewed vigor. Evidence of the fact was brought to bear upon us Saturday evening. The swaggering Pete marched toward the east on Fairchild with a Pi Phi on each arm and seven more trailing in his wake. There are two other causes for such popularity. The calvacade set out just prior to sounding of the dinner gong—an indication that the Pi Phi have learned of his enormous appetite, or he may have sent in his dollar and the coupon for some alluring French perfume, the advertisement for which he was noticed reading last week.

That faithful old news agency headed by someone known as Dame Rumor brings a dispatch that Ted Skinner is expanding. He has only has Y. M. C. A. members to fight for him, but also has acquired the services of a fair maiden to spar for him as well.

- Judge For Yourself -

IN DEFENSE OF THE LIBRARY SYSTEM.
Being all human, we are apt to take a more or less one-sided view on the subject under consideration.

There was an article in last week's Collegian concerning the Kansas State library. I wish to present the opposite side of the situation and perhaps from the two radical views you may judge for yourself.

One of the first things discussed was that a student finds out he must take library methods after he has finished his freshman year, which is not the general case. When library methods is a requirement in a curriculum, it is rare that it is not listed as a freshman subject, and I feel safe in saying it may be taken the first semester under any curriculum if the student wishes to do so.

The article also stated that the janitor made students move from a table so he could sweep and by so doing may have broken many a thought train which would reach around the world. We are always glad to show our friends and visitors our beautiful library, but come to us wonder how long it would stay beautiful if we did not allow the janitor to keep it clean.

The author of last week's article may be glad to learn that the janitor has changed his working hours so that he comes to work between 4 and 5 a. m. now instead of between 5 and 6, which will enable him to do more of his work before the students get there. The tables got dusty within a few hours these windy spring days, but the janitor may be afraid to dust them off several times a day now for fear he will disturb a thought train which is on its way around the world.—Cyril Walker.

PIANO RECITAL TODAY IS BY MUSIC PUPILS

Public Welcome to Another Student Musical Program in College Auditorium

A piano recital this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the college auditorium will be given by students of the music department. The public is cordially invited.

A PIPEFUL of good tobacco is distinctly a man's smoke. The women (long may they wave!) have taken over most of our masculine privileges. But pipe smoking still belongs to us.

In every walk of life you'll find that the men at the top are pipe smokers. And most college men agree that the pipe offers the rarest pleasure a man could ask of his smoking.

When you smoke a pipe, be sure you choose the tobacco that will give you the greatest enjoyment. In 42 out of 54 colleges Edgeworth is the favorite. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or for a special sample packet, write to Larned & Bro. Co., 105 S. 2nd St., Richmond, Va. Sample is free.

EDGEWORTH
SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old tobaccos with the natural taste enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive chemical process. Buy Edgeworth in two forms—Edgeworth Ready Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes 75¢ per pound. Packages to $1.50. Good tobacco is.

Ray Francis finds a new interest in his work as magazine editor when she hires David Manners as her secretary. The light story achieves a smooth, finished quality through the suave acting of the gorgeously groomed Miss Francis and her supporting cast, which includes blond Una Merkel.—E. G.

AT THE DICKINSON

"She Wasn't a Woman!" And she found him by way of an Atlantic City beauty contest. The appealing Joan Bennett, a Kansas girl from Missouri, becomes "Miss Universe" and wife of a jealous husband. Then we are treated to old-time melodrama with several passages, burlesque, watch, dog and half-witted servants. True love, aided capably by Spencer Tracy in a very sincere portrayal of the home-town lover, conquers finally. Una Merkel adds a snappy note as the reporter who started Joan on her career as the helpless beauty who did it all for her mother and the kids.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

"The Final Edition" The thrill of the tabloid—the sensational story of how the underworld ruffian the police commissioner, and how one beautiful but-not-so-dumb girl solved the mystery of the murder. The combined to make "The Final Edition," just another one of those newspaper yarns which are still entertaining despite the fact the plot's a little old.

Pat O'Brien, the busy city editor who just hasn't the time to even take off his hat, and Miss Glasko, the dark eyed blonde furnish the romance, if any, for this melodramatic story which will probably always prove enjoyable as long as the general public believes the Fourth Estate is nothing but one big con-ting moment after another. It's a rather good show. The Manila boys' music was okay.—E. D.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Crittenden of Lincoln, Neb., spent Saturday and Sunday visiting their daughter, Miss Cornelia Crittenden of the department of modern languages.

Miss Dorothy Felle and Miss Elizabeth Guinley will go to Kansas City this Saturday to see Fred Stone in "Smiling Faces."

Kappa Party Foremost of Social Engagements

Banquets Were the Most Popular Form of Week End Entertainment Which Campus Clubs and Departments Turned to; Other Houses Held Dinners

Students Manifest Enthusiasm in Great American Game; May Save It for Years to Come

The Tiger baseball club invades the den of the Wildcat for a two-game scrap this week-end. The Missouri outfit took the Oklahoma team to the tune of 9 to 3, which shows its power at the hitting end of the game.

Wagner, who has dealt nearly as much poison to the Big Six opposition as Auker has will probably take the mound for the visitors in the first battle. Auker will oppose him, and Bob Lang has been named as the starting hurler for Kansas State in the second engagement.

Corsaut's men are fast rounding into form after their ragged start against the Jayhawks. In the game with Oklahoma their defensive play, while not perfect, never gave way at a critical period. The hitting has been good in all the games to date, with the bats of Boyd, Prentup, and Skradski lining out base blows when men were on base.

The outfield situation which was woefully weak at the start of the season has been strengthened by the recruiting of Pete Fairbank to hold down the centerfield post, and with Wyant in left the outer garden is well fortified on the defense.
Some of the boys have not been hitting as hard as they should, but with much batting practice being held this week it is hoped to get their eyes on the ball.

The games are to be held on the college diamond unless the wet weather drives them to the park where the ground does not gum up as much. The large crowds that have come out for the previous encounters prove that baseball is not on the wane at Kansas State. Student support will keep baseball in the Big Six, and from indications here it seems that baseball will stick.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood
The most outstanding high school track performance in several years was enacted at the Kansas interscholastic meet, when Earl Kettel tossed the javelin 194 feet 9 and 1-3 inches. This heave surpassed the record held by John Kuck by over 11 feet. It was 24 feet farther than the winning mark made in the dual meet held here with Oklahoma, and was four feet longer than the best mark of the Kansas relays.

Don Zimmerman, all-American half back this year from Tulane tied with Jordan for fourth place in the pole vault along with six others.
Both Jordan and Zimmerman were far below their usual marks. Tulane's entry in the relays was the first of a southern school.

Rudolph Ismayer, who weighs 162 pounds, held 248 pounds at arms length over his head. He is the present middle weight Olympic weightlifting champion. The heavyweights push up as much as 400 pounds.

Kansas university and Iowa State college are still out for spring football practice. The boys here did not have such a lengthy session after all. One of the Kansas State boys answered the query, "Do you scrimmage much in the spring?"
with, "Yes, just once, for twenty days."

Wagner, the first string pitcher for Missouri university will face Auker here this Friday. The Missouri ace has been beaten but twice in his collegiate career, once recently, and by Auker last year at Columbia.

Al Heitman who was seen in action in Nichols gym with the Iowa basketball team is one of the best hurlers on the Cyclone baseball squad.

Former courtmen of McKinley
Technical high school in Washington, D. C., have placed on the all-American basketball team in successive years. Werber, of Duke university last year, and Berger of Maryland this year.

Glen Thompson, Navy swimmer who is attacking many of the marks set by Johnnie Weissmuller has a prodigious dog, wearing a 12 shoe that is plenty wide. Weissmuller is also well supported, having a paddle that is cramped in less than a 12 shoe also. Much drive comes from the foot in speed swimming.
Thompson can swim a fifty in 30 seconds without taking an arm stroke.

Lefty Grove paid tribute to Babe Ruth in a newspaper article the other day when he said the Yankee slugger did not have a weakness at the plate. Wonder what Herb Pratt found a few years ago when he fanned the Babe 13 out of the first 17 times they met.

TENNIS TEAM TAKES SECOND HOME VICTORY

Win Over College of Emporia By Small Margin—Larson Is Most Consistent Wildcat

The Kansas State net team won its second home match last Friday when they downed the College of Emporia, 11-9. In the singles play the Wildcats piled up a substantial lead, but in the doubles sets the Emporians came back strong and the final match in which Hoglund and Dean bested Fullington and Corson, 6-4, was the only one the Manhattan boys took.
This set was necessary for the Kansas State victory.

Larson was the most consistent of the Wildcats taking all four of his singles sets. Hoglund won three of his sets, Graham split even on his, while Dean managed to win one.

The first three of the doubles sets went to the invaders and it remained for Hoglund and Dean to pull the match from the fire by taking the final and decisive set.
Following is the summary of the singles: Hoglund defeated Hanson (9-7), Fullington (6-2), and Carson (6-2), but lost to Tice (6-8).
Larson defeated Tice (7-5), Carson (6-3), Fullington (6-0), and Hanson (6-4).

Graham, K. S., defeated Fullington
(7-5), Carson (6-3), but lost to Hanson (5-7), and Tice (5-7).
Dean, K. S., defeated Carson
(6-2) and lost to Tice (3-6), Hanson (5-7), and Fullington (2-8).

Summary of the doubles: Graham and Larson, K. S. lost to Fullington and Corson (3-6) and
Hanson and Tice (3-6).

Hoglund and Dean, K. S., defeated Fullington and Corson (6-4), but lost to Hanson and Tice (7-9).
The next tennis match will be with Wichita university here next Tuesday.

HURLERS ARE STRONGEST

Kansas State Team Found Heavy Competition in Kansas Relays
But Placed Six Men

Competing against 58 universities and colleges proved rather tough sledding for the Kansas State track team last Saturday at the Kansas Relays.

In spite of the heavy competition, six men of the Kansas State squad placed. The Kansas State squad proved to be stronger in the hurdles than in any other event. The 400-yard shuttle relay team placed second (Breen, Hammel, Hinckley, Schmutz). They were defeated only by the University of Iowa team (Thurston, Jackson, Calwalder, Sal-ling). The time set by the Iowa team was equal to the relay record.

Other members of the squad to place were Ehrlich in the high jump, and Jordan in the pole vault.
Jordan was severely handicapped by a pulled muscle which he received in practice last Thursday evening.
Heavy rains that fell throughout the morning slowed down the track events, and made the field events difficult.

GOLFERS LOSE TO WASHBURN QUINTET

Maxwell, Walker Shot Under Par
But Couldn't Keep Up With Smith, Ace From Topeka

In a match that featured the cracking of par on four of the rounds the Washburn college golfers took a closely contested match, 12-6, from the Kansas State golfers on the links of the Manhattan country club Friday.

The play of Gerald Smith,
Washburn ace, who twice broke par was especially instrumental in the final score. Joe Walker and Maxwell, Kansas State, both shot under par in the singles matches.
The scoring of the matches was done by giving one point for nine holes won, and another for the complete round. Though the score of this match was doubled by the Washburn men the defeat was not as bad as that score indicates.

On the final green of the last round a total of four points hung on the sinking of two putts. Had the putting eye of McFarland, Washburn erred, and Walker had sunk his, the final would have been 10-8.

Smith, Washburn captain, had the best individual round with a 65, Maxwell, Kansas State, had the next lowest score, with a 67. The other rounds and the scores were:
Menzie, Kansas State, 69, Swartz,
Washburn, 71, Hostetler, K.
S. 74, Walker, K. S., 74, McFarland,
W., 72, Kaul, W., 70.

NET MATCH DELAY EXPECTED

Moll Uncertain About Today's Tilt
With Wichita Team

The tennis meet scheduled with the University of Wichita for this afternoon will more than likely be called off an account of bad weather, Coach C. S. Moll said yesterday.

The Wichita team has a meet scheduled with Washburn for Wednesday. It is possible that arrangements will be made so that they can play here on their return trip instead of today.

BASEBALL FANS EXPECT TO SEE PITCHING DUEL

M. U. TIGERS AND KANSAS
STATE PLAY TODAY AT 4 ON COLLEGE FIELD

IT'S AUKER VS. WAGNER

Both Pitchers Hold Envyable Records—Auker Credited With One Loss, Wagner With Two, In College Ball

Kansas State baseball fans may expect a pitching duel today between Elden Auker, ace of the Cornsant squad, and Norman Wagner of Missouri when their two teams play today. The game will be played on the college diamond.

Thus far in their collegiate careers as baseball pitchers, Auker and Wagner hold enviable records. Auker has lost only one ball game for Kansas State, Wagner has been a bit less fortunate, turning two losses.

Coach Corsaut is planning on using practically the same line-up as appeared in the game with Oklahoma university last week. That combination was able to hit when hits were needed, and was able to play air-tight ball when the occasion demanded.

Bus Boyd, Kansas State first baseman, will no doubt attempt to lead the Cornsant peck in hitting. Thus far Boyd heads the list with an average of slightly over .500.

TO DISCUSS MARRIAGE
"Married Life or Single Bliss," will be the subject for discussion at the regular meeting of the Congregational Goodwillship members at their meeting Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Martha Rhodda, Arma, will lead the discussion.

MORE VESPERS TUESDAY
Vespers will be held Tuesday afternoon in L 58 from 4:08 to 4:25 o'clock. The new vesper committee of which Alleen Rundle, Clay Center, is chairman, will conduct the services. Other members of the committee are Beulah Leach, Bird City; Grace Wattle, Peabody; Shirley Jacobs, Lenora; Mary Shreve, Augusta; Ruth McInay, Wichita; and Elouise White, Dalsart, Texas.

John Bright, Agt. Lawrence, and D. W. McGee, Agt. Liberal, are in the college hospital.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

The Betas and the Phi Lambdas Thetas have hit upon a novel scheme of interesting prospective rushees in their organizations. Yesterday members of the two Greek orders crooned to the students of Manhattan high school at chapel. Whether or not the singing will have the desired effect upon eligible material is unknown. Dave Umberger and Bob Wilson, however, are convinced of its possibilities—and are doing their best for dear old Beta Theta Pi. . . . Jake Faulkner, gazing enviously at yo-yos in one of the downtown shop windows the other day expressed his hope no Collegian reporter was looking. But he hoped in vain. . . . A member of Orchestra was seen yesterday carrying around one of the smallest of overnight bags. And in that bag were all the costumes of all the members who danced yesterday for the College Social club. Only women were present. . . . The ags and engineers called seminars yesterday and moved to the polls in masses, thereby insuring their candidates of seats on the Council. It is believed approximately 300 votes were cast between 4 and 5 o'clock by engineers alone. . . . Since golf weather just isn't, faculty members are again becoming hand ball addicts in the hope of keeping the old waist line down. . . . John Helm is just like a volcano, says one of the architectural students. But his eruptions are intermittent, coming only after several numerous annoyances. . . . Enchiladas initiates are a sorry looking bunch of candidates for any society to be electing. However, maybe the coeds aren't as silly as the ceremony they are compelled to go through. . . . This dressing up and all the other rot attached to the initiations of the so-called honorary organizations is the bunk. Even high school students know better than to pull such antics.

FORMER STUDENT KILLS SELF

E. D. Sampson, Quinter, Shoots Self To Death Near Wakeeney
Elmer D. Sampson, Quinter, former student at Kansas State college, shot and fatally wounded himself last Wednesday four miles west of Wakeeney, Kan. Sampson attended Kansas State college from 1901 to 1905.

Sampson was former mayor at Quinter and representative in the Kansas legislature from Gove county. He was engaged in business at Quinter, and also owned a large amount of land in that territory. He is survived by his wife, a son, and a daughter.

REGISTRAR TO KANSAS CITY
Miss Jessie Macbair, college registrar will spend the week end in Kansas City visiting relatives.

VISUAL RADIO STATION ON AIR FIRST OF JULY

Station W9XAK Building Permit Received From Federal Radio Commission April 27

Station W9XAK, the newly authorized visual broadcasting station at Kansas State, will go on the air about July 1, 1932, according to a statement issued yesterday by R. A. Seaton, dean of the engineering division.

The actual construction permit was received at the college April 27, although word had been received here last week that the Federal Radio commission had granted such a permit to the school.

The station will be operated by the electrical engineering department and will operate within the 2100-2200 kilocycle band, with 125 watts power. The time of broadcast will be unlimited and subject only to the commission's regulations concerning interference with similarly operated stations, according to the statement.

After September 1, 1932, a regular schedule of broadcast will probably be carried on for the benefit of amateurs in this and nearby states, and it is hoped that the field of television will be aided and enlarged from experiments carried out at this school.

Experiments in television have been carried on at the college for more than a year. In the summer of 1931 a television receiver, using a superheterodyne circuit, was built by one of the electrical engineering students, W. R. Mitchell, Salina. According to the statement it is believed that this receiver was the first successful application of this type of circuit to television reception.

Actual work on the new station is in charge of Harold Higginbottom, Manhattan, a graduate student and part-time research assistant. Higginbottom will be assisted by E. F. Peterson, EE '31; W. R. Mitchell; M. L. Burgin, Coats; and A. W. Rucker.

METHODISTS IN PLAYLETT

"The Tinker" To Be Produced Sunday Evening at 8:15 o'clock
"The Tinker," a play by Fred Eastman, will be produced at the Methodist church Sunday evening, May 5, at 8:15 o'clock. The play is a religious comedy with a New England background.

FAULKNER SPEAKS TO CLUB
Prof. J. O. Faulkner of the department of English, spoke before the Ladies' Literary club in Clay Center, on Thursday afternoon. Professor Faulkner's subject was "Literature That Has Become World Famous."

Oldest Graduate of Kansas State Says She's Not the Oldest

Laura Emma Haines Bowen, graduate of the class of '67, who is usually thought of as the oldest living alumni of Kansas State college disproved the truth of that assertion in a letter to Kenney L. Ford, alumni secretary.

Henry L. Denison, son of the first president of Kansas State, who is now living in Colorado, is three years her senior. Mrs. Bowen states, however, she began her college course "on the first day of the first year of the existence of this college."

Mrs. Bowen, whose home is in Marietta, Ohio, says she regrets that she will be unable to attend the commencement program this year.

NEW Y. M. OFFICERS INSTALLED AT RETREAT

Ernest Reed Succeeds Ted Skinner as President of Group—Babcock Speaks

Newly elected officers and cabinet members of the Y. M. C. A. were installed at the retreat Tuesday which was held in the Baptist church because of inclement weather.

Dean Babcock of the general science division was the first speaker of the evening. A review of the past year's work was given by Ted Skinner, Manhattan, retiring president, and members of the old cabinet, introduced members of the new cabinet after which Cliff Martin gave them the charge. Jerry Wilson, assisted by Dr. H. T. Hill of the public speaking department, conducted the installation of officers. Before the closing devotionals, directed by Rev. C. A. Nissen, refreshments were served.

The new officers are as follows: Ernest Reed, Norton, president; Orville Moody, Ogden, first vice-president; Clarence Keith, Ottawa, second vice-president; Eugene Warner, Ottawa, third vice-president; and Joe Creed, Bartlesville, Okla., corresponding secretary.

ENGLISH LIBRARY ADDS BOOK

Approximately 20 new books have been recently added to the English library. The list includes: "Anglo Saxon Dictionary," Hall; "Shakespearean Synopses," McSpadden; "English Song and Story," Curtis; "New English-Italian Dictionary," Millhouse; "The English Language in America," Krapp; "Seeing England and Scotland," and "Seeing Italy," Newman; "Living Authors," "Contemporary British Literature," Manley and Richert; and "Sanskrit Literature," Macdonell.

Hitting Averages of K. S. C. Pin-Snatchers Disclosed

With all bases full, and the pinch hitter up, Greek coeds at Kansas State are bidding fair for honors in the greatest of all inter-collegiate sports, the game of pin snatching. Grasping the opportunity that warmer weather and bright moons afford for the romantic setting of the game, the coeds have been gaining ground since the first touch of spring.

Practice sessions are held from 7 to 8 o'clock each week night, while strenuous workouts are scheduled for the week end. Formal parties serve as a training camp where the women don their uniforms and really get into action. Backless evening gowns, perfume, and that "feminine" touch usually have the desired effect—and on Sunday noon the houses entertain in honor of those who have scored.

The sisterhoods called meetings in the early part of the year, and adopted slogans which would spur the members on to victory. That slogan "Do your share to safeguard fraternity pins," has assisted in making this one of the most successful of seasons for the Greek women at Kansas State.

The Beta Phi Alphas are hitting the heaviest with a batting average of .350, while the Pi Phis are fast discovering their arms and at present stand second in the list with a .179. The Phi Omega Pi technique is working to the point of a .154. Wild hits are given as the reason for the Kappa average, which is still slightly above par, .146.

The Tri Deltas are hitting a little high, but as the season advances should raise their .142 average. The

PIANISTS TO GIVE RECITAL

Edith Goerwitz and Clarice Painter Will Entertain Music Lovers Sunday Afternoon

"Trioka" by Tchaikowsky-Resselsberg will be the feature of the Sunday afternoon recital to be presented by Edith Goerwitz and Clarice Painter, both of the college music department, in duo-piano numbers at 4:15 o'clock in the college auditorium.

The Russian word "Troika" signifies a sleigh drawn by three horses abreast. The melody, over bubbling with life, creates a sparkling picture of sleek coats and rich harness shining in the sun; sleigh bells of silver sounding clear through the frosty air, while the fiery animals swing in a rhythmic motion over ice covered steppes.

The remainder of the program consists of five numbers: "Variations on a Theme by Beethoven" by Saint-Saens; "Six Waltzes" (Liebeslieder) Op. 52, Set Two, by Brahms-Maier; "A Southland Idyll" by Edward Harris; "The Arkansas Traveller" by Lee Pattison; and "Rondo," Op. 73, by Chopin.

Ag's Failing to Wear Barnyard Tuxes are Summarily Ducked

The water was cold, too cold by far for comfort, but it wasn't for comfort that the ags went into the tank. That stock tank between the two wings of Waters hall was filled with cold water, especially to receive any students of the division who failed to heed the edict that all ags must year overalls during the week preceding the Ag Fair. Joyce Miller's police enforced that edict.

Walter Zeckser went under, so did D. M. Cain, and H. A. Perkins, colored and frightened, and George Washington who had been thoroughly paddled on Monday for his unconvincing costume.

The fun that was occasioned about the tank was not altogether the result of the duckings. An ag engineer, with one leg in the grasp of "cop" Wertzberger, made a plea for mercy and correct identification that was art in itself.

Certain unidentified parties also had their fun. A big upset resulted when a squad of five dashed out from the west ag building between the second and third hours on Wednesday morning and tipped the tank up on its side. No one was caught, and disgruntled police attached a long hose to a hydrant in the judging pavilion and refilled the tank.

Thursday morning dawned, and behold, no tank was present! Whether the disappearing act was the result of some secret process of hydrolysis, electrolysis, transmutation or plain sleight-of-hand is not known, but suspicious eyes look toward the southwest from the buildings at the end of the campus.

Loreen Kingsbury, HEI, Topeka, withdrew from school this week following an appendicitis operation.

AG FAIR ALL SET FOR BIG SPREAD THRU TOMORROW

CHOOSE GODDESS OF AG AT ALL-SCHOOL DANCE THAT NIGHT

TWO CANDIDATES CHOSEN

Many Attractions Make Up Program For Annual Event—Arranged So Not To Conflict With Baseball Game

Featuring the crowning of the co-ed chosen as the "Goddess of Agriculture" with a joint performance of the Ag Fair fiddlers and minstrels for special entertainment and with music by Andy Kirk and his colored band from Kansas City, the Ag Fair all-school dance in the gymnasium Saturday night is to be one of the high spots of the 1932 fair.

Helen Smerchek, Garnett, Beta Phi Alpha, and Roberta Downie, Garden City, Chi Omega, are the candidates for the title of goddess. Ballots will be given out at the door and the dancers will vote on the candidates. The dance is to be informal, and ags may dress as they choose, according to Steve Vesceky, Kansas City, publicity manager for the fair. E. R. Sullivan, Mercer, is manager of the dance.

The pushball to be used in the contest between the ags and the engineers has arrived, according to Tom Dicken, Winfield, director of that event. The nine-foot ball was shipped from Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. If the weather permits the ball will be inflated and taken down town on a truck Saturday morning to give Manhattanites an idea of the size of the contest, according to Dicken.

Fifty men will compose each team in the fray. Walter Zeckser, Alma, will lead the ags, and June Roberts, Manhattan, the engineers. The contest will start at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon so that it will not conflict with the baseball game to be held at 4:00 o'clock. Pat Patterson will referee. The hayseed contest, promoted by Charles Nauheim, Hoyt, will be judged between halves of the pushball fray.

Innovations in the entertainment at the fair this year include a greased pig race to the winner of which a pen and pencil set will be given, and a terrapin derby with numbered terrapins as the contestants. An old Ford race over a four-mile course northwest of the campus will also be held Saturday afternoon.

Eleven exhibits are entered in the educational exhibit division in competition for a silver cup. Organizations and departments entering exhibits are the poultry department, horticulture department, Klod and Kernel Klub, Collegiate A-H club, Dairy club, entomology department, animal husbandry department, department of milling industry, department of agricultural engineering, department of agricultural economics, and the home economics division.

Non-competing advertising exhibits will be displayed by Ramey brothers, Purina feeds, and the Manhattan Floral company. Judges for the contest will be Prof. R. L. Quinlan of the department of horticulture, Prof. W. E. Grimes of the department of agricultural economics, and Prof. J. E. Kammeyer of the department of economics and sociology.

This is the eleventh fair held here since the idea originated in 1921. The fair is managed by a student manager and a fair board elected by students in the division of agriculture. Earl H. Regnier, Spearville, is manager of the 1932 fair. Other members of the board are F. W. Castello, McCune, and Steve Vesceky, Kansas City.

PICTURE SLIDES SHOWN

Major K. F. Baldwin, Ft. Leavenworth, spoke in assembly on "Social Conditions in Japan" yesterday. He illustrated his talk by slides which showed points where he had traveled in Japan. Major Baldwin, a member of the U. S. army, was stationed at Tokyo where he became acquainted with conditions there.

Devotions were read by C. W. Matthews of the English department.

Olive James visited her parents in Wetmore Wednesday.

BIG SISTERS CHANGE NAMES

Cabinet, Under Pressure, Decides On "College Sister"
College sister is now the new name of the big sister of the Y. W. C. A. at Kansas State. The name of the big sister movement was changed at a cabinet meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Monday night at a request from the Big Sister and Big Brother Federation incorporated in New York.

The Big Sister and Big Brother Federation is an organization whose duty it is to prevent delinquency among children of grade school age.

PARKER BREAKS ANKLE

Dr. Ralph L. Parker, department of entomology, received a broken ankle while playing in the faculty baseball game last Tuesday. He will be confined to his home for an indefinite time.

OFFICERS IN MILITARY DEPARTMENT GET ORDERS

Lieutenant R. E. Marshall Will Go To Panama For Two Years—Other To Summer Camps

Eight officers of the military department at Kansas State have received orders to report for duty at R. O. T. C. training camps, and other military posts, for the coming summer.

Lieutenant Col. J. S. Sullivan, head of the department of military science, will be stationed at the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Leavenworth. The camp opens on June 7, and will continue for six weeks.

Lieutenant R. E. Marshall, assistant professor of military science, will go to Panama for a two year duty in the canal zone. Captain W. F. Rehm, who is now attending the training camp at Fort Benning, Ga., will replace Lieutenant Marshall, who completes four years of service at Kansas State college. Lieutenant Marshall and family expect to sail for Panama on August 20.

Captain W. A. Swift, associate professor of military science, and Captain I. E. Ryder, assistant professor of military science, will take posts at the C. M. T. C. camp of Fort Leavenworth, July 22. The camp will begin August 1, and will continue for one month.

Lieutenant J. H. Madison, assistant professor of military science, and Sergeant R. E. Wilson, will be on duty at the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on June 14. Students will report on June 18, and training at the camp will continue for six weeks.

On June 9, Major H. E. Van Tuyl, assistant professor of military science, will go to the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Snelling, Minn. The camp opens on June 12, and continues for a period of six weeks.

Sergeant P. D. Pugh will report for duty at the R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Riley, on July 9.

Other officers of the military department, who have not received orders will probably attend the rifle matches, which will be held next August at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Chinese Engineer Glad to Live Here But Will Go Back

William Y. Look, Chinese student, is glad that he lives in America.

"I wouldn't like the fighting in China," he says, "and as long as the civil wars are going on, I would rather have America for my home." Look, whose home is in Denver, Colo., is a freshman enrolled in mechanical engineering.

"When I graduate," he says, "I plan to go to China and work. I am interested in machinery, and I believe there is a great future in China for mechanical engineers."

"At the present time," Look says, "China is a very backward nation. It is just beginning to develop through the use of machinery, and better methods of education. The Chinese are too superstitious in their beliefs. They worship their ancestry and sometimes a war god receives religious reverence."

In 1921, Look visited Canton and Shanghai, and it was during these visits that he became interested in the mechanical future of China. "The wages will be low," he says, "but I don't care about the money. What I want is a job."

COSMOS TO GO HIKING

Members of the Cosmopolitan club will meet at Anderson hall Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for their annual spring hike.

H. S. Dins, India, will endeavor to teach the group several games popular in his native country. Some American games will also be on the program, as well as the singing of American songs by the group.

By the largest vote ever polled at a student election, the seven students listed above were named for positions on the 1932 Student Council. The total number of ballots cast at the election was 1280. Robert Alexander and Ed Sullivan, two members of the Council this year were re-elected to serve on the council for next year.

The personnel of the new council is made up of two agricultural students, two engineers, two journalists, and a commerce student.

Voting started at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and continued briskly until noon. There was not much activity until the Engineers and Ags literally marched to the polls after their respective seminars were dismissed. The Engineers were supporting three candidates and the Ags had four from their division on the ballot.

The newly elected Council will meet jointly with that now in office early next month for the purpose of electing officers to serve on the 1933 group.

NEWS

If you were editor of a daily paper and the following stories broke on the same day, which would you give preferred position.

This is the question which the Kansas City Drovers Telegram asks its reader-critics. The list of stories follows:

1. Congress abolishes farm board.
2. Russia declares war against Japan.
3. Kidnapers return Lindbergh baby to its parents.
4. Big packers announce they have agreed to discontinue direct buying.
5. Will Rogers throws his hat into the presidential ring.
6. Congress abolishes 50 per cent of the boards and commissions and reduces taxes 20 per cent.
7. Foreign nations debtor to the United States voluntarily agree to resume reparations payments at the end of the year.
8. Representatives in Washington vote unanimously against paying now the remainder of the soldier bonus.
9. Al Capone freed on technicalities.
10. Congress repeals Volstead enforcement law.

To make the problem more nearly that of the average newspaper these hypothetical ones should be added:

11. Famous actress found murdered.
12. One hundred lives lost in lake steamer accident.

Notwithstanding all the sour criticism of the press as to the publicity given the Lindbergh case, it is a safe bet that No. 3 would get the banner headline on about 99 per cent of these layman sheets. It's not as safe a guess just where number 11 would be found, but it's not likely on an inside page.

Yes, the news editor has his problems. We repeat the Drovers Telegram question.

What would YOU do?—The Kansas Industrialist.

The Snooper

The old political machine still is able to function, no matter how feebly. Ray Spillman sat in a Canteen booth yesterday diligently memorizing the names of the candidates for whom he had been directed to vote. Others appeared near the ballot box casting furtive glances at their prepared "ponies."

And while we're on this Canteen subject, it is fitting and proper to warn those persons who have rising-feet tendencies to be ever alert. Regardless of the fact that one wears rubber heels and carefully selects the destination, the shifty attendant at the Canteen will tap gently upon the foot resting easily on the seat of the booth and direct a knowing glance at the owner. Thence to the back room glides the attendant.

Back to the Student Council election. We earnestly think that college authorities should ban crowds of more than 200 from entering Anderson hall simultaneously. When the engineering seminar invaded Anderson yesterday at a quarter to five all the windows in the building rattled and the home study workers in the basement scurried for their lives—and with a reason. Another demonstration of the safe type and excavations will be necessary to find the first floor.

We hope that the Ag Follies will be above reproach. Its members have been practicing furiously in rec center for the past week. It seems that there are two orchestras for the affair—number one orchestra and the sub orchestra. The Follies exponents kept No. 1 orchestra fairly well in leash throughout the week, but the sub orchestra put instruments through all sorts of gymnastics out in the hall. The sub orchestra is able to execute one movement which we have never heard another such organization duplicate—that of imitating perfectly the sound of a finger nail scratching a blackboard.

The crack company of the Kansas State R. O. T. C. unit, from all indications, is not so crack in the rain. The boys came to school yesterday afternoon bedecked in natty uniforms with additional white shirts and black ties to perform before the ladies of the American Association of University Women. A cloud came up and a drizzle fell and the disappointed soldiers went home—grinning.

Judge For Yourself

WE ARE TOLD.

To The Collegian:

The Collegian is the newspaper of Kansas State college. It is published by students of the Journalism department, who presumably are taught the traditions and ethics of the highest type of journalism.

Yet in the story of the Student Council election in the Tuesday issue, some things appeared which do not seem to fit in with the best kind of news reporting.

In what had the appearance and location of a news article in the first two columns of the front page a couple of paragraphs of editorial comment were inserted, which I understand is not being done on the better newspapers.

In addition the names of the candidates were arranged in an unsystematic manner, which might leave a suspicion of partiality. The customary alphabetical order would have eliminated any doubt as to your fairness.

I feel that your editorial attitudes on the Council election have been commendable. I am sorry that I can not say as much for your news columns.

Sincerely, W. McD.

WE ARE TOLD PLENTY

To the Editor,

In the last issue of the "Collegian" there was a conspicuous statement which said, in effect, that (Major premises) prominent persons will not be found in the ranks of the independents; that (Minor premises) prominent persons are the ones elected to student offices; (Conclusion) independents are not elected to student offices.

Truly, Aristotle in his "Logic" could have given us no better example of a syllogism.

Now I do not propose to dispute the word of my betters, but I should like to mention a few of the positions which independent students have held recently:

President-elect of the Y. M. C. A.
President-elect of the Y. W. C. A. and president for the past two and a half years.
Fifty per cent of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet members.

Majority of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet members.
Editors of the "Kansas State Collegian" for the past two years.

Five of eight members of Mortar Board the past year.

Sixty per cent of the Phi Kappa Phi members elected this year.

President of the W. A. A.
Editor-elect of the "Kansas State Engineer."

President of Phi Lambda Upsilon.
President and first vice-president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

All the officers of Theta Sigma Phi this year and the president-elect.

Two of the three cadet majors of R. O. T. C.
President and vice-president of the Margaret Justin Home Economics Club.

Business managers of the "Kansas State Collegian."

Presidents of Phi Alpha Mu.

Presidents of Dynamics for the past two years.

President of Phi Mu Alpha and president-elect.

All officers of the College 4-H Club.

General manager of Engineer's Open House.

All officers of Omicron Nu.

All put one of the student members of the "Kansas State Collegian" board.

President of Steel Ring.

President and vice-president of Women's "K" fraternity.

Of course, the "barbs" have slight opportunity to participate in the renowned activities of T. S. L., Wampus Cats (Pi Epsilon Phi), Beauvais, Bearab, Pak, and Enchiladas.

Perhaps if the independents had the advantages of mighty political machines, such as those recognized by the "Collegian" as running the campus, the "barbs" might be able to crash a few Student Council election parties.—R. C.

BRING WANDERING GRADS BACK INTO ALUMNI FOLD

Tracers Amist In Completion of Information On File in College Office

Through the untiring efforts of the alumni office 126 out of 348 "lost" alumni have been "found." They were "lost" because in years past when a "tracer" came back unclaimed, no one did anything about it.

Copies of the Kansas Industrialist, official college paper, containing the names of the lost members were sent to 5,000 former students. Readers contributed the information the office was desirous of knowing.

The records of the alumni office go back to 1887, but the filing of names began in 1922. Each alumnus recorded, has a card on which is written his name, occupation, marriage, and year of graduation. The cards are filed alphabetically, geographically, and by classes. Cards of graduates residing in Kansas are filed also by counties.

Tracers are sent out to anyone suspected of knowing the desired information, often brothers or sisters now in college, or classmates. Again, the city clerk at his home address may know where the alumnus is, and what he is doing.

Tracers are double post card size with blanks on which to fill in one's place of residence, occupation, and other details. Information on this card is transferred to a card in a filing cabinet.

That graduates had scattered far and wide was shown by the returns from the Industrialist list. California and New York seem to be the most popular places. Oregon, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Illinois, Montana, Texas, Florida, Washington, Pennsylvania, Washington, D. C., Missouri, New Jersey, Colorado, Utah, Massachusetts, are indicative of the migratory tendencies of Kansas State alumni.

The changing of the name Alumni Association of Kansas State Agriculture College to the Alumni Association of Kansas State College will be considered at the annual business meeting of the association Alumni Day, June 1.

The organization sponsors a banquet held yearly in Nichols gymnasium on Alumni Day. Every five years there are class reunions.

The alumni loan fund and pledges for life membership in the association are also under the management of the group.

Kenneth L. Ford has been secretary of the Alumni association since 1928. Ralph Foster preceded him in office.

place for all reporters.—Here is good news the student who becomes the fact that there is so much "red tape" connected with college work. R. A. Seaton, dean of the engineering division, says there is much less red tape here than there was in Washington, D. C., during the war. Dean Seaton's official title while in the service was "Captain in the Artillery Ammunition Section of the Engineering Division of the Office of the Chief of Ordnance in the United States Army." That's all of it.

We hear rumors of a Bueche-Pasley Electrical Installation corporation in our travels around the engine house.—R. C. Hay, Parker, is sending out those "spring appeals" to various corporations. It must be admitted that Hay is leading the field, for there are a great many of us who can't even think of anyone who might be interested in our application.

Although Earl Regnier, manager of the 1932 Ag fair was thoroughly "mooded" by the engineers when he invaded the engineers' assembly stronghold to announce the latest plans for the Ag's gala event next Saturday, he gave the Engineers a thing or two to ponder about. It is my opinion that the engineers will turn out in great numbers to probe the mysteries of the "moon room" which will be a feature of the dance

Saturday night. Regnier told the assembly that those who intended to investigate the room should whistle before entering. The engineers are all indignant over the voting strength of "those Ags," and were instructed to coach R. C. Hay to "get out there and fight." It seems that the boys were all bothered about Student Council elections. We might suggest a disarmament conference with a problematical five-five-three ratio. —Phi Kappa Phi has placed nine engineers among the ranks of recently elected members.

Ye Olden Tyme Atmosphere In Quaint Display

A quaint and colorful collection of Colonial home-furnishings contrasts sharply with a modernistic group in another corner of the same room in the art department's exhibit for Hospitality week.

Windows in A 55 have old woven coverlets for draperies, and hooked rugs are on the floor. Reproductions of other old-fashioned textiles are used to cover the authentic low-boys, secretaries, and tables used by early Americans.

Many of these American antique treasures are from the collection of Miss Harriet Parkerson of College Hill, who contributed some fine old china, a bed-warmer and a foot-warmer. A hang-bag and dress from the trousseau of an ancestor of Mrs. E. P. Harling drapes a Colonial chair.

Cradles, spinning-wheels, and a high-chair lend a home-like atmosphere to the aristocratic exhibit. And the minor comforts of the Colonial home have not been neglected. Candle-snuffers lent by Mrs. J. T. Willard have been added to the collection.

The small modern exhibit was collected from members of the department of art, and consists of modern textiles, pottery and a plain modern floor-covering.

Several enterprising students at St. Thomas college, St. Paul, Minn., have organized an insurance company for students. For a payment of 25c any student may take out $5 worth of insurance against being called on in class.

Girls vote for PIPES (for men!)

ASK any girl you know to name her favorite smoke—for men! Ten to one she'll say a pipe!

She's discovered—trust her bright little eyes—that it's the BIG men, on the campus and off, who welcome the mental stimulation and relaxation they get from this real man's smoke.

And if she's very wise in the ways of smokers, she'll go one better than that. She'll tell you the men who know, smoke Edgeworth!

No two ways about it, you do get a doubly satisfying smoke when you fill up your pipe with this famous old blend. It's a happy combination of choice tobaccos—cut long to give you a cool, slow-burning smoke. And its mellow flavor and rich aroma have made Edgeworth the favorite pipe tobacco on 42 out of 50 campuses.

Help yourself to a pipeful next time someone pulls Edgeworth out of his pocket. Pick up the familiar blue tin yourself at any good tobacco stand. Or for a special free sample packet write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 23d St., Richmond, Va.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Having visited these ancient and historic places, Mrs. Seaton was able to describe them most vividly to her audience. The club banner, not yet complete, was displayed by Mrs. J. T. Willard. The idea of a banner bearing the names of all the mothers of the club and the son and daughter faculty members was conceived by Mrs. Downey. The signatures will be on white satin ribbon strips sewed to a foundation of purple satin, the gift of Mrs. J. T. Willard. The club was organized in October, 1929, and has had regular monthly meetings since. The hostess, Mrs. Morris and her assistant, Mrs. E. H. Davis served a delightful lunch in pastel colors. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. G. A. Sellers.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood

A pitching duel between two of the best, if not the best, twirlers in the Big Six will result in the first clash with Missouri university today, when Elden Auker meets Norman Wagner. Wagner has lost but two games in his collegiate pitching, while Auker boasts of even a better percentage, having left the mound a loser only once.

Bus Love, one of Missouri's best pitchers, is lost to the squad through his participation in the recent Engineer and Law battle.

Joe Fickie, Kansas State grappler, is working out daily pointing for the Olympics. His partner in the daily bouts is none less than Pat Patterson, and according to that authority Joe has the best chance of any collegiate bone crusher, Pat, who once held the national crown in his weight, has pinned Fickie but once in the past week.

Paul Whiteman, the celebrated musician and orchestra leader, was once the national amateur heavyweight wrestling champion.

George Spitz, holder of the world's indoor high jump record at 6 feet 8 1/2 inches, developed his own style in his back yard and the record he set is only six inches under the pole vault record set by J. W. Fryer in 1877.

Sammy Byrd, sensational rookie outfielder for the Yankees, is a consistent near par golfer, and if he wanted could be a successful professional, and then, there is Walter Hagen who is a noted professional golfer, who was touted by big league scouts as having the stuff for a major league ball player in his collegiate days.

The football question is still unsettled at Missouri for the coming season since the dethroning of Gwynn Henry. The latest rumors have the names of Lynn Waldorf and Ad Lindsey for the jobs as head and assistant coaches, respectively. Waldorf is at Oklahoma A. and M. and Lindsey is at Oklahoma. Waldorf was an all American from Syracuse in 1916, and his Aggie teams have been hard to beat.

The accepted world's shotput record was broken the other day by a Slav by over four feet. He is coming over for the Olympics, which will not cheer up some of our behemoths.

Bus Breeze, Kansas State boxer who holds the featherweight titles of Kansas, Nebraska, and Colorado, besides being one of the collegians to make the grade for the Olympic tryouts in San Francisco this June, goes to Kansas City to meet Dick Meirs, who holds the title in the 126-pound division of the Heart of America, Wednesday of next week.

Captain Billy Doyle of the Kansas State wrestling team, also national champion in his weight, held his first workout since his attack of typhoid last fall. Doyle had hoped to enter the Olympic tryouts, but the extended illness has weakened him too much.

Everyone knew the wrestling team of the Oklahoma Aggies had always been good, but did you know that they have lost but one match in the last 11 years... and only three in the history of the school.

NETMEN DEFEAT WICHITA

Coach Moll's Tennis Team Takes Fourth Victory in Match Here Last Tuesday

The undefeated Kansas State tennis team kept its slate clean by outpointing Wichita university 12 to 8 here Tuesday. This is the fourth victory for the Wildcat netmen who have won every match but one, and tied that with Kansas Wesleyan.

Playing a round robin schedule, Kansas State won nine of the 16 singles matches. Dean and Larson each won three of their four matches, Hoglund two out of four, and Graham one out of four. In the feature match of the afternoon, Calhoun, Wichita, beat Larson, after playing 28 games, winning by a 15 to 13 score.

In the doubles, the combination of Hoglund and Dean won both its matches. Graham and Larson lost one match and won the other by default from Calhoun and Rosebush, because Calhoun had played the long match with Larson and there was no hope of victory for the Shockers.

The summary:
Singles:
Hoglund, K. S., defeated Barnes, W. U., 6-0; Calhoun, W. U., 6-1; Rosebush, W. U., 6-1; lost to Brooks, W. U., 2-6.
Larson, K. S., defeated Brooks, W. U., 6-2; Rosebush, W. U., 7-4; and lost to Barnes, W. U., 4-6; Calhoun, W. U., 13-15.
Graham, K. S., defeated Rosebush, W. U., 6-4; and lost to Calhoun, W. U., 7-9; Brooks, W. U., 5-7; Barnes, W. U., 6-8.

Dean, K. S., defeated Rosebush, W. U., 6-3; Calhoun, W. U., 6-3; Brooks, W. U., 6-2; and lost to Barnes, W. U., 4-6.

Doubles:
Dean and Hoglund, K. S., defeated Barnes and Brooks, W. U., 7-5; Calhoun and Rosebush, W. U., 6-2.

Graham and Larson, K. S., won over Calhoun and Rosebush, W. U., by default; and lost to Barnes and Brooks, W. U., 4-6.

GOLFERS TO WICHITA

Will Play at El Dorado Today—Meet Wichita University Tomorrow

The Kansas State golfers left yesterday on a two match trip. Today the Wildcats play the El Dorado Junior college, and on Saturday they go to Wichita to play the last four of Wichita university.

Captain Joe Menzie is in charge of the club on this trip, and he made his team up of the same men that have played every match up to date, Dale Maxwell, Joe Walker, and Alvin Hostetter.

Negotiations are under way for a triangular meet with Iowa State and Coe college to be played May 5 and 6 in Ames. The golf team would make the trip with the baseball club, and play the triangular match on Friday and then meet Iowa State in a dual on Saturday.

TRACK SQUAD TO DRAKE

Will Compete in Drake Relays Today and Saturday; Nine Men To Make Trip

Coach Ward Haylett and nine of his track stars left early this morning for Des Moines, Iowa, where they will compete in the nationally famous Drake Relays sponsored by Drake university of that city, Friday and Saturday.

The shuttle hurdle team of Hincley, Breen, Hammel, and Schmutz that placed second in the Kansas Relays held last week will be entered at Drake. The second place taken by the above quartet in Lawrence was not a satisfactory performance to the track mentor, and their time may be faster this week end.

Kansas State will also have an entry in the two mile relay, running Miller, Nixon, Smith, and Darnell in that order. Darnell is running farther than his usual distance, but in workouts held the past week his time for the half mile has been fast.

Hincley, Breen, and Ehrlich will enter the special events. Ehrlich in the high jump, and the other two named in the hurdles. Ehrlich, who holds the Big Six conference records, both indoor and outdoor, has not been in form his past two meets, but may snap into the win column at Drake. Both Hincley and Breen are fast hurdlers, and have a chance of placing.

Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

Unexpected acts and things strike one's eyes at every corner as Ag Fair preparation is begun in earnest. This journalist, while strolling through the West Ag building, saw two men working over two long tables literally covered with what appeared to be dead hens, thoroughly dead ones with their necks out stiff and their feet just as stiff in the opposite direction. The birds were, it developed, merely mounted skins which are to be used as a feature of the poultry department at the fair.

The poultry department is, by the way, considerable of an egg factory. The "contented hens" are producing about 1,000 eggs a day now, and one man spends all his time tending the trap nests. The department sells the eggs to the college cafeteria, to the home economics division, to Van Zile hall and the surplus to a packing house down town.

R. O. Pence, instructor in milling industry, assures us that the ancient millstones leaning against the side of the East Ag building never were used by the department at the college. They were hauled in from some old waterpowered mill to be displayed merely as antiques. This type of milling was at its height about 1890 but has gone out of existence since steel rools have been developed.

The flour mill at the college is one place where the divisions of agriculture and engineering overlap. The department of milling industry comes under the head of the division of agriculture, but the division of engineering offers courses in flour mill engineering in which the same mill is used for class work. As the milling industry instructors explain the situation the engineers do most of the teaching while the ags do the research work, and a lot of it is done.

The ducking tank is in evidence. So are overalls, but not on all Ags. "Porky" Wilhelm promises that something will happen between second and third hour today, and between the ag buildings.

The old divisional rivalry is stirred up again. What with tussling over a pushball nine feet in diameter with all the engineers it isn't surprising that the ags have talked of painting the smoke stack and perhaps ducking a few of the mechanicals just for the spirit of the thing.

But there is also a sinister note in the remark of one ag that "There are a few jellies in the division that we'll have to tend to before we take on the engineers."

If J. L. Duncan resembled a girl as much in real life as he does when in his Ag folies pajamas he'd be taking home ec. But some of the female chorines aren't so fortunately constructed. Martin Keck put on an evening gown the other night, looked into a glass, and laughed until he was too weak to stand. Fortunately he has a grand sense of humor.

The ducking tank has turned out to be more of a worry than a factor for good. First someone upset it and now it has disappeared.

That tank was a constant source of discomfort to a bunch of engineers who had a third hour class in the west ag hall sort of a sword of Damocles. And they might well worry, for the ambitious publicity manager of the fair suggested that the police duck one of the engineers for the publicity that would result. The cops didn't take to the idea.

However the brutes did perform their duty even after the tank was gone by throwing Gene Kell into the lily pond in the rock garden by the greenhouse.

At The Theatre

AT THE WAREHAM "Destry Rides Again" Tom Mix, hero of Saturday matinees, rides again in a talkie—his first. A relief from gangster pictures and moral problems of the idle rich is the old plot in which the hard-riding, fast-shooting hero is framed and sent to prison. But Claudia Dell and Tony wait for him, and he rides again—with a vengeance. There are pounding hoofs, hold-ups, and trick horsemanship in this rip-roaring, he-man drama.—E. G.

AT THE DICKINSON "Business and Pleasure" In Will Rogers' latest, he's a razor blade magnate on his way to corner the Damascus steel market, but a menace in the form of a dark-eyed vamp, Jetta Goudal, threatens his business and his domestic happiness. With old-time ingenuity the sage of Claremore extricates himself from tight places, but the story, based on Booth Tarkington's "The Plutocrat," affords too few scenes for displaying

AT THE VARSITY "High Stakes" "High Stakes," at the Varsity proved most amusing. Unfortunately the audience was all too small—and a lot of people missed an entertaining evening. Mae Murray is one of the few "old" stars who realizes it. She is appropriately cast as the near-mad, baby-face chest Karen Morley—though given a min-or part—lends a charm to the picture. Lowell Sherman, as a drunk-en, lovable, philosophic playwright makes the picture what it is—for his are the lines that lend brilliance to a rather commonplace plot. "The 5 Manilla Boys" were received most enthusiastically. There's something about a banjo, and a guitar, and a tenor with flashing teeth that simply takes the women in. Men, of course, are more practical about such things. Varsity is presenting "Kismet" tomorrow and Saturday. Whether you are a movie fan or not, you should not miss it. It's a classic—one of those things you seldom see. I'll warrant that you'll agree that it's one of the greatest films of its type since "The Hunchback of Notre Dame." Everybody will be talking about it—but nobody will be able to express it—in words. ## THRILLING NINTH INNING WINS FOR K.S.C. FROM M.U.

PRENTUP'S FOUR BASE HIT SAVES SECOND GAME FOR KANSAS STATE

GAMES DIVIDED BY TEAMS

M. U. Takes Friday's Game 14 to 5, But Rally by Kansas State Late in Saturday's Game Saves Wildcats

The Kansas State Wildcats and the Missouri Tigers divided a twin bill on the college diamond Friday and Saturday. The invaders got to Auker in the initial game and took it 14 to 5. In the second, a terrific last inning rally after one man was out, gained the Wildcat victory 7 to 6.

Wagner pitching for Missouri in the first encounter, held the Wildcats at bay after the first three innings, while Auker was freely touched for base hits throughout the game. The visitors scored in every inning but the first two, and until the Kansas State team matched their runs after the fourth inning only two runs were made from the delivery of the Missouri ace.

Embrey, Farmer, and Asbury, the murderous row of the Missouri lineup, walked off seven hits between them and their blows accounted for most of the Columbia team's runs. Asbury crashed out a homer for one of his hits in the fourth frame.

The hitting of Boyd, Carter, and Prentup kept the ball game close through the early innings, twice tying up the game until the fifth inning. From then on it was all Tiger. Walks followed by clean hits sent run after run over the platter, the Missouri team getting 14 hits while the Kansas State club chalked up only five. Only two walks were given by Wagner and Auker gave free passes to eight.

The second game was started by Lang on the mound for the Wildcats, and he was opposed by Asbury. Both pitchers worked nicely, but Lang had periods of wildness that allowed the Tigers to score on few hits.

Prentup's four base blow in the last half of the ninth inning with the bases loaded climaxed a five run rally that sent the Tigers home second best. This drive came off the delivery of Wagner who came in to stave off the onrush of Wildcat hits. He pitched only two balls, one hit Gentz, and the next Prentup sent far out in left field. Fruit, diminutive Tiger catcher, had a play on Gentz who was on first when Prentup connected, but in the scramble lost the ball, and continued on page 4

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

The wife of a college professor grew tired of being disturbed at night by young people parking near her house. One night recently, after enduring the noise as long as she thought she could, the incensed individual took a flashlight, sneaked to the parker's car, and turned the light on those affectionate young people. The girl in the car was the sister of the woman holding the light. . . . That all students should be compelled to take more English is proved when ag journalism students turn in a paper on which is written, "taking a thing for granite." . . . And another referred to April 32. . . . Five years in college make no mark on some. One of the leading social lights of Kappa Sigma made two dates for the same party, and the out-of-town one came. . . . Truth is stranger than fiction. That ninth inning in the baseball game Saturday was better than anything Ripley could have thought of. . . . Confectionist honors could easily be divided between R. M. Coco, graduate assistant in zoology, and Bob Spiker. On the dance floor they perform similarly. . . . Sunday night a May basket was hung at the door of a male student, and on it was a note "From an Admirer." Yesterday Samples of handwriting were collected by the receiver from all his coed friends in the hope that he might find out who was doing the admiring.

Maria Kurenko, Russian soprano, will present a concert which is complimentary to the seniors, Tuesday, May 31, in the college auditorium. The concert which is the third of its kind to be presented to the graduates, is one of the various activities planned for commencement week.

Kurenko has been in America six years, and during that time has sung 250 concerts. She made her debut as an opera singer 13 years ago at the Opera House in Moscow.

Last year, Alberto Solvi, harpist, played a concert during the commencement week, and two years ago Kathryn Melele, contralto, presented a program.

Labor Head To Speak

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will present the commencement address, Thursday, June 2. The baccalaureate sermon will be given by Dr. Robert Nelson Spencer, bishop of west Missouri, Kansas City, in the college auditorium, May 29.

Memorial day will be observed Monday, and foremost event on Wednesday is the alumni banquet had address, by Dean H. Otis, '29, director of the agricultural commission of American Bankers association, Madison, Wis. All seniors who will graduate this spring or at the end of summer school will be given free tickets to the banquet. These will be available at the alumni office the week before commencement.

Class Reunions Scheduled

Reunions and luncheons of the classes of '67, '72, '82, '87, and '92, will also be on Wednesday in Nichols gymnasium at 2:00 o'clock, and the alumni business meeting in recreation at 2:00.

Scatter Seeds of Kindness, Oats or Perhaps Lespedeza

At least some of the benefits which the farmers of Kansas derive from the college are not intangible, for last year the agronomy department here sold 3,241 bushels of certified seed to farmers in the United States, most of the orders being from Kansas.

Many varieties of seed are also sent to experiment stations in other states and even to foreign countries in exchange for seeds to be used in experimental work here. The seeds sold are grown on the 320-acre agronomy farm north of the campus which is under the supervision of Prof. R. I. Throckmorton. Fulton Akerman is foreman at the farm.

The demand for different varieties of grains varies each year, according to Miss Fern McCormick, secretary to Professor Throckmorton. This year the college has quite a quantity of Atlas sorgho on hand, although the crop was too small to supply the demand for last year. This is the first time that the college has been able to distribute certified seed of Korean Lespedeza. The grain is available here in small amounts.

Sales for the past year were not as large as in previous years, especially sales of wheat, the 22 bushels sold last year hardly comparing with the 900 bushels sent out in some other years. Oats totaling 2,426 bushels were sold, 103 bushels of corn, 358 bushels of kafir, 191 bushels of Kansas Orange sorghum, and 141 bushels of soy beans. That is some little job, Miss McCormick explains, when one must fill out individual certified seed tags for each bag of grain no matter whether its contents be 10 pounds or three bushels.

Yo-Yos Cause Observer To Recall Other Curses

By the Observer

We are now living in the yo-yo era. We have successfully passed through the amateur three-decked sandwich era, the ukelele era, the crystal set era, the bicycle era, and so on, ad infinitum. Each in turn gave to civilization a new and better understanding of life.

The three decked sandwich era proved to us that if you held a loosely constructed mass of meats and vegetables in the fingers and pressure was brought to bear on any portion of it, the inevitable result would be an immediate change of costume. The result of this knowledge was that we made larger and much finer ones of a leather-like constituency, and can now consume one successfully without squeezing mayonnaise into the ears or entangling scraps of goose-liver in the girl friend's hair. We even sneer at the person who is old fashioned enough to order up something composed of nothing but eggs and bread.

Then there was the ukelele era which everyone but the owner of the local music emporium remembers with some misgivings. The era taught us that the mere "plinking" of a handful of tightly drawn strings did not mean that the sound of running water could be reproduced, and that the actual sound was more irritable than musical. In spite of this drawback however, many a dull evening was brightened by the twanging of the score, or so that were owned and operated on our street. I was an addict to the craze, and how filled with remorse I was when it became sadly mangled when someone of the household rested on it as it lay in the Morris chair. However, the crime was never brought to light, though I always put the blame on Aunt Fanny, judging from the extent of its depletion.

After that event, I carried it tenderly to the attic where to this day it rests with the Erector Set No. 3, the club for playing sow-in-the-hole, and other gadgets of my childhood, its disheveled strings still reflecting the glory that it once knew. Before that, there was an era in which the radio crystal set played an important part. We learned from it that with a spool of copper wire, an empty oat meal box, and a pebble that the druggist flung us out of two-bits for, we could draw an incoherent mass of squeaks and grunts from the air. How well we remember clamping the lacerating head phones on to catch the scratches that we declared came from station P H U T, in Billgewater, all of 25 miles away. Then in the time usually spoken of as "way back when," there was the bicycle era. The period proved to that generation and to the generations yet unborn, that a person ran the risk of looking silly if he ran himself to death just for the ride.

Uncle Horace's tandem still enters into the family discussions. They refer with guffaws to the time Aunt Fanny caught her boot loose in that silly little cog-wheel. She came out of the disaster with that ball-bearing thumb which used to send us into convulsions of laughter when she put it through its little bag of tricks. She and Horace (so they say) ended up in the drainage canal and there they were found protruding from a pile of empty catsup bottles, rusty sausage tins, and general rubbish.

What the present yo-yo era will teach us is yet to be experienced. Already we have learned that spots before the eyes does not necessarily mean that we have kidney trouble. In all probability the apparition is caused by the playful antics of the local swains whipping the wooden pellets through the air. Perhaps we will learn that we cannot all be a George Somers, or that the pleasure derived from manipulating one of the toys is not a fair return for the price one has to pay for the destruction of a plate glass display window.

HELEN SMERCHEK CROWNED GODDESS AT AG FAIR DANCE

GUESTS AT AG DANCE CHOOSE BETA PHI ALPHA GIRL TO REIGN

'HICK' CONTEST TO BROTHER

Old Ford Race, Greased Pig Contest, Exhibits, Follies, and Games of Skill Are Also Features

Helen Smerchek, Beta Phi Alpha, was crowned "Goddess of Agriculture" Saturday night at the Ag Fair dance in Nichols gymnasium, the final flourish of the 1932 fair. Roberta Downie, Chi Omega, Garden City, was the other candidate for the title.

The pushball contest was won by the ags with a score of three to nothing when the engineers withdrew from the contest at the half. Walter Zeckser, Alma, led the ag team and June Roberts, Ford, headed the engineers. Pat Patterson refereed the game.

Joe Smerchek, Garnet, brother of the "Goddess of Agriculture," won the hayseed contest held between periods of the pushball game. Smerchek, representing the most typical modern hayseed, appeared as a rheumatic, paint-smearing backwoodsman.

C. L. Beal, Avoca, won the old Ford race with M. B. Noland, Falls City, Neb., second, and C. Sandlin, Falco, third. The race was started west of the stadium and run over a course of approximately five miles ending at the starting point.

Wayne Burbank, Benton, finally was awarded the prize for capturing the greased pig after the animal had been at the bottom of several "dog piles" of over-zealous catchers. Clair Munger, ballyhooed shows and shouted contest results to spectators in the stadium.

The dairy club, with its exhibit of a live cow and paper streamers showing the course of milk after it is produced, won the cup in the educational exhibits competition. The collegiate 4-H club took second place and the agronomy exhibit placed third.

Edwin Krasny's minstrels, adopting a pay-as-you-leave plan, played to crowds at all shows as did Albert Wilhelm's ag follies. The minstrels were conducted on the theme of a negro revival meeting with stand-patters, sinners, and backsliders in the congregation and a choir and jazz band to add a musical element. The follies featured a boy chorus dressed as girls with specialty numbers by Leonard Rees Ablene; Glenn Fox, Rozel; Dale Deblute, Keats; and Harold Kugler, Abilene. A nine-piece orchestra in costumes played for the show.

Games of skill operated at the fair included a "ring a duck" tank, a dart game, and a corn game.

The fair was under the management of the Ag Fair board composed of Earl Regnier, Spearville, manager of the fair; R. O. Blair, Manhattan; and F. W. Castello, McCune.

HIGH SCHOOL STUFF.

The partially successful attempt of a small band of engineering students to kidnap the two candidates for Goddess of Agriculture is too much to pass by without comment.

Pranks similar to that kidnapping do not elevate John Public's opinion of college students. Incidents like that only cause persons reading or hearing of them to shake their heads, sigh, and say "Those crazy college kids. What will they be doing next?"

College students are supposed to have outgrown their childish ways. Kidnaping the senior class officers on banquet night was a prank played by high school youths as far back as one can remember. It was regarded as a foolish thing to do even at that time.

And last Saturday night's kidnapping wasn't even original, as far as college students are concerned. Perhaps the high school boys were envious of the publicity given the recent kidnapping incident at the University of Missouri.

Students participating in the kidnapping stated that it was all intended as only a practical joke. "We just wanted to have some fun," they stated. That is the way all pranks start. No doubt the law students at the University of Missouri only wanted to "have some harmless fun." But look how it ended. One student charged with carrying a concealed weapon, 16 students suspended from school, and a quantity of unfavorable publicity and condemnation by the press and public. And it all started as "only a harmless prank."

Perhaps the only reason that the kidnapping incident here didn't reach more serious stages was because the kidnaper's seemingly well laid plans went amiss. They were successful in getting one of the candidates, but the second sensed their plans and didn't play with them. Students definitely connected with the kidnapping were all too eager to have the incident forgotten, and all too reticent about the details. It isn't difficult to understand their attitude toward the incident. Anyone would be ashamed to have their name linked with a prank as childish as that.

There is no place in the plan of college life for the occurrence of such happenings. It seems that junior and senior students in college should know better than to turn to high school tricks for amusement. Perhaps they have not outgrown their high school ideas about right and wrong.

The incident should come before the Student Council or the Faculty Council on Student Affairs. Now would be a good time to make sure that there will not be anything like it happen in years to come.

MINNESOTA'S STUDENT ELECTION—

A widespread investigation into student government on the campus of the University of Minnesota is in progress following the most turbulent undergraduate elections in the history of the school.

The event which led to the calling of the investigation was acid throwing in a special election in the Arts college, which was being held as a result of the stealing of a ballot box during the regular elections and the attempt to steal a second.

Two persons were burned severely, and the clothing of three others was ruined when a quart of acid was hurled at a ballot box, the liquid spattering on the poll guards and students passing nearby. The student who threw the acid was apprehended and dismissed from the university within twelve hours after the acid was thrown.

Meanwhile, a student investigating committee is examining the system of undergraduate government in the hope of making a revision which will preclude further developments. Fights which had occurred in the original election, and poll guards battled in vain the students who abducted the ballot box. Coincidence with the creation of the investigating committee, backers of defeated candidates published a "razz sheet," which charged the all-university students' council with twisting eligibility rules to favor its own candidates, and also declared that the Minnesota Daily, campus newspaper, was unfair to any but members of the victorious party.

This latest flare-up over election results, in a leading American university is indeed a commentary on the results of the present popular election system. At the University of Michigan, after election rules had been revised, it was necessary to nullify the election owing to the fact that the age-old practice of "stuffing the ballot box" was discovered. At the University of Missouri, student factions, disgruntled at the outcome of certain elections, resorted to gun play in order to settle their differences.

Thus, within the past month, election scandals at three of the leading universities of the middle west have been made public, and, in two instances, lives have been endangered. What's this country coming to?—The Indiana Daily Student.

The Snooper

The Ag Fair seems to have had its moments. Many private settlements were made during the push ball contest. One contestant emerged from the struggle with two front teeth missing and another suffered the fracture of three ribs.

Some time prior to the Ag dance some of the more adventurous males attempted the duplication of the M. U. kidnapping. Roberta Downie is said to have been held captive in the vicinity of Riley for a time. Helen Smerchek, goddess of agriculture, was not abducted, the nerves of the villains having failed at the door of her sorority house.

A goodly number of Greek houses have undergone tremendous cleaning activities during the past few weeks. Notices of visitations of national secretaries, inspectors, province presidents, or others whose titles denote authority have been the causes of such feverish haste.

One group of shiftless fraternity men were gloating over the fact that the visitation of their inspector would occur near the date of the Mothers' day banquet, and one house cleaning was to suffice for both events. However, not all have been so fortunate.

The girls' baseball games at the southeast corner of the campus are enjoying so called box office success. Each night the south wall is well lined with enthusiastic male members of the college student body. Are the girls becoming so proficient that the stern males are able to garner a few tips for future use in their own intramural games?

On Other Hills

By Frederick A. Peery

Ho-Hum! Spring is here. Golfing and tennis weather is prevailing and ye columnist is sweating while he pounds ye typewriter. There ought to be a law against it.

Lewie Hardage, newly hired coach of Oklahoma university football team was given his official reception to college circles last Wednesday night. According to the Oklahoma Daily, "Hardage got his first impression of how Oklahomans talk Wednesday night. He will see how they play football today, when practice will be resumed."

Stanford university's honor system is on trial.

In an effort to obtain confessions from students accused of violating the honor code, third degree tactics were used, the Stanford Daily charges. Students were kept in separate rooms before trial, and then brutally cross-examined by the council, which, in some cases, made false statements to induce confessions.

Women at the University of Minnesota are liable to fines of $10 or six days in jail if they are found wearing fraternity pins.

Now this, you might say, is courtesy—or irony. Bernard university coeds have been invited to call at the office of the controller for duplicates of signs found on the campus. It seemed that the girls just delighted in plastering up their rooms with campus signs.

A loss of $400 was incurred by the junior prom held at Ohio State college. Take notice prom managers, the depression is on.

Harvard has abandoned Yale locks from its dormitories. In line with their policy of patriotism, it will be but a matter of time until the Vassar student body puts a ban on Smith coughdrops, and Yale takes action against Harvard classics.

Laugh and the rain laughs at you have been the order of things during the past week. Did someone say spring was here?

Maurice Chevallier, of movie fame, comes to the front in the Southern California Daily Trojan with a few remarks about laughs and laughter. He says that a person's method of laughter reveals his character. Long and close studies of styles in laughing brought him to the following conclusions:

Hearty laughers may be trusted. Those who laugh with body as well as voice usually are generous and sympathetic.

The shrewd, cautious and not always over-scrupulous man betrays himself by throaty laughter. His face is almost straight.

The good natured are discovered by "inside laughter"—those who shake shoulders express mirth.

Laughing without a smile indicates a hard heart. Explosive, loud laughter often are bluffing heartiness.

Those with little jerky laughs usually are persons of shallow character although they are mentally brilliant.

The large-hearted souls laugh rarely, but their joy is reflected in their eyes, lips and face.

Now catalogue yourself in M. M. Chevallier's laughing guide.

Between Stitches

Hospitality Week is in the past and now we can breathe "Between Stitches." However, the leaders of the home economics division have a future eye to make next year's program "bigger and better." Approximately 500 more visitors were present this year than last, and had the weather permitted more schools would have been represented.

Representatives of six high schools competed in departmental contests: Alma, Randolph, Herington, Barner, Elmdale and St. George. Alta Vista high school, Marymount college, Salina, and Washburn, Topeka, were also represented among the visitors.

A banquet in Thompson hall for all home economics students, faculty members, and alumnae was the closing event of the week's activities. Dean Justin, in discussing the opportunities of the Godey Lady and those of today, said that we all had the same aim but used different tactics in attaining them. "Today we say, 'Jack, take me to the movie,'" while the Godey Lady, Dean Justin said, "after learning the whereabouts of Jack, planted herself on his trail and ended, usually, in the movie." Martha Rodda, in her toast on "Difficulties of the Godey Lady" initiated the idea for a course in "coquetry." (We suggest it for a prerequisite for a journalist.)

Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

Although the pushball contest appeared from the sidelines to be man-killing, Doctor Slevor reports that only two men have been treated for injuries received in Saturday's pushball game. "Hank" Duvanel spent Saturday night in the college hospital with a chest injury and Paul Lance is being treated for a severely injured knee.

It seems that there is a bit of strategy involved in advancing the ball in one of these games. The advancing side must not only propel the ball but must also proceed ahead of it and so level out the opposition so that the ball will proceed with no resistance. The result, as demonstrated on the field, is somewhat of a human pie.

I'd like to know the name of the insignificant engineer who rode the husky Wertzberger, much to the latter's discomfort.

The very lengthy Henry Dalton made no end of trouble for the fellows running the "ring a dink" tank. Whenever Dalton reached toward a duck, and he could reach almost to them, the duck would lift its head expecting feed and over would go the ring.

Porky Wilhelm has lost his dignity forever, at least for me. How could he wear such an outfit as he had on when he led his follies band? And was he leading that band or just keeping time?

Fern McCormick, secretary to Prof. R. I. Throckmorton, says that it was a fine fair. "You could see it all in 15 minutes." And furthermore, "We used to have some really big fairs."

For the benefit of members of the S. P. C. A., I must add that the prize-winning Jersey stanchioned in the dairy club exhibit wasn't really terribly uncomfortable. The dairy cows at the college barn are sometimes stanchioned for a month at a time in bad weather and seem to suffer no ill effects except slight stiffness.

But I do feel some sympathy for the poor ducks, once the center of attraction at the fair and now garishing some hidden pond or table. They, as well as several blankets, were appropriated by someone without even the formality of taking a chance at the game.

The ag division is running over with visitors again. The annual convoluted education judging contests are being held here this week. About 75 teams of three members each are entered, each team has from one to three alternates, one supervisor, and several well-wishing admirers as attendants. That is what the professors are having to contend with, but they like it, even the cattle, horses, hogs, sheep, and poultry being judged appear to get a kick out of the proceedings, at least they frequently insert one.

The kids also get a kick out of the contests. Although it is tiresome to have to compare one animal with another all day long, to formulate reasons and to give those reasons to a very cold and impartial listener, the thrill of accomplishment that comes with a correct placing seems to by far offset the discomforts of a wrong guess.

Some of the boys have come a long way for the competition. Kansas State alumni teaching in distant schools being responsible for bringing some students to the good old school.

Little Ole' Cupid Shows Girls What Leap Year Means!

Daniel Cupid, like the word, helps those who help themselves. Even what with the assistance of a universal embolismic year (Well, we looked it up, silly! Means 13 lunar months, 284 days; in other words, leap year.), some girls at Kansas State can't seem to find their men. Leap year varieties, shows, picnics, and house parties, with all attendant advantages, haven't helped much.

And Young Mister Cupid is to be reckoned with. Revenge he will have. Members of the Eurolaphian literary society who have not taken advantage of Cupid's favors this year must entertain their engaged sisters at Shad-U-Kam, a society party to be given sometime early in May. Shad-U-Kam is an annual event given in alternate spring seasons by the engaged and unengaged members of the society, respectively. Last year the engaged girls were hostesses.

Librarians Are Not Jesse James Probe Reveals

By Egg Sorrells

The "where's your pistol, Jesse James" attitude of the modern Joe College of Kansas State at finding that the authorities wish to glean from his pockets countless numbers of pennies for mythical library fines, is stoutly denounced by A. B. Smith, librarian.

The usual procedure, at finding your post office box filled with a kaleidoscopic array of offense cards, is to go through a series of frothings at the mouth and loud denials of the librarians' data which has caused you this unfortunate misadventure. You visualize the librarian, a stout old gentleman in evening clothes, chewing a big, fat, black cigar and chucking softly to himself as he runs his chubby fingers through the myriads of glittering pennies wrung from others no less unfortunate than yourself.

But it seems that such is not the case. Statistics prove, to one's great surprise, that the total sum of fines over a period of ten years would not pay for the damage and thefts of books in one average school term.

Back in the days of button shoes when Fairchild hall housed the library, it seems that the students were even more roguish than they are now. Mr. Smith, who has served in his present capacity since 1911, stated that from 700 to 900 books disappeared yearly, most of which were never found. This, of course, was a drain on the slim library budget. Hence in the new library, students are required to stand behind strong oaken desks at a fair distance from the stacks, which policy is much more economical than the old method of allowing students access to the 104,000 and some odd volumes.

What fines are collected, said Mr. Smith, are turned over to the college office where they are added to the library budget and in the end go to increase the library. These fines amount to approximately $300 a year, about one-fifth of a helper's salary.

Mr. Smith recalled an amusing incident which happened some years ago when he bought his first car, one of the first to appear on the campus. He was, at the time, charged by an indignant student of reaping a harvest of fines with which to buy the car.

So, gentle reader, judging from the data herein recorded you will have to suffer in silence the indignities heaped upon you. And above all, remember to take back that volume of "The Love Life of a Fish" or whatever it is you hold, before the finger points.

The smoke you like... is the smoke she likes for you!

"I like to see a man smoke a pipe!" You've heard your own girl say it, perhaps. You're sure to hear it wherever girls get together.

They puff away at our cigarettes. But they like to see us have a go at the "strong, silent man's smoke"—a companionable, time-proven pipe.

There is something satisfying about a pipe. It's a slow, reflective, hard-thinking smoke—or a calm, relaxing, restful smoke. The hunter's smoke, the fisherman's smoke, the engineer's smoke—a man's smoke, through and through.

And pipe smokers who know their fine tobaccos tell you there's no blend quite like the fine selected burleys of Edgeworth—the favorite tobacco in 42 out of 50 leading colleges.

Do try Edgeworth. Perhaps you will like it as well as most men seem to. Edgeworth is at your dealer's. Or send for free sample if you wish. Address Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d Street, Richmond, Va.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood

At the ball game Saturday night many of the fans (?) leave the stands in the later innings, apparently giving up hope of a victory. Some people do not know that a ball game is never over until the last man is out. Never was that old saying more true than in that ball game, when a desperate last inning rally brought live runs across the plate and changed defeat into a win. Every thrill in baseball came in the later frames of that game, and my personal feeling is one of hilarity when I think of the above fans missing that baseball treat.

Talk about a woman's intuition. . . . just before the fatal ninth of the second ball game, Charley Corsaut said, "I'd give $50 to see the bases full and Frenup at the plate." Someone should have jumped at that chance.

Andy Skradski continued his hard luck hitting in both games. Two of his hits, one of the hardest smacked balls of the series was lined right at the left fielder. . . . who was twenty feet out of position. Not completely dismayed though, in the sixth inning of the second game he hit one clear out of the lot.

Overheard one of the Tiger ball players say, "Let's get out of this town, I never did like it." Another added, "We came here to lose the baseball championship, and now we have to win all the rest of our ball games."

Steve O'Rourke, scouting for the Detroit Americans saw the first Missouri game, looking over prospective big league material. He was here to see Auker work, and saw him in his worst collegiate performance. Auk had a bad day; his wildness putting men on bases, and hits scoring them.

Another scout, this time Eddie Kerr of the New York Yankees, will view the teams in action at Ames. His club is also interested in Auker.

Three men have run the 100 yard dash in the past few weeks in 9.5 seconds. Kiesel of California, Frank Wycoff, and a Chicago Negro, Ralph Metcalfe, running for Marquette, have all turned in this scorching speed in the century. All a preparing for the Olympics, and in the 100 meter event should make a savage attack on the present record.

Top Flight, Derby candidate, has been scratched because of her poor race last Saturday when she was badly beaten by a field that was conceded no chance with her. Only one filly has ever won the Kentucky Derby, Regret, in 1915, and her record is safe for awhile now. Many thought Top Flight would enter the charmed circle this year. This is also the second straight year that the favorite has been scratched. Equipse was withdrawn in the eleventh hour last year.

Monte Weaver, rookie pitcher for Washington, has won his first four big league starts. . . . three of them against the Philadelphia Athletics. . . . some pace for a beginner.

Missouri beat Kansas in a ten inning battle, 5 to 3. Hot off the wire.

Graham Is Only Kansas State Man To Win Singles Matches

The College of Emporia tennis team evened the count in matches with the Kansas State netmen by scoring a 6 to 2 victory over the Wildcats at Emporia, Saturday.

Graham was the only Kansas State man to win his singles match by outplaying Corson to the tune of 6-1 6-3. In the other singles matches, Tice, Emporia, beat Silverwood, 6-0, 7-5; Hanson, Emporia, won from Larson, 6-0, 6-2; and Pulling, Emporia, won from Hoglund 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.

The doubles combination of Graham and Larson won from Pulling and Corson, Emporia, 9-7, 4-6, 6-2, while Hoglund and Silverwood were losing to Hanson and Tice, 7-9, 3-6.

THRILLING NINTH INNING WINS FOR K. S. C. FROM M. U.

both Gentz and Frenup, who was close behind, were safe.

Red Blaine, who replaced Wyant in right field, started the last inning rally with a homer through center field. Skradski also smashed out a four base blow in the sixth stanza. This hit went over the fence in right center, and was the hardest hit ball of the two games. No one was on base when these homers rang out.

Lefty Lowell, who relieved Bob Lang in the seventh frame, after wildness by Lang had filled the bases, forced the first man up to ground the ball to him, and his toss to Skradski which was pegged to first completed a double play and got the Wildcats out of a tough place. Lefty had the game well in hand during his three innings on the mound, never being threatened by the Missouri bats.

The Kansas State team leaves Thursday for Ames where it will meet the Iowa State college club in a two game series Friday and Saturday. Iowa State has not had a successful early season, but has a strong team being defeated mostly by the breaks, and will show the Wildcats an interesting week end. Auker is slated for mound duty in the first game, and the second pitcher will be chosen by the work-outs this week, according to Coach Charley Corsaut.

WILDCATS MEET IOWA IN TWO GAME SERIES

Corsaut Will Take 13 Men To Ames to Conquer Cyclones

The Kansas State baseball club will run into the Cyclone in Ames this week end, when the Wildcats meet the Iowa State college baseball team in a two game series.

Coach Charles Corsaut will take about 13 men on the trip, including four pitchers. The outfield is not settled in one position, but Fairbank will be in center, and Blaine will take over his old place in right. Dan entered the lineup again last Saturday and justified his choice by slamming out a homer on his first trip to the plate. The infield will remain intact for the trip.

Auker will start the first game, and probably will be opposed by Al Heitman, the lanky center on the Cyclone court squad. The Iowa State team has not an impressive record, being defeated in three of their four games when on a trip to Minnesota where they played Minnesota university, and Carleton college.

The clubs will be watched by Eddie Kerr, scout for the New York Yankees, who hopes to find some material among the collegiate ranks of the Big Six colleges.

Petite Princess Is Toast of Crowd at Hospitality Week

French princesses seldom visit Manhattan, but hospitality week attracted a tiny one who lives in Omaha, Neb., to bring her two peasant maids and her wardrobe here for display to visitors.

Miss Princess in all her French dignity, stood 15 inches high, clad in blue taffeta and smiled at the visitors who marveled at her complete wardrobe—a brown traveling outfit complete to the one-button kid gloves about the size of a postage stamp; an evening costume, and should the ball be a masquerade, there was a small black mask for the eyes, and just in case of a "run" in her dainty hose, there was a miniature sewing kit with scissors about a half inch long.

The maids wore peasant costumes and kept the seclusion in the "drawing room trunk" except when called to duty.

If you were a fluent linguist and could speak "Doll" language you would learn many interesting things from this Princess. Her original home was in Paris prior to 1871 when she was bought by an American traveler and later given to a friend of Miss Barfoot's who played with her on very special occasions. The little Princess now lives in Omaha and traveled under a $150 insurance protection while coming to Manhattan.

AT THE DICKINSON

"The Miracle Man"

Four crooks have an elaborate plan to utilize a faith healer's miraculous powers to their own purposes, and gradually find themselves being cured of their own soul diseases under the spell of the patriarch. High emotional feeling is carefully handled, and the difficult theme isn't used with maudlin sentimentality, as might easily have been the case. The capable cast of the second production of "The Miracle Man" includes Sylvia Sidney and Chester Morris, who have the roles Betty Compton and Thomas Meighan had in the silent film thirteen years ago. Hobart Bosworth has played both "miracle men." Little Robert Coogan and Irving Pichel add immeasurable to the convincing tone as the lame boy and his non-believing father.—E. G.

"This Is the Night"

A European star, Lily Damita, in a picture that has a continental turn of humor, not quite subtle, but thoroughly amusing. To have Roland Young and Charles Ruggles together in a cast balancing their witty lines back and forth insures two hours of entertainment, regardless of the tense little plot. To save himself from the wrath of a jealous javelin-throwing husband, Roland Young has to produce a wife suddenly and Lily Damita is the able and dynamic impersonator. Scenes laid in Venice are photographed uniquely, with sound effects and tenor gondoliers used to advantage to create a well-staged comic romance.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

"I Take This Woman"

The story, "I Take This Woman," with Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard, is a story of love and the hardships of ranch life fighting against a woman's desire for the sparkle and glamour of eastern society life.

Carole Lombard is the society girl who falls in love with Cooper, a cow hand on her father's ranch. She marries him and her life changes from a round of parties to a job helping Gary raise cows. She finally breaks under the strain of loneliness and leaves him under the pretense that her father is ill. Once more back in her old life she misses Gary and the ranch. When he comes east with a rodeo she convinces him, after haggling with him over a few details, that she still has a warm spot in her heart for the ranch, and incidentally him, and so the story ends happily.

There is a short of "Bing" Crosby, the versatile crooner, that is worth seeing.

Purcell's entertainers, an indoor circus, is an added attraction this week.—E. S.

Tom Stone and Ray Stremel were in the boxing meet at Atchison Friday.

DO YOU INHALE?

Why is this vital question so much avoided by other cigarettes?

EVER since Lucky Strike created that special process for purifying fine tobacco and told the full facts about cigarette smoking—the industry has been in an uproar. For Lucky Strike has dared to mention things that were considered "taboo" in the cigarette trade.

You may have noticed a striking avoidance generally of the word "inhale" in cigarette advertising. Why? Goodness only knows! For everybody inhales—knowingly or unknowingly! Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

That's why it's all-important to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question—for it gives you the protection you want . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

BEAUTIES TO BE PRESENTED AT PARTY TONIGHT

WHO IS MOST BEAUTIFUL?

Placings of Five Winners Will Be Made Known as Surprise Part of Party, Rhodes Says

The Announcement party scheduled for tonight will be held in accordance with the plans in spite of the fact that the winners of the yearbook beauty contest were announced this week in the Kansas City Star, according to C. M. (Mud) Rhodes, business manager of the 1932 Royal Purple.

Rhodes stated last night that one surprise is yet to be sprung for the enlightenment of the student body, and that is introducing the beauties in the order in which they were judged by the committees.

"The Kansas City Star jumped the release date sent in with the story and pictures of the contest winners," Rhodes stated last night. "We intend to present the girls at the party and to make an announcement at that time that will be of interest to all students, he concluded."

He refused to make any further explanation about the "announcement," but said that it was sure to be a surprise to everyone.

Jim Chapman, editor, spent yesterday in Kansas City attempting to arrange with the publishers so that sheets taken at random from different sections of the book may be distributed to the guests at the party tonight. Neither Rhodes nor Chapman was certain that these sheets would be available, but thought that it was probable that the pages might be secured.

The girls who will be presented tonight are as follows: Grace Ahlstrom, HE1, Kansas City, Mo.; Van Zile hall entrant; Mary Brookshier, HE3, Osborne, PI Beta Phi; Louise Coleman, HE1, Wichita, Delta Delta Delta; Claudia Heavner, Kansas City, Mo., who was entered by Kappa Kappa Gamma, but who has since withdrawn from school; and Eleanor Wright, IJ3, Concordia, Chi Omega.

Before leaving town for Ames, Iowa, where the Kansas State baseball aggregation is to meet Ames in a conference battle, the team stopped at the Palace drug store and discovered Auker was missing. After a hectic search for the pitching star, our little Auker was found at the Phi Sig house, sound asleep.

Marie Vail, the newest of Kappa pledges, has the most assinine way of yelling "Oh, kid," ... Prof. Faulkner, in a debate feature at the Pi Kappa Delta banquet last night, declared, "Parking cars on the campus is co-educational."

Dean Babcock retorted: "Parking cars on the campus is co-educational." ... Cora Oliphant and her boy friend, (identity unknown) were seen riding on a bicycle on Laramie street Wednesday night. Cora was perched on the cross bar, and the boy friend was pumping to beat hell and an approaching motor car. The POP's should get ye olde bicycle built for two if this is to continue much longer.

Three college profs were seen watching the well drillers in operation in the rear of the College Book store Thursday morning. What do psychologists say of persons who stop to watch well drillers, steam shovels, etc.? ... Taylor Jones has set a precedent for Phi Delta Theta. He placed his pin on Eleanor Wright last Wednesday. ... The newly elected president of the Student Council, Duke DuMars, had his Scarab derby and walking stick stolen in Kedzie yesterday. Stealing something from a Council member is as bad as knocking a policeman down.

Dean Van Zile had the right idea but the wrong house. The other Sundays she noticed the pretty tulips at the Pi Kappa Alpha domicile and speculated out loud that the city park probably suffered a loss. It did, no doubt. But not at the hands of the Pi K A's. It was the Van Zile hall girls who came home the other night with their arms full of the little flowers.

STUDENT COUNCIL—CHAP. II.

The newly elected Student Council was officially placed in office yesterday afternoon. The seven members are the choice of the student body at an election conducted recently. They may know just what they're up against and, again, they may not.

Adolph Hrabka, the retiring president of this year's Council, has served in that capacity in a manner which deserves much praise. It would be a difficult task to select another from the student body who would have served so efficiently and so conscientiously. Hrabka's service to Kansas State as head of the council is worthy of distinction.

The other members of the old Council are to be complimented on the manner in which they co-operated with Hrabka. On the whole, the Council functioned quietly and efficiently.

In reviewing the Council actions for the past year, the dispensation of class elections stands out as the act of most significance to the student body.

And while the Student Council is up for discussion, you might be interested in the following excerpt from a story in the University Daily Kansan, student publication of Kansas university, in speaking of their Student Council:

"The University of Kansas student government has more power, more democracy, and creates more interest and enthusiasm among the student body than in any other Big Six school.

"In explaining his statement, the president of the council said that Kansas is the only one of the Big Six schools where the Student Council has any disciplinary power. The council at Kansas State may make recommendations but has no power. The other councils have no voice at all in disciplining students."

The story in the Kansan also included the fact that never in the history of Kansas State has a non-fraternity man served on the Council; that less than half of the eligible voters take part in the elections, while at K. U. last month more than three-fourths of the eligible voters cast ballots in the Men's Student Council election.

Them's harsh words, podner. But they're true, and the truth of the statement is to be lamented.

An analysis of why conditions at Kansas State are such brings forth these facts.

1. Approximately two-thirds of the student body at Kansas State is non-fraternity and non-sorority.

2. It has been practically impossible to organize the non-fraternity vote into as efficient a machine or combine as that obtained by the Greeks.

3. Those few non-fraternity men prominent in all-campus activities are not quite foolish enough to run for student council positions in the face of the above facts.

The article published in the "Judge For Yourself" column last week cited a number of organizations which had for their main officers non-fraternity or non-sorority students. A close analysis of that list brings out the fact that a majority of the organizations listed have always been predominately non-fraternity officered organizations.

It is safe to assume that the non-fraternity students get the offices because they have no other activities which might conflict with the office. And it is the non-fraternity membership which shows the greatest interest in the organization.

IT MUST BE SO.

Much protest has been heard lately as to the character and content of editorials and stories appearing in the Collegian during the past month.

The amusing thing about the protests is that the offended protestors do their wailing to students not on the Collegian staff. With but one exception, the dissent has been made known to the staff in the usual round-about manner, that of "I heard so-and-so say that he didn't like that editorial about such-and-such." The exception was the "Judge For Yourself" article of a week ago.

The Collegian has attempted to present facts as fairly as possible. It will be admitted that editorial writers for the Collegian may be biased or prejudiced, but the restraining hand of under-doing a topic instead of over-doing it has been placed on their editorials.

There is this consolation about the protests. If what has caused all the wailing was not true, the wailers would protest directly to the Collegian staff. And if the accusations were libelous, well, there's a remedy for that.

NORTHWESTERN NONSENSE—

Thirty commandments for student editors at Northwestern university have been drafted by the board of student publications and await ratification by the faculty board of supervisors of student activities. Some of the commandments are: reference to birth control is taboo; the name of Margaret Sanger may not appear; Al Capone and other gangsters are not to be mentioned; no stories may reflect on the morals of coeds at Northwestern or any other school; nothing may be printed to ridicule the administration or curricula, and stories derogatory to Evanston, its residents or their conduct are barred.

The proposed rules overlook a few points which might furnish news copy. Therefore, we suggest that no mention be made of Purdue university (a moral victory always is sweeter if the name of the champion is not mentioned.) The editorial page should be banned (some one might forget and wish to express a thought.) The sports page should be banned (some people bruise easily.) The society news should be banned (it's only gossip anyway.) Local news items should be banned (there isn't much that could be printed anyway.) All school news should be banned (students who are interested only in the higher things of life wouldn't be interested.) Advertising should be banned (it might picture lingerie.)

With all these things banned from the columns of the Daily Northwestern, the paper still might sell itself on the high quality of paper it uses, which, in such an event, would be unsullied even by printer's ink itself.—Indiana Daily Student.

THE LIBRARY BUGS.

The library, splendid structure though it is, is presenting a considerable hazard for a great many students these days. The library itself, of course, cannot be blamed. The fault lies among those who direct the use of its contents. Let us call them, without the slightest intention of disrespect and simply for want of something better, "library bugs."

Few professors can resist the temptations offered by the countless volumes of assembled erudition within the big Gothic building. The prospects there hold a strange fascination for them. Consequently, discretion often is surrendered to scholastic sense of honor, and the conscientious student, as usual, suffers.

Especially when the end of the semester looms menacingly ahead and work piles up on every side does the "library complex" develop. No course, these gentlemen feel, could possibly be complete without a term report. Supplementary reading also is speeded up, in some cases to an astonishing figure. One professor has thus far assigned ten complete books to be read and reported upon for his three-hour class in addition to liberal doses from the textbook.

The plight of some unfortunate who chanced to be taking five courses from an instructor of such ambitions can easily be imagined. The gravity of the situation is recalled by the fate of the old professor in the introduction of Anatole France's "Penquin Island" who was suddenly engulfed and unceremoniously smothered in an avalanche of his assembled data on everything under the sun.

The value of supplementary reading can scarcely be overemphasized, but an enlarged perspective on the part of some professors in prescribing the medicine would sometimes bring much more effective results. Too often the prospect is so alarming that the student gives up the whole affair in disgust, and where this does not occur the top-heavy library burden usually results in haphazardly prepared work in every branch at a time when solid, concentrated study is most urgently needed. — University Daily Kansan.

The Snooper

If yesterday was officially senior sneak day, to many it was a complete bust. It was 11 o'clock when a crowd of Anderson lotterers found out about it—after having attended three hours of classes. And one can get little kick in "sneaking" for one hour.

The Vets signed a petition Wednesday and consequently there was not a senior veterinary student in sight all day. Such would not be possible in the general science division. Besides, general science students stretch a "sneak" over the entire year.

The new student council members have elected Maurice DuMars, the Agra flash, president of their group. After having heard Duke expound so prolifically in meetings of Sigma Delta Chi, of which he is also head, we feel that meetings will be poorly attended. It's not what he says that bores one, he doesn't say anything. The boresome part is the gestures. However, for all his faults, the level headed Maureece will keep a steady rein over the council.

Scarab neophytes are in full bloom this week with derbies, canes and a sheet of paper upon which to obtain signatures of active members. Requirements are that they wear red neckties. Nevertheless, the different Harry Haster appeared Wednesday morning in a cravat of vivid blue.

Two neophytes walked through Aggieville yesterday in perfect demonstration of the lack of common sense. One was holding his derby up with his ears and the other held his firmly to the top of his head with his hand. Both were supremely happy and apparently the thought had struck neither of them that they might trade.

Had P. T. Barnum, patron saint of the circus, gone to the carnival near Manhattan's downtown section this week he would have retraced his statement that "there is a sucker born every minute." Patrons meandered on up the pike after watching tree demonstrations of marvelous feats of magic and the like which would be held within the gaudy tents.

On Other Hills

By Frederick Peery
How many college students work for their education? And what kind of jobs do these people hold? From time to time we have been printing unusual jobs held by students at other schools, and then the thought came to us that perhaps there were some original means of getting cash on our own campus. Anyone who knows of such a job, send a note describing it to the Exchange Editor, in care of the Collegian. Due credit will be given.

Sororities at Ohio State are not permitted to use airplanes during rushing. Well, well.

The Raspberry Press, published by Pi Delta Upsilon, journalistic society, U. of C., charged that popular coeds and athletes manufactured their own beer and then drank it. The paper declared that Betty Gash, senior coed and promotional assistant, on the Daily Californian, is making beer at her brother's apartment and then taking her escorts there for a stein after dances and other campus social events.

In reply, according to reports from Berkeley, Miss Gash said: "It is true that my brother makes beer. I like it, and as long as it is around—well, what is more natural than to drink it?"

The paper also listed Ed Griffiths, 1931 varsity football captain, and several others, as "beer makers."

In reply, Griffiths said: "It's all in fun. I hold no grudge against the members of Pi Delta Epsilon. I think they enjoy a glass of beer as much as I do."—From the Stanford Daily.

BREESE WINS FIGHT

Kansas State Featherweight Adds Another To String
Bus Breese, Kansas State featherweight boxer, fighting the semi-windup bout on the card of the International arena in Kansas City, won a decision over the clever Dick Meiers Wednesday night.

The fight was closely fought, but the effective punching of Breese which slowed up his Kansas City rival in the last rounds was the deciding factor in carrying the verdict. Meiers holds the featherweight championship of the Heart of America and his downfall at the hands of the doughty Wildcat, boosts Breese's claim on an Olympic bid.

The colored element of the campus and the town had a hot and furious time last night. They entertained with a dance in the hall over the Chronicle office. From the

NO NEED TO COUNT SHEEP.

Thirty persons are expected for the retreat of the old and new cabinet members of Wesley Foundation league Saturday night and Sunday morning. The members will leave Manhattan at 5 o'clock Saturday night and will spend the night at Camp Rotary, where they will talk over next year's program, and initiate new cabinet members. Installation of officers will be Sunday evening at the regular meeting of the league.

Dan Casement, owner of the Dan Casement ranch northwest of Manhattan, will discuss pioneer days with members of the Wise club at the Episcopal church at 5:30 o'clock Sunday evening.

CORSAUT TAKES BALL PLAYERS TO IOWA FOR SERIES

AUKER SLATED TO PITCH
FIRST GAME AGAINST CY-CLONE AGGREGATION

CHANGE IN LINE-UP MADE

Hasler Will Hold Down Outfield Position, Fairbank and Blaine in Old Positions

The Wildcat baseball team left for Ames yesterday for a two game series with the Cyclone club Friday and Saturday. Only 14 men were taken on the trip, five of them being pitchers.

The last few days Coach Charley Corsaut has been trying to improve the hitting of his club, little time has been spent on the defensive end of the game. The outfield lineup has been changed to Hasler in left, Fairbank in center, and Blaine in right. Fairbank is one of the greatest defensive outfielders in collegiate baseball and Hasler and Blaine are good hitters but unsteady fielders.

The infield of Boyd, Prentup, Carter, and Gents will not be broken up. This combination has functioned smoothly all year, and not even a utility man was taken for the trip. Skradski will do the backstopping, and is getting more used to his new position each workout.

Auker is slated for the first twirling assignment, and will be opposed by Harder, the Cyclone ace. Lang or Howell will start the second game, and Loufek who set K. U. down with three hits will be on the hillcock for the home team.

Corsaut will have in reserve Simms and Rockwood for rescue work if the starting pitchers get into trouble. Both Simms and Rockwood are good men for such an assignment, having a fast ball and control for a few innings, but both have been troubled with sore arms and could not last a full game.

Iowa State has a dangerous man at the plate in Johnson, shortstop who has blasted opposing pitchers for an average of .437. Another good hitter on the Cyclone team is Shea who is hitting .375 and has several homers to his credit.

The hitting of the Kansas State team is stronger than their opponents, having Boyd, who is batting over .500 and Prentup not far behind, and Skradski, whose long hits have been an important factor in the games won. Also Gents and Carter are within the .300 circle.

SPORT SLANTS

(By John Underwood)
The baseball club and the golf team went to Ames yesterday where they will meet the Iowa State college teams in these sports. Both teams went in one bus, and were under the guidance of Charley Corsaut and Dean Babcock. The golf team will also meet Coe college and Iowa State in a triangular match.

Rusty Russell, freshman football star, is training for the 400 meter hurdle Olympic tryouts that will be held in Chicago. He will have as one opponent George Saling, Iowa university, who set a new Kansas Relays record of 14.6 in the 120 high. Russell has been working out steadily the last few weeks and should have a fair chance of placing in the trials.

"Bo" McMillin cashed in on his first football in a big way, making 4,000 iron men in his first game after his collegiate career.

In all the ballyhoo over the fast mile of Gene Venake the faster time of Ladoumque, a Frenchman has been overlooked. Venake ran the mile in 4.10, while Ladoumque covered the distance in 4.09 1-5. The Frenchman has been declared professional though, so America still has a great threat in the 1500 meter event in the Olympics.

Helene Madison, Seattle swimmer, is only 18 years old, and holds every free style world record for women—some 16 of them, either accepted or claimant for.... a female Weissmuller.

In writing tennis stories, the desire to misspell racketeers and use Mollmen in the same sentence is becoming more and more difficult to curb.

The javelin throw was won by less than an inch at the Drake Relays.

Two Japs broke the Olympic marathon record last week. Their time was 2 hours, 31 minutes, and 31 seconds. The marathon distance is 26 miles and 385 yards.

Only one American wrestler won his weight in the last Olympic games, Allie Morrison, featherweight. Nearly all of the Olympic grapplers come from the collegiate ranks.

Other speakers were Russell Laman, Concordia; Ruth Wilkerson, Smith Center; Veve Brewer, Wichita; and R. M. Groesbeck, Manhattan.

Two solos were sung by Jo Marie Wise, and Marjorie Pyle played two violin solos. Both were accompanied by Gladys Roe, Manhattan. Dancing numbers were contributed by Louise Groesbeck and Betty Lou Slater.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"So Big"
Barbara Stanwyck again proves her versatility in her interpretation of Selma Peake, heroine of "So Big," Edna Ferber's Pulitzer prize novel. The story is one in which you can lose yourself, for the action follows the fine novel closely and results in a memorable characterization. A gambler's daughter is left an orphan, and becomes a teacher in a Dutch farming settlement near Chicago, and her marriage to Pervis De Jong makes her a member of the narrow-minded community. It is a story of realistic struggle and of a life fully lived. Particularly well-done are the impressions of the lives of the vegetable farmers. Bette Davis, new to the screen, adds a vivid personality to "So Big."—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

Andy Kirk's Band
Those who like real popular music should take advantage of the opportunity to hear Andy Kirk and his Twelve Clouds of Joy on the Varsity stage today and tomorrow. The jovial and acrobatic Benny Figben does some stuff on the drums, furniture, etc., that is really worth seeing. He is ably supported by a fine aggregation of colored musicians.

Among the numbers featured are "Casey Jones," "St. Louis Blues," and "Mood Indigo." Some special stage antics make these numbers even more interesting than when they are put on at dances. For Friday and Saturday, the feature picture will be "Man To Man" with Phillip Holmes and Lucille Powers in the stellar roles.

"The Woman Between," which was shown Thursday only, was an entertaining drama. Lily Damita, the star, was as beautiful and charming as usual.

And a parting word—don't fail to hear Andy Kirk and his band on the stage.—M. M.

The post office did a rushing business yesterday. Students, determined to know when their futures were to be held, fairly snatched the exam schedules as they were passed out the window for 5 cents each.

TRACK MEN GO TO CONTEST AT K. U. SATURDAY

SOME FAST RACES EXPECTED

WILDCATS, ORIGINALLY DOKED
AS UNDER-DOGS SUFFER RECENT INJURIES

Some fast races expected

Landon Will Remain Here Because of Illness—Jordan Has Pulled Muscle—Means Loss of Otherwise Sure Points

The Kansas State track team will go to Lawrence today for the annual dual meet with the Jayhawkers. The Wildcats are the underdogs, according to the dope. Several of the Haylettmen who can turn in stellar performances are now on the sick list.

Don Landon, half-miler who upset Oklahoma in the dual meet here last month, could not make the trip. Jordan, pole vaulter, and a point winner in every meet this spring, will enter his event but has a badly pulled muscle in his takeoff leg.

The dual meet between these two Kansas schools has been held 18 years, with the Wildcats in the win column but three times. The meet promises many fast races this year, with such men as Cunningham of K. U. running the 880 and the mile; Elwell, K. S., in the 100 and 220; and Hinckley and Breen, both of K. S., in the high and low hurdles.

The Kansas State men to make the trip and the events they are entered are:

100-yard dash — Elwell, Going.
220-yard dash — Elwell, Going.
440-yard dash — Darnell, Castello, Harsh.

880-yard dash — Smith, Miller Hostetler.

1 mile run—McNeal, Miller, Nixon.
Two mile—Pearce, Nixon, Daniels.

Hurdles — Hinckley, Breen Schmutz.

Pole vault — Jordan, Schmutz, Kennedy.

High jump — Ehrlich, Breen Schmutz.

Broad jump — Breen, Kennedy, Going.

Shot—Bell.
Discus — Claassen, McVey, Bell, Javelin—Veatch, Laird.

Relay — Castello, Harsh, Hhirk, Darnell.

THE DOCTOR'S DIAGNOSIS.

Dr. Albert E. Wiggam has this problem of who shall receive these college educations all figured out, according to a publicity hand-out received yesterday.

Starting from scratch with the bold assertion that "many college graduates are more ignorant in all the major fields of human knowledge than the average freshman," Doctor Wiggam proceeds to prove that assertion with facts, figures, and plain, old-fashioned reasoning.

He answers the questions: "Who's To Blame?" and "What's the Remedy?" with these candid remarks.

"First, numbers of American boys and girls ought to be in college, who are not there, and numbers are there who have no business to be there," he says. "God simply never gave the latter college abilities. He did give most of them many other splendid abilities, which is proved by the fact that in later years we often find them donors and trustees of these same institutions. But the idea that anybody should go to college who wants to, or whose parents want him to, will simply have to be abandoned. The parents and taxpayers cannot afford it, the colleges cannot afford it, and most of all, the students cannot afford it."

"Second, a large number of 'instructors' in our colleges likewise have no business to be there. Some of the greatest men in the world are among our American college professors, but an undue proportion of the instruction is carried on by graduate students working for a higher degree.

"The third cause stressed by the directors of the study is the present college curriculum, made up of numerous little separate packages of knowledge, each wrapped in cellophane lest it become contaminated with some other course or unit."

Well, well, the Doctor does nobly well. If the article is all that those excerpts forecast for it, it seems that the Cosmopolitan is stealing the thunder of such magazines as H. L. Mencken's American Mercury, Oswald Garrison Villard's Nation, or the Forum. But, at that, the Doctor is barking up the correct tree. There are many things wrong with American colleges as they now exist, just as there are many things wrong with the present economic system.

But ills so deep-seated cannot be corrected with one or two magazine articles. It seems that Mr. Wiggam would revolutionize this business of educating America's youth.

There are many changes to be made in the old order but in order to be of lasting benefit, those changes must be evolutionary rather than revolutionary. A gradual change from one little feature to another, piece by piece, will not cause the structure of things to collapse and cause disorder.

Conditions as they now exist can't continue forever. It seems that the last things to change in any general social transition are college systems. As they now exist, they are rather antiquated and rusty.

The rapid pace of industrial society during the past twenty years has been too fast for the colleges. They are just now getting into motion. With the aid of a few far-sighted educators, they should do much in the next twenty years.

IN MEMORIAM.

During commencement week there will be many graduates and former students of Kansas State back for class reunions, back to feast on the memories of ten, twenty, and thirty years ago.

That thought is accompanied by the thought that the alumni of Kansas State could do lots for the memory of a man who devoted the best part of his life to making Kansas State a better college.

J. D. "Daddy" Walters was more than just a professor during his period of service at Kansas State. He was an inspiration, a driving force, for many of his pupils. The honor accorded him by them during the last years of his life is sufficient proof of that statement.

Those former pupils of "Daddy" Walters would do well to use their influence in causing Engineering hall to be re-named "Walters hall."

The naming of college buildings for persons who have been of immeasurable service to the college seems to be a custom. Many years will pass before another man connected with Kansas State will be more for the engineering division and the college than did "Daddy" Walters.

The Snooper

It has been officially ordained that last Wednesday was not senior sneak day. It turned out to be just an orgy of class-cutting by a minority. Today is the day, says the grapevine telegraph.

Just what the seniors will do with the day of outlawry is yet to be learned. The semester is in the twilight stage and many will doubtless "sneak" to their respective lodgings and do some important catching up with instructors and conscientious students.

Duke DuMars, rival columnist, has retaliated to last week's Snooper comment regarding his executive positions. He thoughtlessly failed to send us a marked copy of the Manhattan Mercury, in which he does an occasional skit headed "Among the 3,000."

Not long ago President DuMars changed his working schedule. From a nocturnal routine on the Morning Chronicle he now writes sports yarns for the Mercury. The change, we thought, had put an end to his column conducting activities.

Jim Corrigan has confessed he is almost in the category of a gigolo. There is one element missing—he does not get paid for going to parties. All winter long the taciturn Irishman has attended social affairs in the capacity of a stag. According to Corrigan, he has been invited to provide atmosphere. The statement may be taken either as a confession or a boast. Somebody send him a date bid and see what he does with it.

Book Review

THE MIRROR An Anthology

The Mirror—an anthology published by the local chapter of the Quill Club, presents an interesting and encouraging resume of poetry and prose by college students.

The poetry in this anthology is especially good. The two little abstractions on the opening page, by Helen Sloan, show a delicate trend toward Imagism, with just a trace of well-tempered flippancy. "Should My Hereafter" is especially well done. "Wild Geese at Night"—a sonnet by Frances Clammer—shows more maturity of technique. Words are chosen with attention to sounds and images—a thing difficult to do in so unelastic a form as the sonnet. The poem bears a mystical touch and gives a half stifled thrill. "This Dumb World" by Lawrence Marx is an expression of cynical flippancy too good to keep.

(How dumb the world)

That day should follow night and night the day:
That each should lead—then follow like a pup!
This poor dumb world!"

The prose bits are entertaining. "So Beautiful," by Veva Brewer has occasioned a good bit of comment by those who have read The Mirror. It is a short short story amusingly worked into a surprise ending. "Zombie," by Robert Groesbeck, is a different kind of story and shows a more mature disposition and technique.

These are only fleeting reflections of The Mirror—you'll enjoy reading the entire anthology. For one thing, the selections are just the right length—there's not one of them you can't read in ten or fifteen minutes—and most of them can be snatched up at a restless moment and read in a "jiffy."

You really ought to know what aspiring young authors are aspiring to—and besides that you'll enjoy reading the magazine. Copies may be obtained in Miss Rice's office in Anderson Hall.—R. W.

NET MEN LOSE MATCH

Sooners Had Most Men Second Loss of Season

The Kansas State tennis team lost its second conference engagement of the season to the University of Oklahoma net team by a score of 2 to 4 here last Friday afternoon.

The summary: singles—Silverwood, K. S., defeated Shofstall, O. U., 6-4, 6-3; Graham, K. S., won from Sessions, O. U., 6-6, 3-6, 6-2;

"ELECTRIC BULLETS"

THE result of exhaustive wind-tunnel tests of conventional trolley car models revealed that at speeds of 70 and 80 miles per hour, 70 per cent of the total power was consumed in overcoming air resistance. Streamlining saves approximately 20 per cent of the power.

When the Philadelphia and Western Railway Company decided to replace its cars with faster and more efficient equipment, it chose "electric bullets"—new streamlined cars—each powered by 4 G-E 100-hp. motors. The cars, constructed of aluminum alloy, with tapered noses and tails, are much lighter in weight and capable of greater operating efficiency.

In developing transportation apparatus, college-trained General Electric engineers have conducted extensive tests to improve operating conditions. On land, on sea, and in the air, to-day's equipment is safer, swifter, more dependable, and more comfortable.

AT THE DICKINSON

"Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood" "Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood" is really funny and that's no kidding. Charley Murray and George Sidney are good, but they do not steal the picture. Every detail is worked out in a way that will make you howl. The part of a Russian movie director is excellently done. When you see this bushy-haired little fellow make a dive at a lady's hand and then make a mild attempt at gnawing it off—and at the same time hear him make a gurgling sound similar to that used in inhaling soup, you'll be "gud" glad you came.

There are so many things that make the picture funny that one couldn't mention them, but one thing that keeps it from being like "mill run" is its freedom from gushy love. The plot is even refreshing. It's so good to see a lady who hasn't fallen and redeemed herself! Another thing, the picture is one that everybody will enjoy—one need not be afraid to take the children—if any, and of course, nobody responsible for himself will want to miss seeing Hollywood with the Cohens and the Kellys.—R. W.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Fifty Fathoms Deep" Another of Jack Holt's lusty tales of pals in uniform, with the boyish Richard Cromwell as the pal, and deep-sea diving suits for uniforms. Loreta Sayers, the boy's cheating wife, is convincingly tawdry as the dance-hall habitue. In spite of the worn plot, the lines are in keeping with robust atmosphere, and the drama of the two divers will hold your interest. Excellent photographic effects under water.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

"Hotel Continental" Getting off to a slow start, "Hotel Continental" proved to be one of the best shows Manhattan theatre patrons have seen in many a moon. The beautiful Peggy Shannon breaks down when she attempts to double-cross her now-found boy friend who is an ex-convict that has returned to the hotel after months. She's attached there five years previous. Smart gowns, good music, and the cosmopolitan atmosphere add to make this story of crooks fighting against one another a very entertaining piece of work. The show is excellently cast.

Dolton's Co-ed Revue is not so good. The chorus dances well, but the singing is below par. The master of ceremonies does all he can to ruin what may some day develop into something, by his off jokes and his out-of-date stage repartee.—E. D.

DO YOU INHALE?

Why are other cigarettes silent on this vital question?

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten people know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So be careful. Safeguard your delicate membranes!

ing of Harder

Kansas State gained an even break last week end in its two game series with Iowa State. The Wildcats won Friday's game 1-0 behind the fine pitching of Elden Auker, mound ace, but lost Saturday's game 8-0.

Friday's game was a tight pitching duel between Loufek, Cyclone pitcher, and Auker. Both teams played excellent ball behind the five hit pitching of their mound aces and the outcome was in doubt until the last out. The Wildcats scored the winning run in the fifth when Fairbank beat out a bunt, went to second on a wild throw, was sacrificed to third, and slid home safely on Carter's bunt. Iowa State was in position to score in the fourth but Carter threw Wells out at home on an attempted double steal. This was the Cyclones' last scoring gesture although Sills doubled in the eighth only to die on second.

In the game Saturday Iowa State won by virtue of their harder hitting. Lang, Kansas State pitcher, allowed only four hits in his seven innings on the mound but issued several walks which proved costly.
Harder, Iowa State pitcher, issued only three hits and was never in serious trouble. The Wildcat batsmen hit the ball hard enough but invariably the drives went directly toward a fielder.

Coach C. W. Corsaut said yesterday that all the players turned in satisfactory accounts of themselves during this week end and that changes in the lineup for the game with the College of Emporia here Friday would be unlikely.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood
The baseball team split their two-game series with Iowa State last week end. Auker returned to his usual superb form and set the Iowans down with five scattered hits and no runs. In the second game, which the Cyclones won, walks issued by the Kansas State pitchers, Lang and Lowell, spelled the defeat.

The hitting of the Wildcat ball club is far below par, registering only nine clean hits in the two games with the Cyclone team.

Coach Charley Corsaut said, "The Iowa State team this year is the best that they have had, since he has had a team in the same conference."

Corsaut foresees great success for the 1933 baseball team with several real ball players in the ranks of the freshmen and the ineligible.
Strongest among the contenders will be LaClair, a snappy shortstop, with a shotgun arm and a good batting eye; Kratzer, freshman second baseman, whose brilliant fielding has startled the onlookers of the workouts many times this spring; and Russell, a far roaming outfielder with a major league arm, and a dangerous bat. Add these men to those coming back from this year's club, give them a good pitcher, and they will not lose a game—according to the baseball mentor.

Many were surprised at Burgo
King winning the Kentucky Derby last Saturday—they should have noticed he was favored next to Top Flight in the handicappers odds.

Junior Coen was in fine form when he played Graham here yesterday, returning many of Ralph's drives for aces, that would have seed most collegiate tennis players.
He dropped but one game, and displayed the polished form of a nationally seeded player. His troup-ing with Tilden was a great break for a great player.

Though the Wildcats were blanked on the courts at Kansas university on the trip there, they broke a string of consecutive set victories that extended over the last two years. Kansas State took a set in both singles and doubles.

This lad Davis, ranking tennis hand from Oklahoma, also has prospects of national recognition. He took a set from Coen at K. U.—and is a much harder driver than the Jayhawk star.

The soggy track at Lawrence slowed the times in many of the events down to nearly high school time. The field was so muddy the high jumpers could get over only the ridiculously low height of five feet five inches.—It was almost impossible to jump—many attempts ending up in sliding dives into the pit.

Skippergosh, Haskell track star, scored victories in the 100, 220, 440, and 880 in a dual meet with Washburn last week, and had fast time in every event. Sort of a race horse.

COEN THE WHOLE SHOW

K. U. Tennis Team Takes All
Matches in Meet Yesterday Afternoon

When Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., and his troupe of trained University of Kansas net stars come to town, it is an event of no little importance, for these hard-driving, smoothstroking, easy-going Jayhawkers put on a tennis exhibition well worth anyone's time. And incidentally, in yesterday afternoon's performance they handed the Kansas State tennis team a 6 to 0 setback besides giving the Wildcats a lesson in tennis.

In the feature match of the afternoon a pair of opposites came out on the court to battle—Coen, a diminutive bundle of energy, and Graham, the rambling power house of Kansas State. From the beginning of the match until the end it was evident that Graham was no match for the Jayhawkers. The final score being 6-0, 6-1, all to the favor of the Kansan. Coen managed to come through with the victory without extending himself greatly, and showing his famed style of play only when absolutely necessary.

After watching the other members of the University team it became evident that the Wildcats were due for a bad afternoon. Prosser defeated Hognlund, 6-3, 6-2; Cutlip handed Dean a 6-0, 6-0 beating;
and Hurd took Larson into camp,
6-2, 6-2. All in all the Jayhawkers never lost a set in the four singles matches.

In the doubles, Cutlip and Prosser ran true to form by defeating Graham and Larson in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. In the other doubles affair, Coen and Hurd had a more difficult time, losing one set, the only one in the entire contest, to Dean and Hognlund. These two Wildcats kept Coen busy for the greater part of the match, but finally lost, 4-6, 6-3, 2-6.

Women's Sports

Semi-finals and final games of the women's tennis tournament will be played by May 16, Eleanor Wright, IJS, Concordia, tennis manager of Women's Athletic association, announced yesterday. The second round will be concluded by May 10 and all except four players will be eliminated in these contests. Players who survived the first round are: Marjorie Lyles, Mildred Aspel-lin, Jane Swenson, Sammie Coles,
Esther Hobson, and Kathryn Reid.

The third intra-class meet will be held Friday, May 13, under the direction of Miss Katherine Geyer, of the women's physical education department. Points won in all three meets will be scored to determine the individual winners. Class honor teams will be chosen at the end of the track season.

Among The Ags

Livestock, 48 head of it, went to Nebraska university from Kansas State yesterday. The 48 were rabbits which Dr. H. L. Ibsen has been using in genetics experiments.
Nebraska experimenters will inject various substances into the animals in an effort to find out a few things.

Doctor Ibsen has been experimenting with rabbits here for several years, his work being mainly concerned with color characteristics of hair and eyes. At present he is trying to develop white rabbits with blue eyes and dark rabbits with red eyes. He keeps the animals in cages in a room in the judging pavilion, where they are cared for by R. C. Doal, a senior engineer. The animals spend their entire lives in small wire-bottom cages yet seem very content and healthy. They are fed alfalfa hay, an oatmeal mixture containing wheat germ, Codliver oil, bone ash, and powdered milk, and are given a little green feed.

Number 476A.3, female, is the only one of the captives who seems to look at things in general with a pessimistic slant. She was born with a twisted neck, her head being permanently turned on edge. Her characteristic, if inherited by her offspring, will become another trait to be recorded in Doctor Ibsen's voluminous records and filed away with a box of envelopes each of which contains a bit of hair from a rabbit which has figured in the work.

Ripe tomatoes are being sold at the college greenhouse. In an average year 300 bushels of the fruit are dispensed. The vigorous growth of the greenhouse plants and the amount of fruit they bear almost invariably causes exclamations from visitors.

The hive of bees kept in the greenhouse to insure a cucumber crop also causes exclamations. Although visitors are numerous, few are stung, the bees being used to strangers, according to Prof. W. B.
Balch.

Miller C. W. Oakes is busy again with saw, screw driver, and plane, manufacturing some new spouts for the flour mill. Senior milling students say that there is a rather deadly humor back of the practice of installing a few small changes in the mill each year. Each change renders previous flow sheets inaccurate so each year students in certain classes must trace each of the tubes of the mill through its course and do it completely, for no reference to previous papers will locate the minor improvements by which the paper is checked.

If medals are offered for self-control and quick thinking in exasperating circumstances, Prof. W.
J. Caulfield, dairy manufacturing, should get one. He didn't even swear when one of his assistants washed the milk cooler in the freezing room and let the water run into a freshly prepared can of sherbet mix still standing under the spout. Instead he weighed the can, figured the amount of water added, prepared enough more ingredients to restore the balance of the mix, and proceeded to freeze the order.

Not all the undertakings of the government through the college are successful. At the top of the hill north of the barns stands a brick building and a long frame one, a deserted serum plant. Private undertaking rendered the project valueless.

It must have been an artistic soul who landscaped the surroundings of the hog barn. The arborvitae planted there are beautiful and decidedly unusual. Perhaps these surroundings have something to do with the quality of the hogs produced here. Their high rating is generally recognized.

On Other Hills

By Frederick A. Peery
Our appeal has been answered.
From one of the men about college we learn that an athlete at Hays college was hired to wind an 8-day clock, for which he was paid $60 a month. Of course we can't vouch for this statement, but we would like to see the athlete.

A Stanford university professor called roll and wondered why no one answered. Since the room was full of students. He was in the wrong class.

The smoke you like... is the smoke she likes for you!

"I like to see a man smoke a pipe!"
You've heard your own girl say it, perhaps. You're sure to hear it wherever girls get together.

They puff away
at our cigarettes.
But they like to see us have a go at the "strong, silent man's smoke"—a companionable, time-proven pipe.

There is something satisfying about a pipe. It's a slow, reflective, hard-thinking smoke —or a calm, relaxing, restful smoke.
The hunter's smoke, the fisherman's smoke, the engineer's smoke—a man's smoke, through and through.

And pipe smokers who know their fine tobaccos tell you there's no blend quite like the fine

What Do College Students Want In News?

Under Joe College's hat there is an active mind, in spite of wise-cracks in humor magazines to the contrary.

Believing that such a mind does exist, The Collegian repeatedly directs the student's attention to matters on and off the campus which warrant his consideration.

Melville Stone, one of the developers of the Associated Press, once said that the functions of a newspaper, in the order of their importance are:

TO INFORM,
TO INSTRUCT,
TO ENTERTAIN

The Collegian has a well-balanced offering of informative, instructive, and entertaining articles in every issue. Moreover, the editorial staff recognizes the class to which it is writing. It believes in the intelligence of its readers.

That is why The Collegian is the most widely read student publication at Kansas State.

Peacocks To Strut In Summer Home At Sunset Park

Two winter guests of Kansas State were taken to their summer home in Sunset park yesterday. The lady weighed nine pounds while the husky male weighed eleven and had a 64 inch tail.

The two are peafowl, more commonly called "peacocks." This particular pair was shipped here from Texas and cost the city $30 which, according to Prof. Loyd F. Payne, head of the poultry department at Kansas State, is the usual price for a pair of young birds. Older fowl bring $40 or more per pair.

The birds are natives of India, says Professor Payne. They are great nuisances in that country because the natives worship them and will harm them under no conditions. They destroy crops and annoy domestic fowls.

No eggs were laid by the hen while in the care of the college. The fowls lay only three or four eggs per year and do not lay at all until two or three years old. Eggs cannot be purchased, dealers handling only live birds.

The fowls are quite hardy and are great fliers, according to Professor Payne. When run with chickens they contract blackhead badly, but when kept by themselves and allowed exercise they are not hard to raise.

CHICKEN AND EGGS FOR ALL. The poultry department is giving a chicken barbecue and egg roast for all students in the department, Saturday evening, at the upper poultry farm.

A number of well-fed chickens and plenty of eggs will be on hand to satisfy all who attend.

SENIOR MEN'S PAN-HEL PLANS FINAL DANCE

Proceeding the dance, the old and new members of Pan-Hellenic will have a banquet in the Hotel Wareham banquet room.

PLAY PRODUCTION CLASS PRESENTS THREE DRAMAS

Semester's Work of Student Group Evidenced in One-Act Comedies and Tragedies at Auditorium

The presentation of three one-act plays last night in the college auditorium was the culmination of a semester's work in dramatic production of a class under H. Miles Heberer. The plays were selected, cast, costumed and directed by members of the class, the first organized at Kansas State to take the course in dramatic production.

Two comedies and a tragedy were given. The tragedy, "Mrs. Adis," was directed by Frances Jacks, and Harry Hinkleby was producer of "The Auld Difficulty." The third play, "The Pot Beller," was under the supervision of Sumner Lyons.

"Alfalfa Bill" Scores Parents for Supplying Liquor to Students

Parents of students at the University of Oklahoma were recently charged by Gov. W. H. Murray of "taking booze to their boys and joining them on parties."

In an ultimatum directed against the alleged practice, Governor Murray threatened to "name names and dates if it is continued."

"We are trying every way we can to prevent wrong doing down there," Governor Murray said. "I think the faculty is trying to do the same and I know the regents are. Some of the most prominent citizens of this state and alumni are not. They are going down there to take part themselves. We can't obtain sobriety in the University when the alumni take liquor down there."

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Colvin interviewed members of both groups, giving them valuable information about the Estes park conference, which is a joint Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. summer function.

"The 1932 Royal Purple, Kansas State year book, will be ready for distribution by May 25 at the latest," was the announcement made by C. M. (Mud) Rhoades, business manager of the year book.

Due to existing circumstances, the usual order has been cut 200 copies, which will necessitate buying a copy early before they are all sold.

Fulfilling their promise at the beginning of the year, the management will have the name of the owners of the 400 books sold before December 1, printed on the cover of the book.

According to Rhoades, "A school yearbook is one thing that can be bought only once. And it is one thing whose value grows as time goes on. It presents your school life when you want it most."

WEIGEL SUGGESTS A PLAN FOR ART MAJORS

General Science Students Taking Art Courses Advised by Architecture Head

General science students who are wishing to elect courses in drawing and painting may find desirable suggestions in a four year recommendation plan as suggested by Paul Weigel, head of the architectural department.

During the four year college course, under the suggested plan, the student would have taken 27 hours of architectural work outside the general science curriculum. The freshman year would include Object Drawing I and II, and Commercial Illustration I and II. This would consist of four hours of art work each semester. Water Color I and II, and Pencil Rendering and Sketching would be included in the sophomore year. In the junior year, Oil Painting I and II and Life Drawing I is suggested. The fourth year would include Clay Modeling, History of Painting and Life Drawing II.

The suggested curriculum would leave sixteen free hours for other electives desired in another department. This will prove helpful for those desirous of knowing the architectural courses offered to students of other departments.

Fockele's Humor Is Too Much For Innocent Frosh

Max Fockele, the burlesque Ottawa can tell you who the world's dumbest freshman is.

It seems that the boys were standing around waiting for the grocery gong when a fast one popped into the fertile brain of the flower of the Fockele family. He turned to the nearest freshman.

"What is 6Q plus 4Q," he asked, trying hard not to betray himself. "10 Q," snapped the freshman, quickly recalling his high-school algebra.

"You're welcome," smirked Fockele.

Deafening guffaws followed, during which the campus quarter-eyed his blunder with a puzzled expression. "Hey, wait a minute. I'm at sea," he protested. "You'll have to give it to me again a little slower."

The Ottawa stalked away with a wrathful expression on his face and blasphemy on his lips. "Do us a favor and go to your worthless hulk into the Blue," he muttered scornfully.

C. OF E. DOWNED BY FREE HITTING OF CORSAUTMEN

AUKER STRIKES OUT 15 BATS; TERS; ALLOWS ONLY 3 SCATTERED HITS

GENTZ LEADS THE ATTACK

Third Baseman Hits Safely Three Times in Four Times at Bat—Empireans Commit Many Costly Errors

The Kansas State baseball team unleashed a wicked batting attack on Harden of the College of Emporia, and sent the invaders home on the short end of a 12 to 1 score yesterday afternoon. The pitching of Elden Auker for the Wildcats was flawless totaling 15 strikeouts and allowing only three hits, one of which was a scratch.

The Wildcats started the morning procession in the first inning with two walks and three hits, one a homer from the bat of Andy Skradski, tallied four runs. The second inning took up where the first left off, with two hits, another walk and an error sending three more runs across the counting slab.

Auker never was in trouble, the only score against him came from a line single to left field that took a dirty hop and on the sloping surface of the outfield went for four bases. Five of the first seven men to face the Wildcat ace went to bench strikeouts victims of his underhand curves.

Gentz, Kansas State third sacker, led his club by registering three one-base blows out of four trips to the plate. He was closely pushed by Auker who got three for five, Skradski, Boyd, and Carter, all blasted out two hits.

The Wildcat team is host to the Haskell Indians here this Saturday, and should avenge the early season defeat they suffered at Lawrence. The club is more balanced than it was then, and the Corsautmen are learning more smart baseball as the season progresses, however these Indians are never easy to down. Bultstra will take the mound against the Haskell crew.

The box score:

ANOTHER NATIONAL!

Kansas State may be blessed with another national honorary organization!

This information did not come from the Kansas State campus, however. The Daily Nebraskan, student publication at the University of Nebraska carried a story in the issue of May 11 in which all the details were bared.

The new honorary will be a pep organization for women, perhaps a sister to Pi Epsilon Pi. The sisters are getting tired of being just a local organization, and without a Greek name.

Representatives from the three schools, Kansas, Kansas State, and Nebraska, met to discuss the plan of a national pep organization for women at Lincoln recently. Ensuing correspondence and plans have placed the movement on a firm basis and it is planned that by the end of another year a national unit will have been formed," so goes the story.

It is also agreed that the local organizations should not give up their individual names but should have a general name and use the local name to designate the chapter. A committee is working now on a name which will be suitable for the national organization. The costumes of the local pepsters will also be unchanged with the exception that a national emblem will be originated and used by each group.

The attempt to go national in a big way stands a good chance to be a flop. No mention is made of a pin.

MORE STUDENT POLITICS.

Campus and class spirit at Nebraska university awoke from its lethargy with a bang last Monday when the Blue Shirts, a student political party, was toppled from its throne after three years of undisputed domination in political affairs.

Arthur Wolf, editor of the Nebraskan, in a front page editorial had the following to say regarding campus politics and political parties. "The secret of the affair (the election) is that the campus activity becomes deadened when one party remains in control too long."

The lack of campus spirit at Kansas State may be attributed to the same cause—politics being controlled by one party too long. Such has been the case with Vox Populi dominating class elections for a period of over two years. Just long enough to make a farce of class elections, an empty honor of any class office, and an indication of the indifference of the student body to student government.

MICHIGAN AND SOCIALISM.

The University of Michigan will be an unusual university, as universities go, if the Socialist club platform is put into effect there. Among the numerous changes advocated by the Socialists is a final wiping out of the R. O. T. C., the abolition of tuition and salary cuts, and the establishing of non-profit making eating houses. And even the dean's office gets some attention in the Socialist's platform. The statement of the constitution with regard to that office indicated that the organization intended to show "unalterable opposition to the continued intolerable paternalism of the university authorities."

Discrimination against students on account of race or sex is also sharply attacked by the Socialists' platform.

It is not at all surprising to see a platform of that nature being advocated at the University of Michigan.

With the majority of its student body being drawn from the larger industrial centers, it is quite natural that the University of Michigan should have a Socialist club. And it is quite natural that the Socialist club should foster a program as mentioned above.

The Snooper

Charley Corsaut's baseball club clicked wonderfully well yesterday afternoon. The giant Auker toyed with the C. of E. batters to zip the fatal last strike over the plate with lightning speed. His support was perfect whenever a batter connected.

All through the fray Dick Fleming and Dee Lynch entertained nearby bleacherites, reminiscing over former school days at Federal U. and Lansing State. Lynch emphatically bemoaned the tiring activities of rush week at the federal institution. Fleming came back with tales of extreme difficulty in passing Advanced Pickpocketing and Woodcutting 5 and 8.

Manhattan apparently has never felt the pinch of depression. The business manager of the Isler Greater Shows will bear the Snooper out in that statement. The old and the young flock to the midway nightly to be entertained with rides, side shows, take-a-chance stands and the like. Activities behind some of the mystifying canvas walls are somewhat risqué, so say some members of the student body. The remarks emanate from both sexes, so there is little possibility of biased opinion.

The thundering herd descended noisily upon the sanctity of Memorial stadium last Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons to stage the annual intramural outdoor track meet. From the horde there, only a few talented individuals emerged. The majority ran in a manner which might be called the plowhorse shuffle. Some who did not run took part in the high jump event—with about as much grace as a threshing machine.

We honestly think the discus throw should be abolished. One participant took three mighty practice swings and would have indulged in a fourth had the weighty platter not slid from his clutches prematurely. The thing shaved miraculously close to the heads of an admiring gallery and dug deep into the turf beyond. The hurler evidently was an exponent of accuracy rather than distance.

On Other Hills

By Frederick A. Peery
The Lindbergh baby has been found, the weather cleared up and we are able to rest once more.

The University of Southern California has admitted 70 freshmen this year whose grades were below entrance requirements. Professors are studying them in order to discover better methods of judging applicants for admission.

University of Minnesota students who sympathize with the Communist party of the United States recently held a political rally on that school's campus. Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalism fraternity, was one of the sponsors of the convention.

The Indiana Student comes out with a few lines on "Slanguage." A tunk at Colgate means a smoker, while at Wisconsin it means a blackball. One is called a fusser at Wisconsin, a candy at Indiana, and a pigger at Oregon if he is a ladies' man. Which brings to the front a few of Kansas State's own words. A "jelly" is our ladies' man. A "fest" is a smoker. What, what, men.

Among other stories that have been passing through collegiate ways is the one told by the "Student" about Glen Frank, jr., young son of the president of Wisconsin University. After listening to a radio speaker extol his father, young Frank exclaimed, "Well, well, I hardly recognized the old man myself."

According to Desmond Anker, young British student enrolled at the Oklahoma A. and M. American schools are a movie compared with the European schools. "At Oxford, I understand," said Anker, "the men have to be in at 10:30 every evening. Even in the boarding houses, the landlady is required to padlock the windows to see that late-comers do not get in after the stated hour, and reports every infraction of the rules to the administration."

Rats and mice are now being cultivated and bred for pets in England. Shades of the Pied Piper!

Law students at Washburn were required to prosecute and defend another college student on a charge of murder. The trial was staged to give the young lawyers practice. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Professors at Washington university recently startled their students by declaring that "A" students were nil in personality and uninteresting individuals. "B" students and "C" students, on the other hand will be the leaders of social life.

Washburn college students spend $240,250 yearly on motor cars, which exceeds the annual budget of the college by $2,500. An average of 350 cars are parked about the campus daily.

ART STUDENTS TO EXHIBIT
Superior work achieved in the department of art this semester will be exhibited in the department's museum on the third floor of Anderson hall, May 16 to 23. This collection will include representative work in costume design, interior decoration and sketching, as well as problems in elementary, intermediate and advanced design.

Helm Chooses Varied Local Scenes For Latest Art Work

Forceful industrial themes, misty landscapes, and local quaintness well-expressed represent three varying moods in the exhibit of water colors and prints by John Helm. The exhibit will be up until the end of the month in the architectural galleries.

Although the drawing in his water colors shows accurate placing and the clarity of vision necessary to the successful water-colorist, Helm is never mechanical, and rises above mere technical performance through a spontaneous appreciation for color and a beautiful feeling for proportion.

The artist avails himself of the opportunity for strong pattern and dramatic expression in "Brass Foundry," "Small-Town Elevator," and "Coal-Yard."

In the impressionistic mood are "Morning Mists," "Rock Crusher," and "Aspens," and a delightfully fresh quality is achieved. "Rolling Hills," a landscape done in early morning sun, has a living quality in its serenity.

Painted with stronger color and more intricate brush stroke, the following Sanderson color placements, is "Mountain Lake, Early Fall." This paper attains the energy and brilliance of the Swedish artist's work. "Pioneer House," "Desolation," and "Fallen Grandeur" use local color in both senses of the word, with the brilliance of Kansas sun-light and the contrasting shadows of blue hills. Warm and cool colors are balanced in a satisfying arrangement, and used with depth and vigor in "Pioneer's Barn."

The finest of bridge scenes, "Lonely Road," is painted with a larger, freer brush, in a dreamier, cooler mood than the other view of the same scene, expressed in "Milk House."

Ranking far above the other water scenes is "Boat Livery," which shows a masterly vitalizing of white space.

Among the prints, the aqua-tint, "Citadel Gate," shows a rhythmic pattern and strong composition. The color version of the same print has a finer gradation in value, but lacks some of the emphasis and clarity of the black and white expression.

"Spring Thaw" has lyrical line and rhythmic swing. A dry-point of exquisite lifting movement and poetic feeling, displaying sensitive vision is "Trees Against Hills." "Moored Boats," an etching, however, lacks sufficient value contrast to make the print interesting. "Evening," a small aqua-tint, like the wood-engraving, "Evening Sails," has a feeling of swiftness, accomplished through repeated strong horizontal lines.—E. G.

Blaine Toots His Own Horn and the Crowd Guffaws

"It's better to toot your own horn than to wait for someone to toot it for you."

Dan Blaine, sorrel-topped pellet chaser of the Wildcat baseball aggregation is a strong proponent of this little phrase.

Apparently in an ambitious frame of mind, Dan appeared at the Kansas State-Wesleyan tennis matches Wednesday already dressed for baseball practice a full forty-five minutes ahead of the scheduled time. He saw Coach Corsaut at the tennis matches, picked up his glove and strode over to Charley's car. Cocking his hat to one side in a manner unbecoming to a man of his dignity, Dan nonchalantly and modestly addressed Corsaut.

"Coach, I'm the type of player that fills a coach's heart with pride. Here I am ambitious enough to be dressed for practice more than a half hour ahead of time. What we need is more players of my type."

Whereupon a group of admiring bystanders emitted the famous Bronx cheer in honor of the ambitious Blaine.

Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

Politics reared its ugly head again yesterday when the annual election of ag association officers was held. The old blocks were oiled up and in action while a new one of two tried for a "stand in." The results, as in most other school elections, are not particularly important. Few of the officers demand more than a good personality.

One hundred seventy-five little turkeys cracked their shells in one of the poultry department incubators yesterday. This is the second hatch of the year. In the average year 500 of the birds are hatched here.

Turkeys are not the only fowls handled. Some 10,000 chicks are hatched each year in the four large incubators belonging to the department. The incubators, if run simultaneously, have a capacity of 12,000 eggs or 1,000 dozen of the hen fruit. White Leghorns and Rhode Island Reds are the two breeds in which the college specializes.

Nearly all the actual work with the incubators is done by experienced men hired for the purpose, but students get a chance now and then to work for experience. A recent rumor says that one boy turned some White Leghorns into Blue Andalusians when he allowed some turbot oil in a container to catch fire.

Gardens cared for by members of a class in vegetable gardening are growing rapidly. The Delta Sigma Phi fraternity had radishes from Martin Keck's garden Sunday and Keck maintains that there are still a few large enough to use.

Block and Bridle, sometimes in secret called "Hoof and Mouth Club," has its posters up announcing a livestock judging contest for college students Saturday. The judging is then resemble a drunken epileptic's dream.

Packing as it is done will be shown members of 2900. Dr. L. M. McKinstry's meat classes when (and if) they take their trip to Topeka.

peka Tuesday to visit the packing house there. Word has not been received from the company stating that visitors would be welcomed.

Members of Prof. H. W. Cave's advanced dairy judging class will also go to Topeka Tuesday. They will visit dairy farms in and near Topeka, including the dairy herds of the state hospital and the boys industrial school.

The recent budget cut has left the dairy department in a rather uncomfortable and unsettled condition. An appropriation of sixty thousand dollars had been voted by the state legislature to construct a new dairy barn. Now the barn hangs in the balance. Will the barn be built at all, or smaller, or as planned?

Meanwhile the bosses at the present barn produced milk steadily with no evident concern. The rolls of adding machine paper that the milk record figures cover make one think of a ribbon merchant gone wild.

Screen doors and professors without coats make us at last sure that spring is here. And the great number of carelessly done excuses presented by students who have missed classes bring even surer confirmation.

MILITARISTS INSPECT FORT
All officers in the advanced course of the infantry division of the R. O. T. C. drove to Fort Riley yesterday on an inspection trip. While at the Fort the student officers visited the headquarters, mess halls, barracks, quartermaster and stables.

Captain William Swift, head of the college infantry division, was in charge of the student officers.

A. L. Ballard, Greenleaf, and Robert McLean, El Cajon, Cal., are in the college hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Taylor, Hadam, will visit their daughter Marjorie the week end.

Prof. H. E. Wichers of the department of architecture, went to Lawrence yesterday to attend a "Better Homes" week there.

Grease Spots

A prize of $5 is being offered by the staff of the Kansas State Engineer for the best cover design for the Engineer. The contest is open to anyone, and the winning design will be used on the cover page of next year's magazine. According to Milburn Davison, new editor, little interest is being shown in the contest. This fact gives Ralph Hay another of those famous ideas. Hay proposes to make a design and discourage all others, thus assuring his design of first place. — The editor and business manager of the Ohio State Engineer, student publication of the engineering division of that school, receive salaries for their services. The Ohio Engineer is the only publication in the Association of Engineering Magazines in which any members of the staff receive salaries. — A young engineer came blithely home to his house one evening recently and was met at the door by one of his brothers, who gravely handed him a slip of paper upon which was written a name and phone number. The engineer went to the phone, dialed a number and asked for "Louise," as per instructions. It is reported that the poor boy smoked a package of Murads in his consternation when he learned that the number he had called was the office of Dean Seaton. — The convention of the Engineering College Magazines, associated, will be held at the University of Iowa next year. — Dean R. A. Seaton specializes in the raising of peony and iris flowers. Dean Seaton's floral work will comprise a part of Manhattan's flower show to be held in the near future. — Keys are to be awarded to Engineer staff members who have served a year and have been re-elected.

Amy Kelly, of the division of extension, left this morning for Erie where she will attend a county-wide meeting of farm bureau women this afternoon. Miss Kelly will return to Manhattan Saturday morning.

DO YOU INHALE?

Here goes the last "sacred cow" in cigarette advertising!

INHALING has long been an "untouchable".... a subject taboo in the tobacco trade.... a "sacred cow"! Why?... Because in every tobacco leaf—even the finest, the mildest—nature hides certain impurities which, when not removed, are unkind to delicate membranes!

And since, knowingly or unknowingly, we all inhale some part of the smoke from our cigarette—LuckyStrike developed that great scientific process which removes certain impurities.

Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Remember—more than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

C'MON, LET'S GO SHOPPING

HOW have your spring picnics been? Sort of wanting for something new to eat? You haven't tried everything until you've taken along some of Chappell's Eskimo Pies! They're deliciously satisfying. Any picnic isn't complete without some form of the great American dessert to top off the other good eats. And another thing about ice cream—you'll like Chappell's brick ice cream in all flavors. Before you start on your next picnic call the CHAPPELL CREAMERY—Phone 4441. They will deliver, too.

The cannibal at the carnival is proving to be a curiosity to students who have visited the show at the park each night this week hoping to see the live-chicken-eater devouring something a little more deadly and thereby exterminate such a "human" specie.

SPARKLING, fascinating crystals! The graduation gift for the girl friend could not be more entrancing than lovely iridescent necklaces with matching ear rings making them doubly pleasing. Single strand necklaces of crystal with jet and shoulder length ear rings is another of the alluring gifts. For the present that you wish especially exclusive, you'll choose crystals from DEL CLOSE, JEWELER. Crystals are priced from $3.75 to $10.50. Drop around at Del Close, Jewelers, 308 Foynt and choose your gift.

Gene Charles and Russ Thackrey may be big leaguers one of these days if some of the scouts spot them while in action. They displayed their baseball technic the other night on the Collegian picnic—and what a technic! Deserving their usual seat in the press box they took over the positions of pitcher, catcher, fielder and basemen. And the coach didn't have to put in pinch hitters for 'em.

THE boy-friend can't think of all the essentials for these hurriedly-arranged picnics and especially on Sunday evening. So, coeds, if you'd like to be a big help, suggest that they get the buns and cookies at the B. AND B. BAKERY. Delicious buns and cookies may be had here every Sunday evening from 4 until 6 o'clock. And of course you'll want to get your potato chips here.

Mayrie Griffith and Harold Dendurant were named the best sophomore reporters in the journalism department, and rightly so, at the Collegian picnic. Both are conscientious, ambitious reporters who can gather the facts and present them in an extremely interesting manner. And above all, they have that one quality all good reporters must possess, accuracy.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood
The College of Emporia baseball team took a severe drubbing from the Wildcat squad yesterday. Hardin, the Indian hurler for the Emporians, was not in the fine form he had against the Wildcats earlier in the season, when he held the Kansas State bunch to a 1 to 1 score for seven innings.

Prentiss and Skradski continued their hard hitting right at the fielders. Had a hit apiece of these boys been two feet either side of where it was they would have been rolling yet.

The outfield was gambling behind Auker, trying to cut off all hits and taking chances on everything. The homer that got away from Hasler occurred after such a try. It was cleanly a hit, but could have been held down to a single.

Pepton Glass the Oklahoma A. and M. dash man stepped a century in 9.7 last week. . . . Glass is an unusual type for a dash man, stretching over six feet in height and having spindly legs.

Overlooked one of the most promising of the Freshman ball players last week. . . . Marshall, a catcher, will take Skradski's place behind the plate next year. He is a heady catcher with a lightning arm and dangerous with a bat. Skrad will go to the infield.

Van Ryn, Davis Cup tennis player, took Junior Cohn down a few days ago, 6-4, 6-2. . . . He can be beaten, at that.

Kansas university has a clown in the person of Frank Armberg who seems to spend his time hand balancing on perilous perches. He also has to his achievement undressing while standing on his head with feet against the wall. . . and can navigate 96 steps on his hands.

Babe Ruth once hit 125 balls over the right field wall of the Los Angeles ball park in an hour. . . . Lefty Grove last year struck out five men with 16 pitched balls. . . . seven big league pitchers have pitched no-hit games and lost them. . . . Percy McKinstry (semi-pro) struck out 39 men in a double-header both games going extra innings, 28 in all. . . . Jerry Abberback, now with Toronto, struck out seven men in one inning. . . . and Ernie Shore relieved Babe Ruth on the mound for Boston, after the Babe had been thrown out of the game for protesting a ball decision on the first man, to pitch a no-hit no-run game.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"Alias the Doctor"

Scene after scene of deeply stirring drama—the story of an ambitious and noble career thwarted by powerful circumstances, of a man who sacrificed love and happiness to pay a debt of gratitude. Two foster-brothers, Richard Barthelmess and Norman Foster, go to Munich, to medical school, but on the eve of graduation the brilliant student takes the blame for an unfortunate accident to save his foster-mother from heart-break, and her turn of fate forces him just as precipitately back into his profession, and he impersonates his now-dead brother for five successful years.

Tense emotion is maintained throughout the whole brilliantly directed production. The operating scene is unforgettably vivid as the climax of an amazing career. The starring role is the best Barthelmess has been given, and Marian Marsh has never had a more suitable part, for she shows convincing emotion in her infrequent appearances.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

"Bad Company"

A thrilling gangland battle with the latest machine guns against the stern determination of the police force to eradicate "hoodlums" resulted in an exciting talkie.

Ricardo Cortez, a gangster, and Helen Twelveteens, wife of another outlaw, are involved in one gang against her husband. Which puts her in an uncomfortable position in this picture—just another gang film.

Good photography throughout redeems the picture. John Garrick and Paul Hulse add good supporting performances to "Bad Company."

On the stage is "Pa" Perkins and his travelers from Arkansas, KFBH entertainers.—S. S.

"Made-to-measure" service for business

Whether the business is small or large—the corner grocery or the refrigerator factory—requirements for telephone service vary. So, to meet special conditions, Bell System men custom-fit the service to the subscriber. They worked out a telephone conference plan for a large manufacturer. Every Friday, at specified times, each district manager calls the home office, where telephone facilities are so arranged that the chief sales executives are on the line simultaneously. Problems are discussed, decisions given. In minutes, the executives cover the country. This plan lowered selling costs, raised efficiency, helped the user to increase profits 31% in a year's time.

By making the telephone more useful, Bell System men contribute to the success of many industries.

INDIANS DOWN WILDCATS WITH THREE HOMERS

FOUR RUN RALLY IN SIXTH INNING OVERCOME BY KANSAS STATE

SKRADSKI LEADS HITTING

Frontup Hits for the Circuit in the Seventh—A Last Inning Effort
Nipped After Three Runs Scored

A powerful offense enabled the Haskell Braves to defeat the Wildcat nine Saturday 9-7 on the local diamond. The Indians collected blows in virtually every frame to score their runs, while a list inning rally staged by the Corsautmen fell short of victory.

Perfect Day for Meacham
Connecting for five hits in five trips to the plate, visitors' third-sacker, won individual batting honors. McNeivins, another Indian, hit three for four, one of his blows being a home run. Edge batted out three hits in six attempts.

Andy Skradski, the only Wildcat to get more than one hit, led the local attack with three safeties in five chances.

Bulkstra Knocked Out
Bulkstra, starting Wildcat hurler, was nicked freely by the Indians but limited them to three runs until the sixth when he was relieved by Lefty Lowell. Wapp, who started for the visitors, had difficulty in controlling his throws and gave way to Darling in the third. Darling's deceptive pitching kept the Wildcats under cover until the late innings when they began to get to his offerings.

Lowest, of the Indians, started the game off with a homer, but the Wildcats came back in their half of the first to tie the score. Fairbanks, first up for the locals, took advantage of Wapp's wildness and drew a free pass to first. A sacrifice, a flier's choice, and a passed ball allowed him to score.

In the third inning, Kansas State forced one run ahead on a walk, a wild pitch and a single. At this juncture Wapp was replaced by Darling and the Wildcats were unable to solve his portside slants until the late innings.

Indians Lead in Fifth
Coming back in the fifth to score two runs on three singles, the Indians were never headed. In the Balch, is a tour in charge of the horticulture department between 3:00 and 3:30 o'clock every afternoon, in which the women from certain specified counties may have an opportunity to visit the rock garden, formal flower gardens, and test gardens in which many rare specimens of iris are in full bloom and the peonies are coming into bud.

Ray Phelps, Miltonvale, was taken to the college hospital Saturday evening with acute appendicitis. Doctor Siever believes that an operation will not be necessary.

NEW HOUSEMOTHERS FOR NINE ORGANIZATIONS

Dean Van Zile Announces Changes
In Seven Sororities and One Fraternity

Even sororities and one fraternity are changing housemothers for next year, it was revealed at the office of the Dean of Women.

"From six to nine changes are not at all uncommon out of a group of 35," said Dean Mary P. Van Zile in whose office all arrangements are made for chaperones. Last year six new housemothers assumed their duties for the college sororities and fraternities.

Those houses which are indicating a change in mothers are Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Beta Phi, Phi Omega Pi, Zeta Tau Alpha, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, and Alpha Rho Chi.

Appointments so far have been filled for five sorority houses. Mrs. E. S. Chambers, San Antonio, Tex., is returning to be housemother at the Alpha Xi Delta house where she formerly held the position. Kappa Delta has obtained Mrs. Mary E. Bogus, El Dorado. The Phi Beta Phi mother will be Mrs. Gertrude Torrey, Manhattan, who has recently been housemother at the Phi Omega Pi sorority on this campus. Zeta Tau Alpha has obtained Mrs. Nell Butcher, Neodesha. Phi Omega Pi has obtained Mrs. Rose Gordon, Cottey College, Nevada, Mo.

"Often a desire on the part of the mothers to change or feelings on the part of students to make a change, results in the fact that changes are made every year," Dean Van Zile remarked.

Early American History Depicted in Exhibit of Chintz in Art Gallery

Early American subjects provide designs for the chintz collection from Elmer Merrell, New York, now being exhibited on the walls of A68. Interesting for their reproductions of historic characters, these printed fabrics are the "toiles de jout" that took France by storm about 1760, at which time the broads and rich tapes tries formerly in favor were carried to the peddler.

The oldest piece in this collection is "America Doing Homage to France," a copperplate in rose on white, made in France in 1785.

Most outstanding is a Washington print, "America Presenting at the Altar of Liberty Medallions of Her Illustrious Sons," which is large in pattern, but intricate in detail. Another, printed in England about 1829, has likenesses of the American presidents from Washington to Jackson.

These prints were used during the last part of the eighteenth century in France, England and America for covering walls, draping windows, furniture and beds, as well as for dresses of the period.

The exhibit will continue through this week.

DENTON HEADS WEBSTERS

Orville Denton, Denton, was elected president of the Webster literary society at the meeting Saturday night. Other officers are Joyce Miller, Sycamore, vice-president; K. B. Victor Hopeman, Independence; Gilbert Moore, Manhattan; and Randall Munsell, Sedgwick, were initiated into the society.

K. U. Seniors Establish Ten Loan Scholarships

Will Serve as Memorial to Graduates of University
This Year

Lawrence, Kansas, May 14.—The senior class of the University of Kansas voted recently to establish 10 loan scholarships for $100 each, as its gift to the University upon its graduation.

The class fee of $3.50 voted by the members is less than half the class fee of last year, but it is believed that after certain items of commencement are cared for even the reduced fee will produce a balance of $1,000 required for the 10 scholarships.

The seniors will hold their final class meetings at a breakfast the morning of Commencement, June 6.

FLEENOR AN AUTHOR

B. H. Fleenor, instructor in the department of home study, is the author of an article titled "Agricultural Education Magazine" for April. It is a national magazine for vocational agriculture teachers and workers.

The article is a summary of a survey of the organization, methods, and results of those methods in the federal aid evening schools in the United States. The survey is part of the work done by Professor Fleenor while studying for a doctor of philosophy degree in the University of Missouri last year.

Observer Predicts Things About Master Theses

By the Observer
(Editors Note: This was written in the year 3333 A. D.)

Excavations near the fabled site of the fabled "Baggieville," which the scriptures speak of as being a place where scholars of the province gathered, has brought to light new knowledge of the extinct race of "Kolegians" (see Kedzie and Hall's "History of the Cataclysmic Disaster of 1933").

The latest link in the chain which may lead us back to some of the strange knowledge of this eccentric race is the unearthing of a large stone storehouse filled with manuscripts, and although the baffling hieroglyphics have caused thinkers in the country much concern, it is believed that with much patience on the part of the readers of the various collections will eventually be intelligible.

Among the most delightful reading matter is an excellent collection of articles evidently owned by a man named Master, who, from the most recent decipherings, lived between the years of 1863 and 1933, the approximate year of the Great Disaster.

Master's "theses," as the collection is called, deals with every phase of life at that time, and it is believed that with the aid of Master's Key, if it is ever found, there will be opened to the world vast amounts of hitherto unknown wonders.

Two of the most recently deciphered "theses" of the collection are "The Bacterial Content of a Two-Pant Suit and the Sweat Band from My Old Green Bowler," and a very bulky work on the inextinguishable subject "Untying Knots in String."

According to the best historians the object in writing these "theses," a common practice in that day, was to judge the skill of the apprentices in thinking up obnoxious and spell-binding titles for their works, a game which corresponds somewhat to our own game of "Authors" or "Cross Questions and Goofey Answers."

History also speaks vaguely of a race somewhat different from the "Kolegians." The "Professors," as they were called, were low types of individuals probably held in slavery by the apprentices, as they were usually made sport of and referred to in the scriptures in a jesting and disrespectful tone of voice. (See Kedzie and Hall's "Fall Issue of the Kansas State Collegian").

Although it is also intimated in the scriptures that the "professors" held some slight authority and could in some cases place the apprentices in what was known as a "nino-hole," the apprentices could retaliate by writing "theses" which the "professors" were forced to read. This in turn would cause the professors to go "nerts" (to use the quaint terminology of the race), a hypothetical mental condition which all the professors were in anyway.

The "theses" writing contests were held once a year and were looked forward to with much eagerness and pleasure. The apprentices passed many delightful hours trying to decipher the material and subject of his favorite contestant's work. The general ruling was, of course, that the title should reflect the density and volume of the work and the merit of the whole was judged according to its complexity and to the bulk of material that it contained.

Winners of the contest were awarded a letter of recognition from Master, who apparently ran the contests at "Baggieville." This was called a "Master's decree" and those who obtained these "decrees" were very proud as they themselves, in a good many cases, were unable to decipher their work.

Although the collection has no intellectus grounds for its existence, it will probably serve as excellent source of material for Kiddle's Hour programs in the future.

SORORITIES NAME DELEGATES

Three National Groups On Hill to Send Representatives to Conventions

Three of the eleven sororities on the Kansas State campus are holding national conventions this summer. These are Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma's will convene at Swamscott, Mass., from June 21 to 27. Frances Bell, Marysville, will attend the convention from this chapter.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., will be the scene of the Chi Omega convention to be attended by Adeleine Reid, Iowa, and Frances Focke, Le Roy. The dates of their convention is from June 24 to 30. Their meetings will be held in the Greenbrier Hotel.

The Alpha Xi Delta's are holding their convention in Pasadena, Calif., from July 25 to 30. Ruth Siles, Kansas City, and Alice Barrier, Topeka, or Helen Davis, Topeka, as alternatives will represent the Kansas State chapter.

SAGES, DUNCES INITIATE

Six New Members Taken into Organization Sunday

After the initiation services the group and their guests enjoyed a hike to Sunset park.

X Team Entry Defeats Jane Swenson To Win Title

Esther Hobson, Kingman, playing for X Team, won the intramural tennis singles championship, May 14, when she defeated Jane Swenson, Phoenix, Ariz., representing Alpha Delta Pi. The final game ended the tournament in which 14 teams were entered.

HOUSES NOT 'DORMITORIES'

Final Decision on Matter To Come From Supreme Court—Affects Property Assessed at $225,000 at K. S. C.

Greek organizations in Kansas lost the first round in the battle with the Kansas State Tax Commission when Commissioner C. E. Vance, special investigator for the commission, filed a report of his findings with the supreme court last week.

The commissioner found that fraternities and sororities should be compelled to pay taxes on real estate, but that they were entitled to exemption on personal property except ritualistic paraphernalia which is also found to be subject to taxation.

The final decision on the matter of taxing Greek organizations rests with the supreme court. George Clammer, one of the local attorneys for the Greek organizations left yesterday for Topeka, where he will assist in preparing a brief to be presented to the supreme court.

The earliest date on which the supreme court might be expected to make a ruling is the monthly decision day, Saturday, June 4, although a ruling may not come until some months later.

Commissioner Vance found that the use made of fraternity and sorority houses was not so directly and immediately connected with the college as to exempt them from taxation. He also found that the term "dormitory" was not broad enough to include property where meals were regularly prepared and served.

Exempt Prior to 1930
After officials of Riley and Douglas counties in 1930 assessed the property, the fraternities and sororities combined and filed a suit to compel the removal of the assessments and to recover taxes paid under protest pending final disposition of the case. Thirty-two organizations at Kansas State college and 53 at Baldwin and Lawrence are involved in the case.

Hearings at which members of various Greek organizations gave testimony were held a few months ago by a commissioner appointed by the supreme court. Arguments were heard and briefs were filed with the commissioner for study in arriving at his conclusions.

Kansas State college organizations seek to restrain collection of $27,890 in 1930 taxes and $22,965 in 1931 taxes. Fraternities at K. U. and Baker university challenge $32,908 levied against them in 1930. The greater portion of the taxes was assessed on real estate.

FORMER R. O. T. C. HEAD DIES IN WASHINGTON

Heart Failure Fatal to Col. F. W.
Bugbee—Was Twice Decorated for Bravery

Colonel Fred W. Bugbee, head of the college military department from 1924 to 1926, died in Walter Reed hospital in Washington on Friday, May 13, at the age of 56. Heart disease was the cause of his death. Interment was made in Arlington National Cemetery last Monday.

Colonel Bugbee's first experience in the regular army was in Theodore Roosevelt's regiment of Rough Riders with which he fought in the Spanish-American war.

He was commissioned a second lieutenant by the President at the end of the war in Cuba. He served next in the Philippines and upon his return to the United States, served two years in Fort Leavenworth. He served as Lieutenant Colonel in the World War and was promoted to colonel at the end of the war.

After leaving Kansas State college he attended the War college in Washington, D. C. Later he was with the Eighth infantry in South Carolina. Colonel Bugbee was acting as chief of infantry in Washington, D. C., at the time of his death. He has received many awards for his gallantry and was a veteran of two wars. He was awarded the purple heart decoration for his services in Santiago, Cuba.

A son, Cornell Bugbee, Kansas State college graduate, is now with the Goodyear Tire company, Singa-

Wash. D. C.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

College professors believe the state legislature thinks more of its cows than it does its teachers. In spite of the fact this institution's appropriations have been cut, (and the salaries, too, in case you haven't heard), the dairy barn which the ag division has been praying for since 1910, will probably be erected.

Manhattan, the convention city of Kansas, will be host to another convention next August (the hottest month of the year in Kansas), when the chapter, or is it chapters, of Phi Lambda Theta, national Greek organization, will meet here.

After flunking history and taking it for a second time, a senior has accepted a position to teach facts about our forefathers next year. . . . College students must have single tracked minds. When the newswires ran on the baseball field the other day with the first extra on the finding of the Lindbergh baby, the enthusiastic fans continued to chew gum and much peanuts, trying in vain to remember, "Who's the Lindbergh baby?"

After taking a salary cut, Professor Thompson has devised other means of bringing in an income. He was seen carrying two cats into the zoology department the other day. . . . Literary minded students exerted their poetic license Saturday when they hitched their wagons to a tractor and went a-ridin'. . . . Two affectionate students, believing themselves hidden from the world's prying eyes, fondly embraced on the garden bed of the greenhouse, while students in the upper story of the hort building looked on. . . . A bug in the hand is worth two in the air, thought several entomology students at the baseball game, who weren't so interested in the contest that they couldn't keep up with their school work. . . . Student militarists may have to train at home this summer if the present bill now up in Congress is passed. No doubt they will lose some of this wartime spirit as they plod their solitary miles carrying packs and guns. . . .

A SENIOR'S DUTY. Shortly after graduation exercises on June 2, perhaps 400 of the 420 seniors will sigh, take off their caps and gowns, and say "I'm surely glad that this college life is over with," or something like that. They'll be glad to "get away from it all" for a while. Perhaps some of them will think that graduation severs all relationships with a college.

Graduation is only one of the more important moments in a graduate's connection with his alma mater. A degree is more than a certificate informing the world at large that one has completed the scholastic requirements necessary to be recognized as a bachelor of science in engineering, general science, agricultural, or other courses.

A person accepting a degree from a college obligates himself to serve that college in any manner within reason. It doesn't mean that he should sacrifice all to be a praise-shouting, banner-waving "loyal son of Siwash." But it does mean that he is obligated to serve his alma mater in just lots of ways which may seem so small and unimportant that they do not matter at all.

Colleges and universities maintain alumni associations to make it easier to keep tab on their graduates. Alumni associations are the only means of directing the concerted efforts of graduates toward a definite objective—and there is lots for alumni associations to do for colleges.

Kansas State has an alumni association with a membership of about 2,000. Of that number, 1200 are life members, with 600 life memberships paid in full.

The cost of a life membership in the Alumni association at Kansas State is $50, payable in almost any manner the alumnus chooses. A life membership entitles one to a subscription to the Kansas Industrialist, the official college publication, for life, besides membership in the association. When no life membership is bought, the yearly due to the association is $3.

The Alumni association at Kansas State now has $42,000 in the Alumni Loan Fund, which makes it possible for many students, otherwise unable, to attend college. That is only one of the association's services to the college.

It is hoped that graduating seniors will not forget their obligation to Kansas State. If you are getting your degree this spring, just stop to recount what Kansas State has done for you—and then do your bit for her.

The Snooper

The Snooper, surprisingly enough, has taken time out to study for finals. The editor of the Collegian in an effort to keep that inquisitive individual on the job, exercised his powers of persuasion, his magnetic personality, and finally pointed out that a Snooper could get his grades by blackmail. But to no avail. The Snooper, like Brutus, is an honest man. (Hollow laughter.)

A whole week has gone by and now a goddess or queen elected! What the hells' the matter with this Royal Purple.

The Student Council has outlawed tonight's battle of bands between June Layton's Varsity club and Bernie Cummins, imported melody master. College students attending the dance must suffer the consequences (and in this case, friend, consequences may be more than a bruised corn and a heavy headache.) How about a dedication to the student council, Mr. Varsity Club, of something like—well, for instance, "My Buddy."

The Athletes had a picnic Sunday. Great strong men went primitive and cavorted about in sweaters and rain and synthetic happiness. He-Man Wertzberger and a keg of beer went wild. Wertzberger, however, had no effect on the beer.

The Manhattan moralists, having successfully squelched Sunday movies, have gotten lax. Fancy that. Last week they allowed the carnival "hoochie kootchie" dancer full sway. Goldie's Night Club also flourished, and many the innocent college youths that were enticed within its evil doors. If the Snooper had an imagination, he could visualize the custodians of the morals having one last wild fling behind the closed doors of Goldie's. But then, the Snooper has no imagination. Ho, hum!

Willie Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, is to address this year's 420 jobless young grads. Which some of us call sheer irony. Whatever Willie has to say about the situation may be darn sheer, too.

Bert Pearson, superlative athlete, took himself and his contents to that little rendezvous known as the Spanish Village, recently. Details deleted, not by censor, by ignorance. Anyway, so the story goes, someone started to summon the sheriff by phone. Maybe Bert thought his was going to be the losing team. There isn't much safety in predicting just what he did think by that time. Suffice it to say he made a flying tackle for the unoffending little phone and tore it from the wall by the roots. Which cost him, they say, fifty bucks and costs in addition to what his old man did: which wasn't to cough up the fifty bucks.

There's much more gossip to tell, but the Snooper wouldn't think of diverting the minds of his readers—if any—from finals! Instead, he drinks to your good luck in strong black coffee and midnight oil.

Book Review

"MOURNING BECOMES ELECTRA"

(By Eugene O'Neill)

"Mourning Becomes Electra" is undoubtedly the most important play of the year—"Of These I Sing" notwithstanding.

O'Neill has conceived a modern setting based on the old Greek tragedy "Aegemmonon." "Mourning Becomes Electra" is a trilogy of three plays—"The Homecoming," "The Hunted," and "The Haunted."

"The Homecoming" portrays the preparation for, and the arrival of Ezra Mannon—a Civil War General—and a soldier of many other battles. The character of Ezra Mannon is based on Aegemmonon in the Greek tragedy. Christine Mannon, his wife, comparable to Clytemnestra, has fallen in love with Adam Brant—a sea captain—and a nephew of the old General. When her husband returns she poisons him. Lavinia—the modern "Electra"—who hates her mother is the only one who knows that Christine killed Ezra Mannon. In the "Hunted," Lavinia invites her brother to kill her mother's lover—as Electra incited Cretes in the Greek play. The mother—having never had the love of Lavinia, and having lost the love of Orin, her son, and having lost her lover, kills herself.

"The Haunted" portrays the result of the tragedy. Orin, obsessed with the knowledge that he is responsible for his mother's death begins to hate the entire Mannon family—which has hidden a great deal of dishonorable conduct. He writes a record of the family—making Lavinia the villainess. Lavinia—who has been about to marry a local lover—closes up the Mannon house and decides to live in seclusion.

The play is powerful as literature and as a theatrical production achieves marked intensity. It is a harking back to the classical conception of tragedy and supports the Greek theory by its effectiveness. There is no denying that it is depressing—but it creates an impression you will like to cling to.

At The Theatre

AT THE DICKINSON

"Night Court"

Whether or not this story of court corruption is really exposing conditions in American courts, it has a marvelously constructed plot, and a capable all-star cast to handle the well-written lines. Phillip Holmes and Anita Page are innocent victims of an intricate net-work of corruption woven by Justice Walter Huston. "Night Court" builds up to a thrilling climax that solves the seemingly unsolvable tangle, with Walter Huston giving his usual powerful characterization.—E. G.

AT THE WAREHAM

"Misleading Lady"

Claudette Colbert has to prove to a director that she can play the part of a siren. Edmund Lowe is the unsuspecting victim—for awhile, but when he scents a plot against him, the suave Mr. Lowe provides a few unexpected thrills for the would-be dramatic star. The situation in a lonely cabin in the woods is complicated by Stuart Erwin as an escaped maniac whose conduct is always baffling. He adds the only suspense to the unceremonious story.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

"Viennese Nights"

This tuneful operetta has its appeal in its characterizations and lovely romance amid a background of well blended, yet clear, color.

The gay costumes, flashing soldiers of the Emperor, and night scenes in the beer gardens of old Vienna all prove that technicolor has its own place in film production.

And the sweet love tale of Elsa, (Vivian Segal), for the young music student, Otto, (played by Alexander Gray), was broken by the father, Jean Hersholt. The realization of the musician's dreams to compose a great symphony achieved when the play moves to modern times, and Elsa, now a grandmother, hears the songs Otto had sung to her at a symphony concert. Louise Fazenda and Bert Roach add comedy enough to brighten the feature which had an otherwise sad element.—m. h.

Among The Ags

By Jean Scheel

Yesterday's visitors were attending the annual agronomy field day. On this day visitors from over the state are shown about the experimental plots on the agronomy farm and are given object lessons in correct crop practices. The guests seemed very interested but the popularity of the drinking water container-mounted on the truck which accompanied the tour might indicate a slight dryness somewhere.

"Numberless—as the hairs of a man's head," may seem quite infinite, but the individual rows of grain grown in the plant breeding experimental plots of the agronomy farm are numbered and the history and characteristics of each are recorded in record books. There are some 4,300 rows of wheat.

The agronomists, by the way, got the idea for a picnic and held one Sunday. No casualties were reported and a good time was had by at least part of those attending.

Quite noticeable improvements in the parking lots north of the Ag buildings have recently been made. The parkways have been surfaced with sand and posts and guide wires have been installed to promote orderly parking.

Donald Isaacson has more reason than most of us to kick about the way that the co-called depression has affected farming. Isaacson had arrangements made whereby he was to spend this summer working on a million-dollar farm in New York state. Hard times have caused drastic changes in the working force at the farm and Isaacson does not now expect to go. However, he maintains that it is still a swell farm, everything from fish to buffalo being raised there. The owner of the concern has offered it to the state of New York to be used as an experiment station but the state declined the offer on the grounds that the upkeep was more than could be afforded.

Evidently Prof. H. H. Haymaker has his doubts as to the religious education of the younger generation. He explained in one of his recent lectures that Genesis is the first book in the Bible.

The Block and Bridge club judging contest Saturday was well entered. There were 60 entrants in the freshman division, some of the number probably having been inspired by the fact that there were six prizes and five entrants in the freshman division of the agronomy contest a week ago.

Some freshman was heard to remark, while watching the bottling machine in the college creamery, "That would be great in a distillery." The machine fills and caps bottles automatically and efficiently. It works on either pints or quarts, only a minor adjustment being necessary for the change.

Jimmy Ketchersid has made somewhat of a name for himself as a taste tester in his dairy lab class. Other members of the class simply ask him whether the latest concoction is good to eat or not. Jimmy tastes things almost before they're made.

Rumor has it that one of the ags made hay while the moon shown the other night by making way with a grass skirt belonging to one of the hula girls at the recently departed carnival.

The Top of the World will be the destination of the Wesley Foundation league on a Sunday hike May 22. The group will remain after the picnic for a sunset service.

On Other Hills

By Frederick A. Peery

Some one said finals were almost here, which means that students may have three months in which to catch up on their sleep, and in which to help their fond parents in the fields or kitchens.

Here's a hot one. Two co-eds at the University of Idaho are students of Icelandic. One of them plans to go to Iceland to study the country's interior decorating.

At Coe College, Iowa, the most popular dance of the school year is called Flunkers' Frolic. It is given in honor of those students who have been requested to leave school because of low marks.

The Daily Nebraskan at the University of Nebraska gives us a low-down on how students there earn their bread and butter. Sandwich, apple and popcorn boys make the rounds of the fraternity and sorority houses each evening. One man runs a shoe hospital wherein old shoes are made to look like new. The "term paper graft" is in full swing and many enterprising students are collecting their quota of term papers to write. Tuxing is also popular.

Students in Spanish at Oklahoma A. and M. have translated the story of "Little Red Riding Hood" into Spanish and will present it as a play.

Only 29 out of 215 law students of the University of Kansas passed their state bar examinations recently. Professors at the university attribute this to the fact that all of the men had one more semester of schooling before graduation.

Coach C. S. Moll's Squad Wins Match 6-0—Display Best Form Of This Season

Displaying their best form of the season, the Wildcat racquet wielders buried the Kansas Wesleyan Crew under a barrage of lobs and drives Wednesday, 6-0. In a previous meet at Salina, the two teams tied.

Coach Moll's men won every match in both the singles and doubles.

Ralph Graham played his best game of the season in winning his singles match from Miller, 1-6, 6-4, 6-2. In the other singles matches Hoglund defeated Lindsey 6-2, 6-2; Larson won from Springer 6-3, 6-2; and Dean took Lindeman into camp 6-2, 6-3.

In the doubles Larson and Graham beat Springer and Miller in straight sets 6-1, 6-3, while Hoglund and Larson experienced a little more difficulty winning from Lindsey and Lindeman 4-6, 6-3, and 6-2.

A match with Iowa State is scheduled for the Wildcat courts Saturday. The only available information regarding the strength of the Iowa quartet according to Coach Moll is the fact that they tied Missouri. The Wildcats beat the Tigers early this year. If the Mollmen can exhibit the same brand of tennis Saturday that they did Wednesday they should be able to dispose of the Cyclones in easy fashion.

Two Teams Now Tied For First Place In W. A. A. Contest

The intramural cup for participation in sports will be awarded to the team which has excelled in ability to play, interest in athletics, and sportsmanship during the school year by the Women's Athletic association at a formal dinner, 6:15 o'clock, Thursday, May 19, at the Methodist Episcopal church.

The cup winner has not been decided. "The results of the tennis tournament will decide between two teams which are now tied for first place," Miss Katherine Geyer of the women's physical education department said.

Other awards will be made to individuals who have earned "K" blankets, "K" sweaters, stars and chevrons, red and blue cap awards, and life saving crosses. This recognition ends the year's activity of the association.

Miss Helen Hostetter will speak on sports in the far east after the dinner. Music by Paul Westerman's trio and a group dance directed by Charlotte Remick are on the program.

Helen Morgan, Newton, is chairman of the program committee. Betty Wagstaff, Topeka, is president of W. A. A.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood

These Indians seen in action last Saturday were fair hitters connecting safely off Bulkstra and Lowell 18 times. Many of their hits were of the doubtful type, just carrying over the infield. Four runs were chalked against Bulkstra on these poop hits, and a team is powerless against them.

Frankie Prentup's four base knock hit on the two-inch top of the score board and then ricocheted on over the rightfield fence.

Auker went into the game in right field just in time to watch two Indian hits go over his head and the fence—one of these hits rang off the bat of Meachem, the centerfielder, and was the hardest hit ball seen on the college diamond this year—it didn't get 30 feet high all the journey to the fence.

Lefty Lowell is the peer of rescue hurlers. Twice he has entered the game with the gases jammed and held the team from scoring—once he forced the opposition into a double play—and Saturday the first man hit to him to be tossed out at first.

Carideo will probably take over the football reins at Missouri this fall. He was Rockne's quarterback through two undefeated seasons—and a unanimous choice for All-American two successive years.

In a game that featured 37 hits, 9 errors and 35 runs, the Kansas university ball club reversed the Oklahoma squad at Lawrence 1817.

Washington's present standing in the pennant chase belies the old saying—first in war, first in peace, but last in the American League.

Coach Charley Corsaut took his 1923 Wyandotte high school basketball club through 45 straight games without a defeat including the National Interscholastic tourney at Chicago. The team doubled the score on the other finalist.

In a ball game at Fort Riley last Sunday this writer saw, the often discussed sport oddity, a left handed catcher. He had a potent arm and the fact that it hung on the wrong side bothered him none, and the base runners had to be wary to escape its deadliness.

Barry Wood, great All-American quarterback from Harvard, was given credit for being a five letter man if rugby were a major sport in a recent collegiate publication. The writer overlooked his Phi Beta Kappa key, presidency of the senior class, and the presidency of his social fraternity—and a member of every honorary organization for which he is eligible. To top it all off he is modest and considered without a peer for all around good fellowship—and some of our great athletes strut.

Kiesel, California track star who turned in the time of 9.5 for the century in a recent meet will not run in the Olympic tryouts—because he doesn't like to run.

Gurgoo King, Derby and Preakness winner, made over $100,000 for his owner in 8 days—he also joined Gallant Fox, and Sir Barton the only other horses to win both of these races. Sir Barton was the great Canadian horse that suffered a decisive defeat for mthe peerless Man O' War.

Jimmy Paxon has lost his batting eye—only .461 to date. Chick Hafey is still wearing his specks and they have hapened him some as his average of .443 shows.

INDIANS DOWN WILDCATS WITH THREE HOMERS

next inning they scored four more on a double, a single, a fielder's choice, and three singles. Bulkstra walked the next man and Lowell took over mound duty to retire the side. Lowell checked the Indian scoring until the final frame when McNeivins and Locust lifted two over the right field wall for circuit wallops. These two blows proved to be the margin of victory.

Prentup Hits a Homer With one on in the seventh.

GIRLS Do Not Smoke Pipes

THE GIRLS haven't left us many of our masculine rights. They fly our airplanes, drive our cars, smoke our cigarettes—but they don't smoke our pipes! They've left us this one manly right, anyway.

A man almost has to smoke a pipe nowadays. A pleasant necessity! For a pipe filled with good tobacco is just about the best smoke a man could want.

And if you're troubled about selecting a tobacco, remember that Edgeworth is the popular favorite in 42 out of 54 colleges. It somehow seems to fit the college man's taste. Edgeworth is cut especially for pipes, it burns slowly, it gives a cool smoke. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or, for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 100 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Frank Prentup sent one out of the lot to bring the Wildcat total to four. Three errors, a walk, fielder's choice, and a single accounted for three more in the ninth, making the score 7-0, but Darling tightened up and retired the side before further damage could be inflicted.

The Corsautmen close the 1932 season in a two-game series with Kansas university at Lawrence today and tomorrow.

Prentup, Fairbank, and Auker Close Collegiate Athletic Career At Kansas State In K. U. Series

Kansas State defeated Kansas university, 12-1 and 8-4, last Tuesday and Wednesday. Elden Auker, star Wildcat hurler, finished his college career by pitching victories in both games. Tuesday Auker struck out 13 batters and allowed three hits while driving out three safe hits himself. In the Wednesday game Auker allowed six hits and struck out nine.

The games this week brought the Wildcat season to a close with a record of five victories and four defeats. For the Wildcats Captain Prentup, Auker, and Fairbank close their college career. Prentup ended his collegiate competition by hitting safely seven times out of ten and playing errorless ball in the field. In his three years on the Wildcat team, he has consistently played good baseball and will be missed by the team next year. Elden Auker, a nine letter man, finishes a great athletic career, in which he was selected as a member of the all Big Six teams in both basketball and football. In baseball he lost only two games in three years on the mound. Fairbank, a three-sport man, did not report for baseball until this spring, but he has played fine baseball in the games this year.

In the two games this week, the Wildcat team showed much improvement. Continued on page 4

LAWRENCE MUSICIANS RETURN COMPLIMENT

Club's Program Here Tuesday Evening in Exchange for Former Manhattan One

Members of the Lawrence Music club appeared in recital at recreation center Tuesday evening. The program was under the auspices of the Manhattan Music club and was in exchange for a two-piano recital by Mrs. H. T. Hill and Mrs. Frank Root at Lawrence last spring.

Members of the Lawrence club who were here were Edna Hopkins, violinist; Dorothy Enlow, pianist; and Mrs. Roy Underwood, contralto. Roy Underwood was accompanist. He is an associate professor in the school of fine arts at the University of Kansas.

Mrs. J. W. Lumb introduced the members of the club, who announced their program as follows: Piano solos, "Prelude in C Major," Fryer; "Toccata in D Minor," Leschetzky; "Papillons," Rosenthal; and "E Flat Major Polonaise," Chopin; Mrs. Underwood sang "Lithuanian Song," Chopin; "Moon Marketing," Weaver; "An Old Song," Buchanan; and "The Second Minuet."

Miss Hopkins, violinist, accompanied by Miss Enlow, played the largetto and allegretto movements from a Sonata by Carpenter. "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from "Samson and Delilah" by Saint-Saens, was sung by Mrs. Underwood as the concluding number of the program. Miss Hopkins played the violin obligato.

Especially enjoyable were the "Lithuanian Song" by Mrs. Underwood, and the "Toccata in D Minor" by Miss Enlow. Mr. Underwood's sympathetic accompaniments added much to the program. He seemed to enter into the spirit of each song, this being especially noticeable in "Moon Marketing."

BUT IT ISN'T VANILLA

Water Has Flavor All Its Own For Unexplainable Cause

An unpleasant taste noticeable during the past few days from various fountains in the college buildings may be due to the warmer weather. G. R. Pauling, superintendent of the heat and power plant, said.

Although he said it was just a conjecture, Mr. Pauling said the taste may be explained by the increase in the amount of water used with the advent of summer weather. Students have noticed an especially strong flavor in the water from the fountain in education hall, and it has been easily noticed in the fountains of Anderson, horticulture and other buildings. The taste is similar to the mineral water of health springs.

KANSAS GREEKS CONSIDERING PLAN OF RETALIATION

K. U. HOUSE ASSOCIATION MEETS TO DISCUSS FRATERNITY TAX BILL

FAVOR COOPERATIVE BUYING

Organizations Favor Program of Non-Cooperation with City and University Officials in Event of Frat Tax

Fraternities and sororities at Kansas university, up in arms over the proposed taxation of their real estate and ritualistic properties, are attempting to organize a plan of group buying and non-cooperation with the university and Lawrence Chamber of Commerce for their failure to aid the fraternities in their fight against the fraternity tax bill.

J. Allan Coogan, chairman of the publicity committee of the House Presidents association at K. U., announced the outcome of a conference between Coogan, Kenneth Slocum, president of the organization, and Clayton Flood, president of the Men's Pen-Hellenic association, who was invited to participate in the session held Monday afternoon, May 16.

The consensus of opinion among the Greek letter heads is that the supreme court will accept the opinion and conclusions of C. E. Vance, Garden City, special master of the court, who heard the testimony in the suit pressed by Douglas and Riley county officials to tax the organizations houses.

"The majority of the house presidents," Coogan said, "feel the university could have contributed a great deal to the fraternities' cause. It is the opinion of most of us that since the university failed to come to our aid, we should not be obligated to extend to guests of the university and of the city of Lawrence such courtesies as we have in the past."

"It has been the custom for some years to house members of visiting teams during the Kansas Relays and to meet any such calls for other cooperation as might be made by the Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations."

"I believe this refusal on the part of the university to aid will result in the discontinuance of this policy."

It is understood, according to Coogan, that bids of out-of-town merchants will be looked upon favorably if the co-operative buying plan is adopted.

Vance's conclusions, announced last Friday night, stated in summary, that in the opinion of the special master, the fraternity and sorority organizations throughout the state should pay real estate taxes on ritualistic equipment.

MUSIC STUDENTS PLEASE IN THIS WEEK'S RECITAL

Coming Musical Entertainments Include Program By Hilda Grossman's Voice Class

Three student recitals have been sponsored in the past week by the Kansas State college department of music. Helen Durham, senior in the department, the ensemble class taught by Miss Clarice Painter, and the conducting 11 and orchestral instruments classes taught by Lydie Downey presented the programs.

The always popular Saint-Saens "Dance Macabre," a duo-piano number played by Grace Umberger and Mabel Russell; "Scherzo, Op. 165," (Schubert) by Mabel Russell, piano, Marjorie Fyfe, violin, and Marjorie Fitch, cello; and "Sous Bois" (Victor Staub) two-piano by Alice Bozarth and Miss Painter, were the favorite numbers on the program Friday afternoon.

The adagio and allegro from Mozart's "Sonata in B flat Major," played as a duet by Helen Louis, Davis and Esther Steuwe; "Oberon," a Polish dance, (Frim) two-piano by Bernice Covey, Shirley Jacobs, Vera Trusler, and Julia Crow; "cello-violin" trio; "Schneidesches Volkslied" (Svensen); and "The Jester" (Becher) duo-piano by Alice Bozarth and Miss Painter, completed the program.

The classes taught by Professor Downey demonstrated the work done from first to third-year Tuesday afternoon. The program was given by a viola duo with piano accompaniment; string, violin, and vocal ensembles; cello-violin-piano trio; and the orchestra. Members of the conducting class directed the ensembles. The attacks under Maurice Schruben's conducting were good. Schruben needs only to lighten up his beats a little and stand more easily.

Helen Durham, presenting her senior recital, sang especially well the recitative aria "Then Weep! O Grief-Worn Eyes" from LeClid, by Massenet; and "O Come, Father," by Crist. Other numbers on the program were "Love's a Dear Deceitful Jewel" and "The Birds No More Shall Sing" by Handel; "Gentle Shepherd," arranged by Endicott; "When I Bring to You Corded Toys," Carpenter; "Serenade," Barnett; and three French songs, "Reve Blanc," Truco; "L'ile Heureuse," Chabrier; and "Berceuse, Amoureuse," Stearns.

Coming recitals are those by voice pupils of Miss Hilda Grossman, at 8 o'clock Monday, May 23; and by Margaret Spencer at 4:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon, May 22.—E. W.

GIRLS' SEXTETTE FORMED

by Members of 4-H Club

A girls' sextette has been recently organized in the 4-H club under the supervision of Miss Ruth Hartman of the music department. The following girls were selected after tryouts: Esther Johnson, Ottawa; Opal Bowers, Payette, Idaho; Velda Winder, Valley Falls; Verna Melbert, Lorraine; Gladys Bratton, Walden; and Wilma Cook, Larned, with Mildred Porter, Mt. Hope, pianist.

The girls have sung twice in radio programs and last night they sang at the regular 4-H club meeting. The members of the sextette are all sophomores or freshmen, and plan to continue the organization next year under the guidance of Miss Hartman.

THREE RECEIVE BLANKETS

Marjorie Lyles, Charlotte Remick, and Galvesta Sleever Are Presented Highest Award of Association

After a close race with several organizations, Alpha Xi Delta and a team tied for possession of the intramural cup presented each year to the team winning the most points in intramural competition. Number of players participating, sportsmanship, money to play and number of games played and won are considered in awarding the cup. Names of team which will be kept in the Alpha Xi Delta house since the X team is not an organized group. If one team remains in the hands of one team for three years it becomes a permanent possession. Phi Omega Chi held the cup last year.

Marjorie Lyles, Saffordville, Charlotte Remick and Galvesta Sleever, Manhattan, received the purple and white "K" blankets, highest award of the Women's Athletic association, at the W. A. A. banquet last night at the Methodist Episcopal church. This recognition is given only to a limited number of seniors after four years of outstanding work in physical education and association activities.

Honors awarded at the banquet represent the work of the complete year and come at the conclusion of the last seasonal sport. These recognitions include "K" sweaters for Charlotte Remick, Manhattan; Lynn Larson, Wichita; and Cora Oliphant, Olathe, who have earned 400 points in intramural competition. For 500 points shields were awarded to Avis Tallow, White City; Helen Hoffman, Haddam; Corinne Bell, Potter; and Miss Fishney, Cleburne.

Cheerleaders, representing 1200 to 1800 points, were given to Galvesta Sleever, Ruth Silkenson, Dell Rapids, S. D.; and Marjorie Lyles, Galvesta Sleever, Esther Hobson, and Alice Brill Westmoreland, won stars for 1000 points.

Bit and Bridge awards were presented to Mary Jordan, Beloit, and Clara Bess Garrison, Lincolnville, by Bit and Bridge riding club. Frog club recognized Esther Hobson, Katherine McKinney, Bartlesville, Okla.; and Jean Dexter, Columbus, Go.

Foreign sports were discussed by Miss Helen Hossetter of the department of journalism, the principal speaker. Having lived in China, Miss Hossetter recounted some of her experiences in athletic work with far east women.

Group dancing directed by Charlotte Remick was given by members of the association. During the dinner Paul Westerman and his trio played. Helen Morgan, Newton, was chairman of the program committee.

HARD LOSERS.

Greeks at the University of Kansas see the handwriting on the wall. They have abandoned all hope of winning the battle with the State Tax Commission. In conceding a victory to Special Master Vance, attorney for the commission, they blame the University for not coming to the aid of the fraternities and sororities in their period of distress. "It is the opinion of most of us (the house presidents) that since the University failed to come to our aid, we should not henceforth feel in any way obligated to extend to guests of the University and of the city of Lawrence such courtesies as we have in the past."—So goes the statement of the house presidents' association.

And as an additional retaliatory measure, the organizations are planning a co-operative buying pool to punish the business men of Lawrence who did not rally round the flag when the Greeks uttered their battle cry. According to the chairman of the publicity committee of the association, the bids of out-of-town wholesalers will receive favorable consideration.

The fraternities are not going to throw open wide the doors of their houses, and show the visiting athletes what good fellows the Kansas boys can be. Members of visiting athletic teams can either go to the hotels or bring their tents along with them from now on, and the Greeks won't feel hurt.

Such tactics remind one of the neighbor boy who picked up his toys and went home because he couldn't win all the games. "Un petit geste," the French would call it.

There is a motto on the bulletin boards of most gymnasiums which says "It is not whether you won or lost, but how you played the game."

Sorrows remembered sweeten present joy.
—Robert Pollok.

The sport pages these days are overflowing with pictures of female pole vaulters and broad jumpers who will compete in the Olympic games. In our usual tolerant way, we can see no reason why there shouldn't be women athletes in the Olympic competitions, but on the other hand we defy anyone to give us one good reason why there should be.—Chanute Tribune.

THE SAME OLD QUESTION.

Students and instructors are now faced with the same old question of final examinations. Students, of course, believe that the final examination is superfluous. Most instructors, following the will of the administrative body, believe that the final examination is an essential part of the curriculum.

We, being students, believe that the final examination is just another headache. After all, the instructor, if he has conducted his course in an intelligent manner should know just about how much the student has learned in the course. Why then should we have a final?

In one course that we are taking, the final will determine our grade. The instructor has lectured all semester and has given no examinations. The students must spend the night before the fateful day cramming, so a presentable mark can be made in the final and only attempt.

Some schools have adopted a series of examinations to take the place of the final. Students are quizzed over the work as they go along in the course. This is a stride forward from the English system of education. We do not follow the English system of teaching, so why should we follow their system in examining the student.

The greatest argument put forward against the use of finals is that the slacker can cram up on facts at the end of the semester and make as good a grade as the student who has worked all year.

Something in it; but we do feel that a better means could be found for determining the intelligence of students. The final examination is not only hard on the health of the student, but puts an extra burden on the instructor who gives the final.

We are in favor of a series of examinations. After all, it is impossible to conceive that a student can put down in three hours all that he has learned in the course of eighteen weeks of school.—The University Daily Kansan.

But woe awaits a country when She sees the tears of bearded men.—Scott.

MR. "AVERAGE STUDENT."

Probably nothing is more characteristic of the imitative childishness of most college students than the fear of being different. A new idea, a startling originality, is anathema. The tendency is to remain at everyone else's level, not to create or establish a level of one's own.

Colorful individuals are a joy to whom existence is something more than routine. But how rare they are! The majority accept their ideals readymade, pick up current catch-phrases as their conversational basis, and limit their outlook to clothes, parties, and small talk. Rarely do they get beyond the shallow waters of daily life. If by any miracle a stray new thought enters their heads, it is promptly suppressed through lack of intellectual courage. Consequently, the usual personality is looked on as as more suitable for side shows than the human scene.

True, it will be held that the university is helpless, and that the sorry work of individual maladjustment was completed long before the student came to the campus. True, the burden of the blame rests with the stupidities that have shaped "Mr. Average Student" since he first saw light of day.

Why start a new day with yesterday's shadows? This college blight of "Mr. Average" should be dismembered, unbandaged, and dissected piece by piece and some of the more harmful bones taken out and supplanted by a new outlook and rational judgment.

But as the Higher Powers have not conferred on men the gift of seeing themselves in their true light, probably this unfortunate element of too many Babbitts and too few leaders will be a perennial college disease. — California State College Aztec.

Wherever you see a poet, you will usually discover money somewhere in the offering.

POLITICALLY MINDED STUDENTS—

With the coming conventions for the nominations of presidential candidates for the fall election almost here, the college and university students of America are showing a lively interest in politics. At the University of North Carolina a mock presidential convention already has been held. The University of Chicago will have one on June 1. At the University of Minnesota the sympathizers of the Communist party of the United States recently held a political rally.

Do such conventions indicate a desire on the part of college men and women in America to engage actively in politics, and control the destiny of this land? Such a thing is being done in Europe, and many nations there are being aided materially by the younger generation, and especially by the university students. The average American student realizes that he is not yet capable of running a government such as ours. But he is making an honest effort to find out who are best qualified to fill our public offices.

There apparently have been several factors that have caused the American student to take a deeper interest in governmental problems. The present economic condition, the eighteenth amendment and the crime situation are among the many vital issues that have caught and held the student's attention.

Students should be encouraged to take a greater interest in politics while in college, for, as the citizens of tomorrow, the burdens of carrying on the business of their nation will fall directly upon their shoulders. Any interest or enthusiasm in their government that may be imbedded in their minds by mock conventions or political rallies will aid them in their later days to understand the inner workings of real governmental machinery.—Indiana Daily Student.

No veteran political reporter ever attends a democratic harmony banquet without wearing shin-guards and shoulder-pads.—Paul Y. Anderson.

The Snooper

The old Snooper, with a vacation of one issue, is now trodding upon the heels of various instructors. By various, we mean two. There are three more yet to receive attention.

It is noticeable that a hush has settled upon Aggieville haunts recently. The fact bears full indication that only a minority have kept pace with pedagogs throughout the semester. Conversation has changed from idle remarks about the weather to, "Say, what about those psychology notes you promised me a month ago?" or "Look around your house for some last year's quiz papers."

Beta Theta Pi is keeping up with the times by inserting one of its younger members into the realm of big business. The morning papers carry advertising material announcing that Gerald Stewart of 500 Sunset has become college agent for the Fuller Brush company.

Can this mean, by any chance, that Jerry will sacrifice his prospective jazz band by abandoning his piano lessons this summer? It's a grave step you've taken, me lad.

There is the story making its rounds that Sigma Phi Epsilon and Chi Omega have been playing postoffice. The recent engagement of Vera Kellogg and Ralph Hay enters into the affair in that the pair acted as postmistress and postmaster respectively. Chi Omega rushes had not been formally introduced to Hay and were forced to continue "waitin' for the evenin' mail." The information was furnished unwittingly by Student Council President Maurice DuMars, who sat on the curb west of Kedzie rehearsing the tale for the most effective method of springing it on the budding journalists inside.

Those war-scarred veterans of June Layton's who have come through two terrific battles of hands recently will officiate at a varsity in the Wareham tonight. Their battles have been fought in more or less outlawed territory and their triumphal return from the crusades will be welcomed by patriotic members of the student body.

We have at last discovered the reason for "Pop" Washburn's enthusiastic and brittle commands during his morning exercise period over station KSAC. L. P. is sometimes late to do his turn at the "mike!" By the time he races to the third floor of Nichols gym on the dead run he has only enough breath to bark the orders. It's got enthusiasm at all.

It is rumored one of the college deans was offered a position on another college faculty, and seriously considered making a change when he discovered the institution offering the position was also cutting salaries. . . . Coods who have been secretly wearing the little jeweled tokens of affection next to their warm and palpitating hearts will come brazenly forth that night, declaring to the world at large that their hand has been won. . . . Many a jobless Phi Kappa Phi is probably wishing he had spent more time in Nichols gymnasium, and less time in the library. Elden Aulker, the pitching ace and nine-lettered athlete of Kansas State fame, has a chance to play ball with the Detroit Tigers. And it's said, when he signs his contract he'll get $500, and hereafter $750 a month during the season. Whottaman, whottajob, whottaprice. . . . Bernie Cummins' band playing at Bagdad Tuesday didn't sound a great deal better than June Layton's boys. Sammy Smith, that fiddlin' fool from Salina, gave to the local band that extra something which made all the familiar arrangements excellent some of these Cummins had worked out. Although most of the college crowd sat in cars near the pavilion listening to the two bands, a few of the more courageous ventured upon the floor. . . . Drugstores have given away to the library when it comes to popularity this week. All of the coke drinking campus congregation have been haunting the quiet of the college study hall, frantically reading those last minute references and writing those final reports. . . . The downfall of Rome is inconsequential in comparison to that suffered by Hal McCord, Kappa Sigma's pride and joy, since his election to the Student Council. The McCord became too obnoxious for the sophomore design class to tolerate. Threats of his classmates were unheeded. So The McCord was seized by the seat of his trousers and soused in a sink full of water. . . . Journalism students knoweth not on what they work. "Huddle"

A young steel mill worker goes to Yale and becomes the "man of steel" on the football team. But he is a hero with faults—he can't understand rich men's children, and they can't understand the fiery young Italian. But four years at school, a wise coach, Ralph Graves, and the right girl, Madge Evans, correct his short-comings. Atmosphere is thoughtfully created, and Navarro has a splendid vehicle in which to display his charming Latin accent to sing a beautiful Italian love-song and to portray an honest and lovable character.—E. ### AT THE WAREHAM

"Cock of the Air"

And yet another story of war and a woman. Not a single shot was heard, and the warfare all takes place between the alluring Billie Dove, as the darling of the Paris stage, and the dashing Chester Morris, an American ace. Billie is drawing too many soldiers to Paris, so on behalf of all the Allied nations, she is coaxed to vacation in Italy, and then we have an hour spent in display of technique, including some unadulterated slapstick. But it's all in fun, and the war manages not to interfere too much with the love-making.—E. G.

AT THE VARSITY

"The Girl of the Rio"

Pleasure in self-pride of the suave, but still greasy, Mexican egotist, Leo Carillo, saved "The Girl of the Rio" from continuing through infinite reels of similar ordeals of the "very pure" night club entertainer, Dolores Del Rio, and her American sweetheart, Norman Foster. The events ran through the usual framing of the hero, the heroine's resolve to sacrifice her honor, her foiled attempt at suicide, the several escapes and recapturing of the all concerned, to a final picture of the fat mean-man guzzling food.

The feature of the story is Dolores Del Rio photographed with Mexican scenery in the background. The movie provides some entertainment, and a little strained excitement.

DO YOU INHALE?

...wonder why cigarette advertising generally avoids this question?

ONE of the mysteries in cigarette advertising has been the apparent fear of the word "inhale." It seems rather foolish—for everybody inhales—whether they realize it or not...every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure that you don't inhale certain impurities.

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question... because when you smoke Luckies your delicate membranes get the protection no other cigarette affords. All other methods have been made old-fashioned by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do! So truly this message is for you.

"English Drape" Coat the Thing

But You Must Be Slender to Wear This Newest Garment With Bulging Breast and Tucked Sleeves

THIS Spring it's the "English drape" coat for young men—but you must be slender. The "fannies" are just out of luck because almost the whole smartness of the garment depends on a "suppressed" waistline. Snug and narrow at the waist and hips, the coat is almost "bulgy" in the breast, back and shoulders, although it has a neat, close-fitting neckline. A distinctive touch is found in the top of the sleeves, which have several "tucks" like those in trouser tops during the last few years. There is a slight bagginess at the shoulder blades and the sleeves taper to marked narrowness at the wrists. Imported from British custom tailors, the drape has found instant popularity in America and all manufacturers are showing it.

In color the young man's fancy turns to gray. Judging by what is demanded and worn by college men and young business men, the vogue is more definite than it was during the Fall and Winter and a greater and even more attractive variety of gray in both pattern and tone is offered.

The most distinctive development is a trend toward lighter grays, in which the shades run from ice cream to silver. Dark gray is also popular but the lighter shades are in the lead. Even when young men ask for blues and browns they want them dusted with gray and some smart effects in this type of suiting are being worn. Plain, severe colors are evidently going out except in flannels and flannel finished worsteds for sports and semi-sports wear.

As might be expected, the lighter gray vogue in suits is accompanied by a tendency to brighter colors in shirts and ties. Shirts in solid blues and greens or white shirts with fine stripes of blue, green, tan or lavender are popular, either with tab collars or white starched collars. Ties with cluster stripes in bright colors continue to prevail, with proper shirt and collar background.

Spring surveys show that some browns, which were much in style during the winter, are being worn. The most popular shade is very dark, verging on black, and is likely to be seen in an odd coat with gray trousers for informal, outdoor occasions. Another shade in brown is bronze, which seems to strike the fancy of some young men for similar purposes. Tweeds and crapes are said to hold about their usual popularity, especially for less formal wear when patch pockets or semi-sports clothes are appropriate.

There is greater variety than last year in self-pattern goods. Among them are trellis weaves, pebble weaves and spangle weaves. Miniature herringbones are also seen in large numbers. While spring check-ups do not show a crisis for checks they do reveal what may be the beginning of a revival of this pattern for sack suits and odd coats. It is a quiet, modest revival, however, as the checks are fine—small, sharp cut, 200 or more to the square inch, but very smart.

say books seem also to be quite popular with the spare time reader.

"Military Memoirs of a Confederate" by Alexander, has been used so much that a page is loose from its binding. "Safari" by Martin Johnson, has a back that is ravaged and torn through usage.

"A Message to Garcia" by Elbert Hubbard, a slender little white volume, has a very gray back, due to handling by many hands.

"The Royal Road to Romance," by Halliburton, has seen a great deal of use. A number of poetry and es-

IT'S a wise coed who chooses cool and comfortable white shoes this summer. You'll want your newest white shoes to be one of these clever meshed kids or fabrics, because they really are cool! Meshed and cutout sandals are some of the most appealing of these new shoes and you can find them all at the NU WAE SHOE STORE. In pumps, T-straps and ties, you'll find what you want here. At such exceptional prices—$2.94 and $3.94—Nu Wae shoes are values you should not miss.

THERE isn't much longer for you to enjoy picnics in all the favorite places and you'll want to have at least one more Sunday picnic or a farewell picnic. Whether to Pillsbury, Ashland bridge or Sunset park, you'll want to take along some of the delicious buns and fresh-baked bread from the B. and B. BAKERY at 225 Poyntz. And did you know that you can get the "crispest" potato chips here? The bakery is open on Sunday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock, too.

WHITE FOOTWEAR is really a success for summer! Classic pumps in white kid with large eyelet cutouts make the newest white shoes very cool and flattering to the foot. Of course, you need a pair to wear right now and the white shoes to be found at NY-GREN'S will appease your desire for cut-out shoes. SUMMER WEATHER spells permanent. There's nothing so difficult to keep looking "nice" in these hot Kansas summer days as your hair. Before you begin the season's vacation, assure yourself that your growing glory is truly that. The LADY BEAUTIFUL SHOP, 1346 Anderson, gives the most marvelous permanent waves with the new steam method for only $5.00, while the equally satisfactory waves with the Super-Curlene and Croquignole methods range from $2.50 to $4.00. Dial 2206 today for an appointment.

FOR the graduates who are not cated as yet, and who haven't a very good idea of what to do next, there is one thing that will be an advantage. Specialized training in secretarial courses—in shorthand and in typewriting—will be a valuable advantage for those graduates who will go out into commercial and business fields. With the background already attained by the college student in commerce and journalism courses, secretarial training will be an added "pull" for the graduates who will go out into any field. The summer school session of the SECRETARIAL SCHOOL at 1346 Poyntz will begin Monday, June 1. Students may enroll now to work in any spare time which they may have.

SUMMERY CLOTHES demand soft, wavy hair that gives the finishing touch to the "frilly" cool outfit. If you want your hair to be just right, call Helen O'Connell, 3138, at the CAMPUS BEAUTY SHOP for a finger wave and shampoo, both for only 50 cents.

SNAPSHOTS of your college friends will prove invaluable to you in the years to come. Get out the Kodak this week end, and take pictures of those campus classmates. Then take the films to LISK PHOTO SHOP in Aggieville for the best developing of snapshots in town. The prices are reasonable, too.

GRADUATION GIFTS! They shouldn't be a problem for you—but too often they are. Just that. For the girl graduating this June, perfume or a chic compact couldn't be nicer. Try some of Houbigant's alluring "Subtilite" or "Quelque Fleurs" or the delightful scents. Or the strictly feminine type will adore "Après Showers" or "Seventeen." The COLLEGE DRUG STORE will help you make your selection and the problem will be solved. The new dainties in clever modernistic styles are just others of the many suggestions.

FOR the coed who wants her look to be cool and comfortable as she trods in the soft pavement these summer days, there is nothing that will give her more pleasure than shoes from the COLLEGE SHOE STORE where the styles are the latest and the prices are right. Some of the cleverest of new white shoes can be found there. Smart mesh effects in both ties and pumps that are perfect with summer frocks can be had for $5.00 to $5.50. And the equally chic "cut-outs" seen everywhere this season complete any costume, whether sport or evening. The slender high heels absolutely make the longer dresses, while the moderate heels give that walking comfort you insist upon. All the newest modes come in both heights of heels at the College Shoe Store.

GO HOME, young man, go home in new summer suit, tie, shirt, and hat you'll find at the VARIETY CLOTHING STORE where the biggest sale of the season is waiting. Cool, immaculate white linen suits in all sizes, are only $7.50, while the extra linen trousers are $1.50, and the linen knickers, just the thing for golf and picnics, $2.50. For this "back-about" suit, a Seersucker is the most practical and comfortable. These are found at the VARIETY for $6.00, and the extra Seersucker trousers for $1.25. Then to complete your summer wardrobe, the new ties in pastel tints and white are correct. And so is the price, 50 to 60 cents. That "jaunty" straw hat added with the smart new Panamas and other straws on sale at the Variety for $1.95 and up. Spend the natives by going home in new clothing the Variety Clothing Store has to offer at such low cost. White and colored shirts are also there at your price. Drop in and look around.

TRACK SQUAD TO N.U. TO COMPETE IN BIG SIX MEET

HAYLETT TAKES 25 MEN TO LINCOLN FOR ANNUAL SPEED BATTLE

EHRLICH TO DEFEND TITLE

Big Six High Jump Champion Batters Former Mark With Leap Of Six Feet Four Inches At Creighton

The quest for more track and field honors is leading the Kansas State track team to Lincoln where they will compete in the annual Big Six meet at the University of Nebraska today and tomorrow.

Twenty-five men have been selected for the trip and they left with Coach Ward Haylett for Lincoln yesterday. The entire team with the exception of Don Landon, who has a pulled muscle, is in excellent condition.

Coach Haylett, predicted yesterday that the Wildcats should place somewhere among the first four schools when the final results have been recorded. Last year the Kansas State thin-clads were able to do no better than take fifth place in the conference. This year the Wildcats have become a much improved team over what they were last year and should take a higher position in the conference standings.

The meet today and tomorrow was also scheduled to be an Olympic tryout affair, but that part of the competition has been canceled.

Kansas State now has only one conference record in its possession, the high jump, set last year by Milt Ehrlich at 6 feet 3 5/8 inches. The lanky Wildcat high jumper that he could better that mark when he leaped 6 feet 4 inches in a dual meet with Creighton.

The Kansas State entries are: 100-yard dash—Elwell, Going. 220-yard dash—Elwell, Parsons. 440-yard dash—Darnell, Harsh, Castello, Shirk.

880-yard dash—Smith, Miller. Mile run—McNeal, Nixon, Landon. Two-mile—Pearce, Daniels. 120-yard high hurdles—Hinkley, Green, Schmutz.

220-yard low hurdles—Hinkley, Green, Schmutz. Shot put—Schooley, Bell. Discus—Glassen, Bell. Javelin—Veatch, Laird. High jump—Ehrlich. Broad jump—Breen, Kennedy. Pole vault—Jordan. Relay—Darnell, Shirk, Castello, Parsons.

SPORT SLANTS

By John Underwood
The Corsautmen tasted sweet revenge in the return K. U. series when they humbled the Jayhawkers as overwhelmingly as the University ball club had previously done them.

Auker sent 22 Jayhawks back to the bench strokeout victims of his weeping curves. Auker also hit .555 for the series including a homer and a triple.

The infallible Chilli Cochran wore his shiny blue suit behind the plate in the series, and 'tis said he called a fine game.

Carnie Smith, catcher and outfielder for the Jayhawks, who hit so many balls so far in the series here, connected safely one time in nine tries.

The track, golf, and tennis teams left yesterday for Lincoln where they will meet Big Six opposition in their respective sports.

Milton Ehrlich and J. W. Jordan, track stars in the high jump and pole vault, have chances of setting new Big Six records. Ehrlich threw his lanky frame over 6 feet four inches in the Creighton meet last week and Jordan has been jackknifing off the pole consistently around 13 feet this year.

Those fortunate in seeing the tennis matches with Ottawa saw a beautiful match between Red Hoglund and Pemberton. There was a fierce rally for each point, and both sets went into extra games before Red finally succumbed.

Ty Cobb led the American league for nine straight years... he throne one then came back to lead it three more in a row. His is one baseball record that may never be equalled.

Many of the collegiate ball players of this year's and previous Wildcat clubs will return to Manhattan to play in the city league this summer. Prentup, Skradski, Gentz, Rockwood, and Simms from the team this year will be in action. Lud Ficer, Hoxie Freeman of former teams will also play.

Andy Skradski will manage the Wareham Ice team this summer.

The Olympic trials scheduled for Lincoln this week will be held at Norman, Okla., next Saturday. Douglas Russell, fleet freshman, will run the 400 meter hurdles in these trials. These barriers are three feet high, intermediate between the high and low.

An English nobleman, Lord Burghley, holds the Olympic record in the 400 meter event.

The actions of Phog Allen, the Kansas university ramrod, were closely watched during the frays this week... at times he could not be found.

PRENTUP LEADS IN HITTING

Kansas State Second Baseman Most Effective Batter Season's Average Shows

The final batting averages for this season of the Wildcat baseball team are not as high as in previous years when the big guns of the outfield roared out base hits galore. All year Coach Corsaut has had to juggle his outfield, both defensive and offensive reasons. He was hampered by inexperience more than inability in his men and several how saw service this year will be no end better when the next season rolls around.

Captain Frank Prentup lead his team with the flail, after being out of stride for the first few games. Frank collected seven hits out of ten times at bat in the final series of the year with Kansas university. Auker was second, but he did not play in as many games as some of the others, though he took the outfield on a few occasions.

Bus Boyd led the club through the early part of the campaign having a .500 average until the Haskell game. The hitting of this initial sacker kept the Wildcat club in the fight during the early games, his blows coming in the pinch and driving in most of the club's runs.

Another hitter when men were on the sacks was Andy Skradski, whose final average belies his true worth to the club. Skradski hit many for extra bases and could be depended to come through when the club was in the hole. Skradski seldom failed to hit the ball some place and had the hard luck of many hitters by lining the ball straight to the waiting hands of some fielder.

The complete averages follow:
Prentup .56 15 21 .375
Auker .33 3 12 .364
Boyd .53 3 17 .320
Gentz .49 7 13 .285

AUKER TO DETROIT TIGERS

Kansas State Stellar Athlete to Sign Contract With American League Ball Club

Elden Auker, who closed his collegiate career in a blaze of glory with two wins over Kansas university Tuesday and Wednesday, will sign a major league contract with the Detroit Tigers within the next few days.

Bucky Harris, the Tiger manager, has been interested in Auker for some time, and has had his scouts watching the Wildcat ace on several occasions this season. Auker will leave for Detroit immediately after his final examinations are wound up.

Auker has an impressive record as a pitcher while in college competition, holding shutout victories over every Big Six team. His shut-out wins this year included Iowa State, and her own four out of five starts. The only defeat Auker has suffered in conference twirling the past two years, was the Missouri game this year. Since that game no team has been able to nick him for more than six hits.

NET TEAM WINS AGAIN

Ottawa University Squad Defeated 5-1 By Moll Squad Wednesday
The Kansas State net team trounced the Ottawa university racquetiers here Wednesday by a score of 5-1. The Ottawa number one man, Pemberton, was the only invader to register in the win column, beating Hoglund after both sets had been deuced twice.

The tennis team accompanies the track squad to Lincoln this week end for a match with Nebraska university which winds up their competition for the year.

Summary:
Singles—Larson, K. S., defeated Gerhold, O. U., 6-3, 6-2; Pemberton, O. U., defeated Hoglund, K. S., 8-6, 8-6; Silverwood, K. S., defeated Senter, O. U., 6-2, 6-0; Graham, K. S., defeated Knapper, O. U., 6-0, 6-3.

With the completion of women's track season, Miss Katherine Geyer, instructor in the physical education department, has announced the honorary track team. Honors in track meetings went to Esther Hobson, Kingman, and Leora Light. Liberal. Other members of the team are Dorothy Malby, Canton; Milla Pishney, Cleburne; Mildred Forrester, Wamego; and Helen Morgan, Newton.

Young American Man Goes Bond Street

Shirts and Collars This Spring Show Definite English Touch in Design, Fabric and Pattern

SHIRTS and collars are very much English this Spring. "Don't cha know!" In everything but accent, the young American man attired in them presents an excellent counterpart of his "old chawp" cousin across the water. In collar design, in fabric and in pattern he has gone Bond street.

The collar is the most distinctive English touch. It is rather low, straight up-and-down and gives an impression of square-cut, British sturdiness. In material there is a definite trend toward Oxford cloth. In pattern, the so-called English stripes prevail—fine, close together, in broadcloth or madras. The most popular Oxford is pure, solid white, which, with the English collar, gives promise of wide popularity.

The English tab collar brought out extensively last year continues in demand, but during the winter manufacturers' stylists found that a lot of men, while liking the collar design, wanted to stick to open points and a clasp or pin. For them a new collar has been designed, exactly like the tab except that it has no tab. When a pin or clasp is used the effect of the tab is obtained. These are proving popular this Spring in Oxford, striped broadcloth and striped and pattern madras. The collar is 2 1/2 inches high in front, 1 1/2 in the back and 1 1/2 at the sides, which have been shaped to the neck to prevent wrinkling. It has square points.

To meet the demand of men who prefer a little more smartness and formality, a separate white, starched collar of practical design has been evolved. It differs from the collar-attached only in its points, which are rounded.

Another new feature shown in shirts and collars this Spring is a broadcloth or madras with pronounced stripes, which are perpendicular in the shirt and horizontal in the collar. These come either with collar-attached or collar-to-match, and the collars are low with extremely long points. The effect, with appropriate tie of harmonious or contrasting solid color, is surprisingly smart.

BALL TEAM ELECTS CARTER

Shortstop of Kansas State Squad Will Head 1933 Club, Team Mates Decide

M. L. ("Pee-wee") Carter, diminutive shortstop for the Kansas State baseball club, was selected to captain the 1933 Wildcat aggregation. "Pee-wee" was the choice of the entire ball club, and they elected him just before taking the field against Kansas university Wednesday afternoon.

Carter is a two letter man, and has been a virtual spark plug in the infield both years, with his all-around hustle and steady influence. He takes over the duties of Frank Prentup, this year's second baseman who ended his third

STUDENT CADETS WILL TRAIN IN CAMPS THIS YEAR

BUT CONGRESS MUST FIRST PASS APPROPRIATIONS BILL TO ALLOW FUNDS

SULLIVAN BELIEVES IT WILL

So Seventy-Three Advanced Military Men at Kansas State Will Leave Next Month for Summer Drills

Student cadets will be trekking campward within the next week if the appropriations bill now before Congress is passed, and, Colonel E. S. Sullivan, head of the military department at Kansas State is confident that it will be. This year Kansas State will send 73 advanced military students to the annual summer training camps.

Forty-seven of the men who will spend part of their vacations towards the advancement of military science are in the coast artillery unit, 22 in the infantry unit, two in chemical warfare, and one in the veterinary medicine corps. The coast artillery men will report in Fort Sheridan, Ill., on June 17, and will be released July 28. Members of the infantry go to Fort Leavenworth on June 7 and return July 18.

The chemical warfare unit, consisting of Harold Anderson, Manhattan, and Crawford Benson, Wamego, will go to Edgewood, Md., and O. E. Flory, Great Bend, the only cadet in the veterinary medicine corps going to camp this summer, will report at Fort Snelling, Minn.

ARMINTA WILCOX INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Freshman Student Is in Critical Condition at Parkview Hospital Suffering Skull Fractures

Arminta Wilcox, J1, Dodge City, was seriously injured Sunday night at 10 o'clock when the car in which she was riding hit a pier of the Rock Island viaduct on US 40S just out of Manhattan. She was resting easier at the Parkview hospital last night, but her mother, Mrs. Bert Wilcox, says she is still in a critical condition.

Miss Wilcox, who was returning from Junction City in a car owned by Robert Chalmers, ChEl, Hutchinson, and driven by LaVelle Walker, MEI, Valley Falls, was asleep at the time of the accident. Walker also had apparently fallen asleep momentarily, causing him to lose control of the car which struck the pier and threw Miss Wilcox against the side of the car. She suffered concussion of the brain, a fracture at the base of the skull, a slight fracture in the region of the forehead, and lacerations on the left arm and forehead. She regained consciousness for a short time yesterday, but is still in a state of coma, her mother said late last night. Attending physicians expressed the belief that she would recover.

Walker sustained scratches on the face. The other two passengers of the car, Ella Ray Davis, HEI, Manhattan, and Chalmers, were not injured.

N-i-b-b-l-i-n-g-s

Wonder how many raspberries Jim Chapman would have after his name in the Bally Hoo section of the yearbook if he hadn't been editor of the Royal Purple? ... Roll call at the Spanish Village, popular rendezvous for all good students, at 2:30 a. m. Sunday could have been answered by one professor, two Tri Deltis, three Pi Phis, 14 pledge buttons, and too many fraternity pins to count. ... The Kappa Deltas are mad, but whether it's because the roadster isn't still parked in front of the house, or because the owner is, one wonders. Anyway, the organization wrote the Royal Purple a protest letter, following the appearance of the yearbook, in which the following question was asked, "What became of the mammoth roadster Kappa Delta was rushing last fall? ... Maurine Lewis, runner-of-the-Wise club will be back with the organization again next year. She has served in nearly every office the organization has, and next year will be vice president. ... This group of "Wise-guys" staged a mock graduation the other night, and then congratulated the seniors for their accomplishments. What a sweet little scene that must have been. And what a joke it would be if the graduates failed to graduate and the congratulations had been for naught. ... Heb looks like the guy that kidnapped the Lindbergh baby in his Royal Purple picture. ... The Collegian will be in competent hands next fall when Ward Colwell does the editing and Clay Reppert the business managing. ... Professor Williams is wondering what attention device he can use which will attract his students as much as the insects which crawl around on the floor of his classroom. ... The humor editor of the yearbook pulled the best thing that's happened since the Lucky Strike dance band went off the air when he pasted the face of Joe Menzie on the neck of an ape. ... See you next fall.

Who Gets the Worm When Both Birds Arrive at Once?

It sounded like an invitation to fight, with an R. S. V. P. attachment, which the blue jay was extending to the thrush. The trouble started when the two of them arrived at opposite ends of the same worm at the same time.

"Robber!" replied the thrush, in a conversational tone. That was too much for the cocky and self-confident blue jay. He executed what was presumably a war dance, and then the fight started.

While the antagonists were having each other through the air and from limb to limb of a self-respecting fir tree, which looked properly shocked at the disturbance of the peaceful college campus, the worm tried to leave the field of battle. He had been sorely wounded in the preliminary skirmish, however, and was able to crawl only a few inches.

It was a worthy battle. They appeared to be calling each other all the naughty names in the blue-jay thrush languages. Finally the blue jay executed a brilliant maneuver while in full career. From the pursued he became the pursuer and turning on his back under the thrush, gave him two or three vicious pecks.

The thrush gave up. The blue jay sent after him a few derisive remarks to the effect that "That's what you get for fooling around me" and surveyed the field with the air of a conqueror. Presently the unfortunate worm was gathered unto his fathers.

CAMPUS A MECCA FOR STATE FOUR-H CLUB MEET IN JUNE

DELEGATES FROM PRACTICALLY EVERY UNIT IN KANSAS WILL BE HERE

A WEEK OF ACTIVITIES

Extension Division Plans Full Program For 10th Annual Meeting of Group—Faculty to Conduct Classes

Approximately 1,500 white-clad boys and green-clad girls and their leaders from almost every 4-H club in Kansas will meet on the Kansas State campus, June 6 to 11, to participate in the 10th annual 4-H club roundup. The boys will be housed in Nichols gymnasium and the girls will live in Van Zile hall during the five days of the meeting.

The roundup will be planned much as it has been in past years. Classes will be held in the mornings of the four days, contests in the afternoons and programs in the evenings. Several times during the four days assembly programs will be held at which Pres. F. D. Farrell, A. N. "Bo" McMillin, Dean R. R. Dykstra, Dean R. W. Babcock, Dean Mary Van Zile, Dean Margaret Justin, Dean R. A. Seaton, Prof. C. W. McCampbell, Prof. W. E. Grimes, Dean L. E. Call, and Prof. J. B. Fitch will speak.

Six judging contests will be held during the roundup. For the boys, dairy, poultry, and general livestock will be judged. The girls will judge clothing, baking and canning. The contests will be held Wednesday afternoon, June 8.

Mammoth Chorus a Feature

One feature of the roundup is to be a large chorus composed of 10 boys and girls from every county represented. Having learned 10 songs before coming to Kansas State, they will sing the songs in the auditorium together. Every club member singing in the chorus will receive a certificate attesting to that fact.

Demonstration teams from various counties will compete in agricultural and home economic demonstrations during the week. The champion team will be sent to the international livestock show at Chicago in December.

Three counties will compete in a "Model Club Meeting" contest. A county from each of the extension districts will participate: Brown county, representing the northeast district, Saline county representing the northwest district, and Dedgewick county representing the southwest district.

The annual health contest from which two contestants will be selected to go to Chicago next fall for the national contest will be held during the roundup. Approximately 45 counties will be represented in the judging.

Program in Three Parts

The program this year will be divided into three parts, the boys' program, the girls' program, and the leaders' program. The boys will have classes in dramatics, entomology, gardening, livestock, health, and music appreciation. The girls will study clothing, foods, music appreciation, household equipment, health, and gardening. The leaders will be given instruction in parliamentary procedure, a study of famous leaders, public speaking, music appreciation, record keeping, and actual practices in farm business.

Hill, head of the department of public speaking at Kansas State, will conduct the classes in public speaking. ## INTEREST STIRRED AMONG STUDENTS BY ROYAL PURPLE

KANSAS STATE YEAR BOOK BEATS RELEASE DATE BY TWO DAYS

TWO HUNDRED LESS COPIES

Advance Sales Indicate a Limited Number of Copies for Students Who Have Not Placed Orders

Anticipating its release date by two days, the 1932 Royal Purple was yesterday placed on sale at the Royal Purple office in Anderson hall.

Following no definite theme and having one of the garish novels or many of the university year books, the Royal Purple has caused its make-up around student interest and student happenings.

Commenting on the features of the book, Jim Chapman, editor and originator said, "No effort has been made to make it a typographical marvel. I feel that a year book should embody those things of interest to the student in the years after his graduation, and that the book should be only an index to the happenings of the year on the campus."

The new book has stirred more than usual interest on the campus. The humor section in particular caused snorts and grins on the faces of many campus notables, all depending on whether they are being laughed at or with. One feature is the "razzberry" section, wherein the well known sign is given to campus characters for various actions during the past year.

A first shipment of 1,000 copies of the book was delivered to the Royal Purple office yesterday morning before the opening of classes. Most of that number were gone before evening. According to Business Manager C. M. Rhoades, there are less copies this year than there have been heretofore, and that by the size of the demand for the publication yesterday, the entire order will be sold inside of the first week.

"A year book should be something to be treasured for the later years of life," commented Chapman. "Not only does it refresh one's memory on buying the book, but it keeps fresh the memories of one's college career many years after graduation." And ending with the Royal Purple's motto for this year, he said, "Your school life forever, distinctive and beautiful."

GEOLOGISTS TO COLORADO

Prof. A. B. Sperry and Several Students Will Spend Five Weeks of Summer on Field Trip

Prof. A. B. Sperry, head of the geology department of the college, accompanied by three or more Kansas State students will spend five weeks of the summer on a field geology trip in Colorado. The territory to be covered by car and foot will constitute over 200 square miles. They will visit gold, silver, and tungsten mines as well as study all the common types of rocks which are readily visible in a mountainous country. The tungsten mine located in Colorado is unique in being the only important mine of that type in the United States.

The students will live in cabins which are built at an elevation of about 9,600 feet. This is the tenth consecutive year that Professor Sperry has attended the camp which has been conducted each summer for the past eleven years. The course will continue from June 20 to August 26.

THE LAST WORD

This is the last issue of the Collegian for this college year. There are many things to be said in the editorial columns of one's last issue. The topics to be discussed lend themselves better to a few paragraphs than to a single editorial. So, let us be at it.

First, the student body of this college is fortunate in being able to have an uncensored undergraduate publication. In the majority of colleges and universities, the editorial and news content as well as the advertisements in some collegiate publications, are under the restraining hand of a faculty censorship committee. President F. D. Farrell has repeatedly stated that the last thing he wants to see at Kansas State is a censored undergraduate publication. What appears in the columns of the Collegian is left entirely to the judgment and discretion of its editor . . . and many times the editor is accused of being indiscreet. That is to be expected, however. No one ever pleased everyone all the time.

To assume the position of editor of the Collegian immediately after Edith Dobson vacated the post was to invite some attention from Collegian readers. They would naturally expect the Collegian to be as good a paper as she edited—and she did do an admirable job. If interest aroused among students and faculty can be taken as an index, there never has been a Collegian so alive and interesting as her paper.

Many may have the opinion that it is a simple task to edit a college newspaper. Those who hold that opinion have two more guesses coming. Of course, one could be impulsive, and print the many things he is tempted to print, but one's ideas look much different in so many cold words the day after. And, too, there is the thought that you cannot pass the buck when criticised about something or other.

About the Collegian platform for the past semester: The Collegian had only one permanent plank—that of stimulating some appreciable amount of interest among the student body in student governmental affairs. The Collegian campaigned against holding class elections each semester because class elections seemed to be a farce or a popularity contest in the guise of a student class election. There is no class spirit at Kansas State; no need for class officers, so why elect officers?

The average student's indifference toward governmental affairs in general is regrettable. It is safe to say that the average college senior who has not taken a collegiate course in American Government could not pass a high school test on that subject.

Perhaps students at Kansas State will some day manifest an active interest in even campus governmental affairs. Kansas university students manage to show an interest in their government.

Some interest was shown in the last Student Council and Royal Purple elections. In those two elections, a record vote was cast—close to 1300—or about half the student body voted. Well, that's something, but it should be lots better, since the elections are all-school affairs. There is a lot of difference in forty per cent and seventy-five per cent of the student body voting.

An honest attempt has been made to present the news and editorial content of the Collegian in a fair and unbiased manner. To try to keep all prejudice from a newspaper is next to impossible for it is those prejudices that motivate an editorial column.

And another thing: The Collegian has been criticised for its stand on two or three issues. Perhaps an easier and more pleasant way out would have been to assume the role of a Pollyanna, and to have seen only sweetness and light in the good things and ignored the unpleasant ones.

But that would not be fulfilling the purpose of a newspaper.

Many things have happened on the campus which would have made excellent topics for editorials. It isn't difficult to see fault in many existing conditions, but when it comes to editorializing about them—well, that's a different story. It isn't that one has any fear of individual criticism, but of a common dislike, and newspaper editors make enough enemies without deliberately trying to do so.

Well, this has gone far enough. There are no apologies to be made, and few regrets have gone unsaid.
So, good-bye, good luck, and power to you.

We heard a man say the other day that he was keeping three wives and he isn't a bigamist either—his own, his son's, and a married daughter. —Altoona Tribune

Motor carrying three girls drove up to a filling station. "Juice?" said the attendant. "Well," said the driver, "vat if we are?"—Chas. Trapp.

"IN DEFENSE OF OUR OWN"

The editor of that excellent publication, The Kansas State Engineer, takes the editor of the Collegian to the mat in the last issue of the Engineer about an editorial which appeared in the Collegian some time ago. That editorial was "Spring Housecleaning." In it was listed Sigma Tau as one organization whose justification for existence was questionable.

In the Engineer editorial, the editorial calls the attention of his readers to the fact that Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalism fraternity, was not listed among those organizations which should be disbanded. Now comes time for a journalist to rally to the defense of his own.

Sigma Delta Chi is not an honorary fraternity. The Engineer editor referred to it as such. It is a professional fraternity, membership in which extends after graduation. Scholarship is not the sole factor taken into consideration when electing members.

The writer will dare to make the bold assertion that Sigma Delta Chi is the most active non-social organization on the Kansas State campus. That is taking in a lot of territory, but the statement can be proved.

There may be a place on the campus for Sigma Tau. It is up to its members to prove it.

The country lane is now as wicked a place as the dark alley in a city.—Altoona Globe.

THE SENIORS' ELEGY.

It's the Alpha and the Beta for the seniors. The beginning and the end. Behind lies happy memories of worthwhile years spent in an institution where knowledge is gained and friends are made. Ahead is the wide, wide world, where there is faith and hope, but, let us pray, not charity.

Seniors this year have little to look forward to for several months at least. While jobs can be sought, they can't be found nor created. Only the lucky few have been able to secure for themselves remunerative positions. But every road has its turns, and the road towards prosperity (wherever that is), must be around some corner, even if it isn't the next one.

One pessimistic writer in the Current History magazine recently did his bit toward cheering up graduates of colleges and universities by entitling his article, "From College to Breadline." At least he was optimistic enough to concede the breadline—and food goes a long way towards satisfying human needs. Shelter can be found in the great out-of-doors, and clothing can be secured at relief stations. Besides, Eve and Adam didn't wear 'em, so the last mentioned commonly termed necessity might be omitted provided the weather permits.

Anyway, seniors, you've got something no one will ever take away from you even if starvation and privation do overtake you. You've got a college degree, and with it, no doubt, a college education.

May the Gods be with you.

"Has your brother come home from college yet?" a neighbor asked the small boy. "I guess so," was the reply, "or else the car has been stolen."—Belleville Telescope.

The Snooper

Bulletin: The SNOOPER turns Pansy and studies for finals, leaving the quoting of misdeeds (if any) to a journalistic brother.

BED TIME STORY

"The Thundering Herd"

Once upon a time ten thousand Sigma Nu's had a party. Everybody came except G. Wilmington Twighbranch who lives at Nome, Alaska. His cousin Philbert showed up in his place. Now children, did you ever try to get your little size 12 feeties into size nine shoesies? No? Then little do you realize the dilemma which confronted the boys. It was unanimously decided that the next party would be held in a hall with India rubber walls which would "give" to the desired proportions. Also a rule was formulated in which the elbowing of guests out of second story windows was declared ungentlemanly and unbecoming a staunch Sigma Nu.

At the party the distinguished guests were asked to sit on each others laps to make room for the merry-makers (we smile knowingly at that adjective). After the party the out-of-town brothers, so we are whispered, were bailed out of automobiles and carefully poured into beds or hung up on hooks in the hall.

Moral: Necessity is the mother of invention.

The college calendar foretells a general exodus from the campus sweat-shops on or shortly after June 1. Ah June! June, the month of June peas. Also No. 2 white corn meeting a slow demand, with prices unchanged to 1½ cents higher.

June melts slowly into July. Small boys harass us with four-inch firecrackers. Flies do tail-spins into the waffle-batter. The ten thousand coke passes safely over our parched adenoids. The village half-wit says half-wittily, "Well, do you think it will get HOT?" We dig him a shallow grave.

July runs sluggishly into August and then September and we realize vaguely that the professors have to eat. We rattle the kid brother's bank to determine its contents. It sends back a hollow click which tells us where our second best wrist watch is. We have been wondering where in hell it went.

Finally after a number of family conferences a third mortgage is put on the house and we come back to the continual round of pleasure and parties that the kid brother says we are having.

CURTAIN

Afterthought: Have you ever tried olive oil for that post-finals hangover?

According to the Los Angeles Junior College, "There are at least 11 students on the campus who prefer a sock in the jaw to a piece of round steak." It was revealed today in statistics compiled from psychology tests given in psychology classes. This number marked true the statement, "an upper-cut is generally preferred to a round steak." Twenty-eight of the number believed that the American Mercury was an American Trade Journal, and twelve of the group thought that Yom Kippur was a great Turkish general. ## DO YOU INHALE?

A frank discussion at last on a subject that has long been "taboo"

"LET sleeping dogs lie!" So said the cigarette trade when first we raised the subject of inhaling. But dodging an important issue is not Lucky Strike's policy!

Do you inhale? That question is vitally important . . . for every smoker inhales—knowingly or unknowingly. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette! And the delicate membranes of your throat demand that your smoke be pure, clean—free of certain impurities!

No wonder Lucky Strike dares to raise this vital question! For Luckies bring you the protection you want . . . because Luckies' famous purifying process removes certain impurities concealed in every tobacco leaf. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

So, whether you inhale knowingly or unknowingly, safeguard those delicate membranes!
